VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1902 NO. 153

SHALL THE COUNCIL TAKE MANAGEMENT OF WATERWORKS?

Committee Appointed Last Night to Look Into the Matter and Report

Front Street to be Cleaned From Market to the Upper Bridge

The Rolling Mills Bonus—How Shall the $30,000 be Employed?

The business before the various Civic Committees last evening was urely of a routine nature. All the Aldermen were in attendance, the nly absentee being Mayor Graham.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Ald. Panter, chairman, presided.

The following accounts were presented and passed:

ay Sheet No. 22	$218.30
. Allen	9.30
uckworth & Brough	4.00
eo. Walton	22.20
. F. Donovan	6.00
. Lewis & Co.	7.20
. McDonald	12.50
. G. Stapley	3.84
athbun Co.	784.17
. W. Walker	7.20
. Johnson	63

Ald. Panter read a letter from essrs. Clute & Morden, stating that hey had been instructed by Mr. Nicholas Lazier to bring an action gainst the City if the drain near his lace was not properly fixed.

As the work had been done no action as taken on the communication.

Ald. Price called attention to the stone which was left on Wharf St. by the Water Commissioners, where excavations had been made.

The Surveyor recommended that the stone be removed to a square nearby and cracked.

Ald. Wills said the Surveyor and the Chief of Police had the power to abate the nuisance as it appeared to be such.

The Street Surveyor was instructed to remove the stone off Wharf St.

Ald. Panter stated that his attention had been called to a drain on Foster Ave. below Bridge St., the culvert having fallen in.

The Street Surveyor said it would cost about $15 to make the repairs.

On motion the Street Surveyor was authorized to repair the same.

Ald. Panter said a petition had been sent in by Mr. I. Diamond for the deepening of a culvert on Yeomans St. near Bridge St.

On motion the privilege of deepening the drain was granted to Mr. Diamond, the work to be done under the supervision of the Street Surveyor.

Poles to be Removed.

Ald. Sinclair said there were some poles on Front and Bridge streets which should be removed.

The Street Surveyor was authorized to remove the poles between the Market Square and the Upper bridge.

What! Clean Front St.!

Ald. Sinclair moved that Front St. be cleaned.

It was decided that the street be cleaned from the market to the upper bridge.

Ald. Galbraith asked if it was the intention to clean out any drains before the winter set in.

Ald. Panter stated that it was usually done, but it would cost about $60, and where was the money to come from?

An Alderman's Threat.

Ald. Galbraith referred to the drain from McDonald street, which ran in front of his premises. It should be cleaned out as it caused water to overflow. If he was troubled with water as he had been he would bring an action against the City.

Ald. Wills—"You would have to resign your position as an Alderman before you could do that."

No action was taken on the matter at present.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Ald. McFee, chairman, presided.

The only account passed was $70.00, to J. Downey for coal.

The Light That Failed.

Ald. McFee asked what about the light on the market square.

Ald. Wills said he had done all he could in this matter to have the light placed there. The best place for the light was at the gangway leading to Bridge street. He would like to have a light placed there without having a pole erected on the market square, but this did not seem possible. Every obstacle seems to have been placed in the way of procuring this light.

Ald. McFee did not care so much where it was placed so long as it was placed somewhere.

Ald. Panter said he would object most strenuously to having a pole erected on the market square.

The matter was left over until the Council meeting.

PARKS.

Ald. Pope, chairman, presided.

The only business transacted was the passing of an account of $10 to Mr. E. McGrath and $4 to Mr. Asseltine, for work performed.

MARKET AND CITY PROPERTY.

Ald. Wills, Chairman, presided over this committee.

The accounts presented were as follows:

Downey Co.	$ 7.00
J. Malyea	3.00
J. Colden	2.50
S. Smith	1.87
J. A. Cook	5.00

Some Water Talk.

An account of $35 was presented by Mr. J. Weir for watering the market square for the season.

Ald. Wills thought the amount asked was too large, as the season had not been a dry one.

Ald. McFee was of the opinion that the account should be paid.

On motion the account was ordered to be paid.

EXECUTIVE.

Ald. Chown, Chairman, presided.

The accounts passed by the other committees were endorsed, and the following additional ones passed:

Walker Foundry Co.	$ 20 00
Victoria Industrial School	53 43

This last account caused considerable discussion.

Ald. Chown said the account was for keeping a boy at the school, who belonged to Belleville, but was sent from Toronto for an offence he committed there. The father of the boy was unable to pay the cost of keeping, namely, $2 per week.

Ald. Wills said it was a shame that the city had to pay the money, but the Statute made it compulsory for the municipality to pay it if the parents could not.

A number of the Aldermen expressed their disapproval of the law in regard to the matter.

On motion the account was laid over, to ascertain if the father could not pay at least a portion of it.

On motion a rebate of $2.25 was granted to Mary Griffin on her taxes, the same being recommended by the Court of Revision.

A petition was read from Mrs. Mary McDermid, who resides on Baldwin street, asking the Council for a remission of her taxes. She stated that she was unable to pay them, owing to being a widow, and ill the greater portion of her time.

Ald. Chown said the amount against her property was $35.

The matter was left in the hands of the Chairman to enquire into and report.

Rolling Mills Bonus.

Ald. Chown asked what action was going to be taken in reference to the $30,000 rolling mills bonus in the bank. A by-law would be prepared, but it would have to be specified what was to be done with the money. His idea was to put it in the sinking fund, and thus assist in paying off maturing debentures. This would assist in reducing our indebtedness, and also reduce our interest account.

Ald. Pope said that a by-law would have to be submitted to the ratepayers specifying what was to be done with the money.

The matter was left in the hands of the Chairman, to enquire at the bank in reference to who the parties were who had some of the debentures, and report to the Council as to the best place to put the money.

Roadway to Bridge.

Ald. Panter stated that since the city purchased Zwick's Island they had been using the roadway leading to the bay bridge, and Dr. Sprague had requested that, in view of the city using that road, they keep it in repair, and also allow him enough gravel to keep the remainder of the road to the bridge in repair.

Ald. Wills said he would be in favor of keeping the portion of the road in repair used by the city, but he considered it was asking rather too much to provide gravel for the remainder of the road.

Ald. Pope—"Let us stipulate what the city is prepared to do in the matter."

As there would be no more hauling over the road this year, the matter was laid over.

Won't Move This Year.

Ald. Price asked if it would not be advisable to move the crusher over to the island this fall.

Ald. Wills—"There is no money to do the work."

No action was taken.

Water Works.

As the Aldermen were about to adjourn, Ald. Pope said he desired to refer to a matter, and would like the Aldermen to consider it carefully. It was in reference to the City Council taking over the control of the water works. In Belleville there were only some 800 consumers, whilst in Brockville there were 1500 consumers, in Guelph 2,000 and Brantford 3,200. The cost was altogether too much in comparison with other places. He also considered that the coal used was in excess of what it should be for the number of gallons of water pumped, although he understood that there was a reduction this year in this respect. Our water rates were too high, in fact the whole thing is costing us too much money. If by the Council taking over the management of the works a saving could be effected, he would like to see it done. The matter might be delegated to a small committee, who could look into the matter and report.

Ald. Sinclair moved that a committee, composed of Aldermen Pope, Wills and Galbraith, be appointed to look into this matter and report.—Carried.

The committees then adjourned.

SAVE THE BABY

A MOTHER TELLS HOW MANY A THREATENED LIFE MAY BE PRESERVED.

To the loving mother no expense is too great, no labor too severe, if it will preserve the health of her little ones. Children's ills are generally simple, but so light is baby's hold on life that it is often a knowledge of the right thing to do that turns the tide at a crisis. And in baby's illness every crisis is a critical time. "I think the timely use of Baby's Own Tablets would save many a deep little life," writes Mrs. P. B. Bickford, of Glen Sutton, Que. "I take pleasure in certifying to the merits of these Tablets, as I have found them a sure and reliable remedy. My baby was troubled with indigestion at teething time, and was cross and restless. The use of Baby's Own Tablets made a wonderful change, and I am glad to recommend them to others." Mothers who use these Tablets never afterward resort to harsh purgatives that gripe and torture baby, nor to the so-called "soothing" preparations that often contain poisonous opiates. Baby's Own Tablets are pleasant to take, guaranteed to be harmless. Send 25 cents for a full-sized box to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., if your druggists does not sell them.

Jim Dumps one morning had the dumps.
The world seemed full of useless chumps.
His clothes and things were not in place;
His razor slipped and cut his face.
But breakfast made its change in him;
Once more, per "Force," he's "Sunny Jim."

"Force" puts a smiling face on trouble.

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal

Sweet, crisp flakes of wheat and malt.

Gained Ten Pounds.

"Every summer I have had to take tonics but now I use 'Force.' I take four table-spoonfuls every morning and I am now enjoying excellent health—it has built me up—have gained about ten pounds.

DESERONTO DOINGS

Deseronto, Oct. 31.

The first snow of the season fell on Wednesday, but there was not enough for sleighing.

The schooner John Magee came in yesterday from Cleveland, Ohio, with 604 tons of bituminous coal.

The tug E. B. Eddy came to grief at the lighthouse island on Wednesday evening, when one of her barges ran ashore. She got away yesterday and continued down the bay.

H. M. Rathbun has gone to the northern woods with a party of hunters.

W. G. Egar is confined to bed, suffering from rheumatism.

Business has increased to such an extent at the local telephone office that it has been found necessary to to instal a second "hello" girl.

Frank McNeill had a nasty accident the other day. He was injured through a broken window in a motor he was driving. A great gash was cut in the back of his neck, necessitating several stitches being put in. An artery was narrowly missed.

The Rev. A. Grassett-Smith, having severed his connection with the Parish of Tyendinaga, he, accompanied by Mrs. Smith and family, left yesterday by steamer for Hamilton.

John Johnston, Inspector of Schools was in town on Wednesday.

A CHINAMAN'S FUNERAL

NO MINISTER TO PERFORM THE BURIAL SERVICE OVER THE CONVERTED CHINAMAN.

Toronto Star: Seated in the front parlors of Stone's undertaking rooms, 385 Yonge street, this morning, were three Chinamen, waiting. In the rear parlor was a coffin, for Chong Dip was dead, and they were the mourners.

Chong Dip died yesterday, after a brief illness, from convulsions. He had been in the city two years, and attended one of the Chinese Bible classes. He became a convert. It was decided that there should be no offerings placed in the coffin, no roast pig would be laid upon the grave. The mourners were waiting for the minister. The hearse stood outside, with the driver on the box, and the lone cab for the mourners behind it. But no minister arrived. The undertaker was in a quandary. The Chinamen sat stolidly staring into space. They were not Christians. They were mourners.

At length Robert Brown, who conducts a mission at 185 Queen street east, called in.

"I just happened in," he explained to the undertaker. "I thought Chong Dip was buried yesterday."

"I have no minister to perform the service. What will I do?" asked the man of crepe and coffins.

"Well, it's a shame to bury a man in Christian Toronto without a service of some sort," replied Mr. Brown. "Give me a Bible."

The Bible was brought, and upon the ears of the three Chinamen fell the words, "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death."

But they didn't understand it. They said they were not Christians, but mourners.

"May the minister of the church have a good excuse for his neglect when he appears before Thy bar," prayed Mr. Brown.

Then the faithful three followed the remains of Chong Dip to Mount Pleasant cemetery.

We All Remember.

Though memory often spurns our debts
Of hate, it never smothers
Some kindly debts, for who forgets
His kindness to others?

We'll smile and say, "Hurrah!"
Since men and horses both may doff

She—No; but you might ask father.

IT IS DOUBTFUL

IF LOCAL APPLICATIONS ALONE EVER CURED A CASE OF CATARRH.

Most remedies for the treatment of catarrh are in the form of sprays, inhalers, powders, washes or salves, all purely local applications, and many of them often give temporary relief, but the reason none of them ever really cure chronic catarrh is because catarrh is not a local disease, and it cannot be cured simply by treating the local symptoms.

Moreover, the more serious forms of catarrh, like catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bronchial tubes, cannot be reached at all by local applications, and the fact that neglected catarrh of the head very soon involves the bronchial tubes, stomach and liver, demonstrates that the disease is a blood disorder, a constitutional malady and not at all a local disease.

To really cure catarrh the system must be cleansed from catarrhal poison by an internal remedy, which acts effectively upon the blood and liver.

The success of a new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, is because it drives out of the system, through natural channels, the catarrhal poison and the mucous lining of the nose, throat and trachea are freed from the excessive mucous which collects and causes the hawking, spitting and gagging, because the excessive secretion is not furnished from healthy blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain many of the same valuable antiseptics used in sprays and inhalers, but instead of being applied to the inflamed membranes of the nose and throat, they are taken into the stomach and thus reach the blood, the real seat and cause of the disease.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, composed of Red Gum, Hydrastin, Bloodroot and similar catarrh specifics, and so safe to use that little children suffering from colds take them with same beneficial results as adult persons.

No trace of cocaine or opiates, so common in catarrh medicines, can be found in Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

In days of yore the Hon. Joseph Israel Tarte drew a pen picture of the Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which in all probability he may, in the light of his recent experience, be inclined to repeat with additions. Hon. Mr. Tarte said:

> "Mr. Laurier is not a nobody, still less in he a man of talent. He has a character veneered on the outside; scratch a little and you will discover the mediocrity within.
> "The fact is that he has not yet pronounced a single discourse of a nature to manifest in him a man of serious worth. His polished manners, his astuteness, a certain ability in concealing his principles not far removed from hypocrisy, have won for him this popularity in the country.
>
> "He will never be faithful to what he does not possess—principles, sound convictions and patriotism."

What has occurred since the above was written to change Tarte's opinion of his late leader? On the contrary "has not everything that has happened from that day to this gone "to prove the fidelity of this pen "picture?"

HALLOWE'EN PRANKS

BOYS WERE OUT IN ALL THEIR GLORY LAST NIGHT.

A large number of the younger citizens were out for fun last evening, and evidently they had it. No particular damage was done. Some of the dilapidated sidewalks were apparently eyesores to the boys, and this morning, in various places, were to be seen boards which had been removed. On Pine street a considerable portion of the walk was thrown to one side.

The police received a telephone message from a residence in east Belleville that their clothes line had been robbed. Upon investigation the clothes were found near by, having been taken off the line, carefully folded up and laid in a pile to one side.

The police state that the girls made much more noise than did the boys.

A few gates were removed and a portion of fences in various parts of the city were thrown over.

WAITING FOR THE BLACK DIAMONDS

OSWEGO HARBOR IS FILLED WITH VESSELS—RATES ARE ADVANCED.

Oswego, October 31.—While a considerable quantity of coal is being received here, yet the demand for it from the Canadian dealers is very heavy. As only a few weeks remain in which shipments by water can be made, and as the weather will interfere considerably with these, little effort is being made to dispose of coal except to Canadian dealers.

The fleet at this point is unusually large. It consists of the steamers Hinckley, St. Joseph, Ringleader, Samoa, Avon, Aberdeen, Armenia; schooners Kate Eccles, King of the Kids, Northern Lights, Flora Carveth, Cornelia, Annie Faulkner, D. Freeman, Trade Wind, Arthur, Two Brothers, New Dominion, Keewatin, F. H. Burton, Wilfred and Plunkett; barges Drake, Regina, Valencia, Jeanie and Dorchester.

All these boats are awaiting cargoes, but sufficient coal is not being received to accommodate them all at one time. The local wholesalers hope to obtain sufficient coal to get all these vessels and barges out by Saturday night.

The price paid by Canadians for f. o. b. at Oswego is $5.35 a ton, an increase of fifty cents a ton over the price charged before the coal strike was declared. The vessel-owners are getting good freights, the carrying price being seventy-five cents a ton to Kingston and Bay of Quinte points. During other seasons the freight was twenty-five cents a ton to Kingston and thirty-five and forty cents to Belleville and Trenton.

A Run for the Firemen

At a few minutes after 9 o'clock last night the firemen were called out, and had a run to the vicinity of the G.T.R. station. An outbuilding in rear of a vacant house on Brassey street was burned, also a portion of a fence adjoining. The loss sustained was trifling. The fire was, no doubt, the work of boys.

Previous to this fire a small stack of clover hay, belonging to Mr. Philip Flagler, who resides on Bleecker avenue, was burned, but the fire did not extend.

Taken to Port Hope for Burial

The remains of the late Mr. Joseph H. Hewson were this morning taken to Port Hope for interment. Services were conducted at the house by the I.O.O.F. and at Christ Church by the Rev. W. B. Heeney. The latter gentleman and Mr. F. M. Clarke, with members of the family, accompanied the remains to Port Hope. The bearers were Messrs. N. M. Ostrom, S. B. Haight, J. T. Osborne, S. E. Kent, C. S. Hamly and W. H. Ketcheson.

TIMELY TOPICS.

A telegram from Rome of the 25th inst., says the Pope remarked to Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, with whom he had had an interview: "If the Canadians love me, I have a special affection for them, of which I have given proofs during the whole of my pontificate, the last being the sending of an apostolic delegate to strengthen the bonds between Canada and the Papacy." This must be an error, for the Good Book says, "Love your enemies."

KING TREATED WITH X-RAYS

His Majesty Had a Small Rodent Ulcer Near Root of Nose.

Fact Disclosed by Doctor's Death—Dr. Blacker, Who Conducted the Operations, a Victim of Cancer at Moment of Success—Popular Suspicion That King Had Cancer Had Solid Foundation, But Superstructure Was Fanciful

New York, Nov. 1. — The Medical News in its issue yesterday says in its London letter of the date of Oct. 18 that the death of Dr. Arthur Barry Blacker on Sept. 10 disclosed for the first time the fact that the King was treated with X-rays sixteen times last spring for a rodent ulcer at the root of the nose. This was prior to his abdominal crisis, which delayed the coronation. The treatment, appears to have been successful. The London letter says in part:

"The death of Dr. Arthur Barry Blacker, announced in our medical journals a week or two ago, though of little significance to the uninitiated, was to those behind the scenes, the last act of a tragedy which has hitherto been successfully hidden from the public. Dr. Blacker, who was just 40 years of age, was one of the pioneers of the light treatment in this country, and had for the last year or two held the post of superintendent of the X-ray department in St. Thomas Hospital.

"In previous letters reference has been made to the widespread rumor that His Majesty was the subject of cancer.

"I am in a position to say—and this is the first time within my knowledge that the fact has been published—that the suspicion which has existed in the public mind almost since the time the King came to the throne had a solid foundation, though the superstructure was purely fanciful. The King had a small rodent ulcer near the root of the nose, which was successfully dealt with by the X-ray treatment. This was applied by Dr. Blacker, who owed to his obscurity the honor of being chosen for the purpose.

"By a strange and sad irony of fate the physician himself fell a victim to cancer in the very moment of his success. He was attacked by epithelioma of the axilla. Amputation of the shoulderjoint was thought of, but the disease spread so rapidly that the idea of surgical intervention had to be abandoned. The end came on Sept. 10, when the man whose skill had saved the King from a fate far more dreadful than appendicitis passed away unwept and unhonored by those to whom he had rendered such signal service."

BOND TREATY SATISFACTORY.

Premier Submits It to Colleagues on Return From Washington.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 1.—Premier Bond has returned here from Washington. In an interview yesterday, the Premier said he had succeeded in negotiating a convention with the Washington authorities; that, on Oct. 18, the British Foreign Office instructed Ambassador Herbert to sign this convention, and that he then started for home, his work in Washington being completed. The Premier added that he had submitted the terms of this treaty to his colleagues in the Cabinet here and that they regard it as eminently satisfactory. The terms of the treaty will be published as soon as possible, he said.

Heavy Damages For Libel.

London, Nov. 1.—The sensational libel suit brought by Mrs. Julia Watt against Lady Violet Beauchamp ended yesterday by the plaintiff being awarded £5,000 ($25,000) damages. When the court opened an immense crowd besieged the public entrance. The court room was packed when the proceedings began. Lady Violet Beauchamp, in a striking toilet of crimson, sat by the side of the man whose mind she was accused of poisoning. Both Lady Violet and Mr. Watt appeared absolutely undisturbed by the sensation which they caused. Mrs. Watt, who is rather handsome, was also stylishly dressed. Mrs. Watt in her evidence said she was compelled to have dinner in her bedroom because Lady Violet would not leave the house. Since she had left Mr. Watt, Lady Violet had lived with him continuously.

Manufacturers and Mr. Tarte.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—La Patrie denied last night that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has placed a large sum of money at Mr. Tarte's disposal to purchase a group of newspapers, as has been asserted in certain quarters. The writer says, however, that the manufacturers are about to subscribe $50,000 for advertising purposes. La Patrie does not say, however, what newspapers will get the advantage of it.

No Longer Subjects.

Pekin, Oct. 31.—The Emperor of China to-day received Pak Chia Sun, the first Corean Minister to China. The Minister was accompanied by members of the legation. The Dowager Empress was not present at the reception. The Coreans wore European military uniforms to emphasize the fact that they are no longer subjects of China.

Died of Heart Failure.

Owen Sound, Nov. 1.—A telegram from Sault Ste. Marie to the C. P. R. steamship department received yesterday, states that Patrick Elwood died on the S. S. Manitoba while en route from Fort William to the "Soo." Heart failure was the cause of death. The body was forwarded to relatives in Toronto.

Death in Tramcar Wreck.

A TRENTON LADY'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

MRS. W. H. ALEXANDER, OF THAT TOWN, SUFFERED FROM A SERIOUS ATTACK OF CATARRH OF THE BLADDER, HAD SWELLING OF THE HANDS AND FEET, PAIN IN THE BACK, DIZZY SPELLS AND GENERAL WEAKNESS.

PATENT MEDICINES AND LOCAL DOCTORS' TREATMENT DIDN'T DO MUCH GOOD. DR. PITCHER'S BACKACHE KIDNEY TABLETS WORKED WONDERS, MAKING A COMPLETE CURE.

MRS. W. H. ALEXANDER.

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. Alexander, of Trenton, Ont., are much pleased to see her around and well again, after suffering greatly for two or three years from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles, which ordinary patent medicines and treatments failed to benefit.

Mrs. Alexander, when spoken to about the means of her recovery, unhesitatingly gave all the praise to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, the new, scientific treatment for kidney troubles, which is making so many remarkable cures in all parts of the country.

MRS. ALEXANDER'S STATEMENT.

"Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets I consider a great boon to sufferers from kidney trouble. For two or three years I was greatly troubled with pain in my back. At times it became so severe that I was hardly able to get around and do my work, in fact, some months I could not do it at all. I used several preparations which were highly recommended by friends, but found very little relief from them, and afterwards became worse than before until I seemed to be afflicted with all kinds of ailments—a distressing pain in the stomach, sick headache, and occasionally swelling of the hands and feet. The headache became so persistent and severe I concluded I had neuralgia. Then came the bladder trouble and complications. I called in my doctor, and he diagnosed the case as catarrh of the bladder. He treated me and helped me some at first, but the benefit was not lasting. I would at times have dizzy spells, dark specks floated before my eyes, tired feeling and a dragging, steady pain in the loins. I again started using patent medicines, and this time made up my mind to give them a thorough trial. I took ten boxes of one well-known kidney pill, but they did not touch my case. One day a little boy threw a book in my door advertising Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

"I read the book carefully, and took a bottle of the Tablets according to directions. It seemed strange, realizing the condition I was in, but before that bottle was finished, I was a changed woman. I went to Mr. Shurie's drug store and purchased another bottle, and after taking this second one I happened to call on a friend, who expressed surprise at the change in my appearance. Formerly I had a pained, weary expression, but now, as I felt well, I could not help showing it. Although not completely cured, I felt that Dr. Pitcher's Tablets were working wonders for me. I continued their use for some time, taking in all ten bottles, but I did not begrudge the cost in the slightest, for had they only succeeded in giving me temporary relief I would have been grateful, but they have done more—they have completely and permanently cured me.

"My son, a young man about 16 years of age, who works in the paint shop, and is subject to severe headaches at times on account of the absorption into the system of the lead and turpentine, says that the Tablets just suit him, and he always keeps them in the house now.

"I have recommended the Tablets to several of my friends, among whom was Mrs. Geo. Huyck, of Dundas street, who tells me they are the best remedy she has ever taken.

"I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets to all those who may be suffering as I was, and you are at liberty to use my name and testimonial in any way you choose.

(Signed) MRS. W. H. ALEXANDER."

WHAT MR. SHURIE, DRUGGIST, SAYS.

When Mr. James Shurie, the well known Trenton druggist, was spoken to about Mrs. Alexander's case, he readily confirmed what she said, and gladly gave the following statement for publication;

"I know Mrs. Wm. Alexander, of Francis Street, and can endorse what she says of her cure by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. She purchased the Tablets from me, and I have heard her frequently speak of the great benefit she derived from their use. (Signed) "Jas. Shurie."

The many well-authenticated cases we are publishing of cures of severe kidney trouble put doubt out of the question as to the efficacy of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets for backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the hands and feet, specks or mist before the eyes, dizziness, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding or irritation, frequent calls during the day or night, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid in the blood, rheumatism, unnatural drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, dragging pain in the loins, weakness of the kidneys in children and old people, and all forms of kidney, bladder, and urinary diseases. Women who suffer from the effects of kidney derangement can find no other remedy that will do them so much good as these Tablets. They are chocolate-coated, small in size, easy to take, and never fail to give prompt relief.

Fifty Tablets in a bottle, Price 50 cents, or 3 bottles for $1.25, at all druggists, or sent by mail. The Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes; "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These comes from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

U. S. RAILROAD JOURNAL ON G.T. R. MANAGEMENT.

Herapath's Railroad Journal, comments most favorably on what it terms the "clean, straightforward and interesting statement" of Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson at the last half-yearly meeting. In respect to the expenditures on capital account and from current revenue for needed improvements, the Journal thinks the Grand Trunk management strikes a very happy medium, and the president is well entitled to claim that no hand-to-mouth system of finance is pursued; but "finance founded on principles of foresight and prudence, and with a due consideration for the special necessities and conditions and requirements of the company."

The great feature in the present workings, apart from the steady growth of traffic, is the decrease in working expenses. In the past six months, compared with the corresponding period of last year, the average freight per train was increased by 17 per cent. Instead of the old 16-ton truck, 30 tons capacity is now the rule, and the old engine, which used to weigh 47 tons, is giving place to the new engines, which weigh about 91 tons each. The double-tracking of the lines between Montreal and Toronto and between Hamilton and Niagara Falls is being steadily proceeded with. Owing to the high price of materials, there has been some temporary slackening in the re-building of locomotives and cars, but the money which might have been spent on this branch of work has been set aside, and now the reserve funds for these special purposes amount to upwards of £312,000. The present inflated prices of iron and steel cannot last much longer in the States, and the probability is that when the deluge comes the Steel Trust will have to realize stocks on any terms. As the Grand Trunk burns soft coal, it is not appreciably affected by the famine in anthracite or hard coal, and, as affording some indication of the real revival in Canadian business, the president mentioned that no fewer than 115 new industries were established in the Canadian territories of the system in 1901, and fifty-one along the Grand Trunk in the United States, the aggregate capital of the lot being put at upwards of a million and a half sterling.

Herapath's Journal adds, "We have often heard of great mineral resources of Canada. Hitherto the Dominion has been a mere purveyor of raw material for the United States—pulp wood, saw-logs, and such like. Once given a Canada with vigorous native industries, the economic conditions on which the Grand Trunk Railroad property rests would be entirely altered, and the shareholders of to-day to whom the President figuratively alluded, would have good reason to remain the shareholders of to-morrow and futurity. The Grand Trunk would no longer be a much-watched derelict, its junior securities mere counters. The process of re-habilitation towards a secure investment footing may be slow; there may be setbacks—probably there will be—when the commercial ambition across the Lakes o'erleaps itself. All that can be said is that the present management is making the most of current circumstances, and is doing its duty towards posterity. The limit of Grand Trunk development should be infinitely remote, and with sound, cautious finance, progress should be the prevailing characteristic of the future."

Another rolling mills option expired yesterday, according to the last letter of Mr. Boland. Perhaps between now and Monday night another one may materialize, and thus again delay the long-threatened withdrawal of the bonus. If it does not, and the by-law withdrawing the $30,000 is introduced, we incline to the opinion that Ald. Chown's suggestion in regard to the application of the money is a good one—in fact, the best that could be made. Be that as it may, the City has been jollied along by the Toronto people and mercenary speculators quite long enough. If by the withdrawal of that $30,000 the City stands to gain anything, no matter how small the amount, action should be taken as speedily as possible.

There is no denying the fact that Belleville's water rates are high, and if by any action of the people or Council they could be lowered everybody would rejoice. But do we not find, in Ald. Pope's figures, the reason for our high water rates? Belleville has only 800 users, while the places with which he compared it have more than double that many. Until something can be done to increase the number of patrons there is little use in complaining of the high rates. Of what do the Council complain in connection with the Water works management? Are they dissatisfied with the action of the Commissioners? or is it the principle of the present management by a Board they object to? If the first reason, it may be said that the power to change them lies in the hands of the people, who are just as liable to elect good Water Commissioners as they are to elect good Aldermen. If the second reason, it may again be asked, cannot the waterworks be managed equally as well by one body of men as another, providing, in each case, the interests of the citizens are faithfully served? It will, we take it, make small difference to the average consumer, when paying his water rates, whether the works are managed by a Board of three or a Council of ten. In both cases the officials are elected by popular vote. If they fail in their duty they should be removed. That, as we see it, is the long and the short of the matter.

Considering that Belleville has $30,000 sunk in the Bay Bridge one is led to pause in speechless admiration at the nerve of Dr. Sprague, as expressed in his request that the City keep the roadway in repair and give him gravel for nothing!

A despatch from Oswego says the price of anthracite coal at that port to Canadian dealers is $5.35 per ton, f.o.b. To this must be added 75 cents per ton for freight, which, if the despatch contains the whole truth, brings the price to retailers up to $6.10 per ton. The price to Canadian consumers should not be too dreadfully high, if the retailers do not figure on too high a percentage of loss by "evaporation," etc.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co.'s.

Thousands have proved the efficiency of Catarrhozone, and with such a valuable remedy within easy reach there is no longer any reason for people to remain deaf. Catarrhozone is recommended also for coughs, colds, catarrh and bronchitis. Complete outfit, $1.00; trial size, 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S., or Kingston, Ont.

THE FAMOUS SHOE FOR WOMEN

"IMITATIONS"

When every store is selling a so-called "SHOE FOR WOMEN" it does not mean that they have a demand for such a shoe from their customers.

It means simply that they realize the enormous success of the "QUEEN QUALITY" Shoe and want to imitate it.

But they cannot imitate it.

and if they could do you want an imitation when you can have the original at no greater expense?

It is a fact that most of the styles of shoes sold in the stores originate on "Queen Quality."

Remember that no imitation is ever as good as the original.

BORING A MAN

What a difference there is between modern methods of doing business and the old style, especially in the way custumers are handled when they get into a store. MERCHANTS USED to stand outside their door and PULL PEOPLE in, wether or no—turn a customer over to two or three slick-tongued salesmen, until he became exhausted and bought to get out alive or catch a train—badgered him from the moment he came in till he went away, and manifested a feverish anxiety to get hold of as much of his money as possible. That's the old way. NOW IN MOST STORES, you can look at what you please, as long as you please—you can buy if you please, and if you don't please, leave the store with a pleasant "call again" from the salesman. In all first-class stores any mistake is willingly rectified. To sum up, the difference is: The old method was all for the house—the new method is to please the customer.

We Won't Bore You!

We never did—never will; you're as free as the air here. We want your patronage—we appreciate it and show our appreciation by the most liberal business principles. Don't you think a house like ours deserves your trade? Try us. We think you will like our style.

ALL ON VERGE OF INSANITY

Douks in Bare Feet and Scantily Clad, Head For Winnipeg.

Farmers Along the Line of March Are Alarmed—The Pilgrims Demand Provisions at Every Farmhouse—Government Official, at End of Patience, Considers That Force Is Necessary—His Statement of Situation.

Winnipeg, Nov. 1. — Latest news from the scene of the Doukhobor disturbance is to the effect that 700 have left Saltcoats and continued on their long march to Winnipeg. They came into the town singing, and were barefooted and otherwise scantily clad.

One of their number was absolutely insane, not fanatically speaking, but wild and dangerous. It required the continual attention of several of his comrades to prevent him from injuring himself and others.

Farmers Are Alarmed.

Others in the band showed symptoms of nearing the same verge, and the farmers in the vicinity are thronging to the town very much alarmed, and fearing that a general outbreak of insanity is imminent. The pilgrims call at nearly every farmhouse along the line of march and demand provisions. Another detachment of mounted police is en route to Yorkton district. In the meantime, the Doukhobors show no indication to abandon their pilgrimage, and Government officials are daily demonstrating their helplessness.

Cannot Be Reasoned With.

General Colonization Agent Spears, now at Yorkton, yesterday made the following statement: "I think it is beyond all power and reason to parley with the Doukhobors any longer. Exhaustion, hunger and sleeplessness have rendered their condition such that they cannot longer be reasoned with. I have worked night and day with the misguided people, and must confess defeat, so far as inducing them to return to their homes is concerned. It is impossible to predict the outcome. It seems to me that force now is necessary, as reason and kindness have failed. If disaster is to be prevented, the frenzied Russians must at once be induced to abandon their mad march. I can suggest no method to bring this about."

PRESIDENT LOUBET ACTS.

Takes a Part in the Settling of the French Miners' Strike.

Paris, Nov. 1.—President Loubet is taking an active part in settling the French coal miners' strike. Yesterday he had an extended conference with M. Vincent, Prefect of the Department Du Nord, who has been acting as intermediary between the strikers and the mine owners in that department. The mine owners have given the Prefect the names of four persons who are to represent them in a conference with an equal number of strikers.

In a semi-official statement given out last night, President Loubet expresses the hope for an early settlement of the strike, and declares that this would be a political accomplishment beyond precedent.

First Important Action.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 1.—The first important action by the anthracite coal commission, which is arbitrating the differences between the miners and their employers, was taken yesterday, when it was announced by Carroll D. Wright, the recorder of the commission, that, if any award affecting the existing rate of wages shall be made, the award shall be effective from Nov. 1.

Wife Didn't Know Her Husband.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 1.—The appearance in Winnipeg yesterday of Arthur Braden, a former resident of Toronto, has brought to light a curious mistake. A month ago an unknown man was killed in the C.P.R. yards. For days he lay at an undertaker's unrecognized. At length information was received here which tended to show that he was Arthur Braden. Braden's wife, who lives at Toronto, was notified. She came west, identified the remains and took the body east for burial. Now the real Braden turns up from harvesting and the police are wondering who the dead man was.

A Wild Hallowe'en.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—The downtown section of the city was in the possession of hundreds of students and followers for several hours last night. The police say that it was the wildest Hallowe'en in years. Several persons were injured, considerable damage was done to private property, and seven young men were locked up on charges of disorderly conduct. Geo. G. Wilson, president of Medical Society, has a fractured rib. The property damage will exceed $1,000.

Marconi in Halifax.

Halifax, Nov. 1.—The Italian warship Carlo Alberto, with Signor Marconi, the inventor, on board, arrived at Cape Breton yesterday. The warship touched at Glace Bay first, where 16 boxes of apparatus for the Table Head station was landed. Some of the apparatus was too heavy to be landed there owing to the poor facilities, and it had to be taken to Sydney and from there trans-shipped. Marconi looks well.

Hill Wants to Get In Again.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 1.—Application has been made to the Manitoba Legislature for a charter incorporating a company which proposes to build a system in Manitoba of a total mileage of nearly 2,500 miles. Application is made in the name of C. E. Hamilton, attorney, of St. Paul, but it is generally understood that the Northern Pacific is behind the deal. The proposed line will enter Manitoba at Emerson.

Seasonable Advice

CHANGE OF WEATHER DISASTROUS TO MANY PEOPLE.

Bad Blood Makes You Liable to Cold—A Cold Makes You Liable to Twenty Diseases — How to Protect Yourself.

Changes of the season affects the health more or less perceptibly. The effect of the hot summer weather on the blood leaves it thin and watery, and now that the weather is changeable this makes itself disagreeably felt. You feel bilious, dyspeptic and tired; there may be pimples or eruptions of the skin; the damp weather brings little twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia that give warning of the winter that is coming. If you want to be brisk and strong for the winter it is now that you should build up the blood, and give the nerves a little tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest of all blood-making, nerve-restoring tonics, and will make you strong and stave off the aches and pains of winter if you take them now. Mr. James Adams, Brandon, Man., is one of the thousands whom Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored to health and strength. He says:—"It is with deep gratitude that I acknowledge the benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills my health was much shattered with rheumatism, nervous depression and sleeplessness. For fully twelve months I rarely got a good night's sleep. When I began the use of the pills it was with a determination to give them a fair trial. I did so and can truthfully say that I could not wish for better health than I now enjoy. I shall always speak a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Poor blood is the cause of most disease. Good blood means health and strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not purge—they simply make pure, rich blood. That's why they cure so many diseases. But you must always get the genuine, with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PACIFIC CABLE COMPLETED.

King Receives the First Message Over the Long Line.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—"The connection between the Canadian and Australian ends of Pacific cable was completed this morning, and messages were exchanged between the two countries." This was the statement by Sir Sandford Fleming yesterday morning. He added: "The cable, of course, will be in the hands of the contractors for thirty days."

Sir Sandford Fleming announced that he had received the following cablegram from Premier Seddon of New Zealand:

"Delighted to congratulate you on completion of great work, Pacific cable, thus rewarding your interest and labor, forging further link to advantage of our Empire. (Signed.) Seddon."

King Hears It First.

London, Nov. 1.—The Pacific Cable Board is rejoicing over the news received yesterday morning that the last link in the cable was completed at Suvam Fiji, at 3 o'clock, Thursday afternoon. Congratulatory messages are now passing between the British, Canadian and Australian Governments. The King received a message at Buckingham Palace yesterday from the crew of the cable ship Anglia. General cable traffic begins at the end of the year.

Pessimistic Predictions.

The fly in the ointment is the knowledge of those behind the scenes that the cable ring has managed with the co-operation of certain of the Australian Governments to place the Pacific cable at a disadvantageous position in competing for Australian business.

One independent cable expert gives the Pacific cable only three years' life before it will cease to be a state concern and will become absorbed in the Eastern Company's ring.

SOON COMING TO AN END.

Secretary Wyndham Hopeful in Regard to Irish Question.

London, Nov. 1.—Chief Secretary for Ireland Wyndham made a speech at Dover last night, in which he dealt with the Nationalists' challenge of the Government's Irish policy. The speaker expressed his belief that the end of the Irish question was coming soon, and said that [illegible] upon sound business proposals, would be the principle measure proposed at the next session of Parliament. In the meantime, the Government must vindicate law and order, the defence of which Mr. Wyndham said, was "frontier politics."

Smash Up on the Welland.

St. Catharines, Nov. 1.—A smash-up occurred on the Welland Division of the Grand Trunk yesterday afternoon. The 1 55 o'clock train, bound south, crushed into a runaway car at Lincoln avenue. His arm was slightly injured, and a lady from Port Colborne was slightly hurt, also. The engine and tender were badly wrecked.

BANNER TO BRUCE COUNTY

Its W.C.T.U. Shows the Largest Increase in Membership.

Lady Henry Somerset on the Efficacy of Prayer and on the Work That the Organization Stands For, the Saving of the Home—General Wm. Booth Eulogized—The General Himself Tells of His Work.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—The W.C.T.U. of Ontario concluded one of the most successful conventions in its history yesterday afternoon, and many of the delegates left for their homes immediately after having had the pleasure of listening to Lady Henry Somerset in the evening.

St. Thomas is to be the place for the holding of the next annual gathering.

Lady Henry on Prayer.

The afternoon session was opened with an interesting conference on prayer. Lady Henry Somerset was heard upon the efficacy of community in prayer. She said it was a misconception to believe that God required them to veritably wrench gifts from Him by prayers and supplication. Our prayers would be only granted when they reached the current of His divine will. We had to thank God for our unanswered prayers as well as for the answered ones. When we looked back over the different roads of adversity and sorrow traversed we realized how many things God kept from us through His mercy all for our advantage. The more like him we get the more readily would our prayers be granted.

Banner to Bruce County.

A pleasing feature was the presentation of the banner for the biggest increase of members in any union. It went to the union of Bruce County, which nearly doubled its membership during the year.

Stands For the House.

In her address in the evening, Lady Henry Somerset said in part: The W.C.T.U. stands up above all things first and foremost for the protection of the home, and they have a beautiful chance here to enforce that protection. It is the pride of women to gather in thousands for the protection of the home; they have put their hands to the plough, and they dare not go back, knowing that they are building for those coming after them, working to make the home a brighter and holier place than ever, and that is one reason why the temperance reform has taken such a hold upon the womanhood of the world.

LADY HENRY SOMERSET.

The Practical End of I.

Going on, Lady Somerset paid great tribute to General Booth and the work accomplished by the Salvation Army, which realized that the great cause of evil to-day was the liquor traffic. The great truth has lived with us, and it is now time to crystalize it into action and to legislate so as to remove an acknowledged evil from our midst. The change that has come over religion in the twentieth century is that we do not think so much about the golden streets above and the bright home we are going to, but we are realizing that the kingdom of God is right here now, out in the streets, on every corner, and in every house. It is patriotism and love of God and one another that makes strong hearts.

All Thinkers Admit Evil of Intemperance.

There is not a single thinking man in the world who will not admit that intemperance is an evil, and believing this the case, they had a good field to work for what is right. Lady Henry went on to depict the evil effects of the traffic in the Old Country from personal observation, and warned the people of this country of the slow but sure way the evil worked its way into the institutions and homes of every country if not checked in time. Call it what you might that they were fighting for, and she would rather hear it termed home protection than prohibition. they should struggle on in the good fight. Perhaps they would be called fanatics; well, after a while they would be called enthusiasts, and then when the people saw they were right and they conquered, they would be called heroes. Such was the case in the carrying out of every great reform.

The gathering was afterwards brought to a close with prayer.

GENERAL BOOTH IN TORONTO.

Talks on the "Past, Present and Future of the Salvation Army."

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Premier Ross introduced General William Booth to an audience of 5,000 persons in Massey Hall last night. In doing so he said the history of England during the 19th century would be incomplete without an extended reference to his work.

The General spoke on the "Past, Present and Future of the Salvation Army." In a word Gen. Booth conceived that the past of the army was glorious, because of the hardships overcome, the present equally so because of the triumphs won, and the future—he hesitated to speak of because he did not enjoy predictions in that direction. After preliminary remarks, the speaker said impressively that fifty-seven years ago God met me. I was leading a thoughtless life then and going down hill pretty fast. Then I realized by my position and wanted to work for my fellow man. But I was pretty nearly spoiled at first because I became a preacher and made sermons instead of saving souls. But I got back where I belonged and I just told God that what there was of me, and that was not much, I wanted to devote to the poor and the homeless, and I have. Why, 37 years ago all there was of these thousands of officers and army workers in all civilized nations and all the institutions the army control were in one head and my hat covered that head.

"Thirty-seven years is not such a long time for one's life work. Therefore, we do feel a pride in what we have accomplished with the help of God."

The Army's flag is now flying in forty-one different countries; spoken in thirty-one different languages; 70,405 separate posts; 13,486 officers; 2,200 employed without rank; 47,000 lay officers; circulating 1,000,000 copies of 61 periodicals; sheltering 17,000 people nightly; feeding weekly 300,000; managing 16 homes for ex-criminals.

This was part of the record of thirty-seven years, the speaker observed. Yet he had been told of instances where his Army officers had been accused of ignorance and unfitness to preach the word of God by thoughtless persons.

One of the lady workers was told that the officers were uneducated, untrained by a theological student.

"Why, ministers of our church can say the Lord's prayer in Latin," the student observed. "Pshaw, that is nothing," commented the lassie, "I can say that I know my soul is saved in good English."

That was the idea General Booth desired to convey—an organization that would reach the masses as they are found, not as theologians would have them.

Premier Ross presented to General Booth a vote of thanks from the audience, which was proposed by Rev. Dr. Potts, and seconded by Dr. Gilmore.

Sir Wilfrid Wanted It.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—When Sir Henry Strong resigns, who will succeed him as head of the Supreme Court? Had the Tarte episode not arisen Sir Wilfrid Laurier would have taken the position. It was the knowledge of this intention that made Mr. Tarte act as he did. Mr. Justice MacMahon is desirous of coming to Ottawa, and his desire may be met. This is the opinion of a prominent politician here.

Canada's Customs Collections.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—The customs collections for the Dominion during the month of October show an increase of over half a million dollars over the same month last year. The figures for the month were $3,240,901, making an increase of $556,070. For the four months of the fiscal year ending yesterday the customs revenue was $13,311,618, making a total increase of $1,591,693.

Farmer Loses a Leg.

Forest, Ont., Nov. 1.—John Ross, 12th line of Plympton Township, accidentally had his right leg taken off while endeavoring to board the afternoon train at Camlachie yesterday. The train was in motion, and in stepping on missed his footing and fell under the wheels. His leg was amputated at the knee. His recovery is considered doubtful.

If Your Friend Is Sick

Let Me Know It

As an act of humanity, tell me a friend who needs help. That is all—just a postal card—just the cost of a penny. Tell me the book to send.

Then I will do this:—I will send the sick one an order—good at any drug store—for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month to learn what it will do. If it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

I do that so that those who need help will accept it.

I have what those sick ones must have to get well, and I want my offer so fair that no sick one can neglect it.

You may think it too fair to be possible, but I do just as I say.

I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands in this way, and 39 out of each 40 have paid gladly, because they were cured. I willingly pay for the rest.

It is a remarkable remedy that makes such an offer possible, and I have spent my lifetime on it. It is my discovery, and the only known treatment that strengthens the inside nerves.

The common way is to doctor the organ that is weak, but that way brings at best but temporary results. My way is to bring back the nerve power which alone operates every vital organ. I give to each organ the power to do its duty, and there is no other way to make weak organs well.

I fail only where organic trouble—like cancer — makes a cure impossible. Such cases are rare.

My book will convince you, for it is clear. Almost any sick one who reads it will know that he can get well.

Simply state which book you want, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 69, Racine, Wis.

Book No. 1 on Dyspepsia.
Book No. 2 on the Heart.
Book No. 3 on the Kidneys.
Book No. 4 for Women.
Book No. 5 for Men (sealed)
Book No. 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is sold by all druggists.

A HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE

ALBERT COLLEGE STUDENTS ENJOY A UNIQUE EVENING.

Albert College is progressing in every way, even its entertainments are an evidence of this, and last evening the students enjoyed a new departure along this line, namely, a masquerade, which proved such a success that it is bound to become popular at the college.

Secret preparations had been going on for a couple of days, till great interest was aroused, and last evening every student was excited to his full capacity of expectancy. Shortly after eight o'clock the masked figures began to gather in the halls of the "residence." The scene, although decidedly unique, was quite interesting. Everyone masked, from the genial preceptress, professors and lady teachers down to the youngest boy or girl student. And considering the almost impromptu character of the arrangements, the costumes were surprisingly well planned and carried out. Every character was represented, personages of ancient and modern history, characters of fiction and every day life, and some which may be classed under no heading. The old woman who lived in a shoe was present with all her children, Chinese and Japanese ladies and gentlemen, hob-nobbed with partners of a western stamp, such as New York Belles, graceful Fullettes, Red Cross Nurses, Cowboys, Irishmen and Policemen. Cleopatra and other fair ladies of the east were represented, with all their charms, and these sauntered down the halls with khaki boys, clowns and jesters. Two much admired costumes were those of a lady and gentleman of the "good, old-fashioned days" of the knee breeches and powdered hair; not must we forget the two lively little imps of mischief, who made it their business to bother everybody. Royalty and patriotism were represented by crowned kings and queens, and by Columbias, Jack Canucks, John Bulls and numerous Uncle Sams. Coons and ghosts were also present in various forms, and seemed to be favorites. The costumes were all good, and in most cases the disguise was perfect, thus occasioning fun galore. After the promenades lunch was served in the dining-room, and here the climax was reached. The disguises were removed, everyone found out who was who, and a general good time resulted.

The college "socials" are invariably enjoyable, but the new departure for Hallowe'en was such a success that it has been voted a decided improvement, and in all probability will become an annual affair.

PROMINENT TWEED MAN DEAD

HAD BEEN A RESIDENT OF THAT VILLAGE FOR FIFTY-SIX YEARS.

One of the best known residents of Tweed passed away on the 16th in the person of Mr. John Carleton. Deceased had been in failing health for the past five years but had been around as usual up until about a week previous to his death, which was due to asthma, heart failure and general breaking up.

The late Mr. Carleton was born in Prince Edward County in the year 1823 and went to Tweed in 1846, opening a boot and shoe business which he continued during the greater part of his fifty-six years' residence there. For a number of years he was bailiff of the 4th Division Court of the County of Hastings and was also collector of taxes for the township of Hungerford. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the deputy-reeveship of the township in 1877 and 1878, although he gave his opponent, Mr. Patrick Murphy, a very close run. For a number of years he was superintendent of the Wesleyan Methodist Sabbath School and was a life-long member of the Methodist Church. He was a member of the Masonic Order, under whose auspices the funeral was held, and he was a staunch Conservative. He was an affectionate husband and father, a good citizen and a good neighbor. By his death Tweed loses not only one of its oldest, but one of its best and most esteemed citizens.

Deceased was married three times. By his first wife, Miss West, five daughters were born, and by his second, Miss Love, of Queensboro, two, both deceased. He is survived by his third wife who is about 82 years of age.

YESTERDAY IN CITY CHURCHES

How Bridge St. Sunday School Celebrated the 80th Anniversary of its Birth

Notes of Services in Belleville's Different Places of Worship Yesterday

Bridge St. Church is a great institution for anniversaries, there's no denying that. But then, its members will tell you, every institution which is alive and vigorous must have crises or periods of decline or advancement in its history. At the end of each year the people of Bridge Street make up their minds to do a little better in the coming year than in the year preceding, and probably think that the best way to set about it is to start with a bold front, with banners flying, every soldier on the firing line and a general determination to shout for salvation and let people see they are alive. And these religious gala days mark the different anniversaries of Bridge St. Church. They had an anniversary there yesterday, but it was not exactly a church anniversary, except as the church is wrapped up in the Sunday School, which in this case it seems to be. Bridge St. Sunday School passed its 80th milestone yesterday. Eighty years! Before good Queen Victoria was thought of as a possible heir to the throne of Britain Bridge St. Sunday School had started the good work which it has prosecuted so long and so faithfully. Other Sunday Schools have come and gone since the Methodists organized the first one in Belleville in 1822, five times have large bodies broken away from the parent school to labor in their own way, but calmly, prayerfully, resourcefully, this mother of Sunday Schools has met every crisis, weathered every gale, and now, after eighty years of work for the Master, proudly rears its banner on high, marshals its scholars, old and young, within its walls, and starts out, full of aggressiveness and progressiveness, for another year's battle with Satan. When that is over, they'll pause for breath and celebrate another anniversary.

As the writer had occasion to say once before, "The history of Bridge St. Church is the history of Belleville." Ergo, anything which affects one affects the other. We are not all Methodists, of course—it takes all sorts of people to make a world—but everybody esteems and respects a man or woman who does things with all his or her might, who puts his or her hand to the plough and never looks back, and who keeps on "pegging away," as old Abe Lincoln used to say, till success crowns his or her efforts. After all, there's nothing succeeds like success. That's why we confess to a partiality for Bridge St. Church. So much by way of preface; now let's get down to our subject.

Yesterday was Sunday School day in Bridge St. Church, but the afternoon service in the Sunday School rooms was the one to which the writer was invited, and if you'll take his word for it, it was one of the most impressive things he ever saw. But before we undertake to tell you what happened perhaps it might be in order to give a brief history of the school. Here it is:

Organized in 1822. Had a rather precarious existence for the first eight years, its membership being from 30 to 40. In 1830 Hon. Billa Flint made a personal canvass of the village, resulting in 198 being added. The names of all who joined then have been preserved, and, after these 72 years, the following are still alive: Messrs. John Ross, Francis Wallbridge, William Bleecker, Horace Yeomans, Mrs. H. K. Lyon, Mrs. George Neilson, Mrs. (Dr.) James Lister, of this city; Mr. Benjamin Ketcheson, of Oswego, N.Y., and Mr. James Ross, of Picton.

Between 1831 and 1842 the school was divided by the formation of St. Thomas' Sunday School in 1831, St. Andrew's in 1833, and the Methodist Episcopal in 1834. In 1858 Bleecker Ave. Methodist Sunday School was opened, and in 1875 Holloway St. Methodist Sunday School was organized, both these latter taking away scholars from Bridge St. The following shows the membership of the school in cycles:

1822	Organized
1832	200
1842	250
1852	350
1862	320
1872	460
1882	517
1892	795
1902	917

The Superintendents of the school have been: Mr. Asa Yeomans, Dr. Kellogg, Hon. Billa Flint, Mr. M. Sawyer, Mr. R. Richardson, Mr. John Booth, Mr. John Elmer, Mr. Wm. Reeves, Mr. G. G. German, Mr. James Ross and Mr. William Johnson. The latter gentleman has held office since 1874, and is recognized as an authority on Sunday School work all over Canada.

There is no hap-hazard work about Bridge St. School. Everything is conducted on methodical and business-like lines, the result being, as might be anticipated, that the institution grows stronger day by day, and is a great power for good.

Yesterday Afternoon's Proceedings.

Promptly at 2:30 the writer presented himself at the School room and was given the right hand of fellowship and a seat on the platform, among the beautiful young ladies and other members of the choir, where he felt like a Philistine among a lot of Samsons. Overhead was the motto of the Sunday School: "Both young men and maidens, old men and children, let them praise the name of the Lord," and right here it may be said that it has never fallen to the writer's lot to hear the Almighty praised in a heartier spirit than he did yesterday afternoon. The Superintendent, Mr. Wm. Johnson, was here, there and everywhere, marshalling his forces, the big room and little rooms were full of girls and boys, men and women, one moment one's eye rested on the white hairs of old age, the next on the dancing eyes and golden curls of childhood. It was an impressive and heart-gladdening scene, and made one's spirits rise to see so many happy people gathered together to "praise the name of the Lord." The writer asked a young lady next to him which was Mr. O'Flynn's Bible class, and when it was pointed out he took a long, lingering look. The bright-faced young men were, apparently, happy and unconcerned, not at all weighed down by the fact that on their shoulders and those of their comrades in Mr. Lawton's class, rests the weighty responsibility of renovating the old dubb.g.

But here comes Professor Hunt to the piano, the Superintendent's bell rings, and all bow their heads in silent prayer. Then the Superintendent's voice is heard as he thanks God for the fact that for 80 years the School had increased and multiplied, that the blessing of the Almighty had rested upon it, that to-day there were present some of those who in 1830 had worshipped under its auspices, and that prospects were excellent that the School would be even a greater power for good in the future than it had been in the past.

A hymn was sung, and then the Superintendent introduced to the School Mrs. H. K. Lyon, Mr. Horace Yeomans and Mr. Francis Wallbridge, who had joined the Bridge St. Sunday School in 1830. They were received with the Chautauqua salute.

The primary class then sang a hymn, and the earnestness of the little ones was very pleasing and striking, even though the harmony might have been slightly off color.

In a brief address the Superintendent gave a resume of what the School had done in the past 80 years. During that time it had ministered to no less than 25,000 scholars. Many men and women, now distinguished had got their first spiritual training within its walls. They were proud of the fact that a former Premier of Canada was an old Bridge St. Sunday School boy. Others were judges, M.P.'s, editors and professors, but if they were prouder of one thing more than another it was the fact that during the past year 204 members of the School had joined the church. Mr. Johnson then announced that post cards had been sent to a number of former members of the school, with a request in each case for some brief message fitting to the occasion. He called on Mr. James Coulson to read some of the replies, which that gentleman did. They came from pretty nearly all over Canada and the United States. Two will serve as samples.

From Rev. Salem G. Bland, of Ottawa:

"An old saint used to say, 'I should mourn if I were not younger to-morrow than I am to-day!' I am sure Bridge St. Sunday School was never so young as on this, its 80th anniversary—young in its hopefulness, enthusiasm, faith. You are 80 years young, not 80 years old. With the best wishes of an old boy."

From little Harry Douglas, Sault Ste. Marie.

"If I live to be 80 I'll not forget Bridge St. Sunday School."

Following the reading of the messages the choir of the church sang an anthem, "Cast thy bread upon the waters," the solo being taken by Mr. S. Burrows.

Next came a short address by Rev. Mr. Mansell, of Brockville, who, the Superintendent said, had never been in Belleville before.

Rev. Mr. Mansell said many good things, one of the best of which was that he was glad the sunny side of religious life was seen in our day. He had been in the finest picture galleries of Europe, but in none of them had he seen anything so grandly inspiring as what he saw when he looked in the faces of little children. To the boys he would say they would never know the possibilities in them till circumstances arose to bring it out. In no place would they get such good instruction, such preparation for the battle of life as in Sunday School. The Rev. gentleman also got the Chautauqua salute, and deserved it.

Then Mr. George H. Pope read some more messages of congratulation, after which the Bridge Street Church quartette sang "Be a Hero," very tunefully, indeed. The singers were Misses Wheler and Wilson, Messrs. Vermilyea and Burns.

Then Mr. C. P. Holton read greetings from former officers and teachers of the school, a hymn was sung and Rev. Mr. Tomblin dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

Tabernacle.

Rev. J. H. Locke, pastor, occupied the pulpit at the morning service, and also administered the sacrament at the conclusion of the sermon. The Rev. gentleman's text was from 2nd Timothy, 2nd chapter and 8th verse. In the evening Mr. Weaver, of Albert College, conducted the services and preached.

St. Thomas'.

The services at this place of worship were yesterday conducted by the Rector, Rev. G. R. Beamish, who preached two able discourses. In the evening his subject was "The rich man and Lazarus," and the text was from St. Luke.

Bleecker Avenue.

At the morning service the Pastor, Rev. M. J. Bates, preached, his subject being in reference to "Christ's raising Lazarus from the Dead." The text was from St. John, 11th chapter and 44th verse.

John Street.

There were good congregations present at the services yesterday, especially in the evening. The Pastor, Rev. A. H. Drumm preached and his discourses were acceptable and beneficial. In the evening the Rev. gentleman's text was from St. John, 5th chapter and 36th verse.

During the service Mr. H. Wrightmeyer rendered a solo in good voice.

St. Andrew's.

The Pastor, Rev. M. W. Maclean, officiated at both services yesterday preaching to good congregations. In the morning his text was from St. Luke, 24th chapter, 46th and 47th verses.

Holloway Street.

A quarterly meeting service was held at this church yesterday morning, conducted by the Pastor, Rev. J. R. Real. At the conclusion of the sermon the sacrament was administered. During the service an appropriate solo was rendered by Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Real.

Emmanuel R. E. Church.

Good congregations, particularly at the morning service, were the order of the day yesterday. In the evening the Rector, Rev. Mr. Gilliland, preached a powerful sermon from St. John XV., 4-5. Without a strong and abiding faith in the Almighty, and a desire to follow His laws, no man could attain his true position in this world, which was to let his light shine before men and work for the advancement of Christ's kingdom here on earth.

Baptist.

At the services yesterday in the Baptist Church the attendance was good. The Pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott, conducted both. In the morning his subject was "Faith," and the text was from the Epistle of James, 2nd chapter, 17th and 18th verses.

Christ Church.

The Rector, Rev. Mr. Heeney, officiated at both services yesterday. At the evening service Master Russell Bell sang Sullivan's "Chorister" in an acceptable manner, and during the offertory Mr. Frank Robinson played a violin solo, "Madrigal," by Simonetti, with nice taste and expression. Miss Grace Ponton was to have sang, but a bad cold caused a postponement of her number till next Sunday.

Bethel Hall.

The address in Bethel Hall by Mr. Binch on the state of the saved after departing this life, was attentively listened to and very instructive. The subject will be continued next Sunday evening, when the condition of the unsaved after departure will be dealt with. Mr. Binch seeks simply to give out what God's word says on this vital subject.

St. John's.

The Rector, Rev. Rural Dean Bogert, officiated and preached at both services yesterday. In the morning his text was from St. Matthew, 22nd chapter and 32nd verse.

STORM WAS SEVERE

LAST THURSDAY'S THUNDER-STORM WORST SEEN IN MANY A DAY.

It appears that the thunderstorm which passed over this section of the community on Thursday evening last was one of the severest which has been seen in many a day. Rain fell in torrents whilst the lightning was sharp and the thunder heavy. Considerable damage was done by the storm.

In the Township of Hungerford Mr. Thos. Graham and Mr. Jas. Stinson each had a valuable cow killed by lightning. The animals were insured.

Mr. Dennis Hanley, whose barn was burned through lightning, had 1700 bushels of grain burned and 7 hogs.

Dwelling Damaged by Fire

On Saturday morning a slight fire occurred at the residence of Mr. Everett Sills, 9th concession of Thurlow. The roof was damaged somewhat, and but for prompt action the building would have been destroyed. The loss is covered by insurance in the Liverpool, London and Globe.

Coal Coming in

The schooner D. Freeman arrived here at an early hour on Sunday morning, laden with coal for a local dealer. This is the first coal brought in here since the strike was commenced. Other vessels will arrive shortly.

Death of a Child

Mary E. Glass, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glass, who resides at Foxboro's Mills, died on Saturday. The interment took place yesterday afternoon at Park's burying ground.

Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. YOUNG GORYEAU'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

BOYS AND A RIFLE PROVED A DANGEROUS COMBINATION ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

A shooting accident occurred on Saturday afternoon, resulting in serious injury to a boy who, to say the least, is fortunate in being alive. It appears that some boys from this city started off on Saturday in search of game, having with them a rifle. Amongst them was a lad named Goryeau, whose home is on Maria St. The boys wandered along the bay shore, but game was scarce. They were in the vicinity of Point Ann when the accident took place. Not being able to procure game they concluded to try their skill at shooting at a mark, a stick being used as a target. They took turns at firing off the gun, and it came to Goryeau's turn to set the target in position. Whilst he was doing this the gun was in the hands of a boy named Stanley Burgoyne, who was taking sight at the stick. The gun was fired before Goryeau got out of the way and he received the bullet in the mouth. As he was standing sideways at the time the bullet struck in a slanting manner, or it would, no doubt, have penetrated his head and possibly killed him. As it was he received a nasty wound which took a piece out of his lips, lacerated the end of his tongue and knocked out five teeth. The injured lad was as soon as possible brought to the city when his injuries were dressed by a physician who was unable to find any trace of the bullet in the mouth. It is evident that in striking the lad's teeth it glanced off. The escape of the boy from more serious, if not fatal results, was a narrow one.

GOT LAME BACK OR LUMBAGO?

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out, and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic, however, if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere in large 25c bottles.

WOULD GIVE BOERS MORE MONEY.

And Make Kitchener Secretary of State For War.

Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 3.—Lord Rosebery, speaking at a crowded meeting here yesterday, welcomed the suggestion of a conference between the Liberal leaders. He said he was willing to promote to the utmost in his power the success of such a proposal. He, however, reiterated his abnegation of home rule; and said he did not see any prospect of the Liberals coming into power in the near future. He believed that, as a matter of policy, the Government might give the Boers more money, and, he declared that if he had been Premier, he would have made Lord Kitchener Secretary of State for War.

SOUTH AFRICA CUSTOMS.

Sir Howard Vincent Wants a Preference For British Goods.

London, Nov. 3.—Sir Howard Vincent asked the Colonial Secretary in the House of Commons if, having regard to the expenditure due to the South African war, the fiscal regulations of the new colonies will provide for the preferential treatment of British goods compared to foreign goods.

Mr. Chamberlain answer: "I anticipate that the South African colonies will shortly hold a Customs Conference, and it would be premature to make any statement on the subject at the present time."

Probably Fatally Hurt.

Stony Mountain, Man., Nov. 3.—A very sad accident occurred at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Williams' stone quarry, two miles east of here. While M. Williams, son of J. Williams, owner of the quarry, was digging out some new caps, which refused to go off by the fuse, the charge exploded, striking him badly, disfiguring and making his face unrecognizable. Reports have it that he cannot recover.

MARCONI AT WORK.

Will Be at Table Head For Two Weeks —Big Things May Happen.

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 3.—William Marconi last night gave some information regarding his work on board the Italian cruiser, Carlo Alberto and his plans for the future. He was seen at his station at Table Head, where for the next two weeks he will devote his time to installing new apparatus and in experimenting between this station and the Carlo Alberto, and, he hopes, between Table Head and Cornwall, England.

"I conducted experiments all the way across, he said, "and met with very good results, especially in transmitting and receiving messages between the cruiser and the Poldhu Station. We were in constant communication with the station for about 200 miles. Messages were received over a distance of 500 miles. Heavy gales did not affect the work."

He remains here two weeks and if apparatus is perfect will experiment with Poldhu. To a suggestion that a ship fitted with his apparatus be placed some 200 miles off Cape Race so that vessels might be reported to Table Head, Marconi gave instant acquiescence.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

A CURE FOR ALL.

Not a Patent Cure-all, nor a Modern Miracle, but Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception, the manufacturers of patent medicines, as a rule, seem to think their medicines will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic, and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making any undue claims or false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They make but one claim for it, and that is, that for indigestion, and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a radical cure. They go no farther than this and any man or woman suffering from indigestion, chronic or nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial, will find that nothing is claimed for it, that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients acceptable to the weakest or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medical properties are such that it will digest whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach, no matter whether the stomach is in good working order or not. It rests the overworked organ and replenishes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, gives refreshing sleep and the blessings which always accompany a good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome food and take these Tablets at each meal, thus assisting and resting the stomach, which rapidly regains its proper digestive power, when the Tablets will be no longer required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply a condition in which some portion or portions of the nervous system are not properly nourished. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ in the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cts. per package.

Gloucester Fleet Lost 70 Men.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 3. — The fishing season for the year 1902 is practically at an end. There were seventy men drowned in the fisheries this year, who left seventeen widows and thirty-nine children. This is somewhat below the average of the last thirty years, due in a large measure to the change in the pursuit of the business and the marked reduction of the Georges fleet from more than 200 sail to about twenty, in which branch the greater part of the fatalities occurred.

"THE QUIET PEOPLE"

HOW THEIR LAST RESTING PLACE SNUGGLES UP TO THE RAILWAYS.

An Obscure Philosopher, a Telegraph Operator, Talks Interestingly About God's Acres and Their Silent Inhabitants—A Gruesome Subject Treated in a Most Entertaining Manner.

Have you ever noticed—you must have if you look through a car window—how the burying grounds seek the companionship of the railroads! Travel north, south, east or west, through this broad Dominion and you cannot escape these silent admonishments. In every hamlet, town and city, the railroad skirts the cemetery. The white church with the steeple, the swelling mounds, the spectral tombstones, are inevitable features in the railroad landscape, and the nearer the railroad a cemetery can get the happier it seems to be. At one atom of place—no need to mention the name here—it is in the bleak, wind-bitten north country—the graveyard, a crowded one at that, is in the backyard of the station-house. It is all the society the telegraph operator has, and imagination shivers at his thoughts on some wild, eldritch midnight when the sky is a mirk of snow and dark, and the unchecked wind screams at his casement and makes dirges in the telegraph wires. Still, better that company than none, and what does it matter, so long as a man has a roaring fire and a bright lamp? I talked to that particular operator, and asked him how he liked the mortally quiet set he was moving in. He was not a melancholy man, but he was sentimental. He said he didn't care, because the dead people only made him feel that much cosier. "I get a real pleasure out of it," he volunteered. "When I think of them lying out there still and cold, I thank God I'm alive and in a warm room."

It was something like that Lucretius reasoned some nineteen hundred years ago, says H. F. G. in Toronto Star. The great Roman philosopher and poet confessed that nothing was more delectable than a shipwreck seen from the shore, because it made the beholder congratulate himself on his own safety.

"They don't bother me," went on my friend the telegraph operator. "In the winter the snow covers 'em all up. It drifts and drifts until you can't tell where the snow ends and the tombstones begin. In summer it's the busiest, greenest, heartsomest place in a hundred miles. All the crickets and grasshoppers and chirping things seem to favor this spot, and the bees like the flowers that I plant to please the quiet people under the sod. A good brisk graveyard on a summer day, with the birds singing and the flowers blooming, is a mighty sight better than a sunbaked rock or a beetling hill savage with scrub, and that's what many a stationmaster has to put up with in these parts."

"And you never feel creepy? You're not afraid of ghosts?"

"Well," replied the obscure philosopher, "you see, the dead can't hurt me. It's the living I mistrust. If I could manage them as easily as I do my dead people I wouldn't be working out here for fifty dollars a month and free house. Still, I have an uncanny feeling sometimes. The ticker is great company, but sometimes in the middle of night the report of a murder trial comes over it. I listen, of course. It's better than a novel, because it's real people and real life you know. And the jury brings in its verdict—guilty. And the judge puts on the black cap. 'May God have mercy on your soul.' That's thirty—the end of the story, and the reporter's work is done. But that message sets me thinking of my friends in the back yard. Where have their souls gone? Did they need mercy? Did they get it? Will that condemned murderer, when he's strung up, come to visit my charges? Will he go round shaking hands with all the people who have gone before, like a Methodist parson at a tea meeting? There's about four trains a day, including freights, come through here, but the hardest one to handle is the train of thought that sidetracks here after twelve o'clock of a wild winter night."

Why do the graveyards snuggle up to the railroads? Nothing could be more incongruous. The peace, the stillness, the pervading solemnity of the one; the clamor, the strenuousness, the fervid hurry of the other. The railroads are not responsible, because they would hardly care to remind the passengers of the chances of sudden death to people who fare forward at fifty miles an hour. It isn't good business for them to have passengers clutching nervously at their accident insurance policies, taking them out once in a while to find out exactly how much they will be ahead by dying. The railroads are cutting down grades, straightening curves, double-tracking, doing everything, in fact, to increase speed and annihilate distance. It hardly profits them to plant a reminder by the wayside that we are all hurrying on to a sphere where time and space count for nothing. They have no immediate interest in that bourne whence no traveler ever returns, else they would never sell any return tickets. It's not the railways, then, that seek the cemeteries, but the cemeteries that seek the railroads. The dead people don't care, but the living do. The dead people's eyes have opened on fairer worlds, and their minds are probably occupied with some of that infinite knowledge which they missed here. They have no need of company, having joined the great majority, from whom they may make selection of the choicest spirits. But their friends hate to think of them remote and lonely on the cold winter nights, and, out of sheer pity, they lay them down beside the railroad, which is the most stridently vital thing in sight, recognizing neither night nor day in its ceaseless activity.

This, no doubt, explains why God's acre is juxtaposed to man's greatest industry. It explains that solitary grave in the wheat field. The farmer's wife is resting there, perhaps, at her own request. The poor, tired soul was refreshed by the passing trains when she was alive. They brought suggestions of people pleasuring in gay cities; of beautiful buildings and happy faces; of grand pictures and gallant music; of all that variety of interest which her monotonous, work-a-day existence failed to touch. So the farmer's wife sleeps her long sleep under the oak tree in the wheat field. And maybe her dreams are sweetened by the shriek of the engine whistle and the rush and roar of the vestibuled train.

WINTER READING.

Some Literature for Canadians Written of Canada by Canadians.

In the Canadian Magazine for October Mr. A. H. U. Colquhoun has an article on winter reading, in which he reminds us that Canada has quite a literature of her own, and that our reading public should not neglect it—not that people should read the books because they are produced here, but because they may be useful to us. Mr. Colquhoun thinks it quite as absurd to underrate as to overrate the native literature, and he mentions a number of works in history, biography, autobiography, and fiction that a Canadian ought to read. If one cannot indulge in the splendid treat of reading Parkman, he can at least read Prof. Pelham Edgar's "The Romance of Canadian History," made up of selections from Parkman, and it may be added that he who reads selected chapters from the writings of that fascinating historian will thirst for more. There are several books, among those mentioned by Mr. Colquhoun, that are probably not read by Canadians generally, and the fact cannot be considered other than a regrettable one. It may be that the biographies of our public men are political, or even partizan, and yet if these works were widely read it cannot be doubted that they would spread a useful knowledge of the country's affairs. To what extent are the biographies of Sir John Macdonald and Alexander Mackenzie read by the young men of this country? In the city they find comparatively few readers, but out in the country, where no book is wasted, these books have had some circulation. The city youth acquires much of his acquaintance with public affairs and political history through the medium of tradition, very often grotesque and unreliable, and so it follows that our literature, politics and everything pertaining to us as a people is taken more seriously by those who are country-bred. Viewing the past with more seriousness, they approach the future with stauncher intention, and often accomplish larger results. In the cities especially there should be a wider reading of Canadian history and biography, even though similar works dealing with other nations and times must be left unread.

Dawson in Summer Time.

Mr. Harry de Windt, in one of a series of articles in The London Express, dealing with his overland journey from New York to Paris, says: The natural charms of Dawson City have hitherto been sadly neglected by writers on the Klondike, and yet it is (in summer) one of the prettiest places imaginable. Viewed from a distance on a still July day, the clear, bright-looking town and garden-girt villas dotting the green fields around are less suggestive of the black Arctic than of Italy or sunny Spain. Stroll down through the principal street at mid-day, and you will see a well-dressed but cosmopolitan crowd of both sexes, some driving and cycling, others inspecting the shops or seated at flower-bedecked tables in the fashionable French "Restaurant du Louvre," with its white-aproned "garcons" and central snowy altar of silver, fruit and hors-d'oeuvres all complete. Everything has a continental look, from the glittering jewellers' shops to the flower and fruit stalls, where you may buy roses and strawberries (Klondike-grown) for a dollar apiece. Indeed, you can get almost anything now in Dawson City, by paying for it on a scale regulated by the local daily newspaper, which is sold for a shilling—and sometimes more. The prices here dwarf those of Nome City. Even in the cheap eating houses, where sausages steam in the window, the most modest meal runs away with a five-dollar note.

A Publisher's Wit.

Rev. Dr. Briggs, of the Methodist Book Room, Toronto, is "not an Irishman for nothing." He has the gift of wit which is one of the characteristics of his countrymen. An example of it, which he gave at the recent meeting of Conference, will be especially appreciated by his fellow publishers. The Doctor was making his report on the subscription list of The Christian Guardian, and had to touch upon the sad fact of many subscribers being in arrears. "The paper has hosts of friends," said the Doctor. "All over the country are those who boast of being unremitting supporters of the Guardian. But, for my part, I would much prefer that they should be occasionally remitting supporters!"—Canadian Magazine.

Demise of a Well-Known Pioneer.

Another of the early residents of Toronto, or of York rather, has joined the great majority by the death of Kenneth McLean Wishart, of West Flamboro. Mr. Wishart was born in 1820 at Toronto, being a son of Captain Alex. Wishart, of H. M. 42nd Regt., (Black Watch), who held a staff military appointment in York in connection with the militia. When a young man the deceased left Toronto, then no longer York, and settled in West Flamboro, where he resided for more than fifty years. He was an intense Conservative in his political views and as was to be expected an ardent supporter of British connection.

NAMED AFTER A SQUAW.

How Fort Garry's Name Was Changed to Winnipeg.

An interesting story of how the name of Fort Garry came to be changed to Winnipeg was told to The Globe by Mrs. Charles Garratt, of 88 Teraulay street, Toronto. Shortly after the first Riel rebellion in 1871 Mr. Garratt, Chief Trader McDermott and a number of others who were prominent in the affairs of the fort at that time met one night at Mr. McDermott's house, it having been previously intimated that the name should be changed so as to be in keeping with the dignity of a postoffice. At the meeting several names were suggested, but the weight of opinion was in favor of calling the place McDermottville. Before the matter was decided, however, Mr. McDermott rose and said that, as so much honor had been shown towards him in the matter he would ask that the privilege of naming the fort be left to him. Mr. McDermott therewith, in honor of his wife, a Winnipegosis squaw, gave to what was destined to become the metropolis of the Canadian west the name of Winnipeg.

Mrs. Garratt is an aged woman, and her recollections of Fort Garry in the sixties and early seventies is now food for pleasant retrospect. She first went there in 1860, and it took a month to complete the journey from Toronto. At Georgetown, a Hudson Bay post on the Red River, she waited two weeks for the completion of the boat that was to carry her on to Fort Garry, and which was the first steamer to ply those waters. She and her husband at first engaged in farming at Sturgeon Creek, but, two years before the rebellion broke out they moved to the fort and started an hotel under the sign, "Garratt House."

It was while thus engaged that they met their most serious reverses. Mrs. Garratt had returned to Toronto to endeavor to repair her health, and during her absence Riel and his men took possession of the fort and imprisoned a number of men, including Mr. Garratt and Thomas Scott, who was afterwards shot. The Garratt House contained enough supplies to last in ordinary circumstances for six months, but Riel, when he had possession of the fort, billetted his men at the Garratt House, lodged the proprietor in prison, and, to use Mrs. Garratt's own words, ate them out of house and home. When Mrs. Garratt returned some months later she found nothing but the walls of what had been previously her home.

Mr. Garratt's imprisonment ended in a pass from Riel, entitling him to leave that part of the country. But with the roll call of the prisoners that night those of lesser authority discovered that Garratt had been allowed to go. They told Riel that he had given liberty to one of his worst enemies, and the result was that a reward of $100 was offered for his recapture, and to judge from the shots that were fired after him as he crossed on horseback over to United States territory it meant "dead or alive." The hardship and exposure consequent upon that flight for liberty ended in his death two years later.

Mrs. Garratt attributes to the shooting of Thomas Scott, which caused the stationing of a garrison at the fort, the gradual opening of the west. That began when incomers felt assured of protection. She knew Riel personally, as he had often stayed at the Garratt House. She remembers him as not a bad sort of fellow, as one, at least, who could sympathize with anyone suffering hardship.

Cost of the Colonies to Great Britain.

The London Times of the 6th inst. contains a most interesting article founded upon the report obtained by Sir Wm. Molesworth of the cost of the army sustained by Great Britain in the colonies. In 1850, which is the year The Times has selected, the troops in the colonies cost the Mother Country, £1,328,656. In this calculation however, neither the artillery nor the engineers are taken in, as they do not, according to the military technicalities, belong to that class designated as "troops," but are under the Ordnance Department. In addition then to the above sum the artillery cost £122,970, stores, £19,602, and the engineers, who, it will be known, are merely the officers of the sappers, £51,989. This does not include the commissariat stores, which for that year amounted to about half a million more, making as the entire cost in the colonies two million pounds sterling. The total number of men coming under the designation of troops . .

A Small Boy's Essay.

A small boy in a Victoria County school was asked by his teacher to write what he knew about the peace in South Africa. Result: "The Boers fought against England, and Colonel Hughes went to Africa and fought them. By-and-by everyone thought it time to stop, but the Boers wouldn't. So Colonel Hughes, who had come back home, sent word he would go and fight them again if they would not make peace, and they did, providing he would be their Governor." Which is about as true as many accepted chapters of history.—Saturday Night.

A Big Foghorn.

A large foghorn is to be placed in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 4 feet in diameter and 12 feet long, the sound being produced by sirens. Compressed air is supplied by valves actuated by clockwork. Every two minutes the foghorn will emit a deep roar, followed ten seconds later by a sharp shriek. There are three air tanks, each 6 feet in diameter and 12 feet long, and three gasoline engines run compressors to fill these tanks. The plant runs automatically, and a constant pressure is maintained in it. Even the clock is wound by compressed air.

A FAITHLESS LAWYER.

Accepted a Retaining Fee and Then Played His Client False.

A lawyer tells how he once played a client false. "I shall have to make a lawyer out of that boy of mine. I don't see any other way out of it," declared the well known attorney, with a laugh. "He came into my office on his way home from school and laid a nickel down on the desk before me. 'What is this for, son?' I asked. 'Retainer,' he answered soberly. 'Very well,' said I, entering into the joke. 'What have I been retained upon?' My boy dug down into his pocket and produced a note from his teacher and placed it before me without comment. It was to the effect that he had been 'cutting up' and advised a whipping. 'Now, what would you advise?' asked he in a businesslike voice after I had read the note and saw the trap that young rascal led me into. 'I think that our first move should be to apply for a change of venue,' said I. 'Very well,' he answered. 'You're handling the case.' 'Then we will turn the note over to your mother,' said I. I saw the young imp's face fall at this, but he braced up and said, 'See here, pop, you're bound to see me through on this, 'cause you've accepted my retainer, you know!' 'I'll argue your case before the court,' I answered, 'but you'll have to accept the decision. I would not dare to attempt to influence the court.' Well, I pleaded the boy's case, promptly had it thrown out of court, and the boy got what he deserved, a good whipping. It was the first time I ever played false to a client."

Here are a few names of clergymen of different creeds who are firm believers in Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder to "live up to the preaching" in all it claims: Bishop Sweetman, Rev. THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

The land area of Hawaii is 4,000,000 acres.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

A man should be careful not to afflict his wife, for God counts her tears.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

WHY IS SIFTON NOT PUNISHED?

The Ottawa Citizen very pertinently asks what is to be done with Hon. Mr. Sifton in connection with the tariff controversy. In his letter accepting Mr. Tarte's resignation the Premier stated that Tarte's offence did not consist in the doctrine that he had been preaching, but in the fact that he had advocated a policy "which had not yet been adopted by the Government." Now it is well-known that during the absence of the Premier in Europe Mr. Sifton in his newspapers and in public addresses has been advocating the further elimination of protection from the tariff, and after Tarte had spoken gave out an interview declaring unequivocally against any further protection to Canadian industry. This leads the Citizen to remark:

> "If it was a capital political crime for Mr. Tarte to take the view that the tariff should be raised when the Government "had not yet" adopted that policy, what about Hon. Mr. Sifton leader of the free trade wing of the Liberal party, who came out equally boldly and declared that the tariff should not be raised? That he and his supporters in the Northwest would not stand for it. Other ministers contented themselves with criticizing Tarte's action, but Sifton's stand on the tariff policy, 'which had not yet been adopted,' was just as pronounced and definite in its way as Tarte's declaration.
>
> "If Sir Wilfrid's letter means anything it means that the Government has not made up its mind as a government whether it will raise, lower or allow the tariff to remain untouched. If in taking the position that the tariff should be raised Mr. Tarte committed a breach of constitutional procedure which made it imperative that the Premier should demand his resignation from the Cabinet, then in taking the position in the absence of his leader that the tariff should remain as it is Mr. Sifton committed an identical breach of constitutional procedure in endeavoring to commit his leader and the Government.
>
> "It goes without saying that if the Government in pursuance of a policy 'which had not yet been adopted' decides to raise the tariff Mr. Sifton will have to resign. But in the meantime how is it that Mr. Sifton, who was guilty of the same offence as Mr. Tarte, has not been punished with equal impartiality for his offence?"

The above is literally and strictly correct. When is Laurier going to "demand Hon. Mr. Sifton's resignation?"

TIMELY TOPICS.

Opinions differ as to the best course to be pursued in regard to the $30,000 bonus money which the Council proposes to withdraw from the Bank of Montreal. In the opinion of some the sinking fund is the proper place for the money. Others, again, think it might very well be spent in providing Belleville with a better system of sewerage, something of which there is no doubt the City is badly in need. Others we have spoken to think the money could be put to no better use than in extending the Waterworks system of Belleville, and if you talk to them they bring pretty strong arguments to support their contentions.

* * *

The City, they say, has the waterworks system on its hands. It will never be a paying concern till it has more customers; it cannot get more customers till the system is extended. The plant is large enough to supply 25,000 customers, whereas at present 890 people take the water. If the system were extended the rates could be lowered and the works become a real benefit to the City. The above question is one the ratepayers will have to debate among themselves before the municipal elections next January.

* * *

As regards the proposed change in the system of management of the waterworks, most people with whom we have spoken see no necessity for the proposed change. Both the Council and the Water Commissioners are elective bodies, and both are responsible to the people for their actions. If the people do not get good representatives it is their own fault. Because the Council and Water Commissioners disagree in certain matters it does not necessarily follow that the Council is right and the Water Commissioners wrong. Were the latter body not an elective one there might be some reason in the Council demanding its abolition, but where its members must come before the people every year and give an account of their stewardship, there is no more need for the Council to try to take over their duties than there is for their endeavoring to saddle themselves with the duties of that very advanced and progressive body, the Board of Education. The above, it may be remarked, pretty well expresses the views of most people with whom we have talked on the subject. Having no axe to grind in the matter, we will gladly give space to the views of anyone who wishes to advance opposite opinions.

* * *

Thinking that perhaps the public might be interested in knowing what the actual outlay, in salaries, of the Waterworks department is at present, The Intelligencer this morning made enquiries, and found it to be as follows: Two men at pumphouse, night and day shift, one receiving $46 and the other $36 per month; Mr. J. P. Thompson, who acts as treasurer, accountant and secretary, $33 per month; Mr. L. Soule, who acts as overseer, manager and repair man, $40 per month. Whether this salary list could very well be reduced by any change in management our readers can figure out for themselves.

* * *

"I don't think there is any doubt," said a city minister yesterday, "that this year's Council is the most progressive and energetic Belleville has had, at least in my time. They have not spared themselves and to my mind have been ideal guardians of the City's interests. I hope to see them re-elected." How does that strike you as a bouquet for the Council of 1902? The question arises: Can we allow this bright and progressive body to take over duties which do not belong to them and thus run the chance of working themselves to death? We confess to a slight degree of doubt on this score.

NOVEMBER CANADIAN MAGAZINE

The fiction in the November Canadian Magazine is exceptionally strong. There are good short stories by Jean Blewett, Albert E. King and N. De Bertrand Lugrin, and the first instalment of Virna Sheard's new serial, entitled, "Fortune's Hill." This latter is a story of student life. Among the illustrated articles, Julia W. Henshaw describes the beauties in and about Field, a little village in the Rockies; Charles Lewis Shaw gives an impressionistic sketch of "The Fire-Fighters of Toronto," which is accompanied by some striking pictures; while C. W. Nash, the Ontario naturalist, writes most engagingly of "The Ways of the Woodcock," illuminated with his own drawings. Norman Patterson reviews the situation of the Alaskan Boundary Question, and F. Blake Crofton, the Halifax librarian and litterateur, deals with some "Imperial Bugbears." The departments are as interesting as usual.

Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co.'s.

BORING A MAN

What a difference there is between modern methods of doing business and the old style, especially in the way custumers are handled when they get into a store. MERCHANTS USED to stand outside their door and PULL PEOPLE in, wether or no—turn a customer over to two or three slick-tongued salesmen, until he became exhausted and bought to get out alive or catch a train—badgered him from the moment he came in till he went away, and manifested a feverish anxiety to get hold of as much of his money as possible. That's the old way. NOW IN MOST STORES, you can look at what you please, as long as you please—you can buy if you please, and if you don't please, leave the store with a pleasant "call again" from the salesman. In all first-class stores any mistake is willingly rectified. To sum up, the difference is: The old method was all for the house—the new method is to please the customer.

SUDBURY.

Nickel Town Puts on Up-to-Date Airs and Invests Itself With Municipal Ownership.

A little over twelve years ago Sudbury was simply a spot on the map, no bigger, no smaller, than any one of the hundred other stations that the C.P.R. called into being in the long stretch of rock and muskeg between North Bay and Rat Portage, writes H. G. F. in Toronto Star. It is quite true it was a headquarters for lumbermen's supplies, being in the heart of the tallest timber standing in Ontario. But the citizens looked forward drearily to the time when the mighty hills would be stripped by the woodmen, and the centre of operations would move on to some place nearer the virgin forests. It foreboded a fate not unlike that of Northern Michigan, where many a thriving community has seen prosperity dwindle and finally vanish as the shantymen retreated.

Othello's occupation was in a fair way of being gone when the mineral discoveries were made and Sudbury took on a new lease of life. With the nickel and copper arrived hope and confidence, electric lights, a progressive spirit, and a feeling that Sudbury had a substantial permanent future. When the rats were reassured that the ship was not sinking, they repented and stayed where they were. The lumber companies kept their offices there, although the mills and the axemen marched on to more convenient points; the mining offices blossomed out with plate glass fronts and a glittering array of quartz specimens. Brick buildings grew as if by magic; hotels and restaurants multiplied; business, which had jogged along sluggishly, took forward at a hand gallop; two new banks thought it worth while to edge in and get a share of the renewed prosperity; Sudbury filled up with mining engineers and prospectors; finally nine lawyers settled there, a sure sign that the pickings were good.

Since that time have been added churches, hospitals, paved streets, newspapers, and the hundred and odd refinements and comforts of an advanced civilization. Serene, sanguine, self-contained, Sudbury can point with proud complacency to the one relic of her eventful past—the old log house, the first dwelling in Sudbury, which at various times has done duty as a Custom house, a C. P. R. station, a postoffice, an insurance office, a school house, and a church. All these institutions are now housed separately, and appropriately. The old log shack has become a mining office, and so the past is linked with the industry which largely comprises Sudbury's future.

The town—it is a town now with something like 2,500 inhabitants—affects city airs. It complains that the C. P. R., which owns the town site, will not put up building lots on the market at a reasonable, or in fact, at any price whatever. It suffers, like Toronto, from a house famine. Fashionable Sudbury has seized upon Ramsay Lake, a beautiful suburb, near the town pumping station, and the house famine troubles only those who must live only within the town limits. Also there is a labor famine, and one may gauge from the advertisements of employment offices and mining companies that there is honest work and good wages for five thousand men in the mines and forests around Sudbury. Like many other towns in New Ontario, Sudbury asks why armies of idle men will starve in the city when they may have plenty and a healthful occupation, and get railroad fare paid right to the spot.

Mining and lumbering town Sudbury is, though she plumes herself secretly on her Old Ontario aspect; but the sentiment of public ownership is western and vigorous. The town controls its own lighting and watering plants, and the municipal enterprises of the future will have to take that spirit into account. Moreover, Sudbury has good claims to be called a railroad centre. The main lines of the C.P.R. passes through it; several of the C.P.R. branches, among them the important Soo line, converge there, and another air line is projected from Sudbury to Toronto; the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway, one of Mr. Clergue's roads, has to call at Sudbury on the way to the nickel mines, and a close connection is guaranteed with the Algoma Central. The railroad outlook is so rosy that Sudbury is clamoring for a union station equal to her pretensions. Sudbury has the ordered habits of an Old Ontario town.

Took Advantage of Obscure Law.

The question as to whether or not Mr. B. W. Folger of Kingston rightfully holds office as a Commissioner of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway has been raised in different quarters of the Province. The claim raised was that the Kingston Commissioner had not been naturalized in this country, and though he was born within three-quarters of a mile of Canada, in New York State he was not eligible to hold an appointment from the Crown.

Mr. Folger, who was talked to with regard to the charge, said: "There is a statutory provision which very few people know about to the effect that any person who was in Canada at the time of Confederation, or on Confederation Day, does not necessarily have to go through the ordinary form to be naturalized and become a British subject. He can take a short cut, and, by appearing before a County Crown Attorney, make out a declaration to the effect that he was in the country at the time mentioned and all is serene. This point was raised against me at election time, and I had expected that on my appointment to the Commission some astute member would raise an apparently valid objection. At any rate, I am a British subject and have been for some time, so that these cries are somewhat premature, and one can easily see the story as believed by some is quickly put away by the fact that I have long since appeared before the Crown Attorney and am as British as that formality can make one."

The King of Ranges—"Buck's Happy Thought"

Buying a Range

There are three essential things to consider when buying a Range,—Quality, Consumption of Fuel, and the Price. The price is the least important. A good Range will last many years, and when it saves in fuel it pays for its self, while a cheap Range is constantly adding to its price in extra consumption of fuel. The is the lightest fuel consumer in the world, and the most perfect Range constructed. It is a perfect cooking apparatus.

"Happy Thought" Range

TWO CASES OF TYPHUS.

Story of a Turkish Doctor and a Modified Prescription.

Mr. Oscanyan in his book, "The Sultan and His People," says that a Turkish physician was called to visit a man who was very ill of typhus fever. The doctor considered the case hopeless, but prescribed for the patient and took his leave. The next day, in passing by, he inquired of a servant at the door if his master was dead.

"Dead!" was the reply. "No, he is much better."

The doctor hastened upstairs to obtain the solution of the miracle.

"Why," said the convalescent, "I was consumed with thirst, and I drank a pailful of the juice of pickled cabbage."

"Wonderful!" quoth the doctor, and out came the tablets, on which he made this inscription: "Cured of typhus fever, Mehemed Agha, an upholsterer, by drinking a pailful of pickled cabbage juice."

Soon after the doctor was called to another patient, a yaghlikgee, or dealer in embroidered handkerchiefs, who was suffering from the same malady. He forthwith prescribed "a pailful of pickled cabbage juice."

On calling the next day to congratulate his patient on his recovery he was astonished to be told that the man was dead.

In his bewilderment at these phenomena he came to the safe conclusion and duly noted it in his memoranda that "although in cases of typhus fever pickled cabbage juice is an efficient remedy it is not to be used unless the patient be by profession an upholsterer."

A Poor Compliment.

"People don't often insult you when they mean to be gracious," said an artist the other day. "Insults are the creations of ill nature and not mere matters of words. But I had an experience that made me laugh and yet irritated me."

"Somebody take one of your snow scenes for a spring landscape?" inquired an amiable friend.

"No," replied the artist; "this was not a matter of professional pride. A tradesman sent me a bill in which he unintentially charged me only about a third of what I owed him."

"Thought he stood a better chance of getting it, I suppose," interrupted the facetious friend.

"Now, hold on, Billy, and let me tell the story. Well, that was the second time he had sent a bill for less than I owed, and I wrote him a note calling his attention to the error. This morning I got a letter from him in which he 'thanked me for my honesty.' A man may thank you for your courtesy or for your kindness, but when he thanks you for being honest it is an insult. One might as well praise a man for not beating his wife."

Merely an Impression.

"They say coal is going to be cheap pretty soon."

"No," said the man who loves to look on the dark side, "it isn't going to be cheap. It will merely seem cheap by comparison."

FRED. BRAUND SHOT IN GROIN

Drunken Oil Borer Discharged Revolver at Teasing Boys.

The Innocent Pedestrian on the Other Side of the Street Got the Bullet—Doctors Used X-Rays, Extracted the Bullet, and the Victim May Recover—Mrs. Long Attempted Suicide by Cutting Her Throat With a Table Knife.

Hamilton, Nov. 3.—About 8 o'clock Saturday night there was a shooting case in James street, near the Armories, the victim being Fred Braund, a German, who resides at 134 North McNab street. He was shot in the lower part of the groin by James McKinley, an oil-borer from Alaska. It appears McKinley was very drunk, and had sat on the curb. P. C. Campbell saw his condition and went into the Drill Hall and telephoned for the patrol wagon. While he was inside some young men and boys got around McKinley and teased him. McKinley whipped out his revolver and fired. The bullet struck Braund, who was standing near the other side of the street. A man named McGowan seized the weapon and ran away with it. He was caught by Officer Campbell. Braund was carried into Dr. Mullen's surgery, and later was taken to Dr. Cummings' operating room, where the X-rays were turned on him. An incision about an inch deep was made, and the bullet a 32-calibre, was removed. He will recover, it is thought.

McKinley, who is about 50 years of age, was placed under arrest. When searched over $500 was found on him. He has been here about a month visiting his sister, Mrs. O'Brien, West Jackson street.

An Attempted Suicide.

Mrs. W. S. Long, Oak avenue, attempted suicide yesterday morning, cutting her throat with an old table knife. The wound was not very deep, and Dr. Baugh, who was called in, had her removed to the General Hospital. She will recover. Mrs. Long is the mother of four children. She has been ill for a long time, and became despondent.

Jewelry Robbery.

The residence of William Armstrong, manager of the Mary street Cotton Mills, was broken into last night and about $125 worth of jewelry was stolen. Among the articles taken were a lady's gold watch and two chains. Twelve dollars in cash was also taken.

TRAIN COASTS 20 MILES.

200 Passengers Have Harrowing Ride Down a Grade.

Denver, Col., Nov. 3.—Two hundred persons aboard a runaway train were treated to a harrowing experience on the heavy grade of the Rio Grande tracks between Tennessee Pass and Eagle River Canyon. Disordered air brakes were the cause.

The limited California express was two hours late. Just after leaving Tennessee Pass station the engineer discovered that the air brakes did not respond, and he called for hand brakes. This started a panic, and fifty or more men and women hastened to the rear of the train, with the feeling that this was the safest place in case of a wreck.

The train ran for twenty minutes before it was controlled, and at a rate of considerably more than a mile a minute.

IN COTTON SHEETS.

After the Manner of Early Disciples, Doukhobors March on Manitoba Boundary—Discarded Garments.

Winnipeg, Nov. 3.—The march of the Doukhobors army toward Winnipeg continues, the pilgrimage being almost arrived at the Manitoba boundary. The mental excitement and immense physical strain of the past week has reduced these people to the verge of insanity. If their condition is not relieved immediately, death or the mad house will be the end of this mob of scantily clothed enthusiasts.

Despite their past sufferings, however, the Doukhobors trudge steadily towards the east, struggling ahead without order and extending along the road for several miles. They continue buoyed up with the hope of finding Jesus, and every question is answered by some reference to the object of their search. They have cast off all their heavy clothing, and one small detachment is wearing only cotton sheeting, arranged like the cloaks of the disciples, as shown in Sunday school pictures.

Along the trail for miles is discarded clothing, which is being diligently collected by Government agents, and will presumably be kept until the pilgrims regain a glimmering of reason. Fresh squads of northwest mounted police are arriving at Yorkton, and are following the marchers and preserving a semblance of order. The situation at Yorkton, where women and children are held, remains unchanged.

The near approach of the Doukhobors to Manitoba is engaging the attention of the provincial Government and steps are being taken to deal with the invaders in the event of the Dominion authorities being unable to induce the enthusiasts to desist from their present purpose.

It has not yet been learned how the fire originated. There was no wind Saturday night, else the entire town would probably have been completely obliterated. Even as it is the extent of the disaster is very far reaching, and the financial loss will probably reach half a million dollars.

There was no loss of life or serious accident. The rapid spread of the conflagration was due to the trifling water supply, and to the fact that St. Pierre has no adequate fire fighting appliances.

The town of St. Pierre has been partly burned down three times before—in 1865, 1867 and 1879.

St. Pierre is the capital of the French colony of St. Pierre and Miquelon on the southeast side of the Island of St. Pierre. It is compactly built of stone, has a convent, a newspaper, and a good harbor, and is an important fishing station. The population is about 5,000.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Irritability and mental depression, sometimes amounting to melancholy and despondency, are marked symptoms of nervous exhaustion.

In the beginning you feel languid and tired, find it difficult to remember and next to impossible to concentrate your thoughts. The tasks of the day are put off till to-morrow, little things worry you, you forget your blessings and look on the dark side of things.

At times there may be nervous headaches, spells of dizziness, indigestion, sleeplessness and general weakness of the body. You dread what the future may bring to you and feel the work and responsibilities of life more than you can bear.

Mrs. Symons, 42 Sinclair St., Belleville, Ont., states: "Some weeks ago I began a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it a very satisfactory medicine. I was formerly troubled with nervous exhaustion and a weak fluttering heart. Whenever my heart bothered me I would have spells of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of this treatment my nerves have become strong and healthy, and the action of my heart seems to be regular. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as an excellent medicine."

The wonderful medicinal power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been demonstrated in thousands of cases. Gradually and certainly it creates new nerve cells, builds up the system, and overcomes the weakness which gives rise to nervous ailments and feelings of depression and despondency. New hopes, new confidence, new vitality are instilled into the body and health and strength take the place of disease.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

An old acquaintance of Mrs. Lennox when she lived in East Bloomfield, Mrs. Woodhull had petted Katy from the first day of her arrival in Canandaigua with a letter of introduction to herself from the ambitious mother, and being rather inclined to match-making, she had Katy in her mind when she urged Wilford to accompany her to the Seminary. Accordingly she answered him at once: "That is Katy Lennox, daughter of Judge Lennox, who died in East Bloomfield a few years ago. Pretty, is she not?"

Wilford did not answer her. He had neither eye nor ear for anything save Kitty acquiring herself with a good deal of credit as she worked out a rather difficult problem, her dimpled white hand showing to good advantage against the deep black of the board; and then her voice, softened and silvery, as a lady's voice should be, thrilled in Wilford's ear, awaking a strange feeling of disquiet, as if the world would never again be quite the same to him that it was before he met that fair young girl now passing from the room.

Mrs. Woodhull saw that he was interested. It was time he settled in life. With the exception of wealth and family position, he could not find a better wife than Katy, and she would do what she could to bring the marriage about. Accordingly, having first gained the preceptress's consent, Katy was taken home with her to dinner. And this was how Wilford Cameron came to know little Katy Lennox, the simple-hearted child, who blushed so prettily when first presented to him, and blushed again when he praised her recitations, but who after that forgot the difference in their social relations, laughing and chatting as merrily in his presence as if she had been alone with Mrs. Woodhull. This was the great charm to Wilford. Katy was so wholly unconscious of herself or what he might think of her that he could not sit in judgment upon her, and he watched her eagerly as she sported and flashed, and sparkled, filling the room with sunshine, and putting to rout the entire regiment of blues which had been for months harassing the city-bred young man.

If there was any one thing in which Katy excelled, it was music, both vocal and instrumental, a taste for which had been developed very early, and fostered by Morris Grant, who had seen that his cousin had every advantage which Silverton could afford. Great pains had been given to her style of playing while in Canaddaigua, so that as a performer on the piano she had few rivals in the Seminary, while her bird-like voice filled every nook and corner of the room, when, on the night after her visit to Mrs. Woodhull, a select exhibition was held, Katy shinging as the one bright star, and winning golden laurels for beauty, grace, and perfect self-possession, from others than Wilford Cameron, who was one of the invited auditors.

Juno herself could not play like that, he thought, as Katy's fingers flew over the keys, executing a brilliant and difficult piece without a single mistake, and receiving the applause of the spectators easily, naturally, as if it were an everyday occurrence. But when by request she sang "Comin' through the Rye," Wilford's heart, if he had any before, was wholly gone, and he dreamed of Katy Lennox that night, wondering all the ensuing day how his haughty mother would receive the young school girl as a daughter, wife of the son whose bride she fancied, must be equal to the first lady in the land. And if Katy were not now equal she could be made so, Wilford thought, wondering if Canandaigua were the best place for her, and if she would consent to receive a year or two years' tuition from him, provided her family were poor. He did not know as they were, but he would ask, and he did, feeling a pang of regret when he heard to some extent how Katy was circumstanced. Mrs. Woodhull had never been to Silverton, and so she did not know of Uncle Ephraim and his old-fashioned sister; but she knew they were poor, that some relation sent Katy to school; and she frankly told Wilford so, adding as she detected the shadow on his face, that one could not expect everything, and that a girl like Katy was not to be found every day. Wilford admitted all that, growing more and more infatuated, until at last, he consented to join the traveling party provided Katy joined it too, and when on the morning of their departure for the Falls he seated himself beside her in the car, he could not well have been happier, unless she had really been his wife, and he so much wished she was.

It was a most delightful trip, and Wilford was better satisfied with himself than he had ever been before in years. His past life was not all free from error, and there were many sad memories haunting him, but with Katy at his side, seeing what he saw, admiring what he admired, and doing what he bade her do, he gave the [illegible] to wind, feeling only an intense desire to clasp the girl in his arms, and bear her away to some spot where with her pure, fresh life all his own, he could begin the world anew, and retrieve the past which he lost. This was when he was with Katy. Away from her he could remember the difference in their position, and prudential motives began to make themselves heard. Never but once had he taken an important step without consulting his mother, and the trouble in which that had involved him, warned him to be more cautious another time. And this was why Katy came back to Silverton unengaged, leaving her heart with Wilford Cameron, who would first seek advice with his mother ere committing himself by word. He had seen the white-haired man waiting for her when the train stopped at Silverton, but standing there as he did, with his silvery locks parted in the centre, and shading his honest, open face, Uncle Ephraim looked like some patriarch of old, rather than a man to be despised, and Wilford felt only respect for him until he saw Katy's arms wound so lovingly around his neck as she called him Uncle Eph. That sight grated harshly, and Wilford felt glad that he was not bound to her by any pledge. Very curiously he looked after the couple, witnessing the meeting of Katy and old Whitey, and guessing rightly that the corn-colored vehicle was the one sent to transport Katy home. He was very moody for the remainder of the route between Silverton and Albany, where he parted with his Canandaigua friends they going on to the westward while he stopped all night in Albany, where he had some business to transact for his father.

He was intending to tell his mother everything, except that he paid Katy's bills. He would rather keep that to himself, as it might shock his mother's sense of propriety and make her think less of Katy; so after dinner was over, and they had returned to the parlor, he opened the subject by asking her to guess what took him off so suddenly with Mrs. Woodhull.

The mother did not know—unless—and a strange light gleamed in her eye, as she asked if it were some girl.

"Yes, mother, it was," and without any reservation Wilford frankly told the story of his interest in Katy Lennox.

He admitted that she was poor and unaccustomed to society, but he loved her more than words could express.

"Not as I loved Genevra," he said, and there came a look of intense pain into his eyes.

In Wilford's voice there was a tone warning the mother that opposition would only feed the flame, and so she offered none directly but heard him patiently to the end, and then quietly questioned him of Katy and her family, especially the last. What did he know of it? Was it one to detract from the Cameron line, kept untarnished so long? Were the relatives such as he never need blush to own even if they came there into their drawing rooms as they would come if Katy did?

Wilford thought of Uncle Ephraim as he had seen him upon the platform at Silverton, and could scarcely repress a smile as he pictured to himself his mother's consternation at beholding that man in her drawing room. But he did not mention the deacon, though he acknowledged that Katy's family friends were not exactly the Cameron style. But Katy was young: Katy could be easily moulded, and once away from her old associates his mother and sisters could make of her what they pleased.

"I understand, then, that if you marry her you do not marry the family," and in the handsome matronly face there was an expression from which Katy would have shrunk, could she have seen it and understood its meaning.

"No, I do not marry the family," Wilford rejoined emphatically, but the expression of his face was different from his mother's, for where she thought only of herself, not hesitating to trample on all Katy's love of home and friends, Wilford remembered Katy, thinking how he would make amends for separating her wholly from her home as he surely meant to do if he should win her. "Did I tell you," he continued, "that her father was a judge? She must be well connected on that side. And now, what shall I do?" he asked playfully. "Shall I propose to Katy Lennox, or shall I try to forget her?"

"I should not do either," was Mrs Cameron's reply, for she knew that trying to forget her was the surest way of keeping her in mind, and she dared not confess to him how determined she was that Katy Lennox should never be her daughter if she could prevent it.

He is a clever soldier, and was instructor of the machine gun. A man who served with him said he did not know for what particular act the D.S.O. was awarded, but he was satisfied that Capt. McMillan earned the honor on numerous occasions.

CLAIMS OF NORTH URGENT

Coal Is Being Rushed Canada's Way For Good Cause.

Lake Ports Will Soon Be Closed and Freights Would Be Much Increased Were Transhipment at Buffalo Necessary—Toronto Dealers Admit That Coal Is Coming This Way—The Commission and Its Doings.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Tribune yesterday says: "Where the dealers are frankest, it seems to be conceded that there is no immediate prospect of complete relief from the scarcity of coal in this city. For the coming three weeks, the claims of the north are paramount. By Nov. 20 the waterways to the Canadian boundary coal depots begin to get frozen up. It is therefore essential that the winter supply be rushed up within the next few days. To meet this acute demand, coal will have to be diverted from the eastern depots.

"An excellent depot which will make large demands on Pennsylvania anthracite is Toronto. But the northern demand extends as far west as Duluth. The Lehigh Valley road is hauling much of this trade. The two principal centres from which coal is shipped north and west are Buffalo and Ogdensburg. The longest single carry for anthracite is to Buffalo. From this point a reshipment is necessary. The various depots are making every effort to lay in their winter supply before the waterways are frozen, because transportation rates are greatly increased when it becomes necessary to reship from Buffalo by railroad, instead of lake and river boats."

Admit That Coal Is Coming.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Toronto coal dealers, spoken to last night, admitted that the bulk of the new mined coal is being rushed this way to the distributing points on the lakes. This coal, they say, is for points that cannot be reached by rail, but as a matter of fact Toronto is as accessible as any point in New York State. The receipts of coal at Oswego for the lake carriers are about 40 per cent. of what they would be at this time if there had been no strike. The shortage of anthracite in Toronto to-day is about 150,000 tons.

COAL STRIKE COMMISSION.

Arrives at Wilkes-Barre on Its Tour of Investigation.

Wilkes-Barre, Nov. 3.—The members of the Coal Strike Commission arrived here from Scranton Saturday morning on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad. When the special train arrived here it was switched to the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and taken to North Wilkes-Barre. There the commissioners were escorted to the Prospect Mine, of the Lehigh Valley Company. The morning was spent going through the workings. In the afternoon the party where taken on a special trolley car to the mining towns of Ashley and Sugar Notch for inspection of the mine-workers houses. On their return to Wilkes-Barre, the commissioners boarded their train and went to Plymouth, on the Susquehanna River one of the largest mining towns in Luzerne County. After a tour of that place, the commissioners will return to Scranton over the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad.

Scranton, Nov. 3.—The Mine Strike Commission left for Hazelton at 11 o'clock last night to spend four days in further acquainting themselves with the physical features of mining.

Hard Coal For Canada.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Nov. 3.—Vessels from this port are preparing to rush coal to Montreal and the Canadian points before the canals freeze up. The steamer Avon passed down the river Friday night with 1,600 tons of hard coal from Oswego to Montreal. This is the first hard coal to go to Canada since the Pennsylvania anthracite coal strike began.

AT DOCTORS' SUGGESTION.

Ghoul Says That He Robbed Graves in Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 3. — Dr. Charles Riggs and Dr. James Kinkaid, young physicians, whose names have not been connected with the grave robbing cases, were arrested Saturday on affidavits made by McEndree, the white ghoul, and taken into custody, who charges that Riggs and Kinkaid bought two bodies from him at $25 each.

McEndree says that the physicians made the offer unsolicited, and that it was their suggestion that led him to rob the graves. He also confessed to having assisted in stealing the bodies of Franklin Crest, Julia Rogers, Frederick Honeycut, a man named Kelley, Peter Hudson, John Whistler and an old soldier in uniform whose name he could not recall. None of these bodies were known to have been stolen till McEndree gave the names and the cemeteries from which they were taken.

"YOU CANNOT GATHER FIGS FROM THISTLES."

It costs as much to make a $2.50 Goodyear process shoe, as a $3.50, or a $5.00 grade.

It costs as much to sell it to the Wearer!

It costs more to finish it, so that it will resemble some inferior $3.50 shoes!

The dollar difference thus comes out of the leather—out of the very life of the shoe.

No shoe which sells for less than $3.50 can posses wear enough to justify the cost of fine finish, and no finish can justify the absence of wear.

No shoe,—but "The Slater Shoe" for men and women, is sold to Consumers at a price fixed by the Makers to protect Wearers against over charge.

Although applause is deprecated at church concerts, the audience last night could not restrain themselves from expressing enthusiasm, and several extra numbers were given in response to their demonstrations of approval.

CITY COUNCIL IN REGULAR SESSION

Market Square Will be Lighted by a Welsbach Gas Lamp in Future

Petition Presented Praying for Submission of Free Library By-law to People

Committee Appointed to Look into Matter of Future Waterworks Management

The City Council did not have very much to do last night, and they did it in (for this Council) record time. Three-quarters of an hour sufficed to dispose of everything on the order sheet. It was decided to authorize the Gas Company to erect a Welsbach gas lamp on the market square; a petition was presented from a large number of electors, praying that a public library by-law be submitted to the people; and a committee of five was appointed to look into the matter of waterworks management and see if, in their opinion, it would be advisable to abolish the Board of Water Commissioners and have the Waterworks department managed by the City Council. The remainder of the business was almost entirely routine.

His Worship Mayor Graham presided, and all the Aldermen were present. An audience of one showed the tremendous interest taken in municipal affairs in Belleville.

Everybody was satisfied with the minutes.

Communications and Petitions.

From a large number of electors, whose names were not read, praying that a Public Library by-law be submitted to the electors, under the provisions of the Public Library Act.

From Miss Frances Casswell, secretary of the W.C.A., presenting a statement of expenditure in connection with the indigent fund, the same being $1470.11; also a statement from the auditors, Messrs. Jeffers and Tousaw, who deposed to having audited the W.C.A.'s books and found them correct.

Some accounts were also presented, and the whole were referred to their various committees.

Reports of Committees.

The reports of the various standing committees, as already published in The Intelligencer, were read.

Ald. Pope was chairman in Committee of the Whole on reports.

The Executive Committee's report was passed without discussion.

When the Public Works Committee's report came up some of the Aldermen wanted to know who authorized the Street Surveyor to clean Bridge St. Front St., they knew, had been ordered cleaned, but they had some curiosity about who ordered the work on Bridge St. It turned out that the Street Surveyor had had the work done on his own responsibility, and, after a few remarks on the subject, his action was endorsed by the Council.

Ald. Wills asked if the approaches to the lower bridge could not be improved. They were at present in a very unsatisfactory condition. He moved that the Chairman of Public Works and Street Surveyor be instructed to have the approaches improved, the same to be done as inexpensively as possible. Carried. The remainder of the Public Works Committee's report went through without discussion.

The Committee rose, reported, and the report was adopted.

Lighting the Market Square.

Under the head of Motions, Ald. Pope moved that the resolution passed some three months ago, instructing the Chairman of the Market to have an electric light placed on the market square be rescinded, and that the Council contract with the Belleville Gas Company to put a Welsbach gas lamp there at a cost not to exceed $6 per year.

The rules were suspended, and then a warm discussion ensued.

Ald. Pope said the intention was to put the lamp in front of Mr. Collip's store, but if that location proved unsatisfactory the Gas Company promised to move it at their own expense. In his opinion this Welsbach lamp would be quite as good as two 32-candle power incandescent electric lights, and the cost would only be $6, as against $10 for an electric light.

Ald. McFee did not think the Welsbach lamp would answer at all. They needed a light to light the alley way between the market square and the Post office. Bad characters congregated there, owing to the darkness. The verandah of the meat market was also another resort for bad characters. What they needed was a light which would illuminate the places mentioned. Nothing else would be satisfactory.

Ald. Pope said the Trenton Electric people would not furnish a light unless they were allowed to erect a pole on the market square. He thought the gas lamp would give satisfaction. It would burn till 12 o'clock.

Ald. Wills said the electric light proposed by Ald. McFee would be too high to light under the meat market verandah. The Gas Company offered to move the Welsbach lamp if the proposed location was not suitable. Let them put up the lamp as an experiment, then they could see how it worked. The city would save $4 per year on the light.

Ald. Panter was much opposed to the idea of a pole on the market square, though Ald. McFee seemed to think it was all right. The Trenton Electric people refused to put up a light unless they were allowed to erect a pole. The Gas Company offered to move the lamp till it did suit. He thought one Welsbach light, as they saw it once on the corner of Campbell St., was as good as two incandescent street electric lights.

Ald. Pope's motion carried.

The Waterworks.

Ald. Sulman moved the suspension of the rules in order to permit of the introduction of a motion appointing Ald. Pope, Wills and Galbraith a committee to look into the management of the Waterworks, and see if, in their opinion, the same could not be better managed by the Council than by a board as at present. In case the committee so reported, then a by-law to that effect to be submitted to the people.

The rules were suspended, and the motion introduced, Ald. Price seconding it.

Ald. Wills wanted the committee made larger by adding Ald. Chown and Price thereto.

Ald. Pope also wanted the gentlemen named added to the committee.

Ald. Sinclair spoke in support of the motion, though he had no cause for complaint against the present Water Commissioners. Still he thought the Council should get all the information it could on the subject and that was why he was going to support Ald. Sulman's motion.

The motion carried, the committee being instructed to present their report at the next regular meeting of the committees, namely, Nov. 14.

The Public Library.

Ald. Price said he had no motion to make in the matter, but he thought that, by the next committee meeting, the management of the Public Library should lay before them some data in regard to the expense connected with running that institution, etc.

The Mayor promised to see that the desired information was forthcoming.

The $30,000 Bonus Money.

Under the head of "Notices of Motion," Ald. McFee gave notice that at the next meeting he would move, seconded by Ald. Panter, that a by-law be prepared and submitted to the people, providing for the withdrawal of the $30,000 bonus money now lying in the Bank of Montreal, the same to be diverted to whatever legal uses the citizens desired.

That concluded the business, and the Council adjourned at 8:45.

ARRESTED IN TORONTO

CHIEF NEWTON'S ANTAGONIST EVIDENTLY A BAD EGG.

The Toronto World in its issue of Monday had the following item:

Policeman Stemman of No. 3 Division pounced upon Joseph Hannivan, a half-breed, early yesterday morning when he was in the act of breaking into the home of C. A. Pipon, at 41 Cecil street. Stemman noticed Hanivan and a pal prowling around the neighborhood about midnight and followed them around till they stopped in front of the Pipon dwelling. Hannivan agreed to watch while his pal went around to the rear and forced an entrance. He was sitting on the verandah, when the policeman grabbed him and put the handcuffs on him. Believing that he might possibly capture both men, Stemman handcuffed his man to the verandah post and then went in search of the other thief, but he could not be found. Hannivan is well known to the police, having been arrested on previous occasions for various offences.

The Hannivan referred to is the party who was arrested here by Chief Newton on August 7th last, and who made an attempt to use his revolver upon the Chief.

Cases in the Justice Shop.

A number of cases were brought before the Magistrate to-day.

Disorderly Conduct.

Two small boys, named Tracey and Stanley Belch, were charged with disorderly conduct on Emily street. It was proven that the boys had acted badly on several occasions. The case was enlarged in order to summon other boys who were concerned in the matter.

Liquor Case.

John McDermott, hotel-keeper at Plainfield, was charged with selling liquor to minors. It is alleged that the defendant, or some one in his employ, sold liquor recently to boys who visited the place. McDermott denied the charge. Case was dismissed. Mr. Anderson for Crown and Mr. Jas. Haverson, of Toronto, for the defendant.

Alleged Perjury.

George Wellman, who resides at "The Diamond," Township of Rawdon, was arraigned before the Magistrate this morning, charged with perjury. He pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by His Worship. It is alleged that the accused perjured himself in an examination for discovery before Mr. S. S. Lazier, Local Master. At the time he and a man named Wm. McComb had some trouble, a suit was pending and the examination was held for the purpose of finding out what the parties knew in the matter. The trial was in progress when we went to press. Mr. Anderson for Crown, Mr. A. A. McDonald for private prosecutor and Messrs. E. G. Porter and W. J. Moore for the accused.

Non Jury Sittings

The non-jury sittings of the High Court of Justice will open here on the 25th inst. Mr. Justice Street will be the presiding Judge.

HOCKEY.

Belleville Hockey Club is Off to a Good Start.

A largely attended meeting of those interested in hockey was held last evening, and from the spirit displayed it is evident that every effort will be made to have a team which will not only reflect credit upon the city, but will try their best to bring the championship here. It is to be called the Belleville Hockey Club. The officers elected were as follows:

Hon. President—Mr. H. Corby.
President—Ald. Sulman.
Vice-President—Mr. J. A. McFee.
Manager—Mr. H. Burrell.
Secretary—Mr. W. Burke.
Treasurer—Mr. W. B. Deacon.
Board of Management—Messrs. L. S. Marsh, W. D. Chisholm, F. Burrows, H. McGinnis and Dr. P. G. Goldsmith.

It was unanimously decided to enter a team in the intermediate series of the O.H.A.

No Canadian Ship

(Halifax Herald.)

Mr. Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, is to make his trip to South Africa in the cruiser "Good Hope." The Good Hope, it is explained, is the gift of the Cape Colony to the Empire on the occasion of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897. The vessel, which has just been completed, is of 14,100 tons burden. She is 500 feet in length, and her engines are of 3,000 horse power. They give her a speed of 21 knots. Mr. Chamberlain's voyage on her will be the occasion of her first visit to the Cape Colony.

Some people have been suggesting that Mr. Chamberlain should be invited to visit Canada, a suggestion that has much to commend it. But unfortunately, if he accepts the invitation, the admiralty will not be able to supply him with a cruiser or any other kind of a ship donated by Canada. Yet there are provinces in Canada better able to make such a gift than is Cape Colony.

Belleville Teachers Meet

The monthly meeting of the Belleville Teachers' Association was held October 31st, all the Public School teachers being present.

After a lengthy discussion on "Promotion Examinations," the following resolution was unanimously carried:

"That in the opinion of this association there should be but one promotion examination a year."

It was admitted by all present that more thorough work could be done if the pupils were kept a longer time in each class.

It was moved and carried that the chairman name a committee to meet the Committee of School Management to lay the resolution before them.

The members of the association are arranging to spend an evening with "Canadian Authors" during November.

L. CRAIG,
Secretary.

Does This Apply to Belleville

Kingston Times:—It is a law in this city that all young men of 21 years of age and over, who do not pay taxes as real estate owners, or as tenants, or on other kinds of property, shall do statute labor or pay for it in a money equivalent. The assessor, accordingly tabulates the names of all such young men, and mentions their obligation in each case when handing in his forms to the households. But there is no further attempt to collect the money for this statute labor. There are single men in Kingston for the past forty years, though receiving annually their bills for statute labor during twenty of these years, have never yet paid one cent. This neglect in collection results in a considerable loss to the city annually, and its expenditure on our streets would favorably affect their condition. Just why the small sums are not gathered in we do not know, but perhaps some in the City Buildings can inform the public.

The following ladies and gentlemen will take the principal parts in the production of "Box and Cox" and "The Loan of a Lover" at the Carman Opera House, Friday evening, Nov. 7th, in aid of the Public Library: Mrs. James Grant, Mrs. (Col.) Campbell, Miss Webster, Miss Julia Ponton and Messrs. J. J. B. Flint, S. Burrows, W. S. Morden, J. L. R. Gorman, B. Hudson, C. Patterson and V. Doyle.

Literary Notes

Wilshire's Magazine for November has interviews with three of the day's most talked-of men—John Mitchell, Mark Hanna and Tom Johnson. Charles Ferguson writes of The Death and Renaissance of the Democratic Party; Joel Benton contributes a Study of the Trusts, and Bernard Macfadden writes on the Development of Physical Strength.

"John Peel," the great English Hunting Song, with large chorus (in costume), will be given during the entertainment at the Carman opera house, Friday evening, Nov. 7th, in aid of the Public Library.

A SHIFTY AND UNSCRUPULOUS POLITICIAN.

Up to the hour of going to press Hon. Mr. Sifton had not sent in his resignation to the Premier, though he was guilty of the same act for which Mr. Tarte was hauled over the coals, namely, advocating a policy which had not yet been adopted by the Government. And, in regard to that remarkable affair, the more carefully one analyses Sir Wilfrid Laurier's letter of acceptance of Hon. J. Israel Tarte's resignation, the more one is convinced of the duplicity of the Government. Sir Wilfrid either lost his good judgment in the heat of the moment, or he looks upon Canadians as a pack of dupes. He informed Mr. Tarte that, "to remain a member of the Government and at the same time to advocate a policy which had not yet been adopted by the Government was an impediment to the proper working of our constitution." And mark you! the publication of the letter, of which this reprimand was a part, was intended to reassure the industrial interests of this country.

Was ever letter better calculated to produce the very opposite effect? Sir Wilfrid admits that the policy advocated by Mr. Tarte "had not yet been adopted" by the Government, and had one self-evident object in view—the issuance of a proclamation which would pledge the Government to nothing and at the same time serve as equally inviting bait to Free Traders and Protectionists. Sir Wilfrid, while abroad, evidently lost entire grasp of the feeling in Canada on the tariff question. It has taken six years for the people to awaken to the double-headed policy of the Liberal party, but one thing is certain, they are now fully aware of the hypocrisy practised in dealing with the tariff, and will demand a clear statement of the Government's intentions.

Sir Wilfrid, as yet, has done nothing to allay the general uneasiness existing in business circles. He has left himself, what he no doubt considered at the time, a useful back door. He states that the opinions of Mr. Tarte have "not yet" been endorsed, and the adoption of Free Trade or Protection would be equally consistent with such an announcement. But the game of "fooling the people" has lost its charm, and Sir Wilfrid insults Canadian intelligence by such childish subterfuge.

That is the view of the political situation entertained by business-men. If it is incorrect Sir Wilfrid doubtless said more than he intended to. The excitement attending the situation and the differences of opinion in the Cabinet may have driven him in his despair, to not only publish the letter with undue haste and in a manner highly discourteous to Mr. Tarte, but forced him to show the weakness of the Government's treatment of the greatest question before the Canadian public.

As it now stands the Liberal party offers nothing in the way of a fiscal policy. They have broken their Free Trade pledges and have not yet made amends for that public sin. They have repudiated Mr. Tarte, and by so doing have washed their hands of Protection. Neither course is satisfactory to a long-suffering people. And the worst of it is that there appears to be no immediate possibility of improvement. However, the Liberals are at last in a position where they must of necessity formulate a definite policy. That remarkable pronouncement will be eagerly awaited.

The Food System the Source of Life

ANY DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER OR KIDNEYS THAT INTERFERE WITH DIGESTION AND ASSIMILATION OF FOOD ROB AND DEPLETE THE BODY.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

It matters not how good your appetite, how you relish your food or how much you eat, so long as there is anything to interfere with proper digestion and assimilation of the food by the body, strength and vigor will gradually decline and weakness and debility take their place.

The most frequent cause of disordered digestion is sluggish action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. The whole alimentary canal, through which the food passes on its way through the body, becomes choked and clogged, and the system is poisoned and diseased.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been marvellously successful in exactly this class of disease, principally because they act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, regulating and invigorating their action, and restoring them to health.

Mrs. Owen Cummings, Deseronto, Ont., states: "I was in very poor health when I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had been a great sufferer from constipation and stomach trouble, and was weak and run-down in strength. I was gradually growing worse every day, and finally decided that I would have to do something. Hearing of many being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I began using them, and soon noticed a marked change for the better. I continued this treatment until I was cured of constipation and my stomach was restored to a healthy condition. It only took about three boxes of pills to entirely cure me."

IN TARTE'S PLACE.

Hon. James Sutherland to Be Minister of Public Works—Prefontaine to Be Minister of Marine.

Toronto (Globe Special), Nov. 4.—Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Hon. James Sutherland is to be given the portfolio of Public Works, and Raymond Prefontaine will be sworn in as member of the Privy Council as Minister of Marine. So far as can be gathered from present indications, these changes will take place in the Cabinet at an early date.

May Go to the Bench.

Mr. Brodeur, it would seem, does not want a place in the Cabinet. He prefers to remain Speaker of the House, for the present, at any rate, with the prospect ultimately of a position upon the bench. That Mr. Brodeur makes an ideal Speaker, all will admit. A high authority said this morning that the present Speaker was the best we had ever had in Canada. He is dignified, impartial and resolute, with a sweetness of temper which renders him irresistible. Of personal magnetism he has an abundance, and he is deservedly popular with both sides of the House. If it be true that Mr. Brodeur has no aspirations for the Cabinet, the Government will lose and the House of Commons will gain.

New Clerk of the House.

Mr. Brodeur's decision to remain Speaker, if he has so decided, is a fortunate occurrence, in view of the fact that the clerkship of the House is vacant, and an appointment will soon have to be made. With a Speaker and a clerk, both new to their duties, the coming session of Parliament might have witnessed some awkward blunders. With Mr. Brodeur still in the chair, Mr. Flint, member for Yarmouth, N. S., who is to succeed the late Sir John Bourinot as clerk of the House, will have a comparatively easy job before him.

The intention is to considerably enlarge the scope of the Marine and Fisheries Department, when Mr. Prefontaine takes hold, so that it will be nearly as important as Public Works.

MR. TARTE TO MR. BLAIR.

Wants to Know If Latter Is Within the Constitution.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—Hon. Mr. Tarte refers in La Patrie to-day to Hon. Mr. Blair's claim that a government railway should go right thru to the coast. "This," says La Patrie, "is of the greatest importance. Does the Minister of Railways speak on behalf of the government? Here is an enterprise that would cost $100,000,000. We have during the past four or five years spent about $25,000,000 on the I.C.R., and up to the present time financial results have not been up to our anticipations. It would be well, perhaps, since Mr. Blair had given us an outline of his plan to impart more details. What has he in view, and what route does he intend to follow? Will he utilize the Canada Atlantic, or will he take over the Mackenzie & Mann system? Mr. Tarte's name was struck off the books of those public men who respect the constitution because he thought he could speak of a suitable fiscal policy for Canada. Therefore it will be interesting to know their opinion of the Minister of Railways and Canals."

Hon. Mr. Tarte also has a second article condemning the Doukhobors and the government immigration policy generally.

Wireless Preferred to Cable.

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 4.—The Dominion Government cable steamer Tyrian left this port yesterday morning to lay a cable from Grosse Isle to Bryan Island, a distance of ten miles, and from Bryan Island to Anticosti, a distance of 110 miles. Government Engineer Keeley, who installed the wireless telegraphy station at Belle Isle, will have charge of laying the cable. He said yesterday that the Dominion Government's wireless station at Belle Isle was working perfectly and the system was so easy of operation that the operators used it in preference to the cable, which also connected the points linked by the Marconi system.

"I expect," said Mr. Keeley, "that all Government stations in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, thirty-five in number, will soon be equipped with the wireless telegraph system."

To Study River Bed.

Niagara, Falls, Nov. 4.—Two Berlin scientists, Prof. Herman G. Stoles and Adolph Mitski, accompanied by two New York scientists, have arrived at Niagara Falls, to study that portion of the Niagara River bed which, owing to the operations of the Canadian Power Company, is at present dry.

The Man Insulted by Astor.

London, Nov. 4.—Sir Archibald Beckley Milne, the Scottish baronet, whom William Waldorf Astor ordered from his house when the former went there with the Countess of Oxford, has been appointed naval aide-de-camp to the King. This is a much envied distinction conferred as a mark of personal favor.

Sir Sandford Congratulated.

Ottawa, Nov. 4. — Sir Sandford Fleming received a cablegram from the Earl of Jersey, who presided over the colonial conference in Ottawa in 1894, extending hearty congratulations upon the completion of the Pacific cable.

Sails For South Pole.

London, Nov. 4.—The auxiliary screw steamer Scotia left the Clyde yesterday for the Antarctic regions, with a number of members of the Scottish National Antarctic Association, under the leadership of William S. Bruce, of Edinburgh, on board.

AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE

Has it ever been your unhappy lot to be told by your physician that you must go to a hospital and submit to an operation? If so, you remember with what dread and shrinking you awaited the day when you must endure the knife. The present day surgeon appears to be possessed by a mania for operation, especially in cases of hemorrhoids or piles, and while the greater number of the profession do not recommend this "last resort," unless they honestly believe it necessary, the fact remains that much needless operating is done, and the patient put to much expense and suffering for what? To obtain a possible temporary relief; these words are used advisedly, because in nine cases out of ten the affliction returns and the patient is just where he started from. Oftentimes he could be cured much more simply and easily by the use of such a remedy as the Pyramid Pile Cure; this has come to be recognized as the best remedy on the market for the painful disease named, and the druggists now sell more of it than all other pile remedies combined. The writer personally knows people who were afflicted with the worst form of bleeding and protruding piles and who were permanently cured by the use of Pyramid Pile Cure. In every one of these cases the attending physician had assured the sufferer that only by an operation could he rid himself of the disease; so much for the infallibility of the doctors. This remedy, which is sold by all druggists at the low price of fifty cents, is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts affected, and performs its work quietly and painlessly. The Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., will mail free to any address a book telling all about piles or hemorrhoids, their cause and cure.

A suggestion is offered that if the reader is afflicted, or knows anyone who is, this book be sent for, as it will be found invaluable.

SHOT BY MORPHINE FIEND.

Walter Willis Puts a 32-Calibre Bullet Into Robert Adams' Vitals—Rossland, B.C., Shocked by the Event.

Rossland, B. C., Nov. 4.—The International Hotel was the scene of a serious shooting yesterday morning, when Walter Willis shot Robert Adams through the lungs and liver with a thirty-two calibre revolver.

The men had had trouble on various occasions, and the hard feeling engendered culminated yesterday morning when a dispute arose over a trifling sum of money.

Adams is in a critical condition, and Willis is under arrest, charged with attempting murder.

The prisoner is a morphine fiend in an advanced stage of the habit.

HAVE ENTERED MANITOBA.

The Main Body of the Marching Doukhobors at Binscarth.

Binscarth, Man., Nov. 4.—At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the Doukhobor wanderers were resting quietly one mile west of this point. They still keep up their custom of praying and chanting. They have no hesitation in accepting charity; in fact they are begging as they go along. Many were observed from the train picking over the stubble in search for stray ears of wheat. Last night was spent by the pilgrims a few miles east of Millwood. As they proceed they are becoming communicative, and are certainly bound for Winnipeg. Four mounted policemen are following closely in the rear.

To-day the women and children will be shipped on a special train of colonist coaches home from Yorkton to Swan River, thence to their villages. Agent Harley will accompany them. There may be some trouble in entraining them.

There was a very heavy snowfall throughout Manitoba last night, the first of the season. The snow will probably solve the Doukhobor problem, as the marching enthusiasts have predicted all along that sunny and bright weather would prevail until they reached Winnipeg.

TWO MEN SENTENCED.

Latest Scandal in England Hits Those Prominent in Society.

London, Nov. 4.—The excitement Sunday over the reported flight of a peer to the Continent was heightened yesterday by the announcement that a well-known London society man, Bernard Fraser, had been sentenced at the Norwich assizes, to ten years penal servitude. With him was also sentenced Arthur Thorold, the son of a clergyman, connected, as is Fraser, with one of the oldest and proudest families in the United Kingdom. The prisoners were charged with having carried on a regular practice to deprave the morals of youths all over the country. An array of prominent King's counsellors appeared on both sides, but the prisoners pleaded guilty of misdemeanors, apparently with the idea of getting off with light sentences.

Ties For Government Railway.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—The Temiskaming Railway Commission have awarded the contract for the supply of 175,000 ties to Thomas Wallace of North Bay. Dr. A. McMurchy of North Bay has been appointed physician during the construction of the first 60 miles of the line.

London, Nov. 4.—General Dewet, before starting for South Africa yesterday, said that he had been highly pleased with his reception in England and on the Continent, and considered King Edward one of the pleasantest men he ever met. He gratefully appreciated the sympathy shown for the suffering Boers by the multitudes he had met, and would always remember the kindness shown him. He intended to make South Africa his home, to be faithful to British allegiance, and to do what he could to better the condition of those whom the war had left helpless and destitute.

CANADIAN PREFERENCE N.G.

So Answered Mr. Chamberlain When Asked For Quid Pro Quo.

Sir Wilfrid Urged at the Colonial Conference That His Preferential Treatment of British Manufactures Merited a Substantial Return in Exemption of Canadian Exports of Food Products From New Duties.

London, Nov. 4.—The blue book on the Colonial Conference does not add much to what is already known. The resolution on the subject of preferential trade is the most interesting part of the report to America.

In that resolution the conference recognizes that preferential trade between the United Kingdom and the colonies would stimulate and facilitate commerce and strengthen the Empire; that in the present circumstances of the colonies it would not be practicable to adopt a general system of free trade; that with a view, however, to promoting an increase of trade within the Empire, it is desirable that those colonies which have not already adopted such a policy should, as far as their circumstances permit, give substantial preferential treatment to the products and manufactures of the United Kingdom.

Four Premiers urge an Imperial grant to colonial products and manufactures, giving preferential treatment in the United Kingdom by exemption from or reduction of duties.

Five Premiers present at the conference undertake to submit to their respective governments at the earliest opportunity a request that such measures be taken as may be necessary to give effect to the principle of this resolution.

A memorandum from the president of the Board of Trade shows that the premiers were prepared to recommend preferential treatment on British goods, as follows:

Canada—The existing preference of 33 1-3 per cent., and an additional preference on selected articles, by reducing the duties in favor of the United Kingdom, raising duties on foreign imports and placing duties on certain foreign imports now free.

New Zealand—Ten per cent. all round, reduction on present duties on British goods.

Cape Colony and Natal—Twenty-five per cent. preference on British goods.

Australia was not in a position to define the extent of the preference to be given.

Another resolution emphasizes the desirability of considering the refusal of the privileges of the coasting trade, including trade between the United Kingdom and the Colonies, and between the colonies, to countries wherein corresponding trade is carried in ships of their own nationality.

The conference also adopted resolutions advocating the use of the metric system; the reservation by the Government in future agreements; of the right to purchase cables, and the insertion in the new shipping agreements of provisions to prevent excessive freight charges or any preference in favor of foreigners.

The blue book shows, also, that owing to differences of opinion among the different colonies no decision was reached on the question of Imperial military defences. Secretary for War Brodrick, in a speech in which he urged the colonies to perfect their military forces, insisted that it would never do, in any future war, to count on having an enemy likely to enable Great Britain to make up during hostilities the deficiencies found at the start.

The radical attitude of the Canadian Ministers in favor of preferential trade was shown throughout the conference. The Canadians definitely urged upon Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, that, in consideration of the substantial preferences given by Canada to the products of Great Britain, Canadian exports of food products ought to be exempted from the duties imposed this year by Great Britain.

Mr. Chamberlain did not agree to this proposal; he said he did not believe that there would follow any material result to the trade of the United Kingdom on account of the granting of preferential trade by Canada, great as the Canadian Ministers claimed this trade to be, and he declined to agree to such a departure from the fiscal policy of the Empire.

One of the Canadian Ministers present at the recent colonial conference is credited with the statement that Mr. Chamberlain, himself, was in favor of an inter-Imperial preference, but had said: "One of the greatest sorrows I have had in my political career is that not another man in the Cabinet agrees with me in my Imperial hopes."

Act Will Stand.

London, Nov. 4.—In the House of Commons yesterday, in reply to a question from Sir John Long, member for Dundee, with regard to the removal of the restrictions on the importation of Canadian cattle, the Right Hon. W. R. Hanbury, president of the Board of Agriculture, said that the act of 1895 prohibited the importation of all cattle alike, and that he had no intention of proposing its repeal.

Montrealers Hit Millionaire.

Boston, Nov. 4.—Herbert Jaques, the Brookline clubman and millionaire, while playing on the Country Club team against a team from Montreal in Brookline Sunday afternoon was hit in the eye by a flying ball driven by a member of the opposing team. Mr. Jaques was stunned. Physicians were summond immediately and they despair of saving his sight.

His Appetite Forbids.

"Why don't you go to work?" demanded the man who had been asked for a dime.

"Why, that would increase my appetite," protested the beggar, "and I have a hard enough time looking after the one I have now."

THEY GOT FREE SEATS.

An Order That Was Promptly Honored at the Box Office.

Once when Nat Goodwin was playing in Chicago two men approached his manager, who was standing in the lobby of the theater, and introduced themselves as a couple of actors. Their names were entirely unknown to him, and they had nothing to show that they were what they claimed to be. Accordingly he refused to give them seats, but they were persistent. One of the men in particular was offensively so. He shook his fist under the manager's nose and demanded who it was that dared refuse him passes.

"I'll see Mr. Goodwin," he declared. "I'll see if a little whipper snapper like you can refuse me seats. You don't know who we are, eh? Well, who are you? Let's see your card. I'll see Mr. Goodwin about it."

The manager, who feared a scene, handed over one of his cards and told the men he was responsible and quite willing to take the consequences of refusing to give them seats.

A few minutes later the two men came back to the theater. One of them had written "Pass two" on the manager's card. He presented the card at the box office, and it was promptly honored. Then they went in.

When, half an hour later, the manager's attention was called to what had been done, he was at first inclined to take some severe action, but later he saw the joke on himself.

"Let them alone," he said. "If they've got nerve enough to do that, they are entitled to seats. You had better send an usher down and ask them if they wouldn't like a box."

Sam Jones to Reporters.

A prominent Baltimore physician tells in the Baltimore Sun the following anecdote about Sam Jones, the Georgia evangelist:

When several years ago Mr. Jones was at Emory Grove camp, the newspaper reports of his sermons caused him to complain.

At the last service he looked down at the reporters, who sat at a table just in front of the pulpit, and said:

"And I want to tell you fellows that I like you a lot in spite of your manifold faults. You boys don't treat me right, though. You take my sermons and pick out a piece here, a piece there and a piece somewhere else. Then you string the pieces together, and, naturally, they read funny.

"Now, suppose I reported the Bible that way! A man asks me what the Bible tells him to do. I read in one place, 'And Judas went out and hanged himself.' I turn over and read, 'Go thou and do likewise.' And in another place I find, 'And do it quickly.'

"Now, you see, boys, that sort of thing won't do. It ain't fair."

How a Great Surgeon Died.

While Bichat, the famous surgeon, was dying of typhoid fever he turned to an old colleague who was sitting beside his bed and said to him:

"My friend, I am lost, but it is some consolation to know that my case is very curious. During the last few days I have noticed some odd symptoms, and I am studying them carefully."

"Oh, you may recover yet," said the friend.

"That is impossible," replied Bichat, "and if it were not for one thing I would be quite willing to die."

"What is that?" asked the friend.

"I am exceedingly sorry," answered Bichat, "that I shall not have an opportunity to perform an autopsy on myself after my death, for I know that I would make some wonderful scientific discovery."

An hour later he was dead.

Hares That Swim.

I have many times seen hares, several of them at a time, cross a stream to feed on summer evenings and coolly return in the same way back to the woods, says a writer in London News. The act has been quite voluntary, but one thing I have noticed—they invariably sat up to see if they had time to cross before any surprise came. For instance, the movements of a person walking along a footpath in the distance would be watched with some anxiety before the plunge was made. I have also seen snakes swim across streams in the same way, apparently to bask on the sunny side.

Experienced.

"Mamma," she said, "what preacher do you think I ought to have marry Cecil and me? I feel as though Mr. Goodman is so young, and, not being married himself, he could hardly"—

"Oh, pshaw! Have Dr. Easleigh. I've had him for four of mine, and he always gave thorough satisfaction."

Showed What She Could Do.

Phoxy—I got a good square meal last night, the first in several weeks, and I have you to thank for it.

Friend—Me to thank? Well, that's news to me.

Phoxy—Yes, I know. I telephoned to my wife yesterday morning that you were coming out to dinner with me.

A Good Talker.

Clara—Is Mrs. Flitter a good conversationalist?

Dorothy—Yes, indeed. She makes you think of lots of good things to say, but talks so much that you don't get a chance to say them.

Compromise.

"Why should religion and science quarrel?"

"Why, indeed?"

"Why not say that man is descended from the monkey Eve made of Adam and let it go at that?"

Where Women Propose.

In the Ukraine, Russia, the woman does all the courting. When she falls in love with a man, she goes to his house and informs him of the state of her feelings. If he reciprocates, all is well, and the formal marriage is duly arranged. If, however, he is unwilling, she remains there, hoping to coax him to a better mind. The poor fellow cannot treat her with the least discourtesy, nor has he the consolation of being able to turn her out, as her friends in such a case would feel bound to avenge the insult. His remedy, therefore, if determined not to marry her, is to leave his home and stay away as long as she is in it. A similar practice to that in the Ukraine exists among the Zuni tribe of Indians. The woman does all the courting and also controls the situation after marriage. To her belong all the children, and descent, including inheritance, is also on her side.

Unique Venice.

Venice is unique and always as long as she exists will be unique. The city is built on 117 islands connected by between 350 and 400 bridges. There are streets, all very narrow except in the neighborhood of St. Mark's, but the gondola is the universal means of transportation. When you leave the station, you find the salt waves of the Grand canal lapping against the marble steps and gondolas drawn up against them like cabs and buses. If you wish to keep all the illusions you have cherished about Venice, enter it at sunset, at the full of the moon—on San Marco's night if the calendar permits—and depart before daybreak. Then you will retain in your mind a picture of the Venice of song, story and tradition—the ideal Venice.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The land area of Hawaii is 4,000,000 acres.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

A man should be careful not to afflict his wife, for God counts her tears.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excresences, as many have testified who have tried it.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Wedding rings in St. Klida used to be made of worsted.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Contentment may be better than wealth, but the most of us are compelled to jog along without either.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL AND THE PACIFIC CABLE.

(Mail and Empire.)

The barest justice requires that the labors of Sir Sandford Fleming in connection with the Pacific cable should be recorded now that the great project has been carried out. From him more than from any single person has come the persistent agitation, knowledge, and confidence which provided the impetus of the movement to build the cable. Nor would it be just to forget the services of Sir Mackenzie Bowell during the years that the question emerged from the arena of projected schemes, and became a practical undertaking. In 1893 Sir Mackenzie was sent on a mission to Australia to promote commerce, and a new cable between Canada and the Antipodes. The keynote of his advocacy of the latter project is expressed in a sentence addressed to one of the public men across the Pacific: "I look upon it as essential "to the success of any trade connections that may be formed between "the colonies and Canada." To his personal exertions, and to the favorable impression he created upon the Australian statesmen with whom he negotiated was due the Intercolonial Conference, which assembled at Ottawa in June, 1894. Sir Mackenzie Bowell was fittingly chosen president of that conference and performed his duties with dignity, capacity, and unselfish energy. He pressed the Pacific cable upon the delegates and promised to act as its friend and advocate, a promise he never forgot. It is characteristic of him that at no time did he attempt to claim all the credit for himself, and always bore cheerful testimony to Sir Sandford Fleming's labors. One of Sir Mackenzie's last official acts was to go to England in 1896 as a Canadian member (with Sir Donald Smith—Lord Strathcona) of the Imperial Committee appointed to draft a financial basis for the scheme. The start then made was wisely followed up by the present Canadian Government, until at last messages are flashed around the world by British cable routes. In the congratulations that are being exchanged the creditable part taken by Sir M. Bowell in the undertaking will be remembered by all who have followed the fortune of the cable from first to last.

WHAT ABOUT THAT FIRE?

The good people of this city have waited, with a very fair amount of patience, to see if anything was to be done in connection with the recent alleged incendiary fire in Moxam's second-hand store, on Front St., which occurred on the morning of October 30. It was reported on the street and in the papers that, to all appearances, a deliberate attempt had been made to burn the store and its contents, it being the alleged opinion of the firemen and experts who afterwards viewed the premises, that fire had broken out in three different places, at the front, in the centre, and at the back of the store. Without attempting to cast aspersions on anybody, it may fairly be pointed out that these are suspicious circumstances. What makes the matter worse is the fact that above the store were the living apartments of a married couple; on the other side was a boarding-house, and at the time of the discovery of the fire some eight or ten people were asleep upstairs. All the circumstances seem to point to an attempt at arson. Had the fire obtained good headway; which providentially it did not, there might have been the stain of murder on somebody's soul, for it is altogether likely there would have been loss of life before the tenants of the places mentioned could have been rescued.

The above facts are well known to our citizens. Now, what we would like to know is, what is being done about the matter? The Underwriters, in justice to themselves, should institute a thorough investigation. But the matter should not end there. The authorities should take this case up. There is no use mincing the matter. The lives of many people were jeopardized, as well as valuable property, in this, apparently, deliberate attempt at arson. Has the County Crown Attorney interested himself in this matter at all? Has anything been done beyond a few perfunctory enquiries on the part of the police? Surely this affair, in which large property interests and the precious lives of many people were endangered, is not to be passed by with a shrug of the shoulders! This case demands investigation. The public interest and welfare demands that no stone should be left unturned to bring the guilty parties to justice. We have policemen, and a County Crown Attorney. Surely there ought to be somebody to start the ball of justice rolling!

Since writing the above we learn that an insurance Inspector has visited the scene, and no doubt the public will await his official report with considerable interest.

TIMELY TOPICS.

In order to find out how much Christian charity they possessed, the pastor of a U.S. church gisguished himself as a tramp and went round to the houses of members of his congregation, asking food. In some of them he was charitably treated, while others shut the door in his face. Then he went and told his story in the pulpit. How would an experiment of that kind work in Belleville?

• • •

You can never tell what the City Council or a balky horse will do next, says the Stony Lonesome philosopher.

• • •

The proposed change in the system of managing the Waterworks is being briskly debated among a few of our citizens, though the majority as a rule are not growing wildly excited over it. Speaking to an Alderman in regard to the matter he expressed the opinion that The Intelligencer last night had put the case strongly from the point of view of somebody who did not want to see the change made. In the course of a few minutes conversation the other side of the matter was pretty forcibly set forth. As matters are at present constituted, the Alderman said, the Water Commissioners did the spending and the City Council the providing, a jug-handled arrangement, in the opinion of our Aldermanic friend. The Council thought that, as they had to find means to raise the money, they should be consulted before obligations were incurred. To this the Water Commissioners objected, and the result was that friction had arisen. Members of the Council thought that by having the business transacted by a Waterworks Committee of the City Council matters would be simplified, as then, knowing exactly what their obligations would be, they could better "cut according to their cloth." In order to abolish the Water Commissioners a by-law must be submitted to the people, which will probably be done in January if the Council decide on trying to bring about the change.

"Ratepayer" writes urging that the $30,000, when withdrawn, should be used for sewerage purposes. If we had sewerage, he says, many more people would take the water than do at present, as they could then run the water off, which they cannot do now. A sewerage system, put down on the frontage plan, would, our correspondent says, be a boon to Belleville.

• • •

The number of compliments the City Council are getting these days is surprising. "Whether they run again or not," said a citizen last night, "they will leave behind them a record of something done, anyhow, for they have wrestled with questions which, apparently, no other Council ever had the courage to take up. I hope to see the present Council hold office for at least another year, without change."

• • •

That petition presented to the Council last night is, of course, the first step towards the institution of a Public Library in Belleville. With the present library having a membership of about 900, there is no doubt that a Public Library, under the terms of the Act, would fill a need in this city.

• • •

It appears that, even should the Council submit a by-law to the people providing for the abolition of the Board of Water Commissioners, it could not come into effect till January, 1904, as it could not by any means be taken for granted that the by-law will carry, and the people will have to elect a new set of Water Commissioners on the same day they vote for the retention or abolition of the Board. This looks like legislating for posterity.

How would it be to abolish the City Council, and let the Mayor, Water Commissioners and Yankee Curtis run the city?

But they cannot imitate it.

and if they could do you want an imitation when you can have the original at no greater expense?

BORING A MAN

What a difference there is between modern methods of doing business and the old style, especially in the way custumers are handled when they get into a store. MERCHANTS USED to stand outside their door and PULL PEOPLE in, wether or no—turn a customer over to two or three slick-tongued salesmen, until he became exhausted and bought to get out alive or catch a train—badgered him from the moment he came in till he went away, and manifested a feverish anxiety to get hold of as much of his money as possible. That's the old way. NOW IN MOST STORES, you can look at what you please, as long as you please—you can buy if you please, and if you don't please, leave the store with a pleasant "call again" from the salesman. In all first-class stores any mistake is willingly rectified. To sum up, the difference is: The old method was all for the house—the new method is to please the customer.

We Won't Bore You !

We never did—never will; you're as free as the air here. We want your patronage—we appreciate it and show our appreciation by the most liberal business principles. Don't you think a house like ours deserves your trade? Try us. We think you will like our style.

"WILL I LIKE IT ?"

That is always the question. As you think over whether to buy, or not to buy a Brush, or Bottle of Perfume, or Sponge, or Fountain Syringe, or Toilet Article, you say over to yourself, "I wonder if that is what I want? Will I be satisfied with it, after I get it?"

When you are in doubt, just remember that if you trade at our store, and do not like what you have purchased, bring it back in good condition and we will exchange it, or refund the money. We want every customer SATISFIED with every purchase.

And the remarkable thing is that our customers are so well satisfied that we seldom have to refund the money. Come and see what a pleasant drug store ours is.

It is said that diamonds—especially the class known as "rose diamonds"—are likely to explode if subjected only to what would seem a very ordinary degree of heat, such as strong rays from the sun.

QUESTION ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co.'s.

All good things are as difficult of attainment as they are rare.

Do not worry thyself with the trouble of to-morrow; perhaps thou wilt have no to-morrow, and why shouldst thou trouble thyself about a world that is not thine?

CARE-LINED FACES

Are not always the sign of mental worry, for many a person goes silently along day in and day out, suffering almost beyond telling from bodily pain, and the only sign that betrays it is the care-lined face.

Stomach out of order? Indigestion with its cutting acids making every breath you draw a dagger pain? Dyspepsia gnawing to almost the point of distraction? Can't sleep? Nervous? You needn't suffer—South American Nervine puts "all things to rights," chases the seams from the brow, and instead of the care lines there'll be the glow of health. First bottle helps; a few bottles cure. 18

SHE WAS TOO GOOD.

One winter in the mountains of North Carolina I met old Lige Downs, a familiar character of those hills, trudging toward town with a bundle tied in a red bandanna slung over his stooped shoulders.

"Good morning, Uncle Lige," I said.

"Mawnin', missy," he replied, taking his hat from his kinked white crown.

"Are you going away?" I asked.

"Yessum," he answered, "yessum."

"Where's Aunt Hootie? Is she going too?"

"Nome; she ain't gwine wif me. I ain't no fittin' cump'ny fer dat woman nohow."

"Why, what's the matter?" I asked, amazed. "I always thought Hootie was the best wife in the world."

"Yessum; dat's what she shorely is. But a pore, mis'ble sinnah laik me kain't stan' so much goodness. Dat woman nevah did know de power of sin, an' de parson hisself kain't come up to huh for preachin'. De hull cabin shines wif glory, but me—I ain't nuffin' but a black spot."

"Why, Uncle Lige, you cannot leave your wife because she's good," I said. "That would be a strange cause for divorce."

"Deys lots of um does it, missy. I ain't no dejections to huh bein' good, but when anybody gits so good dat dey ain't got no feelin's for nobody, what dey wants is a cabin to dereselves."

The "black spot" moved down the sun flecked road toward other blacker spots that waited for him in the village.—Exchange.

Hawaii's Rippling Language.

The language of the Hawaiian Islands, as every one knows, abounds in vowels and therefore ripples deliciously in the mouth. It is only necessary to pronounce such names as Honolulu, Oahu, Kilauea, Hilo, Mauna Loa, Kamahamaha and Liliuokalani to discover this. A young Presbyterian clergyman of Brooklyn who visited the islands two or three years ago and prepared a lecture on them on his return declared that there was only one place on the islands which possessed a name lacking in euphony. That place was Spreckelsville. This euphony of the Hawaiian tongue was productive of one of the jokes of his lecture. The first time he gave it he remarked incidentally that he "took the steamer Wy-ally-ally to go to the town of Nawilly-willy." A laugh followed the remark, and thereafter he always included this phrase in his lecture. It invariably produced the same result when used.

Aggravatingly Peculiar.

Up in the mill district of Kensington it is the custom for employees to contribute so much per capita each week to a fund for providing soap, towels, ice water, shoe blacking, etc., one of the number in each mill being appointed to take charge of the purchasing and distributing of supplies. A young Celt has had this duty in one of the mills for some months. One evening after the whistle had blown for the stopping of work for the day a grimy machinist found a very damp and unlovely towel after he had reached the wash sink.

"Say, Reddy," he called to the custodian, "this is the limit to ask a man to wipe on."

"Don't yez be so airish!" retorted Reddy. "Fifty or sixty just as good as ye have wolped on it already, and yez is the first to complain."

A Historic Tree.

The oak tree under whose branches Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas held a political debate in 1858 is still standing in Bloomington, Ill. It appears to be centuries old. In 1858 the tree marked an inclosure then known as Henshaw's pasture, a former public meeting place. George Henshaw, the owner, was a Democrat. He arranged to have the debate there, being an admirer of Douglas. The two candidates for United States senator had engaged in a series of debates, and the one held in Bloomington attracted voters from far and near. A platform for the candidates was constructed directly under the boughs of this old oak. Its shade protected the audience as well as the speakers.

SHE HAD HER WAY.

The Story of a Tennis Racket and a Sarcastic Maiden.

She was a demure looking girl, young and slight, and her hair clung to her forehead in babyish little rings. In her hand she held a tennis racket. Three of the strings were "sprung."

She explained to the salesman in the big sporting goods house that the racket was an expensive one; that it had broken at the first trial; that the fact of its having done so had caused her much annoyance, as she had bought it for a birthday present. In conclusion she was here to return it.

The salesman noted the babyish curls, and, adopting the manner of a bored but rather good natured cat to an irresponsible kitten, he promised to have the racket restrung.

"But I don't want it restrung," said the girl. "I want a new one."

"Oh, but I can't give you a new one," said the clerk reprovingly. "This one has been used."

"Yes," said the girl meekly; "it has been used, and therein was my mistake. You see, I fancied I had bought a tennis racket and so described it to the recipient. He foolishly believed me and used it. Had we both known that your firm was charging $7 for papier mache souvenirs fashioned after the form of a racket, why, he would have put it upon his wall as a decoration. Yes," she continued politely; "I admit we erred in using it." And she smiled prettily.

Then she gave her address and walked out. The next day the firm sent a new racket

The Rainbow.

When a ray of sunlight falls on a raindrop, it is refracted; then part of the light is reflected from the internal surface and again refracted on leaving the drop. The white sunlight is not only refracted when it enters and leaves the drop, but dispersion also takes place. The eye sees bright circles of light for each kind of light, and since sunlight is made up of different kinds of homogeneous light we get a series of circular arcs, showing the spectrum colors, the red being outside and the other colors following in the order of descending wave length. The whole constitutes a primary rainbow. A secondary bow is sometimes seen outside the first. This is formed by the light being twice reflected inside the raindrops. The less refrangible rays are on the inner side. Rainbows due to still more internal reflections are too feeble to be observed. It is possible to get a white rainbow if the sun is clouded or if there is a mixture of raindrops of very different sizes.

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE

SYMPTOMS OF A VERY COMMON TROUBLE?

There is no disease so common in the United States as Catarrh, because it appears in so many forms and attacks so many different organs.

It is a common mistake to suppose that catarrh is confined to the nose and throat. Any inflammation of the mucous membrane wherever located, accompanied by abnormal secretions, is catarrh. Catarrh of stomach or bladder or intestines is nearly as common as nasal catarrh and much more serious, although it is true that stomach catarrh and catarrh of other internal organs is the result of neglected nasal catarrh.

A new remedy has recently appeared, which so far as tested seems to be remarkably effective in promptly curing catarrh, wherever located. The preparation is sold by druggists generally under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and in addition to being very palatable and convenient, possesses extraordinary merit, in many cases giving immediate relief from the coughing hawking and constant clearing of the throat and head, those symptoms with which everyone is familiar who has ever suffered from colds in the head and throat.

Catarrh is simply a continuation of these symptoms, until the trouble becomes chronic and grows gradually worse from year to year.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are composed of Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar antiseptics and catarrh specifics, from which it will be seen that no secret is made of the ingredients and also that no mineral poisons are used, as is the case with many well-known catarrh medicines.

For catarrh of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, for catarrh of stomach, intestines or bladder no preparation is so safe and gives such rapid and permanent results as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50c for full sized package. You can use them with assurance that you will not contract the cocaine or morphine habit as the results from this catarrh cure are apparent from the first day's use.

She Cornered Him.

The city editor was troubled, not to say angry.

"Hang it all," he exclaimed, as he read the letter addressed to his department, "my wife has been asking me that question for the last week, and I refused to be bothered"— He looked at the letter again and jumped out of his chair. "Thunder and guns," he cried, "it's her handwriting too! Now that she has learned the trick she'll make me settle every social, household and historical question that comes up, and I'll be right on hand to take the blame if I make a mistake."

For a long time he remained buried in thought. Then he resigned.—Brooklyn Eagle.

SHOWS SURPLUS OF $5,000

Postmaster-General Makes an Important Announcement.

Sir William Mulock Tells the Mulock Liberal Club in Toronto That the Postal Service of Canada, Despite the Reduction of Postage Rates to Two Cents, Pays Its Way—The Labor Problem.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—When Parliament next meets Sir William Mulock, Postmaster-Genera, will report that his department for the first time in the history of Canada is self-sustaining. Sir William apprised the members of the Mulock Club of this fact in the course of an address before them in St. George's Hall last night.

Sir William, after reviewing the history of the present administration, went into figures to show what increase had been made during the past six years in railway mileage and postal accommodation, and, in the course of his remarks, said:

A Prediction Fulfilled.

"In 1898, when applying for a reduction in postage, I prophesied a loss for the first year or two, but after that there would be a gain. During that time I have been the object of many criticisms. Sir Charles Tupper said I was guilty of wanton cruelty in making a reduction which would cause a deficit that would have to be made up by the farmers of the country. And now, to-night, gentlemen, I propose to give them an answer.

"Compare our financial results with those of 1896, when those financial geniuses of government were in command. In that year they had to ask the Government for $781,000 to pay the deficit of that year. When Parliament next meets I shall not have to ask for that amount, nor half of it, but, instead, I shall say to the representatives of the people in Parliament: Gentlemen, for the first time in the history of Canada, instead of having to report a deficit and asking Parliament to pay it, I will be glad to tell you that the Postoffice Department is on a self-sustaining basis. We have a surplus, not very large, true, but a surplus of $5,000. (Applause.) Now, sir, is there any man here in this room who says I was not warranted in my policy? Never again will the Tory party ever attack the Governement for reducing the postage." (Applause.)

The Labor Problem.

Sir William then spoke upon the question of labor. He stated that recent events in Pennsylvania had done much to make clearer the relations that exist between labor on the one hand and capital on the other.

Great as was the loss incident to that coal strike, it would not be without its good service in bringing out in bold relief the significance of at least some phases of the labor problem. One phase was harmonious relations between employer and employe, and the other the importance of the preservation of those harmonious relations. Not until all the awakening influences of that strike manifest themselves did public opinion arise and demand that there should be a settlement of the trouble. Why was not such a demand made before? Why was there any strike at all? Did violence settle anything? No, it was the public demand that did it.

Public Has Rights.

In matters of strikes, the question came in as to whether the public should not have a say in the operation of any public franchises being stopped. His opinion was that the public had. (Applause.)

He would urge them to study the question, so that when Parliament next met they would have an idea of what general opinion was on the subject. They had asked opinions, but he regretted to say that, while they received many criticisms of the present labor law as it stood, yet they did not receive any suggestions of a constructive character. Just how far the Government should go in the way of enacting legislation preventing the close of any public franchise, especially any interfering with chise, especially any interfering Rith the supply of the necessities of life to the public was certainly a matter for the public to consider. In the case of a dispute he believed the parties should be called upon to arbitrate, and, failing a settlement, then the Government should be empowered to appoint an impartial Board of Arbitrators, whose decision would have to be accepted.

SPAIN'S KING A REFORMER.

Frenchman Predicts For Him Historic Career—Parliament Orderly.

Madrid, Nov. 4.—M. Paul Deroulede has been interviewed by a reporter of The Madrid Heraldo, to whom he declared that notwithstanding his republican ideas he entertains a great admiration for the young King of Spain, who, he thinks, will be known in history as "The Reformer."

The idea of a Republic in Spain appears to M. Deroulede altogether out of the question, as the Republican party is divided into factions. He has recently been present at several meetings of the Senate and Chamber, and he expressed profound admiration for the dignified calm which pervades the Spanish parliamentary deliberations, and which is in such contrast to the noisiness and excitability of his compatriots.

Arbitrators Brought Together.

Paris, Nov. 4. —The Government succeeded yesterday in bringing together arbitrators representing the strikers and the mine owners of the Pas de Calais District, one of the chief centres of disorder. Five arbitrators for each side arrived yesterday and held their first meeting at the Ministry of Public Works. The discussion chiefly was as to wages.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"Let matters take their course for a while," she said, "and see how you feel after a little. We are going to Newport the first of August, and perhaps you may find somebody there infinitely superior to this Katy Lennox. That's your father's ring. He is earlier than usual to-night. I would not tell him yet, till you are more decided," and the lady went hastily out into the hall to meet her husband.

A moment more and the elder Cameron appeared—a short, square-built man, with a face seamed with lines of care and eyes much like Wilford's, save that the shaggy eyebrows gave them a different expression. He was very glad to see his son, though he merely shook his hand, asking what nonsense took him off around the Lakes with Mrs. Woodhull, and wondering if women were never happy unless they were chasing after fashion. The elder Cameron was evidently not of his wife's way of thinking, but she let him go on until he was through, and then, with the most unruffled mien, suggested that his dinner would be cold. He was accustomed to that and so he did not mind, but he hurried through his lonely meal to-night, for Wilford was home, and the father was always happier when he knew his son was in the house.

CHAPTER IV

Katy had waited very anxiously for a letter from Wilford, and as the weeks went by and nothing came, a shadow had fallen upon her spirits and the family missed something from her ringing laugh and frolicsome ways, while she herself wondered at the change which had come over everything. Even the light household duties she used to enjoy so much, were irksome to her, and she enjoyed nothing except going with Uncle Ephraim into the fields where she could sit alone while he worked near by, or to ride with Morris as she sometimes did when he made his round of calls. She was not as good as she used to be, she thought, and with a view of making herself better she took to teaching in Morris and Helen's Sunday School, greatly to the distress of Aunt Betsy, who groaned bitterly when both her nieces adopted the "Episcopal quirks," forsaking entirely the house where, Sunday after Sunday, her old-fashioned leghorn, with faded ribbon of green was seen, bending down in the humble worship which God so much approves. But teaching in Sunday School, taken by itself, could not make Katy better, and the old restlessness remained until the morning when, sitting on the grass beneath the apple-tree, she read that Wilford Cameron was coming; then everything was changed and Katy never forgot the brightness of that day when the robins sang so merrily above her head, and all nature seemed to sympathize with her joy. There was no shadow around her now, nothing but hopeful sunshine, and with a bounding step she sought out Helen to tell her the good news. Helen's first remark, however, was a chill upon her spirits.

"Wilford Cameron coming here? What will he think of us, we are so unlike him?"

Wilford's letter had been delayed so that the morrow was the day appointed for his coming, and never was there a busier afternoon at the farm-house than the one which followed the receipt of the letter. Everything not spotlessly clean before was made so now, Aunt Betsy, in her petticoat and short gown, going down upon her knees to scrub the back door-sill, as if the city guest were expected to notice that. On Aunt Hannah and Mrs. Lennox devolved the duty of preparing for the wants of the inner man, while Helen and Katy bent their energies to beautifying their home and making the most of their plain furniture.

The "spare bed room," kept for company, was only large enough to admit the high-post bed, a single chair, and the old-fashioned wash-stand, with the hole in the top for the bowl, and a drawer beneath for towels; and the two girls held a consultation as to whether it would not be better to dispense with the parlor altogether, and give that room to their visitor. But this was vetoed by Aunt Betsy, who, having finished the back door-sill, had now come round to the front, and with her scrubbing brush in one hand and her saucer of sand in the other, held forth upon the foolishness of the girls.

"Of course, if they had a beau, they'd want a t'other room, else where would they do their sparkin'?"

That settled it. The parlor must remain as it was, Katy said, and Aunt Betsy went on with her scouring, while Helen and Katy consulted together how to make the huge feather-bed more like the mattresses to which Wilford must be accustomed. Helen's mind being the more suggestive, solved the problem first, and a large comfortable was brought from the box in the garret and folded carefully over the bed, which, thus hardened and flattened, "seemed like a mattress," Katy said, for she tried it, feeling quite well satisfied with the room when it was finished. And certainly it was not uninviting with its strip of bright carpeting upon the floor, its vase of flowers upon the stand, and its white-fringed curtain sweeping back from the narrow window.

"I'd like to sleep here myself," was Katy's comment, while Helen offered no opinion, but followed her sister into the yard, where they were to sweep the grass and prune the early September flowers.

This afforded Aunt Betsy a chance to reconnoitre and criticise, which last she did unsparingly.

"What have them children been doin' to that bed? Put on a quilt, as I'm alive! It would break my back to lie there, and this Carmon is none of the youngest, accordin' to their tell; nigh onto thirty, if not turned. It will make his bones ache, of course. I am glad I know better than to treat visitors that way. The comforter may stay, but I'll be bound I'll make it softer!" And stealing up the stairs, Aunt Betsy brought down a second feather-bed, much lighter than the one already on, but still large enough to suggest the thought of smothering. This she had made herself, intending it as a part of Katy's "setting out," should she ever marry; and as things now seemed tending that way, it was only right, she thought, that Mr. Carmon, as she called him, should begin to have the benefit of it. Accordingly two beds, instead of one, were placed beneath the comfortable which Aunt Betsy permitted to remain.

"I'm mighty feared they'll find me out," she said, taking great pains in the making of her bed, and succeeding so well that when her task was done there was no perceptible difference between Helen's bed and her own except that the latter was a few inches higher than the former, and more nearly resembled a pincushion in shape.

There was but little chance for Aunt Betsy to be detected, for Helen, supposing the room to be in order, had dismissed it from her mind, and was training a rose over a frame, while Katy was on her way to Linwood in quest of various little things which Mrs. Lennox considered indispensable to the entertainment of a man like Wilford Cameron. Morris was out on his piazza, enjoying the fine prospect he had of the sun shining across the pond, on the Silverton hill, and just gilding the top of the little church nestled in the valley. At sight of Katy he rose and greeted her with the kind, brotherly manner now habitual with him, for he had learned to listen quite calmly while Katy talked to him, as she often did, of Wilford Cameron, never trying to conceal from him how anxious she was for some word of remembrance, and often asking if he thought Mr. Cameron would ever write to her. It was hard at first for Morris to listen, and harder still to keep back the passionate words of love trembling on his lips—to refrain from asking her to take him in Cameron's stead—him who had loved her so long. But Morris kept silence, and as the weeks went by there came insensibly into his heart a hope, or rather conviction, that Wilford Cameron had forgotten the little girl who might in time turn to him, gladdening his home just as she did every spot where her fairy footsteps trod. Morris did not fully know that he was hugging this fond dream until he felt the keen pang which cut like a dissector's knife as Katy, turning her bright, eager face up to him whispered softly: "He's coming to-morrow—he surely is; I have his letter to tell me so."

Morris could not see the sunshine upon the distant hills, although it lay there just as purple and warm as it had a moment before. There was an instant of darkness, in which the hills, the pond, the sun setting, and Katy seemed a great way off to Morris, trying so hard to be calm, and mentally asking for help to do so. But Katy's hat, which she swung in her hand, had become entangled in the vines encircling one of the pillars of the piazza, and so she did not notice him until all traces of his agitation were past, and he could talk with her concerning Wilford; then playfully lifting her basket he asked what she had come to get.

This was not the first time the great house had rendered a like service to the little house, and so Katy did not blush when she explained that her mother wanted Morris's forks, and salt-cellars, and spoons, and would he be kind enough to bring the caster over himself, and come to dinner to-morrow at two o'clock, and would he go for Mr. Cameron? The forks, and salt-cellars, and spoons, and caster were cheerfully promised, while Morris consented to go for the guest; and then Katy came to the rest of her errand, the part distasteful to her, inasmuch as it concerned Uncle Ephraim—honest, unsophisticated Uncle Ephraim, who would come to the table in his shirt sleeves! This was the burden of her grief—the one thing she dreaded most, because she knew how such an act was looked upon by Mr. Cameron, who, never having lived in the country a day in his life, except as he was either guest or traveler, could not make due allowance for these little departures from refinement, so obnoxious to people of his training.

"What is it, Katy?" Morris asked, as he saw how she hesitated, and guessed her errand was not all told.

"I hope you will not think me foolish or wicked," Katy began, her eyes filling with tears, as she felt that she might be doing Uncle Ephraim a wrong by admitting that in any way he could be improved. "I certainly love Uncle Ephraim dearly, and I do not mind his ways, but—but—Mr. Cameron may—that is, oh, Cousin Morris, did you ever notice how Uncle Ephraim will persist in coming to the table in his shirt sleeves?"

Burned in His Cabin.

Camp McKinley, B. C., Nov. 4.—The charred body of William Edwards was found yesterday morning in the ashes of his burned cabin on Whisky Hill, and near it the remains of his dog. It appears that Edwards and several others had been on a protracted spree for days. Some of his fellow revelers left him between 6 and 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. Later he obtained a bottle of whiskey from the hotel and the last seen of him he was making his way up the hill towards his cabin.

Why Uncle Was Dismissed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 4.—The dismissal from the Russian army of the Grand Duke Alexandrovitch, uncle of the Czar, which was officially announced Sunday, was due to his recent marriage to the Baroness Pistolkoff, who got a divorce from her husband in order to marry the Grand Duke. It is said that the Grand Duke has also been banished from the Russian court for ten years. He will settle at Cannes, France.

Steamer Badly Damaged.

In the Lehigh Valley.

Hazelton, Pa., Nov. 4.—The anthracite strike commission spent the entire day in the Lehigh Valley region, visiting one mine and several of the mining villages. While most of the commissioners were looking over the territory, Recorder Wright was kept busy on the train in attending to correspondence. Mr. Mitchell's statement was sent to all the companies.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Makes Permanent Cures

In Chronic and Complicated Cases of Rheumatism

IT GIVES NEW LIFE TO HELPLESS AND CRIPPLED MEN AND WOMEN.

Professor Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., has given to his profession a positive and permanent cure for all forms of rheumatism, now so common in the autumn season. To the rheumatic, this truth should prove encouraging and comforting. Men and women suffering intense agonies from a disease that frequently stiffens the joints, cripples the limbs and renders its victims helpless, can be restored to activity, vigor and health if Paine's Celery Compound be used for a few weeks. There is every reason why sufferers should pin their faith to this best of medicines. Your friends and neighbors have used it with success; the honest physician is prescribing it every day in cases where all other means have failed, and they are delighted with the grand results. It is your only hope; your safety and life depend upon its use. Mrs. M. McKillop, Campbellford, Ont., writes about her cure as follows:

"I was a sufferer from rheumatism for a long time and endured great pain. The cords in the palms of my hands were drawn up in knots, and I despaired of getting relief. After using Paine's Celery Compound, I have banished all my pains and troubles, and find myself strengthened in every way. I think Paine's Celery Compound is the best medicine in the world for rheumatism and all nervous complaints."

GERALD SIFTON ON TRIAL

Charged With Deliberately Beating His Father to Death.

A Jury Secured After 33 Men Had Been Called For Service—Crown Scores First Victory and Jury Will Visit the Scene of the Tragedy—R. C. Clute, K.C., Opened the Case For the Crown, Which Has Subpoenaed 51 Witnesses.

London, Nov. 4.—In the presence of a large crowd Gerald Sifton yesterday afternoon began his third fight for life. Many women were present, and the greatest interest was manifested in the man charged with deliberately beating his father to death in order to secure his small fortune. Judge Britton showed a disposition to hurry the case, and a jury was secured after 33 men had been called. Much progress was was made in spite of the fact that an adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock. The following are the jurymen: J. E. Thomas, Dougald Gillies, F. A. Ryan, Henry Rismele, W. J. Howlett, David Wood, George I. Stephensen, Robert Patterson, William Sutherland, Andrew Gardiner, William Ellwood, S. K. McRae.

This is a special term called for the purpose of disposing of this case.

The first mild clash came the moment the jury was sworn. The Crown representations desired to have an adjournment for the purpose of permitting the jury to visit the scene of the tragedy. The defense opposed the suggestions on the ground that the scene had changed much in two years and would not present the appearance that it did the day of the accident or murder. The court ordered the trial to proceed, and he would decide the motion later.

R. C. Clute, K.C., opened the case for the Crown. He reviewed the facts briefly and maintained that the Crown could establish a case of murder—a crime based upon Gerald Sifton's fear that his father was about to marry Mary McFarland, his servant, who would inherit the elder Sifton's property instead of Gerald. He went over the horrible details touching the sickening tragedy in which the old farmer lost his life, and concluded by explaining that the case was one both of circumstantial evidence and confession of one of the murderers.

The defence made no statement outlining the case.

Architect McBride, who drew plans of the scene of the murder, identified same. He was on the stand two hours explaining the dimensions of the barn in which Joseph Sifton met his death.

The trial previously required ten days. This time it is expected to consume seven days, or less.

The Crown has subpoenaed 51 witnesses, and the defence half as many. The two previous trials cost this County $10,000 each. The present hearing will add another $10,000 to the bill.

The jury will visit the scene of the crime the first thing this morning.

BRITISH OUTPOST RAIDED.

Rumored That Mad Mullah Moves Again—Britons Advance Nov. 27.

Aden, Arabia, Nov. 4.—It is rumored in native quarters that the Mullah has raided an advance British outpost, in the vicinity of Bohotle, Somaliland, capturing a large camel transport.

Col. Swayne has been recalled to England temporarily, where he will act as adviser to the Foreign Office. Gen. Manning has assumed command of the British Somaliland expedition.

Three thousand men will begin to advance against the Mullah about Nov. 27. This delay is due to the fact that Gen. Manning is dispensing with the Indian troops in the belief that the native levies are more effective.

Nova Scotia Women Killed.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—Miss Clare Morton, the laundress, employed at the McLean Asylum, who was assaulted on the grounds of the institution Saturday evening by an unknown person, is dead, and the police have no satisfactory clew by which to trace her assailant. She was unconscious from the time of the attack till she died. Miss Morton came from Nova Scotia, and had been employed at the hospital for three years.

Valandry took his sentence stoically.

Kingston Whig: A dastardly deed was committed as an excuse for a Hallowe'en joke on Friday night. THAT ARSON CASE ON THURSDAY LAST

Mr. Moxam Has no Doubt That Burglars Did it—Several Articles Missing.

Suspicious Circumstances—Keyhole Cut Away—Unused Window Raised.

Mr. George Moxam, proprietor of the second-hand store on Front St. which was discovered to be on fire on the morning of October 30, called on The Intelligencer this morning and asked to be allowed to make a statement, in view of the fact that, in these columns last night, the suspicious circumstances of the case were pointed out and an investigation demanded.

MR. MOXAM'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Moxam says that he left his store at 5.45 on Wednesday night, locking both doors as usual. The fire in the stove was out two hours before he left. The first intimation he had of the fire was on Thursday morning about 5.15 or 5.30, when George Frost, a member of the Fire Brigade, knocked at his dwelling-house door and told him his store had been on fire. He was in bed when Mr. Frost knocked, and went to the door with a lamp, said, "My God, you don't tell me so," then dressed and ran all the way to the store. On his arrival there he found no one guarding his property. the front doors, which had been broken open, having been only partially pulled to. He went in to Mr. Vandewaters' restaurant, next door, and asked if a policeman was not left to guard his property till he arrived. His reason for that was that he was surprised, as an old member of the Fire Brigade, to see that a practice which had always prevailed in former years, was not carried out in his case. Mr. Moxam says he thinks he should have been notified of the fire by the police, as any other Front St. merchant would have been, instead of which he only heard of it unofficially after it was over, through the good offices of a friend on the Fire Brigade. After breakfast he, in company with Mr. Parks, an insurance agent, examined the back part of his store, from the outside, and found that a window, which had never before been opened to his knowledge, and which had been securely fastened by a nail at the top, had been pushed up about four inches. They also examined the back door of the store, from the outside, and found that chips had been cut from around the keyhole, making it possible to insert the ends of pincers and seize the key, which was in the inner keyhole of the lock. These chips were picked up by Mr. Moxam, on the advice, he says, of Mr. Parks, and are now in his possession. While the fire was in progress the back door of the store was found unlocked by a lad who boards at Mr. Vandewaters', though Mr. Moxam is positive he locked it on Wednesday night.

In answer to the question "Did you miss anything from your stock?" Mr. Moxam said he did not take an inventory till after the Inspector's visit, but on looking over things yesterday afternoon he found that certain goods which he used to hang out daily in front of his store were not in the place where he is sure he put them on Wednesday night, and cannot be found. They could not have been burned, as the fire was not near where they had lain. The articles he misses are an Irish frieze overcoat, lined with brown corduroy; a lady's sealette coat, two men's under coats and two ladies' jackets. The jewellery in the window was undisturbed, and the watches which he had in stock were found undisturbed in the drawer in which he put them on Wednesday night, which drawer was so swollen with water that it had yesterday to be pried open.

Mr. Moxam thinks that the circumstances point to burglary and arson. He is satisfied, he says, that his place was set on fire, and hopes to see the fullest investigation. He can identify any of the goods stolen, and will pay a reasonable reward for their return. This, Mr. Moxam says, is a plain statement of the case so far as he is concerned, and if anybody knows more about the matter he would like to hear their story.

And there are plenty of other people in the same state of mind.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

My Dear Sir,—Will you permit me to say a word with regard to the entertainment to be given on Thursday Nov. 13, in aid of the Public Library scheme? Since the project was started many hundreds of our citizens have availed themselves of the privileges afforded by the Library. The citizens have shown how deeply interested they are in the scheme. The Library cannot be run without money. It is with the view of raising money to help on the Library that a number of ladies and gentlemen have given their time and abilities to the entertainment in question. Tickets have been placed within the reach of almost everyone and it is to be hoped that the opera house will be filled with an audience which will enjoy the double satisfaction of amusing themselves and helping on the Library fund.

I am yours,
J. J. B. FLINT.

SAILORS BADLY USED

DISPUTE OVER WAGES ENDS IN FIGHT ON A DOCK.

Oswego, N.Y., Nov. 4. — A dispute over sailors' wages among the men on the coal vessels in the harbor culminated in a lively fight in the dock at the North-Eastern elevator last night, in which William Nelson, of the schooner James G. Blaine, and Joseph Fox, of the schooner Oliver Mowat, were badly bruised. Fox lost two teeth and Nelson's eye was severely injured. The injured men went to police headquarters and Chief Doyle issued a warrant for "Slob" McGuire and "Irish Paddy." The police went down and searched several vessels, but the men were not found.

When the rush of coal came, the vesselmen could not get enough sailors. The prevailing wage was $1.75 per day. Now many of the men are demanding $2.25 per day, and it is said Fox and Nelson were attacked because they did not stand with the others for the raise.

Attacked by a Bull

Mr. John Gibson, who resides in the 8th concession of Thurlow, is the owner of a thoroughbred and valuable bull. This animal proved the other day that it was possessed of a fierce nature and whilst in this mood is dangerous to be loose. It attacked Mr. Gibson and the result was that he sustained painful injuries, consisting of serious contusions and flesh torn off his hands. His faithful dog came to the rescue and chewed a portion of the bull's tail off. Neighbors came and finally subdued the bull.

An Old Story Retold

Picton Gazette: A Belleville lady suspected that her husband was in the habit of kissing the hired girl and resolved to catch him in the act. Saturday night she saw him pass quietly into the kitchen. The hired girl was out and the kitchen dark. The jealous wife took a few matches in her hand, and, hastily placing a shawl over her head, as the hired girl often did, entered the back door, and immediately was seized and kissed and embraced in an ardent manner. With heart almost bursting, the wife prepared to administer a terrible rebuke to her faithless spouse, and, tearing herself away from his fond embrace, she struck a match and stood face to face with—the hired man.

ERNEST SMITH'S GUN WENT OFF ACCIDENTALLY

AND ERNEST WILL BE LUCKY IF THE DOCTORS DON'T CUT OFF HIS ARM AS A RESULT.

Through the premature discharge of a gun yesterday, Mr. Ernest Smith, whose home is in the village of Canifton, sustained painful and serious injuries. It appears that Smith and some companions on Monday left for the northern part of the county in search of game. Yesterday they were some miles north of Madoc when the accident occurred. In the vehicle in which they were riding were placed the guns, and Smith's was loaded. In taking it from the rig it in some manner exploded and Smith received the entire charge in the left arm above the elbow. The wound made was quite extensive, and as soon as possible he was driven to Madoc, where the injuries were attended to by local physicians. This morning the unfortunate man was brought to the city and removed to the hospital, where a thorough examination of the injury was made. It was thought that the wound was of such a nature as to render amputation of the arm necessary, but such is not the case, as the physicians have every hope of saving it.

Mr. Smith is an unmarried man, who is employed at Mr. Corby's distillery.

The Cap's Hard Siege

The many friends of Captain P. D. Ostrander, of Milford, well known here, will be pleased to know that he is slowly recovering from a recent painful operation at Toronto General Hospital. After suffering nine weeks from a fractured leg, it was found the bones had not united and in order to save the leg it was necessary to saw off the ends of the bones and wire them together. It is to be hoped there will be a better result this time.

FACTORIES BEING RUINED.

The Montmorency Cotton Company find themselves unable to pay a dividend this year, owing to the flooding of Canada with slaughter goods from the United States mills. The Montmorency factory has lost money and the company declares that a revision of the tariff is absolutely necessary, if they are to operate successfully. And the loss of the Canadian employer and employee has been the gain of their American opponents. Surely Canada has more interest in her own development than in that of outside manufactories across the border. It is poor satisfaction to our unemployed or the men who have interested themselves in our national growth to be told that "in the United States goods are being manufactured for sale in our natural markets." "Canada for Canadians" means that our factories must be protected, and the time for action has arrived.

WHY MR. TARTE HAD TO GET OUT

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, according to his own views as to what is proper under Constitutional Government, accepted Hon. J. Israel Tarte's resignation a year too late. In November, 1901, Mr. Tarte, speaking at the Manufacturers' banquet in Montreal, advocated the same policy that he has recently supported. He was then in the presence of Sir Wilfrid and Hon. W. S. Fielding, both of whom made speeches in which they promised nothing in the way of a revision of the tariff. Mr. Tarte never hesitated for a moment to tell the business men of the country that they should have "adequate protection." Mr. Tarte was not told to get out at that time, and the only rebuke he received was from Mr. Fielding, who declared that he would never address another assemblage at which the ex-Minister of Public Works was present. If Sir Wilfrid is possessed of all the backbone and statesmanship with which he has been credited of late, why did he not cut off Mr. Tarte a year ago? The "Constitutional" explanation is unsound. The reason for Mr. Tarte's removal is to be found in the jealousy of his former associates. Sir Wilfrid evinced an active interest in fiscal affairs only after five Ministers handed in their resignations and threatened to leave if Mr. Tarte wasn't called down. There is nothing to show that Sir Wilfrid cares any more for the constitution or the country than he ever did. "Power" is his ideal policy. Mr. Tarte's expulsion from the party seemed to be best suited to the retention to office, and so the victim was sacrificed. Sir Wilfrid quickly forgot his pledge of former days, "If Tarte goes, I go," when it served his purposes to do so.

Tweed, Nov. 5. — A man by the name of Thomas Kennedy of Franseville was brought in on a stretcher here last evening, having been shot through the leg by Thomas Palmater of the same place. They were out deer shooting. Palmater mistook Kennedy for a deer and fired, hitting Kennedy just below the thigh, the bullet coming out on the other side of the leg.

They noticed a flock of swans flying by and deceased went to get his rifle, which was standing against a plow, and, in pulling it over, the trigger caught on some part of it, discharging its contents into Martin's body, causing instantaneous death. The Food System the Source of Life

ANY DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER OR KIDNEYS THAT INTERFERE WITH DIGESTION AND ASSIMILATION OF FOOD ROB AND DEPLETE THE BODY.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

It matters not how good your appetite, how you relish your food or how much you eat, so long as there is anything to interfere with proper digestion and assimilation of the food by the body, strength and vigor will gradually decline and weakness and debility take their place.

The most frequent cause of disordered digestion is sluggish action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. The whole alimentary canal, through which the food passes on its way through the body, becomes choked and clogged, and the system is poisoned and diseased.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been marvellously successful in exactly this class of disease, principally because they act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, regulating and invigorating their action, and restoring them to health.

Mrs. Owen Cummings, Deseronto, Ont., states: "I was in very poor health when I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had been a great sufferer from constipation and stomach trouble, and was weak and run-down in strength. I was gradually growing worse every day, and finally decided that I would have to do something. Hearing of many being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I began using them, and soon noticed a marked change for the better. I continued this treatment until I was cured of constipation and my stomach was restored to a healthy condition. It only took about three boxes of pills to entirely cure me."

WALTER HERBERT'S STORY

The Hired Man Swears That Gerald Sifton Is a Murderer.

Says He Was Offered $1,000 to Cover Up Traces of the Crime—Confesses That He Struck the Old Man First, But That Gerald Sifton Finished the Awful Job With the Ax—Fierce Cross-Examination.

London, Nov. 5. — Gerald Sifton passed through the worst ordeal of his trial yesterday, when he listened to the story of his alleged confederate in his father's murder. Without exhibiting the slightest emotion, Walter Herbert recited the frightful details of old Joseph Sifton's cruel murder. For four hours Herbert was on the stand.

"I struck Mr. Sifton with an ax in a barn on his farm the morning of June 30, 1900," began the witness in a slow, deliberate undertone, which did not change during the details of the tragedy. "I did not kill him. I struck him once, and threw the ax down. Then Gerald grabbed the ax and beat his father's brains out. I was working for Gerald. He came to me that morning and said: 'Walt, the old man's got to be fixed to-day; he's going to marry Mary Macfarlane; come over with me to be a witness for me if any questions are asked; you won't have to do it.' We then went to his father's home. His wife was crying as we left his house. Gerald told him we would fix the hay loft for him, and asked him to come with us to the barn. He said he would come directly. Gerald picked up an ax, and we went to the barn and climbed in. Gerald knocked three boards off the end of the barn upstairs, and said he would pitch the old man through the hole when he had killed him and make it appear an accident. When we got inside the stable Gerald handed me the ax and said: 'Now you hit the old man on the head as he comes through the trap door; hit him hard.' I said no, that I would not. Gerald then said I must, that I should have $1,000 for doing it, and there would be no danger. I took the axe. The old man's head showed through the trap door. I raised the axe and hit him with the side, just over the ear. He slipped back and hung, head down, on the ladder, his feet caught on the ladder. 'Quick, get down and shove him up to me,' said Gerald. I got down and pushed the body up. Gerald grabbed him by the shoulders and guided him up on the floor. The body lay face down. Gerald picked up the axe and hit him on top of the head as hard as he could. Then he pulled him over to throw the body outside, where it would appear he had fallen. The old man struggled a little, and the son took up the axe and struck his father repeatedly on the head again. Then he said: 'There, I know he's dead now. I hit him all over the head.' Then he dragged the old man to the window and threw him out. The fall was about six feet. Then he told me to go outside and put the axe under his father's head, so it would look as if he had fallen on the axe and received the wounds. The body was doubled up and Gerald came outside and pulled it around. I put the axe under the head. Gerald put three bricks near, and, dipping his fingers in the blood that had run from his father's head, smeared it on the bricks and the axe. 'There, that will do,' he said. Then he wiped his fingers on some hay, and, stooping down, wiped a little blood from the blade of the axe, which had trickled down. Gerald had hit his father with the axe about 20 times, just as hard as he could. I hit him three times.

"We saw Mary Macfarlane coming toward the barn. I ran inside and got the governor's hat, which had fallen when I struck him, and threw it by his side. 'Go and meet Mary and tell her father has fallen out of the barn and nearly killed himself,' said Gerald, and I did so."

"What did Mary say?" asked the Crown.

An objection was made and sustained.

At the previous trial the man testified that Mary said: "You two did this."

This completed the chapter of sickening details.

Then the cross-examination, as severe as E. F. B. Johnston is capable of, commenced. The stolid witness was taken back, step by step, over his bloody story.

"Why did you confess this crime?"

"Because I thought Gerald Sifton was trying to lay it all on me, and I thought it would be safest for me to confess."

John Sinker, a neighbor of Joseph Sifton, testified that he was one of the first outsiders to reach the old man. He explained the location which tallied with Herbert's statement. He added little to the information. He said that both Walter Herbert and Gerald Sifton told him that the injured man had fallen from the hole in the barn and killed himself.

Alonso Decker, another neighbor, said he met Herbert near the house of Joseph Sifton that morning and told him Mr. Sifton had fallen from the barn and killed himself.

It is a curious situation that will develop if Gerald Sifton is acquitted. The Crown representative asserts that, as Walter Herbert has pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree, he will be sentenced to be hanged. But if Sifton is acquitted a jury will have decided that no murder was done; and the death was an accident. Thus the aspect will be presented of a man being sentenced to death for a crime to which he has confessed, but which a jury has decided was never committed.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

A CURE FOR ALL.

Not a Patent Cure-all, nor a Modern Miracle, but Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception, the manufacturers of patent medicines, as a rule, seem to think their medicines will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic, and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making any undue claims or false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They make but one claim for it, and that is, that for indigestion, and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a radical cure. They go no farther than this and any man or woman suffering from indigestion, chronic or nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial, will find that nothing is claimed for it, that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients acceptable to the weakest or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medical properties are such that it will digest whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach, no matter whether the stomach is in good working order or not. It rests the overworked organ and replenishes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, gives refreshing sleep and the blessings which always accompany a good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome food and take these Tablets at each meal, thus assisting and resting the stomach, which rapidly regains its proper digestive power, when the Tablets will be no longer required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply a condition in which some portion or portions of the nervous system are not properly nourished. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ in the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cts. per package.

DR. SNIDER IS UNSEATED.

North Norfolk's Conservative Member-Elect Is Now Out.

Simcoe, Nov. 5.—After a trial lasting only five minutes yesterday, Dr. F. S. Snider, Conservative member-elect for North Norfolk, was unseated. Two witnesses only were called. Henry Ladd swore that Edward Jarvis of Waterford gave him a railway ticket from Brantford to Waterford and return to vote. Edward Jarvis admitted this, and also that he gave tickets to four other voters.

The agency was admitted by Walter Cassels, K.C., for Dr. Snider. As the five charges proved had reduced the majority to eighteen, and as, after a careful analysis of the other charges, he could not hope to have the court hold that the saving clause would apply, he suggested that it would be in the interests of all parties that the seat be vacated.

Mr. W. R. Riddell, K. C., for the petitioner, accepted the suggestion, and the seat was declared vacant.

The sum of $15,000,000 is to be devoted to grants to Burghers, $10,000,000 to British sufferers by the war, and $15,000,000 is to be used for loans promised by the terms of surrender to aid in resettling the colonies.

Gave Him a Liquid Diet.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Eleven jurors in the Coroner's Court yesterday recommended the arrest of Miss Virginie Gobeille of St. Hubert street, as being criminally responsible for the death of Mr. Frederick Bell of Stanbridge. Miss Gobeille operated a private hospital designated as a sanatorium, and treated her patients upon the basis of liquid diet. Mr. Bell, who was 70 years of age, it is alleged, was starved to death.

THE SELLER ABROAD

A SERMON OF MANLY SYMPATHY WITH COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

ON SINNING AWAY FROM HOME

What the Ordinary Man Will Do When He Is in a Far Country—The Temptations and Dangers of the "Road" to Commercials — Queen Wilhelmina's Naive Observation to the Prince of Wales in This Connection.

Entered According to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1902, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Manly sympathy with a class peculiarly subject to hardships and temptations is manifested in this sermon by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage on the text Nehemiah xiii, 20, "So the sellers of all kind of ware lodged without Jerusalem once or twice."

President Harrison once sent forth a proclamation which aroused widespread interest. In it he announced that the claims of many Indian tribes had been bought up by the Government; therefore, by the power which was vested in him as chief executive of the United States, he would on April 22, 1889, open the central portion of Oklahoma to the American people. All the men and women who at that time entered the new country could stake themselves out a claim or a lot or a farm. On the appointed day thousands upon thousands of people assembled upon that borderland. Some sat upon fleet thoroughbreds, ready to make the race for the choicest lots in the cities which would within a few days spring up as if by magic and the streets of which were already laid out. Some came on foot. Those divested themselves of all superfluous clothing, so that they could run as swiftly as possible. When the signal was given by the pistol held in the cavalryman's hand, the great multitude broke into a run. The would be settlers rushed ahead so fast that within a few hours the whole land was taken possession of, and cities like Guthrie began to teem with life. Oklahoma, only ten years after it was first opened to the white man, had nearly 400,000 inhabitants.

But no sooner was Oklahoma settled and the little country stores set up than the wholesale merchants of New York and Philadelphia and Chicago and St. Louis began to send into this new territory another great army of invaders made up of the representatives of their different establishments. These modern crusaders have been aptly termed in the commercial traveler's parlance the "knights of the grip." Instead of riding a war charger, like the knights of olden time, they rode behind an "iron horse," which is called a locomotive. Instead of carrying a spear or a shield, they carried models or pictures, showing how the steel and iron had been melted into plows and reapers and spades and axes and hammers and saws. Instead of having mailed armor, they had pieces of cloth, which they carried as samples of clothing, which they wanted to sell to the storekeepers for the new farmers and their wives and children. There is not a town in the United States, no matter how small it may be or how newly established, which has escaped the weekly, if not daily, invasions of the commercial travelers.

In the scene of my text can be found almost an exact duplication of the invasion of the newly settled regions of Oklahoma by the knights of the grip. No sooner did Nehemiah, the governor, return from his Babylonish exile and rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, and make it a safe place in which to live than the commercial travelers of that day began to flock toward the Davidic capital to dispose of their goods. But there was one habit about many of these ancient commercial travelers which Nehemiah did not like. Some of them would persist in arriving at the city walls on the Sabbath day and trying to turn God's day of rest into a day of barter and gain. The governor, in order to stop the sin of Sabbath desecration, ordered that the city gates should be closed on the night before the Sabbath and not be opened again until the morning after the Sabbath no matter how much these ancient commercial travelers might want to get in and escape the dangers of being murdered by the robbers who nightly infested the surrounding hills. Thus we read the words of my text with a clearer interpretation. "So the sellers of all kind of ware lodged without Jerusalem once or twice."

The evil dangers threaten a commercial traveler's life when he is away from home. They try to ambush the seller of all kinds of ware when he is on the march; they strike at his heart in a time and in a place when he is apt to think he can sin with impunity, because no one will be the wiser, as he can cover up his tracks; they come to the knights of the grip in the insinuating and dangerous ways that evil temptations sometimes overthrow Christian people when they are traveling abroad. It is a well known fact that the average European travelers will commit sins in Paris or Vienna or Rome or Monte Carlo or Pekin or Calcutta that they would never dream of doing, if they were at home among their own friends and neighbors. The young Dutch Queen Wilhelmina illustrated this common tendency of the human race to be worse away from home than they are by their own fireside in the quaint and pointed answer which she gave to the Prince of Wales when visiting Queen Victoria some years ago. The then heir apparent to the English throne asked her what she was most impressed by in England. "It is to find that the English people are so refined and gentle and kind and religiously devout in their own homes," she replied. "One would never have guessed it from the specimens I have seen traveling in Holland."

An average man can commit as a rule twenty sins away from home, when he is traveling alone, in a railroad train, or stopping alone in a hotel, or living alone with strangers, far more easily, with less risk of injury to his position and reputation, than one sin when he is being watched by his employer's eyes or when he is in daily companionship with a Christian mother, wife or child. It makes an immense amount of difference how a locomotive will act when it is on the down grade whether or no the engineer has perfect control over its powerful Westinghouse brakes. It makes an immense amount of difference with some of us when we are heading toward the open drawbridges of sin whether or no we have our loved ones near by, who are ready to reach out their hands to help us close the throttles and apply the spiritual brakes, so that we can halt before we have gone too far and it is too late to try to stop.

But though the swift moving currents of daily influences in a commercial traveler's life are apt to flow in the wrong direction when he is away from home, yet that is no valid excuse for his yielding to temptation. In the first place, God has distinctly declared that he will never allow any temptation to come nigh us which is greater than we can bear, if we will only throw ourselves upon his mercy and plead and continue to plead for divine strength. Mighty as are the temptations the commercial traveler meets with he is away from home, the divine power which is at his disposal is infinitely stronger. It can triumph over every opposing force.

But there is still another reason why the commercial traveler should not yield to the temptations which he meets away from home. The modern knight of the grip is naturally a stronger man, mentally, morally and physically than the average man who is compelled to stay at home and work. It takes brains, and lots of brains, to be able to sell goods away from home. The time is past when the great merchants think that any drunken, gambling, blaspheming employe is good enough to go upon the road. The employers to-day demand that their commercial travelers be men of character, of brain, men with the moral stamina to say yes and no. And, young man, the mere fact that you are a commercial traveler is proof positive that you have character enough, by the grace of God, to be able to resist any temptation which you may meet in your travels.

Temptations assail the commercial traveler alike when he is buoyed up with great success and when he is discouraged by great financial depression, when he is thrown off his guard by exultation or disheartened by a long succession of bitter disappointments. Many commercial travelers do not receive a regular salary. They work on commissions. The more goods they sell the more money they receive. The less goods they dispose of the less income they have. The average commercial traveler's income is apt to ebb and flow like the tides. In one town the knight of the grip may sell thousands of dollars' worth of goods. In every store he enters he finds a large purchaser. In another town he may not even meet expenses. Then, when the average commercial traveler has what he calls a run of luck, he is apt to be unduly elated, and that elation is often the means Satan uses to trip him up and hurl him over the precipice of sin. Or, he has what is called a run of bad luck. He may go on, week after week, and find that a rival, who represents a firm carrying the same line of goods may have preceded him and swept his district clean. That discouragement may also be the means of driving him into the quicksands of sin. The imminent danger of exultation and disappointment are the Charybdis and the Scylla which every commercial traveler has to face.

Dangers threaten a modern commercial traveler's life because his mind is often beclouded on account of physical debilitation. To be a really successful commercial traveler a young man ought to have a physical constitution of iron. He ought to have the same kind of bone and muscle and sinew which made the knights of old famous. He ought to be able to digest any kind of food, sleep in hard or soft beds, sleep on a hall lounge or on a chair, or lying upon the bare wooden seat of the caboose of a freight train. He ought to be able to assimilate irregular meals, and have his nightly rest broken up once or twice, and sometimes even thrice, by the changing of cars, and yet be cheerful and happy and sell his goods just the same during the day. Alas, I well know what are the physical difficulties of a traveler's life! For many years I have, off and on, traveled around the country as a lecturer. I have had to suffer all these trials, and have met and talked with the knights of the grip in many a lonely station in the midnight hour while waiting for a belated railroad connection.

But, even under the very brightest of conditions and even though a man's backbone may seem to be made of steel, nature will assert itself. A commercial traveler must always pay the price and have his physical frame rebel at the hardships which it has been made to suffer, and so during those times of physical exhaustion a commercial traveler, on account of the physical becloudment of his mind, is often apt to take a depressed view of life. He is apt to often lose his faith in God and in his fellow men and to feel that his own life is not worth the living and that he is but of little use to his fellow man. My brother, I want you, if you are a commercial traveler and a stranger who have just by chance dropped into this church, to know and feel that your life is worth living. God does love you. Your dear ones are dependent upon you. It is of infinite importance whether you do right or wrong. You must not let your belief in God falter when you need a physician and a dose of medicine and a good rest; you must not let the hand of Satan touch you and lead you into the paths of sin when your head aches and your digestive organs refuse to do their proper work. One of the greatest generals of the ages was defeated in battle and driven into exile because the night before the battle opened he was writhing in physical torture produced by a sudden and violent attack of dyspepsia. Many a commercial traveler has been defeated in life's spiritual battle because his health has become undermined and undertoned. Oh, ye knights of the grip be very careful of your physical health, for your spiritual happiness and faithfulness may be destroyed through your physical debilities.

Dangers threaten a modern commercial traveler also unless he rigidly fulfills his religious duties and spiritually employs himself on the Lord's day. It is very easy when Sabbath morning comes, in a little town where the commercial traveler has to spend his Sunday, for him to say to himself: "Well, I guess I will not go to church to-day. I will stay in my room and read the morning newspaper or write some letters." It is very seductive after a hard week's work for the commercial traveler to go to bed Saturday night with the intention of staying there until half-past 10 o'clock the next morning and then, in order to save time, to break the Lord's day and take the Sunday train for the next town. Or, if a commercial traveler is spending Sunday in a large city, it is very easy for him to go and hear the different popular preachers in the same way that, out of curiosity, he might go to see the great tragedians act the part of a "Hamlet" or an "Othello," a "Richelieu" or a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Though all those attractions may be very fascinating, yet, my friend, you must remember that the true worship of God does not consist in the mere satisfying of our intellectual curiosity or in lying in bed on the Sabbath day, but in work, hard, conscientious work, for the Master. The old adage tells us that "Satan has to hunt the busy man, but the indolent man hunts the devil." Therefore, my brother, the easiest way to overcome the temptations which beset the commercial traveler during the long, lonely hours of the Sabbath day is to worship God while away from home in the same way you would, or rather ought to do, if you were at home.

This expectation, my young friend, might be all right if it were true, but, as a rule, it is not true. Generally a sinful young man means a sinful middle age. A sinful middle age means a sinful old age, if the human body is not destroyed by sin before the three-score years have been lived out. The sins of youth will generally follow a man and curse his whole after life. Oh, my young friends who spend most of your life upon the road, I beg of you to seek divine help and pray and continue to pray that you may overcome the daily temptations of the commercial traveler's life.

I would plead with each one of you to consecrate yourself to the Divine Master's service, so that you may overcome the besetting sins of a life away from home. You are not at heart a bad man. You have many tender ties which ought to bind you to a life of purity and truth. In all probability you have the same kind of home ties as had the commercial traveler I once met upon the road. It was during a long, tiresome journey. Toward the evening hour, as it gradually began to darken, I closed my book and began to think about the mother of my children and the little babies at home. I said to myself, "Yes, the little white nightgowns are now about to be put on; yes, I can almost hear them say, 'God bless papa and mamma!'" Then, looking across the aisle, I saw a young man about my own age open his satchel. He took out of that satchel a little paper package. He began to unfasten the cord. Then he exposed to view three or four photographs and began to look long and earnestly at them. I crossed the aisle. Putting my hand upon the young man's shoulder, I said, "Well, old fellow, I have a wife and some babies too." "Have you?" he answered as his face lighted up with a smile. "Would you like to see mine?" Then we talked about home. Then his eyes became moist when he laughingly and yet pathetically said: "Let me show you a letter I received this morning from my baby." He held up an old crumpled brown piece of paper, over which a little child's chubby finger had scrawled a lot of hieroglyphics, which writing looked like a lot of hen tracks in a barnyard. Then I turned and said, "You ought to be a good man with such a family of little ones." "Yes," he answered; "I know I should, and, do you know, I feel that if it was not for my lovely, consecrated home and my wife's prayers and the thought that my little children are every night praying for me I might yield to the many temptations of a commercial traveler's life. But every time I start to do wrong my little children's arms seem to cling about my neck as they cry: 'Don't papa. For your dear little babies' sake, don't sin.'"

And so in that evening hour, as the train was speeding toward my destination for lecturing, I felt as I feel now. I felt that, though the average commercial traveler has many sins besetting him, yet he is armored and helmeted from the attacks of temptations by his absent loved ones' prayers. The average commercial traveler ought to be true to his gospel faith when God has given to him a lovely, consecrated Christian home. Oh, ye knights of the grip, will you be true to the Christ who is pleading with you to-day to bow at his feet? Will you be true to Jesus on account of the prayers of your loved ones even if your conscience tells you that no prayer is so appropriate for you as that of the publican, which you can utter in your own behalf?

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AW— A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickeason, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

A man should be careful not to afflict his wife, for God counts her tears.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excresences, as many have testified who have tried it.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. A Great Stock of Overcoats

We carry a great stock of overcoats and are satisfied with every one of them, and hope each one will find a particular man for an owner. It is not much to our advantage to sell overcoats to men who think "anything will do."

WORK COSTS MONEY

We have had a lot of conscientious work put into collars and lapels, where not a stitch shows. This work costs money and its goodness shows in the enduring good shape of the coat. It is worth while and worth money to be particular in buying clothes.

Our well tailored overcoats at $8, $10, $12 and $15 are equal to anything the tailor can produce at double the price.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Readers of last night's Intelligencer will have noted that at the last meeting of the Belleville Teachers' Association the following resolution was passed:

" That in the opinion of this Association there should be but one promotion examination a year."

The teachers also appointed a Committee to wait on the School Management Committee of the Board of Education, to try and persuade those grave and reverend seigniors to adopt the views of the pedagogues.

• • •

The Intelligencer has made a few inquiries in connection with this matter, and finds that in many other places, among them the school districts surrounding Belleville, the practice suggested by the local teachers has been adopted, with satisfactory results. The contention of the teachers, we understand, is that there should be but one yearly promotion examination, namely, in Midsummer. The Christmas examination, they say, is a delusion and a snare, resulting in a system of "cramming" which is demoralizing to the schools and harmful to the scholars. It militates against that thoroughness which should be at the bottom of all education, and without which the brightest boy or girl will be a walking exemplification of the old adage, "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

• • •

It would appear to the lay mind, inasmuch as the teachers are unanimous on this point, that with all this expert testimony before them the members of the Board of Education could hardly refuse to bring about the proposed change. It was stated at a meeting of the Board not long ago, at which the writer was present, that Belleville's system of education was behind the times. Perhaps if the gentlemen who look after our educational interests would condescend to occasionally ask the teachers for their views in connection with the application of the curriculum there might be an advance in local educational affairs. Because a man has property qualifications in a certain ward, or because he has children attending a certain school is no sure sign that he has stripped the tree of knowledge in regard to educational affairs. In other places the opinions of the teachers considered are of some weight in connection with the matter of local application. They should be every where, but we have never heard, to use a slang phrase, that they "cut much ice" in Belleville. Let us hope the first attempt of the local teachers to assert themselves and improve matters will meet with the success it deserves.

• • •

What is all this talk about wire-pulling in connection with the Waterworks? We did not know anybody but the Trenton Electric light people used wires in their business.

• • •

"The opinion appears to be pretty nearly general," said a citizen this morning, "that the present Council should remain in office for at least another year. They have certain schemes under way which they should complete before retiring from office. Naturally, the Council did not please everybody—even the preachers can't do that—but they have shown themselves to be energetic, fearless and economical, qualities very necessary in a body which looks after the City's interests. I hope to see the present Council elected by acclamation."

• • •

The Intelligencer has received many encomiums on its article last night calling on the authorities to investigate the recent alleged attempt at arson. "I was very glad indeed," said one prominent gentleman, "to see your paper take that matter up. I agree with you that common prudence, the instinct of self-preservation, the first law of nature, demand that nothing should be left undone to get at the bottom of that case. The matter should be investigated, and investigated fully."

• • •

Talking to one of the most prominent members of the Council recently, he made the following enigmatical remark: "Well, whatever the Council has done this year has been done entirely without the assistance of any of the City's paid servants, who, instead of helping us, have lost no opportunity to throw impediments in our way. That kind of thing, you know, cannot go on forever." Now, we wonder what he meant by that!

• • •

This is the Fifth of November, and Canadian Grits, if they had their way, would burn that terrible man Guy Fawkes Tarte, in effigy.

• • •

The Grit papers are cackling because Mulock has an alleged surplus of $5000 in the Post Office department. Nearly anybody could have a surplus if he paid his employes starvation wages, and doubled the rates on press correspondence, as Mulock has done recently. It now costs as much to send a sheet of printers' copy from Shannonville to Belleville as it does to send a letter from Belleville to Australia, and that is one of Mulock's "improvements to the service." Perhaps, now that Sir I William has a surplus, he may be able to afford 30 cents a week more for the local post office, and give us a decent service, and perhaps, too, in the course of a couple of years, he may be able to pay back to the Treasury that $10,000 he got for a free trip to Australia, for which the country got no returns beyond the fact that Mulock got his whiskers pulled in a squabble on an ocean steamer and was buncoed in London.

• • •

Rev. Mr. Forneri, formerly of this city, now of Merickville, evidently has little respect for the so-called "higher criticism." In a recent sermon he is reported as saying:

"The reverence of the critics is just that of the traitor Judas with his 'Hail, Master,' and respectful kiss, but immediately behind him came the soldiers and the rabble that were to crucify. The reverent and devout critics are closely followed by the illiterate rabble and the blaspheming infidels. Honesty is not a strong feature in the higher critic's character, particularly if the criticisms on God's word be at all mixed with bread and butter."

• • •

CLERICAL WIT.

(Exchange.)

Bishop John H. Vincent, of Buffalo, one of the Chautauqua circle, was introducing Dr. Henson, of Chicago, Ill., who was to deliver a lecture to the Chautauqua audience on Fools. The introduction was after this fashion: "Ladies and gentlemen, the lecture to be delivered to-night is upon Fools, by one"—here Bishop Vincent was attacked by a violent fit of coughing and when he received his breath concluded—"by one of the most noted divines of Chicago."

The "noted divine" rose in some apparent embarrassment and responded: "Ladies and gentlemen, I am not so much of a fool as Dr. Vincent"—there he was apparently overcome by a spell of coughing, and several seconds elapsed before he ended—"as Dr. Vincent would have you believe."

A Man of Missions.

Dr. F. H. Stephenson, of Toronto, is in the city to-day. Dr. Stephenson was twice a resident here while a student at the Ontario Business College and subsequently at Albert College. Since then he has taken his degree in medicine. He is now "the "head and front" of the "Forward Missionary movement" in Methodism and has become, perhaps, the most useful man along advanced lines in the Methodist Church.

Masonic Matters.

Bro. Colden, of Picton, Grand Superintendent of the Prince Edward districts of Masonic Chapters, last evening paid an official visit to Moira Chapter, No. 7. A large number of the brethren were in attendance. At the conclusion of the lodge work, a banquet was held, presided over by Bro. Rev. D. F. Bogert. A very pleasant time was spent in listening to addresses and songs.

BOYS' HANDSOME OVERCOATS.

Most certainly the Oak Hall are showing a swell lot of boys' full back overcoats, both plain and with the yoke. The prices run $5, $6, $7 and $8, according to size and quality. These coats are fast sellers with us and we advise an early selection. We also have a full assortment of boys' reefer jackets.

The Veterans' Friend.

Colonel McMillan, of Toronto, is in the city to-day, a guest of the Hotel Quinte. Very largely owing to the efforts of Col. McMillan, the veterans of 1866 had their medals awarded to them by the Dominion Government and the grants of land from the Ontario Government.

Surprise Party

A number of young people from the city last evening drove out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thrasher, 5th concession of Thurlow, and took their host and hostess by surprise. The evening was spent in games, etc., and proved thoroughly enjoyable to those who participated.

THE FAMOUS SHOE FOR WOMEN

"IMITATIONS"

When every store is selling a so-called "SHOE FOR WOMEN" it does not mean that they have a demand for such a shoe from their customers.

It means simply that they realize the enormous success of the "QUEEN QUALITY" Shoe and want to imitate it.

But they cannot imitate it.

and if they could do you want an imitation when you can have the original at no greater expense?

It is a fact that most of the styles of shoes sold in the stores originate on "Queen Quality."

Remember that no imitation is ever as good as the original.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards, the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The Tweed, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

SHE HAD THOUGHT OF IT.

(New York Tribune.)

Many a wife has been unable to bear the thought that if she should die her husband might marry again. When the wife of Bishop Kinsolving of Brazil, lay ill a neighbor broached this subject to her—an act at once tactful and consoling.

"You know, Mrs. Kinsolving," said she, "the Bishop is still a young man and very attractive. Have you ever thought that if you should die he might marry again?"

"Why yes, I've thought of it," the invalid replied, indifferently.

"How can you bear it so easily?" the comforter exclaimed.

"Why, when I'm up in heaven with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob," Mrs. Kinsolving replied, with fine scorn, "do you suppose I shall care with whom my quondam husband is running around on earth?"

Rube Came Back

Deseronto Tribune: J. C. Howell was agreeably surprised on Sunday morning, when his brother, Reuben S. Howell, of Sanborn, Iowa, walked in on him unannounced and unexpected. Twenty years ago Reuben Howell left Ameliasburgh with a total capital of $500 to try his fortune in the west. He went as far as Iowa, invested in a farm and is now the owner of a fine ranch, and is a wealthy man. Mr. Howell has never visited Deseronto in the two decades since he went west, and is naturally surprised at the growth of the town. He says that when he went away there were but few houses, and that Mill Point (as the village was then known) gave no evidence of future prosperity. Mr. Howell is enthusiastic when talking of Iowa, claiming that it is an ideal place to live. The land there is all taken up, and villages are growing into towns and cities with astounding rapidity. Mr. Howell is accompanied by his granddaughter, Miss Jennie McGee. They intend making a considerable stay in the East before returning to the "wild and woolly west."

QUESTION ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness, Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co.'s.

DOUKHOBORS IN SNOWSTORM.

Pilgrims on March Seek Shelter in Bush at Stoney Creek.

Fort Warren, Nov. 5. — Although the Doukhobors have said there would be no winter while they were on their life-long journey, snow fell heavily Monday night. The pilgrims' condition is now said to be pitiful. The main body, some 450, are huddled in a willow scrub at the bottom of Stoney Creek. Fires have been lighted. Dry oatmeal is the staple article of diet with the pilgrims. Monday they had their mid-day meal at Binscarth. The donations of food made by citizens were distributed by several men. The whole concourse stood reverently bareheaded and bowed while a prayer was recited and a short chant sung. A few carried prairie roses. They were passed around and partaken of by all.

Head Was Crushed.

Port Arthur, Nov. 5.—R. Hanna, formerly a business man of this place, was killed in the Schreiber yards Monday, while coupling a box car and the steam shovel car. The long draw-head on the steam shovel slipped, and Hanna's head was caught between the platform of the shovel and the box car. Death was instantaneously.

FURTHER PECULATIONS DISCOVERED

Now Said That Treasurer Shambleau Has Gone to the States.

Chatham, Nov. 5.—Yesterday the County Council continued its special session called to deal with the defalcation of Treasurer Shambleau. The appointment of Clerk J. C. Fleming to the vacancy at a salary of $1.200 was ratified by bylaw, and the ex-county councillor, Jonas Gosnell of Highgate, appointed to the clerkship at a salary of $800. The clerk is required to furnish a $1,000 bond, a new departure.

A cursory examination of the books of the ex-Treasurer by Auditor Macpherson reveals other peculations amounting probably to $6,000. The representative of the Guarantee Bond Company, who has already seized some of Shambleau's private property, says that the defaulting Treasurer has crossed the boundary. Most of Shambleau's personal sureties live in and around Wallaceburg, Shambleau's native place.

Paris, Ont., Nov. 5. — The sixth medal awarded by the Canadian Humane Society in connection with the rescue of Joshua Sanford, "the man in the well," was presented by Mayor Brown to W. W. Robertson in the Town Hall Monday evening. The Town Council passed a resolution endorsing the claim of Thomas English to similar recognition.

MARCONI RUSHES WORK.

Installation of Powerful Apparatus For Transoceanic Tests.

Glace Bay, N. S., Nov. 5. — The work of installing the powerful receiving and transmitting apparatus for the Cape Breton wireless telegraph station by Mr. Marconi is progressing rapidly.

The inventor stated last night that a number of days must elapse before he could make a statement regarding the manner in which the messages and signals are to be received here. He said that he would use an automatic receiver or special telephonic apparatus, whichever he deemed most advisable. He is not directing his attention to increasing the transmitting power of instruments on board ship, but will do so soon. The Italian war ship Carlo Alberto remains at port in Sydney Harbor.

Heavy Draught Horse Show.

Toronto, Nov. 5.—At a meeting of the Canadian Horse Breeders Association held here yesterday, after a speech from Col. McCrae, of Guelph, president of the Clydesdale Horse Association, it was resolved to hold a show for the heavy breeds of horses in the early part of February and a grant of $1,000 was made thereto. The show, which will be confined to stallions only, will have its funds supplemented by the various heavy horse associations.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM HOUSE

Governor Odell Re-Elected Governor of New York State.

National Democratic Chairman Griggs Claims House of Representatives by From 10 to 12 Votes, While Republican Chairman of New York Babcock Says Republicans Will Have 22 Majority in the House—Senator Platt Safe.

Washington, Nov. 5.—At midnight last night Chairman Griggs made a statement claiming the House would be Democratic from 10 to 12 votes. He added to his specifications of gains three in California, one in Wisconsin, two in Michigan, and two in Minnesota. Last House contained 199 Republicans, 150 Democrats, 7 Populists, with one vacant seat, giving the Republicans a majority of 41 over all.

Republicans Claim Majority.

New York, Nov. 5.—Detailed reports from the Congressional districts throughout the county to the headquarters of the Republican Congressional Committee in this city came in slowly last night but in spite of a Democratic gain of at least four representatives from New York, and of two from Maryland, the Committee was satisfied that the Republican party was holding its own throughout the country outside of New York City and that the Republicans would retain control of Congress by a majority of at least 22, and probably 25. The former number is Chairman Babcock's estimate, and the latter is that of Congressman Overstreet of Indiana, Secretary of the Congressional Committee, who has immediate charge of the campaign for the Lower House since last May.

Still Governor Odell.

New York, Nov. 5.—In spite of a phenomenally large vote in New York and King's County for Bird S. Coler, Democrat, the returns up to a late hour last night indicated the reelection of Benjamin B. Odell, Republican, to the governorship of New York State, by from 6,000 to 9,000. Coler's plurality in Greater New York exceeded 15,000, a surplus of 3,060 above the claim made by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. But even that large vote was not sufficient to overcome the Republican majorities from up the State. Odell's vote in the country districts was lighter than two years ago, but Coler's was also lower than Stanchfield's in the same year.

Figures from the congressional districts in the State gave the delegation as 20 Republicans to 17 Democrats. The present state is 22 Republicans to 12 Democrats. The Democrats made gains in the State legislature, but the gains were not sufficient to endanger the Republican hold on the seat in the United States Senate now held by Thomas C. Platt.

Coal State Republican.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Estimates from more than half of the counties in Pennsylvania outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties shows gains for the Democratic State ticket. These gains are offset, however, by heavy Republican gains in Philadelphia and Pittsburg. The returns indicate a Republican plurality in the State of from 150,000 to 200,000, of which Philadelphia contributes over 100,000, and Pittsburg from 30,000 to 40,000. The Republican loss in the anthracite coal region was not as heavy as anticipated. Incomplete returns from the representative districts of Pennsylvania indicate that the Republicans will have an increased majority in the Senate and House of Representatives.

AT 2.30 A.M.

Republicans 196, Democrats 176, Independents 3, 11 in Doubt.

Washington, Nov. 5.—At 2.30 a.m. the returns received here indicate the Republicans have elected 196 Representatives to the next House, the Democrats 176, and Independents 3 in Pennsylvania, leaving 11 districts in doubt.

ELEVEN KILLED—FIFTY INJURED.

Premature Explosion of Election Fireworks in New York City.

New York, Nov. 5.—By a series of explosions of pyrotechnic bombs and other fireworks last night, among the vast multitude gathered in Madison Square to witness the ascension of an airship, and the display of the election returns eleven were killed outright, many being blown almost to pieces, and at least fifty injured, many of them fatally.

It is estimated that at least 30,000 persons thronged the Square at the time of the explosions which were succeeded by a frightful panic, in which hundred were thrown down and trampled under feet.

Five hundred policemen and all the ambulances in the city were summoned, and the dying and those most seriously injured were removed to the hospitals. In addition to these many of the wounded were taken away by friends. Nine men in charge of the fireworks display were placed under arrest immediately after the explosion.

Socialist Shot a Policeman.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 5.—Wm. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners', and a candidate for State Senator on the Socialist ticket, shot James Bramer, a special policeman, here last night. Haywood fired two shots, one taking effect in his face and the other in the arm. Bramer will recover. It is said that Bramer attacked Haywood, striking him on the head repeatedly with a revolver, inflicting three severe wounds.

One Prohibitionist Killed.

Chicago, Nov. 5. — Hale Johnson, chairman of the Illinois Prohibition State Central Committee, was shot and killed yesterday near Newton.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

"Persist is hardly the word to use," Morris replied, smiling comically, as he readily understood Katy's misgivings. "Persist would imply his having been often remonstrated with for that breach of etiquette; whereas I doubt whether the idea that it was not in strict accordance with politeness was ever suggested to him."

"May be not," Katy answered. "It was never necessary till now, and I feel so disturbed, for I want Mr. Cameron to like him, and if he does that I am sure he won't."

"Why do you think so?" Morris asked, and Katy replied: "He is so very particular, and was so very angry at a little hotel between Lakes George and Champlain, where we took our dinner before going on the boat. There was a man along—a real good-natured man, too, so kind to everybody—and, as the day was warm, he carried his coat on his arm, and sat down to the table right opposite me. Mr. Cameron was so indignant, and said such harsh things, which the man heard I am sure, for he put on his coat directly and I saw him afterward on the boat, sweating like rain, and looking so sorry, as if he had been guilty of something wrong. I am sure, though, he had not?"

This last was spoken interrogatively, and Morris replied: "There is nothing wrong or wicked in going without one's coat. Everything depends upon the circumstances under which it is done. For me to appear at table in my shirt sleeves would be very rude, but for an old man like Uncle Ephraim to do so is a very different thing. Still, Mr. Cameron may see from another standpoint. But I would not distress myself. That love is not worth much which would think the less of you for anything outre which Uncle Ephraim may do. If Mr. Cameron cannot stand the test of seeing your relatives as they are, he is not worth the long face you are wearing," and Morris pinched her cheek playfully.

Morris had little hope of breaking a habit of years, but he promised to try if an opportunity should occur, and as Mrs. Hull, the housekeeper, had by this time gathered up the articles required for the morrow, Morris took the basket in his own hands and went with Katy across the fields.

"God bless you, Katy, and may Mr. Cameron's visit bring you as much happiness as you anticipate," he said, as he set her basket upon the door-step and turned back without entering the house.

Katy noticed the peculiar tone of his voice, and again there swept over her the same thrill she had felt when Morris first said to her: "And did Katy like this Mr. Cameron?" but so far was she from guessing the truth that she only feared she might have displeased him by what she had said of Uncle Ephraim. Perhaps she had wronged him, she thought, and the good old man, resting from his hard day's toil, in his accustomed chair, with not only his coat, but his vest and boots cast aside, little guessed what prompted the caresses which Katy lavished upon him, sitting in his lap and parting his snowy hair, as if thus she would make amends for any injury done. Little Katy-did he called her, looking fondly into her bright, pretty face and thinking how terrible it would be to see that face shadowed with pain and care. Somehow of late, Uncle Ephraim was always thinking of such a calamity as more than possible for Katy, and when that night she knelt beside him, his voice was full of pleading earnestness as he prayed that God would keep them all in safety, and bring to none of them more grief or pain than was necessary to fit them for himself. And Katy listened to him, remembering the talk down in the meadow, when she sat on the rock beneath the butternut tree. But the world, while it held Wilford Cameron, as he seemed to her now, was too full of joy for her to dread what the future might have in store for her, and so she arose from her knees, thinking only how long it would be before to-morrow noon, wondering if Wilford would surely be there next time their evening prayers were said, and if he would notice Uncle Ephraim's shocking grammar!

CHAPTER V.

Wilford had made the last change of cars, and when he stopped again it would be at Silverton. He did not expect any one to meet him, but as he remembered the man whom he had seen greeting Katy, he thought it not unlikely that he might be there now, laughing to himself as he pictured his mother's horror, could she see him riding along in the corn-colored vehicle which Uncle Ephraim drove. But that vehicle was safe at home beneath the shed, while Uncle Ephraim was laying a stone wall upon the huckleberry hill, and the handsome carriage waiting at Silverton depot was certainly unexceptionable; while in the young man who, as the train stopped and Wilford stepped out upon the platform, came to meet him, asking if he were Mr. Cameron, Wilford recognized the true gentleman, and his spirits rose at once as Morris said to him: "I am Miss Lennox's cousin, deputed by her to take charge of you for a time."

Wilford had heard of Dr. Morris Grant and of his kindness to poor little Jamie, who died in Paris; he had heard too that his proud sister Juno had tried her powers of coquetry in vain upon the grave American; but he had no suspicion that his new acquaintance was the one until Morris mentioned having met his family in France and inquired after their welfare.

After that the conversation became very familiar, and the ride seemed so short that Wilford was surprised when, as they turned a corner in the sandy road, Morris pointed to the farm-house, saying: "We are almost there—that is the place."

"That!" and Wilford's voice indicated his disappointment, for in all his mental pictures of Katy Lennox's home he had never imagined anything like this.

Large, rambling and weird-like, with something lofty and imposing, just because it was so ancient, was the house he had in his mind, and he could not conceal his chagrin as his eye took in the small, low building, with its high windows and tiny panes of glass, paintless and blindless, standing there alone among the hills. Morris understood it perfectly; but without seeming to notice it, remarked: "It is the oldest house probably in the country, and should be invaluable on that account. I think we Americans are too fond of change and too much inclined to throw aside all that remains of the past. Now I like the farm-house just because it is old and unpretentious."

"Yes, certainly," Wilford answered, looking ruefully around him at the stone wall, half tumbled down, the tall well-sweep, and the patch of sun-flowers in the garden, with Aunt Betsy bending behind them, picking potatoes for dinner, and shading her eyes with her hand to look at him as he drove up.

It was all very rural, no doubt, and very charming to people who liked it, but Wilford did not like it, and he was wishing himself safely in New York when a golden head flashed for an instant before the window and then disappeared as Katy emerged into view, waiting at the door to receive him and looking so sweetly in her dress of white with the scarlet geranium blossoms in her hair that Wilford forgot the homeliness of the surroundings, thinking only of her and how soft and warm was the little hand he held as she led him into the parlor. He did not know she was so beautiful, he said to himself, and he feasted his eyes upon her, forgetful for a time of all else. But afterwards, when Katy left him for a moment, he had time to observe the well-worn carpet, the six cane-seated chairs, the large stuffed rocking-chair, the fall-leaf table, with its plain wool spread, and lastly the really expensive piano, the only handsome piece of furniture the room contained, and which he rightly guessed must have come from Morris.

"What would Juno or Mark say?" he kept repeating to himself half shuddering as he recalled the bantering proposition to accompany him made by Mark Ray, the only young man whom he considered fully his equal in New York.

Wilford knew these feelings were unworthy of him, and he tried to shake them off, listlessly turning over the books upon the table—books which betokened in some one both taste and talent of no low order.

"Mark's favorite," he said, lifting up a volume of Schiller; and turning to the fly-leaf he read: "Helen Lennox, from Cousin Morris," just as Katy returned with her sister, whom she presented to the stranger.

Helen was prepared to like him because Katy did and her first thought was that he was very fine looking, but when she met his cold, proud eyes, and knew how closely he was scrutinizing her, there arose in her heart a feeling of dislike which she could never wholly conquer. He was very polite to her, but something in his manner annoyed and irritated her, it was so cool, so condescending, as if he endured her merely because she was Katy's sister, nothing more.

Sometimes the most charitable view of others is that they ought to be in the insane asylum.

CASE OF THE COAL MINERS

"To the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission:—The mine workers make of the operators the following demands, which were formulated by the Shamokin convention, held March 18 to 24, and for the enforcement of which the strike was inaugurated:—

Increase of Wages.

"First, an increase of 20 per cent. upon the prices paid during the year 1901 to employes performing contract or piece work.

"This demand is made on account of the following reasons:—

"(1) The present rate of wages is much lower than the rate of wages paid in the bituminous coal fields for substantially similar work.

"(2) The present rate of wages is lower than is paid in other occupations requiring equal skill and training.

"(3) The average annual earnings in the anthracite coal field are much less than the average annual earnings in the bituminous coal fields for substantially similar work.

"(4) The average annual earnings in the anthracite coal fields are much less than the average annual earnings for occupations requiring equal skill and training.

"(5) The rate of wages in the anthracite coal fields is insufficient to compensate the mine workers in view of the dangerous character of the occupation in relation to accidents, the liability to serious and permanent disease, the high death rate, and the short average life incident to this employment.

"(6) The annual earnings of the mine workers are insufficient to maintain the American standard of living.

"(7) The increased cost of living has made it impossible to maintain a fair standard of life upon the basis of present wages, and has not only prevented the mine workers from securing any benefit from increased prosperity, but has made their condition poorer on account of it.

"(8) The wages of anthracite mine workers are so low that their children are prematurely forced into the breakers and mills, instead of being supported and educated upon the earnings of their parents.

"(9) Wages are below the fair and just earnings of mine workers in this industry.

Shorter Hours of Labor.

"Second, a reduction of 20 per cent. in hours of labor, without any reduction of earnings, for all employes paid by the hour, day or week.

"The second demand is similar to the first, in that it is designed to increase the hourly rate of wages of mine workers employed by the hour, day or week, and all the reasons applicable to the first demand are asked to be applied to the second with repetition.

"In addition thereto we submit the following:—

"(10) The ten-hour day is detrimental to the health, life, safety and well-being of the mine workers.

"(11) Shorter hours improve the physical, mental and moral conditions of the workers.

"(12) Shorter hours increase the intensity and efficiency of labor.

"(13) The tendency of national and State government of organized trade and of production generally is toward shorter hours.

"(14) A working day of eight hours is sufficiently long for the best interests of the workingmen and of the community.

Pay According to Weight.

"Third, the adoption of a system by which coal shall be weighed and paid for by weight wherever practicable; the minimum rate per ton to be sixty cents for a legal ton of 2,240 pounds, the differentials now existing at the various mines to be maintained.

This demand is made on account of the following reasons:

"(1) Measurement by the legal ton wherever practicable is the only honest and just system of measuring the earnings of mine workers

"(2) When the operators sell or transport coal it is on the basis of a legal ton of 2,240 pounds.

"(3) The excessive ton was originally intended to compensate the operator for the weight of the small sizes of coal which were then discarded, but which are now utilized and sold, and therefore there is no present necessity for the use of any other than the legal ton.

"(4) The adoption of this system would remove an incentive, both to the operator and the worker, to cheating and dishonesty, and would allay jealousy among the miners and prevent unjust discrimination and favoritism.

"(5) The change of the present system to the one asked for would prove a strong factor in allaying suspicion and discontent among the mine workers.

Definite Agreement With the Union.

"Fourth, the incorporation in an agreement between the United Mine Workers of America and the anthracite coal companies of the wages which shall be paid and the conditions of employment which shall obtain, together with satisfactory methods for the adjustment of grievances which may arise from time to time, to the end that strikes and lock-outs may be unnecessary.

"In support of this demand we submit the following reasons:—

"(1) The anthracite mine workers should not be compelled to make or sign individual agreements, but should have the right to form such organization, and choose such agents and officers as they desire to act collectively instead of individually when they deem that their best interests are subserved thereby.

"(2) Agreements between employers and employes through workingmen's organizations are the ordinary method of regulating production and wages in the bituminous coal fields and in other large industrials, and are beneficial, successful and in keeping with the spirit of the times.

"(3) Unions of workingmen tend to the better discipline of the men and to the improvement of their physical, moral and mental condition and to the preservation of friendly relations between employer and employe.

"(4) Experience shows that the trade agreement is the only effective method by which it is possible to regulate questions arising between employers and employes in large industries, and that a trade agreement is the only possible way to establish the relations between employers and the wage earners in the anthracite fields on a just and permanent basis, and, as far as possible, to do away with any causes for the recurrence of such difficulties as those you (the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission) have been called in to settle.

"Respectfully submitted.

"(Signed) John Mitchell.

"Representative of the Anthracite Mine Workers."

The Commission Working Hard.

Although yesterday was election day the Anthracite Strike Commissioners continued their investigations so that they can finish their tour of the mining region as soon as possible. The commission left here during the morning for Shamokin, where John Fahey, President of the United Mine Workers of the 9th District, will board the special train and accompany the arbitrators through that territory. The day will be spent in visiting the mines in and about Shamokin.

CANADA FOR CANADIANS.

Mr. Tarte Advises All Public Men t Learn the Constitution.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Tarte were the leading guests last night at the Laval University annual dinner. It was expected that the Premier might make some reference to the selection of Mr. Tarte's successor, but he was silent on the question, making a purely academic speech.

Mr. Tarte, who got a tremendous reception, came out hot in support of his well-defined attitude on the tariff. He stood by all he had said, and urged his hearers to stand for a policy of Canada for the Canadians. He created great laughter and applause by recommending all those who intended to enter Public life to learn the constitution and to learn it by heart.

Mr. Monk, M. P., also received an ovation.

Mr. Tarte's Selections.

Mr. Tarte, editorially, in La Patrie, says that Mr. Sutherland will be Minister of Public Works, and Mr. Prefontaine, Minister of Marine.

Scores Mr. Prefontaine.

Speaking of the Cabinet changes, The Witness says: "There is terror in the ranks of the respectable non-political Liberals lest Mr. Prefontaine should force himself on the Cabinet as Minister of Public Works. We cannot think there can be any grounds for this fear. Mr. Prefontaine is not, as Mr. Tarte was, a professed penitent escaped from a den of corruption. So far as the public has heard, he still adheres to his well-known principles. He would still be the advocate of the party with whom the public is dealing, rather than the trustee of the public."

Coming Sutherland's Way.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Mackenzie, the best informed correspondent here, says: "While nothing practically has been done about a successor to Mr. Tarte, there is a feeling here that Mr. Prefontaine's chances for the portfolio are increasing. It is stated that he may get the Marine and Mr. Sutherland the Public Works."

Two Canadians Drowned.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 5.—Norman Sampson, aged 35, of Sydney, C.B., and Mark Beard, aged 18, of Two Rivers, N.S., were drowned here yesterday in a collision. The saved were Pearl Crowley, cook, of Jonesport, Maine, and Seaman Moore Cook of Eastport.

Blood Disorders
Cured Without Drugs.

TESTIMONIAL.
A year ago I was unable to go out of doors without a veil covering, on account of eczema and pimples covering my face. I tried all sorts of drugs and lotions without effect. Powley's Liquified Ozone cured me. My skin is clear and healthy now. LILY HALL,
12 Sully St., Toronto, Canada.

Absolute purity of the blood stream and disinfection of all the tissues through which it passes are necessary to make the blood healthy and give the skin that clear, deep bloom so much sought after. You cannot obtain this result by taking drugs or applying lotions or ointments. You can by using Powley's Liquified Ozone, nature's blood food. Clears out all humors thoroughly and surely. Acts quickly. You do not have to take Powley's Liquified Ozone very long to know that it will cure you.

Damp-proof

Moist feet are cold in winter!
Sole leather is cellular, and carries street fluid to the foot as the wick carries oil to a lamp.
Two-thirds of street moisture, which reaches the foot, comes up through the outsole, in ordinary shoes.
Between insole and outsole of the RESILIA shoe is placed the cushion centre-sole of live rubber, through which moisture cannot pass, making it wet-proof, as well as springy and ventilated.
Its cross channels permit the air to dry the inner sides of both outsole and insole.
It thus prevents the retention of moisture, cracking, hardening, mouldiness, and keeps the feet dry, clean, hardy and healthy.

McINTOSH BROS.

HOW U.S. ELECTIONS WENT YESTERDAY

Republicans Will Have Majority of 16 in Fifty-Eighth Congress.

Odell Re-elected Governor of New York by About 9,000 Majority.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

New York, Nov. 5.—Figures from the congressional districts in New York State gave the delegation as 20 Republicans to 17 Democrats. The present state is 22 Republicans to 12 Democrats.

In Massachusetts and Maryland there are also Republican losses.

In the other Eastern states there have been no changes of importance.

The West, from the Allegheny Mountains to the Pacific, has stood firmly by the Republican party, and the later returns from some of the Western states may materially increase the Republican majority.

Conceding to the Democrats several districts, which later returns may give to the Republicans, the membership of the house in the Fifty-eighth Congress will be made up of 202 Republicans and 186 Democrats, a Republican majority of 16.

ODELL SURELY RE-ELECTED.

New York, Nov. 5.—In spite of a phenomenally large vote in New York and King's county for Birds Coler, Democrat, the latest returns indicate the re-election of Benj. B. Odell, Republican, to the Governorship of New York state by from 6000 to 9000. Coler's plurality in Greater New York exceeded 15,000, but even this large vote was not sufficient to overcome the Republican majorities from up the state.

THE DEMOCRATS' CLAIMS.

Washington, Nov. 5. — Chairman Griggs, of the Democratic Congressional Committee, claims the next House of Representatives by a Democratic majority of twelve.

Interest centres in the returns from the far western districts, many of which are reported to be in doubt. It is probable that in several districts an official count will be necessary. Conservative estimates as to the complexion of the next Senate give a Republican majority of sixteen.

A New York despatch says the revised returns indicate that Gov. Odell's plurality will be 10,000.

FILL THE CHURCH.

"We, as you know, are a loyal people. We all want to and must hear this Coronation Choir, even our little tots think they have a right to go. Your church seats from 1800 to 2000. Why not put down all seats to 25 cents, and we are sure the public will appreciate it, and fill the church. You will make hundreds happy and have as much in the end.'

Bridge St. Music Com.—"From our standpoint, your arguments are conclusive. Tickets will be only 25 cents to all parts of the church."

VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1902 NO. 157

CELEBRATED THE FIFTH OF NOVEMBER

MEMBERS OF BENJAMIN L. O. L. HAD AN "AT HOME" LAST NIGHT.

Yesterday was Guy Fawkes Day, and the members of Benjamin Lodge, L.O.L. No. 274, commemorated this historic occasion by an "At Home" in their lodge room on Front street. A large number of the members and invited guests were there, and it proved to be an evening of rare enjoyment to all present. In the early part of the evening a platform meeting was held, presided over by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who gave an address full of valuable information as to the early days of the Orange Order. Other speakers were Bros. Wm. Johnson, J. P. Standish, and Ald. Galbraith, who is the Master of the Lodge. All the addresses were interesting and attentively listened to. At the close of the programme refreshments were served. After all had partaken of the good things provided, a free and easy meeting was held, during which a number of short addresses were given. These were interspersed with songs and selections on the fife and drum. The gathering broke up at a seasonable hour after singing the National Anthem and giving cheers for the King and chairman.

GOT LAME BACK OR LUMBAGO?

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out, and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic, however, if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere in large 25c bottles.

TRAINING OF MILITIA; IMPROVEMENTS SUGGESTED

LORD DUNDONALD MAKES SOME IMPORTANT RECOMMENDATIONS AT AN OTTAWA BANQUET.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—At the dinner given in his honor by the officers of the Ottawa Brigade on Monday night the Earl of Dundonald expressed the opinion that nowhere was theoretical training of the soldier developed to the highest point possible. For example, in barrack rooms, drill sheds and other places in which soldiers meet there should be instructional placards dealing with every duty of the soldier in large type, and illustrated by diagrams. Then, again, photography might be called in to help in instruction. There was no reason why every movement and every position of the soldier's training, from that of the recruit up to the advanced training of the soldier, should not be shown by the process of photography.

He was in favor also of having movable canvas war maps on the floor of a drill hall with the configuration of the country painted on them, showing roads, villages, woods, etc. The various units should be shown by means of small blocks, which could be worked on the maps by the men in their socks or in list slippers. What he suggested was, in fact, a war game played on a gigantic scale, a war game, moreover, which would teach every arm to know its place and every commander how to give orders and what orders to give. He suggested, further, that department battalions could be formed in the training camps for rural infantry and that officers and men of city corps should be encouraged to train there, and there was no reason why a couple of friends could not use a small shelter tent by themselves if they preferred it to being with a lot of other men they did not know.

THERE ARE SOME MEN

Who would not wear an overcoat unless it cost $25. They think if they pay less they are not good enough. The Oak Hall can show you overcoats at $10, $12 and $15 equal in every respect to anything you ever saw made to measure at nearly double the price. It won't cost you anything to have a look.

SOMETHING LIKE SHOOTING

SCORE CARD OF THE BLUEBILL GUN CLUB, OF WHICH FORMER BELLEVILLE BOYS WERE MEMBERS.

Mr. William Hamilton, manager of the Merchants Bank, this city, has received a letter from his son, H. H. Hamilton, who is stationed at Eganville, he being also in the employ of the Merchants Bank. Mr. H. H. Hamilton had just returned from a trip to Manitoba, and was very enthusiastic over the country. From the letter it would appear that the Bluebill Gun Club, of which Mr. Hamilton and his brother were members, had some fine shooting near Clandeboye, Lake Manitoba, as the official score card, enclosed in the letter, shows. The party consisted of Sheriff Inkster, Messrs. L. H. Hamilton, C. Mulvey, Harry Hamilton, J. P. Turner and the cook, "Billy" Kittson (a non-combatant). The score card shows that in ten days, one of which was a rainy day, and brought down the average greatly, the party shot 622 ducks, 18 chickens and 64 snipe, a total bag of 704 birds. That was certainly "something like shooting."

DEATH OF MR. AUSTIN HUBBLE

SAD EVENT OCCURRED AT FOXBORO THIS MORNING.

Mr. Austin Hubble, a well-known and respected resident of the village of Foxboro, died at an early hour this morning. A week ago the deceased was stricken with peritonitis, which caused his death. Mr. Hubble was born in the Township of Rawdon about 47 years ago, but the greater portion of his life was spent in Foxboro. For a number of years deceased was engaged in the harness business, but of late years was a buyer of dairy products. He was for years a member of the Methodist church, taking an active part in church work. Through his death the village loses a resident who was interested in its welfare, and one who will be much missed. Mr. Hubble was twice married. His first wife was a daughter of the late Mr. Ezra Dafoe, of Foxboro, and the surviving widow was a Miss Miller, of that village. In addition to the widow, one daughter, Miss Lucele, survives. To them will be extended the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

BOY AND REVOLVER

IN THIS CASE THEY MADE A BAD COMBINATION.

Crookston, Nov. 5.—On Thursday morning of last week what might have been a very serious or fatal accident happened to the little six-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Haggerty. While part of the family were outside and the rest upstairs the little fellow climbed to a shelf on which lay a loaded revolver. In handling it the weapon was discharged, the bullet entering the fleshy part of the arm just below the shoulder. He was immediately taken to Madoc, where the wound was dressed, and he is now doing nicely. Surely this should be a lesson to people who keep loaded fire-arms to lock them away or place them in a position where they cannot be reached by children.

MARCONI AGAIN SPANS ATLANTIC

RECEIVED MESSAGE OFF CAPE BRETON COAST FROM BRITAIN.

Sydney, Nov. 5. — The success of wireless telegraphy as a means for trans-Atlantic communication is now practically assured, according to the statement of commander Martin, of the Italian cruiser Carlo Alberto, on which Marconi is trying his experiments. Commander Martin stated in an interview this morning that a wireless message was received off Sunny Harbor on Saturday on board the warship from the station at Cornwall, England.

This message is by far the longest yet transmitted by wireless telegraphy. The distance from the harbor to Cornwall is greater than that from Table Head to Cornwall, where the station is being built. On board the warship are several messages received from the Cornwall station, most of them being messages of congratulation to Marconi from the Czar of Russia and King Humbert. The Carlo Alberto can send messages only 150 miles, but she receives any distance. The messages were all received in the Morse code, and without exception were completely taken.

Domestic Science

The Domestic Science rooms in connection with Albert College were open to the public yesterday afternoon, and about 100 ladies availed themselves of the opportunity of witnessing the work. Miss Hagar demonstrated the preparation of "Fish Chowder," "Savory Omelet" and "Water Lily Salad." The ladies were much interested in the proceedings, and the dishes prepared were delicious.

FIGHT ON.

(Denver News.)

If things seem a little blue,
Keep on fighting.
Stay it out and see it through,
Keep on fighting.
Do not give up in despair,
There will come a change somewhere,
Skies to-morrow will be fair.
Keep on fighting.

Is the struggle hard and long?
Keep on fighting.
Face the music and be strong,
Keep on fighting.
Show you're game and proud of it,
That your not the sort to quit,
That you have old-fashioned grit,
Keep on fighting.

But if you should win or no,
Keep on fighting.
If you lose, then be it so,
Keep on fighting.
You had better bite the dust
For the cause you know is just,
And eternally go down
Than with wrong to win renown,
Keep on fighting.

BRODEUR TARTE'S SUCCESSOR

MONTREAL LIBERAL ORGAN SAYS SO, BUT PATRIE DIFFERS.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—There continues to be considerable uncertainty regarding who will be Mr. Tarte's successor in the Cabinet. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who left for Ottawa this afternoon, said that any announcement regarding Cabinet changes would be made from the capital.

The Herald, the English Liberal organ, and Mr. Fisher's paper, has the following to-night: "The Herald is to-day in a position to state that the Hon. L. P. Brodeur, member for Rouville, and Speaker of the House of Commons, will probably succeed Hon. Mr. Tarte as Minister of Public Works in the Cabinet of Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

Mr. Tarte's paper, the Patrie, on the other hand, says to-night:

"We persist in believing that Mr. Prefontaine will be Minister of Marine and Fisheries and that Mr. Sutherland will have the Department of Public Works. Nevertheless, this programme has met with considerable opposition in certain quarters."

PRESENTATION TO A POPULAR OFFICER

CAPT. BARRAGAR, OF E COMPANY, 15th, REMEMBERED BY HIS MEN LAST NIGHT.

An event, pleasing in its character as showing the good feeling existing between the captain of No. 5 Company and his men, occurred last night in the orderly-room of the above named company, in the Drill Shed. The men had gathered ostensibly for the purpose of "turning in" their uniforms. After that had been done they suddenly formed a ring round their captain, held him up and read him an address appreciative of his good work in bringing No. 5 Company to its present state of efficiency, and also thanking him for his uniform courtesy to the men both in and out of uniform. The address was read by Sergt. Ford, and at its conclusion Sergt. Alford presented Capt. Barragar, on behalf of the company, with a handsome gold locket bearing the following inscription:

"Presented to Captain D. Barragar by No. 5 Company, 15th Regt., A.L.I., Cup Winners, 1902."

The recipient was taken completely by surprise, and had hard work at first to find words to reply. He was, he said, too full for utterance, but managed to make a graceful little speech of thanks, assuring the men that he would ever treasure the locket as a memento of a pleasant year's service and a company of well-behaved, warm-hearted boys, whom it was an honor to command. He hoped to see every one of them in No. 5 Company next year.

Cheers for the popular officer brought the incident to a close.

MAY LEVY ON REPUBLIC

EX - EMPRESS EUGENIE MAY LEVY TO RECOVER JUDGMENTS AGAINST REPUBLIC.

Paris, Nov. 3.—It is reported that the ex-Empress Eugenie is expected here shortly to carry out her threat to attach the property of the Republic for the various judgments obtained by her in civil suits against the state. It is within possibility that she may levy on the Louvre, though some think she might take it into her head to attach the Elysee, the President's official residence. The judgments rendered in favor of her former majesty are as follows: Two million two hundred and ninety-seven thousands franks ($459,500) with 5 per cent. interest, beginning Jan. 1, 1894; 475 pieces of precious Sevres porcelain and two Mosaic pictures of Louis Napoleon and the Empress; furthermore, some 50 great paintings now exhibited in the Louvre. These latter her majesty is willing to present to the nation if the government agrees to properly label them as her gifts.

It seems strange that the Republic refuses to settle with the one-time Empress and Regent of France, for Eugenie has never done anything to embarrass the French government. On the contrary, she always refused to establish, or back, newspaper organs, and she keeps the Pretender, Victor Napoleon, so short in funds that he cannot attempt even to organize a party, giving him barely $7,500 annually, while her own income is more than $1,000,000.

How to go Deer Hunting

(Forest and Steam.)

When you go deer hunting, the best thing you can do is to stay at home. If you feel that you must go wear a red cap and a red coat. In this way you can lose only a leg or an arm. If several of you can make up a party the safest thing to do is to stretch out in a line about 200 yards apart. Then, as you go forward at about the same pace, let each member of the party whistle at regular intervals, so he can keep track with the man on each side of him. In this way you will be able to keep your line fairly regular, and ought to get through each day with only the loss of a few of the party. It gives the deer good warning of your presence, but in deer hunting these days the main thing is not so much to get deer as to secure personal safety. By the way, as to that hunting in line, it really was done by some eastern gentlemen, who made a hunt in the Rocky Mountains near the Two Medicine country, a few years ago. Their guide objected, stating that if they went through the woods so closely together and making so much noise they would not see any game. They replied that they were a little lonesome in the woods and would be much more comfortable if allowed to whistle, and keep track of each other in this way. They didn't kill anything, but had a very pleasant time.

Dispute Over a Mining Property

(Bancroft Times.)

The dispute over the mining claim to lots 4 and 5, con. 6, township of Mayo, has at last been disposed of by the Crown Lands Department, and Mr. H. C. Farnum, representing a Detroit mining company, is now the owner of the property. The farm in question is owned by John Bruce, who some time ago agreed to dispose of his interest in the mineral right to Mr. Farnum for a consideration. The latter applied to the Department for the mineral right, and Mr. Bruce, acting for Messrs. Wm. Rankin, of Hermon, and Arthur Coe, of Madoc, to whom he had transferred his claim, opposed the grant on the ground of being discovered. The evidence in the case was taken by a commission appointed by the Department at L'Amable in July last, and Mr. H. L. Boldrick, representing Mr. Farnum, and Mr. Wm. Cross, of Madoc, acting for Messrs. Rankin and Coe, later on presented their arguments before the Minister in Toronto. The case created a good deal of interest, and Mr. Boldrick is to be congratulated on the result.

SOME OF MR. TARTE'S FRIENDS.

If Hon. J. Israel Tarte's example is followed by those Liberals who have expressed themselves as convinced of the soundness of the ex-Minister's views, the Liberal party will lose a number of strong supporters. Charles Marcil, M. P., Bonaventure; Hugh Guthrie, M. P., South Wellington; Robert Holmes, M. P., West Huron; W. S. Calvert, M. P., West Middlesex; Wm. Ross, M. P., South Ontario, and George Stephens, M. P., Kent, are among the Liberals who have spoken from the same platform with Mr. Tarte in his protection crusade, or endorsed his position. Mr. Calvert, the chief Liberal whip, was very warm in his praise of Mr. Tarte. These gentlemen will all have to follow their accepted leader, if they are to be consistent. Besides those members of Parliament, Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. John Dryden, Senator McMullen and Hon. Jas. Young are strong supporters of the retired minister. No wonder Sir Wilfrid Laurier is worried.

SIR WILFRID'S CHOSEN ADVISERS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the "clean man," the "model man," the "soul of honor," before deciding upon a successor to Hon. J. Israel Tarte, consulted his Quebec followers. At Montreal and Quebec he met his strongest friends and listened attentively to their counsel. Joseph Brunet, of St. James Division election crimes fame, was one of the first gentlemen called into consultation at Montreal. At Quebec, Sir Wilfrid was closeted with Mr. Pacaud, a gentleman who stole hundreds of thousands of dollars from the province of Quebec, and spent the booty in the Premier's behalf. Mr. Pacaud also paid Sir Wilfrid's election deposits with the stolen money. Perhaps it was in recognition of those services that Mr. Pacaud was asked to give his advice as to the proper government of Canada. Mr. Brunet, 'tis true, has qualified in a somewhat different manner, having evinced sufficient interest in the Liberal party to steal a seat in Parliament and hold it. Both Mr. Pacaud and Mr. Brunet have been accepted as worthy counsellers by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the "soul of honor," etc.

QUESTION ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co.'s.

A young recruit was sent on sentry-go, and was, of course, new to his duty. A good natured comrade brought him a sandwich from the canteen, and the recruit was about to eat it when the major appeared. As the officer was in mufti the sentry did not recognize him and did not salute. The major took in the situation and asked:

"What's that?"

"A sandwich," replied the recruit; "have a bit?"

"Do you know who I am?" asked the major.

"Don't know you from a crow; perhaps you're the major's coachy.'

"No, I'm not."

"His groom, perhaps?"

"No; try again."

"Perhaps the old chap himself?"

"Right this time," said the major.

"Oh," exclaimed the frightened sentry, "hold the sandwich while I present arms!"

GAVE DYING FATHER POISON

Dr. McNeill Testifies That Prisoner Gave Old Man a Dose.

The Sifton Case at London on Wednesday—Several Witnesses Repeat Their Stories and Dr. McNeill Gave Startling Testimony—Mary Macfarlane Occupied the Stand During the Afternoon and Made a Good Witness.

London, Ont., Nov. 6.—The court in the Sifton case resumed yesterday morning promptly at 9.30 o'clock. Ephraim Bathurst, in the employ of Canon Richardson, whose place is next that of Joseph Sifton, was first in the witness box. He had been examined by Mr. Clute Tuesday night, and Mr. Johnston yesterday morning began his cross-examination. Bathurst said that Joseph Sifton was a very venturesome man, and that the barn was a very dangerous place to enter at night. Then the witness stated that on Sunday at noon after the alleged murder, he went over to the Sifton barn and found Edgar and Martin Morden talking in a low voice. They did not appear to relish the interruption. Later on Bathurst had some conversation with the Mordens, and in consequence of what they said witness made some examinations of the barn on his own account on the Sunday and Monday, but he had found no traces of blood or a struggle in the barn. Witness also said he had known Mr. Sifton and Gerald for a long time. He had been in their company when they were together, and had never noticed anything wrong. They seemed to be on friendly terms.

Edmund Meredith, K.C., was called to give evidence regarding the will of Joseph Sifton, but Mr. Johnston objected, and the will and Mr. Meredith's evidence were not admitted.

Jacob Burgess, a traveler of Hamilton, was the next witness. He told of how he was in a cell immediately opposite Gerald Sifton's. In a conversation one day Sifton had told him (Burgess) that he had put up $375 for Herbert, and yet Herbert had "squealed" on him. That was what was grinding.

Cross-examined by Mr. Johnston, witness admitted he was a little "boozy" had had a row with a friend on the street and was put in jail to sober him up.

Dr. O'Neill, coroner at Arva, next took the stand. Gerald Sifton had run to him the morning of the alleged tragedy and said his father had met with a bad accident and asked him to hurry and attend him. Witness told of Jos. Sifton's wounds, some of which might have been done with an axe.

Dr. O'Neill said that Gerald Sifton besought him to end his father's sufferings. Sifton asked the doctor if he did not have something with him that would do this, and the doctor said, yes—morphine. Sifton then said that if the doctor had nothing, he (Sifton) had some strychnine upstairs.

Gerald then said: "If money is any consideration—." But the doctor put up his hand, and Gerald stopped speaking.

The doctor had also asked Gerald if he had given the old man anything during his (the doctor's) absence, and Gerald Sifton replied, "I may as well tell the truth. I did."

"Later he came to me and said he wanted to have a talk with me, but I told him to go away, as I did not want to talk with him."

Under cross-examination the doctor admitted that it was most difficult to conceive how these wounds could have been made with the ax held in the manner described by Walter Herbert in the killing. The doctor added that a brick would more likely cause these wounds, as they were ragged and cone-shaped.

Mary Macfarlane, the "woman in the case," occupied the stand much of the afternoon. This is the girl who was engaged to be married to the victim, and the alleged plot was for the purpose of frustrating the marriage and preventing the girl from inheriting the old man's estate. She was the housekeeper for Joseph Sifton. She told Gerald Sifton of the approaching marriage between her and his father the night before the old man's death. Gerald did not object. The next morning Gerald came to his father's house with Walter Herbert. The old man was then dressing to go with the girl to be married. She said the son asked him to go to the barn and see about the hay fork. They went out together, and in a few minutes Herbert returned and said Joseph Sifton had fallen and killed himself. At the previous trial she testified that she immediately cried: "Oh, Walter, you two have killed him at last." After the death she went to live at Gerald Sifton's. He told her she would never have to work any more and he would pay all her expenses. If she should ever marry he would give her $1,000. She lived there two weeks and then left.

Mrs. Macfarlane, mother of Mary, testified briefly, verifying in minor details the testimony of her daughter.

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE

SYMPTOMS OF A VERY COMMON TROUBLE?

There is no disease so common in the United States as Catarrh, because it appears in so many forms and attacks so many different organs.

It is a common mistake to suppose that catarrh is confined to the nose and throat. Any inflammation of the mucous membrane wherever located, accompanied by abnormal secretions, is catarrh. Catarrh of stomach or bladder or intestines is nearly as common as nasal catarrh and much more serious, although it is true that stomach catarrh and catarrh of other internal organs is the result of neglected nasal catarrh.

A new remedy has recently appeared, which so far as tested seems to be remarkably effective in promptly curing catarrh, wherever located. The preparation is sold by druggists generally under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and in addition to being very palatable and convenient, possesses extraordinary merit, in many cases giving immediate relief from the coughing hawking and constant clearing of the throat and head, those symptoms with which everyone is familiar who has ever suffered from colds in the head and throat.

Catarrh is simply a continuation of these symptoms, until the trouble becomes chronic and grows gradually worse from year to year.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are composed of Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar antiseptics and catarrh specifics, from which it will be seen that no secret is made of the ingredients and also that no mineral poisons are used, as is the case with many well-known catarrh medicines.

For catarrh of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, for catarrh of stomach, intestines or bladder no preparation is so safe and gives such rapid and permanent results as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50c for full sized package. You can use them with assurance that you will not contract the cocaine or morphine habit as the results from this catarrh cure are apparent from the first day's use.

CINDERELLA

By Eugenie Uhlrich

Copyright, 1901, by Eugenie Uhlrich

Young Hetherington filled his brier wood pipe.

"You don't mind, do you? You are always so jolly and chummy."

She smiled a little deprecatingly. There were times when somehow she wished Hetherington did not find her so jolly and chummy, though these times had nothing to do with the brier wood pipe. The comfortable house was hers in effect, and she, the friendless and kinless kindergartner, must of course have felt it good fortune to be saved the lot of the boarding house and given the companionship of pleasant and well set up people. All the other young women she knew told her over and over again and reminded her that she ought to be grateful for her mercies.

It is true that if Mrs. Hetherington's oldest daughter had not married and gone to live in a distant city and her youngest had not died she perhaps would not have felt the need of a girlish presence in the house enough to take in Winifred.

Winifred watched Hugh Hetherington lift his fine length and move across the room after a light for his pipe. As the match flare flickered on his clean features she thought, as any woman must have, what a handsome fellow he was. But Winnie thought also that if her own mouth had not been so big, her tendency to freckle so hopeless and the tint of her hair so uncompromisingly red Mrs. Hetherington might not have liked her quite so well. Moreover, she looked a bit older than Hugh, too, though she had carefully figured out that she, in fact, was a year younger.

But, then, Hugh's childhood had passed in the flush of pleasure and the sunshine of affection, and hers?— She was too humble to be sorry for herself and too wise not to see in the worst that had ever happened her the possibilities of still worse and thus be thankful for the Providence that had kept her in its hand.

But yet this evening she thought more sharply than usual of another girl's symmetry, her gowns, her accomplishments, her opportunities, all the things that are dear to the heart of woman. And why not? Venus herself was not irresistible until she put on the right girdle. Hugh had asked her to help in comparing some lists, and she knew very well that every minute of help she gave him this evening was an extra minute for the other girl.

She bent her head over the papers before her, for the things she was thinking must steal into her face in spite of herself.

"Are you very tired?" said Hetherington kindly, but yet altogether impersonally. She raised her head and smiled. What was the use? If it were not this misery, it would be something else for a waif such as she. "Oh, not at all," she said.

"I do not believe there is another girl who would be as patient as you are with all my tiresome stuff and with me too. Even mother's endurance gives out once in a while, and she scolds about my den. If it weren't for you, I don't know what would happen. If you're really not tired, I want to go over these lists with you now, and then I'm off for the Kendrick reception. Gertrude Stevenson will be there," he said, a happy little smile playing about his lips. "Seems to me she is getting more beautiful every day. Don't you think so?"

Hetherington did not even look at her for his answer. He was indeed insisting on being even chummier than usual this evening, and Winifred bent her head close over the papers once more.

"Of course," Hetherington went on, "Gertrude is popular, very. Sillington has a mint of money, too, but I don't think she's the kind of girl who would stoop to anything like that."

Winifred had to listen to that and much more in snatches and monologues, and she was glad when at last Hetherington left. There are times when it is singularly harder to be "chummy" than at others.

The next morning Hetherington had gone when she came to breakfast, something most unusual for him. In the evening he did not ask her help. He talked very little, and Mrs. Hetherington later said to her husband, "Can it be that Hugh is not well?"

Her husband looked up retrospectively over his glasses.

"Maybe he's in love. Maybe he has proposed to some girl, and she's turned him down. Every young fellow has to have a lesson or two. It won't hurt him, I suppose."

"Oh, how can you talk so? I am sure Hugh would not propose to a girl without talking to me about it first."

Whereupon Mr. Hetherington senior smiled behind his paper and went on reading. A long and comparatively serene matrimonial voyage had taught him that arguments only fill the sails with head winds.

Winifred herself neither questioned nor seemed to take heed of Hugh's moods. After several evenings he came down and asked her once more to come and help him.

"What do you think, Winifred," he said abruptly after awhile, "ought to be the test of love?"

"I should think if some one loves you all the time, whether you are fresh or tired, pleasant or not pleasant, successful or not."

"Fresh or tired, pleasant or not pleasant, successful or not"— Then he laughed a little jarringly, she thought. "But what do you know about it, after all? You never loved like that, did you?"

She looked at him with startled, almost guilty eyes, and Hetherington had a queer feeling of having entered unwittingly into a sanctified presence.

He rose and walked around the room aimlessly for a few minutes. Then he said he had some nasty experiments to make, and maybe she would not want to stay, although he rather looked as though he would have liked to have had her.

But she left and then sat at her window watching his shadow move to and fro as it fell against the trees of the garden. Suddenly she heard a spluttering explosion and a strange guttural cry. For a ghastly second she watched the fitful leap of lights on the trees, but his shadow did not come back. Then she grabbed her water pitcher, full happily, and the heavy rug on the floor and ran into his room. She flung the door open upon a thin blur of flame and flickering tongues reaching like dancing imps here and there in midair, and through it all something like a huddled figure on the floor. Up went the water ahead of herself and over herself and then the rug over the figure, and with a strength she hardly dared to think could be in her tense muscles she dragged it out toward the hall. Then, wrapping her skirts around herself with a quick turn, she tore down the burning portieres that screened the laboratory from the den, and, finding the hose attached to the hydrant, she set the spray over herself and over the room.

By this time the others had come. But it was really all over. She staggered out to look at Hugh. His eyes were closed, his face blackened.

"Is he dead? Oh, is he dead?" she said weakly.

Then, covering her face with her burned hands as if fearing the answer, she sank down in a white heap beside him.

The next day Hugh, who, though singed and stunned, had been little hurt, sat beside her and held her bandaged hands.

He watched the play of her features as he talked to her, and it seemed to him like watching an unfolding flower. He caught himself wondering again and again at some newly discovered charm. What deep, fine eyes! What a singularly sweet and unaffected smile! What an intimate gentleness in her voice!

Mrs. Hetherington said one morning: "How charming you are in that pale yellow wrapper! You are quite transformed." And she passed her hand tenderly over the girl who had saved her last child to her.

Hugh said, "She is Cinderella, and the fairy godmother has shaken the magic tree over her."

And he did not know just yet that the magic which was touching her and him, too, was older even than fairy godmothers.

He spent his spare moments now trying to please her, even as she had once tried to please him. He told her over and over again that it was her wit and her speed and her dear burned hands that saved his life after his stupidity with the ether and the collodion.

"Ah, no," she would say. "It was an inspiration. I am not a bit brave of myself."

"Do you remember," he said one day, "your test of love?"

She blushed a little this time. "You never told me," he went on, "whether you ever loved any one that way or not."

She did not answer.

"Do you think that you could?"

He thought he saw a smile flit over the face, bent away from him though it was, and he took her hands that were now healed, though still scarred a little.

She raised her head and looked at him, and Hetherington suddenly knelt down before her and kissed her hands, and then he drew her head down to him and kissed her on the lips.

An African Night.

From the bush rose the death scream of some animal in the grip of its pursuer, jackals yelped in the distance or the prolonged howl of a hyena broke out close at hand. A wakeful "boy" imitated it derisively, the snores gave place to a renewed murmur of talk, the askari flung another log on the smoldering fire. Not always did the land lie silent. I have known sleep made difficult by the antics of hundreds of zebra, who thudded hither and thither on the plain like diminutive cavalry and cried in a succession of little barks, worried, perhaps, by finding the camp between them and their accustomed watering place. In some districts when on wet nights rain had swamped the fires, a zoological garden of "questing beasts" was apt to foregather round the tents. Thus hyenas, jackals, three lions and a brace of hippopotami contributed intimately to one seance that I wot of, and, as the darkness was too thick for vision, that night yielded but scanty peace. Hippo are at all times awkward things to get raveled up in the tent ropes.—Cornhill Magazine.

Maori Women.

Maori women of New Zealand know nothing about kissing. Nose rubbing is their form of salutation, and when two friends meet they hold each other by their hands, bend their heads until their noses touch and then rub them gently from side to side. This form of greeting is not confined to the women, but is practiced by the men. They seldom meet without rubbing noses. In times of lamentation the Maori women will sit for hours with their noses touching and moan for the loss of some chief whom they have in all probability never seen. The loss of a brother or friend is enough to start them off for days, all moaning and howling piteously. They are essentially a sympathetic race, and the sorrows of one are the sorrows of all.—Chicago News.

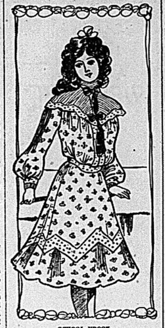
WINTER FASHION HINTS.

Smart Costumes In One Color—Green and Black Combinations.

The old fashioned notion of the light blouse with the dark coat and skirt is only permissible for purely practical purposes. Even then it is better to have some sort of connection between the waist and the skirt. For instance, if you have a dark blue Russian blouse coat and skirt it is better taste to wear under it a waist of some blue material or white material figured in blue.

The craze this autumn among smart women is to dress entirely in one color from headgear down. This can be carried out particularly well in the browns and dark reds.

Red hats, red dresses and red costumes of all sorts are very stylish.



SCHOOL FROCK.

Gowns of red veiling are made up over glace silk and liberty satins of a darker or lighter shade in order to give a changeable effect.

A touch of green is both smart and pretty on an all black costume. One of the most recent Parisian importations is a black velvet princess dress, whose jet ornaments are mingled with grass green embroidery.

The child's frock in the illustration is very useful for school and everyday wear. The material is rough goods of an old rose shade. The waist is laid in clusters of three tucks, and the fullness is confined into a band of white silk worked with black French knots. Bands of this also trim the skirt and the wide collar of old rose tucked silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A New Wrinkle in Eggs.

The results of experiments recently made at Frankfort on the Main are interesting. The eggs of hens of various breeds fed during some weeks with food containing a large percentage of iron, when carefully analyzed contained .99 milligrams to 1.79 per 100 grams of substance exclusive of yolk. Thus there was much more iron in the eggs than those from hens fed as usual. The iron is in a very digestible form—viz, albuminate of iron. Here is a good remedy for anaemia.—Gazzeta delle Campagne.

Sleep Disturbed

BY SUDDEN STARTINGS AND JERKING OF THE LIMBS—RESTLESSNESS AND WAKEFULNESS SYMPTOMS OF NERVOUS EXHAUSTION.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Twitchings of the muscles of the face, sensitiveness to light, sound and motion, grinding teeth during sleep, continual moving or tapping of the fingers, neuralgic headache, sparks before the eyes, disorders of sight and hearing, and feelings of discouragement, languor and despondency are other indications of a weak and exhausted nervous system.

Plenty of people put up with these symptoms, in the vain hope that they will pass off and that old-time health and vigor will return. Alas, nervous disorders do not right themselves.

Nervous prostration and collapse, epilepsy, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, and even insanity itself are but further developments of nervous exhaustion. The symptoms mentioned above come as a warning to you to rebuild the wasted nerve cells, and rekindle the vital spark of nerve energy, which is fast becoming depleted.

Mrs. Woodstock, East Moira street, Belleville, Ont., states: "I was so very nervous and my system so exhausted that at times I would take severe dizzy spells, which made me stagger and at other times I had splitting headaches. In fact my health generally was being undermined by my trouble. I got a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after having used this preparation for some time I am pleased to say that my nerves are strong and steady, the dizziness is gone and the headaches are a thing of the past."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is composed of nature's most powerful restoratives and nerve invigorators; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The land area of Hawaii is 4,000,000 acres.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.
Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

A man should be careful not to afflict his wife, for God counts her tears.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Wedding rings in St. Kilda used to be made of worsted.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Contentment may be better than wealth, but the most of us are compelled to jog along without either.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

TIMELY TOPICS.

If certain Grits in this city, who some time ago said the Drill Shed roof could be repaired at a cost of $10 or $15, would look inside that building now they would have cause to change their opinion. It looks more like a $1500 job at present.

• • •

And the Government allowed the Regiment to drill there all summer, not knowing, or, perhaps, caring, what minute the roof might fall down and kill a few Tories.

• • •

Our friend the Fishery Inspector, who according to the local Grit sheet, loses six nights' rest a week advancing the interests of this city, must have been too busy hatching fish stories to think of the danger which threatened a couple of hundred men who drilled under that shaky roof on Church St.

• • •

If the referendum carries next month the Grits' organ will have to invent a new excuse for the defeat of their candidates. With prohibition in force they won't be able to say the free and independent electors of West Hastings were bought with "a couple of dollars and three fingers of whiskey."

• • •

At a meeting of the Bartenders' International League, held in St. John, N.B., John Cronin was elected chaplain. John Collins was probably master of ceremonies.

• • •

There is a good deal of heart-burning in Peterboro just now, caused by the fact that a beautiful young lady of that town published a volume of verses—or poems,—the same being reviewed by the literary editor of the Toronto News in a flippant and rather unfeeling way. Then a Peterboro man, with more gallantry than good sense, perhaps, rushed into print in defence of the sweet singer of Peterboro, the News man retorted, and the young lady got a lot more free advertising than she was looking for and her defender got laughed at. It's better to leave those case-hardened Philistines of the press alone. They hold hardly anything in reverence, not even the sweet, shy murmurings of a young lady's first attempt at poetry.

At a football match recently in Staunton, Ill., one of the players was hurt and died while being taken to a hospital. His fellow players went back to the field, pulled up the goal posts, split them up, put their uniforms on top of them and set the pyramid on fire, announcing that there would be no more football played in that town. Sensible fellows!

THE DOUKHOBORS.

(Ottawa Citizen.)

The more that is learned about the Doukhobors and the manner in which they have been handled since they came to Canada, the worse the scandal grows. It is now stated that the bulk of them have never paid any taxes since they have been in the country and that the Interior Department has even interfered with local authorities to prevent these freaks from being annoyed by the tax collector. It is noted that at one point, Devil's Lake district, where the authorities insisted in making them amenable to the law and exacted taxes from them the Douks are now settled down and taking no part in the present disturbance. Apparently the others have been pampered and allowed to do much as they like in order, if possible, to avert any demonstration such as has now occurred. It will be remembered how reports as to the eccentricities of these people had been denied by the department even up to within a week or two of this final outburst of craziness, the object being to conceal the real state of affairs. They were even allowed to live tax free in addition to other privileges while the Canadian taxpayers paid their taxes for them. When the whole facts concerning this importation become known it bids fair to result in some remarkable revelations.

John Redmond, the Irish agitator, has been given six months, and the gift was entirely unsolicited. John will emerge from his gloomy dungeon in the merry month of May, as the balladists would say, then he'll sing a merry lay, and look to New York for his pay. And the poor Irish servant girls et al. will ante up and try to look pleasant.

Old John Bull may be rather slow, but in the end he can be depended on to tell deliberate deception from fair dealing. It has taken the British people some time to see through the Canadian Government's preferential duty scheme, but the following, from the London Times, shows that Britain's leading newspaper, at all events, sees the humbug in its true light. The Times says:

> "The appendix dealing with Canadian trade illustrates in a curious way how little may result even from liberal preferential treatment when the general fiscal arrangements are highly protective. Notwithstanding the preference of 33 per cent. on British goods, the ad valorem burden upon British exports to Canada is actually higher than the ad valorem burden borne by the general trade with other countries sending goods to Canada. Taken as a whole our exports to Canada pay 18 per cent. ad valorem in spite of the preference, while American goods pay on the whole 12 per cent., and the burden upon all Canadian imports taken together is 16 per cent."

In spite of all their talk about loyalty and a British preference, the Grits collect a duty of 18 per cent. from British imports as against one of 16 per cent. on goods imported from the United States. Queer fellows, those Grits!

Globe: When the Doukhobors once get really interested in No. 1 hard they will get over their present aberations.

That is the airy way the chief Government organ treats the fact that a couple of thousand crazy foreigners, who were imported into this country at Government expense, are walking bare-footed in the snow, allowing their infants to die of cold and hunger. By the time The Globe gets "really interested" in the Douks they will probably "get over" living.

The Globe says: Two speeches made by Col. A. T. Thompson, M. P., at entertainments held on board the vessel which bore the Canadian troops to the coronation have been printed and bound, and form a pleasing souvenir of the occasion. Col. Thompson cracks many a joke in these speeches, and they evidently served well their mission of contributing to an evening's amusement between decks.

It is to be hoped the country will not be called on to pay for the printing and binding of the above speeches, as they did for the fireworks which welcomed home Sir Wilfrid. They might not, in that case, form such a "pleasing souvenir of the occasion."

Why not send the Fishery Inspector out to look after the Doukhobors? They certainly come under the head of "queer fish."

THE FAMOUS SHOE FOR WOMEN

"IMITATIONS"

When every store is selling a so-called "SHOE FOR WOMEN" it does not mean that they have a demand for such a shoe from their customers.

It means simply that they realize the enormous success of the "QUEEN QUALITY" Shoe and want to imitate it.

But they cannot imitate it.

and if they could do you want an imitation when you can have the original at no greater expense?

It is a fact that most of the styles of shoes sold in the stores originate on "Queen Quality."

Remember that no imitation is ever as good as the original.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards, the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody:

In Suits

The Tweed, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

No Variation in Medicine

Sometimes, not always a bottle of medicine comes out milky, when it should be clear and vice versa, because there has been some slight alteration in the prescription. We never alter a prescription, except as directed by the physician who wrote it, hence our medicines come out the same each time. That is a great gain to a sick person, for any variation of medicine may cause a set back and loss of progress.

(Britt, Iowa, Tribune.)

While stopping at Ogden a few days ago, we noticed bubbles continually rising on the waters that cover the farming lands. On investigation it proved to be the hired man coming up to get air. They were cutting oats under the water. The ducks went on top of the barns to lay their eggs, and the eggs rolling off the roof were being hatched by the mud turtles. The rural drivers had a seat on top of their wagons, and driving into a mud hole they whipped the horse as long as it was in sight, and then whipped the bubbles until it came out on the other side of the slough. They run lawn mowers on the sidewalks Sundays to scare the bullfrogs off, so ladies can go to church. The farmers are all growing gills and air bladders, and fins are sprouting on their backs. It is very wet down that way this year.

Something About Shamrock III.

New York, Nov. 5.—Frederic C. Penfield, who returned Saturday night on the American Liner St. Paul, stated that Sir Thomas Lipton firmly believes that Shamrock will sail back to England with the America's Cup. Mr. Penfield is an experienced and enthusiastic yachtsman, and a member of the New York Yacht Club, and has been visiting Sir Thomas in London.

"How much faster will your new defender be than the Constitution?' Sir Thomas asked me one day," said said Mr. Penfield yesterday at the Everett House. "I told him I heard it would be five minutes faster."

"I hope that is a fact," replied Sir Thomas, "for if it is only five minutes I will win the cup."

Sir Thomas thinks that there were faults in the construction of the last challenger. "There were aluminum slips between the plates," he said to me, "and in the pounding on the way across the Atlantic they became softened, and leaks were the consequence. This was a great disadvantage in windward work, when it was found almost impossible to stop the leaking. There will be no aluminum in my new boat."

"Sir Thomas has declared," said Mr. Penfield, "that if he fails to win the Cup this time, no British challenger shall ever try for it again. 'The entire yachting fraternity of Great Britain have told me,' he said, long ago, 'that no other challenger could do as well as the two Shamrocks have done, or as well as I expect to do with the third one. The Cup has been over there fifty-two years, and if I don't bring it back this time it may stay there until the end of time'."

SPORTING NOTES.

The salary list of next year's Pittsburg National League baseball team will total $82,000.

There is a strong movement on foot to form a Canadian league of professional baseball players. The proposal is to exclude all players who have not resided in Canada for a year. It is proposed to have the circuit consist of two groups, so as to reduce the travelling expenses to a minimum. The towns have not yet been definitely chosen, but it has been suggested that Hamilton, London, Woodstock and Guelph form the western circuit, while Toronto, Peterboro, Gananoque, Kingston and Ottawa make up the eastern, with both divisions under a single management. The salary limit suggested is $500 or $600 a month. They would give each team eleven players — three pitchers and two catchers, one of the latter being utilized as an out-fielder.

It is said in Peterboro that the Trent Valley Hockey League will be absorbed by the Ontario Hockey Association, although preserving its identity as a district of the big association. Fenelon Falls, Norwood, Lindsay and Campbellford comprise the district.

OUR LIVES.

Our lives are songs. God writes the words,
And we set them to music at pleasure,
And the song grows glad or sweet or sad
As we choose to fashion the measure

We must write the music, whatever the song,
Whatever its rhyme or meter,
And if it is sad we can make it glad,
Or if sweet we can make it sweeter.

One has a song that is free and strong,
But the music he writes is minor,
And the sad, sad strain is replete with pain,
And the singer becomes a repiner.

And he thinks God gave him a dirge-like ray
Nor knows that the words are cheery,
And the song seems lonely and solemn only
Because the music is dreary.

And the song of another has through the words
An undercurrent of sadness,
But he sets it to music of ringing chords
And makes it a paean of gladness.

So whether our songs are sad or not
We can give the world more pleasure
And better ourselves by setting the words,
To a glad, triumphant measure.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

The Supreme Court of Kennebec has just confirmed the wisdom of the lawmakers holding a saloon keeper responsible for the acts of a person to whom he has sold liquor. An alleged dealer at Gardiner has this week paid $200 in settlement of the claim made by a wife who had been ill-treated by her husband when intoxicated. Probably this saloon keeper wants resubmission of this section of the statutes.

RE. COLONIAL CONFERENCE

Official Statement Giving the Canadian Side of It.

Dominion Government Hoped For a Preference in Giving One—Origin of Canada's Preferential Tariff—Britain Declined to Make Concession on the Strength of Canada's Good-Will—Mr. Chamberlain Did Not Think Advantages Were So Great as Canadian Ministers Claimed.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—An official statement on the colonial conference was issued here yesterday. Mr. Fielding gave it out. It is as follows:

"The Blue Book issued in London contains several speeches by members of the Imperial Cabinet, introducing subjects to the conference, but the debates which followed were treated as confidential, and therefore are not included in the published report. All the resolutions adopted by the conference are published. In several matters of special importance documents were submitted by members of the conference, and those are included in the published report.

"On the subject of preferential trade the members of the Imperial Cabinet were inclined to minimize the value of the preference given by Canada. The British Board of Trade submitted elaborate statistical statements on the trade between the United Kingdom and the colonies, and also a special memorandum on the effect of the Canadian preferential tariff on trade between the United Kingdom and Canada. In this it was argued that, notwithstanding the preference, the Canadian tariff was still high, and that the preference did not very materially benefit Great Britain. This memorandum was met by another prepared by the Canadian Ministers, giving the history of the preferential tariff, showing the increase that had taken place in trade between Canada and the mother country, and contending that this increase was to a very considerable extent due to the preference. Debates on these questions took place and the matter was also considered by the committees. In the course of the negotiations suggestions were made as to further advantages that might be given to Great Britain in return for a preference in the British market.

What the Colonies Could Offer.

"The President of the Board of Trade, Right Hon. Gerald Balfour, submitted to the conference a memorandum giving the substance of what the colonies were disposed to grant in return for such a British preference. This memorandum is as follows:—

"Memorandum by the President of the Board of Trade—As a result of the communications which have taken place it is understood that the representatives of the colonies hereinafter mentioned are prepared to recommend to their respective Parliaments preferential treatment to British goods on the following lines:—

"Canada—The existing preference of thirty-three and a third per cent. and an additional preference on lists of selected articles.

"(a) By further reducing the duties in favor of the United Kingdom.

"(b) By raising the duties against foreign imports.

"(c) By imposing duties on certain foreign imports now on the free list.

"Australia—Preferential treatment not yet defined as to nature or extent.

"New Zealand—A general preference by ten per cent. all round reduction of the present duty on British manufactured goods or an equivalent in respect of lists of selected articles in the lines proposed by Canada, namely:—

"(a) By further reducing the duties in favor of the United Kingdom.

"(b) By raising the duties against foreign imports.

"(c) By imposing duties on certain imports now on the free list.

"The Cape and Natal—A preference of twenty-five per cent. or its equivalent on dutiable goods other than specially rated articles to be given by increasing the duties on foreign imports.

The Resolution Adopted.

"Ultimately, a resolution on the subject of preferential trade was adopted by the conference and the Canadian Ministers summarized the proceedings on the subject in a memorandum which is included in the blue book.

"The resolution of the conference reads as follows:—

"(1) That this conference recognizes the principle of preferential trade between the United Kingdom and his Majesty's dominions beyond the seas, would stimulate and facilitate mutual commercial intercourse, and would, by promoting the development of the resources and industries of the several parts, strengthen the Empire.

"(2) That this conference recognizes that in the present circumstances of the colonies it is not practicable to adopt a general system of free trade as between the mother country and the British dominions beyond the seas.

"(3) That with a view, however, of promoting the increase of trade within the Empire, it is desirable that those colonies which have not already adopted such a policy should, as far as their circumstances permit, give substantial preferential treatment to the products and manufactures of the United Kingdom.

"(4) That the Prime Ministers of the colonies respectfully urge on his Majesty's Government the expediency of granting in the United Kingdom preferential treatment to the products and manufactures of the colonies, either by exemption from, or reduction of, duties now or hereafter imposed.

"(5) The Prime Ministers present at the conference undertake to submit to their respective Governments at the earliest opportunity the principle of the resolution, and to request them to take such measures as may be necessary to give effect to it."

Canada's Final Proposal.

"The following is the Canadian Minister's final memorandum on the subject of preferential trade:—

"This subject has frequently engaged the attention of the conference. At an early stage Mr. Chamberlain suggested that the question could most conveniently be dealt with by the representatives of each colony placing themselves in communication with the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Gerald Balfour, and the officials of that department. Accordingly the Canadian Ministers had several protracted interviews with these gentlemen and discussed the whole subject very fully. Opportunity was also taken to present the Canadian view to Mr. Chamberlain. These discussions were naturally of a verbal and private character. Now that the conference is drawing to a close it is desirable that the course of the negotiations and the conclusions reached should be obtained in official form to be placed on record.

"From the beginning of the proceedings the Canadian Ministers have claimed that in consideration of a substantial preference given by Canada for some years to the products of the mother country, Canadian food products should be exempted in the United Kingdom from the duties recently imposed. Representations to this effect previously made through the High Commissioner for Canada were supplemented by the Ministers both in writing and in personal interviews with the Imperial Ministers.

"Mr. Chamberlain on behalf of the Imperial Government was unable to agree to the proposals of the Canadian Government. He represented that the Imperial Government while highly appreciating the good feeling manifested by Canada in the granting of preferential treatment, did not think its material advantages to the trade of the United Kingdom were as great as the Canadian Ministers claimed. He further said that the change desired by Canada would be an important departure from the established fiscal policy of the Kingdom, and that if the proposals could be entertained at all, as to which he was not prepared to commit himself, it would be necessary for Canada to offer some material tariff concessions beyond those which she had already voluntarily given. The Canadian Ministers, therefore, submitted a memorandum of the subject of the advantages received by Great Britain from the Canadian preferential tariff, with a view to showing that they were of much value, and entitled to weight in the consideration of the whole subject.

Question of Further Concessions.

"While urging that the benefits of the preference were such as to entitle Canada to the desired exemption from the duties on food products in the United Kingdom, the Canadian Ministers stated that within certain limitations they were prepared to consider the request of Mr. Chamberlain for further concessions. They stated, however, that it was necessary to have a clear understanding as to the relations of the preference to Canadian industries. While holding that it was not necessary to enter into questions as to the wisdom or unwisdom of the fiscal policy under which those industries had grown up in Canada, they had to recognize the fact that those industries might be seriously affected by further tariff changes. Large reductions of duties had already been made, especially in British imports, and the Ministers feared that in some lines of importance further reductions would create such a disturbance of trade as would not be conducive to the welfare of the country. Therefore, further concessions to the disadvantage of home industry could not be made. But the Canadian Ministers pointed out that the Canadian tariff was by no means prohibitive, that large quantities of goods were imported and that a great proportion of these came from foreign countries. In any lines in which there was reasonable probability that these goods could be manufactured in Great Britain it might be possible to so readjust duties as to give an additional advantage to the British manufacturer, and thus turn over to him a volume of trade the profits of which now go to foreign countries.

Methods of Readjustment.

"This readjustment might be brought about in any or all of the following ways:—

"(1) In some cases by the reduction of duties now imposed on British goods, where such reduction might be made without injustice to any Canadian industry.

"(2) By the transfer of some articles from the free list to the dutiable list at such rates as would give substantial preference to the British manufacturer, instead of leaving him, as, at present, on even terms with the foreign competition in respect to such articles.

"(3) By imposing a small duty as respects foreign goods on some articles now on the free list, while allowing them to continue free as respects British imports.

"(4) In some cases, possibly by an increase in the duty on foreign articles, thus increasing the amount of the preference on British goods. Such increase of duties on foreign articles could, however, only be justified where the market could be supplied by the British manufacturer at the preferential rates of duty.

The Principle Involved.

"The Canadian Ministers stated that if they could be assured that the Imperial Government would accept the principle of preferential trade generally, and particularly grant to the food products of Canada in the United Kingdom exemption from duties now levied, they, the Canadian Ministers, would be prepared to carry on the discussion on the lines above mentioned and endeavor to give to the British manufacturer an increased advantage over his foreign competitor in the markets of Canada.

"Meanwhile the Canadian Ministers determined to present to the conference a resolution affirming the principle of preferential trade, and the desirability of its adoption by the colonies generally, and also expressing the opinion of the Prime Ministers of the colonies that His Majesty's Government should reciprocate by granting preferential terms to the products of the colonies in the markets of the mother country.

"In taking this course the Ministers desired to have it understood that they did so with the strong hope and expectation that the principle of preferential trade would be more widely accepted by the colonies, and that the mother country would at no distant day see the wisdom of adopting the same principle by granting exemption in the United Kingdom to the products of the colonies from duties at present levied.

"If after using every effort to bring about such a readjustment of the fiscal policy of the Empire the Canadian Government should find that the principle of preferential trade is not acceptable to the colonies generally or the mother country, then Canada should be free to take such action as might then be deemed necessary in the presence of such conditions.

393 Adult Women and 133 Children of Doukhobors Put on Trains.

Saltcoats, N. W. T., Nov. 6.—Train bearing 393 adult women and 133 children between ages of 5 and 12 years, and 30 infants, left Yorkton yesterday morning for Swan River. They were entrained easily.

Cold Doubles Them Up.

Solsgirth, Man., Nov. 6.—It was dark when the pilgrim army camped last night a mile and a half west of this point. They covered exactly the same distance yesterday as the day before, but there is a notable difference in their condition. One night of exposure to the inclement weather has done more to weaken and sap their vitality than the whole six days of traveling and hardship. When the pilgrims started from Fort Warren yesterday morning, they were perished with the cold. Three of the pilgrims had to be supported, partially or wholly along the trail.

One of the most picturesque spectacles to be seen along the line of march is the meals of the pilgrims. Here is how they did it. They unpacked their blankets, and spred them on the ground in three continuous parallel lines. The donations of food made by the Solsgirth citizens were given to several to distribute. The whole concourse stood reverently bareheaded and bowed while a prayer was recited and a short chant sung. Then the company sat on the prairie facing one another. Dry oatmeal was the staple article of diet. When hunger had been practically satisfied, the whole concourse repaired to the back yards of the residences, and the pumps were kept busy for fifteen minutes quenching their thirst.

Men Reach Shoal Lake.

Shoal Lake, Man., Nov. 6.—The Doukhobors reached here yesterday. The first of the advance guard came in at 1 o'clock, and the others followed in twos and threes, in close succession, until 3.30, when the main body of about four or five hundred, in a compact square, about 20 abreast, slowly marched in, chanting a hymn.

They were received in the middle of the town by the townspeople, who nearly all turned out to see them.

The pilgrims seem quite peaceably disposed, molesting no one, and are civil and courteous in their demeanor. Their countenances show determination, peace and good will towards all men. After their arrival, they moved to a vacant piece of land at the skating rink at the east of the town, where, about 5 o'clock, all took a hearty supper of bread, oatmeal, apples and onions. The pilgrims camped at the east end of the town, and continue their mearch eastward to-day.

Character In Nicknames.

When Austria was only a dukedom, there were three rulers who won for themselves the respective titles "Catholic," "Glorious" and "Warlike." The first was perhaps a religious man, like Ferdinand the Catholic of Spain. The second may have been like Lorenzo the Magnificent and the third a great warrior. And so from these titles or nicknames we have likewise some idea of the conditions of the people while these dukes ruled.

France has had a most wonderful assortment of kings. One was the Little and another the Bold. One was the Stammerer, another Simple, while a third and fourth were Indolent and Fair. These names are descriptive of the kings themselves, but it is hardly to be supposed that a king who was indolent or simple did much to further the interests of his subjects. But when we find Robert II. called the Sage, we realize that he ruled wisely and that the people were better off for it.

An Artist's Lament.

Otto Lasius in his diary describes a walk he took one day with Bocklin, the famous artist, near Zurich. Bocklin was in raptures over the colors of the autumn leaves, the blue sky, the clouds. "Ah, those are colors!" he exclaimed. "If we could have those on our palettes! How weak are our means in comparison with those of nature! White is our best light, and only by means of clever contrasts can we secure effects approximating the natural ones."

You have never thought just what Dry Soap really means?

It is soap in the form of a fine powder, that when combined with water attacks dirt in the most direct manner, because it goes where the water goes—through and through everything.

It is the active principle of soap. When you purchase ordinary soap you get a large proportion water, for it is water that holds the soap particles together in the bar or cake.

Hudson's Dry Soap when steeped with clothes penetrates everywhere, takes out the dirt and leaves the clothes spotless. It is harmless to the clothes and it leaves no smell. It will clean scores of things in the house that ordinary soap would ruin. It will disinfect all sinks and drain pipes down which the suds are poured.

HUDSON'S DRY SOAP is the ONLY DRY SOAP.

It is at every good grocer's and is waiting to serve you.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

"Rather pretty, more character than Katy, but odd and self-willed, with no kind of style," was Wilford's running comment on Helen as he took her in from the plain arrangement of her dark hair to the fit of her French calico and the cut of her linen collar.

Fashionable dress would improve her very much, he thought, turning with a feeling of relief to Katy, whom nothing could disfigure, and who was now watching the door eagerly for the entrance of her mother. That lady had spent a good deal of time at her toilet, and she came in at last, flurried, fidgety, and very red, both from exercise and the bright hued ribbons streaming from her cap and sadly at variance with the color of the dress. Wilford noticed the discrepancy at once, and noticed too how little style there was about the nervous woman greeting him so deferentially, and evidently regarding him as something infinitely superior to herself. Wilford had looked with indifference on Helen, but it would take a stronger word to express his opinion of the mother. Morris, who remained to dinner, was in the parlor now, and in his presence Wilford felt more at ease, more as if he had found an affinity. Uncle Ephraim was not there, having eaten his bowl of milk and gone back to his stone wall, so that upon Morris devolved the duties of host, and he courteously led the way to the little dining-room where the table was loaded with the good things Aunt Hannah had prepared, burning and browning her wrinkled face, which nevertheless smiled pleasantly upon the stranger presented as Mr. Cameron.

About Aunt Hannah there was something naturally ladylike, and Wilford recognized it at once; but when it came to Aunt Betsy, of whom he had never heard, he felt for a moment as if by being there in such promiscuous company he had somehow fallen from the Camerons' high estate. By way of pleasing the girls and doing honor to their guest, Aunt Betsy had donned her very best attire, wearing the slate-colored pongee dress, bought twenty years before, and actually sporting a set of Helen's cast-off hoops, which being too large for the dimensions of her scanty skirt, gave her anything but the graceful appearance she intended.

"Oh, auntie!" was Katy's involuntarily exclamation, while Helen bit her lip with vexation, for the hoop had been an afterthought to Aunt Betsy just before going in to dinner.

But the good old lady never dreamed of shocking anyone with her attempts at fashion; and curtsying very low to Mr. Cameron, she hoped for a better acquaintance, and then took her seat at the table, just where each movement could be distinctly seen by Wilford, scanning her so intently as scarcely to hear the reverent words with which Morris asked a blessing upon themselves and the food so abundantly prepared. They could hardly have gotten through that first dinner without Morris, who adroitly led the conversation into channels which he knew would interest Mr. Cameron, and divert his mind from what was passing around him, and so the dinner proceeded quietly enough, Wilford discovering, ere its close, that Mrs. Lennox had really some pretentions to a lady, while Helen's dress and collar ceased to be obnoxious, as he watched the play of her fine features and saw her eyes kindle as she took a modest part in the conversation when it turned on books and literature.

Meanwhile Katy kept very silent, but when, after dinner was over and Morris was gone, she went with Wilford down to the shore of the pond, her tongue was loosed, and he found again the little fairy who had so bewitched him a few weeks before. And yet there was a load upon his heart, a shadow upon his brow, for he knew now that between Katy's family and his there was a social gulf which never could be crossed by either party. He might beat Katy over, it was true, but would she not look longingly back to her humble home, and might he not sometimes be greatly chagrined by the sudden appearing of some one of this low-bred family who did not seem to realize how ignorant they were or how far below him in the social scale? Poor Wilford! He winced and shivered when he thought of Aunt Betsy, in her antiquated pongee, and remembered that she was a near relative of the little maiden sporting so playfully around him, stealing his heart away in spite of his family pride, and making him more deeply in love than ever. It was very pleasant down by the pond, and Wilford kept Katy there until the sun was going down and they heard in the distance the tinkle of a bell as the deacon's cows plodded slowly homeward. Supper was waiting for them, and with his appetite sharpened by his walk, Wilford found no cause to complain against Aunt Hannah's viands, though he smiled mentally as he accepted the piece of apple pie Aunt Betsy offered him, saying, by way of recommendation, that "she made the crust but Catherine peeled and sliced the apples."

The deacon had not returned from his work, and Wilford did not see him until he came suddenly upon him, seated in the woodshed door, resting after the labor of the day. "The young man was welcome to Silverton," he said, "but he must excuse him from visitin' much that night, for the cows was to milk and the chores to do, as he never kep' no boy." The "chores" were done at last, just as the clock pointed to half-past eight, the hour for family worship. Unaccustomed as Wilford was to such things, he felt the influence of the deacon's voice as he read from the word of God, and involuntarily found himself kneeling when Katy knelt, noticing the deacon's grammar it is true, but still listening patiently to the lengthy prayer, which included him together with the rest of mankind.

There was no chance of seeing Katy alone, that night, and so full two hours before his usual custom Wilford retired to the little room to which the deacon conducted him, saying, as he put down the lamp: "You'll find it pretty snug quarters, I guess, for such a close, muggy night as this."

And truly they were snug quarters, Wilford thought, as he surveyed the dimensions of the room; but there was no alternative, and a few moments found him in the centre of the two feather beds, neither Helen nor Katy having discovered the addition made by Aunt Betsy, and which came near being the death of the New York guest. To sleep was impossible, and never for a moment did Wilford lose his consciousness or forget to accuse himself of being an idiot for coming into that heathenish neighborhood after a wife when in New York there were so many girls ready and waiting for him.

"I'll go back to-morrow morning," he said, and striking a match he consulted his Railway Guide to find when the first train passed Silverton, feeling comforted to know that only a few hours intervened between him and freedom.

But alas for Wilford! He was but a man, subject to man's caprices, and when next morning he met Katy Lennox, looking in her light muslin as pure and fair as the white blossoms twined in her wavy hair, his resolution began to waver. Perhaps there was a decent hotel in Silverton; he would inquire of Dr. Grant; at all events he would not take the first train, though he might the next; and so he staid, eating fried apples and beefsteak, but forgetting to criticize, in his appreciation of the rich thick cream poured into his coffee, and the sweet, golden butter, which melted in soft waves upon the flaky rolls. Again Uncle Ephraim was absent, having gone to mill before Wilford left his room, nor was he visible to the young man until after dinner, for Wilford did not go home, but drove instead with Katy in the carriage which Morris sent round, excusing himself from coming on the plea of being too busy, but saying he would join them at tea, if possible. Wilford's mind was not yet fully made up, so he concluded to remain another day and see more of Katy's family. Accordingly, after dinner, he bent his energies to cultivating them all, from Helen down to Aunt Betsy, who proved the most transparent of the four. Arrayed again in the pongee, but this time without the hoop, she came into the parlor, bringing her calico patchwork, which she informed him was pieced in the "herrin' bone pattern" and intended for Katy; telling him further, that the feather bed on which he slept was also a part of "Catherine's setting out," and was made from feathers she picked herself, showing him as proof a mark upon her arm, left there by the gray goose, which had proved a little refractory when she tried to draw a stocking over its head.

Wilford groaned, and Katy's chance for being Mrs. Cameron was growing constantly less and less as he saw more and more how vast was the difference between the Barlows and himself. Helen, he acknowledged, was passable, though she was not one whom he could ever introduce into New York society; and he was wondering how Katy chanced to be so unlike the rest, when Uncle Ephraim came up from the meadow, and announced himself as ready now to visit, apologizing for his apparent neglect, and seeming so absolutely to believe that his company was desirable, that Wilford felt amused, wondering again what Juno, or even Mark Ray, would think of the rough old man, sitting with his chair tipped back against the wall, and going occasionally to the door to relieve himself of his tobacco juice, for chewing was one of the deacon's weaknesses. His pants were faultlessly clean, and his vest was buttoned neatly up to his throat, but his coat was hanging on a nail out by the kitchen door, and, to Katy's distress and Wilford's horror, he sat among them in his shirt sleeves, all unconscious of harm or of the disquiet awakened in the bosom of the young man, who on that point was foolishly fastidious, and who showed by his face how much he was annoyed. Not even the presence of Morris, who came about tea time, was of any avail to lift the cloud from his brow, and he seemed moody and silent until supper was announced. This was the first opportunity Morris had had of trying his powers of persuasion upon the deacon, and now, at a hint from Katy, he said to him in an aside, as they were passing into the dining-room: "Suppose, Uncle Ephraim, you put on your coat for once. It is better than coming to the table so."

"Pooh," was Uncle Ephraim's innocent rejoinder, spoken loudly enough for Wilford to hear. "I sha'n't catch cold, for I am used to it; besides that, I never could stand the racket this hot weather."

He added that he had been suspended by A. W. Campbell, and that as soon as Mr. Latchford returned he would demand an investigation.

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, in response to criticisms of the measure from the Opposition, deprecated pessimism over South African affairs. He said the fact that the Boer prisoners would all be repatriated this year exceed the most sanguine expectations.

He declared that his sole desire in going to South Africa was to bring together a kindred people.

THE ELECTION TRIALS.

New Changes Have Been Made in the North Grey Case.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Nineteen additional charges yesterday were added to the 128 already made by the Conservatives against A. G. McKay in North Grey. The principal charge is that the respondent through the late Dr. Horsey, W. J. Halton and G. A. Ross, advanced money to John McCullough to buy votes in Owen Sound. Other charges are made, of giving "valuable consideration," hiring rigs, treating, etc. The trial will be held at Owen Sound on Nov. 11 at 2 p.m.

The date for the trial of the Halton petition, where the election of Mr. John R. Barber is protested, has been changed from Nov. 18 to Nov. 22, at Toronto, the court opening at 11 a.m. The date has also been arranged for the East Wellington protest, against the return of Hon. J. M. Gibson. It will be held at Toronto on Saturday, Nov. 22, at 10.30 a.m.

POWDER MILL BLOWN UP.

John Prince Killed at the Windsor Mills, Quebec.

Windsor Mills, Que., Nov. 6.—An explosion took place yesterday at half-past 12 o'clock at the Hamilton Powder Mills. One man was killed outright, John Prince. The mill known as the Corning Mill was blown to pieces. Not enough is left to give any idea of the cause of the explosion. The unfortunate man killed was the only person that worked in that mill. His remains were scattered for some distance in fragments. He leaves a wife and three children.

Narrowly Escaped Death.

Hamilton, Nov. 6.—John Schwenger, an employe of W. G. Walton, Mountain Top, came near being instantly killed while driving down the James street mountain early last evening. The horse was hooked up too close, and the rig ran on his heels, causing him to run away. Near the McLaren homestead the rig struck a tree, and Schwenger, who is a heavy man, was thrown about 20 feet. He struck a tree and was rendered unconscious. The rig was wrecked. Schwenger was removed to the General Hospital, where two scalp wounds were dressed. While he was unconscious at a late hour, hopes for his recovery are entertained.

A Hired Man Killed.

Lion's Head, Nov. 6. — Kenneth Smith, who worked for David Morrow, a farmer, living eight miles from here, while driving home Tuesday night, met with a fatal accident. His horses became unmanageable and ran away, upsetting the wagon and throwing him out, striking his head on a log beside the road. He died in a few hours, without regaining consciousness. His relatives are unknown here.

Female Aeronaut Killed.

Anna, Ill., Nov. 6.—Dora Morrison, an inexperienced aeronaut of Galesburg, fell from a balloon here and was instantly killed. She had ascended to a height of 2,000 feet.

CRIME IN HASTINGS COUNTY

REV. MR. FFRENCH SAYS LAX ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS MAY DRIVE LAW-ABIDING PEOPLE AWAY.

Tweed News: In a recent issue of the Belleville Intelligencer there appeared a letter from Rev. C. A. Ffrench, of St. James' church, Tweed, bringing to light the manner in which serious crimes in this section of Hastings county remain unpunished. In conversation with that gentleman this week he stated to our representative that matters have come to such a state in and around Actinolite that unless some great revolution in the punishment of crime soon took place it will be necessary for the respectable and law-abiding portion of the community to leave their homes in search of new ones where laws are properly enforced. It is indeed a pity that such a state of things should be allowed to exist in a civilized community and it is to be hoped that giving publicity to the matter will have its effect and that some of these criminals shall be brought to justice.

THUUGHT HE HAD A DEER

A TAMWORTH MAN SHOT IN THE LEG BY ONE OF HIS OWN HUNTING PARTY.

Tweed News: One of the first accidents of the hunting season in this section occurred back of The Flats on Tuesday morning, when Mr. Schuyler Kennedy, a member of a small party from Tamworth, came to grief. Between six and seven o'clock in the morning he started out from the camp in company with Mr. John Polmateer, of Erinsville, in search of game, leaving Mr. Harold Fuller behind at the camp. They had been out only a short time when they became separated and Polmateer, looking through the trees and brush, saw on a little knoll about 500 yards away what he thought was a deer. He at once fired and a moment later he heard his friend cry out, "John I'm shot." Polmateer at once realized his mistake and with the assistance of Fuller the unfortunate man was assisted to the camp. It was found that he had been shot through the left leg, the bullet passing through the flesh from the back and out through the front of the leg. Fortunately it missed the bone and did not make a very bad wound. Kennedy was at once driven to Tweed, arriving here about 5 p.m., when medical assistance was procured and the wound was dressed. Mr. Kennedy was taken to his home at Tamworth on the B. Q. R. train yesterday morning. Polmateer is a hunter of many years' experience and is an excellent shot. He can scarcely understand how he made his mistake.

It's too Late Now

After all the damage has been done, Prof. Lochead, of Guelph, rises to explain that the potato blight which has been general throughout the province, is an internal parasite—a fungus that grows rapidly when favored with weather like that which prevailed throughout the summer. A spray composed of a mixture of Paris green and bordeaux, he says, would have warded off the blight. If the Prof. had given this bit of information three months ago, it would have been of some value.

GIVEN CARTE BLANCHE

NEED OF CHANGES IN ELECTION LAW TO MEET GRIT MACHINE WORK.

(Winnipeg Tribune.)

If the precedents set in the Lisar election trial are to be followed money and whiskey may, apparntly, be used wholesale in an elecion, and the observance of a few imple precautions will be sufficient o prevent the unseating of the member thus elected, or the reportng for corrupt practices of any of he "workers." A few of the generl rules implied in the decisions givn seem to be:

The candidate need not know who aid his deposit, or who organized he campaign in his behalf, who rranged for scrutineers, or aranged for speakers, or who did any ther work whatever.

Proof of corrupt acts is not sufficient to unseat a member, unless t is also proved that the corrupt cts were committed by agents havng authority from the candidate or y a person having authority from uch an agent.

A person may drive around with a andidate or agent, and may buy otes for the candidate with money iven to him by the candidate or gent, but neither of them need adnit the fact of authority given to pend the money for this purpose, or need the authority of a third arty, and in that case, the said erson is not to be held by the courts s an agent.

A man may spend days canvassing or a candidate and spending money o elect him; he may also be the hief worker in the election in that art of the constituency, but he eed not be held to be an agent.

If agency should by any slip be dmitted in the case, no evidence gainst the agent should be bothred with unless it is from eminenty respectable persons, no matter ow much it may be corroborated.

If evidence against the agent is eard, the agent's plea of not guilty s to be taken as at least equally vorthy of belief, no matter wheher or not the agent inspires repect or confidence in his general ruthfulness.

Free whiskey may be distributed roadcast by agents, and others ven on polling day, but this is not to be considered as anything but hospitality. The court is to assume that it is not done to influence votes unless the distributor expressly says so in the presence of witnesses who can be got to testify to it.

Witnesses may, with impunity, stay away, or be kept away from court, even when subpoenaed and ordered by the judge to attend.

Assuming this to be the effect of the law as it at present exists it is surely time that Parliament amended it.

GOOD DAY'S SPORT

FOXBORO HUNTERS WHO ARE LIABLE TO MAKE WILDCATS SCARCE.

Mr. H. Atkin Thompson, of Foxboro, formerly of Belleville, writes to The Intelligencer as follows:

The hunting party from here, comprising John Thrasher, H. A. Thompson, Stanley Latta and Rid Palmer and brother, who are camped on Loon Lake, captured and killed two deer and five wild cats on Saturday. How is that for the first day's hunting?"

Died in Napanee

Mrs. Wm. H. Garrison died at Napanee yesterday after an extended illness from cancer of the stomach. Deceased was about 55 years of age and was well known in this section of the country, having for many years been a resident of the village of Plainfield. She was a member of the Methodist Church. A husband and one daughter, Miss Maud, survive.

GOT LAME BACK OR LUMBAGO?

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out, and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic, however, if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere in large 25c bottles.

DOUKHOBORS ARE STILL MARCHING ON MAIN BODY NOW 150 MILES FROM WINNIPEG—MANY HAVE BEEN SENT HOME.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 6.—A despatch from Yorkton, N.W.T., states that although the first detachment of 500 Doukhobor women, children and sick persons went home without much trouble yesterday, the condition of the five hundred women left there remains much the same as the men now on march. They demonstrate a disposition of passive resistance to being moved to their villages. Their principal objection seems to be to being drawn by horses. If they are moved it will most likely have to be done in wagons drawn by men. The sick are all better, and all the women are taking sufficient nourishment, resting quietly and apparently well satisfied with their quarters. A few are going out to their villages, being taken out by their friends. The weather is all that could be desired, bright, clear, sunshine, and the light fall of snow which recently fell is rapidly disappearing.

The main body of Doukhobor crusaders, about 500 strong, passed through Strathclair this afternoon eastward, bound with the intention of converting the world. They halted on the street, and in plain and civil language stated their intention to the inhabitants, also asking for food and shelter, saying that perhaps some one would give them some for "Jesus." Some stated their homes were all right, and after a while they would return to them. They are very firm in their determination.

On their arrival at New Dale, 153 miles from Winnipeg, they camped for the night.

EPIDEMIC OF MEASLES

TEN THOUSAND VICTIMS DEAD IN A RUSSIAN PROVINCE.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.—The population of Kamatchatka, the peninsula on the extreme northeast corner of Asia, has been decimated by measles. The disease has fallen with especial virulence upon the villages in the country districts.

The entire population of the village of Chirost, numbering 700 souls, died of the disease.

The epidemic has claimed 10,000 victims. But despite this the fur season has been the best for fifteen years, about 5,000 sable pelts having been brought to market in Kamstchatska and Peteropavlovsk.

As to Christian Science

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—In connection with a report published recently in your paper regarding the action of a coroner's jury in Port Hope, in recommending the Legislature to enact a law to prevent a Christian Scientist from treating any case that is not at the same time being treated by a medical doctor, permit me to point out a few facts overlooked by the jury.

Such a law as they recommend would be most unjust and unconstitutional, as well as absurd, for it would prevent persons from praying for the recovery of a patient from headaches, toothaches and such things, unless attended by a physician, and would, if consistently carried out, prohibit ministers from praying for the recovery of the sick unless an M.D. were attending the case. Such a law would be class legislation of the worst kind, because we believe an impartial investigation would show that the percentage of failures in Christian Science is much smaller than under medical treatment.

The jury based their decision on a single failure, overlooking entirely the immense number of successful cases healed through Christian Science, compared with a very small number of failures. They ignored the fact that this same child had been previously treated and healed by Christian Science. Further they ignored the vast number of cases lost by the medical men every day. When medical science becomes so perfect that the doctors never lose a case, then it will be time to legislate against Christian Scientists in favor of the M.D's.

Though the Christian Science churches are made up largely of persons who have been sick and despondent, many of them having been pronounced hopeless cases, yet the Clerk of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, was able to report last June that the mortality rate of that church for 1901 was only 2.32 per thousand, being 17.38 per thousand less than the rate for the City of Boston for the same year. Can a system producing such results be a "danger to the public?" It is only just that a system be judged by its successes, rather than by the occasional failures of some of its exponents.

Thanking you for space for this reply, I am,

Yours respectfully,

C. P. MUNRO,

25 Grove Avenue, Toronto, 4th November, 1902.

A Bright Life Ended

Picton Times: On Wednesday, October 29, 1902, at the village of Brooklin, Ontario county, Dr. Hobart S. Gilbert, B.A., passed away from earth to his better reward. Born in Hastings county in 1872, he came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Gilbert, to Picton, Ontario, in 1880. Passing through the High School, he entered Toronto University in 1893, as a matriculant, taking an honor course in natural science. He graduated in arts in 1897, and at once entered Toronto Medical College in connection with Toronto University, and obtained his degree of M.B. in 1900. In July of that year he married Miss Edna E. Moore, of Brooklin, Ontario, and removed to Angelica, N. Y., where he commenced the practice of his profession. His ability soon secured for him an extensive practice. In July, 1902, he found his health failing and gave up his practice for a long needed rest, but alas, he had waited too long, for in September he developed symptoms of heart trouble, which ended a bright and useful life. His end was a triumph of the Christian faith, for to the end his hope and faith were strong, and he died with a knowledge of his salvation secure through his faith in his Redeemer. He was a member of Melrose lodge No. 818, A.F. and A.M., Angelica, N.Y., and also a member of Genesee River Chapter, No. 152, R.A.M., Belfast, N. Y., and was interred in Glenwood cemetery, Picton, Ontario, with Masonic honors, Nov. 2, 1902.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER STILL HESITATES TO MAKE THE PLUNGE.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 6.—Still there is no official announcement regarding the Cabinet changes. It is recognized on all hands that Mr. Sutherland is to go to Public Works, and Mr. Prefontaine to Marine and Fisheries, and yet the Prime Minister hesitates to take the step of giving this arrangement his official imprimatur. It is recognized in Liberal circles that the selection of Mr. Prefontaine will be very unpalatable to Mr. Tarte. The two gentlemen have been at daggers drawn for months past. It is related that on one occasion Sir Wilfrid endeavored to bring them together on cordial terms; that Mr. Prefontaine scornfully rejected the peace token, and now it is war to the knife between the prospective Minister and ex-Minister. The selection of Mr. Prefontaine, it is realized, will widen the gulf between the two gentlemen, and Sir Wilfrid is afraid of making the plunge. Whether during the next few days Messrs. Prefontaine and Tarte can be induced to sink their differences remains to be seen. Certainly Mr. Tarte will not now care.

THE "NOT AS YET" GOVERNMENT.

The above phrase, "Not as yet," used by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the course of a reported conversation with Hon. Mr. Tarte, bids fair to become a classic as the motto of a man or party entirely deficient in backbone or anything else but a determination to hang on to office even though they had to sacrifice every principle to do so. Here are a few applications of the phrase, as used by the Winnipeg Telegram:

Has the Government any definite understanding on its fiscal policy for the future—"Not as yet."

Has it ever declared against Mr. Tarte's fiscal policy?—"Not as yet."

Has it ever declared in favor of any other?—"Not as yet."

Has it reduced expenditure by three or four millions, as it promised? Well—"Not as yet."

Has it decreased taxation? No—"not as yet."

Has it worked out any policy on the great transportation problem?—"Not as yet."

Has it given us a fast Atlantic service, which was all arranged for when it went into power?—"Not as yet."

Has it given the Territories Provincial autonomy?—"Not as yet."

Has it even laid down any principles on which the terms of autonomy can be settled?—"Not as yet."

Has it initiated a single measure as Sir Charles Tupper the other night challenged any one to contend, by which the progress of Canada has been facilitated?—"Not as yet."

Has it then, made good any claim to continue in office?—"Not as yet."

LIBERALS' PET THEORY EXPLODED.

The Toronto Telegram (Independent) explodes the Liberal theory, that a reduction of duty reduces the cost of an article to the consumer, in this effective way:

"The fact is that the removal of the duty of fifty cents a ton on anthracite coal did not reduce the price of hard coal to the Canadian consumer."

"The theory is that to take the duty off soft coal would be to reduce the price of soft coal by the amount of the duty."

"A beautiful theory, but it did not work out in the experiment with the duty on hard coal."

"The price of anthracite was not reduced by the removal of the duty. The price to the Canadian consumer remained as it was, and the Pennsylvania producer pocketed the fifty cents a ton duty, which had hitherto gone into the Dominion Treasury."

"Better keep the duty on soft coal and apply the proceeds towards the deficit incurred by carrying Nova Scotia coal on the Intercolonial Railway. The fear of having to meet Nova Scotia coal on the Americna market will do more than the removal of the duty to keep down the price of soft coal."

AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE

Has it even been your unhappy lot to be told by your physician that you must go to a hospital and submit to an operation? If so, you remember with what dread and shrinking you awaited the day when you must endure the knife. The present day surgeon appears to be possessed by a mania for operation, especially in cases of hemorrhoids or piles, and while the greater number of the profession do not recommend this "last resort," unless they honestly believe it necessary, the fact remains that much needless operating is done, and the patient put to much expense and suffering for what? To obtain a possible temporary relief; these words are used advisedly, because in nine cases out of ten the affliction returns and the patient is just where he started from. Oftentimes he could be cured much more simply and easily by the use of such a remedy as the Pyramid Pile Cure; this has come to be recognized as the best remedy on the market for the painful disease named, and the druggists now sell more of it than all other pile remedies combined. The writer personally knows people who were afflicted with the worst form of bleeding and protruding piles and who were permanently cured by the use of Pyramid Pile Cure. In every one of these cases the attending physician had assured the sufferer that only by an operation could he rid himself of the disease; so much for the infallibility of the doctors. This remedy, which is sold by all druggists at the low price of fifty cents, is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts affected, and performs its work quietly and painlessly. The Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., will mail free to any address a book telling all about piles or hemorrhoids, their cause and cure.

A suggestion is offered that if the reader is afflicted, or knows anyone who is, this book be sent for, as it will be found invaluable.

BROTHERHOOD CURE.

President Roosevelt Has a Remedy For Industrial and Other Evils.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—In his speech before the Grand Lodge of Masons yesterday, President Roosevelt urged the brotherhood cure for industrial evils. In part he said: "Masonry should make, and must make, each man who conscientiously and understandingly takes up his obligations the best type of citizen, because Masonry teaches him his obligations to his fellows in a practical fashion.

"The lesson of brotherhood, first and foremost, is to learn that lesson with a full heart on the one hand and without a weak head on the other. That lesson has got to be taught and got to be learned and applied to us as a people if we are to solve the great industrial and social problems of to-day.

"If we could get wage workers and employers in any given occupation or in any given district in a lodge together I guarantee the result. I guarantee what would happen.

"If that thing could happen we would come always into the lodge, each respecting his brother, and wishing to do what was good for his brother; each recognizing that in our government every man of us has to be his brother's keeper."

SMASH OLD MAN'S HEAD IN

Proposal Made to James Morden by the Prisoner Sifton.

Evidence of the Two Mordens Read in Court—They Were Witnesses at the Previous Trial, But Now Refuse to Appear—Gerald Sifton Tells Martin Morden of His Father's Death and Offered Brothers $1,000 to Keep Quiet.

London, Nov. 7.—In the absence of the two Morden brothers, James and Martin, who are said to be in Davenport, Iowa, and who refused to return to the city to give evidence in the Sifton murder trial, their evidence as given at the last trial, was read at yesterday morning's session of the trial.

J. B. McKillop, Assistant County Crown Attorney, began the evidence of James Morden, who resided on the Seventh Concession of the township of London at the time of the murder. Gerald Sifton had approached Morden with an offer of $1,000 to help him "smash the old man's head in," or, failing in this, to choke him and hang the body from a beam in the barn to give the impression of suicide. Morden refused to do this, and Sifton then inquired for the address of the brother of the witness, saying he would get the brother to do it. Morden then told the prisoner how to reach Martin Morden, in this city. Witness admitted to Mr. Johnston that he believed prisoner to be a murderer. Witness also thought the old man was going to be killed, but said nothing to either Joseph Sifton of his (witness') sister, not wishing to expose himself to danger from a man who would kill his father.

Offered Money to Do Murder.

Martin Morden's evidence was then read. Witness had been approached with an offer of money for his assistance in getting "the old man" out of the way. Gerald Sifton had proposed setting a trap for his father, and in case that would not work, a couple of blows would do it, prisoner had said. Another proposition was to use the contents of a small glass phial, produced by the prisoner, and containing a light-colored crystalized substance. Witness refused absolutely to go, and prisoner then declared he must do it himself, though it was a risky job for any man.

Gerald Sifton saw witness the following Sunday afternoon, and told him the old man had been knocking boards off the barn, and had flew into a rage and fallen out, with the axe in his hand, and had fractured his skull. Prisoner had offered the two brothers $1,000 to be divided between them if they would keep quiet about what had happened.

The cross-examination of the two witnesses by Mr. Johnston was then read, as given at the last trial.

Looking For Martin.

The first witness examined yesterday afternoon was ex-Policeman Robert Robertson. He identified Gerald Sifton as the man he had accompanied on the night of June 29th in an effort to locate the lodging place of Martin Morden on Dundas street.

Mrs. Phoebe Whitehead was then called, and testified to Gerald Sifton's calling at her home on the night of June 29th, and inquiring for James Morden. James was not at home, but Martin was, and a few minutes later Martin went out with Gerald, but returned in a few minutes.

Andrew Gardiner, a neighbor of Joseph Sifton, was next put on the stand. He considered it a venturesome thing for Joseph Sifton to climb up to knock boards off the barn. He also said it would not be a difficult task for a man to slip from the footing he could get under the prevailing circumstances.

Court then adjourned until this morning.

British Official Advises Canadians.

London, Nov. 7.—Yesterday, with big headlines, The Daily Mail says: "Another War Scandal; A Great Canadian Beef Consignment Wrongly Condemned." Reference is made to a large shipment of Canadian tinned beef condemned as putrid at Cape Town, and subsequently, at the instance of the Canadian Government, found to be quite good and reissued to the troops. An official questioned said; "The facts published in The Daily Mail are highly colored. If you ask my private advice I would say, 'Tell Canadians to shut up if they want more orders. Canada has done and will do very well with army contracts.'"

Wanted a Common Language.

London, Nov. 7.—In a despatch from Brussels, the correspondent of The Standard says the powers are at present negotiating with a view to the reorganization of the international arbitration court at The Hague. France and Belgium propose that French be the official language of the court in order to avoid the difficulties arising from the use of languages not understood by all the members of the tribunal. This difficulty was exemplified during the recent controversy between the United States and Mexico heard before the court, when the lawyers spoke in English, French and Spanish.

Long Sleeper Dying.

New York, Nov. 7.—Physicians of St. Vincent's Hospital, who have been anxiously watching Nellie Corcoran, their 17-year-old patient, who has been in a semi-comatose condition for the last two weeks, gave up hope last night of saving the girl.

Ladrones Make Trouble.

Manila, Nov. 7.—The Ladrones are causing more trouble than ever by dressing as constables and preying on defenseless natives.

What Canada Will Do.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—The Ottawa Government is ready to assume the expense of garrisoning Halifax and Esquimalt.

What Scott's Emulsion Really Is.

The essence of nourishment—a predigested food. A condensed fat made palatable and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. The first food a baby receives, mother's milk, is an emulsion. Scott's Emulsion is the milk or cream of cod liver oil, and contains the elements needed to supply the nourishment that may be lacking in a mother's milk.

If a baby is fat it is comfortable and happy; a thin, scrawny baby is never quite well, never thoroughly comfortable. Its ordinary food may not contain the right nourishment.

For such a baby Scott's Emulsion is intended. It supplies the needed nourishment as well as heat and fat; it makes babies comfortable. Why? Because Scott's Emulsion contains the elements that possess in the highest degree the principles of nourishment.

Cod liver oil has for years been known as one of the greatest foods in the world. It stands at the head of the list as containing, in a given quantity, the most nourishment of any food. But cod liver oil in its raw state is repulsive. Weak stomachs cannot retain it; delicate tastes rebel against it.

It was to overcome these objections and still retain the full value of the oil that Scott's Emulsion was introduced. But it does more than offer the full strength of cod liver oil in a palatable form. It combines with the oil other splendid ingredients—hypophosphites of lime and soda and glycerine. The proper and perfect combination of these, found only in Scott's Emulsion, represents a most valuable food-medicine.

The mission of the oil is to stop waste, supply the loss of flesh and furnish nourishment; the hypophosphites feed and sustain the nerve tissues and nerve centers besides stimulating the action of the blood; the glycerine furnishes bone material and marrow, upon which latter the blood depends.

How are these results secured? By the easy action and mild progress of Scott's Emulsion through the body. Being partly digested it does not tax the stomach; being perfectly blended it is quickly and easily assimilated, that is, distributed with exact regard for the particular need of each part of the body.

On every package of the genuine Scott's Emulsion there is a trade mark label of a man with a fish on his back.

We will send a sample free to anyone on request.

THE HOPE of the HEART

BY BALDWIN SEARS

Copyright, 1901, by Baldwin Sears

The scuttle in the roof of the farmhouse opened slowly, and a girl's head appeared. As she held up her face to the evening breeze, her fair skin, yellow hair and delicate features made her appear like some faint star just glancing above the horizon.

A young man with a scythe over his shoulder crossing the lane below the barn looked up toward the house. Seeing the girl, he stopped, straightened his shoulders as though he half expected her to speak and to speak himself, then walked on with lagging steps and disappeared below the orchard where the brook flows into the woods.

Mary leaned her arms on the edge of the scuttle and looked out. The hot air from the garret blowing in gusts past her face was like a twitch at her sleeves reminding her of the household she had left below.

She was the only one who had not already gone to bed. It was harvest time. They were cutting the wheat in the meadows, and all day the hum of the reaper had come up from the broad, white fields where the men were at work. Since dawn the house had been buzzing with lively toil, but now the day's work was ended.

In the front room off the porch the farmer and his wife were asleep. They had gone to bed immediately after supper, and while Mary had sat in the porch she heard their low voices talking over the potato crop and the grain, their drowsy words growing fewer, slower, until at length they sank away and ceased, while yet the bobolinks were skimming over the meadow and the red of the sunset lingered.

Across the gate her married brother and a neighbor had talked politics. Mary had heard their nasal voices alternating like the wooden balls tossed by a juggler. In the south chamber just under the attic her sister-in-law had been putting her children to bed, the creak, creak of the rocking chair as it swayed over an uneven board dimly audible through the silent house. In the attic under the roof slept her little brother Bob, dreamless, tired and contented at the end of his long summer day.

Down in the kitchen yard the turkeys and chickens had gone to roost in the apple trees and the grape arbor, clucking and twittering in sleepy protest against the awkward ones as they settled themselves together.

In a few moments it had grown very still and dark.

The girl on the house top drew a long breath and leaned her head back against the edge of the roof. It was only 8 o'clock, and the faint yellow twilight lingered on the border of the summer night. A new moon hung low over the crest of the woods. The west wind brought up the hot smell of ripening cornfields, and a bat darted out of the orchard in swooping circles against the clear night.

From her eyrie above the treetops the farm buildings, the neighboring houses, the fields and lanes, even the wide post road, looked quite small and cheap, like a toy village. The countryside in its irregular checkerboard of pasture, corn and woodland, pale yellow with the wheat stubble, somber green where half ripened orchards spread, marked here and there by a cluster of roofs, a spire that told a hamlet in the hills, became significant only in the mystery of distance as it mounted toward the hills and ended at last in one vast, gray, sealike level against the trackless sky. Mary looked at it all as one upon whose mind the meaning of these familiar scenes had just begun to dawn—these fields, the chickens she must pluck, the bread she must make, the raspberries she must preserve, all grouped themselves before her in a coherent scheme of life. From dawn till dark, each day alike, cooking, washing, preserving, holding the babies—the burdens of each side were hers. So far she had carried them unthinkingly, unquestionably. It was only the lot of every farmer's life.

Tonight she was unusually tired. To escape a feeling of restlessness she had determined to go to bed. It was refreshing to lie in the cool darkness. But before she reached the top of the attic stairs she felt the dry heat of the sun baked roof. The great, timbered space, dark with its age blackened beams and scantly windowed twilight, held a strange odor of cedar shingles, of ancient leather trunks, of musty papers. In the solemn dusk the candle lost its bold glare and drooped to a wavering spark, eyed by the glimmering gray panes of the gable windows high under the ridge.

The two chimneys, like huge stone giants whom she had been feeding all day, stooped over her as they towered toward the roof, reminding her of tomorrow's kitchen work.

As Mary sat on the edge of her cot, thinking of these things, she looked up vaguely. A star, the first in the pale night, shone through the window upon her, clear, unwinking, pensive, holy.

A lock of hair loosened by the wind floated softly across her cheek like the kiss of unseen lips. For the first time in her life she felt the restless longing for some good of which she was ignorant. What was it her simple, sweet existence lacked? Had she not everything that a girl could ask—father, mother, food and shelter, a place in the world? What else had any one? The aged farmer and his wife—those two good people fast asleep without a thought in their nightcaps beyond the potato crop; their daughter-in-law, the men at work in the fields, all those dependent on the great harvests, on the bountiful farm; were they not happy, contented, unquestioning? Was she not happy too? Had she anything to complain of, to regret, to wish for?

Suddenly out of the hush came the cry of the whippoorwill, that piercing, mournful voice of the vacant, windblown fields, of meadows flowering unseen and far away. It thrilled her like a pain. It stabbed her through and through and cut her to the heart with its questioning, solitary call, hidden in the twilight of the woods.

She had heard it so often, year after year, like the robin and the lark. Never had it sounded so lonely, so friendless and apart. A strange longing swelled up in her breast; tears filled her eyes. The years of her life, with their simple tasks, their ambitions, hopes and dreams, came to her like some vast tidal wave upon a sunny shore, withdrawing in a long resounding sigh at the absence of some unknown joy. She stared through the warm darkness toward the edge of the woods outlined against the evening as though one should try to read the soul of a silhouette. Then she dropped her face in her hands for a single minute.

At 6 o'clock in the morning Mary was in the garden picking the vegetables for dinner. The sunshiny, dew fresh day, the beans and cabbages in their prim symmetry, the tall scarlet hollyhocks nodding against the fence, made the experience of the night before very remote and visionary.

As Mary reached the end of the row of peas she pushed back her sunbonnet and looked up; then her song stopped and she knelt silently.

A young man was standing on the other side of the garden wall looking at her. He blushed as he met her steady, smiling gaze. "Picking peas?" he asked. "You've got a lot, haven't you?"

"Yes, indeed; plenty this year. Have you?"

"All we can eat and more too. Getting old, though. How are these?" He crossed the wall and stood beside her. "Yours are pretty tender yet." He tore off another pod. "Shan't I help you? Two can work better than one."

"Oh, thank you; you needn't bother." Yet she smiled at him.

"Oh, I like to do this. I'll take the inside of the row."

"It's very kind of you," she answered, looking up at him sweetly.

How brown and strong and sinewy he had grown since he had begun to work in the harvest fields. She had not seen him for a long while, not since they were in school together. She was looking at him again when he glanced up and caught her eyes. This time they both blushed. They said nothing for some time. Mary picked busily, and the boy whistled half to himself. They were beside each other, with nothing between them but the slender trellis of pea vines, enough to give the boy courage to say, "Did you hear the whippoorwill last night?"

Mary felt a flash that made her nerves tingle.

"Oh, did you, too?" she exclaimed, then stopped, abashed at her own eagerness. How could Alvy understand the confession she had made to a whippoorwill just because it was unseen? "Where was it?" she asked, with all the carelessness she could summon.

"Down in the wood lot about half past 8. I was coming home 'cross lots back of your barn; been up at the other farm all day."

They were picking slowly now. How pretty Mary was with her braided yellow hair, her rose pink ears, her smooth lidded, down drooping eyes! The ruffle of her apron, with its crisp curves, seemed meant to hedge her cheeks from kisses.

Alvy felt his heart throb dizzily. So many words and thoughts went round and round in his head that he could not say one. And there was the screen of brush and vines between them. The delicate film of green was strong as a prison grille through which the serene face of the girl glowed upon him. Somehow their hands met upon the same pods. Mary's trembled, then lay still in his.

"I saw you up on the roof," whispered the boy. "You were listening, weren't you?"

Mary nodded.

"Do you—do you like to hear it, Mary? Do you like the whippoorwill?"

Mary's lip trembled. "I don't know. I guess so."

"Because he—he loves you, Mary."

"Mary, Mary, where are you?"

The two in the garden sprang up as the shrill voice called from the kitchen. As the boy leaped over the fence into his own orchard Mary looked after him. From the trees among which he disappeared came clear, low and sweet the call of the whippoorwill.

The Model Army of the World.

What army was the strongest of its time? Judging by results, the Roman army was so from the fifth century B. C. onward until the division of the empire. Its fighting organization was as complete as and possibly more practical than that of any army of today. It was based on a territorial system which maintained the comradeship of locality without bringing it into antagonism with that of the corps, for each of the thirty-five Roman "tribes" was required to furnish to each legion four "centuries" of 120 men, each of which worked together as a local unit. The legion was divided into five cohorts or battalions, of which three were troops of the line, two were a kind of militia and the fifth was a depot battalion. For almost eight centuries the army thus constituted not only conquered the then known world, but acted as explorers beyond its limits, and at the same time made and unmade kings and emperors in Rome itself. In modern times the Prussian army, which won Sadowa and Sedan and overran both Austria and France, was the strongest the world has known.—London Answers.

THE PLAY WAS STOPPED.

But It Was Not by the Orders of the French President.

M. Sardou, the French playwright, once profited by a joke that General Ladmirault, who was at the time governor of Paris, played on M. Thiers. Sardou had written "Rabagas," and the play had been given its dress rehearsal "in camera." It was displeasing to Thiers, and he undertook to stop its public performance.

As General Ladmirault was dressing for dinner, about 6 in the evening, an officer entered his dressing room and tendered a dispatch, which, he said, had come direct from Versailles.

The officer went out, and the general, continuing his toilet, said to himself that he was certain that that dispatch was the interdiction of "Rabagas," and, having a friendly feeling for the author, the general left the dispatch unopened when he left the room.

The next morning came a messenger posthaste from Versailles, "'Rabagas' was performed last night."

"Without doubt," negligently replied the general.

"But the dispatch?"

"What dispatch?"

"From M. Thiers, interdicting the performance."

"Goodness me!" replied the general. "I left it unopened on the table. See, there it is, the seal unbroken. Still, that makes little difference. Everything passed off well. They nearly hissed the play off the stage, and it will be the same at every performance. Tell M. Thiers that he has no cause for alarm."

"Rabagas" was withdrawn, but not by the orders of M. Thiers.

Morse and the Telegraph Operator.

Immediately after the successful completion of the first transatlantic cable and the consequent celebrations, in which of course Cyrus W. Field bore a prominent part, Professor Morse had occasion to send a telegram from a small town in Ohio to his home in New York. He wrote out his message, presented it to the operator, who rapidly checked it off with his pencil and curtly demanded a dollar.

"But," said the venerable inventor, "I never pay for messages," and, seeing an inquiring look in the operator's eyes, added, "I am, in fact, the father of the telegraph."

"Then," said the operator, firmly convinced that he was being imposed upon, "why don't you sign your own name, Cyrus W. Field?"

Professor Morse when telling the story used to say that he was too humiliated to answer.

At Sea on Land.

A clergyman who had neglected all knowledge of nautical affairs was asked to deliver an address before an audience of sailors.

He was discoursing on the stormy passages of life. Thinking he could make his remarks more pertinent to his hearers by metaphorically using sea expressions, he said:

"Now, friends, you know that when you are at sea in a storm the thing you do is anchor."

A half concealed snicker spread over the room, and the clergyman knew that he had made a mistake.

After the services one of his listeners came to him and said, "Mr. ——, have you ever been at sea?"

The minister replied:

"No, unless it was while I was delivering that address."

Eczema and Itching Skin

DEFIED MANY EXPENSIVE REMEDIES, BUT WERE THOROUGHLY CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It is a mistake to judge Dr. Chase's Ointment by the results obtained from the use of ordinary salves and ointments, for it is not to be compared with any preparation on the market to-day.

Some of these remedies give temporary relief, but they do not strike deep enough to eradicate disease. You need not be alarmed if Dr. Chase's Ointment causes a little irritation at first. This is necessary in order to root out the disease. When the cure is brought about the skin will be left smooth and clear, without scar or blemish.

Mr. C. Wiley, who is employed as cooper by the Kennedy & Davis Milling Company, Lindsay, Ont., states: "I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for eczema on my little girl some five years ago, and soon brought about a thorough cure. She had suffered for considerable time, and though we tried a great many remedies, Dr. Chase's Ointment was the only preparation to prove effective.

"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Ointment, as it certainly effected a prompt and permanent cure in this place.

Miss Levina Diotte, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes;—"I suffered with eczema for a year and a half, and tried all the remedies I could hear of, some of them costing considerable money, and not doing me good. I was enduring great torture, when I read an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and resolved to give it a trial.

"I began using Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has completely cured me. Though I do not need it any more, I keep a box in the house in case of emergency. I hope that people who suffer as I did may read this testimonial, and for this reason you have my permission to publish it. It is only just that such a good remedy for eczema and itching skin should be made known to those who suffer."

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.
Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

A man should be careful not to afflict his wife, for God counts her tears.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Wedding rings in St. Kilda used to be made of worsted.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Contentment may be better than wealth, but the most of us are compelled to jog along without either.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

THE SUCCESSION DUTY

MORE TROUBLE, ANNOYANCE AND EXPENSE.

The Toronto Government, in its management of the affairs of the province, seems to be possessed of but one idea, and that is, to devise schemes by which the people are put to trouble and expense, which is of little consequence provided more money can be extracted from them to replenish the depleted treasury of Ontario.

We have a striking illustration of this fact in the New Succession Duty regulations, which have just been enacted, which go to the extreme of carefulness, if not of penurious parental government; after considering which, the ordinary citizen may well complain of being "too much governed."

These new regulations would indicate a want of confidence by the Government in the County Court Judges. Let us look at these new voluminous provisions, imposing unnecessary expense upon those who desire to take out Probate or Letters of Administration: None can now issue unless and until the Provincial Treasurer and the Solicitor for the Treasury give their permission, and in order to get their permission it is necessary for every applicant for Letters from the Surrogate Court, to file duplicate originals of an affidavit of some SIXTEEN folios in length, with FIVE schedules attached, deposing to the most intricate details of the estate which is sought to be administered, including the values of the separate items, and the degrees of relationship of the beneficiaries. This might be excusable in the case of large estates that can afford to pay, and may be liable to succession duty, but under the new Regulations there is to be no exception, and those who inherit even a few hundred dollars are subject to the same expense in this particular as those who inherit over $10,000, there being no discrimination. Professional men and Executors protest that this is absolutely unnecessary, as in estates below the fixed amount of $10,000 there is no succession duty, payable in any event, but the curious inquisitiveness of the authorities gets its grip on the little as well as on the big, lest any applicant should pass through the ordeal of distribution without the prerogative sign-manual of their Inquisitors, the Provincial Government at Toronto.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Anything about the Rolling Mills, like a motion for adjournment, is always in order, therefore we have no hesitation in using up a little space in this column in that connection. The writer last night had a few minutes' conversation with a gentleman who, for the past year or so, has had a good deal to do with many of the negotiations for the reopening of the mills, which fluttered brightly for a time and then went out.

"I would like," said the gentleman in question, "to see The Intelligencer advocate something which I believe would be in the best interests of Belleville."

The Intelligencer is always ready to advocate anything which will be for the best interests of Belleville, and the writer paused to listen, even though he stood a chance of missing his supper. "Unfold your tale," he said.

"I believe," said the other, "that it would be the proper thing for the well-to-do citizens of this city to form a company to operate the Rolling Mills. Now, I have been talking to a gentleman (here he mentioned the name of a party who is popularly reported to have all sorts of money) in connection with this matter, and I believe he would be willing to invest a tidy sum if others would follow his example. The idea would be to hire a man with a thorough knowledge of the Rolling Mills business, one who would invest some capital, of course, preferred, to manage the works."

"How much capital would be required, do you think?" he was asked.

"I believe $100,000 would be sufficient," was the reply.

"Have you reason to believe," said the newspaper man, "that the Rolling Mills can be run at a profit?"

"I am not an iron man," said the Alderman, with a smile, "but I have been informed by people who have a thorough knowledge of the iron business that the mills can be run at a profit, even though only a portion of the plant might be operated. Here is a good sign: A gentleman in this city, who has been in the iron business all his life, offers to take $7000 in stock if a local company is formed to operate the mills. I have heard this matter discussed thoroughly, and the questions of power, freight, etc., fully gone into, and the balance was always brought out on the right side. I would like to see this matter thought over by our representative citizens, and I would like The Intelligencer to lay it before them."

* * *

There is certainly food for thought in the remarks of the gentleman quoted above. The fact must be pretty nearly patent to everybody by this time that the operation of the mills by outside capitalists is almost a dead issue. Providence helps them who help themselves. Would it not be a good plan for our well-to-do citizens to interest themselves in this matter, and find out its possibilities? There is a good market for the products of the mills; experts say they can be run at a profit. Because our City Council has been several times disappointed by mercenary speculators, who had their eyes fixed on the bonus, there is no reason to give the matter up in despair. Local capital has been secured for other things, why not for the Rolling Mills?

* * *

The Lock Factory is a case in point. It was, we are told, struggling along on a capital of $6000 or $7000. Local capitalists were induced to interest themselves, an energetic canvasser was placed in the field, the result being that $25,000 additional stock was secured and the concern placed securely on its feet. Why would not history repeat itself in the case of the Rolling Mills?

* * *

There is no use of our people sitting down and dreaming day dreams, or, like the immortal Micawber, waiting for something to turn up. What made Peterboro the lively, hustling place it is to-day? The energy and local patriotism of its own citizens, and the same rule applies to half a dozen other places in Ontario. They had faith in their town, and not only talked that way themselves but let their money talk. If Bellevillians would do the same brighter days would soon dawn for this city.

* * *

There are, we are told, only five rolling mills in Canada. There's a suggestive thought. Bellevillians, in brains and education, have no need to take a back seat for anybody; why should they in business matters? Think this matter over, you gentlemen with the long purses. Providence never intended money to be hoarded up while machinery rusted and buildings lay idle. Think of the early days in Belleville, when local patriotism was a strong power in this beautiful city. By pulling together, with united effort, this city may once more recover the name of "Busy Belleville." All together, now!

* * *

"Have you got the present Council re-elected by acclamation yet?" said our friend the ex-Alderman. Just as though he didn't know the elections don't come off till next January!

* * *

It is rumored that we may get a carpet factory in Belleville in the near future. Competent judges said once before that there was a good field for it here. The City Council would, we think, be justified in offering a fair amount of inducement; providing the gentleman who thinks of coming doesn't want the earth, with Zwick's island thrown in.

TARTE'S LATE JOB.

Says "This is a cinch for one Brodeur."

"One R. Prefontaine in that sit we see."

From old Quebec comes a plaintive voice
"L. P. Parent is the people's choice."

But Belleville Grits, with laugh so merry
Say "Ha, ha, ha! That's a snap for Jerry!"

So the guessing goes on from day to day
While Nathanael V. hasn't a word to say.

Two witnesses who are wanted in the murder trial now going on in London, Ont., are at present in Davenport, Iowa, and refuse to return and testify, just as though this was a common election case, and they had been sent out of the country by the Grits.

Toronto students broke a lot of windows and fences on Hallowe'en, and at this distance it looks as though the faculty was liable to slightly bend one of the commandments in making excuses for the students.

The Canadian Baptist, of course, throws cold water on the students' pranks, saying "The annual rowdyism of the students was more rowdy-like last Friday night than ever before in Toronto. The birch has been neglected at home on these fresh youths, and its vigorous application even at this late day may not be too late to bring reflection if not reformation."

THE FAMOUS SHOE FOR WOMEN

"IMITATIONS"

When every store is selling a so-called "SHOE FOR WOMEN" it does not mean that they have a demand for such a shoe from their customers.

It means simply that they realize the enormous success of the "QUEEN QUALITY" Shoe and want to imitate it.

But they cannot imitate it.

and if they could do you want an imitation when you can have the original at no greate expense?

It is a fact that most of the styles of shoes sold in the stores originate on "Queen Quality."

Remember that no imitation is ever as good as the original.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards, the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The Tweed, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

COMFORTS OF RELIGION.

(From the London Gentlewoman.)

Swift is the development of the churches. The nonconformists, it seems to me, are developing the social side of religious life most quickly. Thus at the King's Weigh House Chapel, in London, where the able Dr. Hunter ministers, there is, underneath the chapel, a very comfortable and attractive drawing-room, well warmed, lighted and furnished. A piano is provided, cozy lounging chairs abound, and a general air of calm prevails. This, I am told, is intended for the use of young men, who, after evening service is over, can remain, if they please, to enjoy books, music and a quiet hour.

THE FELLOW WHO FIGHTS ALONE

(N. Y. Sun.)

The fellow who fights the fight alone,
With never a word of cheer,
With never a friend his help to lend,
With never a comrade near—
'Tis he has need of a stalwart hand,
And a heart not given to moan—
He struggles for life and more than life
The fellow who fights alone.

The fellow who fights the world alone
With never a father's smile,
With never a mother's kindly tone,
His sorrowful hours to guile,
Who joins the fray at the dawn of day
And battles till light is flown,
Must needs be strong, for the fight is long—
The fellow who fights alone.

Ah, bitter enough the combat is,
With every help at hand,
With friends at need to bid God-speed,
With spirits that understand;
But fiercer far is the fight to one—
Who struggles along unknown—
Oh, brave and grim in the heart of him,
The fellow who fights alone.

God bless the fellow who fights alone!
And arm his soul with strength,
Till safely out of the battle rout,
He conquering comes at length,
Till far and near into every ear,
The fame of his fight is blown,
Till friend and foe in the victor know,
The fellow who fights alone!

BRITISH LAW IN INDIA.

(San Francisco Call.)

In the recent census of India there were found in the province of Naban 117 persons who described themselves as "receivers of stolen goods" and 125 who gave their occupation as that of "wizards and cow poisoners." The report on the face of it looks bad for the morality of the people, but what a respect they must have for British law when they are willing to speak out and tell the truth about themselves in that way.

THE PLUNGER'S WOES.

Stock Market Victims—Recent Depreciations Wrought Will Spread Misery in Toronto—Wild Hunts for Margins.

Tragedies of the stock market would form the subject of a woeful narrative if only the operations of the past two weeks were recorded, says The Toronto Telegram. There have been some fatal finishes to these short cuts to wealth.

A man is suddenly transferred to an institution where they curb violent citizens, and it requires no wise physician to diagnose the cause. A lifeless body is discovered in the neighborhood of escaping gas or contiguous to an able-bodied Smith & Weston, and the coroner's mind is pretty nearly made up before he arrives on the scene. Insanity and death are extreme resorts of despairing speculators, but the city of Toronto can vouch for these methods of escape from relentlessly pursuing margins.

Months ago Toronto knew that she was stock mad. Investments in margins totalled such an enormous sum that the Queen City took rank among the first half-dozen cities of America as a speculative centre. All classes of citizens sowed the wind and most of them have reaped the whirlwind. Of course it is those who can least afford to lose who have been engulfed in the rapid depreciation of stocks. The man with wealth behind his margins may hold out until the panic subsides, and serenely await the recovery of the market. For those who rashly risked their all—and they are legion—there is not one break in the clouds. Their investments disappeared in an hour, a day or a week, according to the stock they held and their ability to support their margins.

As for the patrons of bucket shops, they had hardly time to realize what hit the. Their little margins were swept away with the first bear blast, and many there be who lament their adventurous investments. Among the brokers the wreck, if not quite as sudden, was almost as complete. Small holders, who should have been at their office desks, were rushing about besieging friends to "carry" them. No large number of reliefs are recorded, for as a rule the "friends" had also pressing engagements with their brokers, and were themselves gasping.

The past few days must have shown any man who walks about with his eyes open that the city is honeycombed with stock speculators. Beardless youth and venerable age are intermingled in frantic efforts to cover their margins. Institutions which would gasp at the thought of speculating clerks did not lack for representation in the maelstrom of misery that the collapse of the market provoked. Families living happily and comfortably on the income from small but securely invested funds caught the stock fever, and in many a pretty residential Toronto street there are dismal fires to-night. An old gentleman who has been living on one of the best uptown streets for twenty years described his woes thus:—

"It is hard on the young chap, but see what it means to men like me. The young man is knocked down, but he has vitality enough to pick himself up and tackle life a wiser man. The old man falls and he has neither the strength nor the spirit to rise."

What the stock market will do now is a subject of keen interest to many Toronto speculators, but the great majority have passed over to that stage of dejection where they talk of quotations and margins only in their dreams. They have left the market behind, or rather the market has left them behind. Castles in the air have faded before practical obligations which seemed mere trifles in the days of buoyant markets.

The number who have lost their all is a more uncertain quantity than the number who have lost heavily. The truth is that nine out of ten stock speculators have lost money since the market broke. How far they may be able to redeem themselves is a question for those who know what the stock market proposes to do.

While the small speculators were being stripped of their investments excitement found its way in large chunks into the offices of numerous brokers. The brokers saw visions of panics, of crumbling securities, and many of them made demands for margins that simply staggered their patrons. Speculators with ten and fifteen points to the good could not understand why they should be squeezed. But squeezed they were in numerous instances, and for the reason that New York averages every broker's business and when the average was weak the broker did not mince matters in his efforts to restore it. On the street you will hear brokers cursed up hill and down dale, as a disgusted "wiped out" phrased it. There will be a new alignment of customers and brokers when the market settles again, and the gentlemen who lost their heads will miss some familiar faces for more reasons than one.

As the tumult subsides and dejected victims calmly view their losses they will come to conclusions which older heads sought to impress upon them in vain. They will reflect that speculation on small margins or stock speculation of any kind without substantial support is a mere game of chance, more perilous than poker and hardly less disastrous than the roulette machine. Successful operators represent but a small fraction of those who strand themselves upon the rocks of their unreasoning credulity. A final analysis will convince the thoughtful and observant that the shortest cut to wealth is the longest way round—the road which is traveled by faithful labor, by the accumulation of savings, and by the exercise of sound business judgment when a business opportunity presents itself.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co.'s

BAIL FOR $30,000 IS ASKED

The Largest Bail Bond Ever Demanded in the Province.

Alfred McDougall's Shortage to the Ontario Treasury Department Is Now Estimated at From $30,000 to $35,000—Arraigned in the Toronto Police Court He Does Not Plead But Asks For Remand For a Week.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—$30,000 is the security demanded as bail for the release of Alfred McDougall, now in jail, charged with misappropriating funds as solicitor to the Ontario Treasury Department. This is the largest bail bond ever required in the Province. Twenty-five thousand dollars was previously the largest amount required. The prisoner's friends have not yet furnished the security. The amount was fixed by Hon. S. C. Biggs, specially employed to represent the Crown.

In the Police Court yesterday morning McDougall was arraigned on two charges. The first was to the effect that, being in the employ of the Ontario Government, and being entrusted with the receipt, custody and management of certain valuable securities and moneys, he stole on Nov. 16, 1900, a cheque dated October 25, 1900, for the amount of $390, issued by Messrs. Chisholm & Logie on the Hamilton branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and also the sum of $390, which the bank paid on the presentation of the cheque. The other charge says that on December 20, 1897, he stole a cheque for $6,564.83, dated November 29, of the same year, which had been issued by William Mortimer Clarke on the Standard Bank of Canada, and that he presented the cheque and stole the money which was paid upon it. These two cheques covered succession duties on the Leslie and Hunter estates. Mr. McDougall, who was not admitted to bail, asked that his case be remanded for a week, without his pleading or electing, as his solicitor was not present. This was done, and the prisoner retired to Mr. Curry's room, where he had been until called.

The amount of his alleged peculations is now estimated at from $30,000 to $35,000.

Mr. McDougall, who is about 64 years of age, was arrested at his home, 44 Charles street. He comes of a highly-respected Canadian family, and was formerly a member of the Toronto City Council. Speculation on the stock exchange is stated by his friends to be the cause of Mr. McDougall's downfall. He was suspended by the Government on September 30, pending an investigation into his accounts.

ELECTION TRIALS.

Two More Petitions Fixed to Be Tried in Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—Two more election trials are to be transferred to Toronto, which is taken to mean that they will not be proceeded with, but dismissed here.

In the Glengarry petition against the return of W. D. McLeod, Conservative, the trial was fixed for the 11th at Cornwall, but it has been transferred to Toronto for Saturday the 22nd.

It is understood also, that the trial in the North Waterloo petition against Dr. Lackner will be transferred to Toronto.

A special election court will be held at Osgoode Hall on Saturday when the dates of trial for North Waterloo, Sault Ste. Marie, North Ontario and North York will be arranged.

There is some talk that the petition against the return of Miscampbell in Sault Ste. Marie will not be proceeded with. There is a motion to have it set aside, and this may be argued on Saturday.

GRANT CONVOCATION HALL.

Corner Stone Laid at Kingston by Sir Sandford Fleming.

Kingston, Nov. 7. — The corner stone of Grant Convocation Hall was laid at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Sir Sandforh Fleming, in the presence of a large assembly. At 3.30 o'clock a service in memory of the late principal was held in old Convocation Hall, the addresses being delivered by Hon. G. W. Ross and Rev. Prof. Ross of the Presbyterian College, Montreal. The brass tablet erected by the students was also unveiled.

After laying the stone Sir Sandford Fleming made reference to the labors of the late Dr. Grant, whose methods and plans would long remain an inspiration to the students at the University.

Rev. Prof. Ross, at the memorial service, reviewed the career of the late principal, chiefly as a teacher, preacher and principal.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross eloquently dwelt on Principal Grant as an educationalist; his views of the kind of education best suited for Canadian people, and his aim to give it to them. The eminence of Dr. Grant as a great Canadian was expatiated upon. Unity and equality were the two purposes most striking in his career as a Canadian.

The address dwelt also upon the optimism of the deceased as to the future possibilities of Canada. The imperialistic outlook of the principal was also mentioned. He concluded that the principal's character will bear imitation in its breadth, its toleration and its enthusiasm in all that pertains to the honor and glory of the nation.

According to the statistics, the consumption this year was at the rate of 5.102 gallons, which is altogether unprecedented in our history.

Beer drinking seems to have been rising steadily since 1898, in that year 3.808 gallons went to each Canadian's credit. The following year 3.995 gallons, in 1900 4.364 gallons, and in 1901 4.737 gallons. The consumption of wine is small, and fluctuates greatly. Last year it was .09 gallons.

The consumption of tobacco was equal to 2.401 pounds, which was the same as in 1901. This rate was exceeded in 1874, 1875, 1884 and 1885. The rates of duty per head were: Spirits, $1,148; beer, $1,133; wine, $0.063; tobacco, $0.55.

The quantity of spirits produced during the year was 3,234,147 proof gallons an increase of 581,439 gallons. The quantity consumed was 2,933,183, as against 2,707,919 gallons for the year previous. There were exported 151,799 proof gallons, being an increase of 3,645 gallons.

The total amount of tobacco taken for consumption was 22,677,302 pounds, of which 72,286 pounds were Canadian twist. The raw leaf consumed totalled 10,704,962 pounds.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

In his simplicity he did not even suspect Morris's motive, but imputed it wholly to concern for his health. And so Wilford Cameron found himself seated next to a man who willfully trampled upon all rules of etiquette, shocking him in his most sensitive points, and making him thoroughly disgusted with the country and country people generally. All but Morris and Katy—he did make an exception in their favor, leaning most to Morris, whom he admired more and more, as he became better acquainted with him, wondering how he could content himself to settle down quietly in Silverton, when he would surely die if compelled to live there for a week. Something like this he said to Dr. Grant, when that evening they sat together in the handsome parlor at Linwood, for Morris kindly invited him to spend the night with him.

"I stay in Silverton, first, because I think I can do more good here than elsewhere, and secondly, because I really like the country and the country people; for, strange and uncouth as they may seem to you who never lived among them, they have kinder, truer hearts beating beneath their rough exteriors, than are often found in the city."

This was Morris's reply, and in the conversation which ensued Wilford Cameron caught glimpses of a nobler, higher phase of manhood than he had thought existed; feeling an unbounded respect for one who, because he believed it to be his duty, was, as it seemed to him, wasting his life among people who could not appreciate his character, though they might idolize the man. But this did not reconcile Wilford one whit the more to Silverton. Uncle Ephraim had completed the work commenced by the two feather beds, and at breakfast, next morning, he announced his intention of returning to New York that day. To this Morris offered no objection, but asked to be remembered to the mother and sisters, and then invited Wilford to stop altogether at Linwood when he came again to Silverton.

"Thank you; but it is hardly probable that I shall be here very soon," Wilford replied, adding, as he met the peculiar glance of Morris's eye, "I found Miss Katy a delightful traveling acquaintance, and on my way from Newport thought I would renew it and see a little of rustic life."

Poor Katy! how her heart would have ached could she have heard those words and understood their meaning, just as Morris did, feeling a rising indignation for the man with whom he could not be absolutely angry, he was so self-possessed, so pleasant and gentlemanly, while better than all, was he not virtually giving Katy up? and if he did might she not turn at last to him?

These were Morris's thoughts as he walked with Wilford across the fields to the farm-house, where Katy met them with her sunniest smile, singing to them, at Wilford's request, her sweetest song, and making him half wish he could revoke his hasty decision and tarry a little longer. But it was now too late for that, the carriage which would take him to the depot was already on its way from Linwood; and when the song was ended he told her of his intentions to leave on the next train, feeling a pang when he saw how the blood left her cheek and lip, and then came surging back as she said timidly: "Why need you leave so soon?"

"I have already overstayed my time. I thought of going yesterday, and my partner, Mr. Ray, will be expecting me," Wilford replied, laying his hand upon Katy's hair, while Morris and Helen stole quietly from the room.

Thus left to himself, Wilford continued: "Maybe I'll come again some time. Would you like to have me?"

"Yes," and Katy's blue eyes were lifted pleadingly to the young man, who had never loved her so well as at that very moment when resolving to cast her off.

For a moment Wilford was strongly tempted to throw all pride aside, and ask that young girl to be his, but thoughts of his mother, of Juno and Bell, and more than all, thoughts of Uncle Ephraim and his sister Betsy, arose in time to prevent it, and so he only kissed her forehead caressingly as he said good-bye, telling her that he should not soon forget his visit to Silverton, and then, as the carriage drove up, going out to where the remainder of the family were standing together and commenting upon his sudden departure.

It was not sudden, he said, trying to explain. He really had thought seriously of going yesterday, and feeling that he had something to atone for, he tried to be unusually gracious as he shook their hands, thanking them for their kindness, but seeming wholly oblivious to Aunt Betsy's remark that "she hoped to see him again, if not in Silverton, in New York, where she wanted dreadfully to visit, but never had on account of the 'bominable prices charged to the taverns, and she hadn't no acquaintances there."

This was Aunt Betsy's parting remark, and, after Katy, Aunt Betsy liked Wilford Cameron better than any one of the group which watched him as he drove from their door. Aunt Hannah thought him too much stuck up for farmers' folks; Mrs. Lennox, whose ambition would have accounted him a most desirable match for her daughter, could not deny that his manner towards them, though polite in the extreme, was that of a superior to people greatly beneath him; while Helen, who saw clearer than the rest, read him aright and detected the struggle between his pride and his love for poor little Katy, whom she found sitting on the floor, just where Wilford left her standing, her head resting on the chair and her face hidden in her hands as she sobbed quietly, hardly knowing why she cried, or what to answer was Helen asked what was the matter.

"It was so queer in him to go so soon," she said, "just as if he were offended about something."

"Never mind, Katy," Helen said, soothingly. "If he cares for you he will come back again. He could not stay here always, of course; and I must say I respect him for attending to business, if he has any. He has been gone from home for weeks you know."

This was Helen's reasoning; but it did not comfort Katy, whose face looked white and sad, as she moved listlessly about the house, almost crying again when she heard in the distance the whistle of the train which was to carry Wilford Cameron away and end his first visit to Silverton.

CHAPTER VI.

Katy Lennox had been very sick, and the bed where Wilford slept had stood in the parlor during the long weeks while the obstinate fever ran its course; but she was better now, and sat nearly all day before the fire, sometimes trying to crochet a little, and again turning over the books, which Morris had brought to interest her—Morris, the kind physician, who had attended her so faithfully, never leaving her while the fever was at its height, unless it was necessary, but staying with her day and night, watching her symptoms carefully, and praying so earnestly that she might not die, not, at least, until some token had been given that again in the better world he should find her, where partings were unknown, and where no Wilford Cameron could contest the prize with him. Not that he was greatly afraid of Wilford now; that fear had mostly died away just as the hope had died from Katy's heart that she would never meet him again.

Children Burn Up Father.

Columbus, Neb., Nov. 7.—Gerhard Borchers, a farmer, was killed on Friday by Herman, his 14-year-old son, who bought a shotgun for the purpose. With the help of two brothers—August, aged 10, and John, aged 8—Herman dragged the body to a straw stack and set fire to it.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

A CURE FOR ALL.

Not a Patent Cure-all, nor a Modern Miracle, but Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception, the manufacturers of patent medicines, as a rule, seem to think their medicines will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic, and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making any undue claims or false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They make but one claim for it, and that is, that for indigestion, and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a radical cure. They go no farther than this and any man or woman suffering from indigestion, chronic or nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial, will find that nothing is claimed for it, that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients acceptable to the weakest or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medical properties are such that it will digest whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach, no matter whether the stomach is in good working order or not. It rests the overworked organ and replenishes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, gives refreshing sleep and the blessings which always accompany a good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome food and take these Tablets at each meal, thus assisting and resting the stomach, which rapidly regains its proper digestive power, when the Tablets will be no longer required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply a condition in which some portion or portions of the nervous system are not properly nourished. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ in the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cts. per package.

TO SET A NEW PRECEDENT

Keen Sense of Justice Exhibited by the Colonial Secretary.

Mr. Chamberlain Proposes to Show the World How Magnanimous Britain Can Be in Its Treatment of Its Boer Subjects—Puts Old Animosities Aside But Will Not Commit Himself to the Principles of Settlement.

London, Nov. 7.—In his speech in the Commons Wednesday night, Mr. Chamberlain displayed an unusually conciliatory spirit. He said the Imperial Government would compensate liberally the loyalist residents of Natal and Cape Colony, who had suffered by the war quite independently of the present vote, and that if the $15,000,000 voted for the Boers proved insufficient for this purpose he would not hesitate to ask Parliament for more money.

The defeated party in a war could not expect to be replaced in the same position as before hostilities, but the Government desired to set a new precedent of magnaminity in the history of the world. The Colonial Secretary would not commit himself to the principles of the settlement. He said he wanted to go to South Africa with an entirely open mind, and that his earnest desire was to get free from old animosities.

Mr. Kruger's Ox Wagon.

London, Nov. 7. — Ex-President Kruger's ox wagon, the gift of Lord Kitchener to the City of London, has arrived at the City Green-yard, Whitecross street. The interior of the wagon, which is stored in a spare stable, is much as it was when it was captured. The roof is lined with a light soft-colored kind of felt, and across part of it an ordinary cross-ironed folding-up arrangement for a mattress. The ex-President's chair has disappeared, but there are various small empty barrels about in which he was wont to carry things.

ST. PIERRE FIRE INCENDIARY.

Strange Miscreant Started the Blaze in the Cathedral.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 7.—Reports received here yesterday by mail show the big fire which partially destroyed the town of St. Pierre, Miquelon, last Saturday night, to have been due to incendiarism. The fire originated in the Catholic Cathedral. An unknown man was seen leaving the building by a window shortly after the fire broke out. One priest attached to the cathedral nearly perished while trying to save some sacred relics. The vessels used in the cathedral services were all destroyed.

The Government wil shortly rebuild its destroyed establishments. These buildings were not insured. The cathedral was insured for $10,000, and was valued at $60,000. Other church property valued at $40,000 was destroyed.

The Feeling in England.

New York, Nov. 7.—Speaking of trade conditions in England Sir Albert Rollit, M.P., said yesterday things over there were looking up and last month's statement showed a good increase. Speaking of the trusts he said: "The trust system is carried to excess by the artificial raising of prices. There is some feeling in England against trusts. I do not believe this comes from a dislike to see other people get ahead as it does from a fear that the people may be crushed. The feeling in England is one of live and let live."

Gales on North Sea.

Brussels, Nov. 7.—Numerous wrecks occurred in a fierce gale which swept the North Sea Wednesday and Thursday night. While no loss of life is reported, it is feared that many went down in the gale. At Great Yarmouth the crew of fifteen of one ship were brought safely ashore during the storm. Yesterday morning the Belgian coast was strewn with wreckage.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED.

Alleged Makers and Utterers of Dominion $1 and $2 Bills in Custody.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—Arrests in connection with the wholesale circulation in this city of thousands of counterfeit $1 and $2 Dominion of Canada bills were made last night. At the same time a complete plant for turning out the spurious bills was unearthed and is now in possession of the police. The plant includes presses, rollers, plates, inks, acids and an almost inexhaustible supply of paper. With the plant was seized a roll of bad bills of the same series that were put in circulation here and subsequently found their way into banks and afterwards into the hands of the police. The notes are all cleverly executed and not easily detected.

The prisoners are William Stuart, a lithographer, aged 70 years; Anson Raymond, aged 54, proprietor of the Raymond House, 355 Wilton avenue, and Raymond's wife, Elizabeth, aged 44. Stuart is believed to be the leader of the gang which made their headquarters at Raymond's hotel, and put their bad bills in circulation here and in Montreal. It was at Raymond's hotel that the plant was found. Stuart admitted his guilt, but Raymond and his wife made no statement to the police.

The prisoners will be arraigned in the police court this morning.

KAISER LEAVES FOR ENGLAND.

Left Kiel Wednesday Night on Board the Imperial Yacht.

Kiel, Nov. 7. — Emperor William left here last night at 10 o'clock on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern for England, where he will visit King Edward. A fleet of British torpedo boats will meet the Hohenzollern in British waters and escort her to Sheerness.

It is expected that the Emperor will remain at Sandringham as the guest of the British sovereign until November 16, when he will go to Lowther Castle to visit Lord Lonsdale.

To Meet the Kaiser.

London, Nov. 7. — King Edward's guests at Sandringham to meet Emperor William, who was expected to leave Kiel for England yesterday, will include Premier Balfour and his sister; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, Lord and Lady Lansdowne, Mr. Brodrick and other Ministers.

EIGHT MEN DROWNED.

Great Gale Off Shore Causes Death and Destruction.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 7.—No less than eight men were drowned, three vessels driven ashore, and practically every lighter on the Nome Beach was wrecked in a storm that commenced on Tuesday, Oct. 14, and continued throughout the day. The facts are supplied by Purser Robertson of the Ohio, who arrived here yesterday. The known dead are: Frank Kelly, George Robertson, George Fleuth, Samuel Josephson.

A dozen or more people, thrown into the surf were rescued by the life-saving crews. The schooner Louise, the steamer Elk, and the launch Fleetwing were among the larger craft left on the beach.

Dropped From Third Storey Window.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 7.—An attempt to haze a student of the University of Tennessee yesterday resulted in an accident which nothing but a miracle prevented from being fatal. J. L. Williford of Memphis was the victim of the prank, and unless he was internally injured, as feared, he will recover. A party of hazers seized him, but he escaped and fled to his quarters. There the door was broken down and he was seized and thrown out of a three-story window. A pool of water was all that broke his fall, a distance of 50 feet, and even this his shoulder was dislocated.

1,450 Miles in an Open Boat.

New York, Nov. 7.—Capt. Kay and wife and nine seamen, a crew of the British barque Florence B. Edgett, which they abandoned in mid-ocean Oct. 15, after she was dismantled by a hurricane and water-logged, arrived here yesterday on the steamer Grenada, from Trinidad. The vessel left Bear River, N.S., about Aug. 13 for Buenos Ayres, with a cargo of lumber. On Sept. 18 she encountered the hurricane. The crew left in the long boat and reached Grenada, 1,450 miles away.

Fell to His Death.

Foxhaven, Man., Nov. 7.—Arthur Pizzey, employed on the farm of Geo. Dunlop, was working in the upper storey of a granary Wednesday when the door gave way and fell to the ground, carrying Pizzey with it, and the wheat pouring through the opening covered the man to a depth of several feet. He was quite dead when dug out about an hour later.

U.S. Gunboat to Argue.

Port of Spain, Nov. 7.—The United States gunboat Marietta arrived yesterday at Barcelona, in order to compel the revolutionists there to release the United States Consular Agent, Ignacio H. Baiz, who was arrested for refusing to subscribe to a forced loan.

Fitzsimmons on Exercise.

Robert Fitzsimmons may be a pugilist and the class of man for whom the people have but little use, yet he gives a little advice to the world, which should not be let pass unheeded. Fitzsimmons was interviewed the other day by a New York reporter, and the famous athlete in the course of an interesting talk, said:

"There is no excuse for any person —unless he is tainted with an incurable disease—remaining sickly as long as there is plenty of fresh air about and a place to exercise."

"What is the best exercise?"

"The breathing exercise is the best. In the first place, people should sleep with their windows open. They are then less likely to catch cold. The first thing after getting up in the morning they should throw something warm about them and go to the open window and draw the fresh air into their lungs, contracting and expanding their chests.

"This should be followed by a bath and exercise. It all can be done in an ordinary room without aid of dumb bells or other appliances. Even if the bath is not handy, everyone can take the breathing exercise and swing their arms about, unbending the body at the same time. Five, ten or fifteen minutes passed in this fashion every morning will make even a broken down business man feel like a new person.

"The trouble is with most people that they don't like to take the time to do this. They wait until the last moment to arise, then hurriedly swallow their breakfast and rush to work. Some of them try it for awhile and then drop back to their old habits. It seems strange that a business man will suffer all day with a headache and extreme irritation, which could have been saved by about five minutes' exercise in the morning.

"Every minister should teach these things from the pulpit, every up-to-date newspaper should have a department teaching the benefits of physical culture, and every school in the land should make it a part of the system. You will find that all the medical men will agree with me on the subject. The average life of the American could be lengthened several years in one generation of proper physical culture.

Fitzsimmons' life proves that he knows something of the care a man should take of himself, for though he is now past his prime, and has been in many gruelling mills, he is yet physically a magnificent man. His advice is worth while following.

Literary Notes

The thought that we are the actual creators of the world's future is one that must load us with a sense of responsibility that will be intolerable or inspiring according to our disposition. Yet, when we speculate about the condition of the world in the coming century we do not realize that things in that age will be what we make them. Mr. Wells makes this point very clear in his study of "Mankind in the Making" in the November Cosmopolitan.

NO LAUNDRIES IN CHINA.

(Baltimore Sun.)

"It's the funniest thing to me," said an old sea captain who for many years was in the China trade, as he settled himself comfortably back in his chair, and blew a few rings of smoke into the air, "that nine out of every ten Chinamen who come to this country open laundries and engage in business which does not exist in their native land.

"As every one knows, the Chinese at home wear soft cotton and woollen garments, according to the season, and there is not a pound of starch in all China. Stiffly starched clothes are unknown, and the Chinese men do not do the washing, as they do in this country. Neither is there any regular laundry in the Flowery Kingdom. Therefore it is more than passing strange that Chinamen should all come to America and engage in a trade so foreign to their home industries."

AN EXPLANATION.

"C.R. Co." Rubbers are rubber hoes MADE IN CANADA by The Canada Rubber Company.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING

ALBERT COLLEGE GIVES ANOTHER OF ITS PLEASING CONCERTS, ILLUSTRATING THE WORK DONE IN SEVERAL OF THE DEPARTMENTS.

The concerts at Albert College are evidently appreciated by Belleville citizens. This was shown last evening, when, despite several other similar entertainments in the city, Massey Hall was filled by an interested audience of citizens and students.

The programme was given by the teachers and pupils of the musical and elocution departments. It was opened with an organ solo by Miss Williams. Miss Williams plays brightly and has good technique. Her number, a double one, included (a) Weby's "Hymn of Nuns" and (b) "Capriccio," Le Magne. Later in the programme Miss Mabel Crothers played the "Saint Cecilia Offertory," a dainty and thoughtful composition for the organ, by Batiste. She treated it considerately and brought out its full meaning. Piano numbers were given by Miss Jessie Elliott and Miss Laura Lavoie. The former played a "Prelude," by Holberry Saite and Greig's well-known "Rigaudon" in her usual finished style. Miss Lavoie played Chopin's "Fantasie . Impromptu" pleasingly. The vocal numbers included songs by Miss Wheler and Miss Clayre Thompson. Miss Wheler sang Bohm's "My All" in her well-known way, and Miss Thompson's number, a pretty "Old English Love Song," by Allitsen, was well received. The duet, "I Feel Thy Angel Spirit," Hoffman, was much appreciated, Miss Thompson's mezzo-soprano blending nicely with Miss Wheler's high voice. Readings were given by Miss Trotter and two of her pupils, Miss Stella Hamilton and Miss Hettie Lake. These were all well done and showed the high standard to which this department has been raised. Another interesting number was a pantomime, "The Last Rose of Summer," given by six young ladies of the physical culture class, with song by Miss Wheler.

Altogether the concert was decidedly enjoyable and a success in every way. Entertainments of this nature show the good work the college is doing along musical and literary lines.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

THE JUBILEE SINGERS

There was a very good audience at the Tabernacle last night to hear the Canadian Jubilee Singers, who are well and favorably known in this city. They were here twice last season, but are in much better form now than on either of their appearances last season. They gave a very enjoyable performance, indeed, singing the plantation songs with the zest and unctuousness which only colored people can give them, at the same time being quite at home in refined music. Three excellent voices are those of the leading soprano, Madam Marie Dorsa, Mr. Francis, tenor, and Mr. Overstreet, basso. Mr. Warner, the slide trombonist, played "The Holy City" in a very artistic way, indeed. The orchestral selections were pleasing and, taken altogether, the company gave, probably, the most enjoyable and refined entertainment ever furnished by a colored troupe in this city. Their return at a later date would be welcomed.

A Successful Assembly

An assembly was held in the Oddfellows' hall last night, which was largely attended. It was under the auspices of the bank clerks of the city, who proved to be good entertainers. Music was furnished by the Chalaupka orchestra.

Joint Missionary Meeting

On Monday evening next, at 8 o'clock, a public missionary meeting will be held in Christ Church, in which the three Anglican churches of this city will participate; the several rectors are expected to be present and the three choirs will be combined for the occasion. The speakers of the evening will be Rev. E. R. A. Haslam, travelling secretary for the Canadian Church Missionary Society, and Rev. G. O. Stringer, missionary to the Esquimaux, within the Arctic circle. All are heartily invited.

Why do I wear "C.R. Co." rubbers? Because they fit properly and wear better than any other rubber shoe in the market. You cannot afford to be without a pair if you value your health.

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE

SYMPTOMS OF A VERY COMMON TROUBLE?

There is no disease so common in the United States as Catarrh, because it appears in so many forms and attacks so many different organs.

It is a common mistake to suppose that catarrh is confined to the nose and throat. Any inflammation of the mucous membrane wherever located, accompanied by abnormal secretions, is catarrh. Catarrh of stomach or bladder or intestines is nearly as common as nasal catarrh, and much more serious, although it is true that stomach catarrh and catarrh of other internal organs is the result of neglected nasal catarrh.

A new remedy has recently appeared, which so far as tested seems to be remarkably effective in promptly curing catarrh; wherever located. The preparation is sold by druggists generally under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and in addition to being very palatable and convenient, possesses extraordinary merit, in many cases giving immediate relief from the coughing hawking and constant clearing of the throat and head, those symptoms with which everyone is familiar who has ever suffered from colds in the head and throat.

Catarrh is simply a continuation of these symptoms, until the trouble becomes chronic and grows gradually worse from year to year.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are composed of Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar antiseptics and catarrh specifics, from which it will be seen that no secret is made of the ingredients and also that no mineral poisons are used, as is the case with many well-known catarrh medicines.

For catarrh of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, for catarrh of stomach, intestines or bladder no preparation is so safe and gives such rapid and permanent results as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50c for full sized package. You can use them with assurance that you will not contract the cocaine or morphine habit as the results from this catarrh cure are apparent from the first day's use.

The People and the Church

(Montreal Gazette.)

That problem of constantly growing importance—Why do not more men attend church?—formed the topic of addresses delivered last week by two great leaders—Cardinal Gibbons and President Eliot, of Harvard University. Cardinal Gibbons' utterance was delivered in a sermon preached in his cathedral at Baltimore; President Eliot's was made before a gathering of Methodist ministers at Boston. This fact, in itself, illustrates how generally the problem seeks a solution.

The Cardinal believes that men remain away from church because during the week they have become so fatigued by their feverish activity in pursuit of wealth, and they prefer to remain at home and read the Sunday newspapers. President Eliot lays the blame on the visible decline of the influence of the church on the people. The reasons are practically the same, for, if men prefer ease and the Sunday newspaper to their religious duties, the existence of a lack of influence on the part of the church may be admitted without any danger of contradiction. With two such widely separated sources of opinion in agreement the question immediately obtrudes itself as to why the church has lost influence. Of course, there are many people who will deny that it has. They are among the people whom the church still influences. The church meets their needs. But there are thousands who do not recognize that they have needs. They know that the church exists and that it does much good to many people who require its ministrations. Personally they do not feel the necessity of any such assistance—except in times of calamity. They are not antagonistic. They are simply careless and indifferent. There are thousands of such men in Montreal.

President Eliot thinks the reason for this is a lack of work. Not en[illegible] action is gotten out of noble sentiments. In other words, the influence of the church upon those within it is too passive. That is why it fails, not to hold its own, but to make advances.

MALIGNANT GROWTHS

CURED WITHOUT THE NECESSITY OF AN OPERATION.

Many forms of malignant growths such as cancers, tumors, lupus, "bunches" or nodules, sarcoma, epithelioma, etc., whether occurring on the body, internally or externally, can be completely and permanently cured by the New Constitutional Treatment, without the need of resorting to an operation of any kind.

This remedy searches out the malignant germs in the system, destroys them without injury to the patient, and thus effects a cure. It would be advisable for you to fully investigate the merits of this treatment before submitting yourself to any other. Write to B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., enclosing two stamps for full particulars.

THE PLAGUE SITUATION IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The reports from San Francisco on the plague situation are far from encouraging. The health officer of that city states that since December last there have been fifty-seven cases of the disease, of which twenty-eight were fatal.

This certainly does not look as if the disease were being eradicated. The worst feature of the outlook is that white persons are now being attacked. The pest has not become an epidemic, it is true, but there is more or less danger that it may become so unless more vigorous sanitary regulations are instituted.

The Governor of California has always contended that there never was any plague in San Francisco, and has quite stubbornly adhered to that opinion in spite of overwhelming testimony to the contrary. The consequence has been that he has persistently opposed the taking of any radical measures of reform.

NEW PAINT FOR THE NAVY.

(English Paper.)

Within a short time all the ships of the British navy will be painted a uniform gray, which will take the place of the black and yellow of the home fleets and the white of the ships serving in tropical waters. After much experiment the color selected was obtained by the mixture of six pounds of white paint with eleven ounces of black. It was reported from Portsmouth that the submarines could not have been seen at 200 yards had it not been for their improvised masts.

CARNEGIE'S LONDON HOUSE.

(New York Tribune.)

Andrew Carnegie is to become one of the nabobs of Park lane, the most fashionable and high-priced street in London. He has purchased from the young Duke of Westminster a plot of ground in South street, leading into Park lane, just beyond the handsome house of J. P. Morgan, jr. It is said the house will be as much like Mr. Carnegie's great mansion in Fifth avenue as it is possible for a London house to be, and that the cost will be something like $5,000,000. Mr. Carnegie will have for his immediate neighbors Lord Brassey, the Dowager Countess of Roslyn, Lady Henry Somerset, Alfred Beit, the richest man in England, and Mr. Eckstein and J. B. Robinson, two other South African millionaires.

SIFTON'S DOUKHOBORS.

The Montreal Star makes the following remarks anent the importation of the Doukhobors into Canada:

"What are we to think of a department of the Government which goes out of its way to import such a pack of trouble into the Dominion?

"Did the Canadian Immigration agents who arranged for the deportation of the Doukhobors from Russia, know anything about these people or, did they not? And is this a fair sample of the work done by our immigration agents?

"The probabilities are that the Doukhobors have been "hopelessly mad on the subject of religion" for many generations. To remove them to a strange land under the circumstances was a cruel kindness to them to say nothing of its probable injury to Canada. At the time they were imported the Conservative press protested against such indiscriminate immigration without investigating in a rational way the causes of their leaving Russia. Canada's immigration policy has never been any too sensible, but the Liberals have acted like men demented in their frenzy to get certain lands taken up.

"Had the Dominion immigration agents raked all the lunatic asylums in Europe could they have got together two thousand immigrants of a less desirable class?"

That is strong talk, but is it not fully warranted by the facts? And is Hon. Mr. Sifton to be allowed to retain his portfolio, on the face of such clear proof of his incompetence and neglect of duty? He may possibly try to saddle the blame on his immigration agents, but the fact remains that Hon. Mr. Sifton is responsible for the actions of those agents, for it was he who selected them and entrusted to them the task of selecting desirable settlers. Furthermore, Hon. Mr. Sifton has been repeatedly warned that the Doukhobors were fanatics, who could not be depended on to obey even the most primitive and fundamental laws of society.

Hon. Mr. Sifton has shamefully betrayed the interests of the people of Canada. The question arises, What does Sir Wilfrid Laurier propose to do about it?

Nothing varies so much as the promises people make and their performances.

POOR OLD KINGSTON

WILL LOSE ITS LOCOMOTIVE WORKS, WHICH ARE TO BE REMOVED TO MONTREAL.

Montreal, November 7. — There is every probability that the Kingston Locomotive Works will be removed to Longue Pointe within the near future. The Dixon farm, there, containing 250 arpents, more or less, has been purchased for $80,000, and many of the capitalists for whom the land has been secured are all interested in the western concern. They are Messrs. R. B. Brophy, president of the Kingston company; J. Heney, the well-known contractor, who was a partner of the late Hugh Ryan in building several sections of the Sault Ste. Marie canal; W. Harty, ex-Minister of Public Works in the Ontario Government; M. Connolly, the well-known contractor of Quebec, and J. T. Davis.

Messrs. Brophy and Heney made the purchase personally from Mr. Wm. Dixon; there were no real estate middlemen in the deal, and everything was conducted quietly and sub-rosa. In fact, the only person in the city who seems to know anything about the transaction is the ex-Minister of Public Works.

The intention of the capitalists is to manufacture largely for export, as well as for home consumption. The area of land purchased runs from the river three-quarters of a mile back to the line of the Montreal Terminal Railway. It is bounded by the Robert Hampson property on one side, and by that of the Rodier estate on the other. The municipality of Longue Pointe has, it is understood, granted exemption from taxation for ten years, and work will be commenced so soon as the preliminary details are arranged. Mr. Brophy, who is president of the Kingston company, was formerly one of the ablest engineers in the Public Works Department during Mr. Tarte's regime, and it is understood he will take a prominent executive part in the new works.

The Kingston Locomotive Works have not been a success, it is affirmed, by a gentleman well posted in the matter, simply because they have had labor troubles to contend with. The labor market there is exceedingly restricted and the mechanics imported from England knowing this, took advantage to cause the company all the trouble they could. This has hampered the company so much that the directors finally decided to move the enterprise to Montreal and re-organize under a new company. The Kingston concern, like every other locomotive erecting shop on the continent, has had a surfeit of orders and had conditions been favorable they would have had a remarkably prosperous time for the last two years.

Railroad motive power men all look for a continued shortage of locomotives for some time to come and the fact that the Canadian Pacific and several of the Vanderbilt roads have sent large orders to Glasgow, being unable to have them filled here, illustrates the condition of the market.

The import duty on locomotives to the United States is over 45 per cent., still, it is estimated that within the last six months Old Country builders have received American orders aggregating over 1,200 engines.

The new works here will employ a large number of hands, just how many it is not known, but the capacity of the works will be tripled, and this will probably mean at least 1,500 hands.

DEER HUNTING IN NORTH HASTINGS

MANY NIMRODS ARE AT THEIR FAVORITE SPORT THIS YEAR.

(Bancroft Times.)

The hunting season is in full swing; many a lordly buck has already bit the dust, and the charge of the Boers up Majuba hill wasn't a marker to the cannonading that is taking place in the woods around Bancroft.

On Friday last three carloads of dogs, boats and other hunting paraphernalia were distributed along the line of the C. O. R. from the Junction to Bancroft, and Conductor Derbyshire, who has been in the employ of the road for fourteen years, states that he never before saw such preparations being made for the hunt.

A jolly crew of railroad men are "flagging" deer at Island lake, and are making Mr. R. S. Tait's camp their headquarters. They have on a full head of steam and everything is run on schedule time. Mr. D. G. Barnes, who collects fares on the C. P. R. between Havelock and Toronto, is the walking boss, and Mr. Tait is chief dispatcher. The other members of the party are: A. T. Swinarton, E. Barnes, Joe Barnes, Allen Barnes, F. Wilkinson, Toronto; Geo. Lacey, Hillsburg; and W. Cole, Havelock.

Messrs. W. B. Kingsmill, W. G. Blackstock, Toronto, and Harold Rathbun, Deseronto, are making it interesting for the deer at the Bruten farm, west of Maynooth.

Mr. Thos. Fraser and party from Norwood are hunting at Lavalle lake, and are having great luck.

Messrs. B. O. Lott, and Phil. Lott, of Rawdon; Wm. Bailey, Stirling, and George Weese, of the Queen's hotel, Bancroft, are hunting at Crooked lake, in Mayo.

The local club, consisting of R. Siddons, Wm. and Geo. Davy, E. George, Thos. and Dermot Kavanagh, L. Greenfield, Chas. Mullett, Dr. Leavitt, M. Gorman, H. McPherson, U. Hubble, E. Johnston and F. Thomson are on their old stamping ground at Lake St. Peter.

in the Summer.

If you have weak lungs or consumption make your fight against the disease during the summer. Physicians advocate fresh air, moderate exercise, and plenty of nutritious food. A valuable adjunct to this treatment, is Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. It promotes a healthy appetite, puts the digestive organs in a condition to digest and assimilate food—thus greatly improving nutrition. It keeps the bowels in a normal condition so that pills and aperients are unnecessary. It is pleasant to take, agrees with the stomach, restores health and vitality.

TIMELY TOPICS.

NO WONDER

(Hamilton Spectator.)

It seems that Mr. Ross' man has been stealing the money wrung from the widows and orphans ever since his appointment in 1891. Our Government must have a nice system of book-keeping and auditing. It is no wonder that no two men can agree about the amount of the "surplus."

Kingston's Locomotive works, it will be seen, are to be removed to Montreal. This will be a heavy blow to the Limestone City, and we sincerely sympathize with our neighbor. At the same time, the report that the change has been brought about by labor troubles in Kingston is suggestive. Have not the mechanics of that city, by their arbitrary demeanor, killed the goose which laid the golden egg?

We merely ask this as a question. It may or may not be true, but the fact remains that the woods are full of people whose jaws are loosely hung, who are always looking for a grievance, and who will never learn the wisdom of letting well enough alone.

MOLASSES CURED CANCER.

Simple and Wonderful Remedy Successful —Used in Australia.

London, Nov. 8.—A correspondent writes from Mackay, Queensland, describing to a Sydney paper "what is believed to be a simple and wonderful cure for cancer." He states that a resident who had what had been diagnosed as a cancer under his tongue casually applied some molasses to the affected part and suffered intense pain for about an hour. Then the pain abated, and the spot in his mouth felt less troublesome than before. After a further daily course of molasses he was "completely cured."

Another resident whose case had been diagnosed as internal cancer also claims to have been cured by taking a dessert spoonful of raw molasses five times a day for five weeks.

Dr. Lorenz Cures Clubfeet.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Dr. Lorenz of Vienna, who operated on Lolita Armour, has performed several bloodless surgical operations in the presence of California doctors.

He treated free of charge a case of double club feet on a five-months-old baby, Ross Jackson of Santa Rosa. This infant's feet were so badly disarranged that they were bent inward and upward until the soles faced each other and left as the only possible walking surface the outer rear edges of the feet.

All the patients operated upon by Dr. Lorenz are reported to be doing splendidly.

Mystery of James Ferguson.

Paris, Nov. 8.—Where is James Ferguson of Paris Station? He purchased a ticket for Toronto last May, and has not been heard of since. He was about 50, and lived here 30 years. His wife died three years ago, and he became despondent. His furniture and clothing remain in the house he occupied, and the owner of the house wants to rent the place.

Thrice a Widow at 23.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 8.—Frederick Otto was killed in Joyfield Township, near Thompsonville, yesterday, by a tree falling on him while at work. He was married but two months ago to the widow of Edward Crandall, who was drowned a little more than a year ago. Otto was her third husband, the first husband also having been killed by a falling tree. Mrs. Otto is but 23 years old.

Rumor Revived.

Ottawa, Nov. 8. — Premier Ross' visit here has revived the rumor that Senator Scott is to succeed Sir Oliver Mowat on Nov. 16, as Lieutenant-Governor.

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxieties of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

For these reasons we announce that our proprietors are the principal shareholders in

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,

Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

A man should be careful not to afflict his wife, for God counts her tears.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Wedding rings in St. Kilda used to be made of worsted.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Contentment may be better than wealth, but the most of us are compelled to jog along without either.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

THE ALL-BRITISH CABLE.

Speaking of the completion of the All-British Pacific cable, the New York Tribune has this to say:

"Nevertheless, it is a magnificent achievement, and one which fairly marks an epoch. The encircling of the globe with an electric wire makes strong appeal to the imagination as well as to the more practical faculties. Moreover, it is an achievement which reflects great credit upon our British kinsmen, and upon which they are heartily to be congratulated, for this line is an 'All-British' one, linking together the scattered red spots upon the map of the world. The whole line around the world, it is true, is not under the British flag. But that across the Pacific is, and it is now possible for despatches to be sent from England to Canada, to Fiji, to New Zealand and to Australia without anywhere passing under any but the British flag, and with a single landing under the Dutch flag the system is continued to Singapore, to Hong Kong, to Madras, to Bombay and to Aden. The impressive fact is that from England to Australia, through 245 degrees of longitude and more than 90 degrees of latitude, 'Puck's girdle' is 'All-British.'

"While we are congratulating Great Britain and her colonies upon this superb achievement, it is impossible to avoid regret at ourselves having been outstripped. We, too, have territorial possessions at both sides of the Pacific, and enormous political and commercial interests there. We need an 'All-American' cable across that ocean, and we have a route offering far superior facilities for laying it. It is a reproach to us that because of haggling and cross purposes this country has failed to be the first to span the Pacific with a wire."

Our Yankee friends need not be discouraged. They will probably construct another Pacific cable before long, and find very good use for it, and though they have to play second fiddle to Great Britain it is not the first time they have done so. Let that console them. At the same time, is it not worthy of note, and a matter for congratulation, that the British Empire and the U. S. Republic are first and second in nearly every great enterprise. The other nations take third, fourth and fifth places. The old Anglo-Saxon blood will tell.

MISERABLE NIGHTS

WHAT TO DO WHEN BABY IS FRETFUL AND SLEEPLESS.

It is wrong to take up a wakeful baby from the cradle and walk it up and down the floor all night. It demoralizes the infant and enslaves the parents. Baby does not cry for the fun of the thing; it cries because it is not well—generally because its stomach is sour, its little bowels congested, its skin hot and feverish. Relieve it and it will sleep all night, every night growing stronger in proportion. Just what mothers need is told in a letter from Mrs. R. G. Flanders, Marbleton, Que., who says: —"I cannot say too much in favor of Baby's Own Tablets. They have worked like a charm with my baby, who was very restless at night, but Baby's Own Tablets soon brought quiet sleep and rest. I shall never be without a box while I have a baby." Baby's Own Tablets cure all minor ailments of little ones, and are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. They are sold at 25 cents a box by all dealers, or you can get them by mail, post paid, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

Licking Labels.

It is well known that licking labels is a harmful process, and a committee of inquiry found that in one thread factory in Lancashire there were employed "some twelve full timers, who each licked from forty to fifty gross labels per day, and thirty-five half times, who accomplished from twenty to twenty-five gross per day." One woman informed the committee that when busy she could complete forty-five gross of bobbins a day, or, allowing a ticket for each end of the bobbin, ninety gross of labels a day! In Ireland the labeling of mineral water bottles is mostly done by boys who lick with their tongues labels which are already gummed. They put several labels in their mouth at once and, it is said, "take them out and stick them on with amazing rapidity and deftness." One witness informed the committee that "he had labeled fifty dozen in a day in this manner. He habitually did over forty dozen." —London Standard

QUESTION ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flowers still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co.'s.

"IMITATIONS"

When every store is selling a so-called "SHOE FOR WOMEN" it does not mean that they have a demand for such a shoe from their customers.

It means simply that they realize the enormous success of the "QUEEN QUALITY" Shoe and want to imitate it.

But they cannot imitate it.

and if they could do you want an imitation when you can have the original at no greate expense?

It is a fact that most of the styles of shoes sold in the stores originate on "Queen Quality."

Remember that no imitation is ever as good as the original.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards, the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

Dickens' Trip by Stagecoach From Cleveland to Sandusky.

When Charles Dickens visited America in 1842 he traveled by stagecoach from Cleveland to Sandusky, O. Describing his experience, he wrote:

"At one time we were all thrown together in a heap at the bottom of the coach, and at another we were crushing our heads against the roof. Now the coach was lying on the tails of the two wheelers, and now it was rearing up in the air. The driver, who certainly got over the ground in a manner quite miraculous, so twisted and turned the team in forcing a passage corkscrew fashion through the bogs and swamps that it was a common circumstance on looking out of the window to see the coachman with the ends of a pair of reins in his hands, apparently driving nothing, and the leaders staring unexpectedly at one from the back of the coach, as if they had some idea of getting up behind.

"A great portion of the way was over what is called a 'corduroy road,' which is made by throwing trunks of trees into a marsh and leaving them to settle there. The very slightest of the jolts with which the ponderous carriage fell from log to log was enough, it seemed, to have dislocated all the bones in the human body. It would be impossible to experience a similar set of sensations in any other circumstances unless perhaps in attempting to go up to the top of St. Paul's in an omnibus."

This description serves to illustrate the condition of our country roads, generally speaking, as they were half a century ago except in a few wealthy communities. There has been a wonderful change since then.

Lightning's Affinity For Oak.

Electricity in the clouds, like its companion lower down, loves to seek the earth, the great reservoir of all electricity, and it finds the most available way to do so, choosing always the best conductor, conspicuous among which are the much maligned lightning rod, the high trees or the elevated steeple. It has its choice of trees as well as other things and will leap over half an acre of trees to find an oak, for which it appears to have a special attraction, and it will pass a high point to find a building that has metal about it.

Oldest Tree In the World.

The Rev. W. Tuckwell in "Tongues and Trees and Sermons In Stones" says: "The oldest living tree in the world is said to be the Sema cypress of Lombardy. It was a tree forty years before the birth of Christ." But Alphonse Karr in his "Voyage Autour de Mon Jardin" says of the baobab (Adansonia digitata), "It is asserted that some exist in Senegal that are 5,000 years old."

Superstition That Is Ancient.

In many parts of Great Britain the superstition still survives that it is folly or madness to save a drowning man, as he will sooner or later do an injury to the rescuer. The superstition comes down from our ancestors, yet traces of it exist among the Sioux and other Indians, who seem to have inherited it from aboriginal sources. The belief is most prevalent in Cornwall and various parts of Scotland.

THIS VETERAN'S FIGHT

In the days of the Revolution he was on the side of victory, in later years surrendered to disease, but South American Kidney Cure gave him his liberty.

Mr. A. Williamson, of Kincardine, Ont., a veteran in the American war, and now customs officer, town clerk and a prominent citizen, says of South American Kidney Cure:—"I have found it a wonderful specific in my case. I suffered a great deal from Bladder and Kidney troubles, and one bottle entirely cured me. I think it a boon to mankind." Cures in all stages and gives relief in six hours. 22

THE SIFTON MURDER CASE

Defence Strengthened by Evidence of the Medical Experts.

They Strongly Inclined to the Theory of the Defence That the Deceased Came to His Fatal Injuries by Falling From the Opening of the Barn to the Ground, 24 Feet Below—Only One Witness More.

London, Nov. 8. — The defence in the Sifton murder trial began and practically ended yesterday. The prisoner's wife alone remains to be called, and a verdict may be expected to-night. The defence was not in any respect new or of a sensational character. The full limit of medical experts were: Drs. A. H. McCallum and Shaw of this city; Drs. A. J. Johnston and Irving Cameron of Toronto, and Dr. McWilliams of Thamesford.

They strongly inclined to the theory of defence that the deceased sustained his fatal injuries by falling from the opening of the barn to the ground, a distance of 24 feet. They would not accept the repeated blows with an ax described by Walter Herbert as possible, in view of the injuries found. They would expect the skull to be smashed.

Counsel obtained an admission from Dr. Cameron that he would be amazed to find a man of Herbert's intelligence able to accurately describe the blows and position of the deceased when he received them.

The most important witness for the defence aside from the experts was Ernest Scrimshaw, a junk dealer, who said he called at deceased's place for junk on the fatal morning, just as deceased was leaving for the barn. He saw no one else at the house or barn, but swore he saw Sifton enter the barn by climbing over a hay rack, in place of going through the cow stable and up through the trapped door, where, according to Herbert, he received the first of the fatal ax blows.

H. L. Smith testified to having thrown sheep skins with blood through the trap door five days before the tragedy.

Andrew Rogers, a hired boy, at Sifton's, was with Herbert on the morning in question, and did not see him talking to Gerald Sifton, except about the hay fork.

DOUKS WEARY AND FOOTSORE.

They Arrive at Newdale, But Through Hunger and Cold, Some Turn Back.

Winnipeg, Nov. 8. — A Newdale Man., despatch reads: The Doukhobor pilgrims arrived here Thursday night about 8 o'clock, some of them being weary and footsore, while others were looking fresh and in good spirits.

At about 7.30 yesterday morning they started their march again, but the weather being cold and snow falling fast from 7.30 until 9 o'clock, four or five of their number expressed themselves as being hungry and cold and started homeward at about 9 o'clock.

They were all comfortably housed here Thursday night, and were very orderly, praying and singing as they started out of town in the morning. They expected to reach Minnedosa by last night. The weather has now cleared and is fine.

Twenty Mounted Police Waiting.

Portage la Prairie, Nov. 8. — The squad of twenty Northwest Mounted Police, with Inspector Wilson in charge, arrived here and proceeded to Island Park, and pitched their tents. The police have their horses with them and are well prepared for the exigencies of camp life. They were very reticent when questioned as to what they proposed doing with the Doukhobors when they arrive here, and state that they have orders from headquarters to give no information.

KING TO VISIT IRELAND.

Correspondent Expects Him in Emerald Isle in the Spring.

Dublin, Nov. 8.—The correspondent of the Irish Independent, who last week asserted that King Edward would visit Ireland in April, yesterday repeats his statement, and adds: "I am given to understand that Ireland is at the dawn of a new era, and new spirit will be introduced into the administration of the country. King Edward is now displaying personal interest in Irish affairs."

Wireless Telegraphy.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Gen. Corbin in his report says: "The wireless work, as conducted by the Signal Corps, established the fact that wireless telegraphy is an important factor in the defensive operation of an artillery district, increasing by many miles the extreme distance at which the enemy's approach can be detected, and his ships located, thereby affording to the artillery commander ample time in which to perfect his own offensive operations."

Composer Mascagni Stranded.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Signor Mascagni and his company are still stranded. Signor is anxious to go ahead, but can't. He says his managers owe him $10,000. They say his company owes them $20,000. They say they have lost $90,000 on the venture.

Another Hunter May Die.

Brucefield, Nov. 8.—A serious shooting accident happened about a mile from here yesterday afternoon, when Shilling Murray, proprietor of the American House, accidentally shot himself while out hunting. It is not expected he will recover.

AFTER THREE YEARS

MR. JOSEPH ROCHETTE RELEASED FROM RHEUMATISM.

Suffered Much Agony, His Appetite Failed, and His Strength Left Him—Hope for Similar Sufferers.

Only those who have suffered from the pangs of rheumatism know how much agony the sufferer has at times to endure. The symptoms often vary, but among them will be found acute pains in the muscles and joints, the latter sometimes much swollen. At times the patient is unable to dress himself, and the slightest jarring sound aggravates the pain. Liniments and outward applications cannot possibly cure rheumatism; it must be treated through the blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine yet discovered can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When given a fair trial, these pills never fail to cure even the most stubborn cases of rheumatism. Mr. Jos. Rochette, a well known resident of St. Jerome, Que., in an interview with a reporter of L'Avenir du Nord, offers strong proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. Mr. Rochette says: —"For nearly three years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism. The pains seemed at times to affect every joint, and the agony I endured was terrible. Sometimes I could scarcely move about, and was unfitted for work. The trouble affected my appetite, and in this way my weakness increased and my condition became more deplorable. I tried a number of remedies, but nothing helped me until I was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and then relief came. Gradually the pains left me, my appetite improved and I became greatly strengthened. Before I had taken a dozen boxes my health and vigor was such that I felt better than I did before the trouble began. I have not since had an ache or pain, and I feel convinced that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine in the world for rheumatism."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold in every civilized land, and their enormous sale is due entirely to their great merit as a medicine. They cure all such troubles as rheumatism, sciatica, locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, nervous headache, kidney ailments, neuralgia and the weaknesses that afflict so many women. Do not let any dealer persuade you to try something else which he may say is "just as good." See that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is on the wrapper around every box. If in doubt, send direct to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed, post paid, at 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Pains in the Small Of the Back

BAD DIGESTION AND RACKING HEADACHES — CURE WAS BROUGHT ABOUT BY

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

"Pains in the small of the back" is the way hosts of people describe their sufferings, not knowing that the pains are in reality in the kidneys. Pains in the back, weak back, lame back, backache—these are the first indications of kidney trouble. They are the warning which nature gives you. If you heed at once you can be cured. Neglect will soon put you at the mercy of the most painful and fatal of diseases.

Women as well as men have kidney disease and may well feel anxious when the kidney pains make themselves felt in the small of the back.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills give you prompt relief from backache it is well worth your while to take them. But they do more than this. They regulate and invigorate the action of the kidneys, and insure a return to health of these important organs.

Mrs. F. Heathorn, whose husband is of the firm of Marsh & Heathorn, founders and machinists, and who lives at 283 Ann street, Belleville, states: "Some years ago I was taken with a pain across the small of the back, caused no doubt from deranged kidneys, and my system generally was very much run down. I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, and I must say I found relief from my trouble at once. They proved thorough and effective in action, and soon brought about a complete cure. We have also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in our family and found them very helpful."

FRENCH AIDING MAD MULLAH

Guns Being Run to Him Constantly Through Their Territory.

Enemy Profits by English Delay, and Is Now Advanced Within a Few Miles of Bohotle—Has a Pretty Fair Modern Equipment, Besides 15,000 Spearmen—Col. Swayne Has Started for Home—He Is on the Sick List.

Berbera, East Africa, Nov. 8.—Col. Swayne, formerly British commander in Somaliland, who has been recalled to England, started for home yesterday. He is ill.

Gen. Manning, who succeeds Col. Swayne, is pushing the preparations for an advance against the Mullah, but he is hampered in his efforts by the fact that the country has so few resources and the necessity of waiting supplies.

The Mullah is profiting by the delay in the start of the British expedition. He has advanced to within a few miles of Bohotle. He is known to have 2,000 rifles, one Maxim gun, much ammunition, 15,000 spearmen and immense reserves of camel and sheep at his command. Bohotle is well garrisoned and has ample defences.

It is impossible to prevent the running of guns to the Mullah through French territory, which is in constant progress.

COMMISSION AT NORTH BAY.

Will Decide Whether or Not That Town Will Be a Terminus.

North Bay, Nov. 8.—The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission arrived here yesterday morning for the purpose of deciding on the terminus of the abovenamed railway, whether it should be North Bay or Nipissing Junction, the latter point being the terminus of the Grand Trunk, and is four miles east of here.

Immediately upon the arrival of the commissioners they boarded the private car of Mr. G. J. Bury, general superintendent of the Lake Superior Division of the Canadian Pacific, and were taken over the C. P. P. to Nipissing Junction, accompanied by Mr. Bury, Assistant Superintendent C. Murphy, and W. B. Russell, chief engineer of the new road. After inspecting the point at Nipissing Junction, they returned to North Bay and were driven over the line of the new railway to the Trout Lake, five miles out.

At 4 o'clock a meeting was held in the office of Chief Engineer Russell, attended by a deputation from the Town Council, and a deputation from the North Bay Board of Trade. Three locations for the terminus were discussed. North Bay was given good encouragement, although it will not be definitely known where the terminus will be until after the C.P.R. and G.T.R. companies are interviewed to see what terms can be made with them. The commission in discussing the matter, it might be said, indirectly asked the town for something in the way of a bonus.

APOSTLES OF NEW GOSPEL.

Farmers at West Lorne Adopt Resolution on Public Ownership.

St. Thomas, Nov. 8.—At the meeting of farmers at West Lorne yesterday the following resolution was carried:

Resolved, that we view with alarm the present effort of the manufacturing classes to obtain a further rise in import duties on agricultural implements, and we pledge ourselves to oppose any candidate for Parliament who is in favor of such an increase.

Another resolution that carried said:

"That, in the opinion of the farmers here assembled, the Government of Canada should assume control of all lines of transportation, and until this is accomplished we demand that the Parliament of Canada establish a railway commission with power to stop all discrimination in freight rates and reduce passenger rates to two cents a mile."

MR. PARKIN INTERROGATES.

Wants to Know How Rhodes' Scholars Will Be Received.

London, Nov. 8.—G. R. Parkin of Toronto, who has charge of the arrangements connected with the Cecil Rhodes' scholarships in Canada and the United States, has made inquiries at Oxford University as to how the Rhodes' scholars will be received.

He has ascertained that everyone concerned in the matter is ready to co-operate heartily. Each college at Oxford is prepared to take from two to five scholars a year, according to its size.

The Daily Chronicle this morning expresses gratification that there is no tendency on the part of the exclusive colleges to raise objections to being "Americanized."

British Opium Seized.

Hong Kong, Nov. 7.—Armed runners of the new Kwonghing Opium Company of Swatow seized two chests of opium belonging to the English firm of Bradley & Co. last Monday. The affair was reported to Mr. Scott, the British Consul General, who interviewed the officers of the Kwonghing Company and demanded the return of the opium by 4 o'clock. The company defied the Consul and retained the goods.

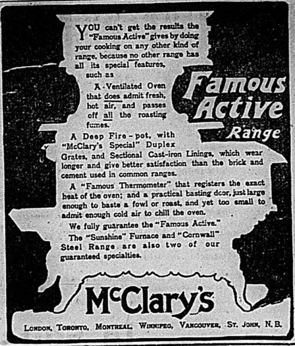
St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—Two men were killed and twelve injured by a premature explosion of dynamite at Jeffriesville, 65 miles from here yesterday. The injured were buried under a great mass of earth.

Count Boni Forced Out.

Paris, Nov. 8.—After an exciting debate yesterday, the Chamber of Deputies, by 278 to 235 votes, invalidated the election of Count Boni de Castellane as a member of the House.



YOU can't get the results the "Famous Active" gives by doing your cooking on any other kind of range, because no other range has all its special features, such as

A Ventilated Oven that does admit fresh, hot air, and passes off all the roasting fumes.

A Deep Fire-pot, with "McClary's Special" Duplex Grates, and Sectional Cast-iron Linings, which wear longer and give better satisfaction than the brick and cement used in common ranges.

A "Famous Thermometer" that registers the exact heat of the oven; and a practical basting door, just large enough to baste a fowl or roast, and yet too small to admit enough cold air to chill the oven.

We fully guarantee the "Famous Active."

RAILWAY MAN LOST IN STORM.

Supt. Egan of Great Northern Missing Since Last Tuesday.

Kalispell, Mont., Nov. 8.—Supt. E. F. Egan of this division of the Great Northern Railroad was lost in the mountains on Tuesday night from a party with which he had been hunting.

Supt. Egan left his private car at Essex, Mont., with the intention of hunting as far as Belton. The other members of the party got to their destination safe, but Mr. Egan failed to appear. His absence was kept quiet, and little alarm was felt until yesterday morning.

A heavy snow has fallen, and if the railroad official was injured in any manner, or exhausted, doubtless by this time he has frozen to death. Large searching parties are now out in the hope of finding him.

To Check Emigration.

Vienna, Nov. 8.— The Hungarian Government has introduced in the Reichstag an emigration reform bill of sweeping character. The Hungarian bill specifically prohibits the emigration of certain classes of people, including men who have not performed military service, parents who leave behind their children under 15 years of age, and persons without adequate traveling money, or whose expenses are paid by foreign states or colonization societies. Under the bill, the Government can forbid emigration to certain countries.

FRENCH STRIKE COMMISSION.

Thirty-Three Members to Be Appointed by Chamber of Deputies.

Paris, Nov. 8.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday took up a resolution moved by M. Rouanet (Radical Socialist), for the appointment of a commission of 33 members to investigate the conditions of the miners, and report upon means to prevent economic conflicts. Premier Combes said the Government had no objection to the appointment of such a commission, and the resolution was adopted by 367 votes to 148.

Six thousand striking coal miners held a meeting at Lievin (Department of Pas de Calais) yesterday. They decided not to accept the decision of the arbitrators against an increase of present rate of wages, and to continue the strike.

Three Arrests Made.

Paris, Nov. 8.—The Government arbitrators announced their decision yesterday against increasing the wages of the striking miners in the Department Du Nord. The grounds of the decision are similar to those in the Pas de Calais arbitration, namely, that the rates are proportionate to the selling price of coal. The large companies in the Nord have agreed to establish pensions for a term of five years.

At Lens (Pas de Calais) there was a clash yesterday between strikers and cavalry, the former throwing bricks at the latter. Gendarmes who intervened were also assaulted with bricks. One soldier was injured and three arrests were made. Throughout the Pas de Calais coal district the strikers are making noisy demonstrations.

Coal Famine Worse.

New York, Nov. 8. — The Journal says: It is believed on every hand that the price of coal was put down for political reasons only, and that, now the elections are over, the real facts regarding the coal famine will become public.

On the other hand, the representatives of the operators and the railroads declare that between thirty and thirty-five thousand tons are arriving daily. This is about nine-tenths of the amount that usually arrives. Where this disappears to no one seems to know.

There will not be a time this winter when a man can fill his cellar with coal. The man who wants ten tons will probably get a ton. Those that want a ton will have to take their turn before being supplied.

Coal is up at $6.50, but you can't get it.

A GUARANTEED CURE

For All Forms of Kidney Disease

I, the undersigned Druggist, am fully prepared to give the following guarantee with every 50 cent bottle of Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets, the only remedy in the world that positively cures all troubles arising from weak or diseased kidneys:

"Money cheerfully returned if the sufferer is not relieved and improved after use of one bottle. Three to six bottles effect astonishing and permanent cures. If not relieved and cured, you waste no money."

J. S. McKeown, Druggist, Belleville, Ont.

His Difficulty.

The witty Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Oxford, had no patience with admirers who persisted in regarding him, with others of his cloth, as extraordinarily important.

A lady who met him one day at dinner evidently felt obliged to keep the conversation at a high level. She began with much solemnity:

"My lord, you must have had a great many serious questions to deal with in the course of your life. What is the most tremendous difficulty you have had to encounter.

The bishop's napkin was slipping away from him.

"Keeping a dinner napkin on this silk apron of mine," said he, as he clutched at it.

To Rid London of Its Fog.

Dr. Redwood, leading chemist, is endeavoring to secure some legislation to compel the general adoption of use of oil in the city of London. With such action, he argues, the pall of fog under which the city frequently struggles would disappear entirely. The doctor says that the London fog is composed almost entirely of the unconsumed particles of carbon in the air emanating from the thousands of factory chimneys which are belching forth thick smoke for the greater part of the day. There is no soot from oil.

Pay a Penny

To Aid a Sick Friend, and I Will Risk $5.50

I ask only a postal card—just the name of someone who needs help. Tell me the book to send. 'Tis a trifle to do for a friend—don't neglect it. I will gladly do all the rest.

I will even do this:—I will mail the sick one an order—good at any drug store—for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds, it cost $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

I do that so that those who need help will accept it.

I have what those sick ones must have to get well, and I want them to have it. I make my offer so fair that no sick one can neglect it.

I do just as I say, and trust the cured ones to be fair with me. I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands on those terms, and 39 out of each 40 have paid gladly, because they were cured. I want not a penny otherwise.

My Restorative is my discovery, the result of my life-time's work. I have personally tested it in thousands of cases as difficult as physicians ever meet. In my vast experience I have so perfected it that it does not fail, save when a cause—like cancer—makes a cure impossible.

My success comes from strengthening the inside nerves. Common treatments merely doctor the organs, and the best results are but temporary. My treatment restores the nerve power which alone makes those organs act. It is like giving a weak engine more steam. Any weak vital organ does its duty when given the power to act, and there is no other way to make weak organs well.

No other remedy strengthens weak inside nerves, and for this reason there is no other treatment for chronic diseases which any man will offer on a plan like mine.

Please tell me who needs a remedy like that.

LOOK OUT FOR NO. 553,346

On Dominion Bills of the Date of March 31, 1898.

William Stuart Pleaded Guilty to Making Counterfeit Dominion Bills—A Criminal of Three Score Years and Ten—The Raymonds, Husband and Wife, Remanded Without Pleading For a Week—The Last Plate Nearly Perfect.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—Dominion of Canada bills of the denomination of one dollar, bearing the pictures of Lord and Lady Aberdeen on either side of a logging scene, and bearing the number 553,346, are in general circulation, and are all forgeries but one. The genuine bills are of the issue of March 31st, 1898, which date also appears on the counterfeit bill. Dominion of Canada two-dollar bills and Dominion of Canada five-dollar bills of the same issue, but with varying numbers printed, on private presses, are also in the pockets of many people, and are as worthless as those of the smaller denominations. The man who made the one-dollar bills, arrested by Detective Forrest Thursday night, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning.

William Stuart is a short, stout man of venerable appearance, being about 70 years of age. He has been kept separate from Anson Raymond and his wife, at whose hotel he had made his home for some time past, and where he manufactured the "queer" money.

Stuart was charged first with having, in October and November, forged a one-dollar bank bill of the Dominion of Canada. He elected for a summary trial, and when asked to plead, said:

"Well, I plead guilty of making the things."

The next charge was that, on Nov. 6, he did knowingly have in his possession a glass plate, upon which had been engraved, photographed or transferred something purporting to be, and intending to represent a whole Dominion of Canada one-dollar bill.

"I plead guilty," he said. He was remanded till Tuesday.

The two Raymonds were charged with knowingly having the plate in their possession. They pleaded not guilty through their counsel, T. C. Robinette, K.C., and were remanded for a week, without electing. No application for bail for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond will be considered, at least for a few days.

Business was carried on as usual at Raymond's Hotel yesterday. The place is in control of a bartender and the five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond.

The police say that during all the time the forged bills have been making their appearance they have noticed from time to time an improvement in workmanship. The plate which was discovered on Stuart when he was arrested was his latest production, and was much nearer perfection than the others. It would have been difficult to distinguish between the bills made from this plate and the genuine.

THE M'DOUGALL CASE.

Securities For $21,000 Received by the Government For Protection.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—It is learned on good authority that Alfred McDougall, who is held on charges of misappropriating Provincial Government funds, in his efforts to make restitution before his arrest, transferred for the benefit of the Government three insurance policies on his life, one for $10,000 and two for $5,000 each, and also an equity of redemption which he had in a lot in Rosedale, of the value perhaps of $1,000 or $1,500. These securities are now held by the Government, without reference to the prosecution of Mr. McDougall, which will go on, and will be used to cover the deficiencies as far as they will go.

McDougall Is at the Jail.

Alfred McDougall, now in jail charged with misappropriating funds as solicitor to the Ontario Treasury Department, has not yet been released on bail, although his friends were confident last night that the $20,000 security demanded by the Crown would be forthcoming to-day.

Shearer, who will occupy that position until a successor is appointed.

Chairman of Committees—Organization, Rev. T. A. Moore, Hamilton; Finance, John E. Brown, Hamilton; Legal, John A. Patterson, K.C.; Legislation, J. K. Macdonald.

Fierce Election Riots.

Vienna, Nov. 8.—Riotous disturbances marked the election in the Favorite District of Vienna yesterday of members of the Landtag (or Provincial Assembly). Anti-Semites stormed the headquarters of the Committee of the Socialists and a fierce fight ensued. The rioters were charged by mounted police and forty of them were arrested. Many received sabre wounds. The Anti-Semites carried the election by a majority of 39 out of a total poll of 13,000. The Clericals now hold the entire representation of Vienna in the Landtag.

When Premier Meets Premier.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Premier Ross is here and has had an interview with Sir Wilfrid Laurier. "The Government's majority is all right," he said, "and growing." Mr. Ross conferred with the Minister of Finance regarding the question of Inter-Provincial accounts.

McINTOSH BROS.

CRAZY MILLIONAIRE

SPENDS HIS LIFE AND FORTUNE IN DODGING THE SUN.

Nice, Nov. 7.—Senor Ytubrie, who hails from Cuba, and who is reputed to possess more millions than there are weeks in the year, is probably the maddest millionaire alive.

Some years ago an old fortune-teller bade him "Beware of the summer sun," and he has twisted and distorted the words until he has become a hopeless and desperate monomaniac. His one possessing fear is lest a ray of strong daylight or even a draught of fresh air should strike his body.

He arrived at the Hotel de Paris, Monte Carlo, in a travelling carriage more like a hearse than an ordinary equipage. The windows of wood were sealed, and in the absolutely dark interior, surrounded by three thicknesses of heavy curtains, sat Senor Ytubrie in black solitude.

A voluminously draped sedan chair was conducted by the mad millionaire's head valet down the hotel steps, curtains were spread from the carriage to the sedan chair, and the haunted man was invisibly conveyed to the magnificent suite of apartments reserved for him.

Senor Ytubrie demands no less than seven rooms in a line for his personal use. He lives in the centre room of the seven, with a dim artificial light and no fresh air, the windows barricaded, lined with felt, and curtained double doors and a kind of tent around his susceptible person. The other six rooms, three on each side, shuttered, curtained, and securely locked, are needed by the strange guest for no other purpose than to keep off the draught.

The surgeon's name who was chosen to perform the operation was Dye—Dr. Frank Hackett Dye.

When the operation was over Miss Death was placed in charge of two nurses.

Miss Payne was the day nurse. Miss Grone was the night nurse.

The patient is recovering rapidly, and in a week or so Miss Death will bid good-bye to Dr. Dye, Miss Payne and Miss Grone.

BRITISH COAL.

(Philadelphia North American.)

Compared with England's mining industry the anthracite business of Pennsylvania is a small affair to have made such a tremendous row. Our anthracite mines produce about 50,000,000 tons a year. Last year England exported to Hamburg alone 1,119,000,000 tons of coal.

GOT LAME BACK OR LUMBAGO!

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out, and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic, however, if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere in large 25c bottles.

THE SIN THEY ARE INCLINED TO.

(London News.)

Slander is the curse of society, and gossips are the purveyors of slander. Many women who gad about churches and sewing circles, ready to faint if they heard a word a little off color, will tear to shreds the character of a man or woman for the edification of soulless hearers, and actually make themselves believe that they are God-fearing, honorable women! Cigarets are somewhat of a curse, and whisky is more or less in the same class, but it would be well worth while to abandon the campaign against one or both and direct the powers for good toward the suppression of the character-wrecking gossip.

YESTERDAY IN CITY CHURCHES

Rev. Mr. Bogert Preaches Eloquently and Earnestly on "The King's Birthday"

Notes of Services in Belleville's Different Places of Worship Yesterday

St. John's Church.

At the above church yesterday morning, the Rev. Rural Dean Bogert, Rector, preached on "The King's Birthday," the text being from Psalms:

"I will remember the works of the Lord and call to mind my wonders of old time;

"I will think also of all thy works; and my talking shall be of thy doings."

The Church of England, the preacher said, called upon its members today to give thanks for four things: the recovery and coronation of the King, the restoration of peace, and the return of the Canadian contingents. Not one of the four has, so far, been left unnoticed.

Newspapers have teemed with editorials and letters, parliaments have passed resolutions, synods and assemblies have sent addresses, poems have been written and sermons preached upon these suggestive and all absorbing subjects, and I don't think, my brethren, that I can hope to say anything to you to-day which has not been said by myself already, or by thousands of others in more forcible and touching language. And yet, it surely is not possible to thank God too often nor too fully, for His blessings—particularly His special blessings—and that is the meaning and purpose of our service to-day the first anniversary of our beloved King's Birthday. We are, then, to thank God to-day, first, for the recovery and coronation of His Majesty; the two are intimately associated in our minds, since there could have been no "Coronation had there been no "Recovery.' A very striking thought was suggested the other day by a preacher of our own church in speaking on this subject. The Proclamation of the Coronation, when issued for June—the first date fixed—was promulgated "by command of the King." Oh! there was surely a note lacking here. There was plenty of pride, natural, perhaps, and possibly not really intended by the King. But what of God? Men had forgotten, or failed, for the moment to realize, that God and not Kings, after all, rule in the kingdoms of men—that all is of and dependent upon Him—and so God, in His love and mercy, sent a warning and His angel smote the King. The Nation—the Empire—was prostrated, and on its knees before Jehovah's throne. God heard the united prayers of millions, and mercifully aided the physicians to the King's recovery. Now, note the change. The new proclamation announced the Coronation not "by command of the King," but "by the favour of God." King and people felt the change and there was a deeper, better note. If you and I, brethren, and all the people of this great Empire feel and realize to its full extent the fault of our complete and utter dependance on God, and if we all practice what we know and feel, then the strength, the greatness, the stability of England will continue. I repeat what I remember saying at the time of our late Queen's Jubilee, viz.: That England had attained to her present great and noble position by honouring God, His Day, His Word, but would only remain so long as she continued to remember that the first and great Commandment is "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." Another thought arises in my mind, as it must surely arise in the minds of all those old enough to remember those anxious, painful days and weeks during which our King, when Prince of Wales, lay sick with typhoid fever, hovering between life and death. How the nation breathed a sigh of content, and sang hymns of thanksgiving to God, when the crisis was passed and recovery began. Then, that solemn thanksgiving service in the grand Cathedral of St. Paul, then the Queen, the Prince and Royal family went in solemn state to praise God for His mercy and to thank Him for His favour.

I want to tell you another fact which many of you may not know—When the special form of thanksgiving was being prepared for the service in St. Paul's upon the occasion of our King's going there to return thanks for his wonderful recovery, His Majesty with his own hand wrote and sent to the Archbishop of Canterbury, with a command that the words be inserted in the service, that 1st verse from the XLth Psalm: "I waited patiently for the Lord; and He inclined unto me and heard my calling." Yes, brethren, when King and subjects are filled with the love of God, where they honour as they should His name, His word, His Day, all will be, all must be, well with the nation,—so long and no longer—and so it is that the hearts of earnest men and women are filled with anxious forebodings when they look abroad and see the carelessness, the indifference, the neglect which characterizes so many, even of professing Christian people, in regard to, especially, God's word and God's day. It cannot be that God is in all the thoughts, if indeed He be even in many, of those who will not take the trouble, not to speak of the privilege, to come and worship that God in His own house, on His own day. Neglect of God is folly—worse, it is sin. Let us never, therefore forget that "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

"The Restoration of Peace, and the return of the Canadian Contingents" are two other reasons for our service of thanksgiving to-day. These two, again, go hand in hand, and are intimately blended. The response of the Colonies to England's call for troops staggered the civilized world. It clasped with unbreakable firmness the bond which connects the Daughters with the Motherland. In our own case,—it raised Canada to the dignity of a nation; it proved not only to the world at large, but, better still, to HERSELF, that she is no longer a child, clinging to it's mother's skirts, but grown to maturity and able to strike a blow in that mother's cause. But don't let us grow proud and vainglorious for what we have done. It was well done, but, after all, nothing more than our duty. We may justly be proud that we were able to do our part in England's righteous war—we may feel honestly glad that throughout this vast Dominion enough—yes, more than enough—were found willing to risk their lives for England and the Flag. But don't let that worthy sentiment degenerate into mere bluster. Let us remember that on the battlefields of Peace are wars to be waged and victories won—harder to fight and more difficult to win than on the tented field and in the face of Maxim guns. It becomes us to walk as worthy children of a worthy mother, to act as becomes the Christian offspring of a Christian land—to cultivate peace, goodwill, honesty, sobriety, fidelity and loyalty, to our country and before all to our Lord. But, when we think of the members who sailed from this Dominion to take their part in the South African war, and then note how few comparatively fell in battle or succumbed to disease, what can we think except that God had our Canadians in His special keeping, and it well becomes us, therefore, to remember and praise God, this day, for this His great, His special, His ill-undeserved blessing.

It is meet and right that we should lift our hearts and voices in hymns of glad acclaim. It is well, indeed, that words of thanksgiving should arise from the lips of faithful worshippers, bending low before the altar of God. The very same feeling that makes the British soldier shout in the face of an enemy makes the British Christian sing and utter words of praise before the face of the Most High. But something more than shouting is needed to win a battle, and something more than praise and thanksgiving to win the favour of the Lord of Heaven and Earth—and you all know that that something is,—To honour God with the lips and practically dishonour Him in our lives; to bend before Him in the posture of humble thankfulness and praise on Sunday, and to bow down to the world; to pander to the flesh, and to serve the devil for the other six days, is worse, far worse, than useless,—and we must, never for an instant, forget that nations are composed of individuals, that a holy, God-fearing nation can be created only out of the materials of holy, God-fearing people. So there is a thought to take home with you this day, dear brethren—a thought which seems to spring naturally out of this Thanksgiving Service—Live and move and speak, yes! and think, as if the welfare and destiny of Canada and the Empire depended altogether on you alone. Live, too, as if the welfare and future success of our beloved Church, also, depended on each one of you individually; then there need be—nay, there could be—no uneasiness, no anxiety, no fears for the destiny of either Dominion or Church—nor for that of yourselves either. A great—an impossible ideal! do you say? It may indeed be so, my brethren, but great and noble achievements can never come from following low ideals. Aim high—always aim high—keep ever a standard of character above your own level, never below it, and cherish such a standard, not only for your own individual character, but for your Church and your Country, and then try to live up to your standard—labour humbly, but earnestly and prayerfully and faithfully to attain to your ideal, which you can do in one way and one way only, viz.: "By loving thy Lord thy God with all thy heart and mind and soul and strength; and loving thy neighbor as thyself," and so fulfil the law of Christ.

Bridge Street.

Quarterly services were held in this church yesterday morning, conducted by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Crothers. At the conclusion of the sermon the sacrament was administered. In the evening the Pastor's subject was "The Great Highway," and the text was from Isaiah, 35th chapter, 8th verse. During the service special music was rendered by the choir, consisting of a solo by Miss Vermilyea, a quartette by Misses Wheler and Watson and Messrs. C. H. Vermilyea and J. T. Burns. Misses Wheler and Miss G. Price took solos in the anthem.

Holloway Street.

At the morning service the Pastor, Rev. J. R. Real, occupied the pulpit and gave an excellent sermon. His text was from St. John, 15th chapter and 11th verse. In the evening Rev. Dr. Galbraith was the speaker and his address was in reference to the referendum, which is shortly to be taken.

John Street.

Large congregations were present at the services yesterday, and especially in the evening. The latter service was of a patriotic nature, commencing with the singing of the National Anthem. The Pastor, Rev. A. H. Drumm, preached, his subject being "Our Duty to the State." The discourse was well thought out and purely patriotic in sentiment. During his remarks the Rev. gentleman referred especially to Canada and its importance as one of the colonies of the mighty Empire. The text was taken from St. Mark, 12th chapter and 17th verse. During the service Miss Elsie Price rendered a solo with pleasing effect.

Bleecker Avenue.

At the morning service the sacrament was administered by the Pastor, Rev. M. J. Bates, who also preached. His text was from 1st Corinthians, 11th chapter and a portion of the 24th verse:

"This do in remembrance of me."

In the evening the pulpit was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Thorabeck.

Emmanuel R. E. Church.

Good congregations, particularly at the morning service, were the order of the day at the above church yesterday. The Rector, Rev. Mr. Gilliland, preached two animated and inspiring discourses, and in his prayers at both services referred to the 61st birthday of King Edward, praying that God would bless him and help him so to live that he would be an example to his subjects. "Rule Britannia" was played as an opening voluntary both morning and night, and the congregation sang "God Save the King" with great heartiness.

Christ Church.

The morning service was conducted by the Rev. H. R. H. Haslam, travelling Secretary of the Missionary Society, and in the evening by the Rev. G. O. Stringer, who is also engaged in missionary work. In the evening the preacher's text was from Acts 5th chapter and 32nd verse. During the offertory Miss Grace Ponton sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," by Ambrose, with nice taste and expression.

Tabernacle.

In the absence of the Pastor yesterday the pulpit of this church was occupied by the Rev. D. McArthur, who gave two interesting discourses. In the evening his subject was "The Referendum," the text being from Isaiah 57th chapter, and 14th verse:

"And shall say, cast ye up, cast ye up, prepare the way, take up the stumbling block out of the way of my people."

Baptist.

At this place of worship yesterday the services were conducted by the Pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott. In the evening the Rev. gentleman's text was from the 119th Psalm, 59th and 60th verses.

St. Andrews.

The Pastor, Rev. M. W. Maclean, preached at both services yesterday to good congregations. In the morning the Rev. gentleman's subject was "The Conversion of Saul," and the text was from Acts, 9th chapter, 10th, 11th and 12th verses.

St. Thomas'.

Rev. G. O. Stringer occupied the pulpit in the morning and his address was upon the line of missionary work in the Arctic region, where he had been laboring. In the evening the Rector, Rev. G. R. Beamish, preached and his sermon was patriotic in its nature having reference to the Birthday of King Edward. Special prayers were said and hymns sung.

DR. PARKIN AT OXFORD.

Pleased With the Way Colleges Are Treating Rhodes Bequest.

London, Nov. 10.—Dr. Parkin, visiting at Oxford, says he has been greatly interested in the way all the colleges discuss the best plans of working the Rhodes students into the university systems. All the replies to his inquiries he has received up to the present are very favorable. The bequest for the first year will elect seventy to seventy-five students and a similar number in the second year. In the third year there will be about thirty. Each college is prepared to take from two to five scholars every year. Oxford University has twenty colleges. There are from eighty to two hundred undergraduates in each college.

Alfred McDougall Released.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Alfred McDougall, the defaulting solicitor to the treasury of Ontario, was released on bail Saturday night. He was driven from the jail to No. 1 police station, where the bonds were accepted by two Justices of the Peace, H. R. Frankland and David Carlyle.

The bail given amounts to $25,000. These are the bondsmen and the amounts they become responsible for in case the defendant fails to appear for trial and judgment: Dr. Uzziel Ogden, 18 Carlton street, $15,000; Charles Miller, barrister, $3,500; Dr. James McCullough, 172 Spadina avenue, 1,500; S. H. Blake, K. C., $2,500; H. S. Mara, broker, $2,500.

Electricity Supplanting Steam.

Montreal, Nov. 10.—Messrs. H. A. Watson, general superintendent; S. Naven, superintendent of motive power, and J. Cudworth, engineer, all of the North Eastern Railway of England, reached here yesterday, being on a visit to Canada and the States. They are about changing 47 miles of the North Eastern, near Newcastle, from steam to electrical power, and are looking for hints on this side of the Atlantic. Mr. Naven says that the Lancashire and Yorkshire will also make a change in the congested districts near Manchester and adjoining lines.

50 Cases of Smallpox.

St. John, N. B., Nov. 10.—Fifty cases of smallpox are reported in Kent County. Dr. E. B. Fisher, secretary of the Provincial Health Board, returned from there on Saturday. The afflicted ones have been concealing the fact which makes the work of stamping out the disease all the harder.

BATTLE WITH DOUKHOBORS

Mounted Police and Citizens Fought a Human Chain.

Enthusiasts at Minnedosa Hugged One Another, But the Government Forces, Under Messrs. Pedley and Speers, Tumbled Them Into Cars—Most Remarkable Engagement in Canada's History—Casualties Many But Not Serious.

Minnedosa, Man., Nov. 10.—Another chapter in the history of the Doukhobors' pilgrimage to convert the world has closed, but with the end, "to be continued." On the arrival of the Doukhobor army here they were met by Mr. Pedley and Mr. Speers, who led them to the skating rink.

They formed outside and sang a Psalm, then were led in prayer by one of their number, who addressed the citizens, asking them to do something for Jesus by helping them along with food.

They then went inside and were interviewed by Mr. Pedley, who tried to find out the leaders. Many schemes were tried, but the Doukhobors were cunning and would not bite. At last Mr. Pedley persuaded them to pick out one man from each village to meet him and talk over the situation.

About 2 o'clock Mr. Pedley, Mr. Speers and five Doukhobors held a conference in the balcony of the rink, one of the Doukhobors acting as interpreter. Mr. Pedley tried every means to find out the real object of their pilgrimage, and many and amusing were the evasive answers given by the Doukhobors.

They showed that they were well posted on current events, saying they wanted to go south to convert the miners in the recent coal strike. From this interview it was most apparent that religion was not their only object, but, that they were going to force the Government to give them their own laws or they would tramp to some other country, but as after this showing, no other country would have them, Mr. Pedley decided they must be put back in the villages and kept there.

Mr. Pedley told them they must prepare to return next day, and that he would go back with them, which seemed to satisfy them temporarily. Saturday morning they again spread around the town begging, as they did the day before, but gathered back and had their meal at 11 o'clock. Then a break was made to move east. Then they discovered they were confined, and could not go.

They made a slight show of forcing their way out, but were held back by police, and were kept in until the special train of six empty coaches and three cars filled with men of the N. W. M. P. arrived. Mr. Speers entered the rink and asked them to go quietly to the train, but Zebroff, who has been exhorting them ever since their arrival here to remain firm, again tried to hold them together.

Mr. Speers grabbed Zebroff, and, in spite of his struggles and fighting, ran him out of the rink and called to the police to bring the rest. They went out all right, but as soon as they got out they locked themselves together by every man hugging another, making a solid body.

Then the excitement commenced. The citizens turned in and helped the police, but it was hard work for a while to even get the Doukhobors apart. It took four or five men to pull one Doukhobor from this interlocked mass. They had to go however. Some went quietly when broken away, while the majority fought every inch of the ground.

The scene was one that has never been equalled in the history of Canada. A sullen, stubborn mob of people fighting fiercely with police and citizens, not in the usual way of warfare, but just to be left alone and allowed to go their way.

One citizen had an ear nearly bitten off, a Doukhobor had his ankle broken and there were many other minor mishaps. A few of the Doukhobors went to the coaches alone, but the vast majority were carried, bodily dragged, pushed along, or loaded in the wagons of farmers, who had gathered to see the fight. The latter course was bitterly fought by the Doukhobors, as they so seriously objected to being drawn by horses.

The fight in getting the Doukhobors the one hundred yards from the rink to the station ended in a victory for the Government forces, but the Doukhobor army again formed for battle, and it was here that by far the stiffest fighting occurred. The Doukhobors fought, kicked and clung to everything they could get hold of, the railings of the coaches greatly helping them out.

It was an impossibility for any one policeman to load a Doukhobor. Some took as many as five or six, and then clubs had to be used to make the Doukhobors loose their hold. But as soon as clubbed off one place they caught at another, and most stubbornly contested every inch of the way.

The Doukhobors were by far the heaviest build and used every ounce of their immense bulk to advantage. Although not on the offensive, they certainly make a great fight, and many were the remarks of admiration for the fight they put up. Although the weather was bitterly cold, Mr. Speers said, after talking to many of his army, "I don't think there is a Canuck here with a dry shirt."

Victory at last crowned the Government forces, and the Doukhobors were all in the coaches, and although they tried to get the windows open after a last feeble stand, they capitulated and the Government was victorious. Mr. Speers in a short speech, said he wished to publicly thank the citizens of Minnedosa for their valuable assistance.

Although victorious here, it is a question yet to be decided if the Government will not be defeated in their final fight in getting the Doukhobors back to the villages. If the fight here to move them one hundred yards is any example of what the Government has to contend with, it will take a much larger force to move the Doukhobors the one hundred miles to their villages, and this chapter in the history of the Doukhobors' pilgrimage most assuredly ends "to be continued."

BOND-HAY TREATY.

Signed at Washington Saturday by Herbert and Hay.

Washington, Nov. 10. — Secretary Hay, for the United States, and Sir Michael Herbert, representing the British Government and the Government of Newfoundland, Saturday, at the State Department, signed what is known as the Bond-Hay treaty providing for reciprocity between the United States and Newfoundland, covering fish products and bait. The treaty will be submitted to the United States Senate immediately upon its re-assembling and meanwhile, following the rule in such cases, the State Department refrains from making public the details of the instrument.

HON. MR. SIFTON PRESIDED.

Described the Liquor Traffic as Greatest Evil in the Country.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—The prohibitionists opened the oratorical end of the referendum campaign here yesterday by holding two meetings, at which J. A. Nichol was the orator. At the meeting in St. Patrick's Hall last night, Hon. Clifford Sifton presided. He said he was always a total abstainer, and his father and grandfather were abstainers before him. His views, instead of growing weaker, were becoming stronger. He described the liquor traffic as the greatest evil in the country, and was glad to be present to show his sympathy with the temperance cause.

SOMETHING FOR PREFONTAINE.

In Montreal It Is Considered That He Is Sure of a Portfolio.

Montreal, Nov. 10.—It looks as if Mr. Prefontaine had downed his enemies and that the ex-Mayor is absolutely sure of a portfolio. It was even said yesterday that the men here who have been doing their best to keep Mr. Prefontaine out of the Government have not only thrown up the sponge, but will even join in a further movement to have the Department of Public Works remain in this Province.

FOR THE CABINET.

Mr. Prefontaine Slated For Ministry of Marine and Fisheries.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—(Globe's Special.)—Official announcement will probably be made to-day of the appointment of Hon. James Sutherland to be Minister of Public Works, and of Mr. Raymond Prefontaine, M. P., to be Minister of Marine and Fisheries. Mr. Prefontaine is expected to arrive on the C.P.R., reaching here at 11.45 a. m.

Says He Was Intimidated.

Hamilton, Nov. 10.—The North Wentworth election trouble crept into a liquor case at the Police Court Saturday. License Inspector Jarvis charged Matthew Ryan of the Bay View Hotel with selling liquor after hours on the evening of Oct. 11. The only witness for the Crown was Jarvis, and during cross-examination by James Haverson he admitted that Ryan had charged him with intimidation about his license in the particulars filed in the North Wentworth election trial, and that about Oct. 25 he went to the hotel with Magistrate Brooker of Waterdown with the object of getting Ryan to make a declaration that he had not been intimidated by Inspector Jarvis. The case was adjourned, to be heard at a time convenient to the lawyers in the case. If it does not come up again, it will not surprise many people.

Newfoundland Naval Reserve.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 10. — The British cruiser Charybdis will sail to-day for the West Indies, taking 100 Newfoundland fishermen recruits for the British naval reserve. These men will serve a six months' training course. The recruits taken by the Charybdis are double in number the party previously taken. Half of them will join the flagship Ariadne and the other half will remain aboard the Charybdis. The training ship Calypso will remain at St. John's permanently. She will take on board three hundred other recruits.

Progress of Educational Bill.

London, Nov. 10.—Parliament is making steady progress with the education bill, which, with the aid of the drastic enforcement of closure, will be passed before Christmas. Mr. Balfour is in turn conciliatory and inflexible. The acceptance of an amendment securing to the laity of the Church of England control over religious education in the church schools is an important concession to those who dread the influence of the dogmatic and ritualistic clergy, and the radical malcontents.

Czarina Raises a Storm.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 10— The Czarina has an unfortunate faculty of making herself unpopular. Her latest false step has been to turn Alexander II.'s cabinet into a bathroom. This was the room in which the present Czar's grandfather wrote his epoch-making ukase liberating 23,000,000 of Russian serfs.

Betrayed Military Secrets.

Leipsic, Saxony, Nov. 10.—The imperial court has sentenced four Italians who betrayed to France military secrets regarding the fortress of Metz to varying terms of imprisonment, ranging from nine to ninety-six months.

General Spoke Five Hours.

Buffalo, Nov. 10.—Gen William Booth addressed three meetings here yesterday, speaking altogether five hours. He was heard by over 8,000 persons at the three meetings and hundreds were turned away.

No! No! No! No!

This word is used four times by Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, in reporting the result of his analyses of Sunlight Soap.

"No unsaponified fat"; that means no waste.

"No free alkali"; that means no damage to clothes or hands.

"No loading mixture"; that means every atom is pure soap.

"No adulteration whatever"; that means pure ingredients.

Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—and you will see Prof. Ellis is right. He should know. 202

MINERS THREATEN.

Troops Active Throughout the French Mining Regions on Sunday.

Paris, Nov. 10.—The Government is taking precautions to handle another outbreak on the part of the striking miners in case the decision reached Saturday night to continue the strike is followed by violence. Troops were active in the mining regions throughout yesterday, but no serious disorders have as yet been reported. The authorities believe that the crisis in the strike is near, and that the next 24 hours will settle the question whether the men hold to their decision to continue the movement or go back to the mines.

Following the decision of the Miners' Congress to continue the strike, there were disorderly occurrences in Lens (Pas de Calais) Saturday night. The cavalry charged repeatedly a crowd of 15,000 riotous miners, and succeeded in preventing them from advancing. Considerable minor damage was done.

At Courrieres (Pas de Calais) houses of non-strikers were sacked and a number of coal wagons were burned.

A clash between strikers and gendarmes and cavalry is reported from Clermont Ferrand (Puy de Dome). It was not attended with serious results.

Refused Him Work, May Die.

Wilkes-Barre, Oa., Nov. 10.—Dennis Doris, foreman at the Susquehanna Coal Company's mines at Glen Lyon, this county, was fatally shot Saturday by a miner, J. C. Hennessy. Hennessy made application for work to foreman Doris and the latter refused him a place. This angered Hennessy and, he drew a revolver and began firing. Doris is popular and there were threats of lynching. Doris cannot recover.

VOTE FAVORS BIG STRIKE.

Switchmen Want Radical Action—So Far Managers Are Silent.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The differences between the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the seventeen railroads centreing in Chicago reached an acute stage Saturday, as the managers failed to make reply to the demand of the switchmen, and the referendum vote on the strike proposition, so far as counted, was heavily in favor of radical action.

The trainmen expected the roads to make some reply to their renewed demands of the switchmen for a 5 cent an hour wage increase, and waited all morning for a communication, but none came. The managers did not even hold a meeting. The strike, should it be called, would involve more than 50,000 men at the outset, and the strikers, it is said, would be supported by 60,000 brakemen and conductors.

Bullet in His Head.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—W. W. Waters, a Dominion policeman, was found dead yesterday afternoon with a bullet in his head. An inquest will be held.

Many Coughs and Bad Colds

THE RECENT COLD SNAP RESPONSIBLE FOR MUCH SICKNESS—RELIEF AND CURE IS OBTAINABLE BY THE USE OF DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

"The first cold I have had this 'fall,'" you hear people say, as they cough violently. And to hear the coughing you would think comparatively few people have escaped it."

The sudden changes of temperature at this season, when people are not clothed to protect themselves, are almost sure to bring trouble, and one can never tell where a cold is going to end.

It may wear away, but is more likely to hold on and be added to by cold after cold, until some serious ailment is developed—perhaps consumption or pneumonia, perhaps kidney disease or liver complaint.

The wise plan is to nip the trouble in the bud by promptly curing the cough and cold before it fastens itself on the vital organs, and in this connection we suggest Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Not that there is any scarcity of cough mixtures, but because this preparation is more than a mere cough cure, has stood the test of time, and never had such an enormous sale as it has to-day. This we consider the strongest evidence of its worth as a treatment for coughs and colds.

Composed as it is of linseed, turpentine and half a dozen other ingredients of known virtue in the cure of colds, this remedy is far reaching in action, and positively cures the cold as well as giving prompt relief to coughing, hoarseness, sore throat, etc.

There are many imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, so be careful when buying and look for the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the wrapper. This is the strongest guarantee any medicine can have.

Children delight to take Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and it is a positive cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, coughs and colds; 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

AN OUTLAW'S FATE

... By C. M. STEVANS

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

United States Marshal Simpson was standing just back of the judge's desk in Topeka during the trial of Bill Covil when a boy brought him a telegram. He read it thoughtfully and then beckoned to Jim Thraile.

When Thraile came up, the marshal gave him the message, which read: "Casper Flugel in camp with seven men, not friends, at Willow Springs, near Guadaloupe peak."

"Thraile," said the marshal, "you're the man to take him in. It will be an easy five hundred for you."

Casper Flugel was a big German iron molder, wanted in Pittsburg for the murder of a companion. His first year's career in the territory had so added to his crimes that his description was well known to all the deputy marshals.

Jim Thraile accepted his task, and in due time he rode into the camp at Willow Springs, playing the role of a fugitive from justice. Since all renegades regard it as their prime duty to protect any one threatened with arrest his first task consisted of getting the man he wanted away from the company. He soon found that this could not be done, because the iron molder would not under any circumstances go ten feet out of camp unless accompanied by several of the men.

Flugel was thoroughly disliked. He did not know how to be companionable to the other renegades. He lacked their style of courage. His silent, sullen nature was decidedly distasteful, and it was apparent that they would gladly be rid of him. As Flugel could not be persuaded to leave the company, and as Thraile knew how to be popular with the men, the latter decided that the quickest way to get his man was to pick a quarrel with him and have him driven from the camp as an uncongenial character. But Casper Flugel would not quarrel. He stoically took all abuse without any sign of resentment further than a revengeful look out of his heavy, brutal eyes. It was a dangerous game, since even the renegades might become suspicious. Suspicion was sometimes as bad as conviction.

"Say, partner," said one of them, "Dutchy thinks you are a marshal and that you are after him. We've got a notion to fire you both."

Jim Thraile laughed good naturedly.

"I've got out of a good many worse places than this where I wasn't wanted," he answered. "When do I go?"

"Oh, I guess you're all right," was the reply, "but Dutchy's afraid, and he wants us to promise that you don't get out of camp until he's had at least a day's start."

"That's dead easy," answered Thraile. "Tell Dutchy to git at once. He's nobody's pard. Let him go."

Casper Flugel rode away at noon with a grunt that was meant to be a friendly farewell, but his late companions took no notice of him except to exclaim, "Good riddance!" Thraile noticed, however, that the rustlers kept a close watch on him all day. That night he slipped out of camp, mounted his horse and rode away.

He had no difficulty next morning in finding Casper Flugel's trail. To his astonishment it led straight northeast to the Pecos river. Thraile thought that nothing but the ignorance of the iron molder could lead him to take the chances of making his way across the Great Staked plain. The man hunter knew that it was fully three days' journey to the Pecos river, during which time not a drop of water could be found. Then, possibly, even the Pecos river would be dry as a sand hill. The hunter filled his two rubber air pillows with water and stuck like a fox hound to the trail of the fugitive leading into the great oven of the plains. As the day progressed a scorching and oppressive vapor made it impossible for him to see any object beyond a few yards. Sparingly he doled out the water to himself and horse. Most of the time he held bulbs of the sand cactus in his mouth as a preventive of thirst, and he fed them liberally to his horse. The night was inexpressibly silent. Neither whir of insect nor howl of coyote came to break the monotony of the weary hours.

At the end of the second day his water supply was exhausted, and nothing remained but a handful of coffee and a small bag of bran. Not a spear of grass was to be found, and as the horse struggled along after his master through the deep white sand he groaned with almost human reproachfulness. When the sun arose on the third day, it appeared like a redhot stove lid that had been shoved up above the horizon in the night.

The trail was less than an hour old when the exhausted pursuer reached the banks of the Pecos river. He found the bed of the stream as dry as the shores. Thraile unsaddled his horse and helped the poor creature gather the sparsely growing blades of soft salt grass. At a spot in the bed of the river where this grass was usually thrifty he spent an hour digging with his hunting knife and was rewarded with enough water to quench their thirst and to fill one of his rubber bags.

The next morning he started again on the trail, walking all the time to save his horse. In the course of a few miles he came to the worst of the desert. Here was a great sea of soft white sand, into which the horse at every step sank to his fetlocks and the man to his ankles. The horse could not endure this unceasing struggle, and soon after noon he sank down. To save him from the torture to follow the master shot him and then trudged on, convinced that he was almost in sight of the iron molder.

It was now evident that Casper Flugel had been better equipped for his task than his pursuer. He had been told that no one could follow him across the Staked plain. Thraile drank the last drop of water from the rubber bag and with indomitable will struggled on. A little later an object loomed up in the trail before him. It was Casper Flugel, seated on the body of his dead horse.

The sight of a human being in that dreadful region caused the man hunter to give a shout of joy. He forgot his object in following the iron molder. Here was a human being in that God forsaken region, and he felt that if he could grasp the man's hand in friendship it would be the happiest moment of his life.

Casper Flugel heard the shout and, dumb with amazement at the sound of a human voice, rose to his feet. Then he gathered up some articles at the horse's head and hurried on as fast as the soft sand would permit.

The man hunter ran after him, shrieking words of good will and entreaty, but the iron molder gave no heed and finally disappeared in the suffocating heat waves. When the red lid had traversed the sky and seemed suddenly to drop out of sight in the sand a few yards ahead of him, the pursuer, exhausted, fell to his hands and knees. Instinct had taken the place of reason, and he crawled on.

Presently he found himself looking over the edge of a precipice. The twilight was clearer than the day, and before him was a long valley, in which he could see several buffaloes grazing near a stream. The sight was so unexpected that he beat his forehead in the belief that it was the vision of a disordered mind.

His rifle was gone, but his two revolvers were yet in his belt. Still he looked and hesitated. Was it a dream? The reality became so clear that new life rushed through his veins, and he crept like a snake down to the herd. Crawling to a rock near which one was feeding, he leveled both guns. At the shot it fell, and his misery was at an end. In a few minutes he had a fire, and over it a bit of steak. Then he fell asleep, but some time in the night he was awakened by rifle shots, mingled with the howls of wolves. Revolver shots followed in quick succession, and the man hunter sprang to his feet. Casper Flugel was fighting wolves!

Thraile had just decided to go to Flugel's assistance when the firing ceased and a horrifying shriek echoed down the canyon. It was too late to help the iron molder. Thraile ran back to the bluff. He was none too soon. The pack of wolves came howling down the canyon. They reached the carcass of the buffalo and fought over it so long that the man hunter was enabled to reach a place of safety. Some of the boldest tried to get at him. He emptied his revolvers at them and finally the howling pack turned up the canyon. The next morning he followed the stream to the first ranch, and a month later he reached Topeka, where he reported to United States Marshal Simpson the death of the iron molder.

A Cure For Stammering.

A gentleman who stammered from childhood almost up to manhood gives a very simple remedy for the misfortune: Go into a room where you will be quiet and alone, get some book that will interest but not excite you and sit down and read two hours aloud to yourself, keeping your teeth together. Do this every two or three days or once a week if very tiresome, always taking care to read slowly and distinctly, moving the lips, but not the teeth. Then when conversing with others try to speak as slowly and distinctly as possible and make up your mind that you will not stammer.

Well, I tried this remedy, not having much faith in it, I must confess, but willing to do almost anything to cure myself of such an annoying difficulty. I read for two hours aloud with my teeth together. The first result was to make my tongue and jaws ache—that is, while I was reading—and the next to make me feel as if something had loosened my talking apparatus, for I could speak with less difficulty immediately. The change was so great that every one who knew me remarked it. I repeated this remedy every five or six days for a month and then at longer intervals until cured.

Too Logical.

Mr. Blank, head of the great business of Blank & Son, regularly scanned the attendance book, noting punctuality or otherwise. His son was the greatest offender, and he wrote across his entries, "Mr. George Blank keeps very bad time."

Mr. George, "bluffing," appended to this remark, "Time was made for slaves," and laughed much among the higher employees at his wit.

On the 1st of each month the cashier handed each employee his check in a sealed envelope. Mr. George was always eager for his, having expensive tastes of all kinds.

On the next payment after his rejoinder he opened his envelope and found a slip of paper on which was written: "Time was made for slaves. Time is money. But Mr. George Blank is not a slave, therefore he requires no money."

Mr. George, who was a university man, avowed that despite his former studies he found this proposition too logical for him.—London Telegraph.

What He Forgot.

Little Johnny—Can I have some more pie?

Mamma—Do not say "can;" say, "May I have?"

Little Johnny—I forgot.

Mamma—Forgot what?

Little Johnny—That I have to be particular about grammar w'en I ask for pie.

THE "WHY" OF IT.

Why does the body fail at times to get necessary nourishment from ordinary food?

Because the digestive organs are not strong enough to perform their proper functions.

Why should these organs be aided in their work?

Because the digestion of ordinary food is more than they can' accomplish when they are in a weakened condition. It is necessary that some aid in the form of an easily assimilated nourishment be provided.

Why does the nourishment supplied in Scott's Emulsion feed the body when ordinary food does not?

Because being scientifically emulsified it is rendered much more easily digested and the whole system gathers nourishment with much less effort. There is less tax upon the whole digestive tract.

Why is the nourishment contained in Scott's Emulsion assured proper distribution?

Because the emulsion is easily and naturally taken up and utilized by the system.

Why is the good effect of Scott's Emulsion soon noticeable?

Because the ingredients represent the very form of nourishment needed. The stomach requires a change and rest from ordinary food and hence the good effects of the emulsion are quickly seen.

Why is Scott's Emulsion a food for the whole system?

Because every part of the emulsion—oil, hypophosphites and glycerine, is adapted to some special need of the body when a wasting condition exists.

Why is it necessary to nourish the whole body when only one part is affected?

Because the blood, nerves, bones and muscles must all be considered and provided for in restoring waste and establishing uniform health. Scott's Emulsion gives nourishment to all, collectively and individually.

Sealers Met Heavy Weather.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 10.—The Japanese schooner Leifu Maru, arrived yesterday morning from Behring Sea. The schooner left the sea for Japan port, but heavy weather blew her towards this coast, and Captain Ritchie, an old-time Victoria sealer, sailed to Victoria. She has 800 skins. Capt. Ritchie reports that 18 vessels went to Behring Sea and all used firearms, Japan not being a party to the modus vivendi. The schooners all experienced very heavy weather towards the close of the season.

Struck in the Mouth.

Welland, Nov. 10.—Saturday afternoon Fred Jacobs, a M. C. R. section man, who was working on the track, stepped aside to allow an eastbound train to pass. He did not step far enough, however, and was struck in the mouth by the engine. Mr. Jacobs had his lip cut and three or four teeth knocked out.

Visitor—Well, Tommy, now are you getting on at school?

Tommy (aged eight)—First rate. I ain't doing as well as some of the other boys, though I can stand on my head, but I have to put my feet against the wall.

Badly Expressed.

The builder of a church on returning thanks for the toast of his health which had been proposed remarked:

"I fancy I am more fitted for the scaffold than for public speaking."

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmalee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes: "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The land area of Hawaii is 4,000,000 acres.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

A man should be careful not to afflict his wife, for God counts her tears.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Wedding rings in St. Kilda used to be made of worsted.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes: "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Contentment may be better than wealth, but the most of us are compelled to jog along without either.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

TIMELY TOPICS.

It would seem, judging by the weather yesterday, that "King's weather," on the King's Birthday, is likely to be just as agreeable as "Queen's weather," on the Queen's Birthday, used to be.

* * *

Rather a good story (the scene of which is laid not a thousand miles from Belleville) is told of two young clergymen, one of whom is rector of an Anglican church and the other curate of a church which renders allegiance to the Pope. The former is married, his home being brightened by a second edition of himself. The clergymen are good-looking men, both wear the clerical black and are not unlike each other. Not long ago an aged gentleman, whose sight is not so good as it used to be, met the R. C. gentleman, shook hands with him effusively, at the same time saying, "Delighted to see you, my dear sir; you are looking well. Your wife and baby are also well, I hope." It was a case of mistaken identity, but the young father's astonishment, for a minute or two, was very great.

A correspondent writes: "Will a certain congregation in this city call upon its pastor to resign his charge because in his sermon last evening he advocated a protective policy for Canada?" It is not likely. We know of no better way in which a minister can serve his Maker, his congregation, or the state, than by advocating from the pulpit things which he honestly believes are in the best interests of his country. Why should a minister, any more than an editor, be tied down to the discussion of conventional subjects and trite truths? The passing hour, with its lessons for good or evil, would make a better, and vastly more interesting subject for sermons than the question of whether Jonah swallowed the whale or the whale swallowed Jonah, or other dry-as-dust topics of that kind. If more ministers would follow the example of the Rev. gentleman in question, the great problem of to-day, "Why don't the men go to church?" might be solved.

* * *

A rather profane correspondent writes: "Why don't you give the Fishery Inspector a rest?" We were under the impression that for some considerable time the Fishery Inspector had been having an ideal rest, with an excellent salary attached. However, if our correspondent can suggest some way by which we can make things easier for Mr. Hurley we will certainly strain a point to do so. Up to the hour of going to press, however, the portfolio of Public Works had not been seen heading in this direction.

"What astonishes me," says the Stony Lonesome philosopher, "is that so many young people, whose feet must be tired, prefer a two hours' walk on the hard pavements of Front St. on Sunday night to a comfortable seat in a nice warm church."

Here are a few things anxiously looked for, but not yet in sight:

A mayoralty candidate for 1903.

A few Aldermanic ditto.

A local stock company to operate the Rolling Mills.

The Gallant Fifteenth's pay.

Coal reduced in price to $6.50 per ton.

Adequate protection for Canada.

Just think of what we missed: The Deering works at Hamilton will employ 5000 men.

It begins to look as though they may have to move Queen's College away from Kingston in order to get somebody to take the job of Principal.

Mr. Gerald Sifton, who was tried for the alleged murder of his father, has been acquitted. The question now arises, what are the authorities going to do with the man who swore he hit old man Sifton on the head with an axe at the instigation of young Gerald Sifton? The case presents some queer features, not the least noticeable of which is the "tall swearing" which seems to have been done by somebody.

We learn that the Chairman of Industries is in correspondence with a man who wants to come here and make bath tubs. He probably heard in a casual way that Belleville has no public bath.

The French champagne crop, it appears, is going to be a failure, but it won't make much difference to the rest of the world, considering that not one bottle sold in ten is the genuine article.

Among the Rugby scrimmages on Saturday that mix-up between the Doukhobors and the Government forces deserves special mention. The Douks appear to know how to put up their dukes.

A schooner with coal aboard, had to be scuttled to keep her from breaking up. But then the coal would have been scuttled later on, so what's the dif.?

* * *

Hon. Clifford Sifton glories in the fact that he is a total abstainer, as his father and grandfather were before him. This simply shows that strong drink is not responsible for all the evils which assail Canada. However, if Sifton, the tee-totaller and purist, could debauch constituencies, bring in the Doukhobors and lay plans for that gigantic job, the proposed Yukon railway, what in the world would he have done had he been in the habit of crooking his elbow once in a while?

The Globe still picks Hon. Jim Sutherland to succeed Tarte, and assigns the portfolio of Marine and Fisheries to Prefontaine. As our friend Mr. Hurley would say, "Tell that to the Marines."

The only King's Birthday honor granted to Canada goes to Sir Richard Cartwright, probably for the pertinacity with which he keeps his mouth shut, does nothing and draws his salary.

The telegraph says Emperor William and Hon. Joseph Chamberlain had an earnest confab before going to church yesterday. Probably Joseph was reading the signs of the times for the great ruler, as another Joseph did many years ago in the land of Egypt.

COIN IN SALMON'S STOMACH

FISH CAUGHT WITH TEN-CENT PIECE IN ITS INTERNAL ECONOMY.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 8. — The finding of a ten-cent piece inside a dog salmon twenty miles above Essington, on the Skeena River, has caused great comment. A coin falls through the water with an undulating motion, not unlike the action of a spoon bait. But that the particular salmon which intercepted some ten-cent piece dropped from the side of a steamer should be captured and the piece of money recovered has almost a flavor of the miraculous.

THE CRITICAL TIME OF LIFE

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigor is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes 50c., or 6 boxes for $2.50, at druggists or J. S. McKeown's.

It was an entertainment as good as it was unique." Bridge St. Church to-morrow night, admission 25 cents.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co's.

THE FAMOUS SHOE FOR WOMEN

"IMITATIONS"

When every store is selling a so-called "SHOE FOR WOMEN" it does not mean that they have a demand for such a shoe from their customers.

It means simply that they realize the enormous success of the "QUEEN QUALITY" Shoe and want to imitate it.

But they cannot imitate it.

and if they could do you want an imitation when you can have the original at no greate expense?

It is a fact that most of the styles of shoes sold in the stores originate on "Queen Quality."

Remember that no imitation is ever as good as the original.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards, the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

Ours grows speedily for better if the growth of our WALL PAPER business is any indication.

OUR WALL PAPER

Trade during the past three months has actually doubled the same three months of 1901.

YOU MAY FANCY

Thus strange when you remember that there are three more stores selling wall paper than there were last year in Belleville.

NOT STRANGE AT ALL—

The facts are that the more opposition we have the stronger the comparison in our favor, stronger the comparison in favor of our prices, our methods, our goods.

YOU WOULD SCARCELY

Imagine it, but the facts prove the case that we sell papers in this store at 3c per roll, that will cost you 6c per roll in other stores in this city.

TRUE!

We don't make much profit, but if we make half a cent a roll on twenty thousand rolls it nets us a profit of one hundred dollars, while the dealer carrying wall papers as a side line will sell, say five hundred rolls at a profit of 3c per roll he makes $15 only.

STILL—

We couldn't sell the large quantities if we did not carry the large stock, our large selection, with our low prices and our excellent styles makes our business profitable to our customers and ourselves.

50,000 rolls of paper is the lowest limit of our stock.

RAILWAY FIREMEN HAVE A GRIEVANCE

SAY WORK IS TOO IRREGULAR—COMMITTEE HAS BEEN NEGOTIATING FOR TEN WEEKS.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—For about ten weeks now members of the B. L. E. and B. L. F. have been in Montreal in conference with officials of the G.T.R. regarding the wage schedule and certain grievances, and vague rumors have been circulated from time to time that the men here and in other parts of the province are very much dissatisfied with the slow progress being made towards a settlement.

The G.T.R. firemen are taking a very deep interest in the work of the Montreal committee, and claim that their conditions of labor are very onerous. Such a thing as a fireman being on duty for nearly 24 hours continuously is, they say, by no means unheard of, and what this means to the firemen engaged in such exhausting work can only be imagined. The strain is said to be terrific.

Then the men's hours of rest at the end of a run are said to be frequently only eight or less before they must again report for duty, out of which they must also get a meal and attend to other personal duties, leaving them a meagre time for sleep. More than this, they are subject at any time to have their rest hours invaded by special calls, obliging them to turn out in a very fatigued condition.

The result of a continuous strain at such exhausting work is that the man becomes inert and the system fails to respond to the tax upon it. After fifteen or twenty hours of such labor, it is not uncommon for men to have their head out of the window of the caboose watching for signals, which they repeatedly fail to observe owing to the physical collapse that ensues. When one considers the dangerous and responsible nature of this work, the chances that are being taken will be more readily impressed.

Another thing which the firemen complain about is that when they go out on an engine they never know how long they will be on duty. They have to finish the run, and at the end they are obliged to return with the engine or lay off at the point they are at, until the engine comes back for them a day or two later, which means more or less expense in various ways.

Another matter about which they are making strong representation is that they are obliged to report for duty forty-five minutes before the engine leaves, which time is not included in their hours of work, and for which they receive nothing. During this time they have to take on supplies of various kinds and look after the equipment of the engine generally, which keeps them busy.

The quality of the coal on freight engines is another matter about which the firemen complain. This, they allege, is of very inferior nature, and has been so for a few years, adding very much to their labors, and requiring them to dig out the clinkers and practically build a new fire about every 30 or 40 miles, and sometimes, it is stated, even the conductors are required to lend the fireman a hand on his regular duties to enable him to perform this extra labor.

The firemen allege many other grievances, but these are some of the principal ones which are occupying the attention of the committee at Montreal.

Married on Saturday

The marriage of Mr. Nicholas Asseltine and Miss Edith Thompson took place very quietly on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 8th, at the residence of the bridegroom's father on Front St. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. J. Bates. The happy couple purpose living in the city.

Experienced.

"Mamma," she said, "what preacher do you think I ought to have marry Cecil and me? I feel as though Mr. Goodman is so young, and, not being married himself, he could hardly"—

"Oh, pshaw!, Have Dr. Easleigh. I've had him for four of mine, and he always gave thorough satisfaction."

Showed What She Could Do.

Phoxy—I got a good square meal last night, the first in several weeks, and I have you to thank for it.

Friend—Me to thank? Well, that's news to me.

Phoxy—Yes, I know. I telephoned to my wife yesterday morning that you were coming out to dinner with me.

Learning.

Elizabeth, a little Boston girl, is seven. Quite an old girl now is Elizabeth. "You do not mind me as well as you did when you were two years old," observed her grandmother.

"You see, I didn't know anything then, and so of course I always did just what any one told me to," replied Elizabeth.

A GIFT OF 500 ACRES

Would be no temptation to Mr. Beemer in exchange for Dr. Agnew's Ointment. Itching Piles of seven years standing took to themselves wings after a few applications.

Mr. M. Beemer, of Knotmaul, Mich., says in a letter of [illegible] date:—"I have had Itching Piles for seven years. I have tried most everything that was ever recommended as a cure but never got the least bit of relief until I used Dr. Agnew's Ointment, and I haven't words to express the thankfulness I feel for the great cure. I would rather have the wonderful cure than 500 acres of land. 35 cents. 23

THE MASTER OF MAGIC...

BY ELIAS LISLE

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

"So you're the fire king," said the proprietor of the town's one hotel as he exhumed the register from a heap of empty bottles.

"Fire king and master of magic, known to a large public as Pyro," said I politely, ornamenting my signature with lambent flames in ink. It's a great advertising dodge if you can manage to have the register left open on the counter.

"You've struck Campbellstown at a good time," said mine host.

"So my ascendant star informed me," I replied. It does no harm to throw in a little astrology now and then.

"The miners are in from all around. Old Kanawha's in flood and that means knock off work at the mines."

"Seven days shall the flood endure; then shall the waters subside and those in the depths of the earth shall walk dry shod," I pronounced in my best manner. Weather lore's a fine bluff if you put it far enough ahead so that you'll be out of the way in case things don't turn out according to programme. But I missed it clean that time.

"Dry shod, your eye!" said the hotel man scornfully. "It ain't the water that does the damage. It's the gas. When Kanawha gets up very high—and she's higher now than for years—the natural gas outlets get shut off. Nobuddy knows just where they are, but they're in the river or on the banks somewhere, and when the water shuts 'em off the gas puffs out all around the country, specially in the mines. Then, after a few of the boys has keeled over or there's been a blowout or two, they knock off and wait for the river to go down. Town'll be full of 'em this afternoon, and Campbellstown full of miners is about as peart a spot as you'll find in West Virginia."

"Peart" it certainly was. There were two shooting affrays and a general fight that afternoon. By my invitation a dozen of the visiting miners came in and had drinks on me, and I gave them a taste of my quality by blowing flame instead of froth from my beer and lighting my cigar with the end of my finger. Morose fellows they were, the effect, I believe, of working in darkness, but they served my purposes by spreading abroad the fame of my gifts, so that I was assured of a crowd that night. One of my guests, a powerful fellow with an evil eye, seemed to take a distaste for me and cursed me as he left for no other reason than that he didn't take to my ways, and announced his intention of being at the performance and seeing that things went right.

"Kinder ugly, eh?" commented my host. "That's Sledge Turner, and he's one of the worst men in these parts when he's drunk. He always goes heeled too."

I had an overflowing house that night, and in the third row I beheld Mr. Turner's forbidding face. Everything went well, and I soon had my audience in a condition of mingled delight and awe. When I went down into the body of the house to collect silver dollars, white mice and other miscellanies from my admiring spectators, I was in such high spirits over the success of the evening that I did a foolish thing. I pulled a dollar from between the scowling eyes of Sledge Turner. At the same time I saw the hilt of a murderous knife projecting from his belt and heard his announcement that he'd have that dollar back or cut my heart out.

After the performance, as my assistant was out in the box office and I was getting my apparatus packed, the door burst open and Turner had me by the throat with both hands. Between his teeth he held the big knife I had seen. There were hate and murder in his eye. The profession of magic makes a man quick to think in emergencies. It also provides him with resources not possessed by the average man. In an instant I had sent a spurt of flame to Turner's face from the wire in my sleeve connected with the battery between my shoulders. The current wasn't strong enough to knock him down, but he loosed his grip on me, and the next instant I gave him a Japanese elbow trick. Down he went and lay there struggling on the floor, for I had caught him fair in the throat, and the blow is an ugly one. It struck me chillingly that I had rather overdone the thing. Throwing a long ulster over my inferno costume of scarlet and black, I explained hastily to my assistant and made my way back to the hotel. Ten minutes later my host entered my room without the formality of knocking. In his hand he held a revolver.

"Take this and git for your life," he said, thrusting the weapon into my hand. "You've done Sledge Turner, and the lodge is after you."

"It was in self defense," I said. "Whatever the lodge may be, it can't"—

"It's the miners' lodge," he interrupted. "Blood oath and life for life. Sledge was a member. If they get their hands on you, they'll string you up like a cat."

There was a hoarse roar outside that grew nearer and nearer.

"Hustle!" cried my kindly host. "No time for the door. Take the window. Keep right down the river road. Ten miles down you'll strike Carton. You'll be safe there."

To reach the ground was an easy matter. My chances were good. My tights made an excellent light running costume. I was an athlete and in good training; a magician has to be. The roar of the river told me the road, and as I sped away into the darkness I ran full upon a man and knocked him flat. The mischief was done. The view halloo of the man hunt rang in the air, and, with a roar, the pack of human hounds was on my trail. Down the road I went at my best speed a good hundred yards in advance of the van of my pursuers. Presently I became aware of a brightness in front of me, and, coming around a turn, I saw half a dozen negroes seated around a fire at the roadside. There was but one thing to do. With a demoniac roar I charged them. It was as I had hoped. The sight of a scarlet and black devil leaping at them from out the blackness of night was enough. Like rabbits they plunged into the brush, and the sound of their frantic prayers bore me company as I sprinted past the fire. It would have made a corking fine poster that scene, "The Apparition of Pyro." Then a shot sounded out behind me, and I put my thoughts into my heels. I was gaining on the pursuit when my feet splashed into water and I was up to my knees before I could check.

I wasn't in the river, for I could hear the flood roaring well to the right of me; besides, this water was stagnant. The true nature of the pool flashed into my head; it was a backwater from the river that had flooded the road and was probably but a short distance across. But if the miners knew of any path around they could head me off, as my progress through the water would be slow, even if I did not have to swim for it and lose my bearings. Nevertheless, straight ahead was my only chance.

Before I had got waist deep there was a flicker of light on the bank, and by the glow of a brand which they had snatched from the negroes' fire I saw a group of my pursuers peering out toward me.

"He's taken to the water," said one.

"Then we've got him," cried another. "Bill, you and Bibbey get around and head him off."

I kept on till the water was at my shoulders. Then something choked me like a rope around my neck. I had heard about the choking feeling of despair, and I thought this was it. I staggered and almost fell back as a strange, thick smell clogged my nose. On the surface of the water there was a bubbling and chuckling. I could feel it at my feet too. It was queer, but queer things don't make much difference to a man who is going to be hanged in five minutes. That was my first thought. Then I had a better one. I remembered the high water and the gas, and I knew what that bubbling was and was ready to take the chance and do a special turn for my life.

Of course I had to have some talk. You don't get the full effect of these things without a good spiel. The only thing I could think of was a patter from a book called the "Last Days of Pompeii," so I gave 'em that.

"Earth born villains," I shouted, "behold how the avenging Orcus spouts forth flames from the face of the waters to protect its own!"

There were answering shouts from all around the pond: "There he is!" "Where's the rope?"

"Silence," I yelled, "and behold!"

Then I flashed my electric spark into the middle of the gas and dove. When I came up ten yards away after staying down as long as I could, there was a big circle of red, yellow and blue flame dancing beautifully over the water. On the shore the brands flickered, but they cast light only on trees and bushes. There wasn't a living being in sight, but all around there were a mighty crashing of brush and howls that would shame a catamount. The miners' lodge had chased the devil just as far as they wanted to. My act was a sure enough hit.

I crawled out on the opposite side and went on to Carton in a boat that I found. Two days later my assistant came along. Sledge Turner wasn't dead after all. That's the reason they hadn't lynched Bob. He said if I'd go back there I could play to S. R. O. for a month, but I couldn't see it. I'd had enough. But it was a great ad. for me. Some day I'm going to make an act out of that night's work.

Brain Weights.

M. Marchand investigated the brains of 1,173 persons immediately after death. The weight of the brains is influenced by the disease. Diphtheria, for example, increases the weight. The brains of newborn boys weigh on the average 371 grams, of newborn girls 361. At the end of the first year the figures are: Boys, 967; girls, 893. By the end of the third year the weight of the brain has tripled, and from this epoch it increases very slowly, especially with girls. It attains its greatest weight at about nineteen and one-half years for men, at about seventeen for women. The average weight of the brain of an adult male is 1,400 grams, of an adult female 1,275 grams. The reduction of weight due to senile atrophy commences with men about the eightieth year, with women about the seventieth. We may recall for comparison the following facts: The heaviest brain on record is that of the novelist Turgeneff, 2,120 grams. One of the lightest is that of Gambetta, 1,160 grams. The weight of the brain is thus one factor and only one in the comparison of different men and of different sexes.

The River Was Overflowing.

Last summer Minnie took a trip with her papa and mamma, and they visited many beautiful places. But Minnie liked Niagara falls best. She seemed greatly impressed with the roar and volume of the water. On returning home she told Uncle Frank all about her journey. "We went to Niagara falls in a splendid time," she said, "for there was much water. Of course it isn't always so, but there was a hard shower just before we got there!"

A leather-food! Restores humidity, keeps the fibre soft, tough and elastic. Adds months of wear, and "shines" quickly, brilliantly.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Since the September morning when he had left her, she had not heard from him except once, when in the winter, Morris had been to New York, and having a few hours' leisure on his hands, had called at Wilford's office, receiving a most cordial reception, and meeting with Mark Ray, who impressed him as a man quite as highly cultured as Wilford, and possessed of more character and principle. This call was not altogether of Morris's seeking, but was made rather with a view to pleasing Katy, who, when she learned that he was going to New York, had said inadvertently: "Oh, I do so hope you'll meet with Mr. Cameron, for then we shall know that he is neither sick nor dead, as I have sometimes feared."

And so Morris had sought his rival, feeling repaid for the effort it had cost him, when he saw how glad Wilford seemed to meet him. The first commonplaces over, Wilford inquired for Katy. Was she well, and how was she occupying her time this winter?

"Both Helen and Katy are pupils of mine," Morris replied, "reciting their lessons to me every day when the weather will admit of their crossing the fields to Linwood. We have often wondered what had become of you, that you did not even let us know of your safe arrival home," he added, looking Wilford full in the eye and rather enjoying his confusion as he tried to apologize.

He had intended writing, but an unusual amount of business had occupied his time. "Mark will tell you how busy I was," and he turned appealingly to his partner, in whose expressive eyes Morris read that Silverton was not unknown to him.

But if Wilford had told him anything derogatory of the farm-house or its inmates, it did not appear in Mark Ray's manner, as he replied that Mr. Cameron had been very busy since his return from Silverton, adding: "From what Cameron tells me of your neighborhood there must be some splendid hunting and fishing there, and I had last fall half a mind to try it."

This th[illegible] there was something comical in the eyes turned so mischievously upon Wilford, who colored scarlet for an instant, but soon recovered his composure, and invited Morris home with him to dinner.

"I shall not take a refusal," he said, as Morris began to decline. "Mother and the ladies will be delighted to see you again. Mark will go with us, of course."

There was something so hearty in Wilford's invitation that Morris did not again object, and two hours later found him in the drawing room at No. — Fifth Avenue, receiving the friendly greetings of Mrs. Cameron and her daughter, each of whom vied with the other in their polite attentions to him.

Morris did not regret having accepted Wilford's invitation to dinner, as by this means he saw the home which had well-nigh been little Katy Lennox. She would be sadly out of place here with these people, he thought, as he looked upon all their formality, and contrasted it with what Katy had been accustomed to. Juno would kill her outright was his next mental comment, as he watched that haughty lady, dividing her coquetries between himself and Mr. Ray, who being in every way desirable, both in point of family and wealth, was evidently her favorite. She had colored scarlet when first presented to Dr. Grant, and her voice had trembled when she took his offered hand, for she remembered the time when her liking had not been concealed, and was only withdrawn at the last when she found how useless it was to waste her affections upon one who did not prize them.

When Wilford first returned from Silverton, he had, as a sure means of forgetting Katy, told his mother and sisters something of the farm-house and its inmates; and Juno, while ridiculing both Helen and Katy, had felt a fierce pang of jealousy in knowing they were cousins to Morris Grant, who lived so near that he could, if he liked, see them everyday. In Paris, Juno had suspected that somebody was standing between her and Dr. Grant, and with the quick insight of a bright, smart woman, she guessed that it was one of these cousins—Katy most likely, her brother having described Helen as very commonplace—and for a time she had hated poor, innocent Katy most cordially for having come between her and the only man for whom she had ever really cared. Gradually, however, the feeling died away, but was revived again at the sight of Morris Grant, and at the table she could not forbear saying to him:

"By the way, Dr. Grant, why did you never tell us of those charming cousins, when you were in Paris? Brother Will described one of them as like a little water-lily, she is so fair and pretty. Katy, I think, is her name. Wilford, isn't it Katy Lennox whom you think so beautiful, and with whom you are more than half in love?"

"Yes, it is Katy," and Wilford spoke sternly, for he did not like Juno's bantering tone, but he could not stop her, and she went on.

"Are they your own cousins, Dr. Grant?"

"No, they are removed from me two or three degrees, their father having been only my second cousin."

The fact that Katy Lennox was not nearly enough related to Dr. Grant to prevent his marrying her if he liked, did not improve Juno's amiability, and she continued to ask questions concerning both Katy and Helen, the later of whom she persisted in thinking was strong-minded, until Mark Ray came to the rescue, diverting her attention by adriotly complimenting her in some way, and so relieving Wilford and Morris, both of whom were exceedingly annoyed.

"When Will visits Silverton again, I mean to go with him," she said to Morris at parting, but he did not tell her that such an event would give him the greatest of pleasure. On the contrary he merely replied:

"If you do you will find plenty of room at Linwood for those four trunks which I remember seeing in Paris, and your brother will tell you whether I am a hospitable host or not."

Biting her lip with chagrin, Juno went back to the drawing-room, while Morris returned to his hotel, accompanied by Wilford, who passed the entire evening with him, appearing somewhat constrained, as if there was something on his mind which he wished to say; but it remained unspoken, and there was no allusion to Silverton, until, as Wilford was leaving, he said:

"Remember me kindly to the Silverton friends, and say I have not forgotten them."

And this was all there was to carry back to Katy, who on the afternoon of Morris's return from New York, was at Linwood, waiting to pour his tea and make his toast, she pretended, though the real reason was shining all over her telltale face, which grew so bright and eager when Morris said:

"I dined at Mr. Cameron's, Kitty."

But the brightness gradually faded as Morris described his call and then repeated Wilford's message.

"And that was all," Katy whispered sorrowfully as she beat the damask cloth softly with her fingers, shutting her lips tightly together to keep back her disappointment.

When Morris glanced at her again there was a tear on her long eyelashes, nad it dropped upon her cheek, followed by another and another, but he did not seem to see it, and talked of New York, and the fine sights on Broadway until Katy was able to take part in the conversation.

AN EASY WAY

TO KEEP WELL.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary, I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

My physician first advised me to use them, because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized pkgs at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars' worth of good.

A Christmas Cantata by Frederic Van Rensselaer Dey, entitled "Santa Claus' Busy Day," is given prominent place among the literary features, and Christmas poems are supplied by Cora A. GERALD SIFTON GOES FREE

The Jury at London Says He Did Not Kill His Father.

First the Jury Reported a Disagreement, and Later on Returned With a Verdict of "Not Guilty"—A Long Fight For Life—Interest Now Centres About What the Crown Will Do With Herbert, Who Confessed.

London, Nov. 10.—"Not guilty" was the verdict in the Sifton murder case Saturday evening. It was the result of a week's trial. This was practically the third trial of the case. At 5 o'clock the jury were given the final instructions and retired. Three hours later they returned and Foreman Gillies reported to Judge Britton that an agreement was impossible. At that hour two stood out for conviction and the balance for acquittal. The judge sent the jury back to see if an agreement was not possible. In 20 minutes they reported an agreement, "Not guilty."

The young wife of the prisoner rushed wildly to him and threw her arms around him. She manifested the greatest joy. The crowd in the court-room cheered, and many women rushed forward and grasped the prisoner's hands.

Judge Britton discharged the prisoner. Sifton left the court-room after shaking hands with the members of the jury.

Long Fight For Life.

This is one of the most remarkable criminal trials in the history of Canadian jurisprudence. It has cost the Crown more than $25,000, and Gerald Sifton has been fighting for his life since June 30, 1900.

When the foreman's report was announced Gerald Sifton stood up and hugged his wife, but in no other way indicated his pleasure. Then he was handed his hat and left the courtroom with his wife, after an imprisonment of more than two years, most of the time in the shadow of the scaffold.

The jury was composed of William Tilwood, Andrew Gardner, D. K. McKee, Robert Patterson, Dougald Gillies, J. E. Thomas, F. A. Ryan, William Sutherland, Henry Rismele, George I. Stephenson, W. T. Howlett, David Wood.

What of Herbert?

What will the Crown do in the case of Walter Herbert, who voluntarily confessed that he was a party to the murder of old Mr. Sifton? Herbert swore that Gerald Sifton was a murderer, but the jury says he is not. If Herbert is sentenced to death it will be upon his own statements, which are discredited by the acquittal of Sifton. Inspector Murray says he does not know what action will be taken by the authorities. He is of the opinion that the young man will be brought before the judge and remanded for sentence. This will practically mean that the prisoner will be set at liberty. In view of the verdict in the Sifton case, the inspector hardly sees what other step can be taken.

The death of Joseph Sifton, a well-known and wealthy farmer of this county, on the morning of June 30, 1900, was the cause of the charge of murder against Gerald Sifton, his son. Joseph Sifton was 70 years old. He was to have been married the day of his death to Mary Macfarlane, his young housekeeper. The old man went to the barn early that morning with his son and Walter Herbert, a hired man. A few minutes later Herbert ran to the house and told Mary the old man had fallen from the barn and killed himself.

Motive For the Crime.

Ugly rumors were circulated until July 26, when Provincial Chief of Detectives John Murray caused the arrest of Sifton and Herbert, on the charge of the deliberate murder of the old man. The motive was believed to have been the estate, as far as the son was concerned, and $1,000 as far as the hired man was interested.

Both men were indicted, and at the first trial Walter Herbert pleaded guilty. He was accepted as a Crown witness and detailed the entire affair. He said that Gerald Sifton came to him the night before the old man was killed, and offered him $1.000 to help kill his father. At the preliminary hearing the two men pleaded not guilty. At the first regular hearing, after both men were indicted, Herbert pleaded guilty, and so continued to plead till the end.

KING EDWARD VII. AT CHURCH

Entered the Church at Sandringham on the Kaiser's Arm.

War Lord William of Germany Arrived on British Soil on Saturday, and Was a Guest at the King's Notable House Party—During the Day He Reviewed the First Royal Dragoons—King's Birthday Honors.

London, Nov. 10.—The German Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, with Emperor William on board, accompanied by the escorting German cruisers and a flotilla of British torpedo boats, reached Port Victoria at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

The arrival of King Edward's nephew was made the occasion of an imposing naval display. All the warships at Sheerness were dressed, their crews manned the decks and the usual salutes welcomed the Imperial visitor.

The Emperor wore the undress uniform of a British admiral.

Aftre breakfast Emperor William landed. The crew of the Hohenzollern manned ship and cheered lustily and the British war ships fired another salute as the Emperor boarded a train for Dover, on the way to Shorncliffe Camp, where he reviewed the First Royal Dragoons, of which regiment he is honorary colonel-in-chief.

Subsequently the Emperor was driven in a closed carriage to Shorncliffe Station and took a train for Sandringham, where he was met at the station by King Edward. Among the house party there were the Prince of Wales, Premier Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain, War Secretary Brodrick, Ambassador Lascelles and Sir Frederick Treves, sergeant-surgeon to King Edward.

King Edward at Divine Service.

Sandringham, Nov. 10.—The weather here yesterday was perfect, and the bright sunshine brought out crowds of visitors to Sandringham on the chance of seeing Emperor William and King Edward on the 62nd anniversary of his birthday.

The approaches to the church were lined with spectators. Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales and Mrs. Chamberlain arrived at the place of worship together. Half an hour later, King Edward, Emperor William, Prime Minister Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and other distinguished persons arrived and stood chatting outside the church.

King Edward talked with Mr. Chamberlain for a few minutes, then the Emperor of Germany approached, and for a quarter of an hour the Emperor and Mr. Chamberlain stood apart and conversed earnestly. The service had begun and the anthem had been reached before the royal party entered the church, the King taking the Emperor's arm.

The Bishop of Ripon preached on the possibility of the disappearance of race distinctions, and the attaining of the grand brotherhood of man. He referred to King Edward's recovery from his illness, to the visit of his kinsman and to the ties which have long united Germany and Great Britain.

Afterwards the two monarchs walked together through the gardens.

During the day King Edward received a host of birthday congratulations and gifts. Emperor William gave him a valuable vase.

After dinner at the Palace the royal party heard Jan Kubelik, the Austrian violinist.

Sir Henry Irving and Arthur Bourchier have been commanded to act before King Edward and Emperor William at Sandringham Palace next Thursday night. They will each present a one-act play.

For the King's Birthday.

Panama, Nov. 10.—At noon yesterday the British, American and Chilian men-of-war in the bay fired salutes of 21 gunes in honor of King Edward.

Only One Lone Canadian.

London, Nov. 10.—With the exception of some possible significant decorations to Portuguese and Japanese officials, the long list of His Majesty's birthday honors is comparatively uninteresting. Sir Richard Cartwright, Canadian Minister of Commerce, is among the new privy councillors.

Work For Arbitration Tribunal.

The Hague, Nov. 10.—The Arbitration Tribunal will assemble early next year to settle the question of foreign settlements in Japan and the rights of foreigners to hold property there. The dispute involves Japan on one side and England, Germany and France on the other. All these powers agreed to refer the question of the treaty rights of foreigners to the arbitration tribunal.

Great Electrical Invention.

London, Nov. 10.—J. H. Edgar, an electrical engineer of Wrexham, has patented an appliance by which electric messages can be sent over railroad rails for any distance, communication can be kept up between guard and signal boxes continuously, and messages can be sent to and received by passengers in a train while in motion.

Schooner Was Scuttled.

Kingston, Nov. 10.—The steamer Chieftain, with Capt. Thomas O'Brien in charge, left Saturday with complete wrecking apparatus on board for Lakeport, to relieve the schooner Katie Eccles. The chooner, with coal from Oswego had to be scuttled to save her being broken up by the heavy wind blowing.

Pope Won't Receive Loubet.

Paris, Nov. 10.—The Gaulois says that the Pope has intimated that he is unwilling to receive President Loubet of France if the President should previously visit King Victor Emmanuel. President Loubet, The Gaulois says, will avoid Rome and will meet the King elsewhere.

CANADIAN GIRL'S DEATH.

Dr. Kent Charged With Manslaughter For Miss Dingle's Death.

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 10.— The Grand Jury Saturday handed down an indictment charging Dr. Leland Dorr Kent of Buffalo with the crime of manslaughter in the first degree, in connection with the death of Miss Ethel Blanche Dingle, the Canadian nurse, formerly connected with the Riverdale Hospital, Buffalo, who was found dead in the Whitcomb House here several weeks ago. It will be remembered that Dr. Kent was found with his throat cut, and he claims that Miss Dingle tried to murder him and then committed suicide. The Grand Jury evidently believed the story told by the police that Kent murdered the girl and then made a feeble attempt to end his own life, his nerve failing him.

Nellie Corcoran Dead.

New York, Nov. 10.—Surgeons sawed into Nellie Corcoran's skull yesterday and explored her brain, to discover if they could, the secret of the trance, in which she had lain for 21 days. They had their labor for nothing. The body of the girl who had slept her life away was put on the dissecting table at 3.15 p.m. She had been pronounced dead. Through some strange process, which pathologists do not attempt to explain, Nellie Corcoran lived 60 years in 21 days, the period of her sleep. She was shrunken down from 150 to 115 pounds when she died, and the autopsy showed that while every bodily organ was perfect and the brain normal, so far as "grossly visible" evidence was concerned, she was a worn out old woman.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

THEY FATHER CONSUMPTION.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies, because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache, and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. MISSIONARIES TALK ON THEIR CHOSEN WORK

INTERESTING MEETING HELD IN CHRIST CHURCH LAST EVENING ADDRESSES BY REV. MESSRS. STRINGER AND HASLAM.

A missionary meeting under the auspices of the Anglican churches of this city was held last evening in Christ Church. There was a good attendance, the ladies being in a large majority. The choir was composed of members of the three Anglican church choirs of this city, and the singing was in proportion to the size of the choir.

Rev. A. L. Geen presided over the meeting, and, with Rev. G. R. Beamish and Rev. D. F. Bogert, assisted in the service.

The principal speaker of the evening was the Rev. G. O. Stringer, who for nine years was engaged in missionary work amongst the Indians and Esquimaux on Herschel Island, which is situated near the mouth of the Mackenzie River in the Arctic ocean. Rev. H. R. A. Haslam, Travelling Secretary for the Canadian Church Missionary Society, also spoke. The latter gentleman is an accepted candidate of the Society and he expects shortly to go to India to engage in missionary work.

After the singing of a processional hymn and prayers the Rev. Mr. Stringer was called upon and spoke at some length upon the work in which he had been engaged. In his opening remarks he referred to the climate of Herschel Island, which for the greater portion of the year is exceedingly cold, the thermometer at times being down to 65 degrees below zero. The Esquimaux mode of living, their clothing and diet was described minutely by the speaker. Their principal diet, he said, was dried reindeer, dried fish, whale blubber, moose, and seal meat. Flour in that country was a luxury, as it cost from $40 to $50 a barrel. The chief work of the men was hunting and fishing and the chief occupation of the women was drying meat and fish. Whilst the Esquimaux are to a certain extent an ingenious race of people, they are very slow mentally. Both the men and women are very fond of their pipes and tobacco, and also liquor when they can obtain it. They are also a very superstitious class of people, believing in evil spirits, and in consequence it is hard to reach them. Their language is very strange and it is rather difficult to translate the prayers for their use. Nevertheless good work is being done and many are being prepared for reception into the church. In concluding his address Rev. Mr Stringer made an earnest appeal on behalf of the cause of missions.

Rev. Mr. Haslam in his address referred to missionary work generally in the countries of China, Japan, India and Africa. Only a few years ago, he said, the missionaries were not allowed in some of these countries, but at present they are within their borders and effective work is being done. The speaker said the only way the power of the false prophets can be broken up in these countries is to place therein missionaries who are strong physically, mentally and spiritually. In concluding his address Rev. Mr. Haslam referred in complimentary terms to the Students' Volunteer Missionary movement, which, he said, was destined to accomplish much good. What was needed to-day to assist in this grand missionary work was not a sleeping, cold, dead and disobedient church, but a live, awake, energetic church, which was prepared to do all in its power to promote the good work. What was needed in the church to-day was a deeper love for missionary work.

The singing of a recessional hymn and prayers brought the meeting to a close.

KING SHIRT COMPANY, OF THIS CITY, RECEIVES AN ORDER FROM LORENZO MARQUES.

The King Shirt Company, of this city, has received an order from Lorenzo Marques, Delegoa Bay, for a sample order of the products of that company. The order came from one of the representatives of the Lingham Company, with the understanding that, should the goods and prices be satisfactory, a substantial trade might be built up. This, it can easily be seen, would be a good thing for Belleville.

THIS IS LONDON SUN'S ADVICE AS TO THE KAISER.

London, Nov. 10.—A number of the English papers intend making the Kaiser's visit to England the occasion for urging a better understanding between the two countries, but a few journals make adverse criticisms of His Imperial Majesty's visit. To-day's issue of the London Sun says: "The King has made the Kaiser a British field marshal, but this didn't prevent the latter from trying to persuade France to join in an intervention to end the Boer war. The Kaiser said he was greatly attached to his grandmother, yet he allowed the capital (Berlin) to be flooded with filthy cartoons aimed at our late Queen. So, now, doubtless, he will say many pleasant things to the King and British Ministers, but let us hope they will not be duplicated. There is no man England needs to watch with more sleepless vigilance."

ALLEGED NEW RAILROAD TO SPAN CANADA AND COUNTERACT MILITARY EFFECT OF TRANS-SIBERIAN LINE.

A telegram from Quebec to a Cleveland, Ohio, journal gives the following information, which will be read with interest by Canadians. The scheme is not altogether a visionary one, and may in time be successfully carried out:

Quebec, Nov. 6.—The great treasure house upon upper Canada is to be tapped by a new railroad that will span the North American continent and discharge its traffic at either the Atlantic or Pacific seaboard. The new line is called the Trans-Canada railway, and will be extended from Quebec on the east, to Port Simpson on the west.

The line from Quebec to Port Simpson will be 248 miles shorter than from Quebec to Vancouver by the Canadian Pacific. From Quebec to Yokohama, via Port Simpson, the distance will be about 722 miles shorter than from Quebec to Yokohama, via Vancouver.

As an imperial proposition it is asserted that the Trans-Canada railway will be England's answer to Russia's Trans-Siberian railroad. It is said that England, using the new line, could put troops in Manchuria, for instance, four days sooner than Russia, by using the Trans-Siberian road, could have troops from Moscow in Vladivostock.

It is further asserted that England could send troops to China or India by the new line, about three weeks sooner than by the Suez canal.

Work on the new road was begun on June 28, 1901. Its projectors expect to have the road ready for business from one end to the other, in 1907.

The road from Quebec to Port Simpson, a town in the west central part of British Columbia, on the Pacific ocean, will be 2830 miles long and the estimated cost of construction will be $95,750,000.

The officers and directors of the road are all Englishmen and Canadians, with the exception of Geo. Earl Church, an American engineer.

The line, as projected, will parallel the Canadian Pacific and will cross the continent almost on a straight line, about 280 miles to the north of the latter road. The new line will touch the Pacific at Port Simpson, which is said to have the finest harbor north of San Francisco.

The statement is made, that will be news to many persons, that in the provinces of Alberta, Athabasca and Saskatchewan, tributary to the road, there are the largest petroleum fields in the world. And in the same region are great fields of anthracite and bituminous coal, that have never been developed.

Cases in the Justice Shop

Abusive Language Case.

Two young men, named Frank Gardner and H. Phillips, were charged with using abusive and insulting language towards Mark Ottrey. The parties reside in Sidney. The plaintiff alleged that the defendants said they would tar and feather him, ride him on a rail, etc. The defendants denied the allegations.

The result of the investigation was that the accused were acquitted, the case being dismissed. Mr. Carnew appeared for the defendants.

HOCKEY.

Dissensions in the Local Club.

Everything, it appears, is not exactly lovely in the newly-formed Hockey Club; in point of fact, there is now no Hockey Club, as last night, we are informed, the members embraced and parted. Not being able to agree, they agreed to disagree. The bone of contention, it appears, was the personnel of the committee of management. The manager, Mr. Harry Burrell, our informant says, wanted a free hand, and objected to being himself managed by a committee of management. The players were unanimous in support of Mr. Burrell, the committee of management declined to withdraw, so it was decided to have a new deal and start the whole thing over again. Perhaps that was the best thing to do. Another meeting, we understand, is to be held shortly, when a new staff of officers will be elected and the matter put on a satisfactory basis.

It is to be hoped this may be done, and that nothing may occur in future to mar the harmony which should exist and must exist if the best results are to be obtained. Hockey is the favorite sport of Belleville people; there is every reason to suppose that the city, this winter, will have the best team it ever had; it is good, clean, healthy sport which appeals to young and old, rich and poor alike, and it is up to the players and their friends to get together and get ready to play the game. The general public, which parts with its nimble quarter at the door, is not interested in fights on paper; it wants to see hockey on the ice. If too many cooks spoil the broth, well—

YACHTING.

Great Things Expected of Shamrock III.

Glasgow, Nov. 10.— The Associated Press understands that in the Shamrock III. will be embodied some radical departures in the matter of yacht construction which have not appeared in any previous challenger. These changes are said to be due to an accidental discovery made during the trials of the Shamrock I. and Shamrock II., which convinced Designer Watson that there had been a fundamental error in the construction of all recent challengers. This discovery was made too late to admit of the remodeling of Shamrock II., but when its nature was explained to Sir Thomas Lipton it had great weight in deciding him to try for the America's Cup a third time.

Both designers, Fife and Watson, are convinced that they possess solid data upon which they will now be able to build a yacht superior to any previous cup racer. They are certain that they have evolved an idea which affects the whole theory of the propulsion of sailing yachts.

THE CRITICAL TIME OF LIFE

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigor is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes 50c., or 6 boxes for $2.50, at druggists or J. S. McKeown's.

CHARGE NOT SUSTAINED

MR. GEO. WELLMAN ACQUITTED OF THE CHARGE OF PERJURY.

The charge of perjury preferred against Mr. George Wellman, of the township of Rawdon, was finally disposed of yesterday afternoon by the Magistrate, resulting in the charge being dismissed. Much interest was manifested in the proceedings and many witnesses were examined, three of whom were brought from Napanee by the prosecution.

For the defence it was clearly proven that Wellman was home at the time it was alleged that he was in Belleville and Napanee in company with a Mrs. McComb.

After argument by Mr. Porter on behalf of the accused and by Mr. Anderson for the prosecution, the Magistrate reviewed the case carefully, finally acquitting the accused.

Mr. Wellman was congratulated by his friends at the conclusion of the case.

POST OFFICE FINANCES — MULOCK'S SURPLUS BUBBLE.

As was anticipated, the official report of receipts and expenditures of the Post Office Department for the year ending the 30th of June last, proves the statement made by Mr. Mulock, that he had a surplus of $5,000 over expenditure for the past year, to be a boast not sustained by facts. The Montreal Gazette thus exposes the charlatanism of the boaster:

Sir William Mulock announced himself at Toronto the other night as the first Canadian Postmaster-General to show a surplus in the operation of his department. He even gave the figure, which he stated was $5,000. The annual report of the department to be laid before Parliament is now before the public. It shows that instead of a surplus in the operations of the postal service during the fiscal years 1901-2 of $5,000, there was a deficit of $82,376. Mr. Mulock made out his surplus by excluding from his estimate the revenue in the Yukon and Atlin districts, which was in the fact $30,289, and the expenditure, which was $117,774. The tables of the deputy Postmaster-General's special report show the following to have been the financial result of the twelve months' operations:—

Amount paid by cheque......	$3,883,016
Deductions from revenue by postmasters	1,239,992
Service and salaries, etc., in the Yukon and Atlin......	117,774
	$5,240,783
Gross revenue $5,128,118
Yukon and Atlin revenue 30,289
	$5,158,407
Net deficit	$82,376

Sir William Mulock's claim cannot fool anybody who looks at the report to Parliament for which he is responsible. The putting of it forth is one of the most foolish of the foolish things he has done in his capacity as Postmaster-General, and these have been numerous, often annoying, occasionally unjust and sometimes ridiculous. They have fooled, angered and amused the public. They have to a large extent neutralised in people's minds the credit that he can reasonably claim for a bold and ultimately successful policy in reducing the rates on letter postage, both domestic and inter-imperial, and for the growth of the business during his term of office.

No department of the administration has shown more satisfactory progress during the last half-dozen years than the Post Office. Since 1896 the gross and net revenue and the expenditure has been as follows:—

	Gross revenue.	Net revenue	Paid by cheque.
1896	...$4,005,830	$2,934,014	$3,665,011
1897	... 4,311,243	3,202,938	3,789,478
1898	... 4,656,649	3,527,809	3,575,411
1899	... 4,325,431	3,182,930	3,581,848
1900	... 4,348,822	3,183,984	3,645,646
1901	... 4,620,553	3,421,192	3,837,376
1902	... 5,128,118	3,888,126	3,883,016

The difference between the gross and the net revenue represents deductions in payment of certain classes of postmasters, which the department does not actually handle, though they constitute an expenditure and have to be taken consideration of in calculating the whole cost of the service. In this period, omitting the revenue and expenditure in the Yukon and Atlin country, the gross revenue has increased by $1,122,228, the net revenue by $924,112, and the expenditure at headquarters by only $218,005. A deficit of $781,152 has been reduced to one of $82,376. Since 1898 there has been a reduction in letter postage from 5 to 2 cents to Great Britain, and most of the British colonies, and from 3 to 2 cents on domestic letters, and letters to the United States. The increased business has more than made up for the loss, and as a marked increase in postal business cannot well occur except when other business is prosperous, the figures may be set down as further proof of the extent and lasting character of the growing time.

It will thus be seen that, instead of a surplus of $5,000, Sir I. William has a deficit of nearly $100,000. It can, in fairness, be admitted that this is a good showing and a marvellous evidence of the prosperity which prevails throughout Canada, but it must not be forgotten that, in order to make his showing, the Postmaster-General has increased the rate of postage on newspapers, at the same time doubling the rate on newspaper correspondence and book post. Then again, some of Sir I. William's employes in the P. O. Department are working for lower wages than any other class which does the same kind of labor in Canada.

REMARKABKE SUCCESS

OF A NEW CATARRH CURE.

A large and constantly increasing majority of the American people are catarrh sufferers. This is not entirely the result of our changeable climate, but because modern investigation has clearly proven that many diseases, known by other names, are really catarrh. Formerly the name catarrh was applied almost exclusively to the common nasal catarrh, but the throat, stomach, liver, bladder, kidneys and intestines are subject to catarrhal diseases as well as the nasal passages.

In fact, wherever there is mucous membrane there is a feeding ground for catarrh.

The usual remedies, inhalers, sprays, douches or powders, have been practically failures, as far as anything more than temporary relief was concerned, because they simply dry up the mucous secretions, without having the remotest effect upon the blood and liver, which are the real sources of catarrhal diseases.

It has been known for some years that the radical cure of catarrh could never come from local applications, but from an internal remedy, acting on the blood and expelling the catarrhal poison from the system.

A new internal preparation which has been on the market only a short time, has met with remarkable success as a genuine, radical cure for catarrh.

It may be found in any drug store, sold under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, large, pleasant tasting lozenges, composed principally of antiseptic ingredients, Blood Root, Red Gum and similar catarrh specifics.

Dr. Ainslee, in speaking of the new catarrh cure, says: "I have tried the new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, upon thirty or forty patients with remarkable satisfactory results. They clear the head and throat more effectually and lastingly than any douche or inhaler that I have ever seen, and although they are what is called a patent medicine and sold by druggists, I do not hesitate to recommend them, as I know them to be free from cocaine and opiates, and that even a little child may use them with entire safety."

Any sufferer from nasal catarrh, throat or bronchial tube trouble, catarrh of the stomach, liver or bladder will find Stuart's Catarrh Tablets remarkably effective, pleasant and convenient, and your druggist will tell you they are absolutely free from any injurious drug.

Elingamite Bound From Sydney, for Auckland Goes Down.

Wrecked on the Three King's Islands—Vessel Was Used in the General Passenger and Mail Service Carried on by the Huddart-Berker & Company of Melbourne Between the Colonies and Australian Coasts.

Melbourne, Nov. 11.—The British steamer Elingamite, bound from Sydney, N.S.W., for Auckland, has been wrecked on Three King's Islands. Forty-one of those on board the steamer were saved and ninety-six are missing.

The lost steamer Elingamite carried 110 passengers. She was wrecked Sunday morning. Six of her boats and two rafts left the vessel.

Twenty-seven of the steamers' passengers and fifteen of her crew have landed on New Zealand. Steamers have been sent out to search for the rafts and four of the boats, which are missing.

Lloyds' report says 37 of the passengers have been saved, but that it is feared the remainder have been lost.

The steamer Elingamite belonged to Huddart-Berker & Company of Melbourne. She was used in the general passenger and mail service carried on by this company between the colonies and along the coast of Australia. She was built in 1887 at Newcastle-on-Tyne and was of 1,675 tons net register.

THREE LIVES LOST.

Half a Million Dollar Fire in New York City.

New York, Nov. 11.—The new East River bridge in process of construction between New York and Brooklyn was damaged to the amount of at least half a million dollars last night by a fire that for four hours raged 335 feet in the air on the summit of the great steel tower on the New York side. Three men who were at work at the top of the tower when the fire broke out are reported to have fallen into the river.

Daniel Brophy and his brother, John, of Montreal; A. P. McBride, and an unknown man, were reported to have been at work on the tower when the fire started. While they were helping the firemen to haul up the hose the framework on which they stood collapsed and the two Brophys and the unknown man were hurled into the river. McBride saved himself by catching a piece of projecting steel work.

A double-barreled shotgun was procured, and one of the boys, Harry Simmons, a Barnardo boy, shot at the rabbit. The gun kicked badly and nearly knocked the boy down, and in trying to recover himself the second barrel was accidentally discharged, hitting Easterby, who was only a few yards distant, in the back. The unfortunate man only lived four hours. Easterby was an unmarried man, 35 years of age, and came from St. Catharines.

Nerve Disorders of Women

ACCOMPANIED BY NEURALGIA IRRITABILITY, SLEEPLESSNESS AND DEPRESSED SPIRITS.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The feminine organism requires an enormous quantity of blood not only to sustain the network of nerves which are found in the womanly system, but also to make good the periodical loss which so weakens the body.

Consequently it happens that just as soon as the blood gets weak and watery or is deficient in quantity the nervous system suffers, and in woman the effects are more severely felt in the form of irregularities and weaknesses of the feminine system.

At the beginning of womanhood, at child birth, during the nursing periods and at the change of life, calls are made for an extra supply of blood and as a result nervous disorders are exceedingly common at these times and the health and happiness of the remainder of life may depend on the care of the system.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and creates new nerve force, it is the most effective preparation ever used by women to build up the system and restore vigor and strength to the body.

Mrs. John Hogan, Strachan street, Belleville, Ont., states; "I have used several boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and as a result I have been restored to good health. I used to suffer a great deal with headaches, dizziness, nervousness and weak, fainting spells. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food these ills have been entirely overcome and I feel like a different person. My nerves are steady, I have no headaches and the dizziness and fainting spells have entirely left me. I can speak most highly of this medicine as an excellent tonic.

LANGUAGE OF CIGARS

THE TERMS USED IN THE TRADE ARE GREEK TO MOST SMOKERS.

Some Refer to Size, Some to Shape and Others to Color—Few Tobacco Users Know Them Apart, and They Are Much Misused.

Whenever the average untutored tobacco lover wishes to indicate to his envious friends that he is in possession of a cigar of the first quality, he usually says that he has a perfecto. By perfecto he means the best cigar obtainable, and as a rule he applies the name to all products of the Havana factories. But in truth, declares an intelligent writer in the Kansas City Journal, a good many cigars that never saw Havana are genuine perfectos, and a good many made in the most famous factories of the Cuban capital are not. The word, as a matter of fact, does not refer to the quality of a cigar at all. It is simply a term used to describe the shape. A perfecto may cost $1, and it may cost 2½ cents.

There are half a dozen cigar terms thus misused by the average smoker, and there are several times as many words of the same sort whose meaning he is utterly unable to fathom. What native, corn fed smoker, for instance, knows the difference between a panetela and a Reina Victoria? And how many know whether there is a real difference between a maduro and an oscuro? Yet all of these terms are the common property of cigar makers all over the world. Like many cigar brand names, they are of Spanish origin, but the wanderings of Havana tobacco and Cuban cigars have taken them into all countries and all languages.

The great majority of cigars are put up fifty in a box, with thirteen on the top row, twelve on the row next to the top, thirteen on the next and twelve on the bottom row. When a londres cigar is packed 100 in a box in two bundles tied with a ribbon, it becomes a Reina Victoria, which is Spanish for Queen Victoria. Early in the late queen's reign a Cuban manufacturer invented this method of packing and called the resultant bundle after Great Britain's sovereign. The name has remained ever since.

The word perfecto is a term indicating a certain shape in cigars. A perfecto is a smoke having what is generally called the "cigar shape"—that is to say, it is swelled near the end which is lighted and tapers gradually down to the point, or head. The end of a cigar which a smoker puts in his mouth is known among cigar makers as the head. The other end, that which is lighted, is called the tuck. When, as often happens in a perfecto, the tuck is very small, it is called a [illegible]le tuck or feather tuck. All others follow these lines more or less closely.

A thin, straight cigar, with little more thickness in the middle than at the tuck, is called a panetela. The average panetela is slightly longer than a perfecto, though the matter of size has nothing to do with the shape. Panetelas are esteemed because they burn more regularly and are usually better because more easily made. The virtue of the perfecto is that its smaller tuck lights more readily, and its more artistic curves give it greater beauty.

A londres is a sort of cross between the perfecto and the panetela. It is a perfecto from the head to the thickest part, and from there on to the tuck it is betwixt and between. Usually the slope from the thickest part to the tuck has a gradual curve. The tuck as a rule is as large as that of a panetela.

A partegas is a cigar shaped much like a londres, except that the slope from the thickest part to the head is usually not so rounded. It is a shape not now as fashionable as it used to be, and even when cigars are genuine partegas the box is seldom stamped with the name.

A conchas is a small blunt cigar. As a rule it is a very satisfactory smoke, and usually it lasts as long as a perfecto. This is because that thin tuck of the latter burns down rapidly. The opera is a very small cigar of any standard shape. It derives its name from the fact that it is designed for a short smoke between the acts, and very often it is called on entr-acte. The brevas is a large, clumsy cigar, good for an hour's puffing. The largest size of all is the Napoleon. Sometimes Havana Napoleons are six or seven inches in length. The blacker ones are positively terrifying.

The better grades of cigars are usually made in several shapes and sizes. There may be, for instance, the La Flor de Habana perfectos, the La Flor de Habana panetelas, the La Flor de Habana operas, the La Flor de Habana partegas and the La Flor de Habana conchas. The label is the same on all of the sizes and shapes, but on the front of the box the name of the shape is stamped.

On one end of each box of cigars will be noted another word. Sometimes it is colorado, sometimes it is claro and at other times it is maduro. This indicates the color of the cigars within, or, as uninformed smokers say, the "strength." The lightest of all cigars are a yellowish brown. They are called claros. Next in order come the colorado claros, which are a darker brown, and then come the colorados, which are about midway between black and yellow. After the colorados come the colorado maduros, which are a dark brown, and then the maduros, which are well nigh black. Formerly another color was in vogue. This was the oscuro, and it was a shiny black. But of late the fashion has been for light cigars, and the word oscuro has almost dropped out of use.

The Indian Budget.

London, Nov. 11.—Lord George Hamilton, the Indian Secretary, in submitting the Indian budget statement in the House of Commons yesterday, pictured the increasing prosperity of India in spite of the ravages of famine, and said that the only item showing a decrease in revenue was opium. The income for the current year was so ample that the Government had decided to make a special grant of $7,500,000 for the relief of the sufferers from drouth and famine, and the Secretary expected that the surplus would still exceed $8,500,000.

Made Rich in a Night.

Woodstock, Nov. 11.—Another case of going to bed poor and waking up rich. On Saturday Mrs. Smith of Eastwood received a letter from a law firm in England, informing her that by the death of an aunt she has been left £7,000, which is $35,000 in our money. The letter also requested her to go to England to be present at the distribution of the estate, and informed her that money would be sent to bring her over. For some time she was employed as a domestic at T. C. Patterson's at Eastwood.

KINGS AND QUEENS.

The king of England who could not speak the language of his kingdom was George I.

In the battle of Bosworth Field, 1485, a king was killed (Richard III.) and a king was crowned (Henry VII.).

The motto, "Dieu et Mon Droit," was first assumed by Edward III. of England when he took the title of king of France.

"Your majesty" as a royal title was assumed in England in 1527 by Henry VIII. The title before that was "your grace" or "your highness" for the king or queen.

William IV. was at the time when he succeeded to the throne the first William of Hanover, the second William of Ireland and the third William of Scotland.

Henry VIII. was the first to assume the title of king of Ireland. The title king of Great Britain was assumed by James VI. of Scotland when he became James I. of England.

Richard I. was the first to call himself king of England. Every king from William to Henry II. called himself king of the English. The title was assumed by Egbert, the first king of England, in 828.

King of France was a title borne by the monarchs of England for 432 years, and when Elizabeth became queen of England she was also "king of France," asserting that if she could not be a queen she would be king.

I Will Cure You of Rheumatism

ELSE NO MONEY IS WANTED.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month and, if it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I have no samples, because any medicine that can affect Rheumatism quickly must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk.

I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of 40 who get those six bottles pay gladly.

I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. I will send you my book about Rheumatism, and an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, as it won't harm you anyway.

If it fails, it is free, and I leave the decision with you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 69, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

CANADIAN VERSE.

RAVING.

(With apologies.)

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I shivered cold and weary,
Under blankets insufficient for the cold the north wind bore:
While for summer breezes sighing, suddenly there came a prying,
As of someone gently trying, trying at my coal-bin door,
After coal, and nothing more.

Ah, distinctly I remember, it was in the bleak December,
And since early in November not a pound had I in store:
Eagerly I tried each morrow, and as vainly sought to borrow
Coal enough to sooth my sorrow—tried to borrow o'er and o'er
Half a scuttle, nothing more.

Presently the sound grew stronger, and with sleep I strove no longer;
Glaring round my room I noticed, just above my chamber door,
Hung a calendar of fuel, and with printed words how cruel,
"Coal and wood," it muttered o'er, as it hung above my door,
Coal and wood of '94.

"Prophet," said I, "tell me truly, will this strike be settled duly;
Will the furnace e'er be going and your prices cease to soar?
When it comes in by the car lot, via Buffalo and Charlotte,
Tell me what will be your lowest, tell me truly, I implore,"
"We shall quote at 24."

"Be that price our sign of parting, Calendar," I shrieked, upstarting,
And with freezing hands I tore it from its place above my door,
As the moonlight full was streaming through my window, I'd been dreaming,
Only this, and nothing more.

OLD KING COAL.

Old King Coal was a chary old soul,
And a chary old soul was he,
No fume from his pipe, no warmth in his bowl,
No mirth from his fiddlers three.

All undismayed, his orchestra played,
And their hearts were as cruel as could be,
And the chords they struck in their serenade
Were Famine and Misery.

And they whetted their bow on a grim morceau
Adagio, Death and Cold,
But the movement quickens, and the measures glow,
As they chant the power of Gold.

Power to keep in a frozen sleep
Two-thirds of a continent,
To make a ruler truckle and creep
As he begs it to relent.

But now and again comes a vagrant strain,
A note 'twixt a curse and a moan,
And it warns King Coal of the end of his reign
When the people come to their own.
—H. F. G., in Toronto Starr.

COME INTO THE GARDEN, MAUDE.

Come into the garden, Maude,
Shake off that effeminate smile,
Those ivory hands of yours,
Which have done nothing all this while,
Are going to be utilized now,
In a somewhat different style.

Come into the garden, Maude,
Roll up your shirt sleeves high,
There's no time now to bill and coo,
Nor time to loll and sigh,
You must slave like a nigger, Maude,
Or else we will freeze and die.

Come into the garden, Maude,
And pick up each grain of coal,
That the coalman dropped last winter,
And place each one in this bowl;
Search like the mischief, Maude,
As you value your very soul.

Come back to the garden, Maude,
And pick up each chip of wood:
Here you may find a toothpick,
Each little sliver is good,
This year we face Economy,
As she's never been understood.

Come back to the garden, Maude,
And sift those ashes well;
For ashes were made to sift,
And coal—this year—to sell;
"Dig in," like a Trojan, Maude,
And make your slavery tell.

Come, answer the door-bell, Maude,
For our maid has lately gone;
She couldn't work "for nothing,"
And said she wouldn't "stay on";
So you must grow fat on the work, Maude,
Which made the girl pale and wan.

Come down to the laundry, Maude,
And wash this lot of clothes;
And do not grumble so, Maude,
Nor use such plebby oaths;
For we must fire up this winter,
On the work aristocracy loathes.

Come into the kitchen, Maude,
And eat your frugal fare;
Just "dig into" the crackers and cheese,
By the cook stove's horrid glare;
But chew more than passing slow, Maude,
For there isn't a bit to spare.

WHEN A CEDAR OF LEBANON FALLS.

When a Lebanon cedar falls they laugh;
The basswood trees get gay,
And the news flies over the land like chaff;
Gossips are glad that day.
Ah! no tear the slanderer's eye adorns,
Each to the other calls;
The briers and thorns fling up their horns
When a cedar of Lebanon falls!

For centuries long, he stood so strong,
Majestic, calm—alone,
God's heaven above him—beneath him wrong,
Pillared to stay, the throne:
To-night he is down, and every clown
Loafs in his vacant halls;
How the sneering passes thro' weeds and grasses
When a cedar of Lebanon falls!

Lo! the poison ivy doth sit and grin,
The beggartricks are glad,
And the worthless ragweed comes slinking in
To wink and say "How sad!"
The cursed thistles lift up their bristles,
The scandal them enthralls,
And the trash get brash when they hear the crash,
As a cedar of Lebanon falls!

Don't ask the reason—for its almost treason:
Why did that cedar fall?
Ah! all that I know—he is lying low,
Prone on the earth, that's all!
And who's to be blamed—we are all ashamed,
We hear the wild cat calls,
The exultant voice as the shrubs rejoice,
When a cedar of Lebanon falls.
—The Khan, in Toronto Globe.

A Canadian's Find in South Africa.

An extraordinary fiddle, a relic from the front, has been brought home by a Yarmouth gunner. The body of the instrument has been fashioned from a meat tin, the fingerboard and neck from an axe handle, the bridge is a tent peg, and the tail a tent ring. Curious as is its structure, the fiddle provided merry music at many a camp fire on the veldt.

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alterative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia. (Signed), T. S. McINTEE.

Contentment may be better than wealth, but the most of us are compelled to jog along without either.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kinloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years, and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

You're the fellows whose trade we want, we can suit your taste and you're pocket-book. We sell clothing as low as good clothing can be sold—and we sell lots of it, but

TIMELY TOPICS.

This is the day the Mayoralty candidates are supposed to come out of their places of concealment. If they see their shadow they stay out till January, if not they again retire and wait for the frenzied popular interest which usually breaks out about twenty-five minutes before nomination day.

• • •

The question, Who will be Mayor next year? still remains unanswered, though the reasons for our having the best obtainable are unanswerable. Mr. R. J. Graham, it would appear, is the people's choice, though it is likely, from what we hear, that that gentleman may plead the urgency of his private business and gracefully sidestep the nomination. The name of ex-Mayor Johnson, we have been told, would be acceptable to many people, but Mr. Johnson assured the writer some little time ago that he had had a sufficiency of municipal honors, and was not a candidate.

• • •

As time goes on the idea seems to grow that the present Council should be given at least another year in office. The anvil chorus of the "knockers" has become very faint lately. Everybody seems willing to give the Aldermen credit for meaning well, and it would, people say, be a pity to let them retire so soon after they have cut their municipal wisdom teeth. So it seems to be up to the citizens to give the Council a vote of thanks and another year in office.

• • •

If things keep on as they are going at present it looks as though the great Liberal party will soon be on the rocks. First we had Tarte resigning, and now Mr. E. G. Sills, harbor commissioner of this city, "chucks up" his job. All that is wanted now, in order to break Laurier's heart altogether, is for Mr. J. M. Hurley to resign his position as Fishery Inspector, but it is likely the country will be spared the latter dreadful calamity. People don't pick up jobs giving them $2,500 a year and travelling expenses every day. Especially when the duties are about as laborious as those of a Truancy officer during the summer vacation.

• • •

But what is behind this resignation of Mr. Sills'. Is it a protest against Laurier's action in refusing the portfolio of Public Works to Mr. Hurley? or is it a protest against the long delay between the promise of a seat in the Senate to Mr. Vermilyea and the carrying out of that promise? Or has Mr. Sills got what is called, in slang, "a string" to his resignation, as he had once before? Wait a bit, we have it—Mr. Sills must be going to run for Mayor! That's what's the matter, as sure as his name is Jonah! Well, the weather is likely to be cold next January, but we have not the slightest doubt that the Tory voters of this beautiful city will make it warm for Mr. Sills!

• • •

It may, of course, be none of our business, but we would like to enter a dignified protest against the action of our esteemed local contemporary, which last night published a letter written by the boy who sweeps out its office, the same being signed "Grit." This is lowering the ethics of journalism, and could not be too severely frowned upon.

• • •

Now what has Ald. Sinclair ever done to the local Grit sheet, that it booms and endorses him as a possible Mayoralty candidate, thus destroying any chances he might have had? That's a nice way to treat a political friend!

• • •

One of the directors of the great American bicycle trust, while deploring the fact that the sale of wheels has fallen off greatly, announces his firm belief that the slump came from a stoppage in advertising. And he's probably more than half right. When the trust was formed, one of the ways hit upon to reduce expense was to stop advertising. They did so, and stopped selling. The bottom dropped out of the good thing, all because they saved a few dollars spent in printers' ink. There is a large, live moral concealed about this story somewhere, which no advertiser, great or small, can afford to ignore.

A Toronto judge fainted while hearing assessment appeals. Some of the appealers may faint in this city next year.

• • •

"With snow only a few days off," says the Stony Lonesome philosopher, "and nothing done so far on the old d.s.b.g., the situation is grave. I am afraid the project for its repair has been sidetracked till next spring."

• • •

A money order received in this city from the States a few days ago read "The Postmaster at Ontario, Canada, will pay," etc. The recipient has not yet got his money.

• • •

It seems about as easy for Laurier to make up his mind as for a Kingston girl to make up her face.

• • •

Sir Oliver Mowat's term of office as Lieut.-Governor of Ontario expires next Monday. But that fact has no connection with Mr. E. G. Sills' resignation as Harbor Commissioner. Not at all.

• • •

The Globe is on top. It got Hon. Mr. Tarte ousted from the Cabinet, and now succeeds in having him succeeded by Hon. James Sutherland, notwithstanding the fact that four Province of Quebec men were after the job, namely, Prefontaine, Dandurand, Parent and Brodeur. Great is the Globe these days. And Hon. Mr. Tarte seems to be in the position of Humpty Dumpty.

• • •

King Edward is doing all he can to please his royal cousin, Emperor Bill, while in England, and Kubelik, the famous fiddler, has been tickling his ears with sweet sounds. A few years ago, if the British people had had their way, they would have given William an old-fashioned lick instead of a Kubelik.

• • •

Now one of the Doukhobor women proclaims herself to be a reincarnation of the Virgin Mary. This kind of thing will keep on till somebody discovers that Hon. Mr. Sifton is a reincarnation of Balaam's ass, and will prove it by the fact that he paid $17 a head to bring the Douks into this country.

Only three days more remain of the deer shooting season, and no Belleville man has yet been shot in mistake for a deer. Surely we are in luck!

• •

Sir Richard Cartwright, having been appointed a Privy Councillor, is now an adviser to His Majesty Edward VII. God save the King!

• • •

The Government has made another temporary loan of $6,000,000, and the amount of its obligations of this kind is now $15,186,216. Much is made in Liberal papers about the large taxation revenue and the "surplus." The revenue, large as it is, is not equal to the expenditure, while the surplus is of the Mulock kind, and means borrowing money to pay the running bills.

• • •

It is a bitter pill for the Montreal Herald and Witness to see Prefontaine go into the Cabinet. How they used to scarify him when he was Mayor of Montreal, imputing the worst motives to him and charging him with everything but honesty and good citizenship. Now they must swallow him, body and bones. Will they do it? To be sure. They will swallow anything "for the good of the party."

• • •

Tarte, some little time ago, told the people in Montreal that he was in the Cabinet to represent the Conservative element. Who does Prefontaine represent? Perhaps the Montreal Witness can tell us?

She Pitied His Distress.

An artist who was making a sketching tour through a picturesque region of Connecticut chanced one day on a barn so alluring to his eye that he sat down on a stone wall and went to work at once.

He soon became conscious that he had two interested spectators in the persons of the farmer and his wife, who had come to the door of the house to watch him.

The artist by and by discovered that he had lost or mislaid his rubber eraser, and as he wished to correct a slight error in the sketch he went up to the door and asked the farmer's wife if he might have a small piece of dry bread. This, as every artist knows, makes a good eraser.

The farmer's wife looked at him with an expression of pity not unmixed with surprise.

"Dry bread!" she repeated. "Well, I guess you won't have to put up with any dry bread from me, young man. You come right into the kitchen with me, and I'll give you a thick slice of bread with butter on it.

"Now, don't say a word," she continued, raising her hand to ward off his expostulation. "I don't care how you came to this state nor anything about it. All I know is you're hungry, and that's enough for me. You shall have a good dinner."

The Nest of the Kingfisher.

Our American belted alcyon, or common kingfisher, is an expert hole borer. There is scarcely a clayey bank along the streams of our middle and southern states but has its face cut by the door of one of these gloomy looking houses.

The hole is usually quite round and goes directly into the bank, with a slight upward slant to a distance of from two to four feet, where it turns nearly at right angles to one side or the other, ending in a large, jug shaped pocket, where the eggs are laid. The kingfisher is my most cheerful companion when I am out for a day's or a week's angling. It is an ever fresh delight to watch him swooping down into the clear brook water with a melodious plunge and coming forth sparkling like a flake from a blue sea wave or a fragment of turquoise. He rarely fails to catch the minnow he strikes at, but his appetite is unremitting and insatiable. He eats from morning till night.—

THE PLAY WAS STOPPED.

But It Was Not by the Orders of the French President.

M. Sardou, the French playwright, once profited by a joke that General Ladmirault, who was at the time governor of Paris, played on M. Thiers. Sardou had written "Rabagas," and the play had been given its dress rehearsal "in camera." It was displeasing to Thiers, and he undertook to stop its public performance.

As General Ladmirault was dressing for dinner, about 6 in the evening, an officer entered his dressing room and tendered a dispatch, which, he said, had come direct from Versailles.

The officer went out, and the general, continuing his toilet, said to himself that he was certain that that dispatch was the interdiction of "Rabagas," and, having a friendly feeling for the author, the general left the dispatch unopened when he left the room.

The next morning came a messenger posthaste from Versailles, "'Rabagas' was performed last night."

"Without doubt," negligently replied the general.

"But the dispatch?"

"What dispatch?"

"From M. Thiers, interdicting the performance."

"Goodness me!" replied the general. "I left it unopened on the table. See, there it is, the seal unbroken. Still, that makes little difference. Everything passed off well. They nearly hissed the play off the stage, and it will be the same at every performance. Tell M. Thiers that he has no cause for alarm."

"Rabagas" was withdrawn, but not by the orders of M. Thiers.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards, the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

As to Christian Science

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—With your kind permission I would like to say a few words, anent Mr. Munro's letter in your edition of Friday, regarding the decision of the coroner's jury at Port Hope that sat on the case of the death of the little boy who died of diphtheria under Christian Science treatment.

The jury recommended that the Legislature pass a law to prevent a Christian Scientist from treating any case that is not at the same time being treated by a medical doctor, in regard to which Mr. Munro says:—

"Such a law as they recommend would be most unjust and unconstitutional, as well as absurd, for it would prevent persons from praying for the recovery of a patient from headaches toothaches and such things, unless attended by a physician, and would, if consistently carried out, prohibit ministers from praying for the recovery of the sick unless an M.D. were attending the case. Such a law would be class legislation of the worst kind, because we believe an impartial investigation would show that the percentage of failures in Christian Science is much smaller than under medical treatment."

I submit that Mr. Munro's argument quoted above is both childish and absurd. It is not likely the jury had the slightest idea that a law could be enacted that would prevent us from raising our hearts and souls to Almighty God in our afflictions, and for all necessities for soul and body. At any time or place the jury no doubt were actuated by the most charitable and humane motives in recommending that something be done by the powers that be to prevent such occurrences in future. It was to them as it must be to the vast majority of us, cruel to let a poor, helpless child die of a loathsome and infectious disease, without making use of the numerous remedies used in such cases. It certainly is highly proper and commendable to pray for any one in sickness, or at any time. To quote Bulwer with a slight variation

"For prayer all seasons proper and all places a temple."

But to refuse to use any of the many remedies created by Almighty God, and to expect that He will perform a miracle—as it would be in many cases—is highly presumptuous. The Christian Science cult teaches and encourages its followers to discard doctors and medicine, and to depend entirely on their treatment, which consists of praying over the afflicted one. They even say their prayers are most efficacious for those who are away, or in other words, they also give "absent treatment," for all of which a fee is expected, in which case they certainly come under the law of the province, in regard to saving the people from inexperienced and unqualified persons, who claim to cure diseases. There is, however, a society in Ontario called the "Children's Aid Society," that should take cognizance of such cases as that poor little Port Hope child. Its object is to save children who are neglected by their parents, and place them in proper homes or in institutions adapted for the purpose.

The whole tenor of Mr. Munro's letter implies that the C. S. possesses the power of curing sickness to an extraordinary degree. Their principal claim to public notice is the great number of people who are cured by them. Mr. Munro tells us of the very low rate of mortality in one of their Boston churches, and then proudly asks, "Can a system producing such results be a danger to the public?" And "these results" are brought about by what? By a small band of men and women who claim to have special power and influence with God, especially in regard to the "thousand ills that flesh is heir to." No other form of Christianity tells us to discard doctors and medicine, nor do they claim the almost supernatural powers like these people do.

How presumptuous, indeed, it is for them to claim that after all these long, wearisome centuries God has allowed His power over sickness to lay dormant, as it were, and then to give such favors to Mrs. Eddy and her followers. No! No! Such claims will not be admitted in this century of progress and enlightenment. And yet this old Massachusetts woman will have her followers, as Dowie, Piggott, Hannah Moore, et hoc genus omnes, have had, and have, and even if still more absurd forms of religion appear they will also find recruits. But while the state allows all forms of religion, however absurd, as long as they obey the laws of the land, she is bound to protect the innocent and the helpless, and if this C. S. craze grows it will certainly be necessary to step in, not only for the sake of the afflicted ones, but also for the sake of the public generally, to protect them from infectious diseases, that these misguided people may be afflicted with, and if not properly attended to may propagate and become a danger to the country. What these C. S. want is a little common sense. God has given us remedies from the bowels of the earth, from the roots of the field, from the air we breathe, and He expects us to use them for our benefit in sickness and to call in the assistance of those who are skilled in the science of medicine and surgery. He never encouraged us to expect miracles or an immediate answer to our prayers. His ways are not our ways. We all feel that we are in some way under His special care. We must have child-like confidence in Him, be resigned to His holy will in all things, and avoid the two great opposite evils of presumption and despair.

Yours truly,
LUKE KING,
Wingham, Ont.

NEW TRANSCANADIAN LINE.

Project Being Financed by Chicago Man—Capital of $500,000,000.

New York, Nov. 11.—The Commercial prints the following from Chicago: Although authorized by the Canadian and English Parliaments, the projected railway to extend across Canada from Quebec and Chicoutimi, at the head of tidewater in the Saguenay river on the east of Port Simpson on the Pacific Coast, is to be built by American capital and controlled by American interests.

The enterprise, which is being financed by W. J. Hilands of Chicago, is backed, is is asserted, by a syndicate of seven New York and Chicago men, whose aggregate wealth is said to approach $500,000,000. There is, however, delay in the enterprise due to the inability of the promoters, who are largely Canadians, to obtain from the Canadian Parliament the concessions to which they think the magnitude and value to Canada of the enterprise entitles them.

What the promoters ask is the same concessions which the Parliament gave to the Canadian Pacific, namely: Twenty thousand acres of land and $10,000 a mile of road. The Parliament has granted practically those terms on a portion of the road, but on the greater part the grant so far conceded has been 6,400 acres and $3,200 a mile. The greater concessions on the entire line are being urged, and the promoters expect to get nearly what the Canadian Pacific secured.

Notwithstanding these negotiations the statement is given out that the line will be in operation early in 1906, a year before the expiration of the time stipulated in the charter.

Premier Sagasta Tenders the Resignation of the Whole Cabinet.

Madrid, Nov. 11.—Premier Sagasta yesterday tendered to King Alfonso the resignation of the entire Cabinet. The King will decide to-day whether he will accept the Ministers' resignations. The Cortes was informed of the crisis, and will suspend its sittings until it is solved.

Should the King accord a continuance of his confidence in Premier Sagasta, the ministry will be modified, and probably the Ministers of War, Marine, and Justice will be sacrificed.

London, Nov. 11.—Rev. J. M. Bacon, the aeronaut, accompanied by official representatives of the naval and military authorities, ascended in a ballon from Douglas, Isle of Man, yesterday, with the object of crossing the Irish Channel. The balloon is fitted with a sail, and a trail rope for steering. The gunboat Henard is following the balloon, so as to be of assistance in case of mishap. The ballon started in a northeasterly direction.

A SOURCE OF SURPRISE

TO PHYSICIANS AND PATIENT ALIKE.

Dr. Redmond, a specialist, in the study and treatment of piles and rectal diseases, recently stated that the Pyramid Pile Cure, the new discovery for the cure of piles, was the most remarkable remedy he had ever seen or tried in one respect; and that was the instant relief experienced in all cases, no matter how severe, from the moment the remedy was applied; this was the more surprising to him, because he had carefully analyzed the preparation and no trace of opium, cocaine or similar poison could be detected.

Physicians look with great favor upon the Pyramid Pile Cure, because it is rapidly taking the place of surgical operations and because it is so simple, so easily applied, and contains no mineral or other poisons so commonly used in pile cures.

Dr. Esterbrook reports that the Pyramid Pile Cure not only cures the various forms of piles, but never fails to give "immediate" relief on the first application, no matter how severe the pain or discomfort may be.

People who have suffered from piles for years are often astonished at the instant relief experienced from the first application. Another important advantage is the fact that anyone can use the remedy without detention from business or interference with daily occupation.

Mr. J. W. Rollins, of Sweet Springs, Mo., writes; "I consider the Pyramid Pile Cure without an equal; it cured me in less than 30 days. I waited 15 days or more to be sure I was fully cured before writing you; I can now say I "am cured" and I shall recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure at every possible opportunity because it "deserves it."

The popularity of this remedy is such, that all druggists now sell it at fifty cents a package, and its sales exceed those of all similar remedies combined.

Write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on cause and cure of piles.

WIRELESS ACROSS CANADA

Declared That Great Savings in Tolls Will Be Effected.

Solicitor For Marconi Says Success of the System Will Soon Be Officially Announced—For the Land Telegraphy Without Wires Stations Will Be Erected at Many of the Principal Points Across the Dominion—In the States.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 11. — J. N. Greenshields, solicitor of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, now here, announced yesterday that the company is about to establish a system of wireless telegraphy across the Dominion of Canada, connecting Victoria with Cape Breton. He said that not only would the company operate a system of wireless telegraphy across the ocean, but also a land line across the continent from Cape Breton to Victoria.

Stations will be erected at many points across the Dominion, and all the principal cities and towns of Canada included in the system, the principal stations being at Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Revelstoke, Kamloops, Vancouver and Victoria.

The savings of tolls will be great when the system is in vogue, for press messages will be sent for one-half the present price, and there will be a reduction of sixty per cent. on commercial messages. He says there is no longer any doubt regarding the success of the Marconi system, and the official announcement to this effect can be expected at any time.

Government Control Needed.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Government control of all wireless telegraph stations along the coasts of the United States is recommended by Rear Admiral Royal B. Bradford, chief of the Bureau of Equipment, in his annual report, the concluding portion of which was issued yesterday. Foreign Governments, it is pointed out, are exercising careful supervision over the location of wireless stations within their waters, thus insuring prompt transmission of messages at all times.

Lennox Trial Will Go On.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—The Lennox election trial will go on. At Osgoode Hall yesterday Judge Osler decided that the motion made to have it set aside should be dismissed. In handing out judgment His Lordship said: "It is not suggested that any actual impropriety has occurred, or that any wrong or injustice has been done. The objection is, therefore, a strictly technical one, and if we are to look for analogy or principle, I see no reason why we should go behind our rule of court, which does not include an agent. On every ground the objection fails, and the motion is dismissed with costs to be taxed and added to the general costs of the case to be paid to the respondent in any event."

The trial of the petition against E. J. B. Pense, Liberal M.P.P.-elect for Kingston, which was fixed for Nov. 25 at Kingston, has been postponed until Dec. 9.

THE CHILDREN ARE DELIGHTED WITH IT

Malt Breakfast Food

BUILDS THEM UP IN FLESH BONE AND MUSCLE.

Malt Breakfast Food is the only cereal food that children will keep to and relish from day to day. It has a delicious flavor that captivates the taste and makes it a favorite. Oatmeal and other forms of grain foods are injurious to the stomach and digestive organs of the little ones because of the presence of insoluble starch. Malt Breakfast Food is free from starch, therefore easily and quickly digested by the youngest children. Malt Breakfast Food is specially recommended for the babies after weaning. It affords all the elements for solid flesh forming and bone and muscle building. Try Malt Breakfast Food, dear mothers, it will give you wonderful results. Grocers everywhere.

Carling's Half-and-Half is a delightful drink, combining the strengthening properties of porter with the milder exhilarant of good ale.

It's for sale by most dealers, put up in pint and quart bottles.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

"Please don't tell Helen that you saw Wilford," she said to Morris as he walked home with her after tea, and that was the only allusion she made to it, never after that mentioning Wilford's name or giving any token of the love still so strong within her heart, and waiting only for some slight token to waken it again to life and vigor.

This was in the winter, and Katy had been very sick since then, while Morris had come to believe that Wilford was forgotten, and when, as she grew stronger, he saw how her eyes sparkled at his coming, and how impatient she seemed if he was obliged to hurry off, hope whispered that she would surely be his, and his usually grave face wore a look of happiness which his patients noticed, feeling themselves better after one of his cheery visits. Poor Morris! he was little prepared for the terrible blow in store for him, when one day early in April he started, as usual, to visit Katy, saying to himself: "If I find her alone, perhaps I'll ask her if she will come to Linwood this "summer;" and Morris paused a moment beneath a beechwood tree to still the throbbings of his heart, which beat so fast as he thought of going home from his weary work and finding Katy there, his little wife—whom he might caress and love all his affectionate nature would prompt him to. He knew that in some points she was weak, but then she was very young, and there was about her so much of purity, innocence, and perfect beauty, that few men, however strong their intellect, could withstand her, and Morris felt that in possessing her he should have all he needed to make life desirable. She would improve as she grew older, and it would be a most delightful task to train her into what she was capable of becoming. Alas for Dr. Morris. He was very near the farm-house now, and there were only a few minutes between him and the cloud which would darken his horizon so completely. Katy was alone, sitting up in her pretty dressing-gown of blue, which was so becoming to her pure complexion. Her hair, which had been all cut away during her long sickness was growing out again somewhat darker than before, and lay in rings upon her head, making her look more childish than ever. But to this Morris did not object. He liked to have her a child, and he thought he had never seen her so beautiful as she was this morning, when with glowing cheek and dancing eyes, she greeted him as he came in.

"Oh, Dr. Morris!" she began holding up a letter she had in her hand, "I'm so glad you've come! Wilford has not forgotten me. He has written, and he is coming again. If I will let him; I am so glad! Ain't you? Seeing you knew all about it, and never told Helen, I'll let you read the letter."

And she held it toward the young man leaning against the mantel and panting for the breath which came so heavily.

Something he said apologetically about being snow-blind, for there was that day quite a fall of soft spring snow; and, then, with a mighty effort which made his heart quiver with pain, Morris was himself once more, and took the letter in his hand.

"Perhaps I ought not to read it," he said, but Katy insisted, and thinking to himself, "It will cure me sooner, perhaps," he read the few lines Wilford Cameron had written to his "dear little Katy."

That was the way he addressed her, going on to say that circumstances which he could not explain to her, had kept him silent ever since he left her the previous autumn; but through all he never for a moment had forgotten her, thinking of her the more for the silence he had maintained. "And now that I have risen above the circumstances," he added, in conclusion, "I write to ask if I may come to Silverton again? If I may, just drop me one word, 'come,' and in less than a week I shall be there. Yours very truly, W. Cameron."

Morris read the letter through, feeling that every word was separating him farther and farther from Katy, to whom he said: "You will answer this?"

"Yes; oh yes; perhaps to-day."

"And you will tell him to come?"

"Why—what else should I tell him?" and Katy's blue eyes looked wonderingly at Morris, who hardly knew what he was doing, or why he said to her next "Listen to me, Katy. You know why Wilford Cameron comes here a second time, and what he will probably ask you ere he goes away, but, Katy, you are not strong enough yet to see him under so exciting circumstances, and, as your physician, I desire that you tell him to wait at least three weeks before he comes. Will you do so, Katy?"

"That is just as Helen talked," Katy answered mournfully. "She said I was not able."

"And will you heed us?" Morris asked again, while Katy after a moment consented, and glad of this respite from what he knew to a certainty would be, Morris dealt out her medicine, and for an instant felt her rapid pulse, but did not retain her hand within his own, nor lay his other upon her head, as he had sometimes done.

He could not do that now, and so he hurried away, finding the world into which he went far different from what it had seemed an hour ago. Then all was bright and hopeful; but now, alas! a darker night was gathering round him than any he had ever known, and the patients he visited that day marveled at the whiteness of his face, asking if he were ill. Yes, he answered them truly, and for two days he was not seen again, but remained at home alone, where none but his God was witness to what he suffered; but when the third day came, he went again among his sick, grave, quiet and unchanged in outward appearance, unless it was that his voice, always so kind, had now a kinder tone and his manner was tenderer, more sympathizing. Inwardly, however, there was a change for Morris Grant had laid himself upon the sacrificial altar, willing to be and to endure whatever God should appoint, knowing that all would eventually be for his good. To the farm-house he went every day, talking most with Helen now, but never forgetting who it was sitting so demurely in the armchair, or flitting about the room, for Katy was gaining rapidly. Love perhaps had had nothing to do with her dangerous illness, but it had much to do with her recovery, and those not in the secret wondered to see how she improved, her cheeks growing round and full, and her eyes shining with returning health and happiness.

At Helen's instigation, Katy had deferred Wilford's visit four weeks instead of three, but in that time there had come two letters from him, so full of anxiety and sympathy for "his poor little Katy who had been so sick," that even Helen began to think that he was not as proud and heartless as she supposed, and that he did love her sister after all.

"If I supposed he meant to deceive her I should wish I was a man to cowhide him," she said to herself, with flashing eye, as she heard Katy exulting that he was coming "tomorrow."

This time he would stop at Linwood, for Katy had asked Morris if he might, while Morris had told her yes, feeling his heart-wound throb afresh, as he thought how hard it would be to entertain his rival. Of himself Morris could do nothing, but with the help he never sought in vain, he could do all things, and so he gave orders that the best chamber should be prepared for his guest, bidding Mrs. Hull see that no pains were spared for his entertainment, and then with Katy, he waited for the day, the last one in April, which would bring Wilford Cameron a second time to Silverton.

CHAPTER VII.

Wilford Cameron had tried to forget Katy Lennox both for his sake and her own, for he forsaw that she could not be happy with his family, and he came to think it might be a wrong to her to transplant her into a soil so wholly unlike that in which her habits and affections had taken root.

His father once had abruptly asked him if there was any truth in the report that he was about to marry and make a fool of himself, and when Wilford had answered "No," he had replied with a significant

"Umph! Old enough, I should think, if you ever intend to marry, Wilford," and the old man faced square about. "I know nothing of the girl, except what I gathered from your mother and sisters. You have not asked my advice, I don't suppose you want it, but if you do, here it is. If you love the girl and she is respectable, marry her if she is as poor as poverty, and the daughter of a tinker; but if you don't love her, and she's as rich as a nabob, for thunder's sake keep away from her."

A LADY SAYS
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND
HAS BEEN WORTH HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS TO ME."

A HAPPY AND COMPLETE CURE AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS OF AWFUL AGONY.

All weary and disheartened sick people and those who have lost faith in the remedies they have used in the past, because none of them have given indications of cheering results, should now be filled with a strong determination to make use of the one medicine that cures disease—the new agent of new life that saves hopeless and despairing sufferers after all other agencies and means fail.

The thousands of victims of tormenting neuralgia after reading the testimony of Mrs. G. H. Parker, of Winona, Ont., must see, that to avoid a continuance of suffering and the possibility of sudden death, it is absolutely necessary to use Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine that successfully banishes neuralgia and kindred nerve diseases. Mrs. Parker says:—

"I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia for nearly eighteen years, and my sufferings at times were so bad that words fail to describe them. After having tried a host of remedies, I was persuaded to use Paine's Celery Compound. I am happy to say that I am now a different woman and completely cured. I can recommend Paine's Celery Compound; it has been worth hundreds of dollars to me."

RE DELAGOA BAY.

Mr. Chamberlain Determined to Obtain a Working Agreement.

London, Nov. 11.—The Daily Mail and The Daily News yesterday morning throw doubt upon the reality of the reported settlement of the evacuation of Shanghai. The former paper hints that Germany has a secret understanding with China in the matter, while the latter journal declares that Emperor William's visit to King Edward is concerned with this question, and with an endeavor on the part of the Germans to secure a quid pro quo for Germany's quiescence, while Great Britain completes her arrangements with Portugal with reference to Delagoa Bay.

The Daily News further accuses the Government of imperilling the British position in China in order to secure the barren concession of Delagoa Bay. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain is determined, according to The Daily News, to obtain a working agreement with regard to Delagoa Bay, at whatever cost.

Anglo-German Secret Treaty.

The Hague, Nov. 11. — A secret clause of the Anglo-German treaty relates to the acquisition of the Portuguese colonies in Africa. By this clause Germany will acquire the northern part of the Portuguese possessions as far as Beira, while England will take over the remainder as well as Delagoa Bay and Lorenzo Marquez.

GUELPH MERCHANTS FLEECED.

Slick Stranger Got Them to Accept Bogus Cheques.

Guelph, Nov. 11. —Several Guelph merchants were victimized by a slick stranger during the busy hours of Saturday night. The sharp, who is described as a short, stout man of about 35, with dark hair and moustache, wearing a dark grey overcoat and a soft black felt hat, bought small articles at each of the stores, presenting cheques purported to have been signed by James Goldie & Co., and Reid & Ross, getting the difference in change. Some of the cheques were taken by the banks without question, but at the Traders' Bank the suspicions of the teller were aroused. Among the merchants known to have been fleeced are: D. R. Rowen, William McLaren & Co., R. Neil, W. C. Goetz, J. & A. McHardy, Tyson Bros., Scroggie Bros., Harding Bros., Sauer Bros.

SIR WILFRID INDISPOSED.

Hence He Did Not Attend the King's Birthday Dinner.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—The King's birthday was officially recognized here yesterday by the firing of a royal salute at noon and a state dinner at Rideau Hall, at which a large assemblage of distinguished guests were present. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not able to be present, owing to indisposition. His illness is not of a serious nature. Lady Minto is indisposed from a cold, and, as a result, the reception in connection with the state dinner was cancelled. She caught a heavy cold a few days ago.

The Victim of Bandits.

St. Paul, Nov. 11.—That Superintendent Egan of the Great Northern Railroad, is a prisoner in the hands of bandits is a theory advanced by scouts who returned to Belton yesterday from a search for the missing man who went hunting last Tuesday in the Rocky Mountains and has not been seen since. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for his discovery. The searching parties are using snowshoes.

LONDON'S NEW LORD MAYOR

Processions Traversed the Unfashionable Thoroughfares.

Premier Balfour Speaks at the Banquet in the Evening—Declares That Part of Colonies in the Boer War Showed That They Were Not Sleeping Partners—The Somaliland Question Not Important.

London, Nov. 11.—Yesterday, for the first time in the history of London, the Lord Mayor's procession traversed the unfashionable thoroughfare of Petticoat Lane, in the heart of the Ghetto, in recognition of the Jewish ancestry of Sir Marcus Samuel, the new Lord Mayor. Jewish London especially celebrated the event. The poorest inhabitants of Whitechapel and Hounds Ditch were banqueted at the expense of their wealthier co-religionists.

SIR MARCUS SAMUEL.

The quaint annual progress of the chief executive of the city through the streets of the metropolis was probably more brilliant than usual. Seven richly decorated floats and fifteen bands, representing crack regiments, together with the city officials, and the London Guilds, made up a goodly pageant. A unique feature was a float representative of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, surmounted by the arms of both countries and surrounded by a guard of Japanese and British blue jackets.

The procession left the Guild Hall at 11 a.m., and traversed the principal streets of the old City of London to the law courts, where, according to ancient custom, the Lord Mayor was formally presented to the Lord Chief Justice and sworn in.

The Annual Banquet.

The annual banquet, given by the Lord Mayor of London last evening, was attended by about 1,000 persons. Premier Balfour, replying to the toast, "His Majesty's Ministers," referred to the splendid services rendered by the colonies during the South African war, which showed, he said, that they were not mere sleeping partners in the imperial firm. An unanswered question, however, was whether the war would be followed by a not less successful peace. The Premier said he looked to the future of South Africa in a hopeful, but not a too sanguine spirit, as every source of wealth there practically was dried up. He said he believed much good would come of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's visit to South Africa, which would be only the first of a long succession of such visits, and that the time was not ripe for closer constitutional relations between the colonies and the Mother Country.

Mr. Balfour declared that he knew nothing about the "fantastic bargains" invented by the press upon the occasion of the visit of a "great and friendly sovereign to his nearest relatives." Emperor William, according to the Premier, had no political motives in coming to see King Edward.

The Somaliland Question.

Dealing with the situation in Somaliland, Mr. Balfour said that the waterless wastes and fanatics were always difficult problems to deal with, but that the Somaliland question was not of great importance in the national development, except as it brought into "high relief the friendly feelings of Italy towards Great Britain."

The Premier congratulated Lord Lansdowne upon the commercial treaty with China and the Japanese alliance. He said he believed that every great power in Europe was not only desirious of peace, but firmly resolved that peace should be maintained. He depreciated international prejudices of any kind, especially the anti-English feeling on the Continent over the Boer war, as endangering the concert of Europe, "which in the past has been a great instrument of peace, and which is destined to play an even greater part in the progress of the civilization of Christendom than it has during the years recently elapsed."

Illegal Fishing.

Windsor, Nov. 11.—Dominion Fish Inspector O. B. Sheppard, for the middle division of Ontario, and R. Wallace, both of Toronto, created a sensation in Essex County by swooping unexpectedly on Joseph Allen's fishery at Ojibwa Sunday and confiscating his nets. A number of local fishermen among them, G. C. MacIntosh of Walkerville, and Charles Montrieul, yesterday morning met a like fate.

Cheers For the King.

Buffalo, Nov. 11.—Cheers for the King of the British Empire and for the President of the United States were mingled at a banquet given in honor of King Edward VII.'s 61st birthday anniversary by the Sons and Daughters of St. George last night. Eighty men and women sat about the tables.

Against Foreign Ships.

Melbourne, Nov. 11.—The Commonwealth Government is preparing a bill to exclude foreign owned ships from the Australian coastwise service.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. You can get this reliable remedy at R. Templeton & Co's.

Why do I wear "C.R. Co." rubbers? Because they fit properly and wear better than any other rubber shoe in the market. You cannot afford to be without a pair if you value your health.

DANDO-MILLS NUPTIALS AT BRIDGE ST. CHURCH

REV. DR. CROTHERS TIED THE KNOT WHICH MAKES TWO HEARTS BEAT AS ONE.

A wedding took place at Bridge St. Methodist church at 9.15 this morning and a number of interested spectators were in attendance, the ladies naturally being in the majority. The bride was a well-known and popular young lady of the city, namely, Miss Lillian F. Mills, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mills. The groom was Dr. A B. C. Dando, of Sault Ste. Marie. At the hour named for the ceremony the bride, leaning upon the arm of her father, entered the church and to the sweet strains of the "Wedding March" proceeded to the altar railing, where the groom and groomsman were in waiting to receive them. The bride looked charming dressed in a gown of white lace over white silk. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Myrtle Mills, a sister of the bride, and Miss Ada Dando, a sister of the groom. They carried bouquets of pink roses. The groom was attended by Mr. James Thompson, of Sault Ste. Marie. Rev. Dr. Crothers, pastor of the church, officiated.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party and invited friends repaired to the residence of the bride's parents on Dunbar street, where a rich repast was partaken of. The interior of the home was tastefully decorated with flowers for the occasion.

Dr. Dando and wife left on the noon train for the east and will visit Montreal and other places before leaving for their future home in the "Soo."

The estimation in which the bride is held was evidenced by the large number of costly and handsome presents she received. That Dr. and Mrs. Dando may have a long and happy wedded life will be the sincere wish of all who know them.

A Veteran in Town

Mr. Hutchison Crothers, of Northport, is spending a week in town, renewing old friendships. He first became a citizen here in 1856, when a lad. He was connected with the 1st Belleville Rifles from 1858 until his removal to Kingston, and therefore served with that gallant corps at Amherstburgh in 1864-5 and at Aultsville in 1866. His friends will be pleased to see him looking so well.

STOLE SOMETHING SWEET

A PLAINFIELD LAD IN TROUBLE THROUGH STEALING HONEY.

A lad named Wm. Powell, whose home is at Plainfield, was arrested yesterday afternoon by High County Constable Duffin on the charge of theft. Powell is charged with stealing some four or five hives of bees and honey from Mr. Wm. Wells, who resides near Plainfield. The accused is not alone in the transaction, the names of those who assisted him having been secured, and they will also have to answer to the charge. Powell is also accused of stealing a goose from a Mr. Howe. It appears that the boys stole these articles and afterwards disposed of some of the bees.

The charges against Powell were investigated before the Magistrate this afternoon.

After the charges against Powell had been investigated to some extent the case was enlarged until Friday, and the accused was remanded to jail.

WILL NOT EXTEND PLANT

LOCOMOTIVE WORKS DIRECTORS WARNED BY RECENT LABOR TROUBLES.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 11.—In connection with the report to the effect that the Canadian Locomotive Works Company intended removing from this city to Montreal, and had already purchased for the sum of $80,000 a large tract of land, Mr Harty said: "As far as Kingston is concerned, we do not feel that we owe the city anything. We have received nothing from them; in fact, they would not even give us adequate fire protection, and we were put to a large expense in putting in the proper appliances."

Mr. Harty, when asked if the recent labor trouble had anything to do with the proposed removal of the works, replied: "Last spring we were making arrangements to lease the Government dry-dock, with the object of going into the business of building large steamers. When the labor trouble occurred all negotiations were off and all thoughts of extending our works in Kingston were dropped."

Asked if he did not think the company would encounter the same conditions in Montreal, Mr Harty said: "We know that the going out of 75 men in Montreal would not tie our works up for 15 weeks, as it did here in Kingston."

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

THE CORONATION CHOIR.

A large and appreciative audience gathered at Bridge St. Church last night to hear the Coronation Choir, which title they have a right to, perhaps, inasmuch as every one of them sang in the choir at Westminster Abbey when the King was crowned. The company was smaller than when it appeared in the opera house last season under the management of Prof. Hunt. Last night there were twelve males and Madame Marie Hooton, the contralto. Comparing last night's performance with the one given last spring one must confess to a feeling that the first performance was the best. Of course, as last night's programme was given in a church, there could be none of those dainty, charming and mirth-provoking rounds and catches, such as "Who Would Know My Celia's Charms," etc., which "took" like wildfire. The programme was last night made up mostly of sacred music, and lacked that diversity which characterized the first one sung in this city by the company. As an English gentleman sitting behind the writer aptly expressed it, it was "Rawther dry" at times. However, it was wet enough on the outside, but that's another story. Like most professional people, the management of the Coronation Choir have a keen eye to the main chance, so they followed the beautiful English custom of charging the audience for their programmes, which, at the rate of five cents per, must have netted a neat little sum. However, when the choir began to sing, everything was forgiven. The voices of the boy sopranos floated up above the chandelier, the altos and tenors were in perfect balance, and the basses were as smooth and velvety as the most captious critic could wish for. The anthem, "Lord, for Thy Tender Mercies' Sake," by Richard Tarrant, was as harmonious and beautiful as anything one can hope to hear in this world, and was quite beyond criticism. The boy soloist, Master George Forsythe, sang "As Pants the Hart," to a setting by Spohr. The little chap's voice was sweet, though somewhat clouded. Then came Mr. Edward Branscombe. Those who had heard Mr. Branscombe sing "The Lowland Sea," last season, were undoubtedly a little disappointed last night. "The Lowland Sea" was the acme of refined vocalism. Last night Mr. Branscombe sang "The Sailor's Grave," by Sir Arthur Sullivan, giving it a pleasing rendition, but that was all. Then Mr. Herbert Hilton, who had previously shown himself to be an organist of much more than ordinary ability, sang "Still is the Night," by Abt. The company has better soloists than Mr. Hilton. Then came the Coronation anthem, and one had only to shut his eyes and in fancy gaze upon the historic scene which we have read so much about. Then Madame Hooton sang "Tears," by F. H. Cowen, very charmingly, indeed, making, probably a better impression than on the choir's last visit. The boys sang an anthem, "In the Sight of the Unwise," very sweetly, and then the leading soprano soloist, Master Lionel Craven, sang "Come Unto Him," from The Messiah. His voice of phenomenal range and sweetness, could hardly have been heard to greater advantage than in the sublime music of Handel. The anthem, "Send Out Thy Light," by Charles Gounod, brought the first part of the programme to a close. It, like all the other anthems, was grandly sung.

The second part opened with a male quartette, by the grown-up members of the company, "Of a' the Airts the Wind can Blaw," by a composer long dead and gone. It abounded in the delightful slurs, runs and trills which characterize old English music, and the vocalists had to respond to an encore. Then Mr. Percy Coward, the male alto, sang "Life's Lullaby," by Gerald Lane, in a most finished and artistic manner. Next on the programme was "The Lost Chord," and one could not help thinking that, with a Fellow of the Royal Company of Organists playing the accompaniment, and a leading singer from England's greatest church singing the late Queen's favorite song, something out of the ordinary might be expected. And whoever thought so was not disappointed. The grand song was perfectly interpreted, and the audience fairly hung on the singer's words. The magnificent organ seemed to enter into the spirit of the theme, and the air was full of "Grand Amens." The long-sustained forte passage at the end of the melody showed the vocalist to be gifted as very few singers are gifted. It was a number never to be forgotten, and when the end came the audience forgot all ideas of decorum and broke out into rapturous applause. If they had had their way they would have made young Mr. Archdeacon an archbishop. Barnby's lovely part song, "Sweet and Low," was beautifully sung. Madame Hooton gave the perennial "Killarney" in charming style. Mr. James Leyland, a tenor robusto with no nonsense about him, sang "The Maid of Malabar," by our old friend Stephen Adams, and sang it in magnificent style, too. Then the adult members of the party gave the audience a taste of what they could do in the way of glee singing by trilling an old English madrigal, "This Pleasaunt Monthe of Maie," which awakened memories of the choir's last visit. The part song, "The Dawn of Day," by the entire male members of the company, closed the entertainment. Everybody stood up while the choir sang God Save the King, and then went home talking about the way "The Lost Chord" was sung. The music-loving people of Belleville certainly owe a debt of gratitude to the music committee of Bridge St. Church for giving them a chance to hear such grand singers at low prices.

MUDCATS AND SUCKERS

ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER BASTEDO REPLIES TO RECENT STATEMENTS.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—There has been considerable talk recently about the catching of bass and maskinonge with nets in Rice Lake under the guise of cleaning the lake of mud-cats and suckers. Mr. Bastedo, Assistant Commissioner of Fisheries, stated this morning that large quantities of mud-cats and suckers inhabited the lake to the detriment of the better fish. Where nets had been placed under the strict supervision of the Department the bass fishing had improved. Similar protests had been received from other parts of Ontario concerning the same practice; but subsequently the methods employed had been strongly endorsed. In Rice Lake the nets were fished under Government inspection, and frequently the boxes retaining the fish had been examined. The licensees, Messrs. Scriver, residents of the locality had been highly recommended, and he was positive they would not destroy their livelihood for the sake of a few bass. They had a good market in the States for the mud-cats and suckers.

Funeral of the Late John Bird

The funeral of the late Mr. John Burd, who died at Winnipeg, and whose remains were brought here for interment, took place this afternoon from the family residence, Grier St. It was under the auspices of the C.M.B.A., of which deceased was a member. Services at St. Michael's Church were conducted by the Rev. Mgr. Farrelly, and the interment took place at the R. C. cemetery. The bearers were members of the C.M.B.A.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness of any kind, first thing get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25c.

PREFONTAINE — TARTE

MONTREAL WITNESS.

Mr. Raymond Prefontaine having become a member of the Laurier Government, it will, in addition to Tarte's expulsion from the Ministry, be a bitter pill for Israel to swallow, as it is well known that Prefontaine has been one of the most outspoken enemies that Tarte has had since the formation of the Laurier Government in 1896.

Chagrined as Tarte has been, and is, at the unceremonious manner in which his leader disposed of his services, though but a short time ago, he (Laurier) declared, when the Prefontaine clique of Rouges in Montreal were demanding his dismissal, "that nothing was too good for Tarte, and that when he (Tarte) had to leave the Cabinet, he (Laurier) would go also."

Tarte will look upon the bringing of Prefontaine into the Cabinet as adding insult to injury, hence it will not surprise any one to find the little discarded minister resenting it.

In this case Tarte is not alone, The Montreal Witness, is, for the nonce, on the rampage. It bitterly opposed the re-election of Mr. Prefontaine as Mayor for the City of Montreal, on the ground, as it now says, of his not being, like Tarte, "a professed penitent escaped from a den "of corruption, but one who still "adheres to his well known principles."

LICENSE INSPECTORS AND POLITICS.

There does not appear to be any crime in the criminal calendar that some of the Ross License Inspectors dare not commit, if it be but in the interest of what is known as the Liberal party, and for the retention of Ross in power.

A case came before the Police Court in Hamilton on the 8th inst., which shows the use to which a License Inspector put his office, to serve his party. The report of the case is as follows:

License Inspector Charles Jarvis, of North Wentworth, charged Hotel keeper Matthew Ryan with doing an after-hour business on Saturday, Oct. 11. His story was that he went to the defendant's hotel after 8 o'clock Saturday night and found the barroom open. The Inspector spent a warm hour on the witness stand, while Jas. Haverson, K.C., solicitor for the defendant, was cross-examining. The lawyer tried to make the Inspector admit that he had kept the charge hanging over Ryan's head for nearly a month for the purpose of preventing him from giving evidence in the North Wentworth election protest trial, but he did not succeed. He (the Inspector) would not state why there had been a delay of nearly four weeks in preferring the charge, but he did admit that on Oct. 27 he went to Ryan's hotel, accompanied by a magistrate, for the purpose of getting Ryan to make a declaration that he (Jarvis) did not attempt to intimidate him in connection with the election. Neither would he admit paying half of Ryan's fine on a former occasion, but he did admit that the fine was only $20, and that after the case was disposed of he gave Ryan $10.

The case was enlarged indefinitely, and it is not likely that anything more will be heard of it.

It is not in the interest of this Grit Inspector that "anything more" should be heard of it. If, however, Ontario had a Government that had any respect for an honest administration of the Liquor Law this man Jarvis would be sent adrift at a moment's warning.

STUART'S SON NOW IN JAIL.

Pleaded Guilty to Uttering Counterfeit Money at Hull.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The latest development in the counterfeiting case is the arrest of William Stuart, son of the aged forger now awaiting sentence here. Young Stuart was caught at his home at Glen Robertson, Que., yesterday, by Col. Percy Sherwood, chief of the Dominion Police. Though nothing of an incriminating nature was found on the prisoner, or at his home, when arraigned yesterday morning in the Police Court at Hull he pleaded guilty to uttering counterfeit money. He was remanded for a week for sentence.

Young Stuart was arrested on the strength of information contained in letters found in his father's room at Raymond's Hotel here. Most of the letters were to the effect that the writer had been successful in disposing of the "pictures." It would seem, from the letters, that Mrs. Stuart, wife of the aged counterfeiter, had no criminal knowledge of the passing of the bad money.

Old William Stuart appeared before Magistrate Denison yesterday and was remanded for a week. Prior to the opening of the court, Stuart was escorted by Detective Forrest into the detective office and allowed to play his violin for a short time. The old man's one object in life now seems to be to get permission to take his violin to prison with him. The counterfeiter was taken from the detective office to Crown Attorney Curry's room, where some of his friends were waiting to see him. Mr. Curry questioned him, but he maintained a stubborn silence.

The case of young Stuart will be disposed of at Hull, Que.

PATRIOTIC FUND.

912 Cases Relieved by the Association—Annual Report Issued.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The annual report of the Patriotic Fund Association was issued yesterday. It shows that up to May 31 last the total receipts were $338,498, of which Canada contributed $312,429; Great Britain, $22,543; United States, $2,999, and other countries, $530. Widows and orphans and dependants received $53,104; invalided and disabled soldiers, $109,613, and dependents at home, $31,799, making a total of $194,546.

This leaves a balance of subscriptions unexpended of $143,951. Adding $13,471 interest on deposits, there was at date a total sum of $157,422 to the credit of the association in the bank. Since March 21, however, an additional sum of about $15,000 has been expended.

Following were the number of cases to which relief was given: Thirteen widows, 12 orphans, 52 next of kin, 76; 494 invalided or disabled soldiers, 494; 342 dependents separated at home, 342. Total, 912.

FRENCH STRIKERS QUITTING.

Movement to Resume Work Has Greatly Increased Since Monday.

Paris, Nov. 12.—At a council of Ministers yesterday, Premier Combes communicated the contents of despatches he had received from the strike regions, showing that the movement to resume work, which began Monday, was greatly accentuated yesterday. At some places, such as Bruay, work has been entirely resumed, and M. Combes gave his colleagues to understand that the movement on the part of the miners to take up their work, would soon extend to the Department de Nord and other districts. Twice the number of men were at work yesterday as were employed Monday. The hot bed of disorder, Lens, reports that 10,000 men have returned to work. The efforts of the National Committee of Miners to induce a general strike in other trades are meeting with no success.

Considers Demand For 20 p.c. Increase in Wages Arbitrary.

After Admitting the Ownership by His Company of 37 Collieries, He Refuses Recognition of United Mine Workers' Union and Makes General Denial of the Justice of All Claims of President of That Organization.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The reply of President George F. Baer of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal Company to the charges of President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers', which has been presented to the anthracite coal strike commission, was made public yesterday. Mr. Baer makes no reference to Mr. Mitchell as the President of the miners' organization, but refers to him simply as an individual. Taking up the specifications in Mr. Mitchell's charges, Mr. Baer first admits that his company owns thirty-seven collieries, and that before the strike it employed 26,829 people. Following is a brief summary of the response to Mr. Mitchell's other specifications:—

Second—The demand for 20 per cent. increase in wages on piece work is denounced as "arbitrary, unreasonable and unjust," The company contends that after making all necessary allowances for different conditions, the rate of wages paid for the mining of anthracite coal is as high as that paid in the bituminous coal fields.

Third—The company denies that the present rate of wages is lower than is paid in other occupations in the same locality, and controlled by like conditions.

Fourth and Fifth.—Mr. Baer denies that the earnings of the anthracite workers are less than average earnings for other occupations requiring skill and training, and also the charge that the earnings are insufficient, because of the dangerous character of work in the anthracite mines.

Sixth—The specification made by Mr. Mitchell is referred to as too vague for specific answer, but in a general way it is stated that the anthracite regions are among the most prosperous in the United States.

Question of Shorter Hours.

Seventh—The company pronounces as unjust and inequitable the demand for a reduction of 20 per cent. in the hours of labor without a reduction of earnings for time employes, and this demand is pronounced impracticable. In this connection the following statement is made: "Because of the injury to the mines by the strike of the United Mine Workers', the cost of producing coal has been greatly increased, and a temporary advance in price was made by this company, but it will be impracticable to continue such increase when mining operations become normal."

Eighth—Mr. Baer says that his company has no disagreement with any of its employes about the weighing of coal, because the quantity is usually determined by measurement and not by weight.

Ninth—Replying to the fourth demand made by Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Baer says since the advent of the United Mine Workers' organization into the anthracite fields business conditions there have been intolerable; that the output of the mines has decreased; that discipline has been destroyed; that strikes have been of almost daily occurrence; that men have worked when and as they pleased, and that the cost of mining has been greatly increased.

Claims Jurisdiction Is Limited.

He also takes the position that the jurisdiction of the commission is limited to the conditions named by the coal company presidents, which excludes the United Mine Workers from any recognition in the proceedings. He says, however, that "when a labor organization limited to anthracite mine workers is created which shall obey the law, respect the right of every man to work and honestly co-operate with employers, trade agreements may become practicable."

One Thousand Still Idle.

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 12.—Underbosses who went out with the pumpmen and engineers during the recent strike were re-instated yesterday at the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company's collieries in the Shamokin, Mount Carmel region. One thousand miners are still idle here, because of mines not being in good working condition.

Coal Combine in Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Although hard coal is now selling at $6.50 in Niagara Falls, N.Y., and $6.75 per ton in Niagara Falls, Ont., and the freightage from there to this city is only 60 cents the price here is $8 per ton and over. The indications seem to prove that some of the dealers here, who are loaded up with soft coal at famine prices, are determined to get it off upon the people by forcing them to do without hard coal. It is said only three dealers in Toronto have or are getting any anthracite, but deep mutterings are heard and may bode ill for some dealers by the time another season comes round.

Killed by a Train.

Uxbridge, Nov. 12.—Judd Forsyth, son of D. Forsyth, hotelkeeper of Goodwood, was killed here about 1.30 p.m. yesterday. He attempted to board a moving train, and was thrown under the wheels and completely cut in two. Deceased was formerly in the employ of the Plank House here as bartender.

French Language Not Official.

Brussels, Nov. 12.—It is asserted that, owing to the opposition of Germany, Great Britain, the United States and other powers, the proposal which has been advanced to make French the official language of the International Arbitration Court at The Hague will be withdrawn.

How to Get Rich:

Take a quantity of silica costing one-fourth the price of oil; mix it with oil, and sell the compound to the public at the price of pure oil; offer "prizes" with the compound to make it sell. It is such a compound the public get when they buy common soaps. In Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—the public buy a pure and well-made soap. Sunlight Soap reduces expense by prolonging the life of the articles washed with it, which is much more profitable to the public, than common soaps with "prizes." 204

Kingston Locomotive Works Sold.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 12.—It is definitely learned that the American Locomotive Company is behind a syndicate which purchased a large tract of land at Longue Point near this city. S. R. Callaway of New York, president of the American concern, and his associates visited the Montreal suburbs a year ago and afterward went to Kingston. It was then stated that the Kingston Locomotive Works had been purchased but it was afterward denied. It has now developed that the American concern recently completed the purchase and will remove the works to Longue Point, where an enormous plant will be constructed and over 1,500 men employed.

Tobacco Combine Inquiry.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Mr. Mortimer B. Davis, president of the Empire Tobacco Company, and president of the American Cigarette Company, was the only witness examined up to adjournment yesterday in the inquiry conducted by Mr. Justice McTavish into the tobacco industry of Canada. The examination revealed nothing startling, being confined principally to a recital of the history of the formation of the companies which have been amalgamated, and which now form part of the American Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited.

Bank Robbers at Niagara.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Nov. 12.—The private bank of R. E. Denison, situated in the Town Hall here, was broken into between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Entrance was effected through a front window of the Town Hall, the door of the bank being broken open. The outer vault door was then forced, the combination knob being pried off first. The inner safe was drilled, or blown open, completely wrecking it. The robbers got about $1,000. The work was evidently done by experts, who left no clue.

Ottawa, Nov. 12. — Sir Henry Strong's retirement from the Supreme Court takes effect on the 18th inst. He will be succeeded by Sir Elzear Taschereau, and the vacancy in the court will be filled by the promotion of Mr. Justice Armour.

Guelph, Nov. 12.—A letter from Rat Portage has been received here stating that Charles Bruce, formerly of Overton, Ont., was found drowned in the Lake of the Woods.

You can Test The Kidneys

AND FIND OUT FOR YOURSELF WHETHER OR NOT YOU ARE BECOMING A VICTIM OF PAINFUL, FATAL KIDNEY DISEASE

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It is not necessary for you to consult a specialist on kidney disease to find out if you are a victim of this dreadful derangement. You can test your kidneys at home and satisfy yourself on this point.

Allow some urine to stand in a glass for twenty-four hours, and if at the end of that time you find sediment in the bottom of the vessel you can be sure that your kidneys are diseased.

Pains in the small of the back, and smarting when urinating, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, loss of flesh and strength, are other marked symptoms which indicate kidney disorders Make this test for yourself Consider whether you have any of these symptoms, and if you conclude that your kidneys are out of order begin at once to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They will bring prompt relief and will thoroughly cure you.

On account of their direct action on the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure ailments of the kidneys when ordinary kidney medicines fail. They have proven their efficacy in many thousands of cases, and are endorsed by more people than any other kidney medicine extant.

Mr. John L. Hickey, now caretaker of the Public and High Schools, Trenton, Ont., states:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills and found them the greatest medicine I ever tried. I used them when in the lumber camps, and believe by keeping the kidneys and bowels regular and the general health good that they protect a person from catching contagious diseases, which are so common in the camps.

"I have seen hundreds of men using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the lumber camps. They buy them by the dozen when going in, and to show how much faith they have in them they buy them when they could get their medicine for nothing by going to the hospital camp. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills keep my liver, kidneys and bowels regular, and my health good. I would not think of being without them."

INFANT FEEDING.

The first years of our life are the most important in our existence. That is the time to build the foundation for sturdy manhood in the future. Infancy is, therefore, the most vital period for proper nourishing. A baby secures the best possible nourishment from a healthy mother, but unfortunately very few mothers can nurse their children. What, then, is the next best food?

Cow's milk should not be solely depended upon for it lacks a proper amount of what a child needs most—cell-building substance. Moreover, it is said by authorities on the subject, that the frequent handling such milk undergoes, from the cow to the time it is fed to a child, robs it of much of its original value. Its quality varies and its grades are numerous; the stomach of an infant is much too delicate to make up such defects in its food supply. Scott's Emulsion simplifies the food problem for children and counteracts these defects.

The artificial foods that are so largely used very rarely contain milk, hence they imperfectly nourish the child. Even a small amount of Scott's Emulsion, one-fourth to a half teaspoonful, in the child's bottle seems to be of special value in adding a very important element to the food. Its beneficial results are quickly seen.

Scott's Emulsion is based on this true food principle. It provides nourishment for a child in the easiest, quickest and most palatable form. No baby is too young, no stomach too delicate to receive and retain Scott's Emulsion. Even a few drops in a child's milk seems to provide considerable nourishment that cannot be otherwise secured except in a mother's milk.

If a mother whose milk is not furnishing a child with proper nourishment will herself use Scott's Emulsion it will greatly improve the quality of the milk. It benefits the mother as well as the child.

A child of any age will be benefitted by Scott's Emulsion. It furnishes the means to meet and overcome the strain of growing. Being prepared for easy digestion Scott's Emulsion does not tax the stomach or disturb the digestive organs of children.

Its great value as a child's food comes from the nourishment it gives, the ease with which it enters the system, the quickness with which it brings about a change for the better and the permanency of its benefits. The child who is not doing as well as it should needs Scott's Emulsion.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

Catherine II.

Catherine II. ruled with absolute sway over European Russia, Sweden, Poland and a portion of Turkey in Europe, Persia and a vaguely outlined portion of what is now called Siberia, and she also exercised at least a nominal rule over undefined regions in America, which were subsequently defined in the territory of Alaska.

A DOMESTIC DIFFICULTY.

The Solution Was Original, Though the Result Was Unhandy.

"Every time I tell this story," a bright society matron remarked, "somebody accuses me of making it up, but it is a true story nevertheless.

"Up in the Virginia mountains David and I took a long walk to explore the wild country road near our hotel. Away up on the rough mountain side was a little cabin, and as I have a most fervent human interest in the home life of all peoples remote from cities I proposed that we visit the cabin, with the wayfarers' usual pretext, to ask for a drink of water. In the one room of the small house were the usual furnishings, a few chairs, many dogs lying about, guns on the wall, a high bed in each corner and a homely table spread with homely crockery in the center of the household picture. A plain little woman, worn and aged, but very neat in calico frock and gingham apron, met us at the door and asked us in, while one of the rough boys lounging on the porch was dispatched to the spring for fresh water.

"Instead of the usual mountaineer's open fireplace, with iron crane and kettles, was a surprising arrangement of a cooking stove mounted on a kitchen table. My glance reverted to this curious sight so often that our mountain hostess seemed constrained to explain.

"'You uns ain't used to seein' cook stoves fixed up that way, I reckon,' she said apologetically. 'Pap, he got the cook stove down in town way las' May, and he didn' think 'bout the stovepipe, and he didn' git 'nuff to reach up to that there hole in the chimbly, so we uns jes' h'isted the cook stove up on that there table till he gits time to go to town and git some more stovepipe. 'Tain't handy to climb up on a cheer to cook, and I wish to the land pap'd hurry hisself and git to town arter that there stovepipe. It'd be a heap handier to hev that there cook stove down on the groun'.'

"Of course 'we uns' agreed with the good woman that her complaint was well based, but we praised her cleverness and originality in utilizing the kitchen table. Probably not one woman in 10,000,000 would have ever suggested that way out of the domestic difficulty."

WAVES OF WATER.

For over 1,200 miles the Nile does not receive a single tributary stream.

The Jordan is the crookedest river known, winding 213 miles in a distance of 60.

The Potomac river is only 500 miles long and in its lower course is rather an estuary than a stream.

The highest of all navigable rivers is the Tsangpo, which flows for nearly 1,000 miles at an elevation of from 11,000 to 14,000 feet.

The Indus, the second sacred river of India, is 1,700 miles long. Its waters have always been considered almost as holy as those of the Ganges.

Three rivers as big as the Rhine would just equal in volume the Ganges, three Ganges the Mississippi and two Mississippis the Amazon.

When free from ice, the Yukon river is navigable for large steamers 1,965 miles, a distance more than twice as great as that from Chicago to New Orleans.

Testing the Sermon.

The minister of a parish in a part of New England where doctrinal points are considered of great importance says that his test of a satisfactory sermon is the opposite of that which is commonly applied.

"My clerical friends in the city tell me that so long as their congregations appear wide awake and interested they feel encouraged," he said to a visitor, "but with me it's different.

"Of course I wish to interest the congregation, but if I look over to Deacon Drew's pew and then to Deacon Snow's and see them with their eyes closed and heads nodding I feel that all is well. Just as surely as I discover them wide awake and alert after I've been preaching for ten minutes I know that there's something wrong to their minds and that I shall hear what it is as soon as the service is over."—Youth's Companion.

Perfumes In Ancient Days.

Old as the history of the world itself is that of the queen of flowers. The ancient Greeks and Romans reveled in roses. They were used lavishly at their feasts. In the time of the republic the people had their cups of Falernian wine swimming with blooms, and the Spartan soldiers after the battle of Cirrha refused to drink any wine that was not perfumed with roses, while at the regatta of Baiæ the whole surface of the Lucrine lake was strewn with flowers.

Doing No Harm.

"Willie, you are getting your face all dirty from crying." And Willie stopped long enough to reply:

"Well, it wasn't clean when I started." And then he went on.

A Collection In Sight.

"Now," said the irate debtor, "if you disturb me again you'll get what you're looking for."

"Thanks," replied the urbane collector. "I will try to make it convenient to disturb you at about this time tomorrow."

VELVET POPULAR.

The New Metallic Weaves—Hats of Rough Felt.

All kinds of lace still retain their popularity, particularly Irish points and guipures.

Velvets will be worn as much as last season. The metallic velvets are the newest and are particularly effective in black and gray. Velvet hats will be somewhat supplanted by those of rough felt, but these will be trimmed and even faced with velvet. Burnt orange is very smart, especially when combined with white or pearl gray. There is a most becoming shape in felt known as the Marie Stuart. This has a low, broad crown, and the brim falls into a round point in front, showing the hair perfectly. It then rises into very much arched sides and fits close to the hair in the back.

CARRIAGE CLOAK.

Many smart hats are made of zibeline, especially in the dull red shades, and the hat is then trimmed with poppies in all shades of velvet.

The illustration shows a carriage cloak of putty colored cloth. It has the wide sleeves now so fashionable and a V shaped yoke and high collar of fur. The smart hat is of the same color of felt, trimmed with orange velvet and a black feather. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia. (Signed),

I have used it regularly for over ten years, and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

to everybody, could not if we wanted to. There are lots of kinds we don't keep. would not sell them if we could. Why? We have seen suits and overcoats for men advertised at $3.75—but does any one suppose they are worth anything. That is the kind of clothing that gets people discouraged with ready-made. We let you know more emphatically than ever, that we are reaching the top round of the ladder—selling to the best people—selling them clothes we are proud of, at prices fully as low as you will pay for ordinary goods. You want the best don't you? You will get it here at the right prices.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Yankee Curtis says he is going to have a new Council next year, and that, after next January, he will not allow one of the present Aldermen within a block of the City Hall. As for the present Mayor, well, he'll see his picture in The Utica Globe one of these days.

• • •

The Intelligencer was the only local paper which gave a fair report of the rather important missionary meeting held in Christ Church on Monday night. But then, as we remarked before, The Intelligencer caters to the better element in this city.

• • •

They say that even the harbor bar was moaning last night because the Fishery Inspector failed to get the Public Works job.

• • •

Mr. Sills could hardly expect to get Sir Oliver Mowat's position when he has never yet been presented at Court. However, the Police Magistrate could soon fix that for him.

• • •

The Intelligencer is pleased to see that one of our city Aldermen, at the A.O.U.W. banquet last night, saw fit to endorse the suggestion made in this column that a local stock company be formed to operate the Rolling Mills. The idea, though jeered at by the Grit organ of this city, is, in the opinion of a large number of people, well worth considering. If the well-to-do gentlemen in our city would meet together and confer on this matter, getting the necessary data in regard to expense of running, prices obtainable for output, etc., they might soon arrive at a decision, and that, too, at the loss of nothing but their valuable time. If the idea is found to be impracticable, there will be little harm done; if the works can be run at a profit, and there are enough public-spirited men in Belleville to form a company to run them, they cannot undertake the job too quick. The cheap wit and jeers of the local Grit sheet weigh little either way.

The Coronation Choir, with a Coward and a Craven among its members, still shows considerable courage in venturing so far from home.

• • •

Photos of the Mad Mullah are now on sale. He looks like the editor of the Kingston Freeman after reading reports of the proceedings in the Imperial Parliament.

• • •

The Canadian Freeman, Home Ruler, of date of 5th of November (a memorable day), says in its editorial summary, that "the shouting of a "crowd does not always foretell a "large collection when the hat is "passed around." Did the Freeman get its inspiration from Canada's own "dear" son, Dominic Edward Blake, who is now on a begging tour, "passing round the hat" through the United States and Canada.

• • •

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is indisposed. He has collapsed owing to the strain consequent upon the worry attached to finding a successor to Tarte. This should cause a few qualms of conscience to the Fishery Inspector and the other fellows who have made Laurier's life miserable lately.

• • •

With Mr. Gerald Sifton found not guilty and the hired man, Herbert, about to be released, it seems to be about up to the Crown to resurrect old Mr. Sifton and try him for committing suicide. Justice should be satisfied in some way.

KNOWN IN PICTON.

(Picton Gazette.)

"J. B. Jackson, K.C.," is the Ingersoll lawyer who came to Picton, and presumably help set up the pins for the late local election. It is known that he was a guest at one of the hotels during his stay here, and, that—well, he trod a somewhat crooked political path during that campaign. He is said to be pushing his claims with the Ottawa Government for a judgeship.

Oil has been struck near Chatham, the flow being at the rate of a barrel a minute. There is, however, eloquent silence in the direction of Melrose.

Hamilton Times:—"There is no excuse for the sneak-thief these days. There is lots of honest labor."

Nor for the ballot-thief, either. There are plenty of honest returning officers, if the Ross Government would appoint them.

• • •

The referendum campaign is waxing hot in Kingston, and we can hardly call to mind a place where people have greater reason to try to get a majority in favor of prohibition.

• • •

The muskrats are said to be building their houses higher, which is said to presage another wet summer next year. This has, however, no connection with the referendum.

• • •

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent plays the part of flunkey admirably. His letters may well be dubbed "puffing machines." In his last letter he tells his readers that Mr. Prefontaine arrived in Ottawa, met Mr. Sutherland, and they "cordially shook hands and then went into dinner together." Wonderful isn't it, exclaimed our imp.

• • •

Sir Wilfrid says the Globe's Ottawa correspondent is to "take a rest." Most people thought he had been resting all summer! But then, he has to suffer the Tarte worry, and the fight for his place since he returned home, and that has no doubt affected him, both mentally and physically.

• • •

The acquittal of Roland R. Molineux, on the charge of murder, after two of the most sensational trials on record, marks the close of as intricate a case as was ever evolved from the fertile brain of Anna Katherine Green. Several fortunes have been spent in defending young Molineux, who has cost the State of New York enough to pay off a large chunk of the national debt. Two people were murdered, and it looks as though their deaths will go unavenged. Time was when Canadians could have held up their hands with holy horror at these things, but in the light of recent events we're not saying much.

• • •

The Grits have thrown up the sponge in North Grey, and Ross' majority is now two. And he's not funy too jolly over it, either.

• • •

Hon. James Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, will hardly know his department now that half his prerogatives have been chopped off and given to the new Minister of Marine.

• • •

Sir Wilfrid has gone to Hot Springs, just as though his dear friend Tarte hadn't been making it hot enough for him lately.

• • •

There will hardly be a dry eye in the expressive countenance of Hon. J. M. Hurley when he sees that one of his fellow-fishery inspectors has been suspended for alleged neglect of duty.

• • •

Oh, but the bright blue eyes of Hon. J. R. Stratton, Peterboro's white-haired boy, will flash fire when he hears that he is charged with supplying the money with which to bribe voters in Lennox. We seem to be on the eve of some spicy disclosures.

• • •

The new Ministers have been sworn in. Some of those who got left out are probably swearing, too.

THEY FATHER CONSUMPTION.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies, because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache, and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Literary Notes

A Magazine Thirty Years Old:—The Christmas (December) Number of The Delineator is also the Thirtieth Anniversary Number.

To do justice to this number, which for beauty and utility touches the highest mark, it would be necessary to print the entire list of contents. It is sufficient to state that in it the best modern writers and artists are generously represented. The book contains over 239 pages, with 34 full-page illustrations, of which 20 are in two or more colors. The magnitude of this December number, for which 728 tons of paper and six tons of ink have been used, may be understood from the fact that 91 presses running 14 hours a day, have been required to print it; the binding alone of the edition of 915,000 copies, representing over 20,000,000 sections, which had to be gathered individually by human hands.

The temperance meeting held at Marsh Hill was largely attended.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. Mack and family in the death of her husband.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards, the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3.90 to $15.00.

BRAIN WORK.

Its Effect Upon the Body and the Kind of Food It Demands.

The changes of tissue in the brain that take place during study and thought are very important and very rapid. It has been estimated that three hours of brain work cause as great an exhaustion of the forces of the body as an entire day of manual labor.

This waste must be replaced by abundant food, but its selection requires careful consideration and often self denial, for many things which the physical worker can eat with perfect impunity are slow poison to the brain worker, who exercises the brain at the expense of the body and rarely gives the latter sufficient exercise to counteract the mental strain and keep it in condition to resist disease. Bear in mind that, while the waste of the body is much more rapid, the deprivation of physical exercise encourages torpidity of the voluntary functions and renders them sluggish in eliminating these wastes; therefore it is of the utmost importance that the tasks imposed upon them should be light.

Brain workers require the most concentrated and easily digested foods. They should eat fresh beef and mutton, fish, eggs—cooked in many forms, but never hard boiled or fried—oysters and crisp salads, lettuce, chicory, tomatoes, watercress, etc., with mayonnaise or French dressing. They should begin the day with fruit and make it form the principal part of luncheon and be very sparing in their use of cereals, eschewing entirely white bread and oatmeal. Their ideal luncheon, which must be light if they continue to work in the afternoon, is a glass of milk or cup of hot chocolate or, better still, a glass of fresh buttermilk, with two or three graham wafers or a bit of toast and some fruit, an apple, figs or an orange.

THE MILKY WAY.

A System Which Gives Us a Vague Idea of the Eternity of Space.

The Milky Way, the grandest feature of the "firmament which bends above us," the hazy path which so majestically bands the whole fabric of the skies together, is now known to be composed of a grand aggregation of at least 18,000,000 suns, each as large as or larger than that which makes vegetable and animal life an earthly possibility. One is apt when allowing the mind to revert to the contemplation of these misty and indistinct astronomical subjects to measure their magnitude, or attempt to measure it by making terrestrial comparisons.

It is obvious, however, upon more mature reflection that such comparisons are worse than "odious." The bulk of our sun exceeds that of the earth 1,200,000 times, being 600 times greater than that of the bulk of his whole train of planets taken collectively. This being the case, what basis can we use for calculating the magnitude of 18,000,000 suns, each, as I have said before, probably larger than that which gives us heat and light?

The infinite number of suns which, taken together, make up the Milky Way are not set at a uniform distance from our earth or even from our sun. In fact, they appear to work altogether independently of either this mundane sphere or our "glorious orb of day." The majority of them are planted at a distance too remote to be even imperfectly measured or understood. Some of them are so near (?) that light, which travels at the rate of 185,000 miles per second, would cross the distance between us and them in the period of about an even ten years. Others, however, are so remote that it would take a full thousand years for their light to reach us.

A Curious State of Affairs.

You must be very cautious how you treat your neighbor in Isle of Jersey, for he can have you arrested on the slightest pretext and if he has a grudge against you can bring about such a calamity by simply giving a fictional account of your misconduct to the nearest lawyer. The latter will demand a fine, and should you decline to pay it he will cause you to be thrown into prison to await trial. Then, even if you are acquitted on the ground that the charge is unfounded, you have absolutely no claim against your persecutor, though you may have suffered a couple of months' imprisonment for nothing.—London Tit-Bits.

Burns as a Tax Collector.

In the olden days candles were taxed articles, and it was the duty of Burns, as an excise officer, to see that the tax was not evaded. He generally looked the other way, however, as when passing through the kitchen one night at William Lorimer's of Kenishall, where the gudewife was busy making candles, he merely remarked, "Faith, madam, ye're thrang the nicht," and passed into the parlor.

Thoughtful Tommy.

Mrs. Mann—Tommy, you have been a very naughty boy. When your papa comes home, I shall tell him about you.

Tommy—I think, mamma, it will be more interesting if you remind him of those happy days when your loves were young and fresh. A man likes to hear sweet things when he comes home at night tired and weary.

Rough on Father.

Perdita—If you continue much longer to play cards with my father, I won't marry you.

Jack Dashing—If your father continues to play cards much longer with me, I won't need to marry you.

If a man has a new story, better let him tell it and get it over with. He will not be satisfied until he does.—Atchison Globe.

ABOU BEN ADHEM AND THE ANGEL.

James Henry Leigh Hunt was born at Southgate in 1874. He was an essayist, an author and a poet, chief among his poems being "The Story of Rimini." He died at Putney in 1859.

Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase).
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace
And saw, within the moonlight of his room,
Making it rich and like a lily in bloom,
An angel writing in a book of gold—
Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold,
And to the presence in the room he said,
"What writest thou?" The vision raised its head,
And with a look made all of sweet accord
Answered, "The names of those who love the Lord."
"And is mine one?" said Abou. "Nay, not so,"
Replied the angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still, and said, "I pray thee, then Write me as one who loves his fellow-men."
The angel wrote and vanish'd. The next night
It came again with a great wakening light,
And show'd the names whom love of God had blessed.
And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest.

AN EASY WAY

TO KEEP WELL.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary, I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

My physician first advised me to use them, because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized pkgs. at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars' worth of good.

CLOSURE AGREED TO.

British Education Bill Will Be Passed by Nov 28.

London, Nov. 12.—Premier Balfour's motion to apply automatic closure by compartments to the Government Education Bill, was agreed to in the House of Commons yesterday by 222 votes to 103. Following this method the bill must be passed by Nov. 28.

A vigorous amendment to the motion made by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader, which drew speeches from Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Asquith and many others, was defeated by 284 votes to 152.

OFFSET TO THE PREFERENCE

In Newfoundland's Treaty With the United States.

Bond-Hay Treaty Provides Against the Proposed Imposition of Differential Duties on United States Goods—In the Case of the Dominion the Deferential Amounts to Thirty-Three Per Cent. Against the U.S.

Washington, Nov. 12.—An important feature of the reciprocity treaty just negotiated with Newfoundland, is a safeguard against the differential in favor of all goods entering Newfoundland from England or any of the British colonies.

The differential in the case of the Dominion amounts to 32 per cent., which is a very heavy handicap upon imports from the United States. It is true that the differential has not yet been imposed by Newfoundland upon our goods, but it is learned that it was the purpose to do so, and that the result would be the loss of most of the trade with Newfoundland is not doubted here.

As it is the treaty provides against the imposition of the differential duties. This, in the case of flour, amounts to a margin large enough to warrant the expectation that the United States will continue to command the trade in that line.

The attitude of the New England Senators to the new treaty is problematical; they have committed themselves to a treaty in theory, but it is not yet known whether they will accept the details of the new arrangement.

CANADA AND IMMIGRANTS.

Expects a Hundred Thousand Next Year in Western Provinces.

London, Nov. 12.—The Canadian Emigration Office in London, which was recently promoted to the dignity of a special bureau, with a commissioner of its own, is preparing to branch out on an extensive scale, with a view of popularizing emigration to the Northwest. Two floors have been secured in a new building going up at Charing Cross, in the midst of the railroad and steamship offices. Contracts have been placed for fitting up the office exclusively with Canadian woodwork, office furniture and a steam heating plant. It will contain a complete exhibit of Canadian products.

The commissioner, Mr. Preston, said, in answer to an inquiry:

"We expect next year to place 100,000 emigrants in Western Canada, and we shall probably draw a third each from the United States, the United Kingdom and from the rest of Europe."

What was probably the first public library in the United States was started in Charleston, S. C., in 1749.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

This was the elder Cameron's counsel, and Katy's cause rose fifty per cent. in consequence. Still Wilford was sadly disquieted, so much so, that his partner, Mark Ray, could not fail to observe that something was troubling him, and at last frankly asked what it was. Wilford knew he could trust Mark and he confessed the whole, telling him far more of Silverton than he had told his mother, and then asking what his friend would do were the case his own.

Fond of fun and frolic, Mark laughed immoderately of Wilford's description of Aunt Betsy bringing her "herrin'-bone" patch work into the parlor and telling him it was a part of Katy's "settin' out," but when it came to her hint for an invitation to visit New York, the amused young man roared with laughter, wishing so much that he might live to see the day when poor Aunt Betsy Barlow stood ringing for admittance at No. — Fifth Avenue.

"Wouldn't it be rich, though," the meeting between your Aunt Betsy and Juno?" and the tears fairly poured down the young man's face.

But Wilford was too serious for trifling, and after his merriment had subsided, Mark talked with him candidly of Katy Lennox, whose cause he warmly espoused, telling Wilford that he was far too sensitive with regard to family and position.

"You are a good fellow on the whole, but too outrageously proud," he said. "Of course this Aunt Betsy in her pongee, whatever that might be, and the uncle in his shirt sleeves, and this mother whom you describe as weak and ambitious, are objections which you would rather should not exist; but if you love the girl, take her, family and all. Not that you were to transport the whole colony of Barlows to New York," he added, as he saw Wilford's look of horror, "but make up your mind to endure what cannot be helped, resting yourself upon the fact that your position is such that cannot well be affected by any marriage you might make, provided the wife were right,"

This was Mark Ray's advice, and it had great weight with Wilford, who knew that Mark came, if possible, from a better line of ancestry than himself. And still Wilford hesitated, waiting until the winter was over before he came to the decision, which, when it was reached, was firm as a granite rock. He had made up his mind at last to marry Katy Lennox if she would accept him, and he told his mother so in the presence of his sisters, when one evening they were all kept at home by the rain. There was a sudden uplifting of Bell's eyelashes, a contemptuous shrug of her shoulders, and then she went on with the book she was reading, wondering if Katy was at all inclined to literature, and thinking if she were it might be easier to tolerate her. Juno, who was expected to say the sharpest things, turned upon him with the exclamation,

"If you can stand those two feather beds, you can do more than I supposed," and as one means of showing her disapproval, she quitted the room, while Bell, who had taken to writing articles on follies of the age, soon followed her sister to elaborate an idea suggested to her mind by her brother's contemplated marriage.

Thus left alone with her son, Mrs. Cameron tried all her powers of persuasion upon him. But nothing she said influenced him in the least, seeing which, she suddenly confronted him with the question, "Shall you tell her all? A husband should have no secrets of that kind from his wife."

Wilford's face was as white as ashes, and his voice trembled as he replied, "Yes, mother, I shall tell her all; but, oh! you do not know how hard it has been for me to bring my mind to that, or how sorry I am that we ever kept that secret—when Genevra died——"

"Hush-h!" came warningly from his mother as Juno reappeared, the warning, indicating that Genevra was a name never mentioned, except by mother and son.

As Juno remained the conversation was not resumed and the next morning Wilford wrote to Katy Lennox the letter which carried to her so much of joy, and Dr. Grant so much of grief. To wait four weeks, as Katy said he must, was a terrible trial to Wilford, who counted every moment which kept him from her side. It was all owing to Dr. Grant and that perpendicular Helen, he knew, for Katy in her letter had admitted that the waiting was wholly their suggestion; and Wilford's thoughts concerning them were anything but complimentary, until a new idea was suggested, which drove every other consideration from his mind.

Wilford was naturally jealous, but the fault had once led him into so deep trouble that he had struggled to overcome it, and now, at its first approach, after he thought it dead, he tried to shake it off—tried not to believe that Morris cared especially for Katy. But the mere possibility was unendurable, and in a most feverish state of excitement he started again for Silverton.

As before, Morris was at the station, his cordial greeting and friendly manner disarming him from all anxiety in that quarter, and making him resolve anew to trample the demon jealousy under his feet, where it could never rise again. Katy's life should not be darkened by the green monster, he thought, and her future would have been bright indeed had it proved all that he pictured it as he drove along with Morris in the direction of the farm-house.

Katy was waiting for him, and he did not hesitate to kiss her more than once as he kept her for a moment in his arms, and then held her off to see if her illness had left any traces upon her. It had not, except it were in the increased delicacy of her complexion, and the short hair now growing out in silky rings. She was very pretty in her short hair, but Wilford felt a little impatient as he saw how childish it made her look, and thought how long it would take for it to attain its former length. He was already appropriating her to himself, and devising ways of improving her. In New York, with Morris Grant standing before his jealous gaze, he could see no fault in Katy, and even now, with her beside him, and the ogre jealousy gone, he saw no fault in her; it was only her hair, and that would be remedied in time; otherwise she was perfect, and in his delight at meeting her again, he forgot to criticize the farm-house and its occupants, as he had done before.

They were very civil to him — the mother overwhelmingly so, and Wilford could not help detecting her anxiety that all should be settled this time. Helen, on the contrary, was unusually cool, confirming him in his opinion that she was strong-minded and self-willed, and making him resolve to remove Katy as soon as possible from her influence. When talking with his mother, he had said that if Katy told him "yes," he should probably place her at some fashionable school for a year or two; but on the way to Silverton he had changed his mind. He could not wait a year, and if he married Katy at all, it should be immediately. He would then take her to Europe, where she could have the best of teachers, besides the advantage of traveling; and it was a very satisfactory picture he drew of the woman whom he should introduce into New York society as his wife, Mrs. Wilford Cameron. It is true that Katy had not yet said the all-important word, but she was going to say it, and when late that afternoon thay came from the walk he had asked her to take, she had listened to his tale of love, and was his promised wife. Katy was no coquette; whatever she felt she expressed, and she had frankly confessed to Wilford her love for him, telling him how the fear that he had forgotten her had haunted her all the long winter; and then with her clear, truthful blue eyes looking into his, asking him why he had not sent her some message if, as he said, he loved her all the time

Female Disorders.

For the past two years I have been afflicted with female troubles. I had serious bladder disorder; inflammation would set in and I would suffer intensely. Sometimes I could not urinate and the pain was so severe I could not sleep at night. I always had heavy bearing-down back and womb pains. I went to the hospital for three months, paid two visits a week but got no relief. I was advised to try Powley's Liquified-Ozone and before I had finished the first bottle I began to feel better. I have taken in all three bottles and now I am quite well.

MRS. JOHN WAY.

There may be a better way of curing female ailments than by Ozone, we don't believe there's a quicker or safer method or one that gives such permanent beneficial results. Powley's Liquified Ozone is peculiarly adapted for disorders of the mucous membrane. If you try it once you will make use of it regularly.

NORTH GREY IS NOW VACANT

A. G. McKay Admits Enough Charges to Void Election.

Premier Ross Has Now Only Two of a Majority—There Are Still Eight Election Petitions, Five Against Conservatives, Three Against Liberals—Big Bill of Particulars in Lennox—137 Charges, Some of Them Very Startling, Filed.

Liberal majority—Two.

Seats vacant—North Grey, North Perth, North Norfolk, North Renfrew.

Election Petitions Not Disposed of.

Liberal seats — East Middlesex, North York, Kingston—3.

Conservative seats—South Oxford, Lennox, Centre Bruce, Sault Ste. Marie, North Ontario—5.

Owen Sound, Nov. 12.—Justices MacMahon and Maclennan yesterday voided the election of A. G. McKay, Liberal candidate in North Grey, and the seat is now vacant. This will leave Premier Ross with a majority of two, with four seats open—North Grey, North Perth, North Norfolk and North Renfrew.

There was an imposing array of legal talent. It was agreed that there should be no fight. But it was necessary to prove one or two charges. Accordingly Wm. J. Robinson of Meaford was called to the stand. He admitted that he was an agent of Mr. McKay, and on the night of May 28 hired a livery rig to convey several voters from Meaford to Owen Sound.

W. J. Halton, financial agent of the Liberal candidate, admitted agency, but said he was not aware of the irregularity until recently, and had entered the accounts in good faith as legitimate expenses of the Meaford Association.

The Liberal candidate admitted the agency of Robinson, and said he could not deny the charge. He said, however, he did not believe there was anything to support ninety per cent. of the other charges.

The contending counsel then addressed the judges, pointing out that it was useless to incur the expense of keeping five hundred witnesses in attendance for a considerable time.

Justice Maclennan said that the voters conveyed from Meaford to Owen Sound in hired rigs might affect the result, and the election was, therefore, voided, without costs. The other charges and counter charges were dismissed.

BIG BILL OF PARTICULARS.

Conservative Petition Against M. S. Madole Contains 137 Charges.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Bribery and corruption, debauchery, ballot stuffing and almost every nefarious method usually practised in unclean elections are alleged to have taken place in Lennox at the last contest.

Late yesterday afternoon the Conservatives filed their particulars in the cross petition against M. S. Madole, the Liberal candidate, and the charges—there are 137 of them— are nothing if not startling. The Liberals also filed their particulars in the straight petition. There are 32 charges made, mainly of bribery, treating, etc. The Lennox case will be heard at Napanee on Nov. 25, and disclosures of an exceedingly shady nature may be expected.

The Conservatives petitioners are John Frederick Baker, Henry Milling and Reuben Harrington.

The Conservatives charge that after Madole received the nomination the officers of the Reform Association of the riding entered into a plan or conspiracy by which the organization of the riding was placed in the hands of a man so as to relieve Madole from personal responsibility for corruption, and that to this end W. S. Herrington, K. C., communicated with Hon. J. R. Stratton, and that he with the knowledge and consent of Madole, or through Alex. Smith, Liberal organizer, or someone else, provided money which was corruptly expended in Lennox, and also gave George M. Sutherland of Toronto money to spend for corrupt purposes in order to secure Madole's election.

That George M. Sutherland, who was a Liberal organizer, with the actual knowledge or consent of Madole, promised and endeavored to procure votes for him, and that he was given money for this purpose from the campaign fund.

The Hon. J. R. Stratton, through his executive officers, or through Alex Smith, caused to be delivered to George M. Sutherland or some other worker a large sum of money for the express purpose that it should be used for the purchase of votes, etc.

Another charge reads: "That the said conspirators entered into a plan by which the whole riding was to be corrupted, debauched and illegally worked and managed in the interests of the said M. S. Madole, so that the election returns would be in his favor, and would not represent the legal and proper vote or opinion of the electors of the said riding."

Against Mr. Madole it is charged that "believing and supposing that by so doing he would be relieved from all personal responsibility therefrom by so doing, acted through the said George M. Sutherland as a proxy, attorney, agent or representative, and through the said George M. Sutherland managed and controlled the said body of workers for illegal and corrupt work, and the said workers and others of the said conspirators distributed the said funds for illegal and corrupt work, and were instrumental in carrying out all the corrupt practices hereinafter set forth."

Perhaps the most serious charge made is the following: "As a part of the said conspiracy and in pursuance thereof it was arranged that the deputy returning officers acting in the said election in the riding of Lennox should be under the direct control and management of the said George M. Sutherland, and with the connivance and approval or through the gross neglect or improper acts of Stephen Gibson, the returning officer in the riding of Lennox, an opportunity was afforded to the said conspirators to have access to and extract from the Napanee Express printing office ballot papers after they were printed, and prepared for the said election, and a large number of the ballot papers disappeared from the quantities furnished the said returning officer between the time the said ballots were sent from the clerk of the Crown in Chancery or the clerk of the Legislative Assembly in Toronto, and the time they were counted at the opening of the polls on the morning of May 29, and they had been for a considerable time in a loose and unbound condition in The Napanee Express office, and no account was taken of the said ballots when they were received from the clerk of the Crown in Chancery by the returning officer, or when they were handed to the said printing office or when they were received back from the said printing office, or when they were handed by the said returning officer to the deputy returning officers."

Then follows a long list of specific charges of corruption sufficient, if true, to upset a hundred elections.

North Wentworth Petition.

The North Wentworth election trial has been transferred from Hamilton, where it was fixed for Nov. 18, to Toronto, where it will be heard on Nov. 22. The petition is against the return of the Liberal candidate.

John Brown Chosen.

London, Nov. 12.—The Liberal convention for North Perth yesterday afternoon selected John Brown as candidate in the coming bye-election.

NEW MINISTERS SWORN IN.

Prefontaine Will Control Navigable Rivers, Dredging and Canals.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Hon. James Sutherland and Hon. Raymond Prefontaine proceeded to Rideau Hall yesterday morning and shortly before noon were sworn in as Minister of Public Works and Minister of Marine and Fisheries, respectively. The oath was administered to the Ministers by John James McGee, clerk of the Privy Council, in the presence of the Governor-General and Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State. At the close of the ceremony His Excellency heartily congratulated the two Ministers.

Mr. Sutherland, having been translated from one office to another, does not need to go back to his constituents. Mr. Prefontaine's acceptance of office vacates two constituencies, Maisonneuve and Terrebone. Mr. Prefontaine has decided to offer himself for re-election in Maisonneuve. There will not likely be any opposition.

The Minister of Marine goes to Montreal this morning, and at night will address a mass meeting in the Delville Theatre there under the auspices of the East End Liberal Club. He will announce that important additions will be made to the Department of Marine, including the control of navigable rivers, dredging and kindred work. It is even said that canals may pass under the new Minister's direction.

As to the fiscal policy, Mr. Prefontaine will proclaim himself a moderate protectionist, and one who favors a revision of the tariff.

Clerk of the House.

Mr. T. B. Flint, M.P., has been appointed to the clerkship of the House of Commons. Yarmouth, N. S., is thus opened.

Doukhobors Still Docile.

Yorkton, N.W.T., Nov. 12.—About half of the Doukhobors women left here yesterday morning for their homes. All were willing to ride, but rigs could only be provided for part of them, and the stronger ones were compelled to walk. The rest of the women will start out this morning. The men were met about fifteen miles out Monday night. At about 4 o'clock they were marching quietly towards their homes.

Loss Will Be Covered.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Premier Ross said yesterday that he believed that the shortage of Alfred McDougall would be almost, if not quite, covered by securities held by the Government. Those securities amount to $21,000.

The Premier also denied that the Dominion Government refused to subsidize the Temiskaming Railway, but further than that he had nothing to say at present.

Printers' Strike Settled.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The strike of the printers employed by the T. Eaton Co., Limited, has been satisfactorily arranged between a committee representing Typographical Union No. 91 and the management of the big departmental store. The strike was inaugurated over six months ago. The company agrees to pay the union scale of wages, but may employ non-union labor if it desires.

Sir Wilfrid Goes South.

Stabbed Through the Heart.

London, Nov. 12. — Kitty Byron stabbed her lover, A. R. Baker, a broker, to death in view of hundreds of people. She was seized. She stabbed him through the heart.

London, Nov. 12.—Generals Botha and Delarey had a private interview yesterday with Colonial Secretary Chamberlain at the latter's office.

Jim Dumps asked in a friend to tea.

'PRENTICE BOYS GO VISITING

LOCAL GRAND LODGE OFFICERS AT FRANKFORD LAST NIGHT.

Past Grand Master Bro. A. M. Ketcheson, of the 'Prentice Boys, Grand Secretary Bro. C. O. Brickman, and Bro. Jas. Warham, Worshipful Master of the local lodge, last evening paid a fraternal visit to Frankford Lodge, No. 25. The visiting brethren witnessed the initiation ceremony and other business of the lodge, which was done in a very satisfactory manner. At the conclusion of the lodge business the visitors were royally entertained, a supper being provided for them at the Sweetman hotel. The spread was all that could have been desired.

After supper the usual loyal toasts were proposed and appropriately responded to. They were interspersed with suitable songs. The Belleville contingent arrived home at an early hour this morning, more than pleased with their fraternal visit.

UNITED WORKMEN UNITE IN ENJOYING THEMSELVES

PLEASANT AFFAIR IN THE HALL OF BELLEVILLE LODGE NO. 251, A. O. U. W., LAST NIGHT.

The members of Belleville Lodge No. 251, Ancient Order of United Workmen, were out in large numbers last evening to receive Bro. W. Esmond, of Shannonville, who is the D.D.G.M. of this district. Visiting brethren were also present from the Shannonville and Canifton lodges.

After the usual routine business of the lodge had been completed the D.D.G.M. and visiting brethren were entertained to an oyster supper in the dining hall adjoining the lodge room. Bro. John Harris, Master Workman of the local lodge, occupied the chair, a position which he filled most creditably. After the banqueters had fully enjoyed the good things prepared by Mr. Jas. Wallace, the following toast list was disposed of;

"The King."—The National Anthem, by the company.

"The Dominion and its Government"—Bro. W. B. Northrup, M.P., the silver-tongued representative for East Hastings responded to this toast and he certainly did credit to it. He referred to the importance of the Government of Canada and the responsibilities which were attached to it.

"The Province of Ontario and its Government."—Bro. W. P. Hudson, ex-M.P.P., and W. J. McCamon responded in an appropriate manner.

Song—"The Maple Leaf," by Bro. Eaton, of this city.

"Grand Lodge."—This toast was replied to by the D.D.G.M., Bro. Esmond, who referred to the Order and the progress which it was making in Canada. He referred to the Society in its fraternal relation and also as to its benefits and insurances. An effort, he said, was being made this year to reach a membership in Canada of 45,000, and the prospects were that such would be the case.

"The State of the Order."—Bro. W. H. Adams responded first, dealing with the past, present and future of the Order. Other speakers to the toast were Bros. Walter Alford and E. L. Paton.

"Our City and its Industries."—Bro. Alderman Galbraith spoke briefly but to the point in responding to this toast. In referring to industries the speaker endorsed the remarks of The Intelligencer in reference to the citizens forming a company for the carrying on of the rolling mills.

"The Press" was duly honored by the representatives present.

"Host and Hostess."—Replied to by Mr. Jas. Wallace

The singing of the National Anthem brought the pleasant gathering to a close at a seasonable hour,

VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1902 NO. 163

WATER WORKS FUEL, THAT ALLEGED SAVING

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE WATER COMMISSIONERS RESENTS AN INACCURATE STATEMENT.

An item appeared in a local paper a day or two ago, to the following effect:

"In future the chief of the fire brigade is to notify the pump house whenever a fire is extinguished. It is believed that it will result in the saving of a large amount of coal in a year.

In the past the pump house has never been notified, only when a fire alarm is given. The pumps at once are put on at a high pressure and kept there for considerable time. Many false alarms are sent in and fuel is wasted for nothing.

The engineer at the pump house will be notified at once in future whether it is a false alarm and when the fire is over. It is a good scheme and it is a wonder that it has not been thought of before. To Alderman Wills belongs the credit for the new order."

There was, of course, a good deal of surprise when people read the above, and the reason is not hard to find, inasmuch as a prominent official of the Waterworks department states that, ever since the system was installed in Belleville, the custom (until the automatic gauges were installed), was to notify the pump house when a fire was extinguished. In order to straighten matters out, Mr. John G. Frost, Chairman of the Water Commissioners, was seen, and that gentleman expressed a willingness to talk on the matter, the following being the outcome:

"You are Chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners, are you not, Mr. Frost?" he was asked.

An affirmative reply was given, and the article reproduced above was brought to the gentleman's notice.

"Yes," said Mr. Frost, "I noticed the reference, though I find it difficult to treat the matter seriously, excepting, perhaps, the latter clause of the item, where wonder is expressed that the alleged correct plan was not thought of before."

"Is it true that the engineer is not notified at the end of a fire that water is not being used?"

"I think it quite true and for obvious reasons. The pressure gauge at the pump house would undoubtedly indicate when the fire hydrants were turned off."

"Then the engineer must have been wrong if, as alleged, Ald. Wills learned from him that he should be notified when a fire is out and water not being used?"

"Oh," said Mr. Frost, with a smile, "I am not prepared to say that, though I cannot conceive that even an apprentice or a mere novice could so misapprehend the practical conditions involved. Very likely either may have misunderstood the other, or, most likely still, the editor or reporter may have been misled or failed to grasp the purport of his informants statements."

"Then you think the insinuation implying incompetency or neglect on the part of those administering the Water works department is unjust?"

"Not any more so than has previously been meted out to the Commissioners. Such cases and conditions adjust themselves eventually. It's an age of specialization, and doubtless the Legislature in framing the Municipal Act and providing for Boards of Police Commissioners, or Boards of Water Commissioners and the Dominion provision for a Board of Harbor Commissioners, had this in view, all of which indicates the trend of modern conditions affecting Municipal government."

"You seem to look upon adverse criticism with complacency?"

"That all depends," said Mr. Frost. "Fair criticism may be met with argument; unfair criticism, lacking reason essentially, cannot be met with either reason or argument, hence its a loss of time and unprofitable to be led into an attempted answer."

"Did you support the proposal for the City to acquire the water system?"

"I did, conscientiously, and have not found any reason for changing my conviction. The scheme was all right and the system is making steady progress, though in my judgment a serious defect is found in its practical working out—first the rates levied for services are too high, by reason of the unfair charge creating provision for the Sinking fund. Operating expenses, maintenance and repairs, together with interest on purchase money, is all that can be fairly defended as charges to ratepayers using water services. The Sinking fund should be provided from the general city rate, because the property, when the debentures mature, will then belong to the municipality and not to that portion of the ratepayers who are, under the present practice, paying for the property in instalments."

The newspaper man, realizing that Mr. Frost had given people something to think about, thanked him, and bade him good morning.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE IN THE LOCK FACTORY

DAMAGE ABOUT $1,500 — WORK NOT RETARDED—GOOD WORK OF FIRE BRIGADE.

At a few minutes before 1 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in a stone building in connection with the Lock Factory, on Pinnacle street, and it was owing to the excellent work done py the Fire Brigade that the fire was confined to the building in which it originated. The fire fortunately does not in the least retard work, as the building in which it originated was simply used as a storehouse. Adjoining the burned building is the foundry, and had the fire reached that portion of the premises it would have proved decidedly serious in its results. The interior of the store-house was completely gutted, and the contents, consisting of a considerable quantity of material used for making paste board boxes, for packing locks, was destroyed. How the fire originated is not known, but from appearances it started inside, as the roof of the building is not much burned.

When the brigade arrived upon the scene the fire was burning fiercely and it was feared that a serious conflagration would ensue, but the well-directed efforts of the firemen soon told, and it was not long before all danger of the fire's spreading was over. In close proximity to where the conflagration originated is a large store-house belonging to the Lewis Company, but the fire did not reach it. A window in the latter building was partially burned, but no fire got in the building. The small loss sustained is covered by insurance.

Whilst the fire was in progress a stream from the hose struck against a door in rear of Messrs. McIntosh's store, and some damage to goods was caused by water.

As to the actual loss sustained by the Belleville Hardware Company, it is estimated to be about $1,500 on building and contents. The building was insured for $1,000, namely, $500 in the Equity and an equal amount in the Anglo-American. There was no insurance upon the contents stored in the building.

It was gratifying to the citizens to know that the industry is not seriously affected by the fire, as all workmen were able this morning to continue work.

THE CHANCES FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

GUELPH NEWSPAPER THINKS THEY ARE GROWING BRIGHTER.

(Guelph Herald.)

To those who, from their position, are able to take an independent view of politics and to watch the signs of the times, the chances in favor of the better, purer government of this country appear to be increasing rapidly. Taking the Province of Ontario first, it cannot be denied that among the Grits there are thousands of men, including many of those who, in the past, did loyal service as presidents, committee men and organizers of local districts, who, in consequence of the ballot stealing, ballot switching, and other discreditable tricks, done in the interests of the party, are so disgusted with the present Government that their keen desire to help it has gone, and most of them confess that a change is desirable. The scandalous revelations made in the election trials recently have intensified this feeling, and should another election take place shortly, the Government would find that the valuable help upon which they could depend formerly from leading men, will not be forthcoming.

Again, that already very large body of men who will not "touch politics because they are so rotten," is increasing; but they vote all the same, and can be depended upon to do so for that party which appears most likely to be going for pure Government. Further, it is noticed that men have begun to think for themselves, not to let party interests blind them to all else, and to require that the Government shall be able to give a good account of its stewardship. The "Independent" vote is one that has to be reckoned with, and no doubt exists for believing that this went solidly, and will go solidly again, against the Ross Administration. All these men have grown tired of and disgusted at seeing the administration of each department used simply for rewarding political heelers and the advancement of personal friends and family connections; they are asking, if this Government is so good as its members claim it to be, why is it that they are endeavoring to cling to power by using tricks which would have disgraced the politics of a hundred years ago?

A new generation has sprung up during the Liberal administration, and it has had the advantage of better education, more social intercourse, more travel, more criticism of public affairs, and more newspapers, than those that have passed away. These young men will not be prepared, and are not prepared, to follow the politicians blindly, to let them handle the financial and other affairs of the province without question. They want to know the why and wherefore of things, and our Ministers will soon, if they do not already, recognize that their work will be judged by a public composed of keener critics than that of the past.

The Opposition know all this, and are pledged by all the utterances of their leaders to do away with the abuses which have so disgraced the Ross Administration; this administration, deserted by its supporters, must soon totter to its fall, and the chances, therefore, of good government for this province are very hopeful.

As to the Dominion Government, the prediction was made after the last election that there would soon be fighting amongst its members, and that alone would cause its ruin. The fighting has certainly taken place; it has lost its brainiest member, and he has taken a large number of supporters with him. The party is divided, but the Opposition is united and determined, and can point to promises and pledges flagrantly broken and a fearful increase in expenditure. It is not likely that the discarded Mr. Tarte will help the Government, and even if he tries to form another party with the invaluable assistance of Mr. Hugh Guthrie, the flowing tide in favor of honest government will sweep all before it, and Mr. Borden, a new leader, pledged to pure administration, will be carried into power.

Like all young countries, Canada has had to "sow its wild oats"; the past generation reaped them; but the voice of the country can be heard swelling into louder and louder tones, and declaring that the seed which men shall sow must be

FIFTH OF NOVEMBER AT THOMASBURGH

CELEBRATED IN RIGHT ROYAL STYLE—A BELLEVILLE ORATOR.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

Thomasburg, Nov. 5.

When the Orangemen of this village undertake anything they can be depended on to see it through, and the local celebration of the Fifth of November was, as usual, enjoyable and interesting. The weather was perfect. The decorations were in excellent taste, and the preparation for entertaining the visitors were made with a lavish hand.

Mr. W. B. Northrup, M.P., arrived at noon in a private carriage from Belleville. He was accompanied by Mrs. Northrup, Miss Proctor, of Brighton, and Mr. McCaw. Rev. J. deP. Wright, M.A., the rector of the parish, met the party on their arrival and escorted them to a place already prepared for them at the table. The member and his friends always receive a hearty welcome in this part of the country where his eloquence and genial manners are so well known and fully appreciated.

At 2.30 p. m. the procession of Orangemen formed two-deep and as each lodge, headed by its Marshal on prancing grey steed, and accompanied by its band of music and colors flying, marched past, the scene presented was most martial. The route of the procession lay through Main street, thence to the Orange Hall and return.

At 3 p.m. the speaking began. The orators were: Rev. M. McCulloch, of Thomasburg; R. T. Porter, Rev. Mr. Jukes, Mr. R. Gordon, of Tweed; W. B. Northrup, M.P., and Rev. J. deP. Wright, M.A. The speeches were eloquent and convincing that of Mr. W. B. Northrup, M.P., deserving special mention. Before beginning his address the genial M.P. was presented with a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums, tied with orange ribbons, they being presented by Miss Ethel Wilson, of this village. It was very suitable that Miss Wilson present this bouquet, as the Wilson family and their connections have been for time immemorial staunch supporters of the Conservative cause. Mr. Northrup has just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast, where he had been on political business, and so was able to speak most intelligently of the state of our fair Dominion. Our country, he said, is unrivalled in the whole world. Our resources are unlimited. Never before have we had such bountiful harvests or so much hope for the future. Above all we rejoice in a community of loyal citizens. The work of the Orangemen is not over, as some asserted. The only stain that gentleman noticed in his travels was the wholesale importation of Doukhobors. "Our country is for us." "Canada is for the Canadians," and not a dumping ground for the offal of Europe.

The speeches were interspersed with enlivening music, which added greatly to the attractiveness of the day.

The proceeds of the day, which enrich the Church of England, amounted to the handsome sum of about $300. About $40 will be needed for expenses.

Thus passed a day, creditable to the Orangemen, to the members of the Anglican church, and one long to be remembered in the annals of the "Burg." L.T.

Cancer Ate Right Cheek

A DISTRESSING CASE, COMPLETELY CURED BY THE NEW CONSTITUTIONAL TREATMENT AFTER PLASTER FAILED.

Cancer of the face is peculiarly distressing, not only on account of the suffering involved, but also because of the terrible disfigurement.

The case referred to was one in which the right cheek was almost gone, having been eaten off by the disease and the plaster treatment, from the eye to the lower part of the jaw and back almost to the ear. Instead of helping the cure, the plaster extended the area of the tissue destructions.

When the New Constitutional Treatment was started, its beneficial results soon became apparent, the cancer ceased to spread, the tissues became healthy and commenced healing, till, in a comparatively short time, the disease was cured completely, and, we may say, permanently, for there has been no recurrence in the past three years.

A complete account of this case will be found in our book—"Cancer Its Cause and Cure," which will be sent to anyone on receipt of two stamps. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

OPINION OF GOVERNMENT ORGANS ON PREFONTAINE APPOINTMENT

THE GLOBE.

Editorially, the Toronto Globe endorses the appointment of Prefontaine to a Cabinet position, but has not much to say in his favor. After landing Mr. Sutherland as a paragon political statesman and departmental officer, it damns the new Minister with faint praise. All it can find to say in its favor is that—

"Mr. Prefontaine speaks both languages fluently. He has plenty of political courage. At the time when there was strong hostility in Quebec to sending Canadian troops to Africa, Mr. Prefontaine came out boldly in defence of the Government's action. He is a strong, aggressive man, with many of the qualities of leadership."

• • •

MONTREAL HERALD.

The Herald is the English organ of the Government in Montreal, and is the special exponent of the views of the Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Mr. Fisher. It, after eulogizing Mr. Sutherland, has this to say of Mr. Prefontaine:

"It is to be regretted that the appointment of Mr. Raymond Prefontaine to the portfolio vacated by Mr. Sutherland is unlikely to be received with equal favor. There has been much debate over this matter, and it is to be assumed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, finding himself confronted by a serious political crisis in his own province, has turned to Mr. Prefontaine as local leader, and one who, under much provocation, has shown a consistent loyalty to his chief. Those who have discountenanced Mr. Prefontaine's selection for this office did not undervalue the qualities which fit him for leadership, and which evidently appeal very strongly to Sir Wilfrid Laurier under present conditions. While thoroughly sympathizing with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, however, it is not for those Liberals who have observed Mr. Prefontaine's career as the practical head of the Administrative machinery of the City of Montreal to feel that his selection for the head of an Administrative Department of the Government satisfies their ideals of what ought to be. The Herald, particularly during a five years' campaign against corruption and extravagance at the City Hall, had no option but to conclude that his powerful influence had been, and was being, exerted against the city's best interests. What Mr. Prefontaine's idea of his future may be, and precisely what view Sir Wilfrid Laurier may take of the matter, is not for us to know, but it is clear that in Montreal, where he has lived under the limelight of publicity, there must be grave misgivings concerning the wisdom of the selection, not only on the part of the more or less disinterested general public, but quite as much on the part of those whose particular concern is the welfare of the Administration."

• • •

MONTREAL WITNESS.

When it was rumored that Prefontaine was to succeed Tarte in the Cabinet, the Witness sounded an alarm, and declared that:

"There is terror in the ranks of the respectable non-political Liberals lest Mr. Prefontaine should force himself on the Cabinet as Minister of Public Works. We cannot think there can be any ground for this fear. Mr. Prefontaine is not, as Mr. Tarte was, a professed penitent escaped from a den of corruption. So far as the public has heard, he still adheres to his well known principles. He would still be the advocate of the party with whom the public is dealing, rather than the trustee of the public. Should he carry those principles into a larger sphere at the call of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, no one will be able to say that it was not to be expected. Mr. Prefontaine has not lived in a corner. Every one knows just where he stands. There are many who have no objection whatever to his record, or to committing the public interests to his hands, but there are, as we say, those who are in terror of this, both for the country's sake and for that of the party, which to many is as dear as the country itself. Sir Wilfrid knows all this and is not going to face the whole Dominion with such a proposal, or to hand down his name to posterity as responsible for it."

What course this "only religious daily in Canada," as it terms itself, will pursue, now that Prefontaine has become a Minister of the Crown, is not difficult to guess. It will, when Mr. Prefontaine returns to his constituency for re-election, support him or maintain a dignified silence. If it does not it will belie its political record.

• • •

LA PATRIE.

Interest centres in the course which this organ of Liberalism, as Liberalism is understood and practiced by Tarte, will pursue.

In the past it has been an uncompromising opponent of the new Minister. When Mr. Prefontaine was seeking re-election as Mayor of Montreal it spoke thus of him:

"Our disgraceful streets, our almost exhausted treasury,' said that paper, 'will pass to posterity as a brilliant testimony to the capability of our Mayor.'

When La Patrie had to deal with Mr. Prefontaine as a politician, it used the following language:

"For weeks, months, years even, Mr. Prefontaine has carried on against Mr. Tarte an underhand and disloyal campaign—a campaign inspired by a sentiment other than that of party or public interests. In political matters, in affairs of the port, in all things and everywhere, our Mayor has used and abused his acknowledged insidious tongue to endeavor to destroy the popularity and reputation of the Minister of Public Works."

Then it adds:

"Then, how is it he one day went to Nicolet to hatch a Conservative candidate? There never was a perfect solidity between our Mayor and the Liberal party. He did not always pull true in the collar. He plays the 'old Rouge' to-day. But look at his actions of yesterday. He went arm-in-arm with his opponents when that served his own interests and not the interests of his party."

Now that Prefontaine fills Tarte's place in the Cabinet, Tarte is moderate. In its issue of the 11th all La Patrie has to say is:

"Many diverse influences have been at work over the appointments. The Premier took all the time necessary to inform himself, and the decision which he has reached as the result of many consultations with the various groups in the Liberal party. 'We will judge,' adds the ex-Minister 'the two men to whom the Premier has coupled the portfolios of Public Works and Marine and Fisheries according to their works.'"

The smaller fry will fall into line and remain there as long as patronage is in view.

Senator Cox and Other Capitalists Acting in Concert With Railway Looking to the Purchase of the Mackenzie & Mann System — Would Build From North Bay to Port Arthur—Will M. & M. Sell?

Montreal, Nov. 13. — Hon. Mr. Tarte writes as follows in La Patrie: "I am in a position to say that the Grand Trunk is looking to the purchase of the Mackenzie & Mann railway system. Senator Cox, Mr. James Ross and other capitalists are acting in concert with the Grand Trunk in this matter.

"Up to the present time Senator Cox has taken a more lively interest in Mackenzie & Mann's system than any other capitalist. Senator Cox and Mr. Mackenzie have met at Ottawa quite recently and have likewise held interviews in Montreal with Mr. Jas. Ross and the Grand Trunk authorities.

"The policy of the Grand Trunk would be to utilize its Toronto and North Bay branches and build a line from North Bay to Port Arthur, passing some distance from the Canadian Pacific and following the Mackenzie and Mann system to the Pacific Ocean. I believe I have discovered that Mr. Blair favors the purchase of the Canadian Northern by the Grand Trunk although Mackenzie & Mann do not seem to be too anxious to dispose of their railway system.

"It may also be noticed of late that The Globe speaks quite often of the new railway routes to the Northwest. I do not know if Mackenzie & Mann will consent to sell, but it is certain that the transaction has been initiated by Senator Cox and Mr. James Ross and that the Grand Trunk is ready to enter into the arrangement."

Prefontaine at Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine reached here last evening and delivered a speech in Delville Hall. The Minister said he had the assurance that all matters concerning harbors and navigation would be transferred to the Department of Marine, and also made the claim that in the future the canals would also come under the same control. He also said that Hon. James Sutherland took the Public Works only on condition that the department be thus relieved. Mr. Prefontaine said that his work would not be done until navigation was just as safe at midnight as day time from Quebec to the Great Lakes.

As regards protection, the speaker quoted Hon. Mr. Fielding's remarks promising protection to all legitimate industries.

FRANCE AND CANADA.

Delcasse Promised £10,000, But Money to Get Steamers Not Raised.

London, Nov. 13—A Reuter despatch yesterday, referring to the negotiations carried on in France by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. W. S. Fielding of Canada, says that those gentlemen left satisfied with the results obtained, but that the success of the negotiations hangs on a condition which has not been realized yet, and which does not seem to make much progress. M. Delcasse, the Foreign Minister, promised Sir Wilfrid Laurier an annual subsidy of ten thousand pounds to the company running a French line of steamships between France and Canada. When Sir Wilfrid was visiting Lille he used this promise to induce manufacturers to find money to purchase the steamers, and was assured that the utmost would be done to that end, but this as yet has amounted to very little.

Molineux Cost $500,000.

New York, Nov. 13.—It has been estimated that the trial of Roland Molineux has cost more than any other for a capital offence in any country where the English system of jurisprudence is in vogue. The cost to the County of New York of the first trial approximated $250,00. The defence expended about $75,000 in the first trial, and it is estimated that the total on both sides for the two hearings will foot up nearly $500,000.

CANNING FACTORY BURNED.

Branch of Oshawa Evaporator and Contents at Bowmanville Destroyed.

Bowmanville, Nov. 13.—The branch of the Oshawa Canning Company's evaporatory and works located here was burned last night, the alarm being given at 9 o'clock. The buildings comprise what was formerly the Primitive Church, but was for several years since known as S. J. Hoskins' foundry. It is part of the A. W. Crawford estate, and was under lease to the Oshawa Canning Company. Very little fruit was left in the building, but large quantities of packing cans, boxes, etc. The company suspended operations recently, owing to the failure of the tomato crop this season. The fire had made great headway when discovered, so that the building was gutted and the contents almost entirely destroyed. It was the wildest fire this town has had for some years.

Kaiser Is a Crack Shot.

Sandringham, England, Nov. 13.—Emperor William yesterday proved his prowess as a crack shot. Clad in a light green hunting suit, he kept three loaders busier than they had ever been in their lives. King Edward, the Prince of Wales, Count Wolff-Metternich, the German Ambassador and the other members of the shooting party who accompanied the Emperor are all good shots, but twice as many pheasants fell to Emperor William's gun as to those of the others.

The Dread of an Operation

STARES MANY PILE SUFFERERS IN THE FACE—THE SAFEST AND SUREST CURE IS

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Possibly you are a sufferer from piles and have been disheartened and discouraged because your physician has told you that nothing short of an operation will cure you.

You dread the thought of a surgical operation, for, besides the expense and strain on the nervous system, there is the risk of life itself. It is only a few months since a member of the Ontario Legislature lost his life as the result of an operation for piles. The risk of an operation is too great, and, besides, it is unnecessary.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has frequently cured piles after surgical operations have failed. It is every day curing cases which physicians have stated to be incurable by any treatment short of an operation.

If you could read a few of the letters we receive from persons who have been cured of piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment you would soon be convinced of its wonderful control over this frightfully common disease.

Rev. S. A. Duprau, Methodist minister, Consecon, Prince Edward County, Ont., states: "I was troubled with itching and bleeding piles for years, and they ultimately attained to a very violent form. Large lumps or abscesses formed so that it was with great difficulty and considerable pain that I was able to stoop. At this severe crisis I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but I had little or no faith in it, as I had tried various remedies before and to no purpose.

"Now, imagine how great and joyous was my surprise to find that just the one box cured me, so that the lumps disappeared and also the external swelling. I feel like a different man to-day, and have not the least doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment saved me from a very dangerous and painful operation and many years of suffering. It is with the greatest pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing that Dr. Chase's Ointment has done so much for me. You are at perfect liberty to use this testimonial as you see fit for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

"KING OF THE JEWS."

AN HISTORIC GREEK, LATIN AND HEBREW SUPERSCRIPTION.

ENEMIES ADMIT HIS ROYALTY.

The Three Languages Used to Proclaim Jesus Christ on the Cross of Calvary Testify in Themselves the Universality of His Reign—Intellect, Conquest and Pardoning Love Signified by the Three Tongues.

Entered According to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1902, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The supremacy of Christ in the realms of government, learning and religion is asserted by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage in this sermon on the text Luke xxiii, 38, "And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek and Latin and Hebrew, This is the King of the Jews."

Capital punishment has been in vogue among all nations, both civilized and barbaric. But of all modes of capital punishment, whether by the hangman's noose, or by decapitation, or slow strangulation, or by burning at the stake, the most horrible way for any criminal to die is by the crucifixion mode—that form of public execution which was practised among the Jews. Yet we see Christ as a common criminal, hanging upon the cross and dying by the most intense and agonizing form of suffering, mental and physical.

But though Jesus Christ is dying upon the cross as a common criminal there is one vivid distinction which singles his death out from among all the crucifixions. That exception is the style of the superscription nailed above the cross. It was customary among the Jews to place above the heads of the dying a written statement descriptive of the crimes for which they were being executed. But instead of declaring that Jesus Christ was dying an ignominious death for the sin of murder, or of blasphemy, or of insurrection against the throne of Caesar, the board over the head of Christ had written upon it in three different languages this one striking sentence: "This is the king of the Jews." Even in this degradation, humiliation and death God seems to have so ordered events that the very man who condemned him to death should have acknowledged his royalty, and thus proclaimed to all generations of all times the great purpose for which Christ was born as a babe in Bethlehem of Judaea, for which he lived as a boy in Nazareth, and for which he died upon the cross for the salvation of men.

Let me describe how the three languages—the Greek, the Latin and the Hebrew—which were united in the superscription upon the cross are symbolic of the universality of Christ's reign.

Greek was the language of learning. In that realm our Divine Saviour is king—lord of the intellect, besides being ruler of the heart. He is to be the dominating power in our great universities and institutions of learning as well as in our Christian Endeavor societies and humble meeting houses in the backwoods; he is to be the companion of the scientist, like Henry Drummond, who goes forth into the great temple of nature to find "A Natural Law In the Spiritual World," as well as the companion of David Livingstone, whose greatest ambition was to tell the simple story of the nativity to the ignorant black man living among the African swamps or upon the banks of the Kongo; he is to be the inspiration of Hugh Miller's geological crowbar and Agassiz's laboratory and Isaac Newton's scientific instruments and William Herschel's telescope, as well as the hope of the poor young girl dying in the springtime of youth who accepts him as "the evidence of things not seen." The superscription must be in Greek because Christ has a mission to the learned, the cultured, the refined. The Greek language has always been the symbol of culture and refinement. It is the language of the poet and sculptor and architect and musician and philosopher and statesman; it is the language of intellectuality, because in the time of Christ it was exclusively the tongue of the literati, as the French language during the nineteenth century was the court language of all Europe. So in the Greek superscription written over the cross insymbol Christ seems to say, "The gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ shall successfully appeal to the intellectual man as well as to the ignorant, to the calm, cold, carefully weighing, scientific mind as well as to the impulsive love of the little child."

But though the superscription over the cross had the sentence, "This is the King of the Jews," written in the Greek language, there are thousands and tens of thousands of infidel scoffers who continually sneer at Christ's name and at the word of God. They pretend to think that the religion of the Lord Jesus never appeals to the brain. They assert that the gospel is only a relic of the superstitious and barbaric ages fit only for shallow, effeminate men, sentimental women and sick children. They assert that the Bread of Life is only fit for the one purpose of being rolled up into small, harmless pellets to be fed to invalids to calm their nerves when they are very sick or hopelessly dying. These scoffing infidels seems able to study every science and law, calmly and deliberately and intelligently, and yet are not able to intelligently investigate the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ.

If the Bible does not satisfy the intellect, how can you account for the fact that it has commanded the admiration of the greatest thinkers of the ages? If this book, which acclaims Christ, does not bear the investigation of the mind, how was it that Sir William Jones, the greatest linguistic human being who ever lived, once said in reference to that Bible, "I have carefully and regularly perused the Scriptures and am of the opinion that this book, independent of its divine origin, contains more sublimity, purer morality, more important history and finer strains of eloquence than can be collected from all other books, no matter in what language they may have been written."

If this Bible does not appeal to the brain, how is it that science and revelation, by the statements of the Bible, are daily becoming more and more harmonized? As intelligent men, do you not know that, though the scientists have for centuries been squabbling, these differences are gradually passing away and that science and revelation are coming into closer and more harmonious relations in regard to many things whereon they formerly disagreed? It is only within a few weeks that Professor Sayce, writing on the latest archaeological discoveries, said: "In every case where we can test the Bible story by contemporaneous monuments, the authenticity of which is doubted by no one, we find it confirmed and explained, even in the minutest points." Do you not know, as intelligent men and women, that many recent discoveries of the archaeologists prove that the leaves of the Bible, some of them written 3,000 years ago, are absolutely in accord with scientific facts which are continually being revealed?

That the Bible and modern scientific statements are being more and more harmonized by recent investigations and discoveries is illustrated by an incident which happened some years ago in the city of Philadelphia while I was preaching there. If you ever had any dealings with medical students, you know that there is proportionately more infidelity among them as a class than among any other body of young men. Most of this infidelity, I believe, is caused by the evil influences of the dissecting room. One day, when a medical professor, while lecturing upon the body quoted the well known passage in Job, "I am escaped with the skin of my teeth," a titter of derision ran around the classroom. The college professor raised his hand for silence, and said: "Tut, tut, tut, gentlemen; there is no need for laughing. I am not a minister, nor a son of a minister, nor am I a professing Christian, but I here and now want to state that the more I study that Bible the more it appeals to my intelligence as an inspired book. I am as firmly convinced that the Bible is inspired as was the centurian convinced of the divinity of Christ, when at the foot of the cross he cried out in awe, 'Truly, this man was the son of God.' This very passage just quoted displays a knowledge which could not have been acquired by the man who wrote it in any other way than by revelation. For centuries scientists ridiculed Job's simile about the skin of the teeth. But a few years ago a microscope was invented with such powerful lens that, much to the surprise of the scientists, it was found that Job was right. Over the tooth there is a thin skin, the infinitesimal part of an inch in thickness. Nobody was ever able to see this skin with the naked eye, yet Job saw it in inspiration thousands of years before the microscope was invented." Thus everywhere we find that science and revelation are becoming more and more harmonized. Everywhere we see that Jesus in the Greek superscription is appealing to the brain or to the intellectual part of man as well as to his feelings, or to the sentiments of his heart.

The superscription on the cross was written also in Latin. This implies that Christ will one day be the supreme ruler of the world as well as the king of the intellect and the ruler of the heart. Rome means conquest. In that one word of four letters we have the tramp of the invading legions of a Julius Caesar triumphing over the Gauls or of the Augustan hosts annexing the kingdom of a Cleopatra to the Empire, or we see the gleaming spears of a Scipio driving the mighty Hannibal over the Alps and hurling him back across the seas, or we hear the huge battering rams of a Titus crashing in the gates of the Davidic capital. As England to-day, on account of her great navy and numerous mercantile fleets, is called the "mistress of the seas," so Rome, on account of her great armies and navies, could claim to be ruler of the seas as well as the "mistress of the world." All roads were once supposed to lead to Rome and meet at the foot of Caesar's throne; so all temporal power shall some day render allegiance to the throne of grace.

One night some years ago, after a day spent among the ruined palaces of Rome, I had two visions which brought before my imagination in vivid contrast the beginning and the consummation of Christ's kingdom. In one I saw the helplessness of the few Christians in that great city during the period following the crucifixion; in the other I saw in imagination the time of the millennium, when all peoples shall acclaim Christ Lord of all.

Scene the First.—I was standing in a dark Roman dungeon excavated under another dungeon. It is called Paul's dungeon. There is a little hole in the roof about two feet square. Through this little aperture the prisoner used to be lowered by ropes. Riveted into the stone wall was an iron ring, to which the helpless victim could be chained. The wall of that dungeon, even on that hot summer day, were damp and cold. As I stood there I wanted to place myself as nearly as possible in Paul's position. I bade my guide leave me and take away the light. I wanted to be alone. As the guide left the loneliness became appalling. Even the echoes of the departing footsteps seemed to make those prison walls the more awfully and hopelessly gruesome. As the light disappeared the darkness rushed in and seemed to press my eyeballs like living coals of fire into my throbbing brain. Then in imagination I thought I would see crouching by the iron ring riveted into the wall a little old Jew. His shriveled limbs were drawn up by rheumatism, the result of his prison confinements. His weak eyes were now straining themselves to catch a glimpse of the executioner, who came nearer and nearer to the aperture above, as my guide with the lantern approached the hole. Then in imagination as my guide spoke I seemed to hear the executioner call out in a harsh, cruel voice: "Paul, Paul, come up! Caesar says thou art to die. Come up; come up!" Then the little old Jew answered in a weak though firm voice, "And now I am ready to be offered." The vision was one of the conquest of wrong over right. The vision was that of one of Satan's hirelings triumphing over God's messengers.

Scene the Second.—It is midnoon. I am standing upon the top of the great Coliseum. Before me are crowded together 100,000 men and women, a great mass of humanity, rising tier above tier, and height above height. Yonder sits the emperor, surrounded by his chief military officers and by the members of the famous Senate. There is the place reserved for the vestal virgins. Here are the rooms of the peasants and the middle classes. All the sightseers are flushed and excited. The roses in the young girls' cheeks blush even to a deeper red than the drunken flush on the faces of their intoxicated lords. As the entertainment goes on the bodies of the slain begin to accumulate. Attendants now rush in and drag the bleeding corpses out of the arena. Then the blood soaked sand is sprinkled with precious powders to allay the odor. Now an awning is drawn over the assembly to protect the nobility from the rays of the fiery eastern sun. Now the air is redolent with aromatic perfumes. This is a national holiday. Caesar is celebrating the victories of the Roman armies. Now the arena is flooded with water. The ships float in. There is a naval battle. Now the gladiators cut and slash and wrestle and die.

After awhile even this sport becomes tame. For what are they waiting? They are saving the best until the last. They are now going to let loose the wild beasts upon the Christians. The twilight is coming on. Some of the Christians are bound and fastened to poles and covered with pitch and set afire to make human torches with which to light the dusk. While these flaming torches leap and splutter and play in the centre of the arena are huddled together scores of men and women who are about to die. While the merciless multitudes look on, the doomed Christians all kneel, except one old patriarch with long, white beard, who stands in their midst to lead in prayer. Now the iron gates are swung back. With one mighty leap, a huge lion lands upon the sands. At first the flaming torches blind his eyes and compel him to blink. Then he looks around upon the 200,000 human eyes watching him. Then the starving brute suddenly sees the trembling Christians in the centre of the arena. He squats. His claws begin to work convulsively. He crawls nearer and nearer to his prey. He makes one leap. There's a woman's scream. Then with savage ferocity the African monster drags off the body and begins to munch the bones.

Again the sport grows tame. The people are beginning to disperse; the human torches are going out; darkness is blotting out everything. With folded arms I turn to go down the steps, saying to myself as I go, "Is it not awful that all these Christians should have been slain for nothing; that all this blood should have been uselessly spilt?" But as I soliloquized thus a young girl touches my arm. I turn and look at her. She has a sweet face. She says, "You do not know me!" "No," I answer; "I have never seen you before." "Well," she says, "I know you. I saw you when you read my epitaph this morning in the catacombs. My father and mother were eaten in this massacre, but they are not dead. Come, let me show you something. The Coliseum at this time is deserted." But as the young girl speaks suddenly a strange light appears. The walls of the Coliseum begin to enlarge. They grow so high that they lift themselves above the clouds; they grow so wide that they are larger than two hemispheres. Then this huge Coliseum begins to fill up. Angels and archangels and all the redeemed of heaven fill the galleries. Men and women of all nationalities—white and black and yellow and brown—crowd into the seats which fill the arena.

By the Hebrew superscription nailed to the cross I proclaim a universal pardon and salvation for all sinners. Jesus Christ once said, "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness even so must the Son of Man be lifted up." So to-day I lift high the Hebrew superscription of the cross. I cry out in the words of Revelation, "The Spirit and the Bride say come, and let him that is athirst come and take of the water of life freely." Sinner, to-day, through the atonement as proclaimed in the Hebrew superscription, will you come and worship the Christ of the intellect, the Christ of coming universal domain, and also the Christ who died that we might all have a part in his future rulership?

Would that we might one and all be able to interpret the three superscriptions over the cross in the way that the dying Christians tried to interpret them. The watcher by the bedside heard her mother whisper: "Bring! Bring!" The daughter said to the dying woman, "Mother; what shall I bring?" "Oh," answered the dying woman. "Bring! Bring!" Then the daughter asked again, "But mother, what shall I bring?" "Why," cried the dying woman, "bring forth the royal diadem and crown him Lord of all." May we one and all, by the blood of Jesus Christ, which was shed for sin, crown Christ King of the heart, King of the head and King of the two hemispheres. May we crown him a King of heaven and of earth, even as the superscription over the cross declared in three different languages that Christ was the King of the Jews.

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alterative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation.—Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia. (Signed), T. S. McINTEE.

Contentment may be better than wealth, but the most of us are compelled to jog along without either.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kimloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years, and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The weather this morning would have been grand if it had been cooked slightly.

• • •

Now there is talk of a petition to a certain gentleman, asking him to run for Mayor. Another name is mentioned, but it is likely a petition will be presented asking him not to run.

• • •

Go and see Box and Cox to-night and help along a good cause.

• • •

The worst we see about this weather is that it keeps back operations on the old d.s.b.g.

• • •

Our old friend Cupid is busy these days, and he certainly is being ably seconded by Rev. Dr. Crothers, who is tieing people up at a great rate.

• • •

There is no truth, we understand, in the report that Mr. T. S. Carman has gone to New York to book attractions for the opera house. That temple of Thespis is already on a circuit comprising Consecon, Thrasher's Corners, Shannonville and Belleville. What more could any theatre-goer expect!

• • •

However, people can see a church entertainment and some amateur theatricals once in a while, so matters are not so bad as they might be.

• • •

A New York paper publishes a story which, if true, reflects somewhat on the present Governor-General. Lord Aberdeen, our contemporary says, was a devout Presbyterian, and, in order that he might the more readily attend divine service, built a chapel, at his own expense, at Rideau Hall. Lord Aberdeen went away, leaving, of course, his chapel behind him. Now the Minto household store their bicycles in it. This, as the Rev. Mr. Chadband would say, is "sho-hocking."

• • •

A gentleman resident in this city tells us a suggestive incident. He was in Toronto recently and was walking on Toronto street when he met Hon. Edward Blake. Just after Mr. Blake had passed our informant, a workingman, who was also walking in the opposite direction to the "modern Daniel O'Connell," turned round, pointed at him and said loudly, "There goes a traitor!"

Many lawyers are now gazetted as bankrupts every week in England. Is that a sign of prosperity, poverty or only common sense on the part of the people at large!

• • •

The referendum may carry and it may not. But if it does carry prohibition will not come into force till May, 1904. And that's no joke.

Some interesting figures in regard to coal have come to light through the action of the Kingston City Council, which forwarded to Hon. Mr. Patterson, Minister of Customs, a request for information re the importation of coal into Kingston during the period between May 1st and September 30th, or throughout the duration of the strike. Following was the Minister's statement in reply:

Bituminous coal, 16,592 tons, valued at $39,571. Entered for consumption, 9,512 tons, valued at $19,470. Duty on same $5,041.36.

Bituminous dust, 10,682 tons, valued at $6,294. Entered for consumption, 9,205 tons, valued at $5,606. Duty on same, $1,039.32.

Anthracite coal, 13,623 tons, valued at $53,830. Entered for consumption, 13,623, valued at $53,830. Duty on same, nil.

It will thus be seen that the price per ton of hard coal, taken into Kingston, was a fraction over $3.95, and of soft coal $2.68. In the case of hard coal, the price at the mines has been raised 50c per ton since the above figures were given out,

The difference. A few days ago the Globe announced the unseating of the Conservative M.P.P. in North Norfolk in large black letters, on account of "five acts of corruption." These five acts consisted of paying for teams to carry voters to the polls. On the 12th inst. it announced the unseating of the Liberal M.P.P. for North Grey, on account of a "technical violation of the law," which was of precisely the same character as that of North Norfolk. In the case of the Conservative, it was "corruption," in that of the Liberal it was a "technical" violation of the law. The Globe must think its readers as dishonest as itself. The hide-bounds may swallow such tactics, but honest Liberals must be disgusted with them.

The Montreal Witness says it did its best to keep Mr. Prefontaine out of the Cabinet, but now that he is in it will have to accept the situation. Much against our will we are compelled to follow the lead of The Witness. We tried our best to get Hon. Mr. Hurley into the Cabinet, but now that he is out of it we will also have to accept the situation. Hon. Mr. Hurley seems doomed to plod along on a miserable salary of $2500 a year and travelling expenses, which is at the rate of about a measly dollar per second for all the work he does.

As was predicted, that "only religious daily," the Montreal Witness, after denouncing Mr. Prefontaine as an unrepentent corruptionist, now accepts him, and declares that "Mr. "Prefontaine's services not only to "his party but to his country are "undeniable," and then adds: "Now "that he is in, let us hope that all "misgivings will prove fallacious "and that the new minister, who "is certainly strong and withal "generous of nature, may prove to "be one in whom his country can "confide." Poor "Religious Daily," what a conscience you must have, if any!

Mr. E. G. Sills having resigned the portfolio of Harbor Commissioner, everybody is waiting with bated breath to see who his successor will be. It is not likely, however, that this will cause a National Crisis, like Tarte's resignation did.

FLANNEL SHOULD BE WORN

THIS FABRIC MUCH MORE HEALTHFUL THAN OTHER WOOLLENS.

In England one sees much of the hygienic woollen underwear which is so strongly urged for general adoption, but in this country it is less common. From a sanitary point of view this is a pity, since physicians regard it as a preventive of many forms of disease. It affords the body the greatest protection against cold, heat and dampness with the least obstruction to the body's exhalation. These conditions are instinctively felt to be better fulfilled by woollen than by linen or cotton fabrics. Hence the very general use of flannel garments by athletes and by members of cricket, boating and other sporting clubs, who are called upon to engage in vigorous physical exercise likely to cause profuse perspiration.

As formerly woven, woollen fabrics were objectionable to many, because they irritated the skin and caused discomfort by preventing the proper escape of its exudations. Moreover, they were, as a rule, so heavy as to be intolerable for summer wear. These objectionable features have now been removed, and to make woollen clothing truly sanitary and suitable for all seasons the usual process of weaving woollen fabrics has been materially modified by adopting a method which produces a much less closely woven texture than the ordinary flannel.

The feeling is instinctive, too, that woollen clothing is "hot" in warm weather; that if we wear wool in winter to keep us warm we must wear something different in summer to keep us cool, or be inconsistent in theory and practice. But this is a mistake.

It is obvious to all how a nonconductor of heat—a woollen garment, for instance—prevents the escape of the heat of the body to a colder atmosphere, or the ingress of heat to the body from a warmer atmosphere; a familiar illustration of which is found in the practice of wrapping ourselves in blankets to keep us warm and of wrapping ice in a blanket to keep it cold—to keep the heat in in one case, and not in the other. It may not be so easy to understand why we should clothe a warm body in a blanket to cool it off or keep it cool when the temperature of the surrounding air is in or near equilibrium with it.

The explanation lies in the nature and condition of the body, the woollen fabrics two-fold property of nonconductivity to heat and permeability to moisture at the fabrics outer surface. This evaporation disperses the heat, thus lowering the temperature. This is the reason the soldier keeps his woollen covered canteen wet in hot weather. A wet woollen garment disposes of the surplus heat and leaves the body cool. — Hartford Times.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3.90 to $15.00.

AN UNQUIET SPIRIT.

The Mysterious Light That For Years Haunted Cape Noir.

For many years on Cape Noir, the western point of Maria, a strange light was seen, dancing and moving about in the most unaccountable manner. At one moment it would rise like a column of fire into the air, and at another time it would fall like a meteor. Then it would seem to leap over the point and drop into the sea, afterward appearing again in the same spot on the hillside. The habitants tell this story about it:

In the time of the war for the possession of Canada a French vessel, pursued by an English warship, steered its course into the bay at this point for refuge. A boat was lowered from the side of the richly laden merchantman, and in this thirteen men swiftly rowed to the shore. Their object was to secrete a chest of gold, which they had brought with them. On reaching the point they drew lots to see which of the men should remain to guard the treasure. The one to whom the lot fell was forced to swear a solemn oath, by land and sea, by night and day, by the ruler of the nether world, that he would be faithful to the trust through life, unless relieved by his returning comrades, and even after death would haunt the spot should no one come to take his place, says a writer in the Era.

To secure the fulfillment of this vow his wicked associates then and there put him to death and buried him with the treasure. The ghostly light was supposed to be the spirit of the murdered man, and many persons who, tempted by the hope of recovering the treasure, ventured into the haunted spot fled in terror and told blood curdling stories of the horrible phantoms and frightful sights which they had witnessed. The light is seen no longer. Perhaps some adventurer bolder than the rest succeeded in discovering the gold, carried it off and thus gave rest to the unquiet spirit.

TO CURE CORNS.

A Few Remedies, Cheap and Simple, and Involving No Danger.

When the feet are pressed into tight fitting shoes—high heels make the pressure greater—by adding friction we have a needlelike point formed in the skin, and the greater the pressure the deeper the point will grow. The best preventive remedy known is really to go barefooted, but since this is not considered ethical in civilized life I will give a few simple remedies which may be of some value for the afflicted:

First.—Place on the corn a piece of cold, moist linen folded several times, wrap it up in dry linen, then go to bed. With this treatment the hard epidermis swells up, and after six or eight hours the outer covering of the corn can be removed with a dull knife. When this treatment has been followed for three or four days, a small needlelike growth (the corn) can be extracted without pain or bleeding. By washing the feet often in cold water the tender place will heal rapidly. After getting rid of this corn it is well to wear shoes which are neither too large nor too small so as to avoid excessive pressure or friction.

Second.—In place of the linen a crust of bread soaked in vinegar may be applied.

Third.—The best application is to soak a whole onion twenty-four hours in vinegar, then apply one of the layers of the onion to the corn and keep it in place by a bandage through the night. After repeating this procedure a few times the corn can be removed without any trouble. By either of these simple applications this troublesome agent can be removed without any danger of blood poison and "free of charge."

Refractive Power of the Ruby.

The primitive form of the spinel ruby is like that of the diamond, eight sided, which distinguishes it at once from the oriental stone. The color of the genuine ruby is that of the arterial blood, or pigeon's blood, as it is called. It is extremely hard and after the sapphire is the hardest of the corundums, which renders it difficult to understand why the earth so rarely gives it up. Its tint is as beautiful by artificial light as by day, and its powers of reflection are so great that ancient belief credited it with power of emitting light. The ancients even supposed that it would shine through clothing with undiminished power.

The German Wife's Vacation.

It is a common practice in Berlin for the wife to stay at home when the husband and family go to the seaside. In this way the wife enjoys her own holiday, for there is no housekeeping to be done. She foregathers with friends—"grass widows," like herself—and they take their meals at restaurants, spend their afternoons and evenings at popular places of entertainment and thoroughly enjoy themselves.

Yes, Indeed!

When a man gets tired out and ill, he goes fishing, returning shortly with three wall eyed pike, restored health and a blister on his nose. When a woman feels that way, she hangs around the house and cries if anybody looks at her. It must be lovely to be a man.

Wonderful.

Why do I wear "C.R. Co." rubbers? Because they fit properly and wear better than any other rubber shoe in the market. You cannot afford to be without a pair if you value your health.

Their Fate.

The late Dr. Talmage once called on his lawyer and found two of his parishioners there on legal business of a private nature.

"Ah, doctor," called the lawyer in greeting, "good morning! Here are two of your flock. May I ask without impertinence if you regard them as black sheep or white?"

"I don't know as yet," replied Talmage dryly, "whether they're black or white, but I'm certain that if they remain here long they'll be fleeced."

Very Sad.

"Yes, it's very sad."

"How is that."

"Why, he always held that to train a wife properly you should catch her while she's young. So he did."

"Well?"

"Well, it seems that she had the same idea about a husband, and now there's a crisscross of training ideas that is simply home wrecking."

Why He Objected.

"But, papa," pleaded the millionaire's daughter in behalf of the poor young man she wished to marry, "surely it is no disgrace to work for a living?"

"N-no, my dear—no. What I object to is being the one who is worked for it."

What is the name of the oldest Fire Insurance Co. in the world. The Sun Insurance Office of London, having a surplus over and above capital and every other liability of nearly $8,000,000. The reason that it is the oldest is because it has always acted on the square with those they insured.

What is the name of that Fire Insurance Co. having the largest capital of any purely Am. Fire Co., and able to carry the whole city, noted for its generous adjustments? The Home of New York. Hunt & Jeffers represent both of these companies.

REMARKABKE SUCCESS

OF A NEW CATARRH CURE.

A large and constantly increasing majority of the American people are catarrh sufferers. This is not entirely the result of our changeable climate, but because modern investigation has clearly proven that many diseases, known by other names, are really catarrh. Formerly the name catarrh was applied almost exclusively to the common nasal catarrh, but the throat, stomach, liver, bladder, kidneys and intestines are subject to catarrhal diseases as well as the nasal passages.

In fact, wherever there is mucous membrane there is a feeding ground for catarrh.

The usual remedies, inhalers, sprays, douches or powders, have been practically failures, as far as anything more than temporary relief was concerned, because they simply dry up the mucous secretions, without having the remotest effect upon the blood and liver, which are the real sources of catarrhal diseases.

It has been known for some years that the radical cure of catarrh could never come from local applications, but from an internal remedy, acting on the blood and expelling the catarrhal poison from the system.

A new internal preparation which has been on the market only a short time, has met with remarkable success as a genuine, radical cure for catarrh.

It may be found in any drug store, sold under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, large, pleasant tasting lozenges, composed principally of antiseptic ingredients, Blood Root, Red Gum and similar catarrh specifics.

Dr. Ainslee, in speaking of the new catarrh cure, says: "I have tried the new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, upon thirty or forty patients with remarkable satisfactory results. They clear the head and throat more effectually and lastingly than any douche or inhaler that I have ever seen, and although they are what is called a patent medicine and sold by druggists, I do not hesitate to recommend them, as I know them to be free from cocaine and opiates, and that even a little child may use them with entire safety."

Any sufferer from nasal catarrh, throat or bronchial tube trouble, catarrh of the stomach, liver or bladder will find Stuart's Catarrh Tablets remarkably effective, pleasant and convenient, and your druggist will tell you they are absolutely free from any injurious drug.

Jack Cade's House Sold

The other day there was sold at Heathfield a freehold farm on which still stands the remains of an old stone house that is said to once have been the house of the notorious Jack Cade. Whether or not Jack Cade ever lived there can never be accurately determined, but there can be no disputing the fact that he was killed in that neighborhood.

NO BOON TO THE LANDOWNERS

Oil Operators in Raleigh Township Takes Gushers' Profits.

An Intolerable Situation, Arising Out of Old Canada Company's Reservations, Said to Have Developed in Western Ontario—Definite Test of an Oil Gusher Near Chatham Gives Nearly a Barrel of Oil a Minute.

Chatham, Nov. 12.—A large number of oil experts and operators yesterday afternoon witnessed a definite test of the oil gusher in Raleigh Township. The water was pumped out, and the well at first flush yielded 50 barrels an hour, which, of course, will slacken off considerably.

While at first sight this discovery would seem to be a great boon to the farmers in the neighborhood, such is not the case. Some 70 years ago large tracts of land were granted to the Canada Company for colonization and sale by the Imperial Government. When they re-sold the land they reserved the right to all oil and minerals that might be on the property. The prospectors being aware of this, took the precaution to get leases covering some 4,000 acres from the Canada Company, and now tell the farmers they have nothing to do with the matter and no right to any part of the oil pumped. The farmers are indignant and have got a promise from Mr. Pardo, M.P.P., to place the matter before the Government at once. At present the operators are taking all sorts of liberties. The new well is within 30 feet of a farmer's house, on his lawn, in fact, and his residence has been rendered untenable. Protests are useless for the operators simply point to the leases they have obtained from the Canada Company. The situation is becoming intolerable, and the Government have a nice problem to solve as to the rights of the farmers.

Petrolia's highest grade of oil is 26 degrees gravity, that of this new find is 34, and the best well at the former place yields only four barrels pumped in 24 hours, while the new gusher gives almost a barrel a minute.

DIED ON A HUNTING TRIP.

Dr. Hart Expired Through Bursting of a Blood Vessel.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Dr. J. Moore Hart, 232 Shaw street, expired suddenly on Monday last while out hunting with Dr. Charles Trow and A. E. Trow, barrister, of this city. The remains were brought to Toronto yesterday. The party was encamped about 12 miles overland from Dorsett. On Monday evening the exertion of chopping down a tree for firewood made Dr. Hart feel dizzy. He shortly afterward became unconscious, and later in the evening died. The bursting of a blood vessel in the brain resulted in paralysis, which caused death. Dr. Hart was 51 years of age. He had been in practice 31 years, 22 of which were spent in Cannington, and 9 in Toronto. Dr. J. S. Hart of Parkdale is a cousin of deceased, and Rev. A. B. Chambers, a brother-in-law. The deceased leaves a widow and one son, Garnett, aged 10.

TOBACCO ENQUIRY CONTINUES.

Increases in Number of Firms Signing Exclusive Contracts.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Before the Tobacco Commission yesterday, M. B. Davis, President of the American Tobacco Company of Canada, presented a statement, showing that there had been a large increase in the number of wholesalers, who had signed the exclusive contracts in the last two years. The company tried to introduce evidence to show that such contracts were common in other lines of business, but Judge McTavish thought the scope of the inquiry should not be widened to that extent. Four small manufacturers testified that, since these contracts came into force, their business had either declined or had become unprofitable, by reason of the extra cost of selling, owing to the necessity of employing more travelers, etc.

Toronto, Nov. 13. — The Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of Canada has applied to the Ontario Government for a provincial charter, and it will be granted. The capital of the company is $5,000,000, and the provisional directors, W. G. Green, banker, New York; James Nasmith Greenshields, K.C., Montreal; Walter Barwick, K.C., Toronto; Henry C. WILL HOLD HER COLONIES.

Portugal Will Not Give Up Territory to Germany or Britain.

New York, Nov. 13.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says: With reference to the report of Germany and Britain acquiring Portuguese East Africa, M. de Souza Roza, the Portuguese Minister to France, in an interview said:

"There is not one word of truth in the report, and, believe me, if I consent to make such a categorical declaration it is not because similar reports with regard to the Portuguese colonies deserve a contradiction. On the contrary, they refute themselves. Their very extravagance is sufficient proof of their inaccuracy, but I contradict them emphatically and unreservedly solely for the purpose of putting the public upon their guard, as I am convinced such reports are put into circulation for speculative purposes.

"Portugal has not the slightest intention of parting with her colonial possessions, nor any portion of them, either to Britain or to any other power.

"Furthermore, to prevent any possibility of error or misunderstanding, I may assure you that the British Government has never made any proposition, directly or indirectly, concerning Portuguese territory in Africa."

Johnson Found Guilty.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Last evening the jury in the Johnson conspiracy case, in which the accused was charged with having conspired with certain parties unknown to defraud the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, reached a verdict finding the prisoner guilty with a recommendation to mercy. A number of Canadian Pacific Railway conductors were implicated in the course of the evidence. It is rumored that other arrests may follow. The charges, briefly, are that a number of Canadian Pacific conductors bribed certain employes of the audit office to give advanced information as to the secret checking of trains.

Senor Prinetti is awaiting the receipt of a report from the Italian embassy at Washington before acting in the Mascagni affair.

"Old Grog."

The sailor's word "grog" got its origin from Admiral Vernon of the British navy, who was known as "Old Grog" because his favorite clothing was of grogram, a fabric of silk and mohair. The old sea dog punished his sailors for dereliction of duty by diluting their daily ration of liquor with much water.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

For a moment Wilford's lip was compressed and a flush overspread his face, as drawing her closer to him, he replied, "My little Katy will remember that in my first note I spoke of certain circumstances which had prevented my writing earlier. I do not know that I asked her not to seek to know those circumstances; but I ask it now. Will Katy trust me so far as to believe that all is right between us, and never allude to these circumstances?"

He was kissing her fondly and his voice was so winning that Katy promised, and then came the hardest, the trying to tell her all, as he had said to his mother he would. Twice he essayed to speak, and as often something sealed his lips, until at last he began, "You must not think me perfect, Katy, for I have faults, and perhaps if you knew my past life you would wish to revoke your recent decision and render a different verdict to my suit. Suppose I unfold the blackest leaf for your inspection?"

"No, no, oh no," and Katy playfully stopped his mouth with her hand. "Of course you have some faults, but I would rather find them out myself. I could not hear anything against you now. I am satisfied to take you as you are."

Wilford felt his heart throb wildly with the feeling that he was deceiving the young girl; but if she would not suffer him to tell her, he was not to be censured if she remained in ignorance. And so the golden moment fled, and when he spoke again, he said, "If Katy will not now read the leaf I offered to show her, she must not shrink in horror, if ever it does meet her eye."

"I won't, I promise," Katy answered, a vague feeling of fear creeping over her as to what the reading of that mysterious page involved. But that was soon forgotten, as Wilford, remembering his suspicions of Dr. Grant, thought to probe her a little by asking if she had ever loved any one before himself.

"No, never," she answered. "I never dreamed of such a thing until I saw you, Mr. Cameron;" and Wilford believed the trusting girl, whose loving nature shone in every lineament of her face, upturned to receive the kisses he pressed upon it, resolved within himself to be to her what he ought to be.

"By the way," he continued, "don't call me Mr. Cameron again, as you did just now. I would rather be your Wilford. It sounds more familiar;" and then he told her of his projected tour to Europe, and Katy felt her pulses quicken as she thought of London, Paris and Rome, as places which her plain country eyes might yet look upon. But when it came to their marriage, which Wilford said must be within a few weeks— she demurred, for this arrangement was not in accordance with her desires; and she opposed her lover with all her strength, telling him she was so young, not eighteen till July, and she knew so little of housekeeping. He must let her stay at home until she learned at least the art of making bread!

Poor ignorant Katy! Wilford could not forbear a smile as he thought how different were her views from his, and tried to explain that the art of bread-making, though very desirable in most wives, was not an essential accomplishment for his. Servants would do that; besides he did not intend to have a house of his own at once; he should take her first to live with his mother, where she could learn what was necessary much better than at Silverton.

Wilford Cameron expected to be obeyed in every important matter by the happy person who should be his wife, and as he possessed the faculty of enforcing perfect obedience without seeming to be severe, so he silenced Katy's arguments, and when they left the shadow of the butternut tree, she knew that in all human probability six weeks' time would find her on the broad ocean alone with Wilford Cameron. So perfect was Katy's faith and love, that she had no fear of Wilford now, but as his affianced wife, walked confidently by his side, feeling fully his equal, nor once dreaming how great the disparity his city friends would discover between the fastidious man of fashion, and the unsophisticated country girl. And Wilford did not seek to enlighten her, but suffered her to talk of the delight it would be to live in New York, and how pleasant for mother and Helen to visit her, especially the latter, who would thus have a chance to see something of the world.

"When I get a house of my own, I mean she shall live with me all the while," she said, stooping to gather a tuft of wild blue-bells growing in a marsh spot.

Wilford winced a little, but he would not so soon tear down Katy's castles, and so he merely remarked, as she asked if it would not be nice to have Helen with them—

"Yes, very nice; but do not speak of it to her yet as it will probably be some time before she will come to us."

And so Helen never suspected the honor in store for her as she stood in the doorway, anxiously waiting for her sister, who she feared would take cold from being out so long. Something though in Katy's face made her guess that to her was lost forever, the bright little sister whom she loved so dearly, and fleeing up the narrow stairway to her room, she wept bitterly as she thought of the coming time when she would occupy that room alone, and know that never again would a little golden head lie upon her neck, just as it had lain, for there would be a new love, a new interest between them, a love for the man whose voice she could hear now talking to her mother in the peculiar tone he always assumed when speaking to any one of them excepting Morris or Katy.

"I wish it were not wrong to hate him," she exclaimed passionately; "it would be such a relief; but if he is only kind to Katy, I do not care how much he despises us," and, bathing her face, Helen sat down by her window, wondering if Mr. Cameron took her sister, when it would probably be. "Not this year or more," she said, "for Katy is so young;" but on this point she was soon set right by Katy herself, who, leaving her lover alone with her mother, stole up to tell her sister the good news.

"Yes, I know; I guessed as much when you came back from the meadows," and Helen's voice was very unsteady in its tone as she smoothed the soft rings clustered around her sister's brow.

"Crying, Helen! oh don't. I shall love you just the same and you are coming up to live with us," Katy said, forgetting Wilford's instructions in her desire to comfort Helen, who broke down again, while Katy's tears were mingled with her own.

It was the first time Katy had thought what it would be to leave forever the good, patient sister, who had been so kind, treating her like a petted kitten and standing between her and every hardship.

"Don't cry, Nellie," she said, "New York is not far away, and I shall come so often, that is, after we return from Europe. Did I tell you we are going there first, and Wilford will not wait but says we must be married the 10th of June?—that's his birthday—thirty—and he is telling mother now."

"So soon—oh Katy! and you so young!" was all Helen could say, as with quivering lip she kissed her sister's hand raised to wipe her tears away.

"Yes, it is soon, and I am young; but Wilford is in such a hurry; he don't care," Katy replied, trying to comfort Helen, and begging of her not to cry so hard.

No, Wilford did not care how much he wrung the hearts of Katy's family by taking her from them at once, and by dictating to a certain extent, the way in which he would take her. There must be no invited guests, he said; no lookers-on, except such as choose to go to the church where the ceremony would be performed, and from which place he should go directly to the Boston train. It was his wish, too, that the matter should be kept as quiet as possible, and not be generally discussed in the neighborhood, as he disliked being a subject for gossip. And Mrs. Lennox, to whom this was said, promised compliance with everything, or if she ventured to object she found herself borne down by a stronger will than her own, and weakly yielded, her manner fully testifying to her delight at the honor conferred upon her by this marriage of her child. Wilford knew just how pleased she was, and her obsequious manner annoyed him far more than Helen's blunt straightforwardness, when, after supper was over, she told him how averse she was to taking Kitty so soon, adding still further that if it must be, she saw no harm in inviting a few of their neighbors. It was customary, it would be expected, she said, while Mrs. Lennox, emboldened by Helen's boldness, chimed in, "at least your folks will come; I will be glad to meet your mother."

Wilford was very polite to them both; very good-humored, but he kept to his first position and poor Mrs. Lennox saw fade into airy nothingness all her visions of roasted fowls and frosted cake trimmed with myrtle and flowers, with hosts of the Silverton people there to admire and partake of the marriage feast. It was too bad, and so Aunt Betsy said, when, after Wilford had gone to Linwood, the family sat together around the kitchen stove talking the matter over.

"Yes, it was too bad, when there was that white hen-turkey she could fat up so easy before June, and she knew how to make 'lection cake, that would melt in your mouth and was enough sight better than the black stuff they called weddin' cake. She meant to try what she could do with Mr. Cameron."

PINCHED AND PUNY

South American Nervine is the Antidote for the ills which are induced by humanity's "mad rush" for an existence. The "eat and run" way of living is accountable for more of the pinched and puny faces than any other cause under the sun.

Dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, sick-headache are the prime causes for broken-up nerves. Nature foretold the strain that we would be compelled to live under and has revealed to medical science the favorite formula—South American Nervine—and its daily joy is to put back the bloom of perfect health in the faces of millions who do honest toil. 26

MAKE HOT ATTACK ON MEN

Coal Presidents Say They Work When and as They Please

Mine Operators Declare That the United Mine Workers of America Seeks to Secure Supremacy Over Anthracite and Bituminous Fields—"Fix Their Own Hours of Labor"—Statements to the Strike Commission.

Washington, Nov. 13.—That the anthracite coal mine owners will resist to the utmost every effort to make the recognition of the United Mine Workers of America an issue in the arbitration which is now in progress is made evident by the replies to the statement of President John Mitchell of the miners' organization, which have been filed with the Strike Commission. There are five of these answers in addition to that of President Baer, which was made public Tuesday, and all dwell with much emphasis and marked unanimity on this point. They also agree in contesting the demands of the miners for an increase of pay for piece-work, a reduction of hours for time work, and the weighing rather than the measurement of coal.

Mr. Truesdale's Statement.

The reply of the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Railroad Company to President Mitchell's statement to the anthracite coal strike commission was made public yesterday. It is signed by W. H. Truesdale, president of the company, who says that the company owns 25 anthracite collieries and employs 12,000 workmen in this branch of the business. Mr. Truesdale, like Mr. Baer, objects to making the recognition of the union one of the issues to be considered by the commission, saying that in the proposition made by the company for arbitration one of the express conditions was that "the findings of the commission should govern the conditions of employment between it and its employes."

Will Not Recognize Union.

He adds: "This company unequivocally asserts that it will under no condition recognize or enter into any agreement with the association known as the United Mine Workers of America or any branch thereof. Nor will it permit said association or its officers to dictate the terms and conditions under which it shall conduct its business."

Referring to the recent strike, Mr. Truesdale says that he is reliably informed that eighty per cent. of its employes were opposed to the strike, but were forced to enter upon it by a majority vote of the mine workers in other fields. Mr. Truesdale follows closely the lines of Mr. Baer's argument as to the dissimilarity between the work in the anthracite mines and that in the bituminous mines. He declares that it is impossible to adopt a uniform rate to be paid to the miners for a unit of coal mined at all the mines.

Agitators Responsible.

The declaration is made that the anthracite miners as a rule do not work as many hours a day as do the bituminous miners, and the opinion is advanced that if the wages of the anthracite miners had been less than that of other workingmen they would have found employment elsewhere, which they did not do. On the point of general prosperity, he says that prior to the introduction of agitators and mischief-makers, the anthracite workers were on an average as prosperous, comfortable and contented as any body of workers in similar employment in this country. The wages, it is added, are such that frequently frugal employes have saved a substantial amount every year.

Objects to a Short Day.

Mr. Truesdale resists the demand for a reduction of twenty per cent. in hours of labor, saying that no branch of business employing thousands of men can hope to compete successfully in the markets of the world if its hours of labor are restricted. He declares that there is no unjust discrimination in the weighing of the coal as it is measured rather than weighed, and he asserts that the demand is "out of all reason, and its effect, so far as this company is concerned; is a demand for an additional increase in the wages now paid miners of from 5 to 40 per cent." The present method of measurement is declared to be the result of long usage, and fair to all concerned.

Work Six Hours a Day.

President Olyphant, of the Delaware and Hudson Company, in his reply, declares that the wages paid by his company are just and adequate. He also says that "those of its employes who perform contract or piece-work, as a matter of their own volition, work only about six hours a day, and take numerous holidays without the consent or approval of this respondent, and their earnings by hours of actual work are, therefore, much higher than those in similar employment."

Denial is made of all the allegations relative to the demand for shorter hours, and it is contended that such a reduction necessarily would increase the price of coal. While admitting that the mine-owners sell their coal by the ton, he says that the coal thus sold is a very different article from that taken out of the mine. Hence, he argues against the change from the present system of payment to that of paying by the ton.

Union Would Control Supply.

President Olyphant also takes exception to the proposition to arbitrate the question of the recognition of the Miners' Union. This position is taken on the ground that the organization seeks to control the entire fuel supply of the country; that as the union is unincorporated, it is incapable of making a binding contract, and that the association has not shown its ability to control its own members. He says his company has no desire to discriminate against members of the union.

President T. P. Fowler speaks for the Scranton Coal Company and the Elkhill Coal and Iron Company. He says they own ten collieries and employ five thousand men. He asserts that if the average wage earned by the anthracite piece-workers is less than that paid to workers in other employment, it is because "they fix their own hours of labor and the amount of their earnings without any regard to the interests or wishes of their employers, and in total disregard of the earnings and welfare of every other class of employes."

Four or Five Hours a Day.

He declares that the men in the mines do not work to exceed four or five hours a day. All other charges made by Mr. Mitchell are combatted, and on the question of miners' unions Mr. Fowler said:

"We deny that agreements between employer and employe through workingmen's organizations are beneficial and successful in the bituminous coal fields or elsewhere, and assert that any such agreement as a method of regulating production would be, and is, injurious to the best interests of the public."

FACTS WILL TELL.

Sententious Answer by a Mine Workers' Officer to President Baer.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 13.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers and several members of the Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of the third anthracite district were in session at miners' headquarters yesterday. Later on they were joined by half a dozen attorneys, whom Mr. Mitchell has employed to look after the miners case before the Arbitration Commission. There was a general discussion of the situation. At noon a big delegation of miners from Shamokin arrived in town. After dinner they repaired to the office of a local attorney, where they were examined as to their knowledge of the condition of mining in their region, the wages paid and the cost of living. District President Duffy commenting on President Baer's statement in reply to the one filed by President Mitchell with the commission said: "The time for controversy has now passed. Facts will tell before the commission."

KEEP OUT STANDARD OIL.

British to Be Interpellated About the Burmah Bar.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Upon complaint of representatives of the Standard Oil Company that the English Government has prevented that concern from prospecting in the oil fields of Burmah, Mr. Hay, Secretary of State, has directed Ambassador Choate, at London, to inquire of the British Government the cause.

The Standard Oil Company has through its own representatives made strong representations to the English authorities, both on commercial and international grounds, alleging that they had as much right to prospect as their representatives had to obtain food and clothing in Burmah. These protests, however, have not given forth satisfactory results.

First Yankee Casualties.

Panama, Nov. 13.—The first American casualties as a result of the revolution occurred yesterday. The Bogota (formerly the Jesse Banning of San Francisco), manned by an American crew, commanded by Captain Marmaduke, was waiting to attack two revolutionist schooners which were aground. In the meantime, the revolutionists were discovered in ambush close to the beach, and, when the Bogota's boats pulled ahead, the second time, the rebels opened fire on them, killing the ship's armorer, Richard Kane, of Washington, and wounding George Walker, who was shot through the legs. A seaman named Clark and Lieut. Vasquez were also wounded, but not seriously. The Bogota and Chucuito then opened fire on the enemy, and killed every man in sight.

Fishing Boats Lost.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 13.—The schooner Tasso, laden with fish, sank last night in Trinity Bay. Her crew of nine men were rescued at great risk by the crew of the schooner Nelly. The Tasso was bound for St. John's.

The schooner St. Francis, from Labrador, has been burned at sea. Her crew of seven men escaped in the boats.

The schooner Harvest has been wrecked on the Island of Quirpon, at the entrance of Belle Isle Strait. Her crew of seven men were saved by the coast folk.

Robbed the Chief Constable.

Whitby, Nov. 13.—Burglars have been worrying Whitby with appalling frequency recently, and no less than seven cases have been reported to Chief Constable Calverley. One of the burglaries reported to the Chief was reported by the Chief himself. He took this official action because his own harness shop was entered. James Dawse has been arrested, and some of the property stolen from Calverley's has been traced to him.

Trade Within the Empire.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Sir William Mulock addressed the Ottawa Board of Trade last night on trade with South Africa. He referred to the recent colonial conference, and said that if Britain would give even a small preference the rest of the Empire would fall in line. Sir William said trade within the Empire should be the motto of the hour.

Gives Up His Claim.

Brussels, Nov. 13.—In an inspired note the Etoile Belge yesterday says that the Count of Flanders, brother of King Leopold, has abdicated his claim to the Belgic throne in favor of his son, Prince Albert.

Discharged 30 Telegraphers.

Buffalo, Nov. 13.—A special to The New York Sun says that yesterday the Western Union of Pittsburg discharged thirty telegraphers who were union men.

THEY FATHER CONSUMPTION.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies, because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache, and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. FOOTBALL.

A One-legged Player.

One of the greatest curiosities ever seen on a football gridiron is Benjamin Owen, of Syracuse, who possesses only one leg. Owen plays guard on the O.D.A. team. He appeared in a game at Star Park yesterday. People noticed him hobbling around on crutches before the game, but no one thought he would take part. When the teams lined up he was in his place against the Western Union team, and in every attack was a power, holding his opponent easily. When the ball was taken by his team down the field he went leaping along, keeping up with the fleetest. When the other side got the ball he was right in the centre of the scrimmage. His side finally won the game by a score of 10 to 0.

How He Got the Ball.

"Yer see, it was dis way," began the little fellow in answer to a question as to where he managed to get a football. "dere was 'leven of us, an' we started a team. 'Fore anyone joined dey hadda promus not ter take anything away wid dem when dey quit er got kicked out. I wuz de organizer of de team, so I wuz captun.

"We each trew in some dough, an' got er football, each kid understandin' dat if he got huffy an' quit he dassent have his money back.

"Well, we played awile, an' den Freddie Limrick got a poke in de ribs, an' got mad, an' quit. Den Jimmy Wilson tore his pants and he got a lickin' an' his ma said he dassent play. An' Willie Brown got mad cuz his brother cuddent play, an' Bud Smith had a lot a' candy, an' wouldn't divvy, an' dat's de way it went, till at last, me an' Frankie an' Tommie wuz de only ones left.

"Well, Tommy moved away, an' me an' Frankie didn't know how to divvy it up. Den he went an' got sassy 'bout it, an' I punched his head, an' now de ball's mine, see?"

NEW NAVAL NOMENCLATURE.

(London Chronicle.)

Lord Selbourne, first Lord of the British Admiralty, has decided to abandon the old practice of going to heathen mythology for names of new warships, and in future all vessels will be named after the countries, counties and towns. The names of the two 18,000-ton battleships immediately to be laid down have just been announced. They are New Zealand and Hindostan. They are already among battleships a Dominion, a Commonwealth, a London and an Edinburgh, and it is said that the two new armored cruisers will be named Natal and Newfoundland. The idea of the admiralty, like our own Navy Department, is to interest countries, counties and towns in the ships that bear their names, and by this way to encourage recruiting for the navy. Already sixteen cruisers have been called after various counties.

VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1902 NO. 164

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

A LARGE AUDIENCE GREETED BELLEVILLE'S AMATEURS LAST NIGHT.

The entertainment given in the opera house last night in aid of the Belleville Free Library was an unqualified success, and reflected credit on all who took part. The house was quite full, with the exception of the gallery, and the receipts, after expenses are paid, will make a very welcome addition to the funds of the above popular and well patronized institution. It was estimated that the handsome sum of $125 would remain after expenses were paid.

Well, now, about the entertainment. People were chatting and laughing together for some little time before Mrs. Col. Campbell went down to the piano. Then people stopped talking and listened to Mrs. Campbell, who, for twenty minutes or so played a pot pourri. of popular airs, ranging from "Whistling Rufus" to "The Prison Duet" from "Il Trovatore." At last the bell rang for the curtain to arise, and the audience were looking on the opening scene of

"Box and Cox"

Mr. Cox, a hatter who is engaged to be married, ... Mr. Doyle
Mr. Box, a printer who is deceased .... Mr. Patterson
Mrs. Bouncer, a widow who keeps boarders .... Miss Webster

The old favorite English farce, depicting the troubles of a landlady who rents one room to two persons, one of whom works at night, and the other in the daytime, was put on in a pleasing manner, and the audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy the quaint and witty dialogue and ludicrous situations. All the performers were letter perfect in their parts, and the farce went off smoothly, hearty applause following the fall of the curtain.

Next on the programme was a musical intermission, and the audience had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. A. G. Parker's dulcet light soprano voice in two numbers by Schubert, "Du bist die Ruh," and "Impatience." Mrs. Parker sang with her accustomed excellent taste, and has probably never been heard to greater advantage in this city.

Next came the Hunting Chorus, "John Peel," the solo being taken by Mr. S. Burrows, who in his red coat, yellow breeches and top boots looked a typical English squire. The audience waxed very merry at the appearance of some of the "Fox Hunters," one of whom wore a silk tile of the vintage of 1798. Mr. Burrows took off his top coat to sing. "There's nothing, Bessie," he said to the winsome maid, "like having plenty of room." Then he trolled the old hunting song, the chorus being sung in rousing style. Mr. Burrows' red-coated accomplices were Messrs. "Bobby" Gorman, "Herb" Wrightmyer, and Percy Allen.

It is safe to say that any self-respecting fox would jump at the chance to be hunted by such a quartette. Miss Maggie Keith made an ideal maid, the scene being supposed to represent an old English public house in the 17th century.

The curtain went down and was drawn aside to permit His Worship the Mayor to come before the footlights. Very briefly but gracefully His Worship, as president of the Belleville Library Association, thanked the audience for the large attendance. The profits of the entertainment, he said, would put the Library on Easy St. for the balance of the year, and it had been amply shown, by the phenomenal way the membership had increased lately, since the institution was made practically free, that it was filling a popular need in Belleville. He desired, in the name of the Association and the citizens generally, to thank the ladies and gentlemen who had been instrumental in getting up this very pleasing entertainment. His Worship retired, and the curtain went up on

"The Loan of a Lover."

Captain Amersfort, who understands young ladies ... Mr. W. S. Morden
Peter Spyke, a young farmer who understands boasts.. Mr. J. R. Gorman
Swyzle, Baron Van Rosendaal's Steward, who understands common sense, domestic service and wine, ... Mr. J. J. B. Flint
Delve, the gardener, who understands orange trees and fighting .... Mr. B. Hudson
Ernestine, the Baron's daughter, who understands lovers...... .... Miss Julia Ponton
Gertrude, the Baron's Ward, who has neither lovers nor understanding, but sings .... Mrs. Jas. Grant

The opening scene was a remarkably pretty one, and the audience fairly shouted their appreciation when Mr. J. J. B. Flint and Byron Hudson came on for the opening dialogue. Mr. Flint, with an Alpine hat, a swallow-tailed coat and a pair of breeches which hit him between the knees and ankles, set off by red stockings, was a striking and imposing figure. Anyone who failed to be impressed by his appearance would amply deserve thirty days. Mr. Flint certainly played the part of the scheming old steward in a highly creditable way. Great amusement was created when "Bobby" Gorman came on. His make-up was "out of sight," and he sang and acted with a drollery which pleased the audience hugely. Captain Morden played the part of Captain Amersfort quietly and naturally. Mr. Byron Hudson did what little he had to do in good style. As "Ernestine," the Baron's coquettish daughter, Miss Julia Ponton was very good, indeed, making a charming appearance. As "Gertrude," the girl who never had a sweetheart, Mrs. James Grant filled the role to perfection. She was chic, dainty and thoroughly at home in her part, singing and acting with a sprightliness and vivacity very seldom seen in amateurs. The plot of "The Loan of a Lover" is simple. Ernestine and Captain Amersfort are engaged, but the Captain is driven nearly to distraction by the caprices of his lady-love. Peter Spyke, a young farmer, in search of a wife, cannot see that Gertrude loves him, and stupidly tortures her with questions as to where he will find one. She gives him all sorts of hints, but he fails to take them and goes off, telling her he will invite her to his wedding when it comes off. She sinks down on a rustic bench and is dissolved in tears when Ernestine and the Captain, in the middle of a periodical quarrel, come upon the stage. Ernestine asks Gertrude why she is turning on the water works, and Gertrude acknowledges that she is crying because she never had a lover. The wilful lady at once conceives the idea of punishing the Captain, so commands him, on pain of the fracture of their engagement, to at once, and until further orders, act as Gertrude's lover. The Captain accepts the situation, though at first with a bad grace, and conceives the idea of making seemingly violent love to Gertrude and thus making Ernestine jealous. The stratagem succeeds admirably. The engagement of the Captain and Gertrude is announced, and then Peter and Ernestine suddenly discover that they are violently in love with Gertrude and the Captain respectively. By a stage trick Gertrude gets Ernestine to promise that if the former will give up the Captain she (Ernestine) will marry him, the Captain overhears her and claims the fulfilment of her promise, Peter and Gertrude plight their troth and all ends happily. The piece abounds with tuneful solos, duets and choruses, which were very nicely rendered. The costumes were suitable, and (especially in the cases of the ladies) very becoming, and the whole production worthy of unstinted praise. Mrs. Campbell and Miss McDonald were very efficient accompanists. A repetition of the entire performance would be hailed with pleasure at some date in the near future.

To the ladies and gentlemen who took part in the entertainment too much credit could hardly be given, especially when one considers the worthiness of the object. Especially, we understand, is credit due to Mr. Neil Maclean, for projecting the enterprise, and to Mr. R. J. L. Gorman, who took an infinite amount of trouble with the details.

SENSATION AT QUEEN VICTORIA SCHOOL

YOUTHFUL CIGARETTE SMOKERS CAUSE PERTURBATION TO THEIR TEACHERS.

We are informed that a decided sensation developed at Queen Victoria School this morning at recess, when about a dozen, more or less, of the pupils, were discovered in the act of smoking cigarettes. The teachers, we are told, held a meeting to consider what should be done in the matter, and as to what decision they arrived at deponent sayeth not.

It is likely the matter will be investigated. It is a pity the people who sell the cigarettes to minors could not be found out and severely punished.

Our reporter this afternoon saw Mr. S. A. Gardner, principal of Queen Victoria School, who refused to either affirm or deny the report, saying the matter would be brought before the Board of Education.

Some of the other teachers say they have the names of four parties who sell cigarettes to minors.

In one room of the school, we were told by a teacher, there was but one boy who did not smoke cigarettes. Another lady teacher said she had 23 boys in her room, and out of these ten are addicted to cigarettes. One boy, 10 years of age, has been smoking for four years.

The matter will probably be brought up at to-night's meeting of the Board of Education.

A REGRETTABLE CASE

MANAGEMENT OF D. AND D. INSTITUTION CONFRONTED BY A QUEER PROBLEM.

(Canadian Mute.)

With regard to the reception of the pupils at the Institution we have had some strange experiences, but an incident that occurred a few days ago was decidedly unique in its way. A gentleman brought his two deaf daughters from Sault Ste. Marie to begin a course here. The two girls, one of whom is twenty-one years old and the other fifteen, are very bright looking, but were entirely uneducated, and they gave every evidence of delight at the idea of remaining here. The father, however, who is a Christian Scientist and a very nice man generally, refused to let them stay unless the Superintendent would promise not to allow them to receive medicine or medical treatment if they became sick or were thought to be ill by the authorities of the Institution. This, of course, could not be conceded. He was informed in the most kindly manner that if they at any time required medical treatment and nursing they would have the best of both. Every possible argument, based on parental duty and responsibility, was advanced to induce the gentleman to change his mind, but he said it was a matter of conscience and conviction with him and he could and would not leave the girls here except on the conditions above indicated. The case is a very regrettable one. The father, however, was so deeply impressed by his responsibility in the premises and the great desirability of his daughters securing an education, which has been too long delayed, that he intends to try to secure a private tutor for them. Cases have been known where parents were reluctant to place their children in the hands of strangers for fear that they would not be well taken care of, but this is the first time anyone has been unwilling to send their children here for fear that they would be too well cared for.

A LETTER FROM FAR OFF PORTO RICO

WRITTEN BY A LADY WHO HAS MANY RELATIVES IN THIS COUNTY — AN EQUABLE CLIMATE.

The following letter, which will be read with interest, has been handed to us for publication. The writer, Miss Wood, was sent to Manati, Porto Rico, by the Christian Alliance (interdenominational), and has many relatives in this county, one of them, a cousin, Mrs. A. P. Ellsworth, residing in this city. The letter follows:

Manati, Porto Rico,
Sept. 4, 1902.

Dear Cousin,— According to promise I will write you of our new mission field and work. First, let me answer some questions that have already been asked me in letters.

San Juan is some 300 miles from where the volcanic disturbances were, 1384 miles from New York, its population 3400. Our town of Manati is 27 miles west from the capital; two and a half hours ride on the train. It is over 100 years old with 4900 inhabitants. It has a few good buildings after the Spanish style, but the majority of them are small low buildings with thatched roofs, the sides are of packing boxes white-washed on the inside. Our own house is a large frame building, two-storey, painted yellow on the outside. On the ground floor is our mission hall, a drug store and one family, on the second lives the family who owns the building, and Mr. and Mrs. Droste and I occupy the other half of the same floor. On our left is a new R. C. convent. They have one large church in this and in each of the neighboring towns. Manati has seven different schools.

The climate is good. Now in the hottest weather mercury does not register more than 93 degrees, and in the coolest not less than 65 degrees. A Scotch gentleman, who has lived in Arecibo for fifty years, said to me, "This is the healthiest climate in the world." There are between 150 and 200 varieties of fruit on the island. The country looks green and beautiful now. The pretty palm trees and sugar cane are in evidence everywhere. As to insects we have abundance of mosquitoes, fleas, ants, flies, cock-roaches, jiggers and spiders, etc., and occasionally centipedes and scorpions are seen. Bats, mice and rats have troubled us most in our home, but we are gradually disposing of them. We find the natives very kind and hospitable, and peaceable among themselves. There is a great deal of poverty in the country places, labor is hard to find and wages are cheap. Will you believe it? The poor people bury their dead here sometimes without any coffin, not even a rough-box. GOOD water is scarce here. We buy ours at a cent a tin and hire a man at 75 cents a month for carrying it. Our home consists of five large rooms and a hall. We can easily find room for more missionaries, which we trust may soon join us. The furniture which we brought with us makes it look homelike, and comfortable. We are all well at present, happy in the Lord and busy for Him. Let me tell you what we are doing.

When not occupied with housekeeping responsibilities Mr. and Mrs. Droste are occupied with the study of the language. By the assistance of a cook for the former and a native teacher for the latter, they are progressing nicely. The work allotted to me is the spiritual oversight of the home, to conduct a Sunday School in Manati, to visit and receive visitors. Every Wednesday at 1.30 a.m. I take the train going east for Vega Baja, a half an hour's ride. There I have a good long morning visit; and in the afternoon I hold a meeting in our hall, then return home on the 4.30 train. Senor Ortiz the ex-priest, goes and holds another meeting in the evening. About 100 attend and souls are saved every week. On Thursday mornings I take a fifteen minutes ride on the train to Barceloneta, west of here, where Senor Ortiz and family live; there also I visit and hold a meeting and return home on the afternoon train. I have only visited these three towns yet; want to go soon on horse-back to Palmas Altas and Ciales meetings. Sr. Ortiz also holds meetings in Morovis and Vega Alta, the attendance is large everywhere, sometimes as many as 250 crowd around to hear the gospel. We have three churches organized already. We have four native preachers, many of the Christians are active workers too, cottage meeting are held almost every night in each town when there are no public services. Forty have professed conversion since our arrival six weeks ago. The churches are largely self-supporting. I am unable to give statistics yet of the numerous conversions, baptisms and marriages that there have been since the beginning. I will have to wait until my next to tell you of some of the interesting incidents and details of our work. I make about 25 visits a week, and receive as many more in our home, besides. Senor Ortiz and the native helpers make a great many more, and yet there are thousands in our district who have never heard the pure gospel. "Who will come over and help us?" May the Lord of the harvest speedily thrust forth many. Yours in Christ.

An Old Orangeman Dead

Cobourg Sentinel-Star: On Tuesday one of the old landmarks of the town passed away at the Home in the person of Isaac Crozier, Sr. The deceased was born in Ireland, and had he lived until the 21st of June next, he would have been 93 years of age. He came to this country when a young man. He was married and had one son, James, who died when he was 19 years of age, and was buried in the Old Kirk cemetery here. He was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, and for a number of years was sexton of the present church. He was a prominent Orangeman, and at the time of the last Orange walk here he had to be helped to the route of the procession to see it pass, and his Orange sash was buried with him. He has had three strokes of paralysis during the past three years, and since that time he has been unable to be about. He was only confined to his bed about three weeks, and had a stroke about a week ago. He leaves no immediate relatives in this country except a niece, Mrs. Thos. Chisholm. Two grand nephews, Mrs. Hugh and Isaac Crozier, also survive him, and have supported him during his declining years. He has been in the Home since its opening, seven years ago, and has been well cared for by the matron, Mrs. Jas. Barr. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon to the Union cemetery.

A Hallow'een Drama

(Canadian Mute.)

On Hallowe'en night the boys in Belleville played many tricks. Our Mr. Ingram heard some boys near his home, and he slipped out and stood in the shadow of the house. A woman who lived in the next house, saw him and thinking he was a bad boy, she ran and caught him and shook him and said he ought to be ashamed to hang around woman's homes to steal their gates. He told her who he was and asked who she was shoving; she apologized.

THE CRITICAL TIME OF LIFE

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigor is to take Ferrozone after meals. THE LENNOX ELECTION.

The cross petition in the Lennox election trial contains some serious charges against the Liberal party, including the Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary. Among the 137 cases of alleged bribery and corruption laid at the door of the "Machine," is one against Mr. Stratton of having furnished money to corrupt the electors, and one against a Mr. Sutherland, who was sent to the Riding, for having taught some of the Deputy-Returning Officers how to switch ballots, etc. If these charges are proven, a good trade learned in the penitentiary would be the best recompense that could be given to the traitor or traitors who so utilized their political education in political rascality. If they cannot be sustained they should not have been made.

MR. PREFONTAINE'S APPOINTMENT.

Following are some press opinions regarding the appointment of Hon. Raymond Prefontaine to the Portfolio of Marine and Fisheries:

Montreal Star.

Sir Wilfrid has chosen him in defiance of the open protests of the local organs of the party and in spite of a very vigorous cabal against his nominee.

• • •

Toronto Mail.

The choice of Mr. Prefontaine will astonish and disappoint Liberals who hoped for reform, although we may be sure it will receive the hearty approval of mechanical organs, such as the Toronto Globe. Mr. Prefontaine's appointment, the paper adds, is a challenge by Sir Wilfrid to the man who has been deposed.

• • •

Toronto World.

"The significance of Mr. Prefontaine's elevation to the Cabinet," the World continues, "is in its bearing on Mr. Tarte's dismissal. If they cannot be called rivals, they were certainly enemies for a number of years, and Mr. Tarte was sufficiently strong in the Cabinet to burk a great many propositions of Mr. Prefontaine's either for the city of Montreal or the private companies in which he is interested. Mr. Tarte will, therefore, keenly feel the elevation of his enemy. So far he has not publicly broken with Sir Wilfrid, and he may not choose to say much as yet concerning the elevation of Mr. Prefontaine. But he will ponder things deep in his heart.

• • •

Evening Telegram.

Liberalism has fallen on evil days if the great prizes of politics in Ontario and Quebec are to go to Mr. Prefontaine and Mr. Sutherland. Quebec Liberalism has developed Mr. Prefontaine. Ontario Liberalism has merely tolerated Mr. Sutherland in the minor position to which he has been raised by the accident of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's favor.

• • •

Ottawa Citizen.

Never has a Minister of the Crown been introduced to the public by an organ of his own party with such a damning commentary on his fitness for a public trust. It leaves nothing to be added by even his most virulent political opponents and holds out little hope of harmony in the province, which is supposed to be placated by his selection.

• • •

Quebec Mercury.

This is the paper lately acquired by Mr. Tarte. Its utterances may therefore be accepted as those of the ex-Minister. It says:

Concerning the merits of those appointments, we have nothing to say. Both gentlemen are the choice of the Premier, who in such matters, assumes the whole responsibility for the selection of the gentlemen he wishes to have associated with him in the Government of the country.

• • •

Sir Wilfrid, in the selection of his new colleague, has shown little regard for the opinions of leading members of his party. He defied them when he took Tarte to his bosom. He has done so now. He knows his men, they will eat humble pie and fall into line.

People all over town are talking about the business we are doing. That's good. A SOURCE OF SURPRISE

TO PHYSICIANS AND PATIENT ALIKE.

Dr. Redmond, a specialist, in the study and treatment of piles and rectal diseases, recently stated that the Pyramid Pile Cure, the new discovery for the cure of piles, was the most remarkable remedy he had ever seen or tried in one respect; and that was the instant relief experienced in all cases, no matter how severe, from the moment the remedy was applied; this was the more surprising to him, because he had carefully analyzed the preparation and no trace of opium, cocaine or similar poison could be detected.

Physicians look with great favor upon the Pyramid Pile Cure, because it is rapidly taking the place of surgical operations and because it is so simple, so easily applied, and contains no mineral or other poisons so commonly used in pile cures.

Dr. Esterbrook reports that the Pyramid Pile Cure not only cures the various forms of piles, but never fails to give "immediate" relief on the first application, no matter how severe the pain or discomfort may be.

People who have suffered from piles for years are often astonished at the instant relief experienced from the first application. Another important advantage is the fact that anyone can use the remedy without detention from business or interference with daily occupation.

Mr. J. W. Rollins, of Sweet Springs, Mo., writes; "I consider the Pyramid Pile Cure without an equal; it cured me in less than 30 days. I waited 15 days or more to be sure I was fully cured before writing you; I can now say I "am cured" and I shall recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure at every possible opportunity because it "deserves it."

The popularity of this remedy is such, that all druggists now sell it at fifty cents a package, and its sales exceed those of all similar remedies combined.

Write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on cause and cure of piles.

THE BALKY HORSE.

A Little Trick That, It Is Said, Will Start Him Every Time.

For the benefit of those who have been caused a great deal of anxiety by a balky horse, lost trains as well as tempers and sometimes even ruined the horse, the next time they have the experience to run across a balky horse, no matter how bad he is, let me tell you how to start him ninety-nine times out of a hundred.

Of course it may fail one time in a hundred. When a horse balks, no matter how badly he sulks or how ugly he is, do not beat him. Don't throw sand in his ears, don't use a rope on his fore legs or even burn straw under him. Quietly go and pat him on the head a moment. Take a hammer or even pick up a stone in the street, tell the driver to sit still, take his lines, hold them quietly while you lift up either front foot, give each nail a light tap and a good smart tap on the frog, drop the foot quickly and then chirp to him to go. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the horse will go right on about his business, but the driver must keep his lines taut and not pull or jerk him back.

If I have tried this once, I have tried it 500 times, and every time I have suggested it people have laughed and even bet $5 and bottles of wine that I could not do it. So far I have won every bet. This may make you smile, but a horse has more common sense than most people are willing to give him credit for. The secret of this little trick is simply diversion. I am a firm believer that with kindness and proper treatment a horse can be driven with a string.

SETTLERS FOR NEW ONTARIO

Proposal to Bring in 12,000 Families From United States.

Want 2,000,000 Acres of Good Agricultural Land, and Will Be Satisfied With the Usual Conditions of Settlement That Obtain Under Ontario Laws—Will Furnish Homes, Etc., and Take Chances of Making Any Money.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—"Our proposal is to locate not less than 12,000 families, which would average about 50,000 persons, in the district of New Ontario. They would be English-speaking, white, able to read and write, and in possession of a certificate of good character."

The speaker was J. F. Egan of Rock Island, Ill., who, with Judge W. H. Utt, has had several conferences with Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, and Thomas Southworth, Director of Colonization, in connection with a big immigration scheme.

Two Million Acres Needed.

"Our country believes itself," continued Mr. Egan, last night, "to be in a position to furnish settlers of the best class, principally from the United States. We are not asking the Government for any land grants or for any special privileges or concessions whatever. We are asking simply for the privilege of locating desirable settlers in Ontario, subject to the usual Crown Lands regulations. The 12,000 families we expect to be able to secure for Ontario will come from various parts of the United States, and we will locate them wherever the Government allots land. It would require about 2,000,000 acres, and we do not ask for any particular location, nor do we wish to purchase any land. We simply specify that the land shall be suitable for agricultural purposes. The company, I might say, is fully financed, and no stock is for sale. It is already organized, with a capital at present of $1,000,000, and it will probably be increased from time to time, as found necessary."

It is understood Mr. Egan is to be president and general manager, and Judge Utt, who is with him, is chief counsel of the syndicate, though he also represents some of the financial interests.

Will Furnish Homes.

"The company has extensive arrangements to make, but it is well under way. We propose to take full charge of the settler from the time he leaves his home to take up his new residence in Ontario. We will supply him, when necessary, with stock, seed, agricultural implements, and even build his house for him."

"How does your company expect to make anything out of the scheme?" Mr. Egan was further asked.

The reply was, "We will do all the worrying necessary along that line, and live to find a satisfactory answer to the question. If we lose anything, we are the only ones who will suffer."

For Municipal Ownership.

New York, Nov. 14.—Public utilities in England have proved their value to the municipalities owning them. Thomas Dee, of Darlington, England, told all about the experience of his town at the Waldorf yesterday. "For the last six years Darlington has owned its own gas, water and telephone systems, garbage plant and other utilities, and the net profit has been $550,000. The tax rate on each family is reduced to $7.50. Other cities in England have profited likewise. I do not regard municipal ownership as prejudicial to public good because it is on the socialistic program, nor do I think it is a source of political corruption because it employs an army of city help."

Narrow Escape of Two Men.

Orillia, Nov. 14.—Frank McPherson, junior member of the firm of C. McPherson, and William Ritchie had a miraculous escape from death while lowering some heavy machinery from the first floor to the cellar. The hoist broke after about a ton had been put upon it, and Mr. McPherson was pinned down by the machinery. Mr. Ritchie had a bad fall, and his arm was injured by flying splinters. His legs were also badly affected by the drop. Mr. McPherson's injuries consist of a broken rib and wounds on the face. He is getting along well.

May Die From Injuries.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Nov. 14.—Walter Follett of Niagara, about 35 years of age, was left in charge of J. Abbott's team at Niagara wharf. While sitting in the wagon he fainted, and the team ran away, throwing him to the bottom of the wagon, face down. The team ran over a number of deep ditches, ending up at a farm about a mile and a half from town. Follett was badly cut up and bruised, and the fear is that he is injured internally.

Stabbing at a Party.

Nelson, B.C., Nov. 14.—A serious stabbing affray took place in a Slav house at Michel, where an impromptu birthday party was being held by a dozen men. Eight men are thought to have taken part in the melee, three of whom were badly cut about the arms and shoulders with knives.

Loan of B.C. Province.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 14.—The British Columbia Government has floated a loan in London of three and a half million dollars. The Finance Minister received a cable Wednesday night announcing that the loan had been underwritten at 92 per cent.

Four Workmen Killed.

Lebanon, Pa., Nov. 14.—Four workmen were killed and a large number severely injured late yesterday afternoon by the explosion of a boiler at the American Iron and Steel Works in this city.

Every Woman Should Know.

That Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, has recently made a number of analyses of soaps, and reports that "Sunlight Soap contains that high "percentage of oils or fats necessary "to a good laundry soap."

What every woman does not know is that in common soaps she frequently pays for adulterations at the price of oils and fats. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will see that Prof. Ellis is right. He should know. 206

Federal Seats Vacant.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—There are at present six seats vacant in the House of Commons, and writs have been issued for bye-elections in three of these. Maisonneuve becomes vacant by Mr. Prefontaine accepting a portfolio. This would be sufficient to throw open Terrebonne, for which Mr. Prefontaine was also elected, but it is in the courts. Mr. Ethier has been unseated in Two Mountains, and the death of Dr. Christie threw open Argenteuil. The appointment of Mr. Flint to the Clerkship of the Commons, has thrown open Yarmouth, N. S., and the sad death by accident of Dr. Horsey has left North Grey without a representative. The writs for three constituencies have been issued.

For the Victoria Memorial.

London, Nov. 14.—In acknowledging the final installment of $75,000 contributed by people in the United States towards the Queen Victoria Memorial Fund, Lord Mayor Samuel yesterday wrote to Chairman Van Duser of the American Committee as follows:

"The liberality shown by your countrymen is a practical demonstration of the regard and esteem entertained for Her Majesty in the United States. The generous tribute will touch the hearts of the English people."

Get Out Altogether.

Shanghai, Nov. 13.—Unusually strong articles are appearing in the Chinese newspapers, declaring that by the withdrawal of the British troops from Shanghai to Wei-Hai-Wei and the withdrawal of the German troops from here to Tsing-Tau (Kiao-Chou), the independence of the Yang-Tse-Valley is still menaced. The Chinese want the British and Germans to get out of China together. The papers add that a conflict between Germany and Great Britain is inevitable.

Will Sir Wilfrid Resign?

Montreal, Nov. 14.—A politician who is intimate with both Mr. Prefontaine and Mr. Tarte, declares that Mr. Tarte did not leave the Cabinet because of constitutional irregularities, but because he had no use for Mr. Fielding, who has been chosen by his colleagues as the successor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He also states that the regrettable ill-health of Sir Wilfrid will force the Premier to resign the reigns of office before the end of next session.

Blows Over Dual Language.

Vienna, Nov. 14.—The sitting yesterday of the Lower House of the Austrian Reichsrath was suspended on account of the German and Czech members coming to blows. The cause of the trouble was a debate on the advisability of the use of the two languages in the names of stations on the Bohemian railroads.

A Critical Time in Woman's Life

THE WONDERFUL BENEFIT TO BE OBTAINED BY THE USE OF

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

When you meet with pale, weak women who complain of lack of vigor and vitality and suffer more or less in a feminine way you can be almost sure that they did not have proper care at that critical period in their lives, when the functions of womanhood were developing.

These physiological changes usually take place when girls are bending every effort to succeed in their school work, and are depriving themselves of the outdoor exercise, rest and sleep, which is so important at this time, in order to keep up good health in the face of the strain which is put upon the whole system.

When your daughter gets pale and listless, seems to lose interest in her surroundings, and suffers with stomach pains and headache, you may be sure that her nerve force is being exhausted more rapidly than is being created, and that her nerves and body generally are crying out for more blood—for rich, pure, life-sustaining blood.

As a treatment for growing girls, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has the highest endorsement of all who have tested its virtues. It is successful because it actually forms new, red corpuscles in the blood—increasing the quantity of the blood—and creates new nerve force. Blood and nervous force are consumed at a tremendous rate during this trying time, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food keeps the supply in excess of the demand.

Miss N. Bone, 29 Alexander street, Belleville, Ont., states:—

"For some time past I have been troubled with nervousness, which was probably due to close confinement at school, and as a result of the nerves being affected I was often quite dizzy. After having taken a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I can say that I am completely restored to health. This preparation seemed to have an upbuilding effect on my system and I am no longer bothered with dizzy spells."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Aggravatingly Peculiar.

Up in the mill district of Kensington it is the custom for employees to contribute so much per capita each week to a fund for providing soap, towels, ice water, shoe blacking, etc., one of the number in each mill being appointed to take charge of the purchasing and distributing of supplies. A young Celt has had this duty in one of the mills for some months. One evening after the whistle had blown for the stopping of work for the day a grimy machinist found a very damp and unlovely towel after he had reached the wash sink.

"Say, Reddy," he called to the custodian, "this is the limit to ask a man to wipe on."

"Don't yez be so airish!" retorted Reddy. "Fifty or sixty just as good as ye have wolped on it already, and yez is the first to complain."

A Historic Tree.

The oak tree under whose branches Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas held a political debate in 1858 is still standing in Bloomington, Ill. It appears to be centuries old. In 1858 the tree marked an inclosure then known as Henshaw's pasture, a former public meeting place. George Henshaw, the owner, was a Democrat. He arranged to have the debate there, being an admirer of Douglas. The two candidates for United States senator had engaged in a series of debates, and the one held in Bloomington attracted voters from far and near. A platform for the candidates was constructed directly under the boughs of this old oak. Its shade protected the audience as well as the speakers.

Birds and the Woman.

City Belle—I hope your stay in our city will not be short, Mr. De Science.

Mr. De Science (member of the Ornithologists' union)—Thank you, but my sojourn must be brief. I am here attending the ornithological convention at the Museum of Natural History, and the session will soon be over.

"What kind of a convention did you say?"

"Ornithological—about birds, you know."

"Oh, yes, yes. How stupid of me! Do you think they will be worn much next season?"

The Craze, "Mirror Madness."

Mirrors, according to the designers of modern buildings, are becoming ubiquitous. They are importuned to find room for them in vestibules, stairways, pillars and even floors and roofs. Cars and elevators are no longer considered complete without them, and any little unoccupied bit of space is supposed to be suitable for their insertion. "Mirror madness" is the name given this new craze, and there are many speculations as to its probable effect on the personal appearance of the generation afflicted with it.

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Do not live near a pious fool.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kimloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years, and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Congratulations to Belleville's amateurs, who last night gave a large audience a pleasant evening's entertainment.

• • •

Nothing better, in the way of amateur theatricals, has been seen in Belleville for many a long day.

• • •

The audience trembled once, though. They thought sure that Swysle was going to give Peter Spyke six months.

• • •

The progressive people of dear old Kingston are agitating for the abolition of their tollgates, something which was done in Belleville over 30 years ago.

• • •

Hon. Mr. Tarte had to leave the Cabinet because he advocated protection, and now the new Cabinet minister, Hon. Mr. Prefontaine, says he is in favor of protection. Queer state of affairs!

BOYS WANTED

(Ottawa Free Press.)

The St. Thomas Times calls attention to the fact that there is a dearth of boys in that town. Every store on the principal street has, it says, been placarded for a month without obtaining the desired commodity. St. Thomas is not alone in its dilemma. But while localities may be short of boys it is a reproach to the province that it seems to lack mothers.

• • •

It seems superfluous for young John Rockefeller to tell his Sunday school class that "a man's true worth is not measured by the money he makes." John's pa is a shining example.

• • •

Whether the Council will abolish the Water Commissioners or not remains to be seen, but a motion to abolish the Belleville Board of Trade would be quite out of order, for that body seems to be as dead as a doornail already.

• • •

Since the people of Kingston saw the coal figures, as furnished by the Minister of Customs, they are beginning to shout for a municipal coal yard.

• • •

It is stated in Toronto that stock speculators in the Queen City lost a million dollars in the recent slump in stocks. And there are others.

• • •

The new Minister of Marine gets the following bouquet from the Grit Toronto Star, which evidently has little love for the new minister: "Mr. Prefontaine will inspect the St. Lawrence. If he approves of it the river will keep on running."

• • •

The opera house was so full last night that even the Ross majority could not have got a seat downstairs.

• • •

Will the Board of Education to-night, decide to grant the teachers' request that the Christmas promotion exams be abolished, or will they sidestep it? Or will the Board lack a quorum? There are three momentous questions for you. We sincerely hope, in the interests of local educational matters, that the request of the teachers will be granted.

• • •

Tarte was unceremoniously dismissed from the Cabinet as a punishment for having openly advocated the principle of protection. Prefontaine, who succeeds him, in his first speech to the electors after being sworn in, is equally outspoken, and reaffirms his protectionist principles as advocated in 1896, adding: "The Government will render justice to the legitimate industries of the country and the manufacturers whenever the occasion presents itself." This assurance will, if it be not uttered to humbug the electors, be gratifying to every protectionist and especially to every Conservative who fought for the principle while all the Liberal leaders in Canada were denouncing it.

• • •

People, however, will ask why was Tarte kicked out for advocating a principle which his successor affirms to be correct? Has the Government, finding the country solid upon the question, changed front? For the good of the country it is to be hoped they have.

• • •

A telegram from Ottawa to the Montreal Star of the 12th inst. says:

"It is current gossip in Ottawa that Lieut.-Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., was recommended for promotion to the Colonelcy, but that the recommendation was vetoed in a prominent quarter wholly outside of the Government."

It would be interesting to learn where that "prominent quarter" exists. We know of no such "quarter," other than the Governor-General. Are the volunteers to understand that the Minister shirks the responsibility by throwing the "veto" upon His Excellency? Lieut.-Col. Hughes may have his eccentricities, but there are few men who have been in the volunteer force deserving of more consideration than Sam Hughes.

• • •

The Montreal Star is sarcastically cruel in its reference to that "only religious daily's" somersault, when it says:

"Our esteemed contemporary, the Witness, executed a most graceful crawl on the occasion of Mr. Prefontaine's entrance to the Cabinet. The other kickers will fall into line in time, but the Witness will always enjoy the proud distinction of having been the first to get down on to its pious old marrow-bones to hail the rising sun. Last night's editorial was enough to bring tears to the eyes of a potato. The Honorable Raymond could never have realized how good he was until he read that article. But on the other hand, he could never have realized how bad he was until he read the preceding articles on the same subject."

Why, dear Star, this exhibition of weather-cockism is nothing new. It relieves its "religious" conscience by denouncing wrong, then falls into line, and becomes a worshipper of what a few days before it declared to be all that's bad; then boastingly revels in the thought that it's the "religious daily" of Canada.

• • •

La Patrie, Tarte's paper, says Blair is soon to leave the Government on account of ill health. Others say he is going to create a Board of Railway Commissioners, and accept the Chairmanship, which will give him a good comfortable "sit" for life. They are all providing for themselves, why should not he?

• • •

In the meantime Mr. Tarte is master of Quebec.—Hamilton Spectator.

And Quebec is master of the political situation.—Ottawa Citizen.

If any have any doubt about it, let them read Prefontaine's speech explaining the conditions upon which he accepted office.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, high priestess of the Christian Scientists, has issued an edict that in future none of the U.S. healers must treat infectious and contagious diseases. According to latter-day theories, that will leave them very few to practise on. Perhaps the fewer the better.

Most people will think, judging by the hysterics of the local Grit organ whenever Mayor Graham's name is mentioned, that it would be a very excellent thing for this city to have him in the Mayor's chair again next year.

• • •

No doubt the Water Commissioners are trembling in their boots just now, wondering whether the Aldermen have made up their minds to abolish them or not.

• • •

If the Government would spend a little more money inside the Post Office, instead of outside, there might not be so many complaints about the inefficiency of the service.

• • •

The following incident took place in front of the Post office this morning: Three citizens, one of whom was a Grit, were referring to the taking down of the scaffolding around the building when one remarked that before this was done the large blank free stons in front might have been embellished with the figures of the postmaster and ex-Chairman of the Harbor Commissioners. The Grit friend said there would not be room for them. To this, one of the other gentlemen replied there would be lots of room for the whole Dominion Cabinet if their bodily presence was no larger than their mental calibre.

The Grit moved off, not in the best of humor.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness of any kind, first thing get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25c.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3.90 to $15.00.

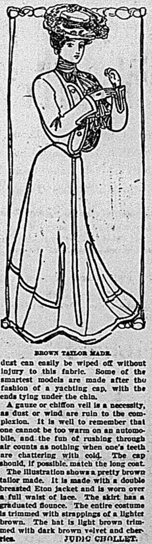
USEFUL COSTUMES.

What to Wear When Automobiling—Street Costume.

Very chic costumes are being made for automobile wear. The most useful have skirts that clear the ground a couple of inches. With these suits a flannel waist is a necessity, and over this should be worn one of two long coats, a light one lined with silk or a heavier one lined with serviceable fur.

The prettiest hats for automobile wear are made of glace silk, for the dust can easily be wiped off without injury to this fabric. Some of the smartest models are made after the fashion of a yachting cap, with the ends tying under the chin.



BROWN TAILOR MADE.

A gauze or chiffon veil is a necessity, as dust or wind are ruin to the complexion. It is well to remember that one cannot be too warm on an automobile, and the fun of rushing through air counts as nothing when one's teeth are chattering with cold. The cap should, if possible, match the long coat.

The illustration shows a pretty brown tailor made. It is made with a double breasted Eton jacket and is worn over a full waist of lace. The skirt has a graduated flounce. The entire costume is trimmed with strappings of a lighter brown. The hat is light brown trimmed with dark brown velvet and cherries. JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Defiance Cold-Blast Lanterns

THEY FATHER CONSUMPTION.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies, because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache, and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. ONTARIO VS. QUEBEC.

Premier Ross Pleased—Thinks It Is an Important Victory.

London, Nov. 14.—An important victory for the province is the decision in Ontario v. Quebec. The effect of it is to affirm the award of the arbitrators in favor of Ontario in the action of Quebec to make the Province of Ontario account for the outstanding balances due by settlers to the Common School Fund and uncollected on Dec. 31, 1892. They amount to $500,000. The arbitrators held that Ontario was not under any liability to account for these outstanding balances due and uncollected at the close of 1892. The Supreme Court reversed their decision, but now the Privy Council reverse the Supreme Court and agree with the arbitrators.

Mr. Rainville came out squarely in favor of a readjustment of provincial subsidies. Quebec, he said, should be made by Hon. Mr. Prefontaine and his friends the first province in the Confederation, or they could not carry on the affairs of the province very much longer. Quebec, he said, must have more money.

READY FOR WAR OF TARIFFS

Germany Shows Fight in the Reichstag on Thursday.

That Body, by a Vote of 192 to 72, Authorizes the Government to Retaliate on Any Country Discriminating Against German Goods—Dr. Bruer, National Liberal, Asserts Germany Will Gain More by Showing Its Teeth.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—The Reichstag yesterday adopted by 192 to 71 votes the paragraph of the new tariff bill authorizing the Government to retaliate on any country discriminating against German goods. The agrarians openly affirmed that it was necessary to arm the Government with weapons for reprisals especially against the United States' customs practices.

Dr. Bruer, National Liberal, related an instance in which he said $200,000 worth of enameled goods were ordered in Germany for New York, but the speaker asserted the customs officials "changed the classification at the instance of the American trust, whereupon the New York importers cancelled the order."

He continued: "It is stated that we must not offend the United States but they will respect us more, and we shall gain more, by showing our teeth than by always giving pleasant words."

Herr Gotbein, Radical Liberal, replied that such words were no fitting epilogue to the sentiments expressed by Count Posadowsky, the Home Secretary, in the presence of the Foreign Secretary, Baron von Richthoff, at Ambassador White's farewell dinner.

"They will make discord," he continued, "among the wishes spoken there for friendly relations with the United States. Why empower the Government to do something it does not want to do? Although the present Government might not apply the paragraph, some succeeding Government might commit such a folly. Retaliatory duties are weapons of chauvinism and not patriotism.

Herr Finchback, Radical, said all the chambers of commerce were opposed to a tariff war with the United States.

Herr Broemel, Radical, remarked that if Germany adopted retaliatory measures against the United States on account of regulations which applied to the goods of all countries it would be a serious breach of the existing treaties.

The Associated Press is authorized to announce that the ministry has not decided to drop the tariff bill, as published in London, but is determined to persist until the dissolution of the Reichstag in June.

Kind Words Mean Much.

Cultivate kindness of heart, think well of your fellow men, look with charity upon the shortcomings in their lives. Do a good turn for them as opportunity offers, and, finally, don't forget the kind word at the right time. How much a word of kindness, encouragement or appreciation means to others sometimes and how little it costs us to give it!

We do not need to wait for some special occasion. When calamity overtakes a friend, words of sympathy and encouragement are offered sincerely enough, yet in certain respects, as a matter of course. Such an occasion calls for expression on our part, and we naturally respond. But why wait for occasion? Why not speak the kind word when there is no special occasion?

AN EASY WAY

TO KEEP WELL.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary, I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

My physician first advised me to use them, because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized pkgs. at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars' worth of good.

FROG POISONED IN COURT.

To Show Jury How a Person Dies From Strychnine.

Camden, N. J., Nov. 14.—A frog was poisoned in court yesterday to show a jury the agonies of a human being dying from being poisoned with strychnine. Paul Woodward, who is alleged to have lured two boys, Brice Jennings and Paul Coffin, from this city into the woods and having caused their death with strychnine, was on trial, and Prof. Marshall of the University of Pennsylvania, was testifying. He took some of the poison extracted from the liver of the Coffin boy, it is alleged, and forced it into a live frog. The jury and all others in court became intensely interested. In a few minutes the frog went into convulsions. The professor explained the action of the drug as the writhing frog exhibited all the agonies that Coffin had suffered as he died. The experiment caused a sensation in the court-room.

Has Respect For Competition.

Montreal, Nov. 14.— Sir William Macdonald, the largest and oldest of Canadian tobacco manufacturers, was before the tobacco inquiry yesterday morning. He is not directly interested, as the investigation is into methods of handling Canadian tobacco. He deals only in foreign. He told the commission some interesting things regarding the business. He did not believe in putting a Canadian duty in competition with a tropical climate in the production of tobacco. He said he had never gone into the trade agreement plan, as he had an instinctive repugnance to restrictions. He has been popularly supposed to be secure from competition. Sir William evinced the greatest respect for competition.

It is reported that a large area in Jamaica will be planted with cotton next season.

Wasting Away.

Lack of fat in the food is the beginning of a wasting condition. So many people that we meet are thin and keep getting thinner. Perhaps there are some in your own family. Look for the cause and it is more than likely you will find that such people do not eat the fatty portions of their food. They either will not or cannot eat fat, and yet it is the absence of this element in their ordinary food that causes a wasting condition.

For such people we offer Scott's Emulsion as containing in the most palatable and easily digested form the element of fat they need. It supplies, and more than supplies, the lack of fat in ordinary food. A small quantity (a teaspoonful for a child and a tablespoonful for an adult three times a day) will enable the body to get the strength and proper fat supply that it needs.

Scott's Emulsion is cod liver oil so prepared that all of it is utilized by the system. Raw cod liver oil is not only repulsive to the taste but only a part of it is taken into the system the weakened organs being unable to digest it all.

The emulsion passes almost immediately through the stomach and into the blood. The stomach is scarcely aware of its presence there. It shows itself first in the nourishment it affords and the new strength that it gives. The weight gradually increases and the flesh becomes firmer. It is the return to health; the stopping of the wasting condition. Scott's Emulsion has supplied the elements of fat that the body needed.

It is not a question of how much you eat or can eat or even of appetite. It is rather what becomes of the food. Does it contain the proper nourishment and the right proportion of fat? If the food does you no good it does you harm, for digestion is work, and when the body is in a wasting condition the stomach must work to some purpose. Scott's Emulsion saves a great deal of this work, and what is more makes it effectual.

We place on every package of Scott's Emulsion our trade mark label of a man with a big fish on his back. It is our personal guarantee that the emulsion is right in every respect. If this label is missing you are not getting the genuine Scott's Emulsion, which means that you are not getting the full value of the oil or the kind of a preparation you need.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

And next morning when he came again she did try, holding out as inducements why he should be married the night before starting for Boston, the "white hen-turkey, the 'lection cake, and the gay old times the young folks would have playing snap-and-catchem; or if they had a mind, they could dance a bit in the kitchen. She didn't believe in it, to be sure—none of the Orthodox did; but as Wilford was a 'Piscopal, and that was a 'Piscopal quirk, it wouldn't harm for once."

Wilford tried not to show his disgust, and only Helen suspected how hard it was for him to keep down his utter contempt. She saw it in his eyes, which resembled two smouldering volcanoes as they rested upon Aunt Betsy during her harangue.

"Thank you, madam, for your good intentions, but I think we will dispense with the turkey and the cake," was all he said, though he did smile at the old lady's definition of dancing, which for once she might allow.

Even Morris, when appealed to, decided with Wilford against Mrs. Lennox and Aunt Betsy, knowing how unequal he was to the task which would devolve on him in case of a bridal party at the farm-house. In comparative silence he heard from Wilford of his engagement, offering no objections when told how soon the marriage would take place, but congratulating him so quietly, that if Wilford had retained a feeling of jealousy, it would have disappeared; Morris was so seemingly indifferent to everything except Katy's happiness. But Wilford did not observe closely, and failed to detect the hopeless look in Morris's eyes, or the whiteness which settled about his mouth as he fulfilled the duties of host and sought to entertain his guest. Those were dark hours for Morris Grant, and he was glad when at the end of the second day Wilford's visit expired, and he saw him driven from Linwood round to the farm-house, where he would say his parting words to Katy and then go back to New York.

CHAPTER VIII.

"MISS HELEN LENNOX, Silverton, Mass."

This was the superscription of a letter, postmarked New York, and brought to Helen within a week after Wilford's departure. It was his handwriting, too; and wondering what he could have written to her, Helen broke the seal, starting as there dropped into her lap a check for five hundred dollars.

"What does it mean?" she said, her cheek flashing with anger and insulted pride as she read the following brief lines:

"New York, May 8th.

"Miss Helen Lennox: Please pardon the liberty I have taken in inclosing the sum of $500 to be used by you in procuring whatever Katy may need for present necessities. Presuming that the country seamstresses have not the best facilities for obtaining the latest fashions, my mother proposes sending out her own private dressmaker, Mrs. Ryan. You may look for her the last of the week.

"Yours truly, Wilford Cameron."

It would be impossible to describe Helen's indigation as she read this letter, which roused her to a pitch of anger such as Wilford Cameron had never imagined when he wrote the offensive lines. He had really no intention of insulting her. On the contrary, the gift of money was kindly meant, for he knew that Uncle Ephraim was poor, while the part referring to the dressmaker was wholly his mother's proposition, to which he had acceded, knowing how much confidence Juno had in her taste, and that whatever she might see at the farm-house would remain secret with her, or at most be confided to the ears of his mother and sisters. He wished Katy to look well, and foolishly fancying that no country artiste could make her look so, he consented to Mrs. Ryan's going, never dreaming of the effect it would have upon Helen, whose first impulse was to throw the check into the fire. Her second, however, was soberer. She would not destroy it, nor tell any one she had it, but Morris—he should know the whole. Accordingly, she repaired to Linwood, finding Morris at home, and startling him with the vehemence of her anger, as she explained the nature of her errand.

"If I disliked Wilford Cameron before, I hate him now. Yes, I hate him," she said, stamping her little foot in fury.

"Why, Helen!" Morris exclaimed, laying his hand reprovingly on her shoulder; "is this the right spirit for one who professes better things? Stop a moment and think."

"I know it is wrong," Helen answered, "but somehow since he came after Katy, I have grown so hard, so wicked toward Mr. Cameron. He seems so proud, so unapproachable. Say, Cousin Morris, do you think him a good man, that is, good enough for Katy?"

"Most people would call him too good for her," Morris replied. "And in a worldly point of view she is doing well. Cameron, I believe, is better than three-fourths of the men who marry our girls. He is very proud; but that results from his education and training. Looking only from a New York standpoint he misjudges country people, but he will appreciate you by and by. Do not begin by hating him so cordially."

"Yes, but this money. Now, Morris, we do not want him to get Katy's outfit. I would rather go without clothes my whole life. Shall I send it back?"

"I think that the best disposition to make of it," Morris replied. "As your brother, I can and will supply Katy's needs."

"I knew you would, Morris. And I'll send it to-day, in time to keep that dreadful Mrs. Ryan from coming; for I won't have any of Wilford Cameron's dressmakers in the house."

Morris could not help smiling at Helen's energetic manner, as she hurried to his library and taking his pen wrote to Wilford Cameron as follows:

Silverton, May 9th, 18—

Mr. Wilford Cameron:—I give you credit for the kindest of motives, in sending the check which I now return to you, with my compliments. We are not as poor as you suppose, and would almost deem it sacrilege to let another than ourselves provide for Katy so long as she is ours." And furthermore, Mrs. Ryan's services will not be needed, so it is not worth her while to make a journey here for nothing. Yours,

Helen Lennox.

Helen felt better after this letter had gone, wondering often how it would be received, and if Wilford would be angry. She hoped he would, and his mother, too. "The idea of sending that Ryan woman to us, as if we did not know anything!" and here Helen's lip curled scornfully as she thus denounced the Ryan woman, whose trunk was packed with paper patterns and devices of various kinds when the letter arrived, saying she was not needed. Being a woman of a few words, she quietly unpacked her patterns and went back to the work she was engaged upon when Mrs. Camerkn proposed her going into the country. Juno, on the contrary, flew into a violent passion to think their first friendly advances should be thus received. Bell laughed immoderately, saying she liked Helen Lennox's spirit, and wished her brother had chosen her instead of the other, who, she presumed, was a milk and water thing, even if Mrs. Woodhull did extol her so highly. Mrs. Cameron felt the rebuke keenly, wincing under it, and saying that Helen Lennox must be a very rude, ill-bred girl," and hoping her son would draw the line of division between his wife and her family so tightly that her sister could never pass over it. She had received the news of her son's engagement without opposition, for she knew the time for that was past. Wilford would marry Katy Lennox, and she must make the best of it, so she offered no remonstrance, but, when they were alone, she said to him. "Did you tell her? Does she know it all?"

"No mother," and the old look of pain came back into Wilford's face. "I meant to do so, and I actually began, but she stopped me short, saying she did not wish to hear my faults. She would rather find them out herself. Away from her it was very easy to think what I will do, but when the trial comes, I find it hard, we have kept it so long; but I shall tell her yet; not till after we are married, though, and I have made her love me even more than she does now. She will not mind it then. I shall take her where I first met Genevra, and there will I tell her. Is that right?"

"Yes, if you think so," Mrs Cameron replied.

Whatever it was which Wilford had to tell Katy Lennox, it was very evident, that he and his mother looked at it differently, he regarded it as a duty he owed to Katy not to conceal from her what might possibly influence her decision, while his mother only wished the secret told in hopes that it would prevent the marriage; but now that Wilford had deferred it till after the marriage, she saw no reason why it need be told at all. At least Wilford could do as he thought best, and she changed the conversation from Genevra to Helen's letter which had so upset her plans. That her future daughter-in-law was handsome, she did not doubt, but she, of course, had no manner, no style, and as a means of improving her in the latter respect, and making her presentable at the posed sending out Ryan; but that altar and in Boston, she had pro-project had failed, and Helen Lennox did not stand very high in the Cameron family, though Wilford in his heart felt an increased respect for her independent spirit, notwithstanding that she had thwarted his designs.

"I have another idea," Mrs. Cameron said to her daughters that afternoon, when talking with them on the subject. "Wilford tells me Katy and Bell are about the same size and figure, and Ryan shall make up a traveling suit proper for the occasion. Of course there will be no one at the wedding for whom we care, but in Boston, at the Revere, it will be different. Cousin Harvey boards there, and she is very stylish. I saw some elegant gray poplins, of the finest lustre, at Stewart's yesterday afternoon. Suppose we drive down this afternoon."

This was said to Juno as the more fashionable one of the sisters, but Bell answered quickly, "Poplin, mother, on Katy?" It will not become her style, I am sure, though suitable for many. If I am to be fitted, I shall say a word about the fabric, Get a little checked silk, as expensive as you like. It will suit her better than a heavy poplin."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Soldiers as Automatons.

To convert a man physically into an imitation of a machine is, we know, no difficult task. Long distance athletes clearly prove this. Soldiers, again, afford instances. During the last army manoeuvres of one country, a batch of foot soldiers was specially trained for long distance marching. After traveling a prodigious number of miles they were commanded to halt and fire, says Cassell's Magazine. Not one man could bring his rifle to his shoulder and take aim. Yet at the word "March!" all of them, tottering and unsteady as they were, started promptly to limp on again. They could not perform a fresh action, but their marching had become automatic.

Circulation of Bank Notes Said to Be Too Meagre.

Bankers' Association President Clouston, in His Annual Address, Gives Some Interesting Facts and Figures of Canadian Trade and the Effect of Our Recent Enormous Trade Growth on the Circulating Medium of the Country.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The Canadian Bankers' Association yesterday closed its annual meeting in Toronto. Most of the members succeeded in getting away on the evening train. President Clouston did not attend the final meeting on account of illness. The officers were elected at the morning session.

Wheat and Circulation.

The most interesting feature of the business of the day was the receipt of a communication from the Winnipeg sub-section of the Canadian Bankers' Association, detailing the business situation and general conditions in Western Canada, as understood by the bankers of Winnipeg and the surrounding section. The communication was addressed to the president and members of the association and was dated Nov. 6. The statement explained that the currency circulation proposition was becoming a serious one, in view of the vast movement of grain and the requirements for the breaking of new wheat land in the Western States and Territories. The statement calls especial attention to the volume of the present cereal movement and the necessity for funds to handle same.

President Clouston's Address.

President Clouston read his annual address. After a reference to the bountiful harvest and the satisfactory manner in which the grain has been moved he plunges into the financial position of the banks.

Bank Assets Doubled.

The assets of Canadian banks now total the large sum of $610,928,000. A year ago they were $553,900,000. Ten years ago they were only $291,600,000. We have more than doubled the volume of our business in a single decade. That the last twelve months have been profitable to us the fact that surplus earnings, the Rest Account, has risen from $36,903,000 to $41,130,000, bears convincing witness. Note circulation is a measure of the activity of a country's business. Ten years ago a bank circulation of $34,000,000 was found adequate for the requirements of Canadian trade; a year ago $56,000,000 sufficed, while to-day the margin available on the amount of the banks are authorized to circulate must be exceedingly small.

Canada's Foreign Trade.

Our foreign trade amounted to $414,000,000, as compared with $377,000,000 the preceding year, and $230,000,000 ten years before. Agricultural and dairy products must ever constitute the largest part of our export trade, but it is significant of our growing industrial importance that in the year recently ended we sold to other countries manufactures to the extent of $18,500,000, or about $2,500,000 more than in the preceding twelve months.

Note Circulation of Banks.

The president then refers to the question of circulation. The banks have pretty nearly reached their limit of note circulation as fixed by the Bank Act, namely, the paid-up capital, and the question was whether some modification of the act should not be asked for. He says no radical change in the fundamental principles of our currency system should be undertaken. He believed that any legislation looking to the provision of easy facilities for inflating the currency will weaken the stability of the banks and tend to impair the system, which has been established.

The president continues: It has been suggested that banks be permitted to issue circulation to the extent of their paid-up capital and their reserve fund, or a portion of it. What guarantee is there that a reserve fund is a concrete asset? A weak management may exaggerate it, and we know assets have shrunk to the appraisement of new management. There is also the loss of the double liability which attaches to capital stock. Banking legislation is not framed for the circumstances of the moment, but is supposed to be founded on fixed and sound principles of finance, applicable to periods of stress and strain, as well as prosperity.

A Possible Remedy.

To base circulation on a rest account would be a departure, and would weaken our currency system. Viewing the fact that the banking capital during the last twenty-five years has practically remained stationary, the remedy seems simple. If we do not choose to adopt it, then it should always be possible in emergencies to obtain notes from the Government by deposit of gold or Dominion notes, but this does away with the elasticity of the system, and if indulged in to any great extent will inevitably lead to periods of aggravated financial stringency, such as are not uncommon with our neighbors across the line. The opening of branches in hitherto unoccupied districts in the Northwest (by facilitating the deposit of currency) will relieve the tension to some degree, but if Canada advances, as we hope and expect she will, I am afraid it is only a question of time when we may be brought face to face with the same condition of affairs again.

French Strike Peters Out.

Paris, Nov. 14.—The general coal miners' strike has practically come to an end, although many of the men are still holding out. About two-thirds of the strikers have already returned to work at the mines. The miners' congress now being held at Lens has voted in favor of the resumption of work. A few isolated dynamite outrages are reported from various points in the strike region, but the damage done was slight and of a purely material character.

Double-Headed Preference.

London, Nov. 14.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in the House of Commons yesterday denied that the Bond-Hay convention prohibited Newfoundland from according preferential duties to its Mother Country and her colonies. But, he admitted, that if such preferences were made, it would also, by the terms of the convention, apply to the chief imports from the United States.

Dublin, Nov. 14.—After four trials before different courts David O'Keefe, a shopkeeper of Tallow, County of Waterford, has obtained a verdict, with damages of $27,500, against ten local leaders of the United Irish League, whom he sued for damages because of injury to his business resulting from their incitement to boy-

VISITED BY FIRE.

$70,000 Fire at Charlottetown, P.E.I.—Fire at Belleville.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Nov. 14.—This city was visited yesterday by a $70,000 fire, the most serious one for many years. The large brick structure, owned by Walsh & Owen, and occupied by the firm and other merchants, was destroyed with its contents. The Riley tobacco factory was burned and Reardon's wholesale grocery was badly damaged, besides minor losses being sustained by other firms.

Belleville, Nov. 14.—Fire was discovered at an early hour yesterday morning in the storehouse of the Belleville Hardware Company, and before it was extinguished $1,500 damages was done.

Within an Inch of Death.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Nov. 14—Mrs. Helen Costello of Buffalo was rescued from the brink of the American falls yesterday by employes of the State Reservation. The woman, who had attempted suicide, was seen clinging to a submerged log at a point a few feet below the Goat Island bridge. A noose was fitted about the body of John Marshall, a reservation employe, and he was lowered into the washing waters. He succeeded in reaching the woman's side, and placed a rope about her waist.

CHEQUES RETURNED TO CONTRACTORS AND PROJECT MAY BE DROPPED.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—There does not seem to be any likelihood of a commencement being made this year with the Canadian branch of the Royal mint, for which a site has been selected on Nepean Point, and it is even said the project may be dropped altogether. Tenders were called for some weeks ago, but all the cheques have been returned to the contractors. Mr. Bourque, of Hull, was the lowest tenderer, and he is naturally disappointed that the contract was not awarded to him.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING

SHERRY-LEVERTON NUPTIALS ON THURSDAY EVENING, NOV. 13

On Thursday evening one of those happy, but at the same time solemn, events, which make the hearts of the fair sex flutter, and which means so much for the weal or woe of the two most interested persons, took place at the pleasant home of Mr. Jno. Leverton, near Shannonville. About seven o'clock Miss Maude Leverton, leaving on her father's arm, entered the spacious drawing-room and found waiting one ready to make very serious promises to her. There, before God and the assembled company, according to the stately ritual of the Church of England, Mr. Edward S. Sherry and Ella Maude Leverton were made man and wife.

The bride looked very sweet and charming in her bridal dress, which the writer has not the gift to describe. Miss Emma Leverton, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Edward Porter as best man. The Rev. A. L. Geen, of Belleville, was the officiating clergyman. After congratulations, the company sat down to a bounteous feast, which was thoroughly enjoyed. The supper being ended, and also the kind utterances concerning the newly wedded, all adjourned to the drawing-room, where pleasant converse and sweet music made the evening very enjoyable. The bride was the recipient of many and valuable presents. Mr. and Mrs. Sherry will reside near Thomasburg.

We understand that a meeting of those interested in hockey was recently held and a club formed, Mr. Harry Burrell being appointed manager. There is no doubt that, from the large number of good players connected with the club, it will furnish Belleville people with some lively games this winter.

A Rink for Picton.

Mr. Wellington Boulter, ex-Mayor of Picton, was in town to-day, with his son Frank, and Mr. F. Wright, architect, looking over the skating rink here. Mr. Boulter is an enthusiastic admirer of hockey and is going to build an up-to-date covered rink at Picton, with curling rink attached. He thinks the boys there will give a good account of themselves in the coming hockey matches this winter.

CHRIST CHURCH CHOIR ENTERTAINED

PLEASANT FUNCTION IN ALBERTA HALL LAST NIGHT.

The members of the choir of Christ Church were last evening entertained by the ladies and officials of that church and it proved to be an entertaining and profitable evening. The affair took place in the Alberta Block, the tables being laid in the banqueting hall adjoining the A. O. U. W. lodge room. As was remarked by all, the spread provided was all that could have been desired.

The chair was occupied by the genial Rector, Rev. W. B. Heeney, who was in every respect a model chairman. At his right and left sat the officials of the church. After due justice had been done to the good things provided the following toast list was proposed and responded to.

"The King and Empire."—Responded to most appropriately by Mr. Walter Alford.

Song—"His Majesty the King," by Miss Annie Vandewaters.

"The Church."—Responded to by Mr. Joseph Lutton

Duet—"Johnny Canuck's the Lad," by Masters Stanley Littlewood and Eddie Henthorn.

"The Choir,"—This toast was proposed by Ald. Cooper, and the responses by Prof. Willmott and Mr. George Henthorn were all that could have been desired.

Song—"Rallying Round the Flag," Mr. Geo. Littlewood.

"Our Guests."—Mr. Chas. Symons proposed the toast in a neat speech, and Mr. Packard responded.

Duet—"Rip Van Winkle," by Masters Russell Bell and Bruce Bottum.

"The Ladies."—Mr. Wm. Rodbourne, in a nice manner, proposed the toast, and Mr. Fred Palos replied and also gave an amusing recitation

"The Boys."—Mr. William Mills proposed this toast and Master J. Buchanan, one of the smallest boys in the choir, responded in a most creditable way.

Song—Mr. Ed. Henthorn.

"The Chairman."—Mr. Walter Alford proposed this toast, which was heartily received and the Rector replied at some length, in a beautifully worded address.

The singing of the doxology brought the pleasant and successful evening to a close.

Do not confine your children to your own learning, for they were born in another time.

VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1902 NO. 165

PEOPLE WILL VOTE ON FREE LIBRARY

Aldermen Last Night Decided to Submit the Matter to the Ratepayers.

Street Railway Poles to be Removed from Our Principal Thoroughfare.

Harbor Commissioners Refuse to Bear Expense of Necessary Work on Culverts.

At the meeting of the civic committees last night a number of matters of some importance were discussed.

Ald. Sulman was the only absentee.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Ald. Panter, Chairman, presided.

The accounts passed were:

Pay Sheet No. 23	$152.75
Belleville Pottery Co.	4.32
Mac Machine Co.	4.60
Walker Foundry Co.	21.85
C. C. Leavens	7.00
C. P. Holton	7.30
J. W. Walker	19.80
J. W. Walker	34.46

A discussion took place in reference to placing planks in front of the culverts on the roadway to the park.

The Mayor said the Harbor Commissioners would not pay for the same.

Ald. Sinclair thought that if it proved to be a benefit to the residents on the east side of the harbor it should be done.

Ald. Pope said that Mr. Sills, one of the Commissioners, had refused to do anything. The work should certainly be done.

The Mayor moved that the planks be put in and the account sent to the Harbor Commissioners.—Carried.

The Street Surveyor presented a detailed statement of the cost of the John street sewer and the granolithic walk on the south side of Bridge St.

A communication was read, signed by a number of ratepayers residing on Geddes street, asking that a drain on the east side of the street be cleaned out.

The Mayor moved that the prayer of the petition be granted, if the cost does not exceed $3.—Carried.

Ald. Panter said some of the street crossings were in a dilapidated condition, and he was besieged daily with people making complaints.

Mayor Graham said the frost would soon remedy the defects.

A drain on the corner of Queen street and Bleecker avenue was ordered to be cleaned out at a cost not to exceed $125.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Ald. McFee, Chairman, presided over this committee.

The accounts passed were:

Trenton Electric Light Co.	$333.66
Gas Company	11.70
Gas Company	8.10
Bell Telephone Co.	37.00

Ald. McFee called attention to a large quantity of lumber which was piled up in rear of Mr. Wm. Thompson's residence, on Pinnacle street. It was a menace to the residents in that vicinity. He desired to know if there was a law in reference to its being piled there. If a fire should occur there it might prove very serious.

MARKET AND CITY PROPERTY.

The accounts passed were:

Gas Company	$60.45
Work on Market	5.50
Bell Telephone Co.	12.50
J. Cornelius	35.00

The Mayor asked if anything had been done in reference to putting the lavatory in the market building.

Ald. Wills said the matter was being looked into.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Ald. Chown, Chairman, presided.

The accounts passed by the other committees were endorsed, and the following additional accounts passed:

G. Perry	$1.75
Norwich Union Insurance Co.	3.75

The petition of Mrs. Mary McDermid, for remission of taxes, was considered.

Ald. Chown stated he had looked into the matter and the woman was exceedingly poor, and if the land was sold the money so derived would keep her this winter.

A motion prevailed that no action be taken in the matter.

The account of the Victoria Industrial School for $53 for taking care of a lad named Powell was again brought up.

The Mayor said he understood that Mr. Powell intended to pay it, and he should do so.

Ald. McFee—"Is there no way of getting the boy out?"

Ald. Wills—"There might be by a petition."

The Mayor moved that the account be paid and a petition be presented asking for the boy's release.—Carried.

A detailed report from the W.C.A. was presented, showing what had been expended for the hospital for the past year.

A motion prevailed that the report be received and filed.

The Public Library.

The petition in reference to a by-law being submitted for the city taking over the Library and making it public was discussed.

Ald. Sinclair asked what it would cost to run it.

The Mayor—"At least $750 per annum."

Ald. Pope thought it would cost from $1,200 to $1,500 a year to conduct it properly.

The matter was finally disposed of by referring it to the Solicitor, he to prepare a by-law to be submitted to the ratepayers if it was found necessary to have such a by-law.

Money Wanted.

Ald. Chown said that it would be necessary to borrow about $7000 from the bank to meet current expenditures.

Ald. Pope—"What do we owe the bank?"

Ald. Chown—"We owe the bank $10,500 on the roll of 1901, $7,000 for 1900, and $21,300 on this year's roll.

A by-law to borrow the amount named was ordered to be prepared.

Removing of Poles.

Ald. Panter moved that the poles on Front St., from the market building to Brown's foundry, formerly used by the electric street railway company, be removed.—Carried.

More Property for the City.

Ald. Pope stated that Mr. A. W. Carscallen, who owned the vacant property at the junction of Station St. and Canifton road, was prepared to give the city a deed of the same as he had no particular use for it.

It was decided to accept the offer of Mr. Carscallen.

This concluded the work of the Committees, which then adjourned.

Board Neatly Sidestepped Question of Cigarette Smoking by Boys.

Complaint Made That Truant Officer is Not Doing His Full Duty.

There was considerable interest taken in last night's meeting of the Board of Education, owing to the fact that the request of the Teachers' Association for the abolition of the Christmas promotion examinations was to come up; also the matter of school boys smoking cigarettes. The matters in question came up, but the grave and revered seigniors were foxy. They deferred one to be discussed later on and sidestepped the other altogether. The teachers present were Messrs. Milburn, Gardner, Dafoe, Armistead and Barrager. Also Inspector Johnston.

The following members were in attendance: W. C. Reid, chairman; Rev. Mr. Maclean, Messrs. Tennent, McGinnis, Hudson, Jones, Taylor, Finkle, Lewis, Martin, Bennett, Walker, Diamond, Morden.

There was no change in the minutes, and the only communication was one from the manager of the Merchants Bank, notifying the Board that its balance at the bank amounted to $218.88.

Reports of Committees.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of the following accounts:

Walker Foundry Co.	$ 4.06
G.T.R., freight on coal	53.22
Dan Stapley	1.50
H. Asselstine, cartage	8.00

Principal Milburn presented the report for the High School, which showed that the average attendance was 177, conduct and punctuality fairly good. The pupils asked that this year the commencement exercises take the form of a reception to the parents of pupils, the Board to foot the bill.

The principal of Queen Victoria School reported a fairly regular attendance. The matter of cigarette smoking by scholars, as reported in yesterday's Intelligencer, was brought to the notice of the Board. Two weeks ago a boy was found smoking in the cellar. The teachers had since found that many boys were smoking, and the source of supply was found out. The list of cigarette smokers, the report said, contained the names of some bright boys and nearly all the dull ones in the school. The principal thought from personal observation that the habit was a ruinous one for growing boys, and heroic measures were needed to stamp it out.

The above reports were laid on the table.

The School Inspector's monthly report was presented, showing the normal condition of affairs.

The Christmas Exams.

It was resolved that the teachers present be heard in reference to their petition for the abolition of the Christmas entrance examinations.

Mr. Armistead said the teachers were unanimous in the opinion that better results could be obtained if the prayer of the petition was granted. One year was not sufficient for each book. With two years for the books there would be less teaching by rote.

Mr. Gardner said that children who were promoted at Christmas would not get a fair start with others who had already been four months at the work. He thought that the granting of the petition would result in a more thorough grounding of the pupils in the work.

Mr. Dafoe said he had a sore throat, but he would like to point out the fact that pupils who were promoted at Christmas always deranged the classes, and, as the teachers could not form a new class for the new pupils they could not do them justice. The system of rushing pupils through gave rise to a system of cramming.

Mr. Barrager said his decision in favor of the petition was based on an experience of 20 years. Other places had made the change, while others, notably Kingston and Deseronto, were agitating for it. Mr. Barrager went exhaustively into the subject, showing that, with pupils starting to school at the age of 5, two years in each book would render them eligible for the High School at the age of 13, which was quite young enough.

The speaker displayed a close acquaintance with his subject, and his remarks were attentively listened to. Only a small percentage of Public School scholars went to the High School, which was an excellent reason why more care should be given to the teaching of the Public School curriculum. Practically there were only 34 teaching weeks in each year, and to ask a child to go through a book, with an infinite range of subjects, in that time, was asking altogether too much. The change would make school life more pleasant for both pupils and teachers. The time was now opportune for the change.

After the teachers had finished speaking the matter was referred to the School Management Committee, which will meet in Queen Victoria School next Tuesday night, all members of the Board and all Public School teachers being invited.

Committee of the Whole.

The Board went into Committee of the Whole on Reports, Mr. Bennett in the chair.

The Finance Committee's report was passed, one item subject to enquiry.

The request of the High School pupils was referred to the School Management Committee, after Messrs. Walker, Hudson and Tennent had recalled the disgraceful action of certain pupils at the last commencement exercises, two years ago.

Cigarettes and Boys.

The report of the Principal of Queen Victoria School, re cigarettes, was taken up.

Mr. Hudson thought this was none of the Board's business. The teachers should notify the parents of the boys who smoked cigarettes and let them deal with the matter, at the same time telling them the source of supply, if they knew it. He made a motion to that effect, which carried, and the matter dropped with a dull thud.

The Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to purchase 200 new report books for the High School.

The Committee reported, the same being adopted.

Motions.

Mr. Bennett moved, seconded by Mr. Martin, that in future the Sec.-Treas. notify the principals of the different Public Schools of all the meetings of the Board of Education.—Carried.

Mr. Walker moved that the Finance Committee be empowered to order a medal, not to exceed the value of $5, the same to be presented to the pupil who won it at the last midsummer examinations, the medal in question being known as the Governor-General's medal.—Carried.

The Truancy Officer.

Under the head of enquiries Mr. I. Diamond asked if the Truancy Officer was doing anything to earn his salary. There were in the city many children who were not attending school, though we had an excellent school system and good teachers. He did not think the duty in question was being properly performed, and thought the Chairman should enquire into the matter.

Mr. Walker said he did not think the case was a bad one. Only four truants were reported from the High School. A couple of years ago one of the Truancy officers had told him that he could get no assistance from the authorities in the matter.

Mr. Diamond said the High School had nothing to do with the case. He did not refer to registered scholars who played truant, but to children who were not registered, and never went near a school at all. The law was very strict on this matter, and he would like to see it carried out.

There was no further discussion and the Board adjourned.

THEY FATHER CONSUMPTION.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies, because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache, and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Miss Urquhart, in handing us a report of the debate which took place in her class yesterday afternoon, says it came about through a former discussion of the matter by "Timely Topics." An Enjoyable Social

The Young People's Society of Emmanuel Church last evening held a social at the residence of Mr. Geo. Warham, Bridge St. west, which was well attended. A pleasant evening was spent in music, songs, recitations and games, those taking part in the programme being the Misses McMurray, Miss Pearl Thompson, Miss Maggie Keith, Miss Mabel Post and Miss Julia Thompson. Miss Ethel Grills and Mrs. Ford were the accompanists, and Rev. Mr. Gilliland chairman. Refreshments in abundance were served, and the guests were profuse in their thanks for the hospitality of their host and hostess.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

CLARENCE A. REID PASSED AWAY ON THURSDAY EVENING.

Word has been received in the city announcing the death of Mr. Clarence A. Reid, a son of Mr. A. P. Reid, which sad event occurred at West Brookfield, Mass., on Thursday evening, appendicitis being the cause. Deceased was a former well-known young resident of this city, having lived here some time with his parents. Mr. Reid was a graduate of a business college here and whilst in the city was an active member of Mr. F. E. O'Flynn's Bible Class in Bridge St. Church. He was about 27 years of age and married, having wedded a young lady from Lower Canada, where he lived for some time previous to removing to the United States. Deceased was a general favorite with all who knew him and his demise will be sincerely regretted by a host of friends. The remains will be brought here for interment at the Carmel burying ground in Thurlow.

BUGLE BAND ENTERTAINED

PLEASING FUNCTION IN WALLACE'S RESTAURANT LAST NIGHT.

The Bugle Band in connection with the Fifteenth Regiment were last evening entertained by Captain Goldsmith, surgeon of the regiment. The supper took place at Mr. Jas. Wallace's restaurant, and the spread provided was all that could have been desired.

After supper the usual toasts were proposed and short addresses delivered by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Thos. Ritchie, Col. Halliwell, Lieut.-Col. Ponton, Rev. M. W. Maclean, Major Pope, Mayor Graham, J. J. B. Flint, J. W. Johnson, Bugle-Major McManus and Bugle-Major Pringle.

Capt. Goldsmith deserves much credit for the interest which he takes in the maintenance of the Bugle Band of the Regiment and the success of the Regiment.

The Band is not only a credit to the Regiment, but to the city, and should be liberally supported.

KINGSTON'S SCHOOL BOOKS

THE "FEE FOR USE" SYSTEM HAS BEEN ADOPTED IN ALL GRADES.

Kingston, Nov. 14.—The Board of Education here last night shortly before midnight adopted the system of supplying the pupils with text books and supplies. The Toronto plan is followed except that the fee system will be used, the pupils' parents paying for the use of the books, and not the ratepayers as a body. For eight years the Board has been furnishing supplies to all and text books up to the senior third grade, but will, after September, 1903, furnish all requirements. The average charge per pupil at present is 60c. By the change it is expected that though this fee may remain as it is for several years, until all the books are purchased, eventually it can be cut in two.

INTERESTING DEBATE BY BOYS AND GIRLS

ARE HOME LESSONS A BENEFIT TO THE PUPIL?—CHILDREN THINK NOT.

A pleasing feature of the Friday afternoon exercises in Miss Urquhart's division at Queen Victoria School was a debate on the following subject: "Resolved, that Home Lessons are not a benefit to the pupil."

The affirmative was taken by Wallace Robb, Mary Brownlee, Willie Cochrane, and Myrtle Haigh; the negative by Elva Buchanan, Harold Ghawn, Macaulay Pope, and Harry Wallace.

The arguments on both sides were well sustained, and were worthy of persons more advanced in years.

It is almost needless to say that the affirmative carried the vote.

For International Socialism.

New Orleans, Nov. 15.—At the American Federation of Labor yesterday the following resolutions were introduced: That any man who shall have reached the age of 60 years, who is a naturalized citizen and has lived 21 years in this country and whose average annual income has been less than $1,000 per annum, be given a life pension of $12 a month, for the recognition of principles of international socialism.

To Suppress Tribesmen.

Simla, India, Nov. 15.—Owing to a series of raids committed during the last two years by outlaws from across the border on the tract of territory lying between Bannu and Thal, in the Punjab, it has been decided to despatch four flying surprise columns of 800 men each, to coerce the Waziris, who are harboring the raiders on British territory.

Eight Dead, Eight Survive.

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 15. — The British survey steamer Penguin has picked up a raft belonging to the British steamer Elingamite, which was wrecked on one of the Three Kings Islands, off the north coast of New Zealand Nov. 9. On the raft were eight survivors, and the bodies of eight others of the company of the wrecked vessel.

One U.S. Bank Closed.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—The Central National Bank of this city did not open for business yesterday, the comptroller of the currency having ordered the bank examiner to close its doors and take charge of its business. The closing of the bank is said to be due to excessive loans and a lack of quick assets.

Tarte Expresses Disapproval.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 15. — Mr. Tarte has a long article in The Patrie last night expressing disapproval of the dismemberment of the Public Works Department.

Mr. Tarte says that it is a false political step to disorganize one of the most important departments of the Government which has rendered splendid service, and as far as the French-Canadians are concerned they would have preferred to see the department kept intact under Mr. Sutherland if it was not to go to a French-Canadian.

More Money For Workers.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—From point to point over the telegraph lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday morning was flashed the news that 59,000 employes would receive an increase of 10 per cent. in their salaries, dating from the first of the present month. The word was sent out from President Cassatt's office, and in a remarkably short time every division superintendent had been notified.

Bonuses For Trans-Canada Railway.

Quebec, Nov. 15.—The County Councils of Lake St. John have passed bylaws subscribing $100,000 to the Trans-Canada Railway, as follows: Lake St. John West, $33,000; Lake St. John Centre, $32,000, and Chicoutimi, $35,000. Meetings of the ratepayers of the different municipalities interested have been called for Dec. 12, to ratify and confirm the bylaws.

Asked to Make Further Effort.

Madrid, Nov. 15.—Yesterday afternoon Senor Sagasta informed the King that he felt compelled to abandon the task of trying to form a new Cabinet, but His Majesty requested him to make a further effort.

Who Accept My Offer Get Well. No Money is Wanted.

I ask only a postal card naming someone who is sick. Tell me the book to send. I ask it as an act of humanity. Write it to-day, and I will do all the rest.

I will even do this:—I will mail the sick one an order—good at any drug store—for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

Don't think that too fair to be possible, for I do just as I say. I do it to convince those who don't know me, and so that everyone who needs help will accept it.

I have learned that the cured ones are fair. I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands on just those terms, and 39 out of each 40 have paid gladly, because they were cured. I have willingly paid for the rest.

And I spent a lifetime in perfecting the remedy before I ever offered it to anyone. At thousands of bedsides, in hospitals and homes, I have watched it cure the most difficult cases that physicians ever meet. I learned that it does not fail, save where some cause—like cancer—makes a cure impossible.

My success comes from strengthening the inside nerves. My Restorative brings back that nerve power which alone operates every vital organ of the body. Common treatments merely doctor the organs, and the results at best are but temporary. My remedy restores the nerve power that makes these organs act. No other treatment does that, and there is positively no other way to make weak vital organs well.

My book will explain this. It tells about the only remedy so sure that any man dare offer it on such a plan as mine. Won't you tell me a friend who needs it?

Simply state which book you want, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 69, Racine, Wis.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT SCORED

Mr. Whitney, Opposition Leader, Speaks at London.

Rousing Ovation Tendered to the Conservative Head of the Province at a Banquet Friday Night—He Deals With Many Public Interests From the Point of View of the People—Other Members of Parliament Who Spoke.

London, Nov. 15.—The Conservatives of the Forest City tendered Opposition Leader Whitney a banquet in the Tecumseh House last evening. Upwards of 500 guests were present, and the youngsters of the Legislature were not the least important guests of the affair. Had the occasion marked a victory for the Conservative party in the Province, instead of, as it was happily put, a temporary defeat, it could not have been more enthusiastic. London has returned for the first time in years a supporter of Mr. Whitney, and that victory added interest to the general jubilation. The decorations of the dining hall were arranged with patriotic intent, and the result was decidedly effective. From all over Western Ontario Conservatives were present, and old-timers declare they never saw such a gathering before.

Popular "Billy" Gray.

William Gray, president of the London Conservative Club, whose friends declare he is the most popular man in the city, was in the chair with Opposition Leader Whitney on his right and J. J. Foy, M.P.P., on his left. Others at the head of the table were: Dr. Beatty Nesbitt, M.P.P.; Dr. R. A. Pyne, M.P.P.; J. W. St. John, M.P.P.; W. J. Hanna, M.P.P.; Dr. Reaume, M.P.P.; James Clancy, M.P.; Mayor Adam Beck, M. P. P.; R. Shawood, Findlay Macdiarmid, M.P.P., Donald Sutherland, M.P.P.; Thomas Jones, J. O. Dromgole, Major Beatty, Dr. Guest, Isaac Waterman, Capt. Robson, ex-M.P.P.; W. J. Reid, E. Meredith, K.C.; A. W. Wright, T. G. Meredith, J. C. Judd, Dr. English, John Forrestal, James Mattinson, A. B. Greer, J. H. Flock, K.C.; Richard Bayley, K.C.; Dr. Casgrain, D. B. Odette, ex-Mayor Essey, ex-Mayor McCuley of St. Thomas, ex-Mayor J. R. Minhinick, Dr. Roone, ex-M.P.; A. R. Galpin, A. T. McMahon, John Labbatt, B. Smallman, T. H. Carling, C. J. McCormick.

The Speeches.

The first two toasts to the King and Canada were proposed by the chairman in excellent addresses that were models of patriotism and brevity. James Clancy, M.P., responded to the latter toast. He spoke appropriately, and said Mr. Whitney deserved their respect and confidence.

W. J. Hanna, M.P.P., who redeemed West Lambton, followed. He was happily introduced as "The Head of Lambton," and delivered a characteristic speech, just such a fighting speech, as he delivered during the campaign in his riding.

Dr. Reaume, M.P.P., the eloquent French-Canadian representative of North Essex, received a gartifying reception. His speech, serious and amusing in turn, was one of the features of the evening.

Mr. Whitney.

Three cheers, a tiger and a British lion were given when Opposition Leader Whitney arose. The hearty reception he was given, and the manifestations of loyalty that he received from the Conservative party were feelingly acknowledged. The chief consolation he had, both in the past and in the future, was that whatever his merits or demerits might be he had always done his best, and he would always continue to do his best. (Cheers.)

It was like carrying coals to Newcastle, he added, to make a political speech, because he was speaking to the educators of the people. However, there were one or two matters he would like to speak about. A great deal was being said just now about New Ontario, but Premier Ross was among the first to deny the advantages of Ontario, as was evidenced by the fact that the Conservative party wrested three seats from the Government in the very heart of the country. (Cheers.)

Further on in his speech, Mr. Whitney referred to the recent disclosures in connection with the succession duties office. He explained that the officer whose defalcations they all knew about had no right whatever to receive any money. The statutes clearly provided that all moneys should be paid to the Treasurer of the Province. The solicitor of the department had no more right to receive money for succession duties than he or any other citizen of the Province had. It was evident that the officer who had taken public money had received duties on estates for years, and when he made the first payment to the Government the Government should have seen that he was doing an improper thing and should have stopped it, instead of allowing it to go on for years after year, when they knew that the solicitor of the Treasury Department was not a man to receive moneys. (Cheers.)

The report of the Financial Commission, made a short time ago, was referred to by Mr. Whitney, and it was particularly apropos of the recent disclosures in connection with the financial system of the Province. That commission reported that the methods of the Government regarding the bookkeeping of the Province were excellent, while he had nothing to say against the men who composed that commission. Mr. Whitney left it to his hearers to decide what their report was worth in view of the defalcations that have just occurred.

A voice: "It's not worth anything." (Cheers.)

Mr. Whitney, referring to the Temiskaming Railway undertaking, made a rather startling statement. He said that one of the commissioners appointed by the Ross Government to supervise the construction of the line had declared on one occasion that he had been promised the position on the commission, providing he could carry two constituencies for the Ross Government. That man, however, had not carried the two constituencies, but he succeeded in carrying one and was given the position.

Stole the Election.

As for the election just past, Mr. Whitney declared that an organized attempt had been made to steal or destroy one or more ballots in every polling sub-division in the Province. It was peculiar, he continued, that The Globe had not a word of either condemnation or praise to say about the disgraceful occurrences in South Oxford, for instance. "Yes, and I maintain," Mr. Whitney exclaimed, "that the notorious Tammany Hall of New York never committed more outrageous acts than were committed at the last election." (Cheers.)

Must Be a Change.

The present state of affairs could not continue. The people of the Province were a freedom-loving people, fond of British institutions and proud of their rights and privileges, and he was confident that the day was not far distant when the men who were twisting and squirming to hold office would ask others to take charge of the affairs of the Province. (Cheers.) There were Liberals like Hon. S. H. Blake, who were falling into line, declaring that the time had come when party ties should be torn asunder, and justice done. The present state of affairs made all men, Liberals and Conservatives, alike, stop and ask, "What are we coming to?"

"Yes, and we feel and know," Mr. Whitney added, "that we have the Liberal party behind us, and that they will unite with us in doing away with these acts, which threaten British institutions."

J. J. Foy, M.P.P., Dr. R. A. Pyne, M.P.; Finlay Macdiarmid, M.P.P., J. W. St. John, M.P.P., and Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, M.P.P., also spoke.

The gathering broke up with hearty cheers for the chairman, Mr. Whitney and the other guests.

3,000 Applaud Protection.

Three Rivers, Que., Nov. 15—Three thousand people gathered in the City Hall last evening to hear addresses from Messrs. F. D. Monk, Thomas Chase Casgrain, J. G. H. Bergeron, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Hon. Thomas Chapais, Hon. P. E. Leblanc. Mr. Monk delivered a strong protectionist speech and received an ovation.

The protest against the election of Archibald Campbell, M.P., as the representative from West York to the Dominion House of Commons at the bye-election held last January, will be heard at Osgoode Hall on Friday, Nov. 28.

R. H. Rafferty, an employe of the Ontario Wind Engine and Pump Company of Toronto, was found dead in his room at the Arlington Hotel, at Tilsonburg, shortly after noon Friday. Mr. Rafferty was about 45 years of age.

At Smith's Falls, William Mock, a lineman of the Bell Telephone Company, fell from the top of a pole, 30 feet high, Friday morning, but is not supposed to be seriously injured. His head is painfully cut, but that seems to be the extent of his injury.

The disastrous fire which broke out in St. Pierre, Miquelon, on Nov. 1, and destroyed the Government buildings, the Roman Catholic Cathedral, and a number of other edifices, is now believed to have been the work of the local colony of Anarchists.

REMARKABLE SUCCESS

OF A NEW CATARRH CURE.

A large and constantly increasing majority of the American people are catarrh sufferers. This is not entirely the result of our changeable climate, but because modern investigation has clearly proven that many diseases, known by other names, are really catarrh. Formerly the name catarrh was applied almost exclusively to the common nasal catarrh, but the throat, stomach, liver, bladder, kidneys and intestines are subject to catarrhal diseases as well as the nasal passages.

In fact, wherever there is mucous membrane there is a feeding ground for catarrh.

The usual remedies, inhalers, sprays, douches or powders, have been practically failures, as far as anything more than temporary relief was concerned, because they simply dry up the mucous secretions, without having the remotest effect upon the blood and liver, which are the real sources of catarrhal diseases.

It has been known for some years that the radical cure of catarrh could never come from local applications, but from an internal remedy, acting on the blood and expelling the catarrhal poison from the system.

A new internal preparation which has been on the market only a short time, has met with remarkable success as a genuine, radical cure for catarrh.

It may be found in any drug store, sold under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, large, pleasant tasting lozenges, composed principally of antiseptic ingredients, Blood Root, Red Gum and similar catarrh specifics.

Dr. Ainslee, in speaking of the new catarrh cure, says: "I have tried the new catarrh remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, upon thirty or forty patients with remarkable satisfactory results. They clear the head and throat more effectually and lastingly than any douche or inhaler that I have ever seen, and although they are what is called a patent medicine and sold by druggists, I do not hesitate to recommend them, as I know them to be free from cocaine and opiates, and that even a little child may use them with entire safety."

Any sufferer from nasal catarrh, throat or bronchial tube trouble, catarrh of the stomach, liver or bladder will find Stuart's Catarrh Tablets remarkably effective, pleasant and convenient, and your druggist will tell you they are absolutely free from any injurious drug.

That open winter that has stayed by us so faithfully all summer is running well into the fall.

SECTIONALISM RAMPANT.

It has been the constant boast of Laurier, and echoed and re-echoed by the press supporting him, that the policy of the present Government is to cement every section of the country by drawing no distinction between race, creed or province. Yet in the first speech made by Mr. Prefontaine, the successor to Mr. Tarte, it will be seen that he made it a condition, in accepting office, that his province, Quebec, should not be shorn of that patronage which follows the expenditure of large sums of money.

All that is necessary to establish this fact is to read his speech, delivered in Montreal on the 12th inst., when addressing his electors. Here is his language, as reported:

> It might be said, in fact, he understood that it was being circulated by their opponents, that it was the Department of Public Works, and not the Department of Marine and Fisheries that he should have had, and that in accepting the portfolio of Marine and Fisheries he was sacrificing the interests of the Province of Quebec. He wished to say that such an accusation was entirely without foundation. Those people who know him need not be told that Raymond Prefontaine would not enter the Cabinet by sacrificing the interests of the Province of Quebec, or of the City of Montreal. (Applause). The question of portfolios was discussed frankly, and on account of peculiar circumstances the result had been arrived at. He had accepted the portfolio of Marine and Fisheries on the distinct understanding that it would have control, not only of what it did at present, but that it would also have control of the ports, harbors and all matters pertaining to navigation. (Applause). He was authorized to make this declaration. He asked them if the Department had charge of all such works, whether it would not be one of, if not the most important Department of the Government from the point of view of patronage and general interest. (Applause). When the duties of each Department were defined, and all the work of the harbors, ports and navigation was placed in charge of his Department by law, it would be a guarantee that their interests were safeguarded. If he had accepted the portfolio it was because the promise that had been made would be fulfilled.
>
> Mr. Prefontaine also held out a hope that in time the canals would also be placed under the charge of his department.

Ontario may well ask whether the navigation of the St. Lawrence is not just as much in the interest of her people in every particular as it is the people of Quebec, and whether such interests were not just as safe, not only in Quebec, but to the whole Dominion, under the management of Mr. Sutherland, an Ontario Minister, as under the control and management of Mr. Prefontaine? The Liberals of Quebec thought otherwise, hence the "peculiar circumstances" to which the new Minister referred.

What right has Quebec to demand the control and management of the large money spending departments more than any other province? A Government is supposed to exist and manage the affairs of each department in the interest of the whole country, and not of one particular portion of it. Such, however, does not appear to be the view held of his duties by Mr. Prefontaine, for he chucklingly asks his hearers whether a "department having charge of such extensive works is not the most important department of the Government from the point of view of patronage and general interest?"

Mr. Prefontaine also intimated that the control of the Canals was also to be placed under his control, thus giving him additional patronage. With these changes, what is left for Sutherland and Blair?

Had such a declaration been made by a Conservative Minister in times gone by, it would have formed a text for the Globe and all the small fry of the party to preach sermons on the iniquity of French domination.

What has created this change? Patronage and power, and all that follows in their wake, when manipulated by unscrupulous politicians.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The senseless pranks of the College students in Toronto on Hallowe'en is likely to cost them dear. Further investigation shows damage done to the extent of $1,000, which the parents of the foolish boys will have to pay.

• • •

Like Oliver Twist, Quebec is crying for more. At the Prefontaine demonstration in Montreal the other night, Mr. Rainville, Speaker of the Quebec Legislature, came out squarely in favor of a readjustment of provincial subsidies. Quebec, he said, should be made by Hon. Mr. Prefontaine and his friends the first province in the Confederation, or they could not carry on the affairs of the province very much longer. Quebec, he said, must have more money.

• • •

Those "Foxy Grandpas" on the Board of Education neatly sidestepped the cigarette question last night, but really it is hard to see what they could be expected to do in the matter. It looks as though the teachers of Queen Victoria School should submit their complaint to the parents of the children or to the Police Commissioners. At present it appears to be a case of "After you, my dear Alphonse."

• • •

The teachers, of course, are to be commended for their action in combatting the evil. It now seems to be up to the parents. It is pitiful if, in this city with a baker's dozen of churches, nothing can be done to combat an evil which is said to be sapping the vitality and brains of the rising generation. Some of the people who are talking about prohibition might well take this matter in hand.

• • •

The Council, like a body of sensible gentlemen, have arrived at the decision to submit a Public Library by-law to the ratepayers, for which they will receive the thanks of more people, perhaps, than they have any idea of.

• • •

The decision of the Board of Education to invite all principals of city schools to their meetings in future is a wise one, and may be set down as certain to redound to the benefit of our educational interests. The Board has everything to gain and nothing to lose by coming into touch with practical men.

• • •

One of the Boarders last night hinted pretty strongly that there was room for improvement in the methods of the present Truancy Officer. It is to be hoped, if there are grounds for complaint, that Mr. Diamond's gentle hint will set machinery in motion making for the proper enforcement of the law.

• • •

It is to be hoped that, as a consequence of the agitation following the revelation of cigarette smoking by the pupils of Queen Victoria school, the pernicious practice may be stamped out among the rising generation of this city. There is no reason to suppose the practise is singular to Queen Victoria School. Some time ago, at the instance of the principal of another school, The Intelligencer started an agitation against the practise of selling cigarettes to minors. There was temporary and spasmodic action on the part of the authorities, one tobacco dealer, who has since left the city, was charged with and found guilty of the offence, fined $10 and the matter dropped out of sight again.

• • •

Now the teachers of Queen Victoria School claim to have the names of four dealers who sell "coffin nails" to children. It is to be hoped, if the charges can be substantiated, that the parties may be adequately punished. It is an undoubted fact that in every school in Belleville there are boys who, through cigarette smoking, have become stunted in mind and body. "They simply cannot learn," says one of the teachers. Truly, a most deplorable state of affairs.

• • •

There is only one way, it would appear, that this evil can be stopped, and that is by compelling dealers to respect the law which prohibits the sale of cigarettes to minors. There are, of course, honorable and self-respecting dealers in the city who would scorn to make a few paltry cents by furnishing to children the cheap and nasty decoctions which smell as though your coat were on fire. What are they? Cigar stumps, picked out of spittoons or from the gutter, shredded by machinery, colored with acids, rolled in rag paper and sold at five cents per package of ten. They will make a full-grown man who smokes them wish he were dead. What effect will they have on the system of a growing boy?

• • •

It is to be hoped that all parents will unite with the authorities in helping to put down this abomination, which for some time, according to all accounts, has been steadily on the increase, and which (tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askelon) is said to be indulged in by school girls as well as school boys.

• • •

As a gentleman who believes in something more than moral suasion says: "Boys are often seen on the streets of the age of 10 to 12 sporting their cigarettes. A few hours in the cells would do them good. Let the police look to it."

WAKE UP, BABY!

A NEW GAME FOR MOTHERS.

Baby's awakening ought to be looked forward to as a pleasure, not dreaded as a scourge. He should awaken bright, merry, and full of fun, refreshed by sleep, ready for a good time.

How many mothers dread his awakening howls, knowing that he will keep everyone miserable until he goes to sleep again or gets his food. These crying fits are the terror of every inexperienced mother. Mrs. Gabriel Barnes, Six Mile Lake, Ont., is a mother who has learned how this trouble can be banished, and writes us as follows: "My baby suffered much from indigestion, and was cross and restless. I gave him several medicines, but they did not help him. I then got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and they helped him almost at once, and have done him so much good that I would not now be without them. I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers as the best medicine I have ever used for children." These Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug and can be given with absolute safety to the youngest, weakest infant. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail, post paid, at 25 cents a box, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

Long Hair "One year ago my hair came out very fast, so I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. It stopped the falling and made my hair grow, until now it is 45 inches long."

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

Home Cooking.

A number of ladies began to discuss the virtues of their respective husbands when every other topic was worn threadbare.

"My husband," said one, "never drinks and never swears—indeed, he has no bad habits."

"Does he ever smoke?" some one asked.

"Yes, he likes a cigar just after he has eaten a good meal. But I suppose on an average he doesn't smoke more than once a week."

Some of her friends laughed, but she didn't seem to understand.—Tit-Bits.

DUMAS ON SNAKES.

A Characteristic Story of the Impecunious French Author.

When M. de Villemessant was founding Le Grand Journal, he wrote to Dumas, asking for his assistance. Dumas at once prepared a romance in six volumes. In the meantime the editor asked him for some articles or causeries, which were to be published immediately. "I have the very thing!" cried Dumas. "I was just about to start on a whole series about snakes." "On snakes?" "Yes. I have the entire subject at my fingers' ends. I spent half my life studying them. There's not a soul who knows anything about the dear, interesting little creatures. You will find it will be a great success—this article." The editor, half convinced, agreed to accept this article "on snakes," saying to himself, "After all, Dumas is very likely to hit on something effective." "If you want a little cash in advance, you can draw on me." "I have plenty," said Dumas, "for the first time in my life, I confess; but, still, I really have enough."

They parted, and the editor returned to his office. On arriving there he found Alexander's secretary waiting for him with the following paper, ready signed:

Received the sum of 50 napoleons on account of my story. A hearty squeeze of the hand. A. D.

The next day the secretary arrived with the first feuilleton and a letter, which ran:

My Dear Friend—Be kind enough to hand the bearer the sum of 9 napoleons. A. D.

The very same evening came a dispatch from Havre:

On receipt of this please send 20 napoleons to my lodgings at Frascati. A thousand thanks. A. D.

An hour later came another:

My Dear Boy—I should have said 13, not 20, naps. You are my best friend. The feuilleton is on the road. A. DUMAS.

The finale of this capital story is no less characteristic. The feuilleton arrived by post on the following day and was found to contain exactly four lines of Dumas' composition, two at the beginning and two at the end of the paper. Thus it ran: "I copy from my good friend, Dr. Revoil, the following particulars about snakes." Then came a long essay on that subject, all copied out in his own neat handwriting and closed by this original remark, "In my next I will deal with the boa constrictor, the most curious of all the snakes."

BIRD DOGS.

Some of the Almost Human Work These Clever Canines Perform.

Roading denotes that a dog is following a trail toward the birds by their foot scent, as a man in an analogous manner might follow a flock of sheep by watching their tracks.

Drawing denotes that a dog is approaching birds by a scent in the air, as a man might follow a flock of sheep by the long line of dust hovering over and around the trail. Drawing is considered a much superior manner to roading. It is commonly marked by greater accuracy, quickness of execution and dash of manner.

Pointing is the stop which the dog makes when he has definitely located the birds or when he thinks he has done so. It is the preliminary pause to accurately determine the whereabouts of the hidden birds before he springs to capture. If he misjudges and springs in the wrong direction, all his pains and labor come to nothing. In his training he is encouraged to point, but is prohibited springing, so that after a time he makes his point and holds it stanchly.

If by any act, willful or otherwise, he alarms the birds and they take wing, it is called a flush. If the dog when going up wind on game flushes the birds, he commits an error. If under certain circumstances he flushes when going down the wind, the error may be excused on the ground that being up wind of them it was impossible to scent them and therefore impossible to know of their presence.

Came With Her.

"Your husband," said the talkative man, "has such a gentle disposition. He inherited it from his mother, I suppose?"

"No," replied Mrs. Henpeck significantly, "I think I may safely say that was part of my dowry."

Edmonton, N. W. T., Nov., 15.—Robert Heddell, a farmer residing near Leduc, was shot and fatally wounded by a neighbor named Charles A. Buckle. Heddell died Thursday of his injuries, and Buckle has become violently insane.

The murderer had shown symptoms of insanity for some time, and all firearms had been taken from him. He managed to conceal a revolver, however, and when Heddell entered his residence shot him in the temple.

The murderer also pulled his revolver as another neighbor entered, but it missed fire. The parties are English farmers, Buckle residing alone on his farm.

Killed by a Flyer.

Pickering, Nov. 15.—R. D. Benson was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by the westbound Grand Trunk Flyer. Smothered by Grain.

Kincardine, Nov. 15. — A young man named Harry Ross, employed by the Farmers' Elevator, was found dead yesterday morning. It seems that they were loading grain on cars, and Ross was shoveling into the chute, being alone in the building. He is supposed to have been seized with a weak spell and to have fallen head foremost into the grain, life being extinct when he was discovered. He was 21 years of age.

Ryan Dealt the Blow.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—Things are beginning to look serious for Michael Ryan of Hull, who assaulted J. B. Renaud last week and caused his death. The coroner's jury last night found that death was caused by cerebral hemorrhage, through a blow struck by Ryan on Nov. 5. Three witnesses testified to seeing Ryan strike the blow. There was no provocation for the assault. Ryan will be indicted for murder.

Shot Himself Dead.

Iroquois, Nov. 15.—Thomas Ransom, a farmer, living three miles west of this village, committed suicide Thursday night by shooting himself. It appears he came home last evening somewhat intoxicated. His wife, knowing he was violent when under the influence of liquor, was afraid to let him in the house, and he went to the barn, where he was found yesterday morning with a revolver still in his hand and a bullet in his brain. He had been dead some time when discovered. A few weeks ago he made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, and has been drinking hard since.

Suicide in Montreal.

Montreal Nov. 15.—G. Ernest Muir, secretary-treasurer of the Montreal Coal and Towing Company, shot and killed himself at his residence yesterday morning. Domestic troubles are said to have been the cause of the tragedy. He was 39 years of age.

U.S. and Rhodes Scolarships.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The District Board of Education has adopted a recommendation regarding the Cecil Rhodes scholarships in U. S. to be transmitted to Secretary of State Hay, as follows: "That the trustees of the will of the Rt. Hon. Cecil John Rhodes be invited to appoint an American commission, to consist of the Commissioner of Education of the United States and other eminent educators, representing public institutions of secondary and of college grade, who shall, under the trustees be empowered to make and to carry into effect all needful regulations respecting the selection of qualified students from the several States and territory of the United States in accordance with the terms of the said will."

Painted Mask Kills a Child.

New York, Nov. 15.—Little Freda Henke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Henke, of No. 24 Church street, Orange, is dead at home, as a result of blood-poisoning, contracted by wearing a papier mache mask at a Hallowe'en party she recently gave a number of her young friends. At the party all the children wore the masks, and there was much romping. The warmth from the little girl's face melted the paint on the mask, and she was inoculated through an abrasion on her upper lip.

Another Millionaire in Jail.

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 15.—Colonel Ed. Butler, millionaire and politician of St. Louis, who has been on trial charged with having attempted to bribe Dr. Chapman of the St. Louis Board of Health, in order to influence his vote on the endorsement of a garbage contract with the city, has been found guilty by the jury, which fixed the punishment at three years in the penitentiary. WOMAN'S WORK

OFTEN LEADS TO A BREAKDOWN IN HEALTH.

Severe Headaches, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, Palpitation of the Heart and Other Distressing Symptoms Follow.

Woman's cares about the household are many and often worrying, and it is no wonder that the health of so many give way under the strain. To weak, tired-out, depressed women everywhere, the story of Mrs. Geo. L. Horton, the wife of a well known farmer living near Fenwick, Ont, will come as a message of hope. To a reporter who interviewed her on the subject, Mrs. Fenwick said;—"Yes, I am quite willing to give my testimony to the great good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done me, as my experience may help some other sufferer. A couple of years ago my health began to give way, and I suffered from anaemia, with most of the depressing symptoms of that trouble. I became much emaciated, had distressing headaches and a very poor appetite. At first I thought the trouble would pass away, but in this I was mistaken, as I continued to grow worse. My heart began to palpitate violently at the least exertion; my rest at night was broken, and finally a bad cough set in, and I was scarcely able to do a bit of work about the house. An aunt in England, who had been ill, had written me that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had restored her to health, and I determined to give the pills a trial. After the use of a few boxes I noticed a distinct improvement in my condition, and after using the pills for a few weeks more the trouble had completely left me. I could sleep well at night, the cough left me; the headaches that had made me so miserable vanished, my appetite returned, and I could again perform my housework with ease. I shall always feel grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, and strongly recommend them to other ailing women."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished just such good results in thousands of other cases among ailing men and women, and sufferers from any of the numerous ailments resulting from poor, watery blood who will give these pills a fair trial will soon be on the high road to health and strength. Imitations are sometimes offered by unscrupulous dealers, who care more for their own profit than for their customers' health. Be sure that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is found on the wrapper around every box you buy. If your dealer does not keep these pills send to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and they will be mailed post paid at 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50.

Suspect Stuart's Stepson.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Col. Sherwood, Chief of the Dominion Police, is in the city in connection with the counterfeiting case. In company with Detective Forrest, he went to the jail yesterday afternoon, and had a talk with the aged counterfeiter, William Stuart. He repeatedly made it known to his interviewers that he would not volunteer any information relating to his confederates, if he had any, but if placed on the stand and compelled to testify, he will tell the truth. There may be another arrest in connection with the case within the next few days. The man is Walter Samuel Wilson, a stepson of the old counterfeiter, who is believed to have been concerned in the circulation of the money.

Anson Raymond and his wife Elizabeth appeared in the Police Court yesterday, and were again remanded for a week.

PLEADS FOR COAL MINERS

John Mitchell Argues Case Before Strike Commission.

Work More Dangerous Than Employment in Any Other Important Industry in the World—Insurance Companies Refuse to Issue Policies to This Class of Workers—Plan of Procedure Proposed—The Children of the Workers.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 15.—The commission appointed by President Roosevelt to arbitrate the differences between the anthracite mine workers and their employers began the hearing of the miners' side of the case yesterday. When the commission opened its session yesterday the only evidence before it was the preliminary statement of Mr. Mitchell, in which he said:

"Of the 147,000 men and boys employed in the anthracite coal fields, 64,072, or 43 per cent., are employed on contract, or piece work; the remaining 83,000, or 57 per cent., are employed by the hour, day, week, or month. Of the 64,072 contract men, 37,804 are miners and 26,268 are miners' laborers.

Dangerous Work.

The work of a miner and a miner's laborer is extremely hazardous; in fact, it is more dangerous than employment in any other important industry in the world. The number of persons killed and injured is greater than in any other industry. Each day the anthracite coal mines are in operation 2 6-10 persons lose their lives, and three times as many are maimed, and yet these men receive less wages annually than are received by men performing precisely similar work in other fields, under more favorable and less hazardous conditions.

"The number of years a man can retain his health and strength in this occupation is limited. If he escapes death or injury by falls of rock or coal, he cannot escape attacks of miners' asthma. There is scarcely a mine worker who has not contracted this malady. The miners are compelled to work in powder smoke, in foul air, many of them in water, and their work is difficult and exhausting. Reputable insurance companies will not issue policies to this class of workmen. The risks are so great that the premiums would be prohibitive to men whose earnings are so low. The entire 20 per cent. which they demand as an increase in their wages would not suffice to carry an insurance of one thousand dollars."

An Eight-Hour Day.

In supporting the demand for the reduction of the hours of day laborers, Mr. Mitchell showed that it amounted practically to a demand for 20 per cent. increase of compensation for 83,000 men, or 57 per cent. of all mine employes. He said further, that the eight-hour day is the standard working day in the mining industry. Eight hours constitute a day's work in the coal mines of Great Britain, in all the silver, gold, and copper mines, and in the bituminous coal mines in the different States of this country.

Fair System of Weighing.

Defending the third demand, that coal shall be weighed, and paid for by weight, and that 2,240 pounds shall constitute a ton, Mr. Mitchell declared that paying for coal by the car or by a ton weighing from 2,740 to 3,150 pounds is a flagrant injustice.

Mr. Mitchell continued: "The anthracite companies, not satisfied with an extra legal ton of from 2,740 to 3,150 pounds, have a system of docking, through which they appropriate additional part of the miners' earnings. A miner is docked all the way from 500 to 1,000 pounds upon a car as a penalty for loading impurities, for which he has already been penalized to the extent of from 700 to 900 pounds in excess of impure weight. In other words, he is punished twice for the same offence.

A Plan of Procedure.

"For the information of the commission, we herewith outline more specifically, a plan of procedure which, if adopted, would prevent local strikes and preserve peace and harmony during the time covered by the award which you are empowered to make.

"First—The rate of wages, the hours of labor, the method of weighing and paying for the product of the miners' work should be incorporated in an agreement between the representatives of the various coal companies and the representatives of the organizations of which the complainants in this case are members.

"Second—There should be a committee of conservative representative mine workers selected by the employes at each colliery. It should be the duty of this committee to co-operate with the mine foremen in the adjustment of local disputes which cannot be settled between the mine foremen and the mine workers or mine worker involved.

"Third—Should the mine foremen and mine committee fail to adjust the grievance complained of, the matter in dispute should be referred to the company's superintendent, and a general Grievance Committee, which should be constituted of representative mine workers from each colliery operated by any one company, Should this fail to adjust it, it should be referred to the general manager of the coal companies and the district president of the miners' organization, and should they fail to adjust it they should call upon the services of some disinterested person whose decision should be final, pending an adjustment in the manner set forth, and the miners should continue at work."

Plea For Children.

Mr. Mitchell concludes with a plea for the children. He said: "Our little boys should not be forced into the mines and breakers so early in life; our little girls should not be compelled to work in the mills and factories at an age when they should be in school. These children are the future citizens of our nation; their parents should be enabled to give them at least a common school education, so as to equip them better for the grave responsibilities which will ultimately devolve upon them."

Phonograph to Guard Testimony.

Scranton, Nov. 15.—Carroll D. Wright, recorder of the Coal Strike Commission, has announced that the testimony to be heard by the commission will be preserved by phonograph records. The stenographers will read their notes into the instruments, and the reports will be referred to in settling mooted points.

James Mitchell Dead.

Cayuga, Nov. 15.—James Mitchell, local registrar of the High Court of Justice at Cayuga, died here last evening after a lingering illness. Appeal in Will Case.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The McLaren will case reached the Court of Appeal yesterday. In the appeal the Attorney-General asks the court to declare that the late John A. McLaren, distiller, of Perth, died intestate, and his $125,000, the property of the Crown, he being illigitimate. The appeal is from the decision of Judge MacMahon, who held that the certified copy of the will produced by the executor, J. A. Stewart, was sufficient proof of the missing will, and declared the sisters and nephews and others to whom the testator bequeathed his estate were entitled to receive it. The will was claimed to have been made in June, 1897, and was either lost or destroyed. Pending the suit to establish it, the court appointed the National Trust Company administrator.

Eczema Cured by Ozone

Mrs. Ellen Smith of Montreal, was a fearful sufferer from eczema for many years. She was tortured so severely at times she contemplated putting an end to her existence. Thanks to Powley's Liquified Ozone, she did not do so because it cured her completely and for all time. She is a great believer in Ozone now, and so is her pastor, the Rev. J. Frederick Renaud, who has known her for twenty years, and who is quite conversant with her cure by this drugless product. He vouches for the facts in her case and gives Ozone great praise.

MRS. ELLEN SMITH, Montreal.

Mrs. Ellen Smith Writes:

"Having been greatly benefited by Powley's Liquified Ozone, I feel it my duty to allow it to be known to the public at large.

"I had been a fearful sufferer from eczema for many years. The disease centered in both limbs, below the knees. The left especially, was swollen to alarming dimensions, while the inflammation, irritation, and hard, scaly condition, induced a degree of suffering which only the mercy of God prevented me from ending in suicide.

"I spent the best of three years on my back, besides different periods in three hospitals. Then at home I could not go as far as the next room without the aid of crutches, and altogether my case was considered past help, for I had had the best skill in the country to no purpose.

"I have now used five bottles of Ozone, and I rejoice to say that both limbs are reduced to their normal size, the burning is entirely gone, and I can walk alone with perfect ease, although I am now sixty years of age.

"The Ozone also cured an advanced stage of liver disorder, and I am willing at all times to tell my experience to other sufferers. (Signed) MRS. ELLEN SMITH,
31 St. Andre Street, Montreal.

The Rev. J. Frederick Renaud's Corroboration.

"To Whom it May Concern:

"I beg to state that I have known Ellen Smith for over twenty years, and for the past nine years she has suffered from a running sore but was unable to obtain any permanent relief until she tried Powley's Liquified Ozone, to the beneficial effect of which she bears most grateful testimony."

(Signed) REV. J. FREDERICK RENAUD, 82 St. Herbert Street, Montreal, P. Q.

There is no other way of proving the value of a preparation, so valuable, so positive, than by investigating the statements made about it and finding out if the facts are just as they are represented. We always solicit the freest possible investigation of the claims we make for Ozone, and to widen the scope of such an undertaking by you, we suggest that you make enquiries of your druggist. Oftentimes cases come under his notice that he can refer you to. As these cases may not have had our attention, you will get an absolutely unbiased opinion of this great drugless preparation—Powley's Liquified Ozone.

THE GERM THEORY OF CANCER

For many years the medical profession ridiculed the theory of the germ origin of cancer. A brochure on this subject, published by Messrs. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., which will be sent to any one interested on receipt of two stamps, tells all about the germ origin of cancer, and the most successful method of treating this dangerous disease without the need of resorting to knife or plaster.

DEATH OF A WELL KNOWN CITIZEN

MR. REG. LAMBTON SEWELL CROSSED THE DARK RIVER LAST EVENING.

A well-known resident of the city passed away last evening in the person of Mr. Reginald Lambton Sewell, familiarly known as "Capt." Sewell. Deceased was a son of the late Dr. James A. Sewell, for many years Dean of the Faculty of Medicine at Laval University, Montreal, and was born in the city of Quebec. He was also a grandson of the late Chief Justice Sewell, of Quebec. Mr. Sewell had been ailing for some time and his demise was not unexpected. Previous to coming to this city to reside the deceased was a resident of Winnipeg, and in the year 1885 did active service in the North-West rebellion. After this he was for some time with the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, sailing upon the lakes. Some years ago he married Mrs. Chas. Bell, a daughter of the late City Treasurer, Mr. L. H. Henderson. She, with two sons and one daughter, survive. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from his late residence, North Front St.

A BANK STORY.

An Incident That Startled the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street.

Some years ago the directors of the Bank of England were startled to receive an invitation to meet an unknown man in the strongroom of the bank at midnight. "You think you is all safe hand you bank his safe, but I knows better. I bin hinside the bank the last 2 nite hand you nose nuffin about it. But I am nott a theaf so hif yer will mett mee in the great squar room, with all the moneys, at twelf 2 nite, He explain orl to you, let only thor 2 cum down, and say nuffin to nobody." The strongroom was guarded the next night in spite of a disposition to regard the letter as a hoax by police and—nothing happened.

The next phase of the mystery was more astonishing than ever. A heavy chest of papers and securities taken from the strongroom arrived at the bank, with a letter complaining that the directors had set the police upon the writer, and that he had therefore not appeared as he promised, but to prove that he was neither a thief nor a fool he sent a chest of papers he had taken from the bank. Let a few gentlemen be alone in the room, and he would join them at midnight, said the writer, and to cut short a long and strange chapter of bank history, a man with a dark lantern burst into the strongroom of the bank at midnight after calling from behind the stone walls for the directors to put out the lights. He was one of a strange class of men who gained a living by searching the sewers at night, and through an opening from a sewer he had found his way into the richest room in the world.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness of any kind, first thing get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25c.

VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1902 NO. 166

YESTERDAY IN CITY CHURCHES

League Sunday at Tabernacle—Sermon on "Show Thyself a Man"

Notes of Services in Belleville's Different Places of Worship Yesterday

Tabernacle.

Yesterday was Epworth League Sunday at this church, and sermons appropriate to the younger members of the League were preached by the Rev. A. C. Crews, who is the General Secretary of the Leagues of the Methodist Church. Large congregations were present, and sermons of an able nature were delivered by the preacher of the day. In the evening the subject discussed was "Moral Strength; how to develop it and how to use it." The text was from 1st Kings, 2nd chapter and 2nd verse:

"I go the way of all the earth; be thou strong, therefore, and show thyself a man."

These words were uttered by David to his son Solomon, as the aged patriarch's life was drawing to a close. He had won for his people an honored peace and as the sands of life were about run out he desired to impart to his son and successor words of wisdom. He was anxious that his son should not only be a perfect man physically, but a true and honored man in every sense of the word. How rapidly are the aged passing away from our midst and the responsibilities of life being placed on the younger generation! The words of David are truly applicable to them. It was necessary that they should be strong in every sense, physically, morally and spiritually. Every person is under an obligation to take care of his body and develop that body. Our young people should be urged to develop their physical powers. What is needed to-day are strong characters in this direction. We want those who have strength of a noble purpose, that will draw out and develop all that is good within us. No one ever became great without a noble purpose. It is the motive power of manhood and womanhood. Unswerving adherence to principles is another noble purpose. How proud as Canadians we were of the Canadian Contingents who were assisting in fighting for principles in South Africa. As they were fighting for right so we should fight for right on the battle field of the world. You may suffer, as many have, for doing the right, but nevertheless do it. True manhood requires also that you be heroic and courageous. We should also have perfect self-control. Slavery, as we learn of it, has been abolished, and yet there are still slaves in the world, men who are still slaves to habits. The speaker referred to the enslaving power of passions, strong drink and tobacco, admonishing all who were its victims to overcome it. Whatever our weaknesses might be we can overcome them, if for our motto we take the Lord Jesus Christ who will be our help in every time of need. In Him is all virtue and grace. He will supply the courage to overcome all temptations. The great transformation of character is through Jesus Christ and He is sufficient. Place in His hands the reins and He will guide you safely through the journey of life.

During the service special music was rendered by the choir. Miss Mabel Vermilyea sang sweetly and effectively a solo entitled "Face to Face."

Holloway Street.

Rev. C. H. Coon yesterday occupied this pulpit in the absence of the Pastor, and preached two good sermons. In the morning the Rev. gentleman's text was from Jeremiah, 1st chapter and 19th verse:

Emmanuel R. E. Church.

The Rector, Rev. W. J. Gilliland, preached at both services yesterday. At the evening service his text was:

"And they were filled with the Holy Ghost."

If congregations, nowadays, were filled with righteousness, as the Apostles were, there would be better work done for the cause of Christ in the world. If the Christian churches of Belleville had a right conception of their duty, and were not afraid to do it, one would not see eleven drunken men staggering home on Sunday night, as he had seen. What was needed was less show and more real Christianity.

Baptist.

Good congregations were present at both services yesterday. The Pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott, occupied the pulpit and preached two able discourses. In the evening the Rev. gentleman's subject was "The four-fold aspect of Salvation," and the scripture texts were from 2nd Corinthians, 5th chapter, 18th and 19th verses; 1st Epistle of John, 3rd chapter and 9th verse; John 14th chapter and 17th verse; Isaiah, 41st chapter and 10th verse.

St. Thomas'.

Rev. G. R. Beamish, rector, yesterday conducted the services and preached to good congregations. In the morning his subject was "Love your enemies," and the text was from St. Luke, 6th chapter, 31st and 32nd verses.

St. John's.

The Rector, Rev. Rural Dean Bogert, officiated at both services yesterday. In the morning his text was from Micah, 6th chapter and 3rd verse.

John Street.

At both services at this place of worship the attendance was large. The Pastor, Rev. A. H. Drumm, preached at both services. In the evening the Rev. gentleman reviewed the New Testament and its teachings. No particular text was taken by the preacher.

Bridge Street.

At the morning service the Rev. Dr. Galbraith preached, his subject being "Modes of Baptism." In the evening Rev. C. M. Combs occupied the pulpit. His text was from 2nd Timothy, 4th chapter and 17th verse.

Solos were given at both services by Miss Wheler.

St. Andrew's.

Owing to the sudden illness of the Pastor, Rev. M. W. Maclean, only one service was held in this church, namely, in the morning, when the Rev. gentleman preached. His text was from St. John, 15th chapter and 14th verse:

"Ye are my friend if ye do whatsoever I command you."

Bleecker Avenue.

The Pastor preached in the morning and Rev. Dr. Galbraith at night. The evening service was on the Referendum and the Ontario Liquor Act of 1902. His address gave much encouragement to the temperance workers for the coming election. A good attendance and interest was manifested.

Christ Church.

Rev. W. B. Heeney, rector, was the preacher of the day and in the morning his subject was "Christ is our Peace." In the evening the Rev. gentleman in the place of a sermon, read the pastoral of the Bishops at the recent general Synod held in Montreal.

During the evening service Mr. Ned Henthorn sang a solo entitled "Thy King."

DIED ON THE VOYAGE

FAMOUS BASS SINGER OF THE CORONATION CHOIR MET SAD DEATH.

Two members of the Coronation Choir party who are now on tour in Canada, Charles Ackerman and Charles Ellison, were compelled to return to London, and their places were taken by two other members, Herbert Hilton and James Leyland. The singers from Westminster Abbey can only secure limited leave of absence, and on this account the party of singers now on tour in Canada must be recruited in relays. Mr. Ackerman and Mr. Ellison sailed from New York on October 25th by the Lucania, and the sad news has just come that Mr. Ackerman died on board ship on his way home. He was the possessor of a very fine bass voice, and was recognized as one of the finest glee singers in England. He was a gentleman of the Chapel Royal, St. James, and a lay vicar of Westminster Abbey.

Gave Him a Send-off

Prescott Messenger: On Wednesday evening last, Mr. R. A. Whitney, teller of the Merchants' Bank, was entertained to a farewell supper at the Royal hotel by a number of his friends, the occasion being his departure for Belleville where he will fill the accountant's desk of the branch in that city.

The chair was occupied by Mr. F. Jemmett, local manager of the Merchants, and a right royal evening was spent, the departing guest receiving hearty congratulations on his promotion.

Many kindly things were said and the glad grasp of friendship was freely exchanged among Mr. Whitney's well wishers who were present.

The affair was altogether impromptu but was none the less warm on that account.

Mr. Whitney left for Belleville last evening.

Ontario Justice

(Brockville Times.)

There seems to be something exceedingly rotten about the morals of this pious Province of Ontario. Not long ago the Rev. Mr. Ffrench, a gentleman formerly resident in the northern part of this riding, wrote a letter to The Belleville Intelligencer complaining of the gross immorality which was allowed to go unpunished and unchecked in the district of Hastings, in which he now lives. The Belleville Intelligencer published the letter with the comment that it did so only on account of the high standing and character of the Rev. Mr. Ffrench, so grave were the charges made by him.

On Wednesday the Hamilton Spectator published an editorial article headed "Miscarriage of Justice," which said:

"A prominent citizen of Dunnville writes to the Spectator to complain of the manner in which justice is handled in that town. According to the letter the mishandling of justice in Dunnville is so glaring that the Spectator hesitates to print the letter—which gives full names and particulars—lest there may be some mistake."

The cases mentioned were burglary and criminal assault upon a little girl, the offenders going practically without punishment.

The morals of Ontario seems to be as bad as the Government—putrid.

THE STORY OF MORNING TIREDNESS

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic, invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you a sharp appetite, promote good digestion and sound sleep; it will feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigor, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. DEWET'S BOOK ON THE LATE WAR

SAYS DEFEAT OF BOERS WAS DUE TO APPALLING TREACHERY.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—The Lokal Anzeiger prints from the advance sheets a summary of General Dewet's book, "The Struggle Between Boer and Briton." It says the work dispassionately, dignifiedly, and frankly reproaches England for provoking the war and for committing cruelties in conducting it, but the author does not spare his own people, of whom he says that noble characters were extremely rare among the fighting Boers. Stupidity, cowardice, lack of discipline, faithlessness and abominable treason were to be met with among them to an appalling degree. Had there not been so many traitors in their own camp the Boers would never have been so utterly defeated.

LIKE ONE OF CLARK RUSSELL'S TALES

TERRIBLE SUFFERINGS OF SURVIVORS OF BRITISH STEAMER ELINGAMITE.

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 16—The eight survivors of the wreck of the British steamer Elingamite, who were picked up on a raft by the British sloop of war Penguin, were rescued last Thursday, sixty miles from West King Island, the scene of the wreck. They had been drifting since November 9 without any food, except two apples. Each apple was cut into sixteen pieces, there being fifteen men and the stewardess on the raft when it left the wreck. Three of the men became maddened by drinking sea water and leaped overboard. Four others and the stewardess died of starvation and exposure. The survivors suffered agonizingly on the raft. This was twelve feet long by seven feet wide. It was half submerged, and every sea swept over it, drenching its occupants. On the night of Nov. 11 the castaways saw the lights of a steamer, and shouted frantically. The steamer lowered a boat, which passed within fifty yards of the raft. Then, although those on the raft continued shouting, the boat turned and went back to the steamer, apparently not having heard the cries for help.

After this, despondency seized the occupants of the raft. One of them tried to appease his hunger by chewing his handkerchief.

When the Penguin's boat went alongside the raft only one of the shipwrecked men was able to stand. All of them were in a most emaciated condition, and their faces, hands, and legs were raw from exposure to the sun and water. All hope of finding the remaining forty persons from the Elingamite has been abandoned.

A Small Fire

Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning a fire started in a room in Dr. J. A. Marshall's house, on Charles St. It was extinguished without the aid of the firemen, who were, however, called out. It is alleged that children playing with matches was the cause. Some clothing belonging to Miss Marshall was burned. The loss, probably $100 to $150, is covered by insurance.

MISS JONES' VOICE GREATLY IMPROVED.

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from colds, coughs and catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by prima donnas, members of parliament, lawyers, doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentery, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures cramps, colic, pain in the stomach and sick headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

PREFONTAINE'S BIOGRAPHY.

A short biography of the new Minister of Marine and Fisheries may not be uninteresting to our readers: "It was in 1886 that Mr. Prefontaine, the new Ottawa Minister, entered Federal politics. The Riel agitation was then at its height. Mr. Prefontaine ran under the auspices of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the late Mr. Mercier as the Nationalist candidate in Chambly. The first great meeting in this campaign was held at Longueuil. Mr. Mercier and Prefontaine were the leading speakers on the Liberal side. The new Minister of Marine and Fisheries traced a picture of the scaffold at Regina and the events leading up to its erection, which inflamed the hearts of his fellow-countrymen of Quebec, and when Mr. Chapleau advanced to address the crowd, someone shouted, 'Hang him, as he hanged Riel.' Mr. Chapleau got safely away, and afterwards addressed the electors at various gatherings with such marvellous effect, that notwithstanding the seductive influence of the Riel cry, Mr. Prefontaine was elected by a majority of only 54. Mr. Prefontaine was one of Mr. Mercier's right hand men.

The description given by the Montreal Herald, Witness and La Patrie, of his political and municipal career has already appeared in these columns. Knowing what his past has been, it is not difficult to diagnose what his future will be.

Infectious diseases are breathed into the system from those affected with disease or from bad smells; yet how many women breathe daily the offensive steam from common soaps made from rancid fats, and keep their hands for hours in such solutions, and the clothing from such soap suds is worn next the tender skin. CROSS FIRE FOR MITCHELL

Champion of the Miners Meets the Coal Barons' Lawyers.

A Sharp Battle of Wit—Interesting Evidence Submitted—Miners Should Get $600 a Year, and Breaker Boys $7 a Week—A Concrete Statement of Just What the Miners Demand—A Big Street Railway Boycott.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 17.—President Mitchell concluded his evidence before the Strike Commission Saturday. For two days he was subjected to a rigid cross fire from the representatives of the coal companies. His views were expressed in an answer to Judge Grey, who did not appear to understand a remark he had made, when he observed: "Our demand is that the rate of wages and the conditions of employment be embodied in an agreement between the union and the operators."

The strike leader was told that the increase of wages to the miners would mean an increase of the price of fuel to consumers, and was asked if he thought that would be fair. He replied: "Any corporation that cannot afford to pay living wages should go out of business." He said he thought $600 the lowest living wage that a miner should earn, as this amount would be required if he educated his children. President Mitchell asserted that he thought the organization had the right to demand that no mine worker be employed for more than eight hours a day. Lawyer McVeigh asked him if he thought he had the right to compromise and restrict ambitious workers, and he replied in the affirmative, if that was what eight hours a day meant.

"And you think you have the right to ask the coal companies to become your partners in forcing such a condition?" asked the lawyer, which Mr. Mitchell declared was exactly what he would demand.

As to Hours of Service.

The witness was asked if he thought 3 hours' work a day ought to entitle a miner to earn $600, to which he said no, and denied the suggestion of the operators, that any of the contract miners could earn that amount in so short a time. He was told that miners had on deposit in the Forest City Bank $173,000 but he said that did not necessarily denote prosperity among miners. Mr. McVeigh asked President Mitchell if he knew why the coal companies had advanced the price of coal since the strike. "To pay what they have lost by the mines closing down," Mr. Mitchell said. "No," replied the lawyer, "but to repay the companies for the property the strikers damaged during the strike."

"You think breaker boys should have $7 per week?" "I do." "Well, messenger boys receive but $1 per day, and they work every day. The breaker boys do not work every day." "No, breaker boys are not allowed to work every day by the company, but they have to live every day," replied President Mitchell.

This is a fair sample of all the questions asked the leader of the miners by the legal representative of the operators. The balance of the meeting was devoted to showing that the wages of the miners are equal to those paid other forms of labor, that the hours of the men are not too long, and that many of the accidents are due to carelessness.

A Big Boycott.

Schenectady, N.Y., Nov. 17.— The Committee of the Trades' Assembly has arranged the details of the boycott against the Schenectady Railway Company. The boycott will actually be enforced at 6 o'clock this morning. Seventy-one men, one from each union, will watch the cars and will be aided by others if necessary. Every union man found riding on cars will lose his union card; every business man will be warned not to ride again, and will be boycotted if the warning is disregarded; if any employe continues to ride after being warned, his employer will be notified to discharge him. There are, it is estimated 2,800 persons who live at such a distance from the general electric or locomotive works that they are dependent upon the cars. It has also been decided to extend the boycott to the use of gas and electric light, both of which are maintained and controlled by the Schenectady Railway Company.

FIRED TWICE AT LEOPOLD

Italian Anarchist Tries to Kill King of the Belgians.

Would-Be Assassin Rubino's Shots Were Wild, and Neither Bullet Hit Its Mark—Police Make Two Arrests and Scour Resorts For Possible Accomplices—What the Anarchist Says of Himself—King Edward VII, Closely Guarded.

Brussels, Nov. 17.—An Italian Anarchist named Rubino fired two shots at King Leopold Saturday as His Majesty was leaving the cathedral after a requiem service in memory of the late Queen Marie Henriette. The shots went wild, and Rubino was arrested after being roughly handled by the crowd.

Rubino had been haunting the Northern Railway station for several days, awaiting the arrival of the King. He declares that if he had been able to meet the train on its arrival he certainly would have succeeded in his purpose.

After missing the train at the station, he went to the cathedral. When the King came out and the carriage started Rubino fired and there would have been a victim had not Prof. Standaert struck Rubino's arm as he aimed. One bullet crashed through the window of the carriage occupied by Count d'Oultremont, the Grand Marshal of the Palace. The King's carriage had passed out of range.

The King preserved his usual calm demeanor, but Princess Clementine was considerably affected and suffered from shock.

It was with the greatest difficulty that the gendarmerie prevented the people from lynching Rubino. He was badly bruised by the blows of the crowd, who beat him with sticks and umbrellas.

The police scoured the Anarchist resorts here on a search for possible accomplices of Rubino. One arrest has already been made of a noted Belgian Anarchist, named Chapelle. Many other arrests will probably follow. Several persons who were near to Rubino when he fired the revolver, assert that he was accompanied by another man, who escaped among the crowd.

It is thought possible that this individual was an accomplice who carried off the revolver, which the police have not yet found. Rubino, who has a wife and child in London, affects a profound indifference, as to his fate, which cannot be death, since capital punishment has been abolished in Belgium.

The Man's Identity.

Rome, Rov. 17.—The Ministry of the Interior has established the identity of the assailant of King Leopold. Hit name is Gennaro Rubino, and he is described in their records as an advanced Socialist. He was condemned to a long term of imprisonment for stealing in Milan in 1893, but he effected his escape to England, where he is supposed to have imbibed his Anarchistic principles.

His father was a patriotic communal councillor, but Rubino, while still serving in the army, was condemned to five years' detention for writing a subversive newspaper article. These are the only criminal records that have been found against him. Since leaving Italy he has resided continuously in Scotland and England, first in Glasgow and afterwards in London. Some years ago he was accused of treachery by his Anarchistic friends and expelled from their ranks.

Rubino Hates Socialists.

Brussels, Nov. 17.—In Rubino's pockets were found picture postcards bearing portraits of King Leopold, Prince Albert and the Princess Elizabeth. The prisoner said he procured the cards so as to be able to recognize the members of the royal family and expressed the hope that others would be more successful than himself.

He also said that he did not regret his act and would have fired at any monarch, "at the King of Italy as readily as at the King of the Belgians because monarchs are tyrants who cause the misery of their peoples."

Finally he declared he hated Socialists because they were friends of the police and asserted that he had no accomplices.

Would Have Killed King Edward.

According to some reports, Rubino, in the course of his examination before the magistrate declared that he selected King Leopold for his attack, on account of His Majesty's inhuman conduct towards his daughter, Princess Stephanie, at the time of her mother's death and he also wished to show to the Anarchists in London who doubted his loyalty that while they only talked, he acted. He would have killed King Edward, he added, but for the strong feeling of the English people in favor of the monarchy.

CLOSE GUARD OVER EDWARD VII.

Two Insane Women Arrested on the Way to Sandringham.

London, Nov. 17. — Two women, mother and daughter, of the name of Ovington, were arrested at Wolferton Saturday morning. They left London on Thursday, asking for tickets to Sandringham.

The railway officials become suspicious and quesioned them. The women said they wished to speak to the King.

They were arrested, but were afterward sent to an asylum, as they are undoubtedly insane.

The Ovingtons, mother and daughter, lived in New York for five years. Afterward they went to Ireland.

They stayed at Wolferton on Thursday night and attempted to approach the King on Friday while he was out shooting. The King's chief detective, noticing their strange behavior, ordered their arrest.

The Other Half

Half the children in the world actually need Scott's Emulsion. The other half would be benefitted by it. A goodly portion of the latter half have already been helped by Scott's Emulsion. They have been made comfortable and well. They have been supplied with the element of fat that their bodies are constantly in need of. Scott's Emulsion has done even more for them; it has furnished nourishment which their ordinary food has not supplied.

The lack of proper nourishment in a child's food is responsible for its failure to thrive and grow as it should. So long as the important elements of nourishment are not contained in the child's food it will remain thin and lack the plumpness and glow of youth that marks the properly fed child.

What can be done for such children? Give them Scott's Emulsion. It is so palatable and acceptable that children like it. Cream of cod liver oil it could be called, for it resembles cream very closely. Moreover, being predigested, Scott's Emulsion enters the system quickly and with least tax upon the stomach. The delicate digestive organs of a backward child accept and retain Scott's Emulsion when other forms of nourishment are repulsive. It makes up the short-comings of a child's ordinary food and furnishes nourishment and fat in proper proportions and in the proper way.

So-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil should always be avoided. No matter what the claims may be, they do not contain the value of the whole oil, and hence are worthless in cases where a reliable cod liver oil preparation is necessary. Their sole purpose is to taste nice, and the use of alcohol and strong extracts makes them really harmful in many cases. Scott's Emulsion contains the whole oil carefully prepared, palatably presented, and is a safe and reliable preparation.

The Monarchs Kissed.

London, Nov. 17.—Emperor William concluded his visit to King Edward Saturday morning and started on his visit to Lord and Lady Lonsdale at Lowther Castle, Penrith, Cumberland. Emperor William, King Edward and the Prince of Wales occupied an open carriage drawn by four horses and preceded by outriders. Emperor William and King Edward entered the saloon car together and kissed each other on both cheeks. King Edward then left the car.

Potatoes Worth £500 a Ton.

London, Nov. 17.—Country Life describes the history of the potato known as the Northern Star, as one of the romances of finance. It was brought out in 1901 by a Fifeshire grower, who parted with a few tons at the extraordinary price of £1.12 a ton. This is about 10 shillings a pound, at which rate two pounds were purchased by a Lincolnshire dealer. From this two pounds there will be grown this year 120 pounds. The dealer was so pleased with the result that he bought a further quantity at £500 a ton, which is the rate for 1902.

After an English Railway.

Manchester, Nov. 17.—There are reports in circulation that a United States syndicate is making overtures for the purchase of a leading English railway, which is believed to be the Great Central, running from Manchester and Sheffield to London. The negotiations for the purchase of the road are in progress, and if the deal is completed, the system will be electrified throughout.

Largest Surgical Fee Ever Paid.

J. Ogden Armour of Chicago recently persuaded Dr. Adolf Lorenz, one of the world's most famous surgeons, to come to America to perform an operation on the millionaire's little daughter, Lolita. Some children are so unlucky as to be born with their hip-joint out of its socket. Of course unless the joint can be put in place such children are cruelly crippled for life. This misfortune had happened to the little daughter of Mr. Armour. By orthopaedic surgery, without the shedding of blood, and by the use of hands and instruments that will move the dislocated bones and sinews into their proper place, Dr. Lorenz has effected many cures of such cases. After operating successfully on the little Armour girl, a service for which he is said to have received a fee of one hundred thousand dollars, the largest fee on record for a single operation, Dr. Lorenz gave a demonstration at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Chicago, where, with eight hundred doctors and students looking at him, he did for nine afflicted children the same service he had done for Mr. Armour's child. The newspaper account of how he did it describes the unconscious child brought to him, the "large projection at the hip-joint caused by the head of the dislocated femur," and the corresponding depression in the groin, "deep and discolored, with the surrounding flesh shrunken and unnatural in appearance," showing where the head of the bone belonged. Then the despatch says:

"The surgeon took the leg in his hands, drew it up at right angles to the body and, holding it, paused to say: 'The manipulations I am about to make might with ease break the bones of the leg. It is not necessary to break bones, however. It is only necessary to know how to handle them.' A series of rapid, deft turns, twists, and pulls followed. Suddenly the surgeon paused. He held the leg in one hand and pointed with the other to the spot where the dislocation had been so apparent. The spectators then saw the culminating point of the operation. The ugly protrusion was gone; the depression beside it was gone too, and except for the discoloration of the flesh the entire hip appeared like the other. The eight hundred onlookers broke out in applause. No knife had been used nothing had been done, as was formerly believed indispensable to prepare the socket for the presence of the dislocated femur. Knowledge, skill, a certain amount of daring and precision of movement, which showed a knowledge to a hair's-breadth of how far to move and twist, had wrought what medical men say will be a cure. It had taken five minutes."

Exploiting the First-Hand.

A well-known publisher (whose name shall be kept dark), has thought fit in an advertisement of a novel by a well-known authoress (not Miss Marie Corelli, by the way) to say:

"In London society, as everyone knows, Mrs. —— is one of the most sought after of women. She can thus write of high life upon no mere second-hand acquaintance with it."

So bad an example is pretty sure to be followed, and we may soon expect to see paragraphs framed on the same intrusive model. As for instance:

Miss Amaryllis Intheshade is about to give the world a volume of short stories, with the tender passion as the motif of them all. As it is notorious that the authoress is the most proposed-to debutante of the Coronation year, she clearly writes with an amount of experience that can hardly be excelled or even equalled.

"Blacksheep" is the title of a forthcoming work by an anonymous author. We understand that as he has valeted some of the most gentlemanly scoundrels in Europe a lively and piquant book may confidently be looked for.

Lord Lettem Havitt's book on "Mayors I Have Met" is in the press and will be ready almost immediately. As Lord Lettem Havitt holds the record for freedom of boroughs presented for service in South Africa, it is clear that some entertaining experiences can hardly fail to be recounted.

Mr. Hippo Potamus has just completed the work on animals on which for some years past he has been engaged. As Mr. Potamus is himself an awful beast, he writes with first-hand knowledge of his subject.

The Plain Truth.

Judge Foster of the Court of General Sessions in New York, deserves commendation for having put the stamp of legal condemnation upon the miserable delusion that a woman can reform a man by simply marrying him. The occasion arose where a suspension of sentence was asked for a young man arraigned before him for sentence on the charge of larceny, the plea being based on the ground that the prisoner was engaged to an "estimable young lady" who would marry him at once if he were set free. Judge Foster refused to suspend sentence, and sent the man to the penitentiary for six months. He had investigated the fellow's record, he said, and found it bad. He added that he hoped that during this period the young woman would investigate the prisoner's history herself and take back her promise to marry him. It is too much to hope that the wretched old fallacy will suffer very much from this legal pronouncement, but if it saves even one woman from yoking herself for life to a brute and a criminal it will be a cause for gratitude.

Filial Piety.

A train full of pioneers was starting for a new settlement in the Woolly West, and an interested stranger was looking on.

"Yes, sir," said the head of the party to him, "we are taking with us everything that is required for the founding of a new city, and I guess we haven't got a thing that won't come in useful."

"What about that old man over there?" asked the stranger, pointing to a hoary patriarch with a white beard.

"That, sir, is my father," was the reply.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," said the stranger, apologetically.

"Yes, sir; and let me tell you that we are proposing to inaugurate the new Jugginsville Cemetery with the old man."

"Yessuh, I don bin ter de t'eayter," said Parson Snowflake, "an' I seen dese hyuh membahs o' mah race a-actin' on de stage, too. An' I jes' got dis ter say—de cullud actahs am a moughty po'r imertation ob de white man's imertation ob da cullud man."

Mrs. Pat's Costly Mistake

In a recent interview Mrs. Patrick Campbell, says "Leslie's Weekly," tells of a mistake she made and how she got herself disliked simply through lack of understanding. "There is a critic on one of the big newspapers in New York who really dislikes me and will say nothing good of me, and I don't blame him either, but it was all through a mistake on my part. You see, it is customary in England to give on a first night, after the performance, a supper on the stage to one's friends and associates. Over there we never think of inviting the representatives of the press. It would be positive bad form—like catering, you know, for favorable criticism. Well, it never occurred to me when I came over here that the same rule did not apply on this side, also, so on my opening night last season I planned the usual little celebration and told my business manager I should be pleased to receive any friends whom he might wish to invite. Well, of course, I thought nothing more about it. The opening came and the performance passed off very satisfactorily, and our friends began to come in for the little party. We were just sitting down to supper when a card was sent in to me. 'Mr. ———, New York.' Well, being hostess, I was very busy just then, and, seeing the name of the newspaper, I supposed, of course, it was a reporter, and I sent word back that I couldn't see him. Well, it turned out that he was my business manager's friend, whom he had invited to supper at my request. Dear! dear! it makes my head ache to think of it! Such a rude thing to do; but I was hardly to blame under the circumstances. I just thought it would be bad form to receive a newspaper man at such a time. It would have been in England."

Generosity in the Churches.

Those who believe, or affect to believe, that religion is declining throughout the countries of Christendom will find no support for their pessimistic notions in the figures showing the amounts already collected for the "twentieth century" funds started by various denominations in this country and Europe. These funds have already reached a total of $40,000,000, and the promoters of these enterprises are confident that they will have the balance of $10,000,000 more. Of the amount raised, more than one-half is credited to the churches of the United States, the Methodists being far in the lead in liberality. The Canadian Methodists started in to raise $1,000,000, and have already secured that and $250,000 besides. The Presbyterians of Canada set out for the same million-dollar goal, and have already gone nearly a half million beyond it.

It is especially gratifying to note that all these enormous sums have been collected at an expense of less than one per cent. of the total, and also that in spite of this generous giving it has in no way interfered with the regular contributions to missionary societies and to the support of churches. On the contrary, all religious societies show an increase in receipts, and there is hardly one that is not out of debt, a condition that has not obtained in years. The funds collected are to be used first for the payment of church debts, and after that for the endowment of colleges, missionary societies, and other religious institutions.

As giving and doing are always closely related, it is unbelievable that this outpouring of millions for the extension of religion at home and abroad will not be speedily followed by a corresponding development and increase in the spiritual life and activities of the churches. The open hand and the open heart generally go together.

An Organ Cut of Order.

The manner in which a gang of forgers in Warsaw have been discovered and broken up makes curious reading. A domiciliary visit had to be paid by the police to a house, and on the arrival of the officers no opposition was offered to their entry. Inside one of the rooms, however, they found a man playing a cabinet organ, and all the time the visit lasted the man remained at the organ. As they were about to leave the house the officer in charge of the police, being something of a musician himself, asked the performer to play the Russian National Hymn before they left. This the man did, but the officer was not pleased with the performance, and complained that the player did not put enough expression into the melody. The man explained that he was unable to do so, as the loud pedal arrangement of the organ was out of order. The officer at once volunteered to repair it, and, in spite of the protests of the performer, set to work to do so. Great was his surprise on opening the instrument to discover that the pedal would not work because bundles of forged notes had been stuffed into the instrument. Arresting everyone in the house, the police carefully examined the organ, and found, besides the notes, documents which revealed the membership of the gang of forgers.

Gilded Gluttony.

Commenting on the tremendous amount of food consumed on the average Atlantic liner nowadays, a writer in the Springfield "Republican" says: "At eight comes the monumental breakfast; at eleven the deck steward fills up the comatose figures in the morgue with their beef-tea from those thick, obese English cups; at one, the magnanimous luncheon; at five, the sleepers assaulted by the deck steward again; at seven, the awesome English dinner; at nine-thirty, a trifling lunch to ballast you for bed. Besides this, barbaric mounds of sandwiches, olives, cheese, crackers, perpetually stare you in the face in the smoking-room. Food, food, food; the sight and smell of it pursue the unwilling stomach in every corner of the place; food, tasted, wasted, thrown away. There is one porthole on the steerage deck, from the galley, apparently, which belches it forth in a continuous stream—half-loaves of bread, great remnants of meat; we have left a trail of it across the Atlantic. If someone would only estimate the tons of wasted food which are annually thrown into the Atlantic, or could calculate how much cheaper these steamship companies could give us our travel, if they substituted plain, self-respecting fare for this gilded gluttony, it would certainly be interesting and worth while."

Giles—Take two letters from "money" and "one" will be left. Miles—Is that a joke? "Yes, verily." "Well, I know of a fellow who took money from two letters, and it was no joke, either. He got one year."

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alterative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kimloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years, and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

TIMELY TOPICS.

The idea of a local stock company to run the Rolling Mills is viewed with favor by nearly everybody with whom we have spoken. Talking to a clergyman who for almost a generation has lived in Belleville, he recalled old times in this city, when local capital was invested on every hand, and when the Micawber-like spirit which seems to prevail at present was entirely unknown. "Cannot the well-to-do people of this city realize," he said, "that Providence helps those who help themselves? If they want their property to appreciate in value they must themselves do something to bring about the desired end. The futility of depending on outsiders has, I think, been well shown."

• • •

The good gentleman's words are only too true. There is plenty of capital in Belleville to successfully run the mills if the people who control it would only "loosen up" on it. Why not meet together and talk the matter over? It would cost nothing to do that, and perhaps the news of the reopening of the mills by a local company might come as a glad Christmas box to Belleville people.

• • •

A small property-owner suggests that the $30,000 bonus money might be used as the City's share in the investment. (This might or might not be feasible, but most people think that that free-for-all purse has been left hanging up about long enough. As a so-called "capitalist" is alleged to have told a City Alderman: "It is hard to tell, when you talk to those Toronto people, whether the Rolling Mills or the bonus are on sale."

• • •

The opinion seems to be quietly growing that the personnel of the City Council may well remain as it is for at least another year. There does not seem to be any desire to start an agitation for a change. Certainly the city may go farther and fare worse. Some of the City Fathers, in the discharge of their duties, have proven themselves adepts in the gentle art of making enemies, but as a general thing you find the most sticks under the best apples trees.

Our friends the School Commissioners are coming in for a fair amount of criticism through their action in dodging the cigarette question, which has too much of an "Am I my brother's keeper?" air about it to suit everybody. One hard-headed individual says: "When the Board is told by the teachers that pupils, through cigarette smoking, become muddled and unable to properly do the work set them, it appears to me that the School Commissioners should at least show a willingness to take a hand in the suppression of the evil." Others think parents should co-operate with the police in trying to punish those who sell to minors. But so long as grown-up men will take money from boys and go and purchase the noxious things for them there is no redress against the dealers. And this is done every day. The problem is a hard one, and can only be solved by all parties and public bodies in the city uniting to put it down. As to the evil effects of cigarettes on growing boys, a leading scientist in the U. S. says the immoderate use of them is making more lunatic asylums a necessity, while railroads, banks and large corporations refuse to employ anyone who smokes the evil-smelling cigarette.

"A Householder" writes: "Can you tell me the cost of coal to the wholesale dealers? I have seen so many contradictory reports in the papers that I would like, for my own satisfaction, if possible, to see how matters really do stand."

Anthracite coal, according to the Oswego papers, is quoted at $5.35 f.o.b. at that port. The freight rates are 75 cents a ton. This would make the cost of a ton of coal laid down in Belleville $6.10. This represents a "long" ton, 2,240 lbs., but the consumer receives only 2000 lbs.

STILL UNANSWERED.

(Brockville Times.)

The following item is going the rounds of the Canadian press:

Just watch the Ontario Government soak those counterfeiters the police have caught in Toronto, while the fellow who printed the fraudulent ballots in Brockville didn't get anything worse than a pat on the back.—Belleville Intelligencer.

We regret that the good name of Brockville should be thus besmirched by this direct connection with the criminal rascality of the Grit machine—the forgers, thieves and perjurers of the election corruption gang.

By the way, the Brockville Recorder has never answered the question, Who printed those fraudulent ballots?

A lot of old-timers were swapping stories, and the conversation drifted on to the wonderful change which has taken place in the temperance sentiment in this vicinity in recent years. One gentleman recalled the fact that a generation ago, there were four taverns between here and Trenton, and the country roads in all directions were dotted with them. Credit for the change in sentiment, it was agreed, must be given to the churches. "Teetotallers were rare birds in those days," said one grandfather, with a twinkle in his eye.

HE SURPRISED ELIZA.

(From the Omaha Mercury.)

A story is told of a Pennsylvania farmer who wore his old suit until everyone was tired of it, and his estimable wife was almost ashamed of the hustling man who had been inside it so long. But one day he went to town to sell his produce, and while there he determined to buy a new suit, and, happy thought, surprise Eliza. So he bundled a neat suit into the wagon and drove homeward.

It was after dark as he hurried homeward, and at a bridge over a river he stood up on the wagon and "peeled" and threw the despised old suit in the water. Then he reached for his new clothes. They were gone—had jolted out of the wagon. The night was cold and his teeth chattered as he hurried home. He surprised Eliza even more than he anticipated.

"I hear it whispered," said Mr. Dooley to his friend Hennessy, "that the Light Electric company and the Gas Works are goin' to jine forces, the object, of course, bein' to lower the price of light," and he winked expansively with one eye.

"Niver mind that," said Mr. Dooley, "but what will ye do, Hinnissy, whin the price of light gets higher than the flag staff on the City Hall?"

"I'll do what I always did," said Mr. Hennessy, "burn kerosine."

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

The wonderful experiments in wireless telegraphy as demonstrated for the first time by exchanging signals from a railway station to a train running at a rate of sixty miles an hour, made on the Grand Trunk special train October 13th, 1902, carrying the members of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents to their forty-seventh annual convention held at Portland, Maine, October 14th and 15th, 1902, has prompted the Passenger Department of the Grand Trunk Railway System to issue a publication giving a description of the experiments together with a concise, popular treatise on the principles of wireless telegraphy, dealing with the subject also from an historical point of view and including a chapter on the recent developments of this branch of physical science. This article is from the pen of Howard T. Barnes, D.Sc., F.R.S.C., of the Macdonald Physical Laboratory of McGill University, Montreal, and is most opportune in view of the great interest occasioned by the recent arrival at Glace Bay, Cape Breton, of Signor Marconi, on an Italian warship, with the object of perfecting his plans for wireless telegraphy across the Atlantic Ocean. In addition to the article on this subject, a description of the luxurious Grand Trunk special train on which the experiments were made, and a short resume of the trip from Chicago to Portland, Maine, is given in an interesting manner. Copies of this valuable publication have been mailed to the principal officials of the great railway systems of the world, and anyone desiring a copy can secure one by sending a two cent stamp to G. T. Bell, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3.90 to $15.00.

When the Keys Rattled.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the white key. "You are fearfully 'sharp' today."

"Well," retorted the accused one, "I'd rather be 'A sharp' than 'B flat.'"

"Good gracious," shrieked the string, "keep still! I'm highly strung, and my pedal extremities are affected. I know I shall break in 'pieces.'"

"So I note," murmured the bass.

"I'm cleft in twain," moaned the staff.

"My trouble is trebled since young hopeful began to play," said the book for beginners.

"It's all right while he is only 'A minor,' but wait until he begins to be 'A major.'"

And they all started to have a good "time" with the metronome.

Sensible to the Last.

A good story is told of a late Dublin doctor famous for his skill and also his great love of money. He had a constant and enriching patient in an old shopkeeper. This old lady was terribly rheumatic and unable to leave her sofa. During the doctor's visits she kept a one pound note in her hand, which duly went into Dr. C.'s pocket. One morning he found her lying dead on the sofa. Sighing deeply, the doctor approached, and, taking her hand in his, he saw the fingers closed on his fee.

"Poor thing!" he said as he pocketed it! "Sensible to the last!"

Peking Village Names.

"The Street of the Roasted Corn" is one of the curious names of streets in Peking and suggests the singular and often confusing names given to Chinese villages. Here are a few village names taken from an area of a few miles square: "Horse Words Village," from a tradition of a speaking animal; "Sun Family Bull Village," "Wang Family Great Melon Village," "Tiger Catching Village," "Horse Without a Hoof Village," "Village of the Loving and Benevolent Magistrate" and the "Village of the Makers of Fine Toothed Combs."

Arthur H. Smith in his book on "Village Life In China" says that a market town on the highway, the well of which afforded only brackish water, was called "Bitter Water Shop," but as this name was not pleasing to the ear it was changed on the tax lists to "Sweet Water Shop." If any one asked how it was that the same fountain could thus send forth at the same time waters both bitter and sweet, he was answered, "Sweet Water Shop is the same as Bitter Water Shop."

Superstition That Is Ancient.

In many parts of Great Britain the superstition still survives that it is folly or madness to save a drowning man, as he will sooner or later do an injury to the rescuer. The superstition comes down from our ancestors, yet traces of it exist among the Sioux and other Indians, who seem to have inherited it from aboriginal sources. The belief is most prevalent in Cornwall and various parts of Scotland.

Best Yet

Difficult to beat our past record for superiority in goods.

Difficult to beat our record for low prices.

BUT—

We are doing it now—beating both.

Take Picture Framing for example. There has never before been shown in Belleville a superior line of mouldings than now being shown by us.

Never before have we been prepared to execute super workmanship to that we are now turning out, and

Never before have we offered lower prices, although our prices were always reasonable.

WE KEEP

Three expert framers busy now all the time, framers with many years' experience. Your framing if entrusted to us will not be placed in the hands of inexperienced workmen.

OUR WALL PAPER TRADE

Was never at this time of the year as good as it now is. Of course, we are selling at very low prices, but we can afford to do that. We buy at prices much below the small dealers who run Wall Paper as a side line.

OUR DECORATING

Is of great importance to home makers. Our decorator is constantly being called to different districts of Ontario to design and to execute decorative work of a superior order.

We have at the present writing a big decorative job on in Hamilton, Ont., another at Cobourg, Ont.

ALL OVER CANADA

Our papers go, and all over Ontario our decorator is called on the best decorative work done.

A HINT AS TO CHRISTMAS

Our line will be superb and our prices very low.

A HARROWING RIDE.

Dickens' Trip by Stagecoach From Cleveland to Sandusky.

When Charles Dickens visited America in 1842, he traveled by stagecoach from Cleveland to Sandusky, O. Describing his experience, he wrote:

"At one time we were all thrown together in a heap at the bottom of the coach, and at another we were crushing our heads against the roof. Now the coach was lying on the tails of the two wheelers, and now it was rearing up in the air. The driver, who certainly got over the ground in a manner quite miraculous, so twisted and turned the team in forcing a passage corkscrew fashion through the bogs and swamps that it was a common circumstance on looking out of the window to see the coachman with the ends of a pair of reins in his hands, apparently driving nothing, and the leaders staring unexpectedly at one from the back of the coach, as if they had some idea of getting up behind.

"A great portion of the way was over what is called a 'corduroy road,' which is made by throwing trunks of trees into a marsh and leaving them to settle there. The very slightest of the jolts with which the ponderous carriage fell from log to log was enough, it seemed, to have dislocated all the bones in the human body. It would be impossible to experience a similar set of sensations in any other circumstances unless perhaps in attempting to go up to the top of St. Paul's in an omnibus."

This description serves to illustrate the condition of our country roads, generally speaking, as they were half a century ago except in a few wealthy communities. There has been a wonderful change since then.

Speak Kindly Words Now.

In the course of our lives there must be many times when thoughtless words are spoken by us which wound the hearts of others, and there are also many little occasions when the word of cheer is needed from us and we are silent.

There are lives of wearisome monotony which a word of kindness can relieve. There is suffering which words of sympathy can make more endurable, and often even to the midst of wealth and luxury there are those who listen and long in vain for some expression of disinterested kindness.

Speak to those while they can hear and be helped by you, for the day may come when all our expressions of love and appreciation may be unheard. Imagine yourself standing beside their last resting place. Think of the things you could have said of them and to them while they were yet living. Then go and tell them now.—Exchange.

Painless Deaths.

Probably the least painful death is by means of an overdose of chloroform. You begin with a pleasant sensation and end in oblivion. Prussic acid acts instantaneously. Presuming the agony of anticipation avoided, some violent deaths are quite painless, as they give no time for feeling pain. Such are being blown to pieces by dynamite or by a shell. Drowning is said to be a luxury, and experts have recommended opening a vein in a hot bath. Laudanum and other narcotics would run chloroform and ether hard for first place.

The Daring Little Humming Bird.

Courage has little or no relation to bodily size. The humming bird is the smallest of birds, but also one of the most fearless and pugnacious. He attacks kingbirds and hawks, and those tyrannical creatures, though of monstrous size in comparison, seem not at all ashamed to fly from his onsets. The fights of humming birds among themselves are often fierce and protracted.

Economical.

There is a reminiscence of Caleb Balderstone in the utterance of an economical Scotch butler who was lately waiting at an important dinner. He had taken round a plate of beef in vain. After his last effort at persuasion had failed he set it down in front of his master with decision. "Ye maun tak' that yersel'," he said. "I canna' get any ither customer for it."

MAN-O'-WAR HAWKS.

Feathered Highwaymen That Do Their Fishing in the Air.

The man-o'-war hawk is a somewhat large bird and an expert fisher, but he does most of his fishing in the air. When the booby bird comes home from abroad, he finds the man-o'-war hawk "layin' for him," and, however persistently he may seek to escape by dashing flight, with much screeching and screaming, he finds that before he can safely set foot on the land he must disgorge a fish or two, which the swift pursuer adroitly catches in the air. It seems, however, to be generally understood as a modus vivendi between the fisher and the pirate birds that their contentions were only on the wing and that once on land they should dwell peacefully in their separate camping grounds.

The boobies are awkward and unwieldy on land and may be easily captured. They rarely seek to escape when a man approaches; but, accustomed to meet the demands of their familiar enemy, the man-o'-war hawk, by disgorging a fish in the air, they frequently resort to the same process and lay at the feet of the intruding stranger what stock of fish they have available. The man-o'-war hawks turned this practice to their own advantage by following after any man who might appear among the nesting birds, circling in the air just overhead, ready to pick up the fish which the frightened boobies might give up as a peace offering. The man-o'-war hawks were generally eager for anything and would hover closely, ready to take from the hand of a man whatever he might toss in the air. On one occasion one of these birds swiftly snatched a notebook which lay for a moment on the ground and sailed away, dropping it, however, on finding it to be neither fish nor rat.

U.S. STEALING TERRITORY.

Vancouver Province Scents an Attempt to Appropriate Much Land.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 17.—The Province says: "In the quietest possible manner and with every precaution to secrecy, United States surveyors have encroached upon Canadian territory to the northwest of Cape Fox, and in their survey appropriated thousands of miles of land lying within the boundaries of British Columbia to the westward of Portland Canal.

"It is hardly possible to believe, in view of the presence of a British Columbia Government official at Port Simpson, that Americans can have occupied this territory without such action having come to the knowledge of the Government agent and by him transmitted to the provincial Government and thence to Ottawa."

NEWFOUNDLAND'S OPPORTUNITY.

Believed That Chamberlain Intends to Give Her a Free Hand.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 17.—Great interest is manifested here in the new Bond-Hay convention. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's speech in the House of Commons on Nov. 13, is regarded as an evidence that he does not propose to permit Canada to interfere and prevent the ratification of the treaty in the way in which Canada killed the Bond-Blaine convention in 1890.

It is believed here that Mr. Chamberlain realizes how Newfoundland has been hampered by France on one side and by Canada on the other, and that he is determined to give her an opportunity to work out her future by a commercial union with the United States.

MORE OF KRUGER'S MEMOIRS.

Represents Himself as an Agent For Peace Before the War.

London, Nov. 17.—The Times published Saturday morning another page of extracts from the memoirs of Mr. Kruger dealing with the history of the Transvaal and his own successive terms of office as President. Mr. Kruger enters at great length into the circumstances of the Jameson raid and declares that it was only his influence and his threat to resign the presidency which prevented the burghers from attacking and shooting down all the inhabitants of Johannesburg.

The former President explains that particulars of the course of the war with the British and of its vicissitudes would not come within the scope of the memoirs, as he took no personal part in the fighting. He describes the harrassing life he led at this period, directing and advising the Boer leaders. His sleep was broken many times every night to attend to despatches, etc.

He gives minute details of the removal of the Boer Government from Pretoria and says it was a sad blow to him, especially as his wife was then so old and weak that he could not think of taking her with him. The extracts published also include a description of Mr. Kruger's journey to Europe, and the writer declares that in the matter of peace negotiations he left everything to the discretion of the generals.

Making Foreigners Pay Up.

London, Nov. 17.—Although it is still unsettled what proportion of the expense of the war shall fall on the Transvaal gold mines, the Government is determined that every United States resident of the United Kingdom shall contribute to the extent of 15 pence on every £1 of his income.

Pumped Water 100 Yards.

New York, Nov. 17.—A spectacular and interesting test was made yesterday by the Fire Department of the metal "standpipes" in the lofty new "flatiron" building at the intersection of Broadway, Fifth avenue and 23rd street. The two most powerful engines in the department were used and no difficulty was found in projecting efficient streams from the roof 301 feet above the street level.

Brides "With a Past."

Berlin, Nov. 17. — The wearing of myrtle as a symbol of purity and innocence is an immemorial custom of German brides. One stern pastor, Dr. Idler, the rector of Eberswald, so respects this pleasing symbol that he refuses to allow bribes "with a past" to wear it.

ENGINES FROM U.S. POOR.

Crown Plates Have Worn Out in Four Years in India.

London, Nov. 17.—The manager of the Assam Railway Company says that four United States locomotives, which were received less than four years ago, require new crown plates. He adds that the makers of the locomotives ought to pay the cost of repairs, as failure after such a short space of time could only be due to carelessness in designs. This moves a writer in The Times to express the hope that the Indian Railway Company will learn some day that the lowest priced engine is not necessarily the cheapest.

Toronto Constables Fined.

Sergeant Goulding is fined seven days' pay, equal to $21. Constables Ide, Ward and Guthrie, who accompanied Sergeant Goulding in the assault, are fined each three days pay, equal to about $6 each.

LEARNING A LANGUAGE.

It Is Comparatively Easy to Acquire a Working Vocabulary.

"It doesn't require any great length of time to learn a language if one has patience," said a man who has mastered several languages, "and when I hear a man regret that he is not able to speak French or German or Spanish or some other language unknown to him I cannot conceal my amusement. In nine cases out of ten I might say that the men who express a regret of this sort handle English very poorly if that happens to be their language.

"The chances are that their vocabularies are extremely limited, and it would probably surprise them to know that despite the advantages of birth and education they could not command more than 600 or 700 words in English if their lives depended upon it. Yet they are able to carry on intelligent conversation, and many of them may become forcible and even axiomatic in their savings, and they plunge into discussions of literature, art, music and other subjects of such fine elegance and do it rather successfully too.

"Now, how long ought it to take for a man to learn 600 or 700 or even 1,000 words in any language? Certainly it ought not to take any great length of time, and from my own experience I know that it does not. Of course I am not speaking now of mastering so that one can get the full benefit of all the refinements of speech in a particular tongue.

"But I have in mind the idea of speaking intelligibly in a given language and being able to understand perfectly what is said in return. I have a system which I have worked out, and it has been of vast benefit to me and has enabled me to learn a number of languages. It occurred to me while I was in Mexico a few years ago on important business.

"I could not speak a word of Spanish and could not understand the language. I concluded that I would learn the language. My plan was simply this: I made up my mind that I would not retire at the close of any day as long as I was there without learning at least three words in Spanish, how to pronounce them and what they meant. That would give me ninety words per month, or something over 1,000 in a year's time."

Look Out For Your Pate.

A contemporary says "pate" is slang for head. It is, eh? Wherefore? Surely the word is used in a trivial or derogatory sense, as noddle, noggin, cranium, brainpan, etc., but its origin is eminently respectable. Shakespeare says "the learned pate ducks to the golden fool." Pope's epigram is good:

You beat your pate and fancy wit will come;
Knock as you please, there's nobody at home.

We have "bald pate" and "shave pate." Why, the word is used once in the Bible, and by David, in Psalm vii. 16, "His mischief shall return upon his own head, and his violent dealing shall come down upon his own pate." Accurately, pate does not mean the head, but the crown of the head.

A Forbidden Topic.

"There is one topic peremptorily forbidden to all well bred, to all rational, mortals," says Emerson, "namely, their distempers. If you have not slept or if you have slept or if you have headache or sciatica or leprosy or thunderstroke, I beseech you by all angels to hold your peace and not pollute the morning, to which all the housemates bring serene and pleasant thoughts, by corruption and groans. Come out of the azure. Love the day."

The quotation suggests that, hard as it is to be an invalid, it may prove almost as painful to be an invalid's friend.

Love and Business.

"Dear," she said during an interval of comparative sanity, "promise me one thing."

"Anything," he answered, with the recklessness of love.

"After we have been married a reasonable time if we decide a divorce is desirable promise that my brothers, who are struggling young lawyers, shall represent us."

Open Road to Fame and Fortune.

"My boy," said the old gentleman in a kindly tone, "there's only one thing that stands between you and success."

"And what is that?" asked the youth.

"If you worked as hard at working," explained the old gentleman, "as you do at trying to find some way to avoid working, you would easily acquire both fame and fortune."

The One Qualification.

"What position will our friend take on this momentous question?" asked the grandiloquent man.

"Position?" echoed Senator Sorghum absentmindedly. "Oh, he'll take pretty nearly any position that's open, provided there's salary attached to it."

Too Cool.

"Oh, Major Bloodgore," said girlish gusher, "they say that during the war you were always cool in action."

"Cool!" declared the major. "Why, my dear girl, I was so cool that when I shivered people insinuated that I was trembling."

Assisted.

Sarah—Mr. Rippler says that he is a confirmed bachelor.

Susie—But he didn't say that every girl in town had assisted in confirming him, did he?

Some men take pains naturally, and some give them the same way.—Chicago News.

Purified by Suffering **

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Perhaps Bell was right, Mrs. Cameron said; they would look at both, and as a result of this looking, two dresses, one of the finest poplin, and one of the softest, richest, plaided silk, were given the next day into Mrs. Ryan's hands, with injunctions to spare no pains or expense in trimming and making both. And so the dress-making for Katy's bridal was proceeding in New York, in spite of Helen's letter; while down in Silverton, at the farm-house, there were numerous consultations as to what was proper and what was not, Helen sometimes almost wishing she had suffered Mrs. Ryan to come. Katy would look well in anything, but Helen knew there were certain styles preferable to others, and in a maze of perplexity she consulted with this and that individual, untill all Silverton knew what was projected, each one offering the benefit of their advice until Helen and Katy were nearly distracted. Aunt Betsy suggested a blue delaine and round cape, offering to get it herself, and actually purchasing the material with her own funds, saved from drying apples. That would answer for one dress Helen said, but not for the wedding; and she was becoming more undecided, when Morris came to the rescue, telling Katy of a young woman who for some time past had been his patient, but who was now nearly well and anxious to obtain work again. She had evidently seen better days, he said; was very ladylike in her manner, and possessed of a great deal of taste, he imagined; besides that, she had worked in one of the largest shops in New York. "As I am going this afternoon over to North Silverton," he added, in conclusion, "and shall pass Miss Hazelton's house, you or Helen might accompany me and see for yourself."

It was decided that Helen should go, and about four o'clock she found herself ringing at the cottage over whose door hung the sign, "Miss M. Hazelton, Fashionable Dressmaker." She was at home, and in a few moments Helen was talking with Marian Hazelton, whose face showed signs of recent illness, but was nevertheless very attractive, from its peculiarly sad expression and the soft liquid eyes of dark blue, which looked as if they were not strangers to tears. At twenty she must have been strikingly beautiful: and, even now, at thirty, few ladies could have vied with her had she possessed the means for gratifying her taste and studying her style. About the mouth, so perfect in repose, there was when she spoke a singularly sweet smile, which in a measure prepared one for the low, silvery voice, which had a strange note of mournful music in its tone, making Helen start as it asked, "Did you wish to see me?"

"Yes; Dr. Grant told me you could make dresses, and I drove round with him to secure your services, if possible, for my sister, who is soon to be married. We would like it so much if you could come to our house instead of having Katy come here."

Marian Hazelton was needing work, for there was due more than three months' board, besides the doctor's bill, and so, though it was not her custom to go from house to house, she would, in this instance, accommodate Miss Lennox, especially as during her illness, her customers had many of them gone elsewhere, and her little shop was nearly broken up. "Was it an elaborate trousseau she was expected to make?" and she bent down to turn over some fashion plates lying upon the table.

"Oh, no! we are plain country people. We cannot afford as much for Katy as we would like; besides, I dare say Mr. Cameron will prefer selecting most of her wardrobe himself, as he is very wealthy and fastidious." Helen replied, resenting the next instant the part concerning Mr. Cameron's wealth, as that might look like boasting to Miss Hazelton, whose head was bent lower over the magazine, as she said, "Did I understand that the gentleman's name was Cameron?"

"Yes, Wilford Cameron, from New York," Helen answered, holding up her skirts and s-s-kt-ing at the kitten which came running toward her, evidently intent upon springing into her lap.

Fear of cats was Helen's weakness, if weakness it can be called, and in her efforts to frighten her tormentor she did not look again at Miss Hazelton until startled by a gasping cry and heavy fall. Marian had fainted, and Helen was just raising her head from the floor to her lap, when Morris appeared, relieving her of her burden, of whom he took charge until she showed signs of life. In her alarm Helen forgot entirely what they were talking about when the faint came on, and her first question put to Marian was, "Were you taken suddenly ill? Why did you faint?"

There was no answer at first; but when she did speak, Marian said: "I am so weak that the least exertion affects me, and I was bending over the table; it will soon pass off."

If she was so weak she was not able to work, Helen said, proposing that the plan be for the present abandoned, but to this Marian would not listen; and her great eager eyes had in them so sacred a look that Helen said no more on the subject, but made arrangements for her coming to them at once. Morris was to leave his patient some medicine, and while he was preparing it, Helen had time to notice her more carefully, admiring her ladylike manners, and thinking her smile the sweetest she had ever seen. Greatly interested in her, Helen plied Morris with questions of Miss Hazelton during their ride home, asking what he knew of her.

"Nothing, except that she came to to North Silverton a year ago, opening her shop, and by her faithfulness, and pleasant, obliging manners, winning favor with all who employed her. Previous to her sickness she had a few times attended St. Paul's at South Silverton, that being the church of her choice. Had Helen never observed her?"

No, Helen had not. And then she spoke of her fainting, telling how sudden it was, and wondering if she was subject to such turns. Marian Hazelton had made a strong impression on Helen's mind, and she talked of her so much that Katy waited her appearance at the farm-house with feverish anxiety. It was evening when she came, looking very white, and seeming to Helen as if she had changed since she saw her first. In her eyes there was a kind of hopeless, weary expression, while her smile made one almost wish to cry, it was so sad, and yet so strangely sweet. Katy felt its influence at once, growing very confidential with the stranger, who, during the half hour in which they were accidentally left alone, drew from her every particular concerning her intended marriage. Very closely the dark blue eyes scrutinized little Katy, taking in first the faultless beauty of her face, and then going away down into the inmost depths of her character, as if to find out what was there.

"Pure, loving, innocent and unsuspecting," was Marian Hazelton's verdict, and she followed wistfully every movement of the young girl, as she flitted about the room, chatting as familiarly with the dressmaker as if she were a friend long known instead of an entire stranger.

"You look very young to be married," Miss Hazelton said to her once, and shaking back her short rings of hair, Katy answereh, "Eighteen next Fourth of July; but Mr. Cameron is thirty."

"Is he a widower!" was the next question, which Katy answered with a merry laugh, "Mercy, no! I marry a widower! How funny! I don't believe he ever cared a fig for anybody but me. I mean to ask him."

"I would," and the pale lips shut tightly together, while a resentful gleam shot for a moment across Marian's face; but it quickly passed away, and her smile was as sweet as ever as she at last bade the family good-night and repaired to the little room where Wilford Cameron had once slept.

Liver Complaint Biliousness

AND SICK HEADACHES GO HAND IN HAND AND ARE CURED BY THE DIRECT ACTION OF

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

"Biliousness" is the one word used by most people to describe their trouble when the liver gets out of order, leaves bile and brings on sick headache and irritable temper, stomach troubles and irregularities of the bowels.

People who suffer much from biliousness become pale and yellow in complexion, irritable and morose in disposition, and are liable to find themselves among the chronic grumblers, to whom nothing seems to go right.

The trouble begins with the liver becoming torpid and sluggish in action, and disappears when the liver is set right. Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills cure biliousness promptly, because of their direct action on the liver. They thoroughly remove all the symptoms, because of their combined action on kidney, liver and bowels.

Mrs. Owen Cummings, Deseronto, Ont., states:—"I was in very poor health when I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. I had been a great sufferer from constipation and stomach trouble and was weak and run down in strength. PUTTING IT STRONG

BUT DOESN'T IT LOOK REASONABLE!

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is CURABLE, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspeptics is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves or going to opposite extremes or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters," "after dinner pills," etc., which invariably increase the difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a REST. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is a great secret, and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy, but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach.

The sufferer from Dyspepsia, according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good, wholesome food and use the Tablets before and after each meal, and the result will be that the food will be digested no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be, because, as before stated, the Tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1,800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put with it one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as if the meat was enclosed within the stomach.

The stomach may be ever so weak, yet these Tablets will perform the work of digestion, and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made, because the much abused stomach will be given, to some extent, a much needed rest. Your druggist will tell you that of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

ARMOUR & CO. PLANT BURNED

Fire Eats Up $900,000 Plant, Etc., in a Few Hours.

Buildings Covering Three and a Half Acres of Ground Totally Consumed—Flames Made Rapid Progress When They Got Into the Lard—Several Explosions, But No One Was Seriously Hurt—A Great Spectacle.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 17.—The big plant of Armour & Co., which occupied three and a half acres of ground at the extreme south end of the stock yards district was totally destroyed by fire, which started at 12.50 o'clock yesterday morning on the second floor of the fertilizer building. The loss estimated by Charles W. Lennon, manager of the company, is a total of $900,000. The insurance is $721,500.

The cause of the fire was said by Mr. Lennon to have been either spontaneous combustion or an imperfect dryer. Quickly the Armour private fire department of six men was called out, and the entire city department followed.

Rapid Work.

By 1.20 o'clock six streams of water were being thrown upon the fire, which was destroying the fertilizer building, but the pressure was inadequate. The fertilizer building, which was of brick, 120x60 feet, four storeys high, was located between the beef-killing house and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad tracks on the east. The floors and contents of the building burned like chaff. At 1 25 o'clock the roof fell in, and a moment later the fire burst through into the beef-killing house. Simultaneously, the cattle chute ignited and lasted about five minutes, when it fell with a great crash.

A Lake of Fire.

From the beef-killing house to the Oleo building was only a step, and when the lard was ignited the fire presented a most spectacular appearance. The big beef house, where 500 carcasses were hanging, caught at 2 o'clock. By this time the entire plant, except the hog house, was a lake of fire. The roar was terrible. The country for miles around was lighted up. Suddenly there came a terrific explosion, followed quickly by another, and then another. Twenty-four drums of 100 pounds of ammonia each exploded before the reserve supply in the ammonia cistern was reached. That ignition almost razed the entire plant from its foundation.

Live Hogs Burnt.

About this time a burning roof of a chute fell upon a collection of live hogs, and their squeals were added to the appalling chorus.

When the hog house caught fire, all streams were turned in that direction, but the water seemed like oil. In the building were 3,500 dressed hogs and 2,500,000 pounds of pork product.

From a spectacular view, the fire was a magnificent sight. At 3.25 o'clock the fire department had given up the fight. It was apparent that all its efforts were useless, and that the entire plant would be destroyed. The fire continued to burn all day, and yesterday afternoon there was another terrific explosion, which threw bricks and pieces of iron for hundreds of yards, endangering thousands of spectators, but no one was seriously hurt.

Burglars at Ailsa Craig.

Ailsa Craig, Nov. 17.—Three daring burglaries were committed here yesterday morning between 4 and 5 o'clock. The perpetrators were three unknown men, supposed to be tramps. C. R. Watcher's jewelry store was entered and $100 worth of goods taken, while considerable ready-made clothing, hats, etc., was stolen from White & May's dry good establishment. They also broke into the Queen's Hotel and extracted about $2 in silver from the till and carried away considerable of the bottled liquor. Constable Priestly overtook the burglars on the railway track. They pointed revolvers at him, threatening to shoot. The odds were too great for him, and he let the men get away.

New Ruler of Brazil.

Rio de Janiero, Nov. 7.—The new President of the Brazilian republic was inaugurated yesterday. The ceremony took place here and various Governments were officially represented by their navies. The British cruisers Cymbria, Nymph and Basilisk are at Rio de Janerio for this purpose. The ceremony was brilliant. Dr. Francisco de Paula Rodrigues Alves, the President-elect, was born on July 7, 1848, at Guaratingueta, in the State of S. Paulo. He is one of the ablest men in Brazil, and has filled every place to which he has been called with ability, honesty and dignity.

Revelation Kills Son.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Word was received yesterday of the suicide at Buckingham, Que., of Thomas Cooke, son of J. T. C. Cooke, of that town. He was found dead with a bullet hole in his breast, and a revolver was found by his side. Estrangement between his father and mother, and an alleged revelation in connection with a suit for separation and alimony, in which his mother is plaintiff, and father defendant, is said to have preyed on his mind, with this result.

Crushed to Death.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 17.—Thomas Dixon, aged 29 years, a I. C. R. brakeman, in attempting to board an engine at the Deepwater Terminus, Saturday night, fell under the wheels and was crushed to death.

France Has Deficit This Year.

Epworth League Convention

Though the weather was quite unfavorable the spirits of the Leaguers of Belleville district were in no wise dampened when they met in the Third Line Church, Canifton circuit, Friday afternoon and evening. After the roll-call of Leagues to which a very encouraging response was given, Miss Phelps read a paper giving an account of the recent Christian Endeavor Convention at Ottawa. The convention settled down to its work in the Departmental rallies, and in the five minute reports of these rallies many good points were accentuated and brought out.

In the evening session Mr. Bott of Albert College forcibly set forth the great opportunities awaiting Epworth Leaguers and Rev. Mr. Tonkin gave a fiery, earnest and effective speech on the Referendum. He answered many questions, which silenced objections that could be made to the bill. Corporal Dashfield, now of Albert College, took the place of Dr. Crothers who could not be there, and gave his personal experiences as a Christian soldier in Stanley Barracks and in S. Africa. In the evening vocal music by Mr. Holgate, Miss Frankum and Miss Waldron greatly added to the interest of the occasion.

The officers for the ensuing year are as follows.

Honorary Pres.—Rev. Dr. Crothers.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mr. H. Emerson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss Maud Gatey.

VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1902 NO. 167

CITY COUNCIL HAD OLD-TIME SESSION

By-Law to Withdraw $30,000 Bonus Causes Long and Warm Discussion

Council Will Pass a By-Law Licensing and Regulating the Sale ot Cigarettes

Matter of Free Library Discussed But Deferred Till Next Meeting

Several highly interesting matters came up before the City Council last night, among them the withdrawal of the $30,000 bonus money, the question of whether the citizens should or should not vote on a Free Public Library, and, last, but not least, the cigarette question. It will be remembered that last year a bill licensing the sale of cigars, cigarettes, etc., was prepared and received its first reading. Then it dropped out of sight. Last night the by-law bobbed up again, and it looks as though the present Council will pass it. The proceedings were interesting, lasting two hours and a half.

Mayor Graham presided, and there were no absentees.

The minutes were read and confirmed.

Communications.

From Mr. H. Corby, stating that he wished to gravel his yard on Front St., and asking the Council to allow him to purchase gravel from Zwick's Island for that purpose.

From Messrs. Bell & Biggar, asking that the Home for the Friendless be exempted from taxation, as usual.

From a gentleman up west, asking that no action be taken re the withdrawal of the $30,000 bonus, till a proposition from him had been submitted.

From Mr. A. G. Northrup, re Mrs. McDermott, an indigent widow, stating that the old lady had a purchaser for her house who would let her remain in it as long as she lived and would in future pay the taxes.

Two accounts were read and referred, and the communications were laid on the table.

Reports of Committees.

The reports of the various standing committees, as already published, were read.

The Water Works.

Ald. Pope, chairman of the Committee appointed to report on the advisability of abolishing the Board of Water Commissioners, reported that the Committee had not been able to gather sufficient data to enable them to return a satisfactory report.

The Mayor said he had just come from a meeting of the Water Commissioners, and had a report from that body which the Committee might find useful.

Ald. Pope said he would be glad to have it, and the Mayor gracefully handed it over.

The Public Library.

Ald. Chown said he had received a communication from the City Solicitor regarding the proposed Free Library. The Solicitor wrote that, in his opinion, it was discretionary with the Council whether they acted on the prayer of the petition or not. The Statutes provided that the library, if instituted, should be governed by a board consisting of the Mayor, two members of the Council, two of the Board of Education and two of the Separate School boards. This board, which would be a body politic, would have the power to instruct the Council to levy a rate for library purposes not exceeding 1-2 mill on the $, which the Council would be compelled to do. This would amount, in Belleville, to $1900 yearly if the Library Board saw fit to expend that much.

Committee of the Whole.

Council went into Committee of the Whole on reports, Ald. Pope in the chair.

The Executive Committee's report was first taken up. There was no obstruction till the Solicitor's letter re the proposed Public Library came up, when

Ald. Panter objected strongly to the clause which provided for the tax of 1-2 mill on the $. Before the matter was proceeded with he thought they should have a better understanding in regard to it than they had at present. He did not think a by-law which provided for the expenditure of $1900 would pass the people.

Ald. Sinclair said that was the extreme limit. It was not compulsory to spend that much. The way he looked at this matter, it was the people's business. A petition was before the Council asking them to submit a by-law to the people. If the people wanted the library they must pay the shot. He was not himself much interested in the library, but thought they should give the people a chance to vote on it, anyhow.

Ald. Chown said it was not compulsory on the Council to submit the by-law to the people, and he did not think, in view of the present state of the city's finances, it would be wise to do so at present and run the risk of incurring an additional obligation of $1900 per annum.

Ald. Panter wanted it understood that he did not object to the principle of a free library, but wanted a better understanding on the subject.

The Mayor said he was not there as an advocate of a free library, but they had had a petition from a representative body of citizens, asking that a by-law should be submitted, and he thought it only fair this should be done. So far as expense was concerned, that would depend on those who controlled the library. He did not think it was fair to sidetrack this matter. He thought they should order a by-law to be prepared and then they could discuss it at the next meeting of Council. The matter must be gone on with at once, if the by-law was to be laid before the people at the time of the municipal elections in January. He moved that the City Solicitor be instructed to prepare a by-law for submission to the ratepayers, in accordance with the terms of the Free Library Act, the same to be ready by the next meeting of Council.

Ald. Panter wanted it understood that he was not opposed to the library; he was in favor of it, but wanted a better understanding. He did not think the people would agree to a proposed expenditure of $1900 per annum.

Ald. Wills asked if the Mayor could not furnish the Council with some figures on the subject.

The Mayor said the library was at present costing between $700 and $800 per annum. Their books cost about $300, and they got $200 from the Government. Then they sold their periodicals for $40. However, if the library was to be extended they would need more money for books. Now they only got one copy of new books; more would be needed if the library were made free. If the library were turned over to the city he thought it should be housed in the City Building, which would mean a saving of rent, fuel, etc. He had looked this matter over pretty thoroughly, and thought the cost of keeping up a free library would not exceed $800 per annum. He did not see why it should cost more than that. Then again, he thought they might receive donations, the County might pay something for the use of the library by county residents. He saw nothing unfair in instructing the City Solicitor to prepare a by-law for submission at their next meeting. They might then call a public meeting to discuss the matter, which he thought would be a good idea.

Ald. Price asked if Sir Gilbert Parker had made a positive offer of a library building for Belleville.

The Mayor—"Not to me." Sir Gilbert, in conversation, had said that he thought he might be disposed to house the library. He had since written to Sir Gilbert in reference to the matter, and the latter had answered that he was not yet prepared to move in the matter, but when the proper time came he might do so.

Ald. Chown asked what would be the cost of submitting the by-law to the people.

The City Clerk said the advertising would be about the only expense of any account.

Ald. Galbraith asked if it would not be well, in view of the fact that the library might be made free, to ask Mr. Andrew Carnegie to give us a donation for a building.

Chorus of Aldermen—"No! no! no! no!"

The Mayor's motion was carried, and the City Solicitor will prepare a by-law to be presented at the next meeting of Council.

The Poles on Front St.

When the Public Works Committee's report was taken up Ald. Panter brought up the matter of the removal of the poles on Front St. Was the Council prepared to take the responsibility of injuring the poles?

A long discussion ensued, which was ended by Ald. Wills moving that the City Solicitor be instructed to notify Messrs. Alford and Lewis, in writing, that if they did not remove the poles inside of a week the city would have it done at the least possible cost to the corporation. The remainder of the Public Works report passed without discussion.

The Park Benches.

When the Parks Committee's report came up Ald. Pope said Mr. Richard Arnott had asked permission to use the benches now on the park in the skating rink this winter. He would take care of them and return them in good order in the spring.

On motion of Ald. Wills this matter was left in the hands of the Chairman of Parks, with the understanding that the Council had no objection to the granting of Mr. Arnott's request.

Mr. Corby's Gravel.

Mr. Corby's request, re gravel from Zwick's island, was next taken up, and the Mayor moved that it be granted, Mr. Corby being charged 10 cents per load for it.

Ald. McFee moved in amendment that the charge be 25 cents per load.

Ald. Panter said Mr. Corby had spoken to him about the matter, and he had told that gentleman that the Council had decided to sell no more gravel. However, Mr. Corby had pointed out that it was late in the season, and he could get gravel nowhere else now. He (Ald Panter) thought that, under the circumstances, they should let Mr. Corby have what gravel he required at the same price they had charged Mr. Hanley—12 1-2 cents a load.

Ald. McFee—"What about the resolution to sell no more?"

It was decided, on motion of Ald. Panter, to allow Mr. Corby to have what gravel he requires from Zwick's island, the same to be taken under the supervision of the City Surveyor.

Mr. A. G. Northrup's communication, re Mrs. McDermott's taxes, was taken up, and it was decided to remit the taxes on condition that the old lady be given a life lease of her house, the purchaser to pay taxes in future.

The taxes on the Home for the Friendless were, as usual, remitted.

The committee rose and reported, the report being adopted.

Enquiries.

Ald. Price asked if the Belleville Traction Company had paid their taxes.

Ald. Chown said they had.

Ald. Cooper asked it the Street Surveyor had not been instructed some time ago to in future use gravel for crossings? His reason for asking this was because the Street Surveyor was still building mud crossings, made of the screenings from the crusher, which after a month or so left them in a wretched condition.

Ald. Panter said he had no recollection of any motion of the kind mentioned by Ald. Cooper, but agreed that the crossings in the city were in a deplorable condition.

Introduction of Bylaws.

Ald. Chown moved the suspension of the rules for the introduction of a by-law to borrow $7000 for current expenditure.

Ald. McFee introduced and moved the first reading of a by-law to withdraw the $30,000 bonus money at present remaining in the Bank of Montreal.

Ald. Pope moved that Ald. McFee's by-law be not read a first time till the next meeting of the Council.

Ald. Panter claimed that due notice of this by-law had been given, and it could not be sidetracked.

Ald. Pope did not think it was right to bring in a by-law for its first reading of which the Council knew nothing.

Ald. McFee—"It's done every night."

Ald. Price was much opposed to the withdrawal of the bonus, as he was quite sure something would soon be done.

This caused a ripple of amusement, and after some further discussion the Clerk was instructed to read Ald. McFee's by-law, the same not to count as a first reading.

The by-law provides for the withdrawal of the $30,000, with interest, from the Bank, the same to be deposited to the credit of the sinking fund, the by-law to be submitted to the ratepayers in January next.

Ald. Pope again moved the two weeks' hoist. He was sure the people would not support the idea of putting the $30,000 in the sinking fund. The money had been voted for a specific purpose, and if not used for that purpose it should be used, if possible, to retire the Rolling Mills debentures. He thought it would be unwise to go on with this by-law in its present form.

Ald. McFee, seconded by Ald. Panter, moved the first reading of the by-law. This matter had been trifled with too long already. He had never seen another by-law objected to like this. He moved the first reading. If it was voted down he could not help it. Those who voted against it could take the responsibility. He was prepared to take the full responsibility of his own actions.

Ald. Galbraith could see no objection to the first reading of the by-law. If it was not perfectly satisfactory it could be changed when it came up for its second reading.

Ald. Chown did not think the Sinking fund was the proper place for the money. By hasty action they might make the by-law inoperative.

Ald. Wills thought Ald. McFee's action was premature. There was nothing to be gained by rushing the by-law through. There was no opposition, that he knew of, to the withdrawal of the money. It was only a question as to its disposition. They must, he thought, buy back the Rolling Mills debentures, and Ald. Chown had been in correspondence with the parties who held them. If he succeeded they would have to redraft the by-law, as it would not answer in its present form. They all, he thought, had the same object in view.

Ald. Galbraith asked if the bill could not be read a first time and changed before its second reading.

Ald. Wills said it would make a lot of unnecessary trouble.

Ald. Panter pointed out the fact that the by-law must be advertised before submission to the people. It was necessary, if two weeks were to elapse between the first and second reading of the by-law, to go on with the first reading to-night.

Ald. Price said he fully appreciated Ald. McFee's disinterested motives—

Ald. McFee—"All right; never mind that."

Ald. Price, continuing, said he fully agreed with the sentiments of—

Ald. Sinclair—"Everybody."

After the laughter had subsided Ald. Price said he agreed with the remarks of Ald. Wills and thought this matter might be laid over for two weeks, as he had an idea—perhaps it was fate—that something would soon happen in regard to the mills. (More laughter). He did not think there could be any harm in laying it over for two weeks.

Some warm words passed between Ald. Pope and McFee, and

Ald. Sinclair said he believed the fact of this by-law having its first reading would be a good thing for the Belleville Rolling Mills.

(Ald. McFee—"Hear, hear!"

Continuing, Ald. Sinclair said due notice had been given of the by-law, and he could see no harm in giving it a first reading. If not satisfactory its terms could be changed.

Ald. McFee said he hoped the press was fully reporting this matter. He was able and willing to shoulder his responsibilities.

The Mayor then said he would put the matter to a vote. Ald. McFee seconded by Ald. Panter, moved the first reading of the by-law to withdraw the $30,000 bonus money, the same to be deposited in the Sinking fund; Ald. Pope moved, in amendment, the two weeks hoist.

The amendment was lost on the following division:

Ayes—Ald. Chown, Wills, Pope and Price.

Nays—Ald. McFee, Panter, Sulman, Galbraith, Sinclair and Cooper.

Ald. Price called for the yeas and nays, which resulted like the above division.

Ald. McFee's motion for the first reading was carried by 6 to 4, and the bill was read a first time.

The by-law to borrow $7000 for current expenses was passed through its various stages and numbered.

To License Sale of Cigarettes.

Ald. Chown then handed up a by-law to impose a license tax on all shops, stores, etc., with the exception of hotels and taverns, which sold cigars, cut tobacco or cigarettes. This bill, he explained, had been introduced and received its first reading in 1901, but had subsequently dropped out of sight. It was now brought up for its second reading.

Ald. Wills pointed out that, to be legal, the measure must come up as a new by-law. The easiest way would be to introduce it as new legislation, which was done, and the by-law was read a first time. It provided for a license fee of $50 per annum.

The Mayor moved that this be changed to $10.

Ald. Panter objected to taxing the sale of cut tobacco. There was already a law which prohibited the sale of tobacco in any form to minors; if this were carried out he thought it would fill the bill.

Ald. Sulman asked if the new by-law would affect druggists.

The Mayor said it would affect everybody excepting hotel and tavern keepers.

Ald. Pope did not see why cigars should be classed in the same category as cigarettes. If a man wanted a cigar it was better for him to go to a grocery store for it than to a saloon.

The first clause of the by-law was read, and Ald. Panter moved that the words cut tobacco should be stricken out.

The Aldermen, all of whom seemed to be in favor of licensing the sale of cigarettes, agreed that they alone were aimed at, and the Mayor said it was agreed that the only way the police could have supervision over places which sold them was by licensing the places and thus making a record possible.

The by-law was then read. It, in addition to fixing the license at $10 per annum, forbids anyone selling tobacco in any form to persons under 18 without a written order from their parents or guardian, and fixes the penalty at $50 fine, the same to be collected, if necessary, by distress warrant.

A difficulty arose as to whether the Council had the power to tax cigarette selling alone, or whether it was compulsory to include cigars and cut tobacco. The City Solicitor could not give an opinion on the point without looking up the latest additions to the Statutes, so he was instructed to get the necessary information by the next meeting of Council.

Ald. Sinclair asked if it would be possible to prohibit the sale of cigarettes altogether.

The Solicitor said no; they could restrict but not prohibit.

Council adjourned.

MANIPULATION OF DEPARTMENTS.

It is an open secret that the Province of Quebec has always demanded the portfolio of Public Works in the Dominion Government on account of its patronage and spending powers. The Premier not having the courage to appoint Tarte's unrelenting enemy to the position lately held by that gentleman, a manipulation of departments is to take place, and the new minister given the department of Marine and Fisheries, and Mr. Sutherland translated to the Department of Public Works; not, however, without its being shorn of most of its importance, by having the whole of the works on the St. Lawrence transfered to the Department of Marine and Fisheries, so as not to minimize or curtail in any marked degree the patronage and power which the spending of money gives to a Minister from Quebec. Mr. Sutherland, in this respect, being a stronger partizan than a statesman, willingly submits, and to that extent weakens Ontario's influence in the Cabinet.

It is also suggested that the whole telegraph system, the building of extensions, etc., be placed under the management and control of the Post Office Department. If this is advisable, why not proceed further, and hold the Minister of Militia responsible for the construction of Drill Halls, and the Customs Department responsible for the building of Customs Houses, etc. The reorganization, however, is to commence with the Marine and Fisheries and Public Works Departments, for no known reason other than the giving of power and patronage to a Quebec Minister.

Unless Mr. Sutherland takes a firm stand, he will ere long be denuded of all the eclat attached to the office of Minister of Public Works. If it be in the interest of the party, "Jim," as he is familiarly styled, will accept the change without a murmur, notwithstanding how it may degrade his office.

SHOT SEEKING BURGLARS.

Son of Bursar Jaffray of Central Prison Carries a Bullet.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Norman Jaffray, son of Alexander Jaffray, bursar of the Central Prison, accidentally shot himself in the leg while searching for supposed burglars at his home, 17 Pacific avenue, about midnight last night. The bullet entered the calf of his leg. Jaffray is 20 years of age.

The family physician, Dr. J. E. Elliott, was called. Jaffray was removed to the General Hospital, where the bullet was extracted. Young Jaffray is a nephew of Robert Jaffray, president of The Globe Printing Company.

U.S. GOVERNMENT IGNORANT.

Has Not Considered Duty on Canadian Sawn Lumber.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The United States Government has given no consideration to the proposition to levy a duty of $4 per thousand on Canadian sawn lumber. This Government does not propose to enter into a war of tariff retaliation with Canada without a better understanding than it now has of the issue involved in this wood pulp controversy. Moreover, it is the official view that the executive power in itself is insufficient to increase tariff rates upon Canadian products and that legislation in that direction must come from Congress.

ONE VICTIM OF STOCK CRAZE

C. H. Cornell Worried Over His Losses and Shot Himself.

For the Final Tragedy in His Life He Chose a Secluded Spot in the Rosedale Ravine, Toronto—Dropped $800 in His Last Deal—Conducted Prosperous Business Until He Was Caught in Vortex of Speculation.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Fluctuations of the stock market are responsible for the suicide yesterday morning of Charles H. Cornell, at one time a prosperous butcher in this city. Cornell shot himself twice and died in less than half an hour. The dead man was a heavy loser some years ago, and in spite of the advice of his friends he kept on speculating until a month ago, when he lost everything he had left, amounting to $800 or $1,000. Since that time Cornell has been very despondent.

Chose Secluded Spot.

The scene of the tragedy was on the Rosedale ravine drive, just west of Huntley street. A little before 11 o'clock Albert Edward Keates, 299 Sackville street,; John McLeish, 7 McMurrich street, and John Cleaver, 1 Jersey avenue, were crossing over the Huntley street bridge when they heard the report of a pistol. They looked down into the ravine and saw Cornell stagger a few paces. He then put the point of the pistol, which he held in his right hand, in his mouth and attempted to fire it off. The weapon did not explode, and after going through the motions of pulling the trigger back again he once more fired into his mouth. The three men rushed to his side. Cornell was still living, but gasping for breath and died before Dr. Rose or the ambulance arrived.

Cornell lived at 200 Robert street, and is survived by his widow and stepson. He was 45 years of age.

Ruined by Speculation.

Deceased was in the butcher business for a number of years, and was very successful until he started to speculate. About five years ago he sold out his business and afterwards gave his undivided attention to dealing in the stock market. He was not known as a heavy operator, but was easily frightened by rapid movements of the stocks in which he was interested. About a month ago when the crash came Cornell told his wife of his losses, and it seemed to weigh heavily on his mind. Cornell was of a nervous temperament, and felt misfortune keenly. His friends remarked on his changed appearance, and it was known that the loss of his money was bearing heavily on him.

W. H. HACKING DEAD.

Has Been Postmaster of Listowel Since 1855—47 Years Ago.

Listowel, Nov. 18.—William H. Hacking, who, since June, 1855, over 47 years ago, when a postoffice was first opened here, has been postmaster in Listowel, died yesterday morning in the 93rd year of his age. He was a native of Yorkshire, England, and came to Canada with his father, the Rev. James Hacking, 86 years ago. He was married at Newmarket, April 21, 1832, to Margaret Tracy, who pre-deceased him four years ago. Three sons and five daughters survive them.

May Clear Up a Murder.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—A special from Cowansville says: "About two miles from Clarenceville, at midnight on Nov. 1, Nelson Limlow, as previously reported, committed an assault on his mother-in-law, aged 65 years. She and two little grand-daughters were alone when Limlow broke into the house. The community was shocked, and great indignation prevailed. The criminal is now in jail awaiting his trial, and there is a general feeling that before it is ended light will be thrown upon the Edy murder mystery that has so long remained unsolved. The murder referred to was the total wiping out of Mr. and Mrs. Edy and their daughter.

Shot Through Liver and Lungs.

Rossland, B. C., Nov. 18.—Robert Adams, the victim of the shooting affray at the International Hotel on Nov. 3, has made a remarkable recovery, although shot through lungs and liver with a bullet from a 41 calibre revolver. He recovered in ten days sufficiently to leave his bed and walk about the hotel. Now he is to all intents and purposes a well man, although somewhat emaciated. Such rapid recovery from so serious gun shot wounds are rare in the annals of local surgery.

Spectacle of Stromboli.

Rome, Nov. 18.—A fresh eruption of the volcano Stromboli occurred yesterday evening, accompanied by a terrific explosion, and a great flow of lava. It formed a magnificent spectacle, which was visible from all the northern part of Sicily, the flames rising from the volcano illuminating the surrounding sea. The situation of the few inhabitants of the Island of Stromboli is precarious.

May Be a Murder.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 18. — Look Den, a Chinese tailor and lessee of Chinese Theatre, had his head split with a hatchet as he slept yesterday morning. He will probably die. His assailant stole one hundred dollars from a hiding place beneath the bed, which gives the police the impression that the assailant was well acquainted with his victim, who has been an invalid for some time.

15th Fireworks Victim.

New York, Nov. 18.—Frank O'Connor, 17 years old, died yesterday from injuries suffered at the fireworks explosion in Madison Square election night. He is the fifteenth victim.

AT FIRST GLANCE

IT WOULD APPEAR THAT LOCAL REMEDIES WOULD BE BEST FOR CURE OF CATARRH.

It would seem at first glance tha catarrh being a disease of the mucous membrane, that salves, sprays, etc., being applied directly to the membranes of the nose and throat would be the most rational treatment but this has been proven not to be true.

The mucous membrane is made and repaired from the blood, and catarrh is a blood disease and any remedy to make a permanent cure must act on the blood, and when the blood is purified from catarrhal poison, the secretions from the mucous membrane will become natural and healthy.

In this climate thousands of people seem scarcely ever free from some form of catarrh; it gets better at times, but each winter becomes gradually deeper seated, and after a time the sufferer resigns himself to it as a necessary evil.

Catarrh cures are almost as numerous as catarrh sufferers, but are nearly all so inconvenient and ineffective as to render their use a nuisance nearly as annoying as catarrh itself; anyone who has used the douches, sprays and powders will bear witness to their inconvenience and failure to really cure.

There are a number of excellent internal remedies for catarrh, but probably the best and certainly the safest is a new remedy, composed of Red Gum, Blood Root and similar antiseptic remedies and other valuable catarrh specifics.

This remedy is in tablet form, pleasant to the taste, and sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and anyone suffering from catarrh may use these tablets with absolute assurance that they contain no cocaine, opiate nor any poisonous mineral whatever.

A leading druggist in Albany speaking of catarrh cures says: " have sold various catarrh cures for years, but have never sold any which gave such general satisfaction a Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. I Will Cure You of Rheumatism

ELSE NO MONEY IS WANTED.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month and, if it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I have no samples, because any medicine that can affect Rheumatism quickly must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk. I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of 40 who get those six bottles pay gladly.

I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. I will send you my book about Rheumatism, and an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, as it won't harm you anyway.

If it fails, it is free, and I leave the decision with you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 69, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

HAD TO TAKE BRITISH OATH.

U.S. Residents in Yukon Territory Forced to Swear Allegiance.

New York, Nov. 18.—A special to The Commercial from Tacoma says: About 20 Americans employed in responsible positions at Dawson under the Government of the Yukon territory have been required to become naturalized British subjects or step out. A number have taken the oath of allegiance, thereby securing their retention. The Government's action resulted from a visit to Dawson this summer of James Smart, Deputy Minister of the Interior. Upon his arrival vigorous complaints were made by the Canadian element against employing Americans.

City's Right to Its Streets.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—The Bell Telephone Company's appeal, involving the right of the company to put up poles and lay conduits without the consent of the city was before the Court of Appeal yesterday. The company appealed against the decision of Judge Street, denying their right and the main ground of the appeal was that their Dominion charter gave them the power. The city, on the other hand, claimed that these are local works, and are governed by the act of the Ontario Legislature, and this act gives the city authority in the matter. Judgment was reserved.

Explosion Burns Firemen.

Medicine Hat, N.W.T., Nov. 18.—By an explosion of natural gas in the Cotter Terrace last night, Mrs. Nichols was badly burned. Firemen were called to the scene, and while putting out the fire that had resulted were the victims of another explosion, that hurled them from the second storey window to the ground. James Rae, B. White and J. Nichols were severely burned.

Killed Near Chatham.

Chatham, Nov. 18.—Stephen Corbett, an old laboring man, a resident of this city was killed by the G. T. R. east-bound limited express about two miles east of the city yesterday morning. He stepped out of the way of a west-bound freight, and in this way met his death. No inquest was deemed necessary.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

CURES RHEUMATISM

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT PREVENTS A RETURN OF THE TERRIBLE DISEASE.

Rheumatism, which does its terrible work in the muscles, joints and tissues, is caused by uric acid which [illegible] in the blood. To get rid of this poisonous acid which produces the irritations, pains, agonies, inflammations and swellings, peculiar to rheumatism, Paine's Celery Compound should be used without delay. No other medicine gives such prompt, cheering and happy results. It is the only medicine that prevents a return of the dreaded disease. Paine's Celery Compound braces the nerves, the blood is cleared of all irritating poisons, tissue and muscle are built up and the digestive organs perfectly toned. Do not treat with indifference the slightest symptoms; early use of Paine's Celery Compound will prevent weeks and months of suffering. Mr. G. J. McDonald, Cornwall, Ont., writes as follows:—

"For three years I suffered terribly from rheumatism. It seemed to me that I was forced to endure all the agonies and pains that a mortal could possibly experience from the disease. While suffering, I tried many of the advertised medicines, also doctors' prescriptions, but never found a cure until I procured a supply of Paine's Celery Compound. It worked like a charm, and seemed to strike at the very root of my trouble. I am now cured; all pains are banished, and in every respect I am a new man."

STILL ON THE STAND.

President Mitchell Cross-Examined—The Question of Boycotting.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 18.—President Mitchell of the Miners' Union, resumed the stand yesterday upon the convening of the coal strike commission in the Lackawanna County Court House, and his cross-examination by Wayne MacVeagh, which was begun on Saturday was continued. Mr. MacVeagh represents the Erie Company which operates its mines under the names of the Pennsylvania Coal Company and the Hillside Coal and Iron Company.

In the examination of the strike leader yesterday, Mr. MacVeagh asked:

"Mr. Mitchell, do you think you have the right to ask for an increase in wages which if granted, would increase the cost of living to hundreds of thousands of the poor?"

The miners' representative replied that there are 500,000 persons in the anthracite fields who are starving and it is their fundamental right to ask for living wags in return for their labor.

The examination for a few minutes became very spirited on this phase of the consequence of the strike, and then Mr. MacVeagh turned to the matter of protecting the properties during the strike.

Replying to the questions by Mr. MacVeagh on the right of private parties to protect their properties, Mr. Mitchell said that the provision in the miners' constitution against pickets, grew out of the Homestead strike, when a number of private Detectives were employed as guards, most of whom he declared, had been recruited from the slums of Philadelphia and other large cities. Mr. Mitchell insisted that the city, county and State authorities were competent to handle the matter.

The Eight-Hour Day.

The eight-hour day question was taken up, and in reply to a query as to whether he had a right to limit a man's labor to eight hours a day, Mr. Mitchell replied:

"We favor a maximum of eight hours," and a moment later, in answer to a similar question:

"We will accept whatever award the commission makes, and that award will have precedence over the laws of the union."

Then Mr. McVeagh said: "Abraham Lincoln was splitting rails, and he did not limit himself to eight hours, and you demand it not only for the men in the mines, but for all the men above ground as well. He was doing infinitely harder work than nine-tenths of our men employed in the mines above ground. So was Garfield when as a boy trudging along the path of the canal, and so was Mr. McKinley in his early life. I only mention these, because they are the three victims of the spirit of Anarchy which is the curse of this country to-day, and the only serious curse afflicting it."

Mr. Mitchell took quick notice of the word "anarchy" employed by Mr. MacVeagh, and with considerable spirit inquired: "Trades unions are not held responsible for it, are they?"

"No, certainly not," said Mr. MacVeagh, "trades unions are most admirable, but you make a demand upon us that we shall prohibit every man in our employ from working more than eight hours. That strikes us as perfectly inadmissible."

No Higher Education For Them.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 18.—Statistics gathered by the United Mine Workers from the Schuylkill region for presentation to the arbitration commission show that only 4 per cent. of the graduates of the local high schools are sons of miners. The wage rate shows an average of $385 per year for the mine workers, wages of laborers being included with those of the miners in the calculation.

Will Call Boycott Off.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Last night's developments indicate that to-night the Trades' Assembly will probably rescind the order boycotting the Schenectady Railway Company. Forty-two of the members of the Trades' Assembly have signed a petition for a meeting, the call expressly stating that the purpose is to reconsider the action taken last Wednesday night, when the boycott was declared.

The Way of a Woman.

"I hate to be contradicted," she said.

"Then I won't contradict you," he returned.

"You don't love me," she asserted.

"I don't," he admitted.

"You are a hateful thing!" she cried.

"I am," he replied.

"I believe you're trying to tease me," she said.

"I am," he conceded.

"And that you do love me."

"I do."

For a moment she was silent.

"Well," she said at last, "I do hate a man who is weak enough to be led by a woman. He ought to have a mind of his own—and strength."

He sighed. What else could he do?—Chicago Post.

Took No Chances.

"Yes, sirree!" exclaimed the boodle politician. "I claim that, despite what people say against me, I have never in my life taken a penny of dishonest money."

We hold our breath.

"Because it is my invariable rule," he continued, "to bite all coin and make sure it's good before I deliver."

Ruskin on Humility.

I believe that the first test of a truly great man is his humility. I do not mean by humility doubt of his own power or hesitation in speaking his opinions, but a right understanding of all the relations between what he can do and say and the rest of the world's sayings and doings. All great men not only know their business, but usually know that they know it, only they do not think any better of themselves on that account.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Wedding rings in St. Klida used to be made of worsted.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. Children like it.

Over 250,000 copies of Charles Dickens' novels are sold annually.

When all other preparations fail, try Holloway's Corn Cure. No pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it.

The land area of Hawaii is 4,000,000 acres.

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

A woman never knows where the match box is.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Most people, we think, will agree that the introduction of that by-law looking for the withdrawal of the $30,000 bonus money was a good move. This city has been "jollied" along by the Toronto Company long enough. If the Council can buy up $30,000 worth of 4 per cent. Rolling Mills debentures, that will be better than letting the money lie in the bank drawing 3 per cent., and will mean a saving of $300 per year. The City Council, it seems to us, have chased the shadow long enough. Now let us have a little substance. What between that $300 and the $1600 taxes on the mills the city ought to come out even in a few years. And then look at the experience we got!

• • •

Mayor Graham's remarks about the proposed Public Library are those of a practical man, and are well worth anybody's attention. If the Library can be run for $800 per year, as he says, that would mean about 1-5th of a mill on the $, or 20 cents on each $1000 of taxation. And the prestige which a Public Library would give the city might easily attract other residents. However, we hope to see people discuss the question dispassionately, before jumping at a conclusion, and will gladly give space to letters on the subject.

• • •

Ald. Cooper's new name for our crossings fits most of them perfectly. Let us hope that valuable gravel may come into use next year.

• • •

It is likely, when the Cigarette by-law come into force, that many of the small dealers will drop their sale. It would take the profit on an awful lot of coffin nails to catch up on a $10 license.

• • •

Did you ever notice that, just about the end of the year, something always bobs up to get the public interested in the doings of the Aldermen? Here they are again, right in the centre of the stage, with the limelight turned on full force!

• • •

Congratulations to the City Council, which last night set its face against having anything to do with Mr. Andrew Carnegie as a library donator. We wouldn't mind a gift from an old Belleville boy, but we draw the line at the author of "Triumphant Democracy."

• • •

The inhabitants of East Toronto will hold an indignation meeting to protest against the building of a pork factory there. This seems to be a case where birds of a feather are not likely to flock together.

Mr. Frank E. Price, son of Ald. Price, who has been accountant in the Molsons Bank at Meaford, has been promoted to the branch at Owen Sound. At the banquet many complimentary things were said of Mr. Price's business acumen and much regret impressed at his removal.

A SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentery, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures cramps, colic, pain in the stomach and sick headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

A Patriotic Meeting

The meeting of the Epworth League in connection with the Tabernacle church held last evening was patriotic in its nature. To those who obtain honors in their final examinations they give a post-graduate course free. We congratulate Miss Carscallen.

Why do I wear "C.R. Co." rubbers? Because they fit properly and wear better than any other rubber shoe in the market. You cannot afford to be without a pair if you value your health.

"THE ASS IN REPARTEE."

Some anecdotes in an article on the subject in the current Chambers' Journal will bear reprinting. Many years ago an old freeholder at Hythe, who was something of a hawker, went about in a donkey cart. He was a Tory (color, dark blue). During a general election, the night before the polling day, some wags painted the old man's donkey light blue, the Whig color. Nevertheless, the old man drove his painted donkey up to the polling place, and cried out, "A plumper for ——" (the Tory candidate). Asked for whom his donkey voted, he replied, "Oh, he votes for the other side, as the other asses do."

Even if you are sufficiently strong willed to save regularly a certain part of your income there is always the danger that misfortune may leave your family practically without means of support before you have accumulated a competence for them. Herein lies the value of an Imperial Life Insurance Policy, and it gives your savings a much greater value than they could have if placed in a bank or invested in some enterprise. The strong position of the Imperial Life, its liberal policy contract and the progressive management make an Imperial Life Policy a very desirable asset. Hunt & Jeffers, agents.

Ethel—Oh, he said he couldn't live without her.

Gladys—Well, she ought to get a medal for life saving.

The Little Finger Nail.

Forty years ago in certain parts of the United States it was the custom to grow long nails. I well remember some of the swells and puffers who devoted more attention to their little finger nails than they did to their teeth, and often have I seen the fifth digit with a claw on it an inch and a quarter in length. The nail was carried in a stall, and on occasion was split after the manner of a steel or quill pen, so that its wearer could sign his name to a check with it, says a writer in the New York Press. The trimming of nails today is an art which gives employment to many pretty women who style themselves manicures. Nearly every first class, up to date barber shop has its manicure, who delights the man needing a shave or hair cut with an innocent flirtation. She dresses garishly and has a strut on her that would arouse the envy of a saddle astride fox chaseress.

'CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been ; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3.90 to $15.00.

Some Tips About Lips.

In choosing a wife, let her be a woman whose lips do not drop at the corners. This is the advice of Sheik Abdallagh, the Persian sage.

If a woman's lips droop her husband's life will be a perpetual mourning time. Nor yet should they curve too much upward, for that denotes frivolity.

Beware of the under lip that rolls outward for that woman has no great conscience. Select for a wife one whose lips are straight, not thin, for then she is a shrew, but with just a fulness necessary to perfect symmetry.

A mouth with the upper lip curved, lower lip straight, full and well defined, and a depression beneath, shows a high artistic sense, a love of ease and beauty, a fine moral nature, and a certain coldness of temperament.

The mouth of sagacity is large and always well closed. The line of the lip is firmly defined and a certain tightness about the jaws, when in repose, is noticeable.

If a mouth is long and thin, with the lines between the lips clear cut and firm, the woman is selfish, morbid and dominating. It is the mouth that desires to rule everything, and its owner will ride to an end no matter over how many bodies.

The short upper lip, with a depression under the nose and the inclination upward at the corners, is the merry mouth. Here are fun and laughter, and the man who marries the owner will find a wife with happy traits. She will be appreciative of everything done for her; quick to smile, and sympathetic to pain, but never tragic. She will have an artistic bent, and if the line of her lower lip is graceful, her tastes are daintily refined. She may be a trifle hoydenish, but never coarse.

Unusually red lips denote cruelty and rapacity. Cleopatra had such lips.

Old Rules For Night Policemen.

Old Boston is vividly brought to mind by the following excerpt from the selectmen's minutes, dated Nov. 1, 1769, containing instructions to watchmen:

"In going the rounds care must be taken that the watchmen are not noisy, but behave themselves with strict decorum, that they frequently give the time of the night and what the weather is with a distinct but moderate voice, excepting at times when it is necessary to pass in silence in order to detect and secure persons that are out on unlawful actions.

"You and your division must endeavor to suppress all routs, riots and other disorders that may be committed in the night and secure such persons as may be guilty, that proper steps may be taken next morning for a prosecution as the law directs. We absolutely forbid your taking private satisfaction or any bribe that may be offered you to let such go or to conceal their offense from the selectmen."

RICHARD WILLIAM VAUGHAN

The First English Bank Forger and the Story of His Fall.

The story of the first bank forger, Richard William Vaughan, is little known. Vaughan was the brother of a Stafford lawyer and became clerk to a solicitor in London. He wished to marry his master's daughter and promised to produce the sum of £1,000, which, he said, his mother would present to him, half of it to be settled on his wife. On these terms the father consented to the marriage, and Vaughan obtained a month's leave of absence.

He occupied this period in obtaining engraved impressions in imitation of twenty pound Bank of England notes, which was not such a difficult matter then, such things as forged notes being unknown. With fifty of these sham notes he presented himself at the appointed time, and his fiancee accepted her share in perfect good faith, and the marriage preparations were proceeded with.

Unfortunately he wanted ready money and put two of his own forged notes into circulation. They were challenged, when he became alarmed and tried to get back the notes he had given to the young lady, but she refused to yield them up, suspecting nothing of their true nature, and when Vaughan was arrested next day she would hardly believe even then that she had been deceived.

The forger was tried at the Old Bailey on the 7th of April, 1758, spending what was to have been his wedding day in the condemned cell. Four days later he was hanged at Tyburn.—London Standard.

Old Rules For Night Policemen.

Old Boston is vividly brought to mind by the following excerpt from the selectmen's minutes, dated Nov. 1, 1769, containing instructions to watchmen:

"In going the rounds care must be taken that the watchmen are not noisy, but behave themselves with strict decorum, that they frequently give the time of the night and what the weather is with a distinct but moderate voice, excepting at times when it is necessary to pass in silence in order to detect and secure persons that are out on unlawful actions.

"You and your division must endeavor to suppress all routs, riots and other disorders that may be committed in the night and secure such persons as may be guilty, that proper steps may be taken next morning for a prosecution as the law directs. We absolutely forbid your taking private satisfaction or any bribe that may be offered you to let such go or to conceal their offense from the selectmen."

Character In Nicknames.

When Austria was only a dukedom, there were three rulers who won for themselves the respective titles "Catholic," "Glorious" and "Warlike." The first was perhaps a religious man, like Ferdinand the Catholic of Spain. The second may have been like Lorenzo the Magnificent and the third a great warrior. And so from these titles or nicknames we have likewise some idea of the conditions of the people while these dukes ruled.

France has had a most wonderful assortment of kings. One was the Little and another the Bold. One was the Stammerer, another Simple, while a third and fourth were Indolent and Fair. These names are descriptive of the kings themselves, but it is hardly to be supposed that a king who was indolent or simple did much to further the interests of his subjects. But when we find Robert II. called the Sage, we realize that he ruled wisely and that the people were better off for it.

An Artist's Lament.

Otto Lasius in his diary describes a walk he took one day with Bocklin, the famous artist, near Zurich. Bocklin was in raptures over the colors of the autumn leaves, the blue sky, the clouds. "Ah, those are colors!" he exclaimed. "If we could have those on our palettes! How weak are our means in comparison with those of nature! White is our best light, and only by means of clever contrasts can we secure effects approximating the natural ones."

The Art of Working In Gold.

The Romans copied the Greek and Etruscan goldsmiths' work, though they also often used the ornaments themselves taken from the ancient tombs. Much of the art of the ancients in working gold was lost until early in the nineteenth century, when Signor Castellani found some of the Etruscan methods still being employed by workmen in a village in a remote corner of the Apennines.—London Times.

No Call For Leisure.

"What, you back to work, Pete? When I saw you fall off the building yesterday, I never expected to see you work again."

"I t'ought dat too, boss, but mah wife done let mah accident assurance expiah last week."

Why Freddie Scowled.

A Great Speech.

A lawyer whose eloquence was of the spread eagle sort was addressing the jury at great length, and his legal opponent, growing weary, went outside to rest.

"Mr. B. is making a great speech," said a friend to the bored counsel.

"Oh, yes; Mr. B. always makes a great speech. If you or I had occasion to announce that two and two make four, we'd be just fools enough to blurt it right out. Not so Mr. B. He would say:

"If, by that arithmetical rule known as addition, we desired to arive at the sum of two integers added to two integers, we should find—and I assert this boldly, sir, and without the fear of successful contradiction—we, I repeat, should find by the particular arithmetical formula before mentioned—and, sir, I hold myself perfectly responsible for the assertion I am about to make—that the sum of the two given integers added to the two other integers would be four!"

Served Him Right.

"Yes," said the sad looking chap, "I was a gay burglar once, but an accident put an end to my career. You see, I was a humorous chap too."

"You look it," said the wise guy under his breath.

"I got into an art gallery one day by telling the janitor that I was a picture taker. I took a lot of them, too, among which was one of Plugugly, the champion prizefighter of 1845."

"Did they catch you?" asked the wise guy.

"No," replied the sad looking man. "Plugugly's portrait was next to my solar plexus, and I had to drop them all. It was such a striking likeness."

Of course it was to be expected that the sad looking man should get the worst of the fight that followed.

TOOK HIM FOR AN ANARCHIST

James Kier Hardie, M.P., Arrested in Brussels.

English Labor Leader Taken in by the Police as an Accomplice of Rubino—In Spite of His Protests He Was Taken to the Police Station—Will Make the Matter an International Affair When He Returns Home.

Brussels, Nov. 18.—The police have arrested an Englishman, James Hardie, on suspicion of his having been connected with the attempt made Saturday by Rubino on the life of King Leopold.

The man Hardie, who was arrested on suspicion of having participated in Anarchist intrigues, turns out to be James Keir Hardie, M. P., (the former chairman of the Independent Labor party, and well-known labor leader). He was subsequently released, and lodged a complaint at the British Legation.

Hardie was arrested at the Hotel Waterloo. Apparently the police were ignorant of his identity, and, in spite of his protests, he was taken to a police station.

Mr. Hardie threatens to make his arrest an international affair, and will appeal to the British Foreign Office immediately after he returns to England. He says that he had a postal remittance telegraphed to him, addressed to the Maison du Peuple, and that the police through a breach of confidence, became cognizant thereof. After Mr. Hardie's arrival at the police station the officers asked him if he knew Rubino, and he was released only when he proved he was a member of the British House of Commons.

Unwell From Overwork.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—English papers just to hand state that Mr. Hardie, who had been very unwell from overwork, had, on the advice of his physician, gone to the Continent for a rest, and was paired in the House for three weeks.

SIR SANDFORD ON CABLE.

Advocates an All-British News Service—Wants Lower Rates.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—At a meeting of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon, Sir Sandford Fleming delivered a speech thanking the board for a motion passed at a previous meeting congratulating him on the completion of the Pacific cable. Sir Sandford strongly advocated an all-British news service, and said that while he was no advocate of selling the cable service at too low a cost, he thought it could be given at a lower rate than that at present decided on. He wanted to see the cable utilized to rid the public of the inconvenience and annoyance of the Eastern Extension Company.

Back to First Principles.

Paris, Nov. 18.—The Chamber of Deputies commenced yesterday a debate on the bill introduced by the Socialist party, which provides for the dividing of the House into a number of standing committees to deal with a variety of matters. The results of the ballots would seem to indicate a majority of two hundred in favor of the bill, which, if it is passed, will be a long stride in the direction of a return to the legislative methods of the first French Republic.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

A long time she stood before the glass, brushing her dark hair, and intently regarding her own features, while in her eyes there was a hard, terrible look, from which Katy Lennox would have shrunk in fear. But that too passed, and the eyes grew soft with tears as they turned away, and falling on her knees, moaned sadly, "I never will—no, I never will. God help me to keep the promise. Were it the other one—Helen—I might, for she could bear it; but Katy, that child—no, I never will," and as the words died on her lips, there came struggling up from her heart a prayer for Katy Lennox's happiness, as fervent and sincere as any which had ever been made for her since she was betrothed.

They grew to liking each other rapidly, Marian and Katy, the latter of whom thought her new friend greatly out of place as a dressmaker, telling her she ought to marry some rich man, calling her Marian altogether, and questioning her very closely of her previous life. But Marian only told her that she was born in London; that she learned her trade on the Isle of Wight, near to the Osborne House, where the royal family sometimes came, and that she had often see the Queen, thus trying to divert Katy's mind from asking what there was besides that apprenticeship to the Misses True on the Isle of Wight. Once indeed, she went farther, saying that her friends were dead; that she had come to America in hopes of doing better than she could at home; that she had stayed in New York until her health began to fail, and then had tried what country air would do, coming to North Silverton because a young woman who worked in the same shop was acquainted there and recommended the place. This was all Katy could learn, and Marian's heart history, if she had one, was guarded carefully.

They had decided at last upon the wedding dress, which Helen reserved the right to make herself. Miss Hazelton must fit it, of course, but to her belonged the privilege of making it every stitch; Katy would think more of it, if she did it all, she said; but she did not confess how the bending over that dress, both early and late, was the escape-valve for the feelings which otherwise woulh have found vent in passionate tears. Helen was very wretched during the pleasant May days she usually enjoyed so much, but over which now a dark pall was spread, shutting out all the brightness, and leaving only the terrible certainty that Katy was lost to her forever—bright, frolicsome Katy, who without a shadow on her heart, sported amid the bridal finery, unmindful of the anguish tugging that the hearts of both the patient women, Marian and Helen, who worked on so silently, reserving their tears for the night-time, when Katy was dreaming of Wilford Cameron. Helen was greatly interested in Marian, but never guessed that her feelings, too, were stirred to their very depths, as the bridal preparations progressed. She only knew how wretched she was herself, and how hard it was to fight her tears back as she bent over the silk, weaving in with every stitch a part of the clinging love which each day grew stronger for the only sister, who would soon be gone. Only once did she break entirely down, and that was when the dress was done, and Katy tried it on, admiring its effect, and having a second glass brought that she might see it behind.

"Isn't it lovely?" she exclaimed, "and the more valuable because you made it. I shall think of you every time I wear it," and the impulsive girl wound her arms around Helen's neck, kissing her lovingly, while Helen sank into a chair and sobbed aloud, "Oh, Katy, darling Katy! you won't forget me when you are rich and admired, and can have all you want? You will remember us here at home, so sad and lonely? You don't know how desolate it will be, knowing you are gone, never to come back again, just as you go away."

In an instant Katy was on her knees before Helen, whom she tried to comfort by telling her she should come back — come often, too staying a long while; and that when she had a city home of her own, she should live with her for good, and they would be so happy.

"I cannot quite give Wilford up to please you," she said, when that gigantic sacrifice suggested itself as something which it was possible Helen might require of her; "but I will do anything else, only please don't cry, darling Nellie—please don't cry. It spoils all my pleasure," and Katy's soft hands wiped away the tears running so fast over her sister's face.

After that Helen did not cry again in Katy's presence, but the latter knew she wanted to and it made her rather sad, particularly when she saw reflected in the faces of the other members of the family the grief she had witnessed in Helen. Even Uncle Ephraim was not as cheerful as usual, and once when Katy came upon him in the woodshed chamber, where he was shelling corn, she found him resting from his work and looking from the window far off across the hills, with a look which made her guess he was thinking of her, and stealing up beside him she laid her hand upon his wrinkled face, whispering softly, "Poor Uncle Eph, are you sorry, too?"

He knew what she meant, and the aged chin quivered, while a big tear dropped into the tub of corn as he replied, "Yes, Katy-did—very sorry."

That was all he said, and Katy, after smoothing his silvery hair a moment, kissed his cheek and then stole away, wondering if the love to which she was going was equal to the love of home, which, as the days went by, grew stronger and stronger, enfolding her in a mighty embrace, which would only be severed by bitter tears and fierce heart-pangs, such as death itself sometimes brings. In that household there was, after Katy, no one glad of that marriage except the mother, and she was only glad because of the position it would bring to her daughter. But among them all Morris suffered most, and suffered more because he had to endure in secret, so that no one guessed the pain it was for him to go each day where Katy was, and watch her as she sometimes donned a part of her finery for his benefit, asking him once if he did not wish he were in Wilford's place, so as to have as pretty a bride as she should make. Then Marian Hazelton glanced up in time to see the expression of his face, a look whose meaning she readily recognized, and when Dr. Grant left the farm-house that day, another than himself knew of his love for Katy, drawing her breath hurriedly as she thought of taking back the words, "I never will,"—of revoking that decision and telling Katy what Wilford Cameron should have told her long before. But the wild wish fled, and Wilford's secret was safe, while Marian watched Morris Grant with a pitying interest as he came among them, speaking always in the same kind, gentle tone, and trying so hard to enter into Katy's joy.

Irritating Form of Itching Piles

A SOURCE OF CONTINUAL WORRY AND ANNOYANCE—SLEEP AND REST IMPOSSIBLE UNTIL RELIEF CAME WITH THE USE OF

Dr. Chase's Ointment

All classes of people are subject to piles, but especially those who are exposed to dampness. Teamsters, farmers, railroad men and laborers suffer greatly from this distressing ailment.

While there are plenty of remedies recommended as a treatment for piles, Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only actual and guaranteed cure. It is truly wonderful how the merit of this preparation has become known throughout this continent and Europe.

But when a person has endured the torture of piles, the itching, stinging sensation, the sleepless nights of misery, the annoyance during the day, when going about the daily work, he feels grateful for the relief and cure brought by Dr. Chase's Ointment, and does not forget to recommend it to his friends.

Mr. John Tuttle, expressman, 107 Stewart street, Kingston, Ont., states: "Like most men who do much driving, sitting a great deal, and often exposed to dampness, I have been a great sufferer from piles. As a matter of fact, I had piles for a number of years, and tried nearly everything I could hear of in a vain attempt to get cured, but only succeeded when I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. The first application of this grand preparation brought me relief from the dreadful itching, burning sensations, and less than two boxes made a perfect and permanent cure. I am grateful for the freedom from suffering, and desire others to benefit by my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cts. a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A GOOD SAMARITAN

BEING HELPED HIMSELF WISHES TO HELP OTHERS.

The papers were never so filled with advertisements of remedies that will cure every known disease, as they are to-day; these are invariably accompanied by letters from people, testifying in the strongest terms to the virtue and merit of the particular preparation advertised; but because so much is claimed for the medicine, it has come to the point where most readers regard such testimonials as pure "fakes" and made up out of whole cloth.

We are glad, however, to vouch for the reliability of the following from Mr. Wm. Lichtenwalter, proprietor of the largest printing house in Canton, Ohio, regarding the Pyramid Pile Cure, for which nothing is claimed except that it will cure any and every form of Piles.

"For several months past I have received so many inquiries from sufferers asking if my testimonial is authentic, that I am inclined to send in a bill to you for postage and stationery.

"It is now two years since I was last troubled, and my rectum is as clear and clean as any man who never had piles, although I suffered with protruding, bleeding and internal piles for twenty-seven years. I will not attempt to detail the agony I suffered, being too happy to say 'I believe I am cured, after two years of evidence.

"What will cure one man will sometimes not cure another; whether it was the Pyramid Pile Cure that cured me, I cannot say; but I have been free from piles for two years after using your treatment. I leave sufferers to draw their own conclusions.

"I will answer any communication that a sufferer may ask, and will refer to any business house, bank or manufacturer of Canton, Ohio, concerning my identity, among whom I have lived for forty-eight years."

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., upon receipt of price.

Drop this firm a card asking for their little book describing the cause and cure of piles.

UNITED IN HEART AND NAME

British Government's Desire For South Africa.

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain Tendered an Ovation by Birmingham—Calls His Wife His Truest Counsellor—Britain, He Promises, Will Relieve All Suffering in South Africa—Differences to Be Healed as They Were in Canada.

London, Nov. 18.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain received a great ovation at Birmingham, where a farewell banquet on the occasion of his departure for South Africa was held in his honor. Members of all parties joined in the demonstration, as the affair was of a non-political character. Mr. Chamberlain was accompanied by his wife and his son.

Responding to a tremendously enthusiastic welcome, the Colonial Secretary paid an affectionate tribute to his wife, who, he declared, "had sustained him by her courage, and cheered him by her sympathy. He had found in her his best and truest counsellor."

Referring to his trip, he said it was to be a matter of business, and not a mere parade. He could not expect that all the bitterness in South Africa would die out, but he could say this for the Government, that they would relieve all suffering.

He was bound on a new venture, and there was a possibility of failure. The Government's desire was to make South Africa one united nation, united in heart as well as in name. Greater differences, he said, had been healed, and he mentioned Canada as an instance.

High Commissioner Milner still retained the confidence of the Government. Mr. Chamberlain said he hoped to see the representative of every political section in South Africa. He could then learn more in three days than in a three months' study of despatches in the Blue Books.

He believed that he would be met half way, and that he would gain the friendship of the King's new Boer subjects. He toov a very optimistic view regarding the future of South Africa.

On the conclusion of Mr. Chamberlain's speech, a torchlight procession and a fireworks display were held. The streets were packed with thousands of people, who at one point broke through the barrier erected to keep the crowd back. This incident created some excitement and resulted in slight injuries to a few persons.

Belt Line Through Fruit Districts.

St. Catharines, Nov. 18.—Toronto and Pittsburg capitalists propose building a belt electric line through the most fruitful part of the Niagara Peninsula. The route is to be from Homer to Niagara-on-the-Lake, thence along the river road to Queenston and along the Q. & G. stone road back to Homer. Grantham Township Council on Saturday passed a bylaw giving them a franchise. The work is to be commenced by July 1 next and completed by July 1, 1905.

"Billy" Boyd Remanded.

Chatham, Nov. 18.—"Billy" Boyd was this morning arraigned on the charge of "buncoing" Mr. Herriman of Winnipeg out of $2,000. As the complainant did not appear, Boyd was further remanded for a week, while Mr. Herriman will be summoned.

He was president of the Wesleyan Conference of 1898—99, and editor of The Methodist Times.

Law Must Take Its Course.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Attorney-General Gibson on Monday, said that he could not see that anything else could be done other than let the law take its course in connection with Walter Herbert, the self-confessed murderer, who was the chief witness in the Sifton case. "He has confessed himself to be guilty of murder," said Mr. Gibson, "and it does not seem to me that any other course is open than to bring him up for sentence at the next Assizes at London; In fact he will remain in jail and come up, as a matter of routine, to be dealt with by the presiding judge. After he has been sentenced it will be for the Ottawa authorities to exercise clemency if they see fit."

Gives Brain to Cornell.

Prof. Smith met Prof. Wilder at Cornell some time ago and the latter explained that he was asking his friends to bequeath their brains to his physiological collection. Prof. Smith replied that his should be one of the number.

Music was furnished by the Chalaupka orchestra, and Mr. R. H. Ketcheson was master of ceremonies. The party broke up at a seasonable hour.

TWO LINDSAY WARRIORS

EXPRESS THEIR SENTIMENTS IN REGARD TO MOUNTED INFANTRY MILITARY TRAINING IN SCHOOLS.

Col. Sam. Hughes, of Lindsay, says: "One of the reasons why I believe in military training in schools is because it teaches a boy to hold his head up. The same boy will be a good deal more manly and frank if he goes about erect than if he pulls his hat over his eyes and walks with a skulking gait."

"I should like to see the 45th mounted," said Capt. Staples, late of South Africa. "Mounted infantry is the most effective sort of military, in fact, to be of great use in modern warfare troops must be mounted. Soldiers could take their horses to camp with them and get $1 a day for them from the government. The camp meets in June when farmers are not very busy. In case of war the government would buy the horses. I hardly know how the town men could be mounted, but it would be an easy matter with the rural companies. I have suggested it to the superior officers here."—Watchman-Warder.

CAUSES A STIR

THAT SUIT AGAINST HON. MR. HARTY SOMETHING OF A SENSATION IN KINGSTON.

Kingston, Nov. 17.—The revelations resulting from Mr. M. J. Haney's suit to set aside two resolutions of the directors of the Canadian Locomotive Works, have caused somewhat of a sensation here. It has long been claimed that Mr. Haney and Mr. Harty, the president of the company, did not see eye to eye as a result of the former's wishing to remove the works from Kingston, while Mr. Harty, whose interests are largely local, was for staying. The open rupture has caused a very widespread interest here, especially among the local machinists of the International Union, who, since being on strike, have so strenuously opposed the company since April last. They point to the fact that the company has many orders ahead, that there is an immense profit in making locomotives on a market where there is really no competition, and where a large protective duty exists, as reasons why their demands to have no "handy men" take their work from them, should be granted.

Cases in the Justice Shop

Alleged Assault.

Delbert Asseltine charged Walter Herrington with assaulting him. The parties in question were at the G.T.R. station on Saturday last in their capacity as drivers of vehicles, when it is alleged by the complainant that the defendant struck him. After some evidence had been taken the case was enlarged until to-morrow.

Honey Case.

The charge of theft of honey preferred against Edward Smart was further investigated to-day. The accused is charged with stealing some hives of bees and honey from Mr. W. O. Wells, of Thurlow. Another lad, Wm. Powell, admitted the offence and swore that Smart assisted in stealing the hives.

The result of the investigation was that the lad Powell was remanded to jail for a week, and Smart was committed for trial.

BOARDERS AND TEACHERS

DISCUSSED THE QUESTION OF PROMOTION EXAMINATIONS LAST NIGHT.

A joint meeting of the School Management Committee of the Board of Education and the teachers of the Public and Central schools was held last evening in the assembly room of Queen Victoria School. All the teachers were in attendance and the following members of the Board were present; Messrs. W. P. Hudson, H. Walker, W. Tennent, G. Bennett, A. McGinnis, F. E. O'Flynn, A. E. Lewis and Rev. A. L. Geen.

Mr. Hudson, chairman of the Committee, presided. The object of the meeting was to hear the views of the teachers in reference to having but one promotion examination during the year. All the teachers expressed their ideas and were unanimous for but one examination. The matter was discussed pro and con between the teachers and members of the Board at some length. The Committee will consider the matter before making any report.

The matter of holding the commencement exercises in the City Hall was brought up, and the Committee agreed to engage the City Hall for the holding of the same.

S. A. Temperance Meeting

A temperance meeting was held in the Salvation Army barracks last evening, which was well attended. Addresses in reference to the vote to be taken on the referendum were given by the Rev. O. C. Elliott, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn and the officers of the Army. During the evening a number of temperance hymns were sung.

A SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentery, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures cramps, colic, pain in the stomach and sick headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

KINGSTON ROAD TEA MEETING

ENJOYABLE TIME SPENT LAST NIGHT BY OLD AND YOUNG.

The annual tea meeting in connection with the Kingston Road Methodist Church was held last evening, and, considering the inclement weather, was largely attended. The supper provided was all that could have been desired. After tea a platform meeting was held, presided over by Mr. Wm. Johnson. The programme presented was entertaining, consisting of an address by the chairman, solos by Miss Vandewaters and Rev. M. J. Bates; recitations by Miss Marion Young and S. Garbutt; duet by Misses Davidson and Strachan, and addresses by Rev. Mr. Martin and Corporal Duthfield, of Albert College, who gave his experience of active service in South Africa.

Large Shipment of Apples

Kingston Whig: The steamer Alexandria passed down on Monday evening, bound from Picton to Quebec. She did not stop at this port, having already her complement of freight. She was heavily laden with apples, en route to England. The steamers Niagara and Water Lily are also carrying apples from Picton to Quebec. A quantity of cheese, stored here for shipment to Montreal by steamer Alexandria, had to be forwarded by the barge Rob Roy. A large number of barrels of apples are stored at Picton awaiting shipment to Montreal and Quebec, there to be transferred to ships for England.

An Incorrigible Girl

The girl Stella Handley, who was placed under arrest yesterday afternoon, was brought up before the Magistrate, who sentenced her to the Refuge for Girls at Toronto for an indefinite period. Although but 15 years of age, she had become so incorrigible that her parents were unable to do anything with her.

GOES OVER THE ROAD FOR THREE AND SIX

JOSEPH HANNIVAN, THE CHIEF'S ASSAILANT, SENT TO KINGSTON.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Joseph Hannivan, the young half-breed Indian arrested about three weeks ago by P. C. Stemman, was sent to Kingston for three years and six months by Magistrate Denison in the police court yesterday for burglary and theft. P. C. Stemman found the man at midnight crouched under the porch in front of Mr. C. A. Pipon's house, 41 Cecil street. Four other charges were also proven against him.

When arrested he said he was a porch-climber, but didn't follow that business, as he was a good boxer, and often entered at athletic tournaments.

Hannivan is the man who had a wrestling match with Chief Newton some time ago, and, it was alleged, tried to shoot him.

HARDEST WINTER IN FIFTY YEARS

SEVERE COLD WEATHER NOW PREVAILING IN EUROPE.

London, Nov. 18.—Severe cold weather is prevailing in Europe. There has been a heavy snowfall in Central and Southern France, and a cold storm has suddenly followed the summer-like weather on the Riviera. Bitter winds and frost prevail in Germany and Austria.

In Switzerland there is skating. Premature snows on the mountains have destroyed a number of cattle. German meteorologists prophesy the hardest winter for half a century. A cutting east wind is blowing in Great Britain.

DIED IN TRENTON

POPULAR AND PROMISING YOUNG MAN PASSED AWAY LAST NIGHT.

Mr. Ernest Ray Knox, son of the late Mr. Uriah Knox, died last evening at the Town of Trenton, aged 22 years. A few days ago the deceased had some teeth extracted and as a result blood poisoning set in, causing death. Mr. Knox was one of Trenton's most popular young men, and his demise is sincerely regretted. He was a mail clerk on the Central Ontario Railway and a general favorite with the employes of the road. Deceased was a brother-in-law to Mr. G. H. Allen, who is the General Manager of the Standard Life Assurance Company. Two sisters survive, namely: Mrs. G. H. Allen, of Trenton, and Mrs. E. A. Strauser, of Waterloo.

A BRIGHT AND UP-TO-DATE STORE

MESSRS. QUICK & ROBERTSON HAVE OF LATE MADE MANY IMPROVEMENTS.

For some time past the store occupied by Messrs. Quick & Robertson has been undergoing improvements, and, they having been completed, an Intelligencer representative dropped in to-day to have a look at them. Forty-five feet has been added to the length of the store proper, and every available foot is taken up with goods. Elegant furnishings are seen on every hand, giving the impression that business must be good with the firm, as, indeed, it is, for one of the partners informed the scribe that they this year have more than doubled their staff and business compared with their first year in Belleville. Among the new conveniences seen were a triplicate mirror, which enables one to see himself on three sides at once, illuminated show cases, etc. Readers of The Intelligencer know that Messrs. Quick & Robertson carry a first-class stock of Ready-to-wear Clothing, Gents' Furnishings, Hats, Caps, etc., and when one sees their large stock, bright surroundings, courteous and clever salesmen and general air of up-to-dateness he is impressed with the fact that here is a store the peer of which is not often found outside the large cities. At present the firm is making a feature of the celebrated Dundonald suits and Grosvenor overcoats, which sell so fast that new stocks are constantly coming in by express.

Stole Clothing at Deseronto

Perry Young was yesterday, at Deseronto, sentenced to four months in the Central Prison for the theft of some clothing. The culprit was this morning brought here and placed in the County jail previous to his removal to the Central Prison.

HER END WAS PEACE

DEATH OF A HIGHLY RESPECTED PRINCE EDWARD LADY.

One of the best known and most respected residents of the Township of Ameliasburg passed away at an early hour this morning in the person of Mrs. Phoebe Howell, wife of the late Mr. Griffith Howell. Deceased, whose maiden name was Miss Allison, was a daughter of the late Major Allison, and was born in the Township of Sophiasburg, Prince Edward County, nearly 83 years ago. Mrs. Howell spent her whole life in the County where she was born and no lady was better known or more respected. Deceased had been for over half a century a consistent member of the Methodist Church, and her end was peace. Six sons survive, namely: Rev. J. E. Howell, of Hanover; John A., David N., James R. and Wellington, who reside in Ameliasburg, and Cyrus R., whose home is in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Bible Class Reunion

His Honor Judge Dean, of Lindsay, will be in the city to-morrow. It is expected that a number of the old scholars will be in attendance.

Arrested for Begging

A tramp, who gave his name as Frank C. May, and address Toronto and Montreal, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Hayes, whilst begging for clothing on Charles St. When not being able to procure any cast-off clothing at the place he called, he would ask for alms. This morning the Magistrate allowed him to go upon his promising to leave the city.

Like Other Evils cramps and diarrhoea come suddenly. Promptly give a dose of Perry Davis' Painkiller and the pains will go immediately. A bottle at hand will save hours of suffering—be prepared.

The Referendum

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—The liquor men and their friends (alas that any professing Christian should be among the number), are perpetually charging the advocates of social and moral reform with making wild and extravagant statements, and fanatical efforts in seeking to accomplish their purposes, and they seriously tell us (as if to them it was a matter of regret), that this kind hurts more than helps the temperance cause. Some men forget that things do not right themselves—they also forget that all progress in the temperance movement is due to those who, with persistent activity and intense earnestness have fought the battle with the enslaving and destroying forces of rum. Every reform needs in its van that class of persons whom the friends of the liquor traffic call "fanatics." In our effort to secure the adoption of the Ontario Liquor Act, we are making war upon what the Ottawa Free Press rightly calls "the curse of Canada." Law is a record and gauge of the attained standard of public morals. The Act now before the Province is vastly superior to any enactment of its kind hitherto suggested. Will not the people of Belleville, regardless of church connexions and political partizanships, do all they can to reach this loftier standard of public morality? The responsibility for the continuance of the body and soul-destroying liquor traffic, rests upon the individual Christian voters of this Province. A vote cast in favor of prohibition will count one for it, with this or any other government. Every vote "not cast" will count one against prohibition, whichever party is in power. Our duty then is clear, let every Christian man's vote be polled, for surely no Christian will, with voice or vote, help the liquor men to continue licensing the pestiferous plague spots, which are now by law established at almost every street corner; nor consent to derive public revenue from what degrades and corrupts the community. To do so would be infamous indeed; nor could they escape the self-degradation which would attach itself to such conduct. Let the enemies of moral reform call us fanatics, or any other name they please; but let all true men stand by the interests of the home, the church and the state. Let us put forth a united and successful effort on Dec. 4th to cripple the power of the mightiest foe of God and humanity, by voting as we pray.

BOYS' REEFER JACKETS.

There are some boys, of course, who want the long overcoats, but there are more who will not buy them. The boys say the long coats are all right, but what about skating? The Oak Hall have a complete stock of good warm pea jackets for the boys, and no doubt they are a very sensible overcoat.

ROW OVER PATRONAGE.

Whenever the public gets a peep behind the scenes at the political Grit-Rouge combination now in existence at Ottawa, it is to learn that rows ever and anon take place among the patronage hunting crew who surround the powers that be.

It has for some time past been an open secret that brotherly love did not exist between Tarte and Mr. Belcourt, the Rouge French member for Ottawa. Mr. Belcourt, like all of the Grit-Rouge members of the party had not, and has now, no love for Tarte. This feeling was reciprocated by the Minister, who it appears, from what has transpired, secured the member's enmity by resisting demands for patronage. Not forgetting the past, La Patrie accuses Mr. Belcourt of still endeavoring to improperly secure patronage from the Public Works Department.

This charge Mr. Belcourt resents, and instructs his organ, the French paper in Ottawa, to deny the statement. In noticing this the Ottawa Journal says:

Le Temps explains that the cause of the disagreement between Mr. Tarte and Mr. Belcourt was not on a question of patronage, but because Mr. Belcourt beat Mr. Tarte on the subject of the formation of the Ottawa Improvement Commission. Mr. Tarte had declared that nothing would be done for Ottawa unless the proposal emanated from himself.

Besides this, Le Temps says: Mr. Tarte wished to administer all the patronage in Ottawa without consulting Mr. Belcourt, and the latter protested most vigorously in caucus against the conduct of Mr. Tarte, demanding at the same time the protection of his brother members on the Government side.

The only justification for occupying space with these Grit family quarrels is to point out that it is not principle which binds them together, but patronage, plunder and raids upon the public coffers of the country. This unworthy desire for office is not confined to Ottawa, it permeates the whole party in every section of the country. A day of reckoning will come sooner or later.

To Recognize Purity.

Adulteration has grown to such a fine art, that it is almost impossible for a woman now-a-days to detect the false from the true; but a chemical analysis will always detect adulteration. Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, after a number of analyses, reports that "Sunlight Soap is a pure and well-made soap." Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will see that Prof. Ellis is right. No one should know better than he. 210

GRIT BOOK-KEEPING — HUMBUG!

The Postmaster-General's report shows that in 1901 there was spent for "stores" $170,499, while in 1902 the outlay was but $148,193. The reduction is $22,306. That $5,000 "surplus" was evidently the result of scamping the service as well as faking in the Yukon. This is precisely the same system by which Blair made a fair showing in regard to the Intercolonial railway. He scrimped the road in repairs until after the 30th of June, and then had to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in order to bring the road up to a proper standard.

This is Grit book-keeping, by which a surplus can be shown at any time. All that has to be done is to take credit for the receipts, and charge the expenses of running and management to some other account.

The Grits seem to like this kind of humbugging, as they not only chuckle over it, but boast of the cleverness of their leaders.

REVOLT IN IRISH PARTY.

Timothy Healy Has a Following of Nine Whose Announced Policy Is Moderation and Common Sense.

London, Nov. 19.—The revolt of the Irish member, Mr. Jasper T lly, from the Parliamentary leadership of Mr. William O'Brien has led to the formation of a new Irish party under the leadership of Timothy Healy, whose policy is announced as that of common sense and moderation. Only nine members so far have joined the new section, but 18 others are reported to be ready to adhere to it.

WOMAN AGAINST WOMAN.

Mrs. Young Kills Miss McFarlin With Five Stabs.

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 19.— One of the most sensational murders in the history of Rochester was committed yesterday morning at 543 Court street. The victim was Miss Florence McFarlin, a music teacher. Mrs. Lulu Young, wife of Frank Young, formerly a tobacconist, and once city purchasing agent, was arrested at the house of her father, 881 Exchange street, about an hour after the murder was committed. She is supposed to be the woman who committed the crime rang the door-bell, and when Miss McFarlin answered it, attacked her with a knife. Miss McFarlin ran screaming through the hall into the kitchen closet, pursued by her assailant. In the kitchen she stumbled, half turning, and in a flash her pursuer was upon her, and with a rapid slash had stabbed her to the heart. Another woman was in the kitchen but was too frightened to do anything.

The total number of stab wounds inflicted is five. The dead woman was about 21 years of age. She was the daughter of a railroad man, and a woman of refinement and education. The only words the woman who did the killing was heard to utter were:

"She has come between myself and my husband, and I'm glad she is dead." Mrs. Young has made no confession.

To Teach Japs How to Bake.

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—W. Hutchison, ex-M.P., Dominion Exhibition Commissioner, has engaged W. Jamison of Ottawa to go to Osaka Exhibition in Japan next year to bake bread with a view to demonstrating the superiority of Canadian wheat flour. Wheat bread is not a staple article of diet, but as the Japanese are a wide-awake people, it probably will gain an early entrance into the educational campaign should British trade result later on. At present, however, wheat bread is used in the Japanese navy, and there is great dissatisfaction owing to the bread becoming stale inside of 12 hours.

Found Dead After Three Days.

Shelburne, Nov. 19. — Edward Small, widower, who has been living alone in his residence on Andrew street, was found dead in bed yesterday afternoon, death resulting from asphyxiation by gas from a coal stove. Deceased was last seen alive on Saturday night at 10 o'clock. Coroner Norton was notified, but did not consider an inquest necessary. Deceased was a retired farmer and is supposed to be worth about $25,000.

T. H. A. Begue Appointed.

Hamilton, Nov. 19.—Word was received in the city yesterday afternoon that T. H. A. Begue of Dundas, had been appointed to succeed the late S. H. Ghent as County Court clerk, deputy clerk of the Crown and local registrar of the Surrogate Court for Wentworth. Mr. Ghent died on Nov. 10. The appointment is worth from $3,000 to $3,500 a year.

UNIONISTS' HUMAN DEVILS

"Union Brutes" and Their Methods Arraigned in Toronto.

A Dayton, Ohio, Employer Scores Trades Unionism Severely, and Says That "Perjury Is the Golden Rule" of Some of Its Members—The Unions, He Declared, Stand For Socialism and Anarchy—Urges Resistance to Tyranny.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Trades unionists received a scoring at the hands of John Kirby, jr., president of the Employers' Association of Dayton, Ohio, who delivered an address in the rotunda of the Board of Trade last evening before the members of the Employers' Association of Toronto, about eighty of whom were present with John P. Murray in the chair.

The speaker did not mince matters. He described some trades unionists as "human devils and union brutes," and said perjury was their golden rule.

Mr. Kirby maintained that the arbitrary, dictatorial methods used by leaders of organized labor made it necessary for employers of labor to also organize and adopt some method of protecting themselves, and offset the effects of organized labor.

Continuing, the speaker said organized labor might be in some cases advantageous, but they were at present face to face with one of the most serious problems and with one of the most gigantic law-defying organizations in the world. He demanded to know if they were to bow their heads in recognition of its dignity and might.

The Only Remedy.

As for the remedy, he said the only one was a thorough organization of the employers of labor, whose objects would be to instruct and encourage employes to dispose of his labor wherever he liked, and to protect them and also to void these advantages if they joined a union.

"Where will non-union men find work where unionism reigns?" was an important matter, Mr. Kirby said. Where organized labor got the better of the employers was when they stationed pickets about places of business and dictated what men the employers should or should not employ.

The duty of every employer of labor, said Mr. Kirby, was to contribute his time and money towards the utter annihilation of organized labor, with its vicious practices. He thought that if the Declaration of Independence of the United States had been enforced there would have been no coal strike, and if the ones in authority had said: "Thou shalt not" there would have been abundance of coal.

The results obtained by employers' organizations was referred to. As a result of them newspapers now published letters antagonistic to organized labor; in fact, the newspapers had been turned inside out. He then gave an account of the progress of organized labor in Dayton; of the fights between capital and labor there, and expressed the belief that the employers now controlled the situation.

Means Socialism and Anarchy.

Then Mr. Kirby vehemently declared that organized labor meant Socialism and Anarchy; that it repudiated the brotherhood of man and substituted therefore tyranny; that it recognized no sense of honor or moral obligation; that it put a premium on indolents and raised a barrier against energy, and that not one in 5,000 union laborers would go into a witness box and give evidence that would incriminate a fellow unionist.

In concluding, Mr. Kirby quoted from a speech delivered in Chicago by President McConnel of the Machinists Union. He had said that there was no reason why the employe should not have as many hours ploye should not have as many hours for social pleasure as the employer, and if they would only fight for it they would get it. He (McConnel) believed that no man would get into Heaven unless he wore a union card.

Insure Impartial Consideration.

P. W. Ellis, in moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, explained that the Toronto Employers' Association had been organized so that disputes between labor and capital could be impartially considered.

The chairman, in closing the meeting, said it had been said and wisely said, too, that employers insured against other things and why not against labor troubles.

The Boycott Goes on.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The boycott against the Schenectady Railway Company will continue for another week. No action was taken last night by the Trades Assembly.

Yesterday morning the cars were well patronized and unionists were inclined to laugh at the boycott. The Albany and Troy cars of the company, which daily carry hundreds of men who are employed in the city both in the General Electric and Locomotive Works, were filled with workmen. Their names were not taken by the committees designated by the Trades Assembly for this purpose—in fact, nothing was to be seen of the committee.

The representatives of the company are jubilant over the turn affairs have taken. They declare that the injustice of the boycott has appealed to thinking trades unionists, and that they have declined to ratify the action of the Trades Assembly.

Denounced Strike Breakers.

New Orleans, Nov. 19.—Replying to the address of Mr. Edwards and other fraternal delegates to the Federation Labor Convention, President Gompers referred to the criticisms made by him in his annual address concerning the remarks of President Elliott of Harvard, "for calling a strike-breaker a hero." The strike-breaker, President Gompers declared, was as much a traitor to the cause of labor as the man who betrayed his country in time of war.

HOW THE BODY BREATHES.

There is a homely old saying that nobody ever dies except for want of breath. There is more truth in this than most people know. Breathing means more than is generally imagined.

The lungs are not the only organs with which we breathe. The whole body breathes. This is not a figure of speech. It is an actual fact.

What the lungs do when they breathe is to take in oxygen and give out carbon dioxide, and the same process goes on all over the body all the time in the little cells that make up the nerve-centers, tissues and blood. This is called internal respiration. It is the chief process in the work of tearing down used-up tissue and allowing new material to be built in its place.

If we could understand this process entirely we would understand life, but we can only study it through its effects. We know that Scott's Emulsion helps this process of cell and tissue-repairing to go on very rapidly. We know it very speedily produces good blood and healthy flesh, but we can only partly explain why.

The emulsion contains elements which are very sensitive to oxygen, and the inmost life cells are always hungry for oxygen. Perhaps the emulsion helps them to get it. That is how a great chemist accounts for it.

Scott's Emulsion is rich in carbon, and carbon is particularly needed in sustaining the energy which shows itself in heat and various forms of both mental and muscular activity. It contains an abundance of other properties which we know are specially demanded by the system in conditions of poor health. But no theory will entirely account for the beneficial effects of Scott's Emulsion, just as no theory will quite explain the curative effects of sunshine.

This emulsion combines the full strength of the whole cod liver oil, perfectly emulsified with the highly medicinal properties of hypophosphites of lime and soda. This combination not only makes the oil easy to take and easy to digest, but greatly increases its natural value. Scott's Emulsion is beyond doubt richer than any other known food or preparation in the nourishing properties needed when the blood is poor or the system run down.

Each package of Scott's Emulsion bears the trade mark label of a man carrying a big fish on his back.

LOVE'S COMPULSION.

DUTY OF CHRISTIAN LAYMEN TO PRESENT GOSPEL INVITATION.

FEAST TO WHICH ALL ARE INVITED

A Beautiful Parable Demonstrating the Desire of the Savior That All Men Should Be Saved From Their Sins and the Consequences Thereof—Fill the Banqueting Hall of the King of Kings.

Entered According to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1902, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, Nov. 16. — The duty of Christian laymen to present the gospel invitation to people who have not yet accepted it is enjoined in this sermon by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage on the text Luke xiv, 23, "Go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in."

Christ was comparing the kingdom of heaven to a great banquet which God had prepared for his invited guests, who would not come. The Earl of Leicester made great preparations to receive Elizabeth, the "Virgin Queen of England," when she visited the castle halls of old Kenilworth. Not only was his banquet hall brilliant with many lights, but no sooner did the royal guest step upon the drawbridge which led into the castle than a raft, made as a floating island, came into view. Upon this floating island sat a beautiful woman. She was surrounded by her water nymphs. She came, as queen of the lake, to bend the knee in homage to the visiting queen. At night while the banquet went on the heavens were aflame with the illuminations of fireworks. "Such," wrote the clerk of Queen Elizabeth's council chamber, "was the blaze of burning darts, the gleam of stars coruscant, the streams and hail of fiery sparks, lightnings of wildfire and flight shot of thunderbolts, with continuance terror and vehemency, that the heavens thundered, the waters surged and the earth shook, and for my part, hardy as I am, it made me vengeably afraid." But though the queen lover made great and wonderful preparations to receive his royal guest in the gorgeous banquet hall of old Kenilworth, he made no such preparations as God had made in the parable to receive his heavenly guests, who would not come.

But, as the divinely invited guests would not come, then God practically said: "I will have my banquet hall filled notwithstanding. If the guests for whom the banquet was prepared will not come to me, then I will send out for those who will appreciate it. I will compel them to come in." So the Lord in the parable said to his servants, as Christ now says to us church members, "Go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in." The purpose of this discourse is to show how, as individual church members, we can become heavenly constrainers and present the gospel invitation to sinful men and women whom we meet in our daily walks of life. It is to show how, by gospel consecrated work among individuals, we can change an empty church into a crowded sanctuary and by depleting the places of evil resort we can ultimately make a full heaven.

When some one asked Mr. Moody: "How shall we reach the masses for Christ? How shall we give the gospel invitation to those sinners who are out in the highways and the hedges?" he bluntly answered his questioners, "Go after them." But how are we to go after them? First, as Christ's disciples, we shouldh begin our personal work among individuals by presenting the gospel of Jesus to those who are closest to us. We should present Christ first to our fathers and mothers, to our husbands and wives and brothers and sisters and children, to our dear friends and to all who are bound to us by the ties of blood and love. We should do just the same as Andrew, the brother of Philip, did when he was converted. No sooner did he see the face of Christ than he practically said to himself: "Why, I must immediately go and hunt up my dear brother Philip. How happy I can make him! We have been side by side in all our joys and sorrows from the time we were born. He must share to-day in my new hope." It is upon this action of Andrew, who at once went and carried the gospel invitation to his brother, that the great "Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip" has been established.

But, though the eternal salvation of our unrepentent loved ones ought to be a perpetual cause of anxiety for us day in and day out, yet there are thousands and hundreds of thousands of church members who never think it obligatory for them to present the love of a living Christ to those who ought to be as dear to them as a Jonathan was to a David, a Damon to a Pythias or the memory of a murdered king of Denmark was to an avenging son. These church members are ready to invite those friends to their homes, but they are not willing to personally invite them to sit at the holiest of all tables—the table of the blessed communion. They are ready to talk with their friends upon politics or business, but they are not ready to discuss with them the greatest of all questions, "What shall it profit a man if he should gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" They are ready to sound the praises of their friends to their other friends, but they are not ready to sound forth to their earthly friends the praises of their Heavenly Father. They are always ready to introduce one earthly friend to another, but they are not anxious to make their earthly companions acquainted with that Divine Companion who is ever willing to be our helper and guide along the troubled journey of life.

These church members are not ready to do as a Sunday school teacher did some years ago. She was the daughter of one of the wealthiest financiers in the world. Her teacher, who was a very intimate friend of my mother, told of the incident. Being converted, the young girl not only gave her heart to Christ, but she at once wanted those who were dearest to her to do the same. So, a few days before her public profession in the church, she came to her father and said, "Papa, I am going to join the church next Sunday, and I want you to come and see me." "No, daughter," answered the father, "I am ready to do anything for you, but I can't go to church. Your mother, you know, attends to that part of the family duties. Besides, Helen I have a very important meeting next Sunday with one of our New York boards, and I cannot go to church." "Father," persisted the young girl, "you say you love me. I believe you do. If I was to be married next Sunday, you would be there, would you not? Well, father, I am going to a more important ceremony than any earthly marriage. I am going to give my troth to Jesus Christ. He is to be more to me than ever an earthly husband can be, and I want you to be there." The tears began to rain down the great financier's cheeks as he answered, "Yes, Helen, I will go." As a result of that invitation and that service the father gave his heart to God. He is to-day awaiting in heaven the advent of his Christian daughter, whose faithfulness led him to the foot of the cross. Oh, that you and I, as gospel evangelists might be willing to begin our evangelistic work at home—begin by putting our arm in loving embrace about our dear friends whose affections mean so much to us and say: "Brother, sister, I cannot be truly happy unless you are happy with me in Christ. Will you come with me to meet my Saviour? Will you come now?"

But the gospel invitation ought to be given to the strangers who are within a Christian's gates as well as to the loved ones who have a right by the ties of blood to live there. It is nonsense for us to suppose that after we have gathered our fathers and mothers and wives and husbands and children and a very few dear personal friends into the gospel lifeboat we have a right to haul in the plank and cast off the hawsers and set sail for heaven, deeming our Christian responsibilities fulfilled. No. Emphatically no. The Christian's obligations are so farreaching toward his fellow men that in the light of the gospel the poor traveler who was waylaid by thieves on the road to Jericho was just as much a brother to the good Samaritan as if he had been born in the same cradle, sung to sleep by the same lullaby and reared in the same homestead.

Again, it is absolutely necessary in order to carry out the command of my text for the average church member to give the gospel invitation to his friends and to strangers when they are gathered inside the church walls as well as when they are scattered without, and it is also necessary for the church members to extend this invitation for a specified time and place. A general invitation to come to supper is, as a rule, worse than no invitation at all. When a person comes to me and gushingly says, "Oh, Mr. Talmage, I do wish you would come and visit us; come any time you can and stay as long as you please." I am sure of one fact—that person wants to be polite, but he does not want me to come. He did not set a date. But when a friend comes to me and says, "Mr. Talmage, will you and your wife take supper with us next Thursday night; we are poor folks, but we will give you the best we have?" I generally accept. Why? Because I think that man wants me to come. He set a time and a place where he wished to entertain me. So when the minister of the Lord Jesus Christ preaches a sermon and gives a general invitation and says to the sinners, "Come to Christ" and then dismisses his audience with a benediction and goes home, as a rule, that sermon has amounted to but very little in its evangelistic results. But when the minister of the Lord Jesus Christ can go to his church members and say: "Brethren, we must gather in the sinners who are living around this church. We must go out into the highways and the hedges and compel them to come in. We will tonight as soon as the benediction has been pronounced have an after meeting. As members of this church we will distribute ourselves through the aisles and buttonhole every man, woman and child, so that no one shall leave the building without having a special invitation for this after meeting," there will be no disappointment in the spiritual results. Why? Because the church members themselves are asking their friends and the strangers to meet Jesus Christ in a specified place at a specified time. General invitations in reference to the gospel banquet as well as to an earthly home, as a rule, are worse than no invitations at all.

So, to-day, I lay the blame for the lack of spiritual results in our churches far more upon the pews than I do upon the pulpits. God knows, I do not believe that our ministers are perfect men, but most of them are earnest men, intense men. They would do anything in their power to bring immortal souls to Christ. But the trouble is when the average minister of the gospel announces an after meeting, where sinners can be brought face to face with Christ, nine-tenths, aye, ninety-nine-hundredths of all the church members will get up and put on their hats and go home. They will not only by their actions refuse to personally extend an invitation to the men and women who are sitting by their side, but they will absolutely refuse to go into the after meetings and talk with sinners who are trying to find Christ. This charge which I make against the church members I make not only against the laymen, but also against the church officers. I make it against the elders and the deacons and the trustees. I make it in the strength of the overwhelming fact that you derelict church members cannot find a great evangelistic preacher who is accomplishing any great good for Christ who is not backed up by a praying, consecrated band of earnest, church workers. Yet you can find to-day church after church in our land that is nothing more or less than a slaughter house for ministerial usefulness. Their pastors will win great spiritual successes before they come to them, and those pastors will win great spiritual successes after they leave them, but while they are in those spiritually dead churches the pastors will stumble about blinded and helpless, as did the mighty Samson, bound with fetters of brass, with his two eyes out, grinding about in the prison house of Gaza. Those evangelistic ministers are spiritually helpless in such churches because the people, the common church members, will not unite as a working force and personally present the gospel of Jesus Christ to the strangers who come among them. Instead of deriding and underestimating the power of the ministry, it is high time for some one to thunder a philippic against the indifference of the selfish church members who refuse to spiritually support the pulpit, as the pew always ought loyally to do.

presented by the church members to

The gospel invitation should be their friends and to the strangers wherever they may be found, because the vast majority of sinners never enter the church at all. Therefore, if they do not have Christ presented to them on the street, in the office, in the railroad trains and even in the kitchen, they will never be invited at all. Mr. Beecher once powerfully said, "The longer I live the more confidence I have in those sermons preached where one man is a minister and one man is the congregation, where there is no question as to who is meant when the preacher says, 'Thou art the man!'" I believe Mr. Beecher was right when he made that statement, but I believe he was right even in a larger sense. The longer I live the more confidence I have in those sermons that are preached where one man is a minister and one man is a congregation, because such a gospel service can be held everywhere. It can use the mechanic's bench for a pulpit; it can have the iceman's cart for a moving tabernacle. It can carry the Bread of Life to the sinner who would otherwise never be willing to receive that bread over the pulpit desk. Besides the minister in such a case does not have to be an ordained theological student, but need be simply an earnest consecrated layman pleading for Christ with the sinner who is standing by his side in the village store.

If all church members were to become earnest and consecrated evangelists, it would not take very long for this whole sinful world to see the sunrise burst of the millennial dawn. Surely it would not be too much to expect that one such evangelist as Mr. Beecher described should at least win one soul a year for Christ, yet Dr. William Morley Punshon, the great English Methodist, once made the startling statement: "If every disciple to-day were to call one person to Christ each year and that one were to call one other, how swiftly the world would be converted, for are to-day millions of true believers in the world. But if there were only 100 see how quickly the work would grow. In less than twenty-five years toe world would be converted, for this would double the number of disciples each year." After such an impressive statement, will any one say that the gospel invitation which can be given daily by the church members would amount to but little in the salvation of a sinful world?

To show the importance of a Christian layman's work I cannot do better in closing this sermon than quote two illustrations from the personal experience of H. Clay Trumbull, the well-known editor of The Sunday School Times. Mr. Trumbull's early life was spent in Stonington, Conn. There a great revival sweqt the town, and many of the companions of his youth joined the church, among whom was a young man who was one of his most intimate friends. For many years these two as boys and young men lived near each other, but his Christian friend never spoke to him about religion. After awile they separated. Mr. Trumbull became an engineer in Hartford; his Christian friend went to Yale, but during his last year at college he sent a letter to his old chum pleading with him to become a Christian. That letter was the means of saving H. Clay Trumbull's soul. In his engine room, upon the receipt of it, he then and there gave his heart to God.

He immediately said to himself, "If the personal work of a layman can do so much in the salvation of an immortal soul, I will never make the mistake my friend made with me by postponing for so long a personal invitation to another." So, the same night on which he was converted, Mr. Trumbull went to one of his fellow workmen and told him he had been converted. He urged his friend also to accept Christ. This friend turned to him and said: "Trumbull, your words cut me to the heart. You little know how they rebuke me. I have long been a professed follower of Christ, and you have never suspected this, although we have been in close association in house and office for years. May God forgive me for my lack of faithfulness." Aye, may God to-day forgive us all, ministers and laymen alike, if we have shown the same negligence as these two young men who came into H. Clay Trumbull's life. May God teach us, one and all, the power of personal testimony for Christ. And may we one and all be willing to make the resolution D. L. Moody made a short time after his conversion—"I here and now promise that no day hereafter shall pass unless I have personally presented my Saviour to at least one immortal soul. So help me, Jesus, in my vow! Amen!"

Scabby Sheep Fewer.

The Live Stock World says: "Scabby sheep have been gratifyingly scarce at the big live stock markets this year. Vigorous use of the dip in the range country is the attributed cause. Sheep are treated once or twice before being sent to market, the result being much cleaner stock."

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure, and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 69 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These comes from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Wedding rings in St. Klida used to be made of worsted.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

LOVE'S COMPULSION.

DUTY OF CHRISTIAN LAYMEN TO PRESENT GOSPEL INVITATION.

FEAST TO WHICH ALL ARE INVITED

A Beautiful Parable Demonstrating the Desire of the Savior That All Men Should Be Saved From Their Sins and the Consequences Thereof—Fill the Banqueting Hall of the King of Kings.

Entered According to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1902, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, Nov. 16. — The duty of Christian laymen to present the gospel invitation to people who have not yet accepted it is enjoined in this sermon by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage on the text Luke xiv, 23, "Go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in."

Christ was comparing the kingdom of heaven to a great banquet which God had prepared for his invited guests, who would not come. The Earl of Leicester made great preparations to receive Elizabeth, the "Virgin Queen of England," when she visited the castle halls of old Kenilworth. Not only was his banquet hall brilliant with many lights, but no sooner did the royal guest step upon the drawbridge which led into the castle than a raft, made as a floating island, came into view. Upon this floating island sat a beautiful woman. She was surrounded by her water nymphs. She came, as queen of the lake, to bend the knee in homage to the visiting queen. At night while the banquet went on the heavens were aflame with the illuminations of fireworks. "Such," wrote the clerk of Queen Elizabeth's council chamber, "was the blaze of burning darts, the gleam of stars coruscant, the streams and hail of fiery sparks, lightnings of wildfire and flight shot of thunderbolts, with continuance terror and vehemency, that the heavens thundered, the waters surged and the earth shook, and for my part, hardy as I am, it made me vengeably afraid." But though the queen lover made great and wonderful preparations to receive his royal guest in the gorgeous banquet hall of old Kenilworth, he made no such preparations as God had made in the parable to receive his heavenly guests, who would not come.

But, as the divinely invited guests would not come, then God practically said: "I will have my banquet hall filled notwithstanding. If the guests for whom the banquet was prepared will not come to me, then I will send out for those who will appreciate it. I will compel them to come in." So the Lord in the parable said to his servants, as Christ now says to us church members, "Go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in." The purpose of this discourse is to show how, as individual church members, we can become heavenly constrainers and present the gospel invitation to sinful men and women whom we meet in our daily walks of life. It is to show how, by gospel consecrated work among individuals, we can change an empty church into a crowded sanctuary and by depleting the places of evil resort we can ultimately make a full heaven.

When some one asked Mr. Moody: "How shall we reach the masses for Christ? How shall we give the gospel invitation to those sinners who are out in the highways and the hedges?" he bluntly answered his questioners, "Go after them." But how are we to go after them? First, as Christ's disciples, we should begin our personal work among individuals by presenting the gospel of Jesus to those who are closest to us. We should present Christ first to our fathers and mothers, to our husbands and wives and brothers and sisters and children, to our dear friends and to all who are bound to us by the ties of blood and love. We should do just the same as Andrew, the brother of Philip, did when he was converted. No sooner did he see the face of Christ than he practically said to himself: "Why, I must immediately go and hunt up my dear brother Philip. How happy I can make him! We have been side by side in all our joys and sorrows from the time we were born. He must share to-day in my new hope." It is upon this action of Andrew, who at once went and carried the gospel invitation to his brother, that the great "Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip" has been established.

But, though the eternal salvation of our unrepentent loved ones ought to be a perpetual cause of anxiety for us day in and day out, yet there are thousands and hundreds of thousands of church members who never think it obligatory for them to present the love of a living Christ to those who ought to be as dear to them as a Jonathan was to a David, a Damon to a Pythias or the memory of a murdered king of Denmark was to an avenging son. These church members are ready to invite those friends to their homes, but they are not willing to personally invite them to sit at the holiest of all tables—the table of the blessed communion. They are ready to talk with their friends upon politics or business, but they are not ready to discuss with them the greatest of all questions, "What shall it profit a man if he should gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" They are ready to sound the praises of their friends to their other friends, but they are not ready to sound forth to their earthly friends the praises of their Heavenly Father. They are always ready to introduce one earthly friend to another, but they are not anxious to make their earthly companions acquainted with that Divine Companion who is ever willing to be our helper and guide along the troubled journey of life.

These church members are not ready to do as a Sunday school teacher did some years ago. She was the daughter of one of the wealthiest financiers in the world. Her teacher, who was a very intimate friend of my mother, told of the incident. Being converted, the young girl not only gave her heart to Christ, but she at once wanted those who were dearest to her to do the same. So, a few days before her public profession in the church, she came to her father and said, "Papa, I am going to join the church next Sunday, and I want you to come and see me." "No, daughter," answered the father, "I am ready to do anything for you, but I can't go to church. Your mother, you know, attends to that part of the family duties. Besides, Helen I have a very important meeting next Sunday with one of our New York boards, and I cannot go to church." "Father," persisted the young girl, "you say you love me. I believe you do. If I was to be married next Sunday, you would be there, would you not? Well, father, I am going to a more important ceremony than any earthly marriage. I am going to give my troth to Jesus Christ. He is to be more to me than ever an earthly husband can be, and I want you to be there." The tears began to rain down the great financier's cheeks as he answered, "Yes, Helen, I will go." As a result of that invitation and that service the father gave his heart to God. He is to-day awaiting in heaven the advent of his Christian daughter, whose faithfulness led him to the foot of the cross. Oh, that you and I, as gospel evangelists might be willing to begin our evangelistic work at home—begin by putting our arm in loving embrace about our dear friends whose affections mean so much to us and say: "Brother, sister, I cannot be truly happy unless you are happy with me in Christ. Will you come with me to meet my Saviour? Will you come now?"

But the gospel invitation ought to be given to the strangers who are within a Christian's gates as well as to the loved ones who have a right by the ties of blood to live there. It is nonsense for us to suppose that after we have gathered our fathers and mothers and wives and husbands and children and a very few dear personal friends into the gospel lifeboat we have a right to haul in the plank and cast off the hawsers and set sail for heaven, deeming our Christian responsibilities fulfilled. No. Emphatically no. The Christian's obligations are so farreaching toward his fellow men that in the light of the gospel the poor traveler who was waylaid by thieves on the road to Jericho was just as much a brother to the good Samaritan as if he had been born in the same cradle, sung to sleep by the same lullaby and reared in the same homestead.

Again, it is absolutely necessary in order to carry out the command of my text for the average church member to give the gospel invitation to his friends and to strangers when they are gathered inside the church walls as well as when they are scattered without, and it is also necessary for the church members to extend this invitation for a specified time and place. A general invitation to come to supper is, as a rule, worse than no invitation at all. When a person comes to me and gushingly says, "Oh, Mr. Talmage, I do wish you would come and visit us; come any time you can and stay as long as you please." I am sure of one fact—that person wants to be polite, but he does not want me to come. He did not set a date. But when a friend comes to me and says, "Mr. Talmage, will you and your wife take supper with us next Thursday night; we are poor folks, but we will give you the best we have?" I generally accept. Why? Because I think that man wants me to come. He set a time and a place where he wished to entertain me. So when the minister of the Lord Jesus Christ preaches a sermon and gives a general invitation and says to the sinners, "Come to Christ" and then dismisses his audience with a benediction and goes home, as a rule, that sermon has amounted to but very little in its evangelistic results. But when the minister of the Lord Jesus Christ can go to his church members and say: "Brethren, we must gather in the sinners who are living around this church. We must go out into the highways and the hedges and compel them to come in. We will to-night as soon as the benediction has been pronounced have an after-meeting. As members of this church we will distribute ourselves through the aisles and buttonhole every man, woman and child, so that no one shall leave the building without having a special invitation for this after meeting," there will be no disappointment in the spiritual results. Why? Because the church members themselves are asking their friends and the strangers to meet Jesus Christ in a specified place at a specified time. General invitations in reference to the gospel banquet as well as to an earthly home, as a rule, are worse than no invitations at all.

So, to-day, I lay the blame for the lack of spiritual results in our churches far more upon the pews than I do upon the pulpits. God knows, I do not believe that our ministers are perfect men, but most of them are earnest men, intense men. They would do anything in their power to bring immortal souls to Christ. But the trouble is when the average minister of the gospel announces an after meeting, where sinners can be brought face to face with Christ, nine-tenths, aye, ninety-nine-hundredths of all the church members will get up and put on their hats and go home. They will not only by their actions refuse to personally extend an invitation to the men and women who are sitting by their side, but they will absolutely refuse to go into the after meetings and talk with sinners who are trying to find Christ. This charge which I make against the church members I make not only against the laymen, but also against the church officers. I make it against the elders and the deacons and the trustees. I make it in the strength of the overwhelming fact that you derelict church members cannot find a great evangelistic preacher who is accomplishing any great good for Christ who is not backed up by a praying, consecrated band of earnest, church workers. Yet you can find to-day church after church in our land that is nothing more or less than a slaughter house for ministerial usefulness. Their pastors will win great spiritual successes before they come to them, and those pastors will win great spiritual successes after they leave them, but while they are in those spiritually dead churches the pastors will stumble about blinded and helpless, as did the mighty Samson, bound with fetters of brass, with his two eyes out, grinding about in the prison house of Gaza. Those evangelistic ministers are spiritually helpless in such churches because the people, the common church members, will not unite as a working force and personally present the gospel of Jesus Christ to the strangers who come among them. Instead of deriding and underestimating the power of the ministry, it is high time for some one to thunder a philippic against the indifference of the selfish church members who refuse to spiritually support the pulpit, as the pew always ought loyally to do. presented by the church members to

The gospel invitation should be their friends and to the strangers wherever they may be found, because the vast majority of sinners never enter the church at all. Therefore, if they do not have Christ presented to them on the street, in the office, in the railroad trains and even in the kitchen, they will never be invited at all. Mr. Beecher once powerfully said, "The longer I live the more confidence I have in those sermons preached where one man is a minister and one man is the congregation, where there is no question as to who is meant when the preacher says, 'Thou art the man.'" I believe Mr. Beecher was right when he made that statement, but I believe he was right even in a larger sense. The longer I live the more confidence I have in those sermons that are preached where one man is a minister and one man is a congregation, because such a gospel service can be held everywhere. It can use the mechanic's bench for a pulpit; it can have the iceman's cart for a moving tabernacle, it can carry the Bread of Life to the sinner who would otherwise never be willing to receive that bread over the pulpit desk. Besides the minister in such a case does not have to be an ordained theological student, but need be simply an earnest consecrated layman pleading for Christ with the sinner who is standing by his side in the village store.

If all church members were to become earnest and consecrated evangelists, it would not take very long for this whole sinful world to see the sunrise burst of the millennial dawn. Surely it would not be too much to expect that one such evangelist as Mr. Beecher described should at least win one soul a year for Christ, yet Dr. William Morley Punshon, the great English Methodist, once made the startling statement: "If every disciple to-day were to call one person to Christ each year and that one were to call one other, how swiftly the world would be converted, for are to-day millions of true believers in the world. But if there were only 100 see how quickly the work would grow. In less than twenty-five years the world would be converted, for this would double the number of disciples each year." After such an impressive statement, will any one say that the gospel invitation which can be given daily by the church members would amount to but little in the salvation of a sinful world?

To show the importance of a Christian layman's work I cannot do better in closing this sermon than quote two illustrations from the personal experience of H. Clay Trumbull, the well-known editor of The Sunday School Times. Mr. Trumbull's early life was spent in Stonington, Conn. There a great revival swept the town, and many of the companions of his youth joined the church, among whom was a young man who was one of his most intimate friends. For many years these two as boys and young men lived near each other, but his Christian friend never spoke to him about religion. After awile they separated. Mr. Trumbull became an engineer in Hartford; his Christian friend went to Yale, but during his last year at college he sent a letter to his old chum pleading with him to become a Christian. That letter was the means of saving H. Clay Trumbull's soul. In his engine room, upon the receipt of it, he then and there gave his heart to God.

He immediately said to himself, "If the personal work of a layman can do so much in the salvation of an immortal soul, I will never make the mistake my friend made with me by postponing for so long a personal invitation to another." So, the same night on which he was converted, Mr. Trumbull went to one of his fellow workmen and told him he had been converted. He urged his friend also to accept Christ. This friend turned to him and said: "Trumbull, your words cut me to the heart. You little know how they rebuke me. I have long been a professed follower of Christ, and you have never suspected this, although we have been in close association in house and office for years. May God forgive me for my lack of faithfulness." Aye, may God to-day forgive us all, ministers and laymen alike, if we have shown the same negligence as these two young men who came into H. Clay Trumbull's life. May God teach us, one and all, the power of personal testimony for Christ. And may we one and all be willing to make the resolution D. L. Moody made a short time after his conversion—"I here and now promise that no day hereafter shall pass unless I have personally presented my Saviour to at least one immortal soul. So help me, Jesus, in my vow! Amen!"

Scabby Sheep Fewer.

The Live Stock World says: "Scabby sheep have been gratifyingly scarce at the big live stock markets this year. Vigorous use of the dip in the range country is the attributed cause. Sheep are treated once or twice before being sent to market, the result being much cleaner stock."

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure, and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 68 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These comes from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Wedding rings in St. Kilda used to be made of worsted.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

TIMELY TOPICS.

It was gratifying to see, this morning, that the Sun has not quite forgotten how to shine.

• • •

How do you like those wooden crossings, with a loose plank that sags when you step on it and squirts mud up to your knee?

• • •

The action of the Council in taking steps looking to the licensing of the sale of cigarettes is generally commended. The by-law may not knock down the evil, but it will stagger it, sure.

• • •

Of course, the by-law may again get lost in the shuffle, like it did last year, but somehow or other we don't think it will.

• • •

We do not think that Ald. McFee lost much of his personal popularity through the introduction of that by-law looking to the withdrawal of the bonus. People are beginning to think it's time we had a show-down. The time for fairy tales has gone by. Withdraw the bonus and save that $300 a year, if possible. Then tax the works at their proper valuation and see that the taxes are collected. That seems to be the consensus of opinion in Belleville at present.

• • •

We hear it whispered that the "Municipal Improvement Association" will have another ticket in the field at the next municipal elections. The meetings are being held behind closed doors, but rumor says that a few of the present Council are marked men, and are slated for retirement. Who their successors will be deponent sayeth not.

• • •

The Intelligencer, while anxious to give the present Council credit for their energy, ability and hard work, is glad to see that the general interest displayed by the public in municipal affairs last fall was not a flash in the pan. The Council this year was a good one, but even it might be capable of improvement. However, we hope the city will never have a worse lot of City Fathers than those who this year sat round the horseshoe.

"A Parent" asks: "Is there no law to punish the grown-up men who buy cigarettes with boys' money and then turn them over to the youngsters, the purchaser's percentage being one cigarette out of the ten? I have been told that this is done, and in fact have seen a young man come out of a tobacco store and hand a package of them to a boy who appeared to be about nine years of age. If there is a law against this, and some of the unprincipled people were punished for it, I believe the evil could be put down, but not otherwise."

There seems to be considerable force in the remarks of our correspondent. We know of no such law, though it would undoubtedly be a good one.

Some people who complain loudly of Belleville's tax rate, may find food for thought in the following figures: The average tax rates for all the cities of the province in mills on the dollar are: Belleville 22.5, Brantford 20.2, Chatham 27.6, Guelph 23.6, Hamilton 19.9, Kingston 19.9, Ottawa 27.7, St. Catherines 21.9, St. Thomas 28.2, Stratford 24.9, Toronto 22.3, Windsor 26.8, Woodstock 23.7.

• • •

Where does the "joke" come in in a case of this kind: The Kingston Whig says: "The young men who tore down Mrs. Duff's fence, Princess street, on Hallowe'en, have made restitution. Eight of them paid over $5 each."

• • •

Gen. Viljoen, a Boer general now lecturing in England, has rather a pretty turn for sarcasm. In a recent lecture he said: "During the war the Boers had to send away some bad generals, and at the end of it they were found herding cattle. He had heard that some British generals who were sent away were now teachers of military tactics."

In to-day's paper will be found a letter from Rev. O. R. Lambly, who advocates prohibition. The Intelligencer will cheerfully publish letters of reasonable length on this question, on condition that the epistles are signed with the real name of the writers, and are based on the principles which should govern fair argument.

There is said to be a split in the Irish party, and Tim Healy now has a following whose watchword is moderation and common sense, a couple of things which, for some time back, have been sadly lacking among the Redmondites. The editor of the Kingston Freeman, who has been frothing at the mouth for some time back, is respectfully advised to get in behind the Hon. Tim Healy.

The St. Thomas street railway fell into the hands of the City Council, and they will operate the road. When it comes down to a question of municipal ownership, St. Thomas does not appear to contain so many doubting Thomases as Belleville.

In West Middlesex the Grits bribed electors with pigs' feet and beer, but in Lennox it appears they went the whole hog and gave live pigs for votes. The pigs are now in the pen, and some of the bribers would be in the pen, too, if they got their deserts.

MR. DOOLEY ON THE CITY COUNCIL.

(With apologies to P. F. Dunne.)

"The City Council," said Mr. Dooley, "are a fine body of min. I would be glad to see as fine a lot of byes on College Green."

"Some people 'ud put them on Paris green, av they could," said Mr. Hennessy.

"Perhaps," said Mr. Dooley, "perhaps, but that the Council are a lot of clever min, Hinnisy, ye cud see in a minit by the way they med you and me and the rest of the byes on the corporation worruk all summer. Let's look at them individually for a moment, av ye plase."

"Well, there's the Mayor," said Mr. Hennessy.

"Some people think," said Mr. Dooley, "that his poppylarity has evaporated. Divvle a bit of it Hinnissy, me bye. Mind ye, I've often felt like handin' him a polthogue meself, for he has a quare way of soakin' his frinds as well as his foes, but for all that he bulks big, Hinnissy, he bulks big."

"He does that," said Mr. Hennessy, "and all the cares ov his lofty position have not made him anny thinner. Well, there's the Financial Minister, Ald. Crown, how does he suit you?"

"For a former Kingston man," said Mr. Dooley, "he's A1, copper bottomed. I regaard him as the best Financial Minister since me ould frind John D'yle played ping-pong wid the figgyures down at the City Hall."

"The Chairman of Public Worruks is a nice little bit of a man," said Mr. Hennessy.

"He is that," said Mr. Dooley. "If Ald. Panter had had the good fortune to be born in Oireland I'd have been proud uv him. Even the nails in the sidewalks hid their heads this summer when he wint by."

"An' what about Ald. McFee, the chairman of Firewater?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"'Tis himsilf is a temperance man," said Mr. Dooley, "don't mention firewater in connection wid him. I knew, whin I saw him play Hamlet long ago, wid more fire than Edwin Booth ever put in the paart, that he had a great future before him. 'Ah! Hamlet, I am thy father's ghost!' No wonder the sthreet lights burn dim whin they see him approachin'."

"He led the poll lasht time, I belave," said Mr. Hennessy.

"He did that," said Mr. Dooley, "and he also led the attack on the late Cow Inspector, peace to his ashes, Hinnissy."

"How about the Chairman of Parks, Ald. Pope?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"Wid that name," said Mr. Dooley, impressively, "no man cud be a bad Alderman. Sure, the poseys and daffydowndillies on the park were niver betther kept than they have been this summer, and the guns, Hinnissy, d'ye moind the guns?"

"There's Ald. Wills," said Mr. Hennessy.

"The watchdog of the Council," said Mr. Dooley. "Sure the mate market, Hinnissy, will always be a monnyment to him."

"He might have a betther one," said Mr. Hennessy.

"We'll get him one whin the lavvytory is put in," said Mr. Dooley.

"There's Ald. Sinclair, the Chairman of Industries," said Mr. Hennessy.

"Some people think he's gettin' shtout," said Mr. Dooley, "but 'tis not avverdupous, Hinnissy, 'tis only the letters he has in his pockets enquiring about the bonus. 'Tis sorry I am I didn't take up his offer to bet a new hat that the Rollin' Mills would be staarted by the Youngstown people. I'd have a new lid, sure."

"How about Ald. Price?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"The Chairman of Zwick's island, is it?" said Mr. Dooley. "D'ye know, Hinnissy, I hear bad rayports of Ald. Price. I hear he goes down pretendin' to take care of the Rollin' mills and smokes cigayrrets in the big buildings."

"Does he roll them himsilf?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"Naw," said Mr. Dooley, "he doesn't have to. The rollers have come back."

"What think ye of Ald. Galbraith?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"For a cold wather man," said Mr. Dooley, "an' a disciple of the Reffyrendum, he's not so bad, Hinnissy. I don't think there'll be much of the city's money squandered while the Docther is there and has his lamps wid him."

"They do say Ald. Solman has not talked much this year," said Mr. Hennessy.

"Mebbe not," said Mr. Dooley, "but his complaint was not catching, Hinnissy, and the rest of the byes kept the conversation from languishin'. 'Tis lucky he did not talk so much as some of the others, or the reporthers' wives might have wint home to their mammas, some nights, Hinnissy, thinkin' their husbands had deserted thim."

"How about Ald. Cooper?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"The only man in Coleman ward," said Mr. Dooley, "who will not vote for the miller next time, is dead, an the vilets are withered over his grave."

"Or the weeds," said Mr. Hennessy.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

DANGER IN POISON IVY.

How to Know the Plant—Simple Remedies if Affected by It.

"If one knows how the Rhus toxicodendron—that is the scientific name for poisonous ivy—looks," said a man of the woods, "he can avoid it with ease. It is sometimes a low shrub about a foot high, and it is also a graceful vine, with stout, hairy stems. This vine sends out horizontal branches. The bush and the vine do not look alike, but both have coarse toothed, oval pointed leaves. These are always three in a group, and the plant also bears small greenish white berries."

Poison oat, otherwise Rhus radicans, and poison sumac, or Rhus vinenta, are other plants to be avoided by visitors to the woods. The sumac has groups of four leaflets, oval pointed in form, arranged on a tapering stem. It differs from the real sumac in so far that its leaflets incline upward. In the autumn the foliage is a brilliant scarlet. The little berries look like grayish white grapes.

A good antidote for ivy poisoning in its first stages is a solution of ordinary baking soda. A bottle containing a pint of water and a heaping teaspoonful of baking soda is carried by many persons who take walks in the woods, for, while some people may handle the poison vines without danger, others are poisoned if they pass within twelve feet of them.

She Pitied His Distress.

An artist who was making a sketching tour through a picturesque region of Connecticut chanced one day on a barn so alluring to his eye that he sat down on a stone wall and went to work at once.

He soon became conscious that he had two interested spectators in the persons of the farmer and his wife, who had come to the door of the house to watch him.

The artist by and by discovered that he had lost or mislaid his rubber eraser, and as he wished to correct a slight error in the sketch he went up to the door and asked the farmer's wife if he might have a small piece of dry bread. This, as every artist knows, makes a good eraser.

The farmer's wife looked at him with an expression of pity not unmixed with surprise.

"Dry bread!" she repeated. "Well, I guess you won't have to put up with any dry bread from me, young man. You come right into the kitchen with me, and I'll give you a thick slice of bread with butter on it.

"Now, don't say a word," she continued, raising her hand to ward off his expostulation. "I don't care how you came to this state nor anything about it. All I know is you're hungry, and that's enough for me. You shall have a good dinner."

The Nest of the Kingfisher.

Our American belted alcyon, or common kingfisher, is an expert hole borer. There is scarcely a clayey bank along the streams of our middle and southern states but has its face cut by the door of one of these gloomy looking houses.

The hole is usually quite round and goes directly into the bank, with a slight upward slant to a distance of from two to four feet, where it turns nearly at right angles to one side or the other, ending in a large, jug shaped pocket, where the eggs are laid. The kingfisher is my most cheerful companion when I am out for a day's or a week's angling. It is an ever fresh delight to watch him swooping down into the clear brook water with a melodious plunge and coming forth sparkling like a flake from a blue sea wave or a fragment of turquoise. He rarely fails to catch the minnow he strikes at, but his appetite is unremitting and insatiable. He eats from morning till night.—

Two Things That Scare a Negro.

Two seemingly harmless things excite the fear of the southern negro. One is the cracking of the finger joints; the other is to be stepped over as he lies prone upon the ground. The cracking of the finger joints seems to suggest to the negro imagination the rattling of a skeleton's bones, while to be stepped over is regarded as likely to bring bad luck to grown folks and to check the growth of children. A half grown negro boy will sternly command a playfellow who has stepped over his body to step back in order that the spell may be removed.

Uncle Sam's Recruits.

The following qualifications are required of every soldier selected as a recruit: He must not be under twenty or over twenty-five years old, he must be strong enough to lift a 100 pound weight with both hands to a position level with his chest, he must be 4 feet 8 inches in height and able to run a course of seven miles in an hour, and he must also be of good character.

Diplomacy.

William Slimson, Jr.—Do you believe in being kind to the sick, mamma?

Mrs. W. Slimson—Certainly, Willie, and I hope you always will. Why do you ask?

William—Because, mamma, I heard the little boy on the next block had the measles, and I've been visiting him all the afternoon.

The Poet's Explanation.

"What do you mean by 'embers of the dying year?'" asked the poet's wife.

"Why, Nov-ember and Dec-ember, of course, my dear," replied the long haired one, with a fiendish grin.

Long Time Between Meals.

"If you're a-stayin' fer dinner," said the author's little boy, "I'm afraid you'll go hungry. We only eat on publication."

PIGS FIGURE IN PROTEST.

Allegations That Liberal Supporters Offered Big Prices For Them.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—According to affidavits filed by Dr. Alian M. Ruttan and Henry Milling of Napanee, pigs and dollars were inducements held out by the supporters of Mr. Madole, the Liberal candidate for Lennox. The Liberal bribers are alleged to be E. P. Smith, Byron Derbyshire, Homer Miles and J. S. Hulett.

Judges Moss and Maclennan at Osgoode Hall Tuesday refused the application for summonses against the four charged with bribery.

In his affidavit Dr. Ruttan says Derbyshire offered $3 to Samuel McConnell and $2.50 to Eli Emmons to vote for Madole; that he promised to cancel an account owing by Calvin Emmons; that he offered Henry Evans, Samuel Babcock and Robert Cairns $5 to vote Liberal, and in addition hired a rig from W. A. Baker to drive voters to the polls.

Mr. Milling's affidavit is that Hulett offered a pig to Thomas Smith and to Samuel, and Benjamin Davey offered $21 ostensibly for seven swine conditional upon their voting for Madole. To Benjamin and William Davey, Samuel Smith and William Patterson, Hulett is charged with offering in all six pigs.

Various other charges are made of money being offered to influence voters.

CANADA TO LIGHT ST. LAWRENCE.

Mr. Prefontaine Expects Work Will Be Completed by Next Summer.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Hon. Mr. Prefontaine made the following statement yesterday: "The examination I have made of the channel has convinced me that there is no reason why it should not be so lighted at night as to make it as navigable during the hours of darkness as it now is in the day time. I intend to ask my associates in the Government to permit me to place a sufficient amount in the estimates for this purpose, and I have no doubt but Parliament will be quite ready to vote the money which is required. I expect that the work of perfecting the lighting of St. Lawrence channel will be completed before the end of the coming summer."

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—The importation of settlers' effects during the last fiscal year shows an increase of $1,774,044, as compared with 1899. The increase in settlers' effects from the United States alone amounts to $1,567,502. This indicates how large a movement of population has been going on from the United States to Canada. The figures for the past five years are as follows: follows:

	Total.	United States	Great Britain
1899 ...	$2,805,956	$2,183,861	$458,888

FOUR YEARS IN KINGSTON.

Sentence Imposed Upon the Aged Counterfeiter, William Stuart.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—William Stuart, the aged counterfeiter, was yesterday morning sentenced to four years in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate Denison. Stuart expected 10 years, and was greatly relieved at the comparative lightness of his sentence.

E. E. A. Du Vernet appeared for Stuart, and put in character evidence. A. E. Kemp, M.P., who had employed the old man from time to time, said Stuart had always borne the highest character possible for integrity. Alfred Jury, jr., said he always believed the prisoner to be an honest man. Others who spoke for the old man were John Taylor, cigar manufacturer, and Daniel Doran.

Stuart, according to Mr. Du Vernet, took to counterfeiting only when he had been crowded out of work by young men. He had a wife and two daughters, one blind. Mr. Du Vernet asked also that the plea of guilty be considered.

Mr. Curry explained that as to Stuart's operations having been small, the police have found material showing that preparations had been made for very extensive forgeries. Half a pillow of bank note paper, ready prepared, had been found. After sentence had been pronounced Detective Forrest handed Stuart his violin, which he took to the cells with him.

Do You Look on the Dark Side?

ARE YOU BLUE, DISCOURAGED, IRRITABLE AND DEPRESSED? IT MAY BE YOUR NERVES ARE EXHAUSTED AND YOU NEED

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Irritability and mental depression, sometimes amounting to melancholy and despondency, are marked symptoms of nervous exhaustion.

In the beginning you feel languid and tired, find it difficult to remember and next to impossible to concentrate your thoughts. The tasks of the day are put off till to-morrow, little things worry you, you forget your blessings and look on the dark side of things.

At times there may be nervous headaches, spells of dizziness, indigestion, sleeplessness and general weakness of the body. You dread what the future may bring to you and feel the work and responsibilities of life more than you can bear.

Mrs. Symons, 42 Sinclair St., Belleville, Ont., states: "Some weeks ago I began a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it a very satisfactory medicine. I was formerly troubled with nervous exhaustion and a weak fluttering heart. Whenever my heart bothered me I would have spells of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of this treatment my nerves have become strong and healthy, and the action of my heart seems to be regular. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as an excellent medicine."

The wonderful medicinal power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been demonstrated in thousands of cases. Gradually and certainly it creates new nerve cells, builds up the system, and overcomes the weakness which gives rise to nervous ailments and feelings of depression and despondency. New hopes, new confidence, new vitality are instilled into the body and health and strength take the place of disease.

FAREWELL TO MGR. FALCONIO

Papal Ablegate Tendered a Banquet by Catholics of Toronto.

The Distinguished Prelate, on Leaving Canada, Carries Away Good Opinions of All—His Excellency's Happy Reply to the Personal Toast—Regards Canada as a Land of Promise—Toronto Lauded as Being More Tolerant Than Formerly.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—A cordial and feeling farewell was extended to Mgr. Falconio, Papal ablegate in Canada, by the Canadian Catholic Union, at a banquet here last evening. It was the eve of his departure for Washington, he having been appointed ablegate in the United States.

His Honor Judge MacMahon, president of the Union, occupied the chair, on his right being the guest of the evening, Mgr. Falconio. The others at the guest table were: The guest's secretary, Father Solanus; Hon. George W. Ross, Mayor Howland, Archbishop O'Connor, Bishop McEvoy of London, Father Conway of Peterboro, Eugene O'Keefe, Vicar-General McCann, J. F. White, H. T. Kelly and Senator McHugh of Lindsay.

In proposing the first toast of the evening, that of "His Holiness the Pope," Judge MacMahon remarked that the Sovereign Pontiff had always received a loyal and undivided support from the people of Canada.

When the toast had been duly honored that of "His Majesty the King" was proposed, and was enthusiastically received, the gathering arising and singing the National Anthem.

The toast of the guest of the evening was then proposed. In doing so, Judge MacMahon stated that the large attendance of the hierarchy, the clergy and the laity was an indication of the high esteem in which Catholics of Ontario held His Excellency. While regretting his departure from their midst, they would extend to him their heartfelt wishes for every happiness in his new home to the south.

Mgr. Falconio returned thanks for the expression of good-will towards him, and for their demonstration of love and fidelity to His Holy Father the Pope. The Holy Father was pleased to give him a higher position, not upon any merit of his own, and he would say from the bottom of his heart that he regretted to leave Canada. (Applause.) "The three years I have spent amongst you," he said, "I have learned to love Canada above any other country in the world. (Applause.) I admire your beautiful country, with its great expanse of land and all the gifts that nature can bestow upon any land. I admire above all, though, the high character of the people. Although of different nationalities and creeds, yet there is a feeling of love and unity among you that must lead to prosperity and happiness to the whole country. I hope, therefore, that the blessings of God will always be upon you, and when I write His Holiness, I shall be pleased to tell him that he has such children here that perhaps cannot be found any place in the world. (Applause.) Therefore, while I bid you good-bye, I shall never forget Canada. You shall always be present in my mind; I shall pray for Canadians through all my life, and I hope that God will hear my prayers and bestow upon you his choicest blessings. (Loud applause.)

Bishop McEvoy spoke in a happy strain on behalf of the hierarchy.

"Canada Our Land" was proposed in patriotic terms by the chairman, coupling with the toast the name of Hon. G. W. Ross, who replied in an eloquent speech, lauding the good work of the Catholic clergy in the cause of education.

Mayor Howland spoke on behalf of the city of Toronto.

Archbishop O'Connor also replied to the toast, stating that a great change for good had come over Toronto during the past twenty years in the way of religious tolerance, and the fostering of pleasant and peaceful relations among the community.

Prefers Canada to the Orient.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Mgr. Sbarretti had received no official announcement of his appointment as Apostolic delegate to Canada when an Associated Press representative carried the news to him yesterday, but he expressed confidence in the accuracy of the statement. That such an appointment would be made had previously been intimated to him, but afterward there was a change of plan, with the view of sending him to India. He is much pleased with the new designation, for he prefers Canada to the Orient. Dr. Sbarretti said that he would start for his new post as soon as officially notified about it. He will live at Ottawa.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"His burden is greater than mine. God help us both," Marian said, as she resumed her work.

And so amid joy and gladness, silent tears and breaking hearts, the preparations went on until all was done and only three days remained before the eventful tenth. Marian Hazelton was going home, for she would not stay at the farm-house until all was over, notwithstanding Katy's entreaties were joined to those of Helen.

"Perhaps she would come to the church," she said, "though she could not promise;" and her manner was so strange that Katy wondered if she could have offended her, and at last said to her timidly, as she stood with her bonnet on, waiting for Uncle Ephraim, "You are not angry with me for anything, are you?"

"Angry with you!" and Katy never forgot the glitter of the tearful eyes, or their peculiar expression as they turned upon her. "No, oh, no; I could not be angry with you, and yet, Katy Lennox, some in my position would hate you, contrasting your prospects with their own; but I do not; I love you; I bless you, and pray that you may be happy with your husband; honor him, obey him if need be, and above all, never give him the slightest cause to doubt you. You will have admirers, Katy Lennox. In New York others than your husband will speak to you words of flattery, but don't you listen. Remember what I tell you; and now, again, God bless you."

She touched her lips to Katy's forehead, and when they were withdrawn there were great tears there which she had left! Marian's tears on Katy's brow; and it was very meet that just before her bridal day Wilford Cameron's bride should receive such baptism from Marian Hazelton.

CHAPTER IX.

On the morning of the 9th day of June, 18—, Wilford Cameron stood in his father's parlor, surrounded by the entire family, who, after their unusually early breakfast, assembled to bid him good-bye, for Wilford was going for his bride, and it would be months, if not a year, ere he returned to them again. They had given him up to his idol, asking only that none of the idol's family should be permitted to cross their threshold, and also that the idol should not often be allowed the privilege of returning to the place from whence she came. These restrictions had emanated from the female portion of the Cameron family, the mother, Juno and Bell. The father, on the contrary, had sworn roundly as he would sometimes swear at what he called the contemptible pride of his wife and daughters. Katy was sure of a place in his heart just because of the pride which was building up so high a wall between her and her friends, and when at parting he held his son's hand in his, he said:

"I charge you Will, be kind to that young girl, and don't for Heaven's sake go to cramming her with airs and nonsense which she does not understand. Tell her I'll be a father to her; her own, you say, is dead, and give her this as my bridal present."

He held out a small box containing a most exquisite set of pearls, such as he fancied would be becoming to the soft, girlish beauty Wilford had described. Something in his father's manner touched Wilford closely, making him resolve anew that if Kitty were not happy as Mrs. Cameron it should not be his fault. His mother had said all she wished to say, while his sisters had been gracious enough to send their love to the bride, Bell hoping she would look as well in the poplin and little plaid as she had done. Either was suitable for the wedding day, Mrs. Cameron said, and she might take her choice, only Wilford must see that she did not wear with the poplin the gloves and belt intended for the silk; country people had so little taste, and she did want Katy to look well, even if she were not there to see her. And with his brain a confused medley of poplins and plaids, belts and gloves, pearls and Katy, Wilford finally tore himself away, and at three o'clock that afternoon drove through Silverton village past the little church, which the Silverton maidens were decorating with flowers, pausing a moment in their work as he went by. Among them was Marion Hazelton, but she only bent lower over her work, thus hiding the tear which dropped upon the delicate buds she was fashioning into the words, "Joy to the Bride," intending the whole as the centre of the wreath to be placed over the altar where all could see it.

"The handsomest man I ever saw," was the verdict of most of the girls as they came back to their work, while Wilford drove on to the farm-house where Katy had been so anxiously watching for him.

When he came in sight, however, and she knew he was actually there, she ran away to hide her blushes, and the feeling of awe which had come suddenly over her for the man who was to be her husband. But Helen bade her go back, and so she went coyly in to Wilford, who met her with loving caresses, and then put upon her finger the superb diamond which he said he had thought to send as a pledge of their engagement, but had finally concluded to wait and present himself. Katy had heard much of diamonds, and seen some in Canandaigua; but the idea that she, Katy Lennox, would ever wear them, had never entered her mind; and now, as she looked at the brilliant gem sparkling upon her hand, she felt a thrill of something more than joy at that good fortune which had brought her to diamonds. Vanity, we suppose it was—such vanity as was very natural in her case, and she thought she should never tire of looking at the precious stone; but when Wilford showed her next the plain broad band of gold, and tried it on her third finger, asking if she knew what it meant, the true woman spoke within her, and she answered tearfully:

"Yes, I know, and I will try to prove worthy of what I shall be to you when I wear that ring for good."

Katy was very quiet for a moment as she sat with her head nestled against Wilford's bosom, but when he observed that she was looking tired, and asked if she had been working hard, the quiet fit was broken, and she told him of the dress "we had made," the "we" referring solely to Helen and Marian, for Katy had hardly done a thing. But it did not matter; she fancied she had, and she asked if he did not wish to see her dresses. Wilford knew it would please Katy, and so he followed her into the adjoining room, where they were spread out upon tables and chairs, with Helen in their midst, ready to pack them away. Wilford thought of Mrs. Ryan and the check, but he shook hands with Helen very civilly, saying to her playfully:

"I suppose you are willing I should take your sister with me this time."

Helen could not answer, but turned away to hide her face, while Katy showed one dress after another, until she came to the silk, which, with a bright blush, she told him "was the very thing itself—the one intended for to-morrow," and asked if he did not like it.

Tarte Is For Prefontaine.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Hon. Mr. Tarte has a very mild article in La Patrie last evening, stating that as Hon. Mr. Prefontaine is a pronounced protectionist, it would be well to allow the Minister of Marine to go in unopposed.

Blood Disorders

Cured Without Drugs.

TESTIMONIAL.

A year ago I was unable to go out of doors without a veil covering, on account of eczema and pimples covering my face. I tried all sorts of drugs and lotions without effect. Powley's Liquified Ozone cured me. My skin is clear and healthy now. LILY HALL.
12 Sully St., Toronto, Canada.

Absolute purity of the blood stream and disinfection of all the tissues through which it passes are necessary to make the blood healthy and give the skin that clear, deep bloom so much sought after. You cannot obtain this result by taking drugs or applying lotions or ointments. You can by using Powley's Liquified Ozone, nature's blood food. Clears out all humors thoroughly and surely. Acts quickly. You do not have to take Powley's Liquified Ozone very long to know that it will cure you.

PUTTING IT STRONG

BUT DOESN'T IT LOOK REASONABLE?

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is CURABLE, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspeptics is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves or going to opposite extremes or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters," "after dinner pills," etc., which invariably increase the difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a REST. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is a great secret, and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy, but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach.

The sufferer from Dyspepsia, according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good, wholesome food and use the Tablets before and after each meal, and the result will be that the food will be digested no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be, because, as before stated, the Tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1,800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put with it one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as if the meat was enclosed within the stomach.

The stomach may be ever so weak, yet these Tablets will perform the work of digestion, and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made, because the much abused stomach will be given, to some extent, a much needed rest. Your druggist will tell you that of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

BERESFORD ON BRODRICK.

Upholds British Navy and Says Latter Is Making Wrong Turning.

London, Nov. 19.—Some recent speeches made by the War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, showing a tendency to belittle the importance of the navy as a national defence, have brought forth a strong attack by Lord Charles Beresford, who, speaking at Portsmouth last night, argued that 10,000,000 of the finest Britons under arms could not prevent the cutting off of Great Britain's food supplies if her fleets were beaten.

Then, after repudiating any intention to find fault or adversely criticize Mr. Brodrick, whom he said he admired for taking up a work bristling with difficulties, Lord Charles Beresford continued: "But, good man as he is, he is going the wrong way with the British army, and there is nothing in the world so dangerous as a good man going round the wrong turning."

A BRITISH CHECK.

Col. Tonnochy Mortally Wounded and Major Beresford Wants Reinforcements.

Peshawur, India, Nov. 19.—The British expedition to put down the uprising of the Wazri tribesmen on the Afghan frontier is meeting with a determined opposition. Col. Tonnochy, in command of the fourth column, has been mortally wounded in an engagement with the insurgents, and Major Beresford, the next in command, has asked for reinforcements.

London, Nov. 18.—The news of the British check in the Waziri country has created some alarm here, as it is feared that the column is surrounded, and that the full details of the casualties are being withheld.

Street Cars in St. Thomas.

St. Thomas, Nov. 19.—A special meeting of the City Council was held Monday night when the street railway was taken over, the company not having operated it for sixty days and therefore by the agreement with the city forfeiting their franchise and giving the city the right to take over the property in satisfaction of the $50,000 guarantee bonds given by the city. Cars will be running again early this week, and the city will endeavor to give as good a service as possible for the present with four cars. There are no legal obstacles to the city operating the street railway, and the engineer has been granted all the necessary authority.

During the progress of the City Council meeting Monday evening a resolution was carried requesting the St. Thomas Gas Co. to furnish the council with the selling prices of the St. Thomas Gas Company's plant, together with the unexpired parts of their lighting contract; also that the Gas Company furnish the selling price of their electric plant, together with unexpired part of lighting contract.

Plot Against Roosevelt.

New York, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Lena Doxheimer of Hoboken is reported to have related a story of alleged Anarchist plottings against the life of President Roosevelt. According to Mrs. Doxheimer there have been in the last fourteen months three persons assigned to the task of "removing" the President. Each of them have, however, themselves been removed by accident or poison.

IS UNION FIT TO CONTROL?

Mr. MacVeagh Puts Mine Workers' Union on Trial.

Attempts to Show That by Its Alleged Acts of Intimidation, Violence and the Use of the Boycott, It Is Unfit to Be a Party to a Contract—President Mitchell Looked Upon as Miners' Leading Witness—Non-Unionists Claims.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 19.—President Mitchell yesterday for the fourth successive day, occupied the witness stand during the two sessions of the Strike Commission, and was cross-examined by the attorneys for as many companies. The day was rather a quiet one. The commissioners yesterday for the first time entered into the discussion with the lawyers and the witness over disputed points, which arise from time to time.

Is Union Unfit to Control?

Mr. MacVeagh, who began his cross-examination of Mr. Mitchell on Saturday, concluded at 11 o'clock yesterday. He attempted to break down the miners' reasons for asking for a yearly agreement with the companies on hours of labor, wages and other conditions, which, if formed, would be recognition of the union. Mr. MacVeagh's principal aim throughout his questioning of Mr. Mitchell, was to show that the Mine Workers' Union, because of alleged acts of intimidation, violence and the use of the boycott, by its members, proved itself unfit to be a party to a contract. Mr. Mitchell would not admit, nor even assume for the sake of illustrating points, that a reign of terror existed in the anthracite fields during the last six months. The recognition of the union is looked upon as the most important question before the commission, and it is quite evident from the trend of the proceedings thus far that the companies will oppose it to their utmost.

Francis J. Gowan, for the Lehigh Valley, and W. W. Ross, for the Lackawanna, questioned Mr. Mitchell regarding conditions existing at the collieries of the companies they represented.

Mitchell Repudiates Anarchy.

Mr. MacVeagh questioned Mr. Mitchell as to his efforts to prevent disorder in the anthracite region. The examiner and witness engaged in a colloquy regarding the personal freedom of working men. Mr. Mitchell said that there were no Anarchists in the labor union. He asserted that no local branch in his union had ever expelled a man because he belonged to the National Guard, nor had any other national union. A little union in New York State had done so, and the fact had been heralded all over the country. He was not responsible for what other unions did, he said. With this Mr. MacVeagh finished his examination.

M. Ross, for the Lackawanna, examined Mr. Mitchell at great length on bituminous mining in and about Spring Valley, Ill., where Mr. Mitchell dug coal for a dozen years.

Mr. Ross passed to the hours worked by miners. In the course of a long line of questions, Mr. Mitchell said that on the days the breakers are worked ten hours, the miners are in the mines 7, 8 and 9 hours.

The attorney then took up the question of increase in wages. The witness stood by the reasons he gave in his preliminary statement of the miners' case to the commission.

Mitchell Leading Witness.

The commissioners recognize that President Mitchell is the most important witness the miners have, and they are loath to have matters hurried while he is on the stand. He being the president of the union, his opinions are looked upon as official, and, also, as reflecting the policy of the organization.

John T. Lenahan of Wilkes-Barre, counsel for the non-union men, who want the commission to consider their case, has handed the commission a list of 2,000 names of non-union men, as his authority for appearing before the arbitrators. He did not wish the commission to make the names public at present, but as Chairman Gray said that everything filed with the commission is public matter, the names were unofficially handed in, and were not made public. He also filed a statement of the non-union's demands.

G. R. MAXWELL, M.P., NO MORE.

Died in Vancouver, B.C., Monday After a Long Illness.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 19.—George R. Maxwell, member of the Dominion Parliament for Burrard, died at his residence in this city at midnight Monday, after a long illness. Deceased, who was a Liberal in politics, was returned as the first member for Burrard in 1896, and was re-elected at the last general election.

Crossed in Front of Trolley.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—James Webster, butcher, of Thornhill, was seriously injured by a Metropolitan railway car last night. The man was driving home, near Bedford Park, when the horse crossed the track immediately in front of a southbound car. Motorman Duncan reversed the current, but the car struck the rig, smashing it and killing the horse. The front of the car was also badly damaged. Webster was thrown out of the rig and was later carried to the Oulcott Hotel, where Dr. Bond attended to his injuries.

Georgetown Is Doomed.

London, Nov. 19.—The Governor of the Windward Islands has sent a despatch to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in which he says the prospects of the inhabitants of the Island of St. Vincent are blacker than they have ever been. He believes that Georgetown will have to be abandoned, while it is doubtful if any part of the island is out of range of danger of La Soufriere.

"THE IVY LEAF" TO-NIGHT.

W. H. Powers' great success, "The Ivy Leaf," will entertain the patrons of the opera house to-night. This drama vividly illustrates life among the peasantry of Ireland, and is a great favorite in this city. The plot is powerful, the action brisk and the crisp dialogue plentifully supplied with highly enjoyable humor, as well as touching pathos. The play is noted for the beauty of its scenery and novelty of its mechanical effects, especially the flight of the eagle with its precious prey at the end of the second act. The company is headed by the young Irish singing comedian, Mr. Herbert E. Denton, who is supported by a strong and competent cast. The prices are 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c and $1.00.

COURSE OF TRUE LOVE DID NOT RUN SMOOTH

SUDDEN POSTPONEMENT OF A WEDDING IN HAMILTON.

Hamilton Spectator: The wedding of Charles Vosper, the well-known market butcher, a resident of Barton, to Mrs. Wm. McGee, of Barton, has been called off, and the friends of both parties are to-day doing considerable talking about the circumstances which led up to the climax. The ceremony was to have taken place last evening at the residence of Mrs. McGee, 315 Herkimer street, and preparations were made for a big time. Soon after supper the guests began to arrive, bringing with them their wedding gifts. The bride was there, attired in her bridal costume, all ready for the trying ordeal, which she expected to go through. The groom was sharp on time, and the minister, Rev. Dr. Wilson, was in attendance. Everything appeared to be going lovely, and the guests were impatiently awaiting the ceremony to commence when a hitch occurred. The prospective bride and groom had been closeted in a room adjoining the parlors, and suddenly the guests heard loud talking going on in the room in which they were. A minute or two later Mr. Vosper opened the door and announced that there would be no wedding. The minister and guests were greatly surprised, and for the next half hour Mr. Vosper and Mrs. McGee were kept busy making explanations. One by one the guests retired, taking with them their presents, and not the last to leave was Mr. Vosper.

When seen this morning at his stall in the market hall Mr. Vosper did not appear to be very badly broken up over what had occurred. Asked what was the cause of the wedding being called off, he stated that when he arrived at the house his wife-to-be cornered him and demanded that he sign over a portion of his property to her before the ceremony should go on.

"Oh, that's what you want me for!" was Mr. Vosper's reply to this unusual request, and all the explanations which Mrs. McGee could make afterwards were unavailing. Mr. Vosper had satisfied himself that Mrs. McGee did not want him for his own worth, and he would have nothing more to do with her.

FELL DOWN A WELL

MR. J. HODGE, OF THIS CITY, GOT A COLD BATH YESTERDAY.

Whether the referendum brings prohibition or not, Mr. J. Hodge, of this city, is quite convinced of the value of having plenty of water.

Yesterday Mr. Hodge was engaged in putting down a pump at Mr. Gilbert Roblin's, in Sidney, when his foot slipped and, instead of putting down the pump he went down himself into eight feet of water. He had a drop of 17 feet, which was quite enough for all practical purposes. Mr. Hodge struck on his head, and by the time he got himself turned round had imbibed several quarts of the crystal fluid. He helped himself out of the well and is none the worse this morning. It is said that Mr. Hodge is now thinking seriously of throwing in his lot with the Baptists.

Small Fire Last Night

A small fire occurred in the residence of Dr. Ross, Pinnacle street, last night, by which between $75 and $100 worth of clothing was destroyed, the same being fully covered by insurance.

Call at the Oak Hall and see an overcoat for yourself. Ask to see the best we have at $10, then take a good look, and you will think how foolish you have been in the past paying $20 to $25. DRILL SHED NOW DECLARED UNSAFE

GOVERNMENT ENGINEER WILL RECOMMEND THAT IT BE TORN DOWN.

Major Weatherbe, of Ottawa, Government Engineer, in company with Col. Halliwell and Major Pope, of the Fifteenth, yesterday visited the drill shed and thoroughly inspected the building in reference to the repairing of the same.

In the opinion of the engineer, we understand, it would be useless to make any repairs, as he considers it would be money thrown away. In his report to the Government he will recommend that the building, with perhaps the exception of the officers' quarters, be torn down and rebuilt either of brick or stone. He will also, in all probability, recommend that the arms and accoutrements be at once removed to a place of safety, as it is feared that, should a heavy fall of snow occur during the winter, the roof is liable to collapse. In view of the engineer's idea, nothing will be done to the building until his report has been received and acted upon by the Department.

Whilst in the city Major Weatherbe was taken to view the ranges off the Kingston road, and he is decidedly in favor of the Government acquiring more land in order that 800 and 1000 yard ranges could be established. At present there are eight targets, and the engineer's idea is to change them for the new drop target and reduce the number to four or possibly six. This matter will also be reported by him to the proper authorities.

A Pipe Story

A lad named Sidney Sandford was proceeding down Front Street this morning, carrying a quantity of old lead pipe, when Officer Hayes noticed him and brought him into the police station. The boy stated that he was going to a second-hand store to sell the lead, and also stated that he had found it on the street. It was a portion of a waste pipe and had evidently been taken from some residence.

THE NEW IRISH PARTY.

REDMOND CALLS IT AN ATTEMPT TO DISRUPT A UNITED PARTY.

Dublin, Nov. 19.—John E. Redmond, M.P., was given a big reception upon his arrival here this evening, and a torchlight procession was held in his honor. In the course of a speech he referred to the reported formation of a new Irish party with a nucleus of nine members of the House of Commons, including Messrs. Healy and Tully, which he denounced as an attempt to disrupt a united party. He warned the people to beware of this conspiracy.

KAISER DEATH ON RABBITS.

HIS MAJESTY BRINGS DOWN EIGHTY-FOUR IN TWENTY MINUTES.

London, Nov. 19.—Both the German Emperor and the King of Portugal spent the day out shooting, the former with the Earl of Lonsdale, and the latter in company with King Edward in the Royal preserves near Windsor. The Emperor distinguished himself on the last day of his present visit to England by bringing down 81 rabbits in 20 minutes.

An authoritative statement was issued this evening saying the German Emperor is highly gratified at the friendliness with which the English people have everywhere received him, and his Majesty will leave the shores of England to-morrow with the most agreeable impressions.

MAY LICENSE ALL CHEESE FACTORIES

AND UTILIZE THE FEES TO PAY INSTRUCTORS — SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.

According to Commercial Intelligence, Canada has been pouring cheese into England at a great rate ever since the season opened in May, and her total shipments are much ahead of those of last year. Yet prices have kept up all the summer and have lately commenced to rise rapidly, values now being from 6s. to 7s. more than at this time last year. An important reason for this has been the high prices of meat in the United States, which have led to a larger consumption of cheese there. The quantity of cheese in sight in England and Montreal at the beginning of this month is some 184,000 boxes less than last year. The home make has again turned to be a small one, and its market value is so high as to materially enhance the chance of the Canadian product; but, Commercial Intelligence thinks, shippers would be well advised not to push their advantage too far.

YUKON OUTPUT LOWER

WILL NOT COME UP TO LAST YEAR'S GOLD YIELD BY FIVE MILLIONS.

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—The gold output of the Canadian Yukon this season will be about twelve millions of dollars. The returns up to late in October showed that $11,555,000 had been taken out, and this was exclusive of information from several streams. The output this year has been less than that of 1901 by some five millions.

Sought by a Brother

A brother in Scotland desired to locate them. The Intelligencer has learned that Mr. Joseph Hart resides near the village of Roslin, whilst Miss Hart died some time ago.

Mining Notes

(Marmora Herald.)

Mr. P. Maloney has optioned his iron property in Lake to a large mining company. The property is said to contain large quantities of high grade magnetic ore. The present difficulty against operating is the distance from railway communication.

Mr. Jarmin, who visited Cordova mine and power plant on Tuesday, pronounced it one of the finest examples of engineering skill in its way that he had ever seen. Mr. J. Walter Wells also claims Cordova has the best mining engineering in Canada. Those opinions are from capable judges.

A party of Belleville gentlemen composed of Messrs. H. Corby, D. M. Waters, W. W. Pope and J. C. Lake drove to Marmora Tuesday afternoon. Yesterday, in company with Mr. A. W. Carscallen, M. P., they visited Cordova mine, and returned to town in the evening. To-day they are visiting the mines at Deloro.

NEW OIL GUSHER PROVES BONANZA

SPECULATORS THRONGING TO OIL FIELD IN RALEIGH TOWNSHIP.

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 19.—The new flowing oil well, Gurd's Gusher, in Raleigh township, nine miles from here, has proved to be the biggest in Canada. Shipping facilities are inadequate, so that the well is only run about four hours every day. Yesterday it flowed 300 barrels of crude oil in four hours, and was then shut off, as the tanks were all filled. Water and gas are mixed with the oil, so that the well must have belched forth 600 barrels of oil and water during the four hours. Speculators are here from all over Canada and the United States. The Standard Oil Company is represented by Mr. Rockefeller's private secretary. More wells will be put down at once and the field explored.

The Canada Land Company owned the site of the oil field, and sold it to individual farmers, reserving the right to oil and minerals. The majority of the farmers did not know that this rider was in their deeds, and there is every prospect of a lawsuit, or even worse. Feeling is pretty much worked up amongst the owners of the Canada Land Company, and threats are being made. There is a strong flow of gas with the oil, so strong that it is discoloring the paint on the houses of the neighborhood.

Lost Portion of Finger

Mr. John Luscombe, a car tapper at the G.T.R. station here, and who is also employed in the shop, yesterday had the misfortune to lose a portion of one of the fingers of his right hand. He was handling some heavy machinery, when his hand got caught, with the above result.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

Daily Intelligencer.

OFFERS TO BUY LEGISLATORS.

The "Machine" workers, are still at their nefarious schemes to retain power and patronage. Not satisfied with corrupting the electors they are now boldly trying to buy those who have been elected to support the Ross corrupt combination.

Mr. Donald Sutherland, the gentleman elected at the last election for South Oxford, to oppose the Ross Government, has, he himself affirms, been approached and offers made to him of "A GOOD THING FINANCIALLY" if he would but turn traitor to those who elected him, and support the Ross Government.

Truly, honest Liberals may exclaim, "What is the party coming to?" Have not the revelations which have been made in the courts, of securing all the jail birds at liberty in the neighborhood of Oxford to make statements that bribery had been committed by the Conservatives, and then paying them to swear to the truth of the statement, been sufficient to sink a party to the lowest depths of degradation without taking the further step in political infamy of attempting to purchase a member elect? It should have been sufficient, but acting on the doctrine laid down by Ross, they propose to "fight" for the retention of power, and to hesitate not to resort to any and all political rascality to accomplish that end.

Commenting upon the statement made by Mr. Sutherland, that "a good thing financially" was in store for him, the Woodstock Express, an Independent journal, published in that city says:

> "It would seem incredible were it not that Mr. Sutherland is regarded as a responsible man, with a full appreciation of the value of words, and were it not that the revelations of the election court have prepared the country for almost anything. The worst of it is that it is impossible to believe that the corruption is confined to the South Oxford machine. Where did the money come from that was used in procuring evidence? Does anybody believe that it came from the private pockets of the men who run the machine? Where was the money coming from that was to provide the 'good thing financially' of which Mr. Sutherland says he was assured if he would go over to the Government?"

When will the people wake up to the fact that political corruption in its worst phases has actually entered into the morals of the Grit ranks?

It rests with the electors to stamp out this misconduct; and, if they do not do so, they become parties to the demoralization of the whole body politic.

VOTES.

Pigs' Feet and Lager Beer were the inducements held out by the Grits to the electors in London at an election a few years ago. The Lennox Rossites go their London compatriots one better, and give the whole hog for a vote.

Four affidavits have been filed in the case of the cross petition against Madole, the defeated Grit candidate, containing, among other things, the following charges:—

Herny Milling charges Elias P. Smith with giving $2 to Samuel Miley, and $5 to W. F. Schermehorn, to vote for M. S. Madole, the Liberal candidate; and that Smith received $50 to be used for bribery. Milling charges that Homer Miles gave $5 to Samuel Miley, $6 to William Schermehorn, and $18 to Thos. Russell to induce them to vote for Madole, and he also makes a third affidavit, in which he charges that J. S. Hulett gave a pig to Thomas Smith, jr., $21 to Samuel Davy, sr., and Benjamin Davy ostensibly for 7 pigs, with the understanding that they would vote for Madole; that Hulett gave two pigs to Benjamin Davy, two pigs to William Davy, a pig to Samuel Smith, and a pig to William Parkerson.

A. M. Rutta makes affidavit and charges that Byron Derbyshire gave $3 to Samuel McConnell, $2.50 to Eli Emmons, canceled an account of Oliven Emmons, offered $5 to Henry Evans, $5 to Samuel Babcock, $5 to Robert Cairns, and that Derbyshire hired a carriage from W. A. Baker to convey votes to the polls.

Interesting developments may be looked for as the trial progresses.

Fighting Canned Fruit Trust.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The Strathroy Canning & Preserving Company are at law with the Dominion Syndicate and Arbitration Board. The syndicate consists of an amalgamation of canning companies for the upholding of quality standards and the regulation of prices, and has offices in Hamilton. It had occasion to appoint an Arbitration Committee of four persons to examine and arbitrate on the quality of the pack of the Strathroy Company. The latter moved yesterday before Chief Justice Meredith to restrain the arbitration from proceeding until after the disposal of certain questions of law involved. After hearing the evidence, the case was adjourned till Tuesday.

Rioting in Rio Janeiro.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 20.—Riotous demonstrations yesterday marked the departure from this city of the retiring President, Dr. Campos Salles. Crowds of people hooted the ex-President and stoned newspaper offices. Troops charged the rioters, at least one man was killed, a number of persons were injured and numerous arrests were made.

A Gentle but Effective Laxative; not a Cathartic

SEIZED WHILE MAKING QUEER

Bad Yankee Money Factory in Toronto Broken Up.

Joseph Gentile Ran Away From New York When the Gang to Which He Belonged Was Rounded Up—Detectives Got Their Man in a Few Hours in Toronto—Hundreds of Coins and Complete "Plant" Confiscated.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—One of a gang of a dozen expert counterfeiters, who have been sought by the secret service officers of the United States Treasury Department since May last, was captured in this city yesterday afternoon. The officers came upon their man when he was in the act of turning out bad American fifty-cent pieces. Over $300 worth of the spurious money, as well as a complete plant for manufacturing the money, were seized and taken to the Police Department.

Not With Stuart.

Although the arrest came so quickly after the capture of William Stuart, there is nothing to indicate that the prisoner now in the cells at No. 1 station had any connection with the aged counterfeiter who turned out Canadian $1 bills. Nearly all the coin seized yesterday was American money, but the fact that a small amount of bad Canadian coin was found leads the officers to believe that had the prisoner not been arrested so soon he would have flooded this city with the results of his work.

An Old Counterfeiter.

The prisoner in this case is Joseph Gentle, an Italian, 35 years of age, who has already served eight years of his life in prison for counterfeiting.

Table Covered With Coin.

The table at which Gentle had been working was covered with 240 new American 50-cent pieces, which had just been turned out. Six more coins were in the plaster paris moulds, and a pot of metal was boiling on the stove. On the floor underneath the table was located plenty of material for turning out spurious money, as follows: Six pounds of block tin; six pounds mixed metal, consisting of tin and zinc; four pounds of antimony, one pound of copper wire. Two files and table knives, used to smooth off the edges of the coin, and nitrate of silver and plating fluid, to put the proper color to the pieces, were also found. A pair of plyers used to lift the crucibles off the stove and five pounds of plaster paris were other things found in the room.

More of the "Queer" Found.

A trunk was broken open, and wrapped in a cloth were 253 50-cent American coins, two Smith & Wesson 38-calibre hammerless revolvers and an ugly-looking stilletto. In a cupboard, done up in separate packages, were 100 ten-cent pieces, all in American money. The Canadian coin consisted of the following packages: Fifty-one ten-cent pieces, 42 twenty-five-cent pieces, 49 fifty-cent pieces, 64 ten-cent pieces. The sum of $22.07 in genuine money was also found on the prisoner.

Some of the money has already been shoved in this city, but how much is not yet known.

May Fight Extradition.

Gentle may fight extradition, and if he does the United States officers will drop their case and allow the Toronto authorities to take the matter up and prosecute him for making the bad money here.

The changed attitude of Britain to Canada was also referred to, and the hope expressed that the intimacy would prove to mutual advantage and profit.

DOMICILE, NOT LOCATION

Privy Council Gives Decision Upholding Ontario.

This Province Has Right to Collect Succession Duties, But Quebec Is Not Entitled to Share in $130,000 Paid to Ontario by the Gilmour Estate—Other Estates Affected—Ontario Amended Law Instead of Going to Courts.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—Word has been received of a decision by the Privy Council affecting the rights of provinces to collect succession duties. Some time ago Allan Gilmour, a wealthy lumberman, died here and his estate paid a large tax to Ontario. Because the large part of the estate was in Quebec, that province wanted a slice but was beaten in all the Quebec courts. An appeal was made to the Privy Council, and again the estate wins. The decision is that domicile and not location of the estate determines the right to collect the tax. This bowls out the Ontario Government in its claim on the Renfrew estate of Quebec, and permits of the settlement of a number of other Ottawa estates.

Ontario Amended the Law.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The decision of the Privy Council, as the authorities at the Parliament Buildings understand it, does not affect the law of Ontario, nor will it affect any estates here. The Gilmour estate, over which there has been so much litigation, paid to the Ontario Government $130,000 in succession duties, which is the largest amount they ever received from this source.

As for the case of the Renfrew estate, the Ontario authorities will have no trouble about the duties. Some time ago there was a similar case to the Gilmour one and Judge Street decided against the province and the Government, in stead of appealing the case, immediately amended the law and saved a great deal of litigation, but Quebec took the other course, and went to law with the result that they were beaten.

MATOS VERSUS CASTRO.

Former Said to Be Trying to Get Colombian Government's Aid.

Willemstad, Island of Curacoa, Nov. 20.—President Castro of Venezuela is energetically pushing operations to prevent the revolutionists in that Republic from recovering from the effect of their dissensions and the flight of General Matos. One of the objects of Matos' departure, it is reported, is to attempt to induce the Colombian Government, which is markedly unfriendly to President Castro, to send arms and ammunition to his men. Matos also relies on his wealthy friends in this island, with whom he is conferring, although sick. These persons have already contributed money in support of the Venezuelan revolution, but, under the belief that President Castro would flee from the country. Consequently, inadequate preparations were made, and, hence, the present condition of the revolutionists. Matos' future plans are kept secret. Though his estates in Venezuela have been confiscated, he still has money, and can, if he chooses, continue the contest.

Used Wholesale Starvation.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The wholesale starvation of insurgents and threats to assassinate every native who harmed American prisoners of war, are given by Brigadier-General J. Franklin Bell in his annual report as the methods used in the operations in Batangas Province, by which the sensational surrender of Malvar, the famous insurgent, was brought about.

"The only way I could possibly stop the insurrection," he says, "was to cut off completely the food and income of the insurgents, and by crowding them so persistently as to wear them out."

Not Known in Toronto.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 20.—William W. Brady, aged 25, whose home is in Toronto, and who is a switchman employed by the Grand Trunk Railway, was crushed between two cars near the Farnsworth street crossing. At St. Mary's Hospital it was found that no bones are fractured. Brady may be severely injured internally.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Brady's name does not appear in the city directory and the Grand Trunk officials say they know of no switchman by that name in their service.

Rebate on Foreign Wheat.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—The British Consul at the city of Mexico has notified the Department of Trade and Commerce that, in order to obviate the damage that may arise from the present scarcity of wheat, a temporary rebate on foreign wheat, entering Mexico, will be granted until March 31, 1903. The former duty was $2 per 100 kilos. The temporary rate will be 50 cents.

English Mail Train Abandoned.

London, Nov. 20.—When asked about the abandonment of the special mail train in connection with the White Star Line steamers, Postmaster-General Austen Chamberlain said yesterday that it had not given a prompter service and had not proved of any postal advantage.

Found Dead in His Room.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The body of George Dick was found on the floor of his bedroom at 189 Church street yesterday afternoon. He had been missing for a day. Death is thought to have resulted from apoplexy, and no inquest will be held.

Rich Train Load of Silk Coming.

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—A train of 1 cars, loaded with silk, passe through this city on the way to Ne York. This is probably the riches cargo ever carried over the Canadia Pacific Railroad, its total value be ing $9,750,000.

Woman Was Mistaken.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Chief Wilkie of the United States Secret Service, in speaking yesterday of Mrs. Lena Doxheimer's story of a plot to kill President Roosevelt, said that a searching investigation proved she was mistaken.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Lulu Miller Young, accused of having murdered Miss Florence MacFarlan Tuesday, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday and pleaded not guilty.

A Canadian Tenor's Predicament.

Mr. Whitney Mockridge, the Canadian tenor, tells the following quaint story against himself:

It was my second or third appearance on any stage—my debut being made at Blackpool—and the place was Dublin. I was singing the tenor part Thaddeus in Balfe's "Bohemian Girl." As you know, the opening scene is the inner court of Count Arnheim's, and the poor tenor, in fleeing from the pursuing Austrians, finds himself in this court, not knowing where he is as to security until he espies the Austrian flag floating over the castle wall. Of course, finding that he is in the very midst of the enemy, he makes good his escape, which, the evening before, I had no difficulty in doing. But "someone had blundered" most fearfully in setting this scene, for there was no place of exit left. My time being long past for getting off the stage, I, in the meantime having looked all over for an opening of some kind, had to endure all sorts of scathing remarks from those in charge behind the scenes, including Carl Rosa himself. Knowing that the murderous band of Austrian soldiers in quest of me were long overdue on the scene, and the orchestra having been too-tooting on one note for some bars, I got desperate, and, seeing a wee slit in the (canvas) stone wall at the back of the stage, I thrust my fingers through it and tore nervously and violently a hole sufficiently large to get out. Well, the house was thrown into such confusion from laughter over the idea of such a Herculean deed on the part of a young tenor being wrought before their very eyes that was more than half an hour before we could proceed. Had I continued in opera I think this would have immortalized me in Dublin.

Two Mighty Feasts.

In the days when George III. was King of Great Britain the baronet of Wynnstay Park, Sir Watkins William-Wynn, entertained 15,000 guests of his estate. Three coachfuls of cooks journeyed to Wynnstay from London. There were on the table 300 oxen, pigs, and sheep, 300 chickens, 421 salmon, 37 turkeys, 109 lobsetrs, 720 trout, 200 crawfish, 60 barrels of pickled oysters, 166 hams, 110 ox tongues, 350 fruit and meat pies, 100 plum puddings, 300 bushels of potatoes, 6,000 bundles of asparagus and hundreds of pounds of meats and fruits of various kinds. There was drunk 6,000 gallons of ale, 50 gallons of milk and 100 quarts of cream.

Twenty thousand Mayors of France dined a few months ago in the Paris Tuileries gardens. Twelve tent kitchens, each with a staff of thirty chefs, cooks and potboys, were established for the mayoralty feast and the army of waiters was 3,000 strong. Four hundred huge Lyons sausages were cut up into 44,000 slices, 3,000 fowls and 2,500 ducks were roasted, without counting 500 sirloins of beef, 1,800 pheasants, 5,700 pounds of salmon, 18,000 pounds of butter, 6,600 pounds of grapes, 18,000 peaches and 15,000 pears. Fifty thousand bottles of wine, champagne and mineral waters were ready in case any of the 20,000 Mayors wanted a drink.

The Food System the Source of Life

ANY DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER OR KIDNEYS THAT INTERFERE WITH DIGESTION AND ASSIMILATION OF FOOD ROB AND DEPLETE THE BODY.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It matters not how good your appetite, how you relish your food or how much you eat, so long as there is anything to interfere with proper digestion and assimilation of the food by the body, strength and vigor will gradually decline and weakness and debility take their place.

The most frequent cause of disordered digestion is sluggish action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. The whole alimentary canal, through which the food passes on its way through the body, becomes choked and clogged, and the system is poisoned and diseased.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been marvellously successful in exactly this class of disease, principally because they act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, regulating and invigorating their action, and restoring them to health.

Mrs. Owen Cummings, Deseronto, Ont., states: "I was in very poor health when I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I had been a great sufferer from constipation and stomach trouble, and was weak and run-down in strength. I was gradually growing worse every day, and finally decided that I would have to do something. Hearing of many being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I began using them, and soon noticed a marked change for the better. I continued this treatment until I was cured of constipation and my stomach was restored to a healthy condition. It only took about three boxes of pills to entirely cure me."

A Domestic Incident.

Everybody said he was a darling for the first year, and according to all accounts he was. Mrs. Podgers used to bring him over and demand my adoration, but finally, when I got out of patience and told her that I had been the father of thousands of just as handsome and cunning little cherubs, she became indignant and refused to enter my house or let their kitten play with my rooster.

I suppose the child was up to the average. It was their first, and Podgers wasn't so much to blame for making a fool of himself. The child wasn't three days old before its father purchased it a pair of boots, a straw hat, a drum, a ping-pong bat, and other things, and he carried a grin on his face that would have made the fortune of a circus clown.

I knew he'd catch it, but I said nothing. It wasn't many days before we used to hear him up at midnight ramping around and butting his nose against the doors, and his eyes began to have a solemn look. Then his mother-in-law, two brothers and their families, two or three uncles and aunts, and a few acquaintances paid Podgers a visit to see the baby, and when they filed in to meals it was like a circus procession.

The colic season came on after the baby was two months old, and then didn't Podgers catch it! The baby would be sleeping as sweetly as a dormouse in winter, when all of a sudden the colic would strike him, and he'd yell:

"Whoop! Who-o-o-o-o! I-h-o-o-o!"

They'd turn him on his little stomach, loosen his hands, rub his back and give him peppermint, but he'd kick and claw, and they'd have to send for Podgers and the doctor, and raise as much excitement as a fire alarm. If it was night, Podgers would have to leap out of bed, build a fire, look for ointment and liniments and soothing syrups, and perhaps it was hours before he got to bed again.

This thing went on until everybody in the neighborhood got heartily sick of the Podgers' angel, and didn't care whether he was an angel or not. When he was a year old, and could sit alone, he one day got hold of his father's jack-knife. They saw him biting the end of it, but they didn't see him push it under the sideboard. He was hunting around for something else when a fly swooped down upon his poor head, and gave him a bite which raised him a foot high. He yelled out and clawed and kicked, and Mrs. Podgers jumped for him and cried out:

"He's been and swallowed that 'ere jack-knife."

Podgers looked round, failed to see the knife, noted the red face and flying legs of the child, and he clapped on his hat and ran for the doctor. The servant girl made a dash among the neighbors, and in a while they had gathered to the number of forty. The child had got hysterics by this time, and as he kicked and howled and grew red, Mrs. Podgers clasped her hands and wailed:

"That dreadful jack-knife is working among his blessed vitals!"

Podgers sat down in a tremble, some of the women cried, and a fat man went out on the back door step and wiped the tears away with a new Panama hat, regardless of expense.

"Hold the young 'un up!" yelled one.

"Pat him on the back!" screamed another.

"Turn him over!" squealed old Mrs. Johnson.

And they held that boy up by one leg and swung him this way and that. They flung him on the sofa and rolled him over and over, mauling him in the back with their fists, till he made the neighborhood ring with his howls.

Finally the doctor arrived and he put the boy on the table and pinched his ribs and rubbed his stomach and tried to count his pulse.

"I think the knife rests about here," he said, placing his hand on the baby's stomach.

"Spose'n it should open and commence to whittle away his vitals!" wailed Mrs. Podgers.

"Hand me mustard and tepid water, and salt and some pills and strong coffee, and chloroform!" answered the doctor.

Then they held that boy and filled him up with stuff, and rubbed and pounded him some more, and as he clawed and kicked old Mrs. Fraser in the nose they said it was convulsions, contortions, and that kind of thing. They wore the hair off his head before they got through with him, and the doctor said he would either have to cut him open and take the jack-knife out with a pair of tongs, or see the innocent die, when Mrs. Gregory's tow-headed boy, who was prowling round, discovered the jack-knife under the sideboard. Then the doctor got red in the face, Podgers jumped over the table, and the old women wiped their eyes and remarked:

"It didn't seem possible that he could have swallowed a great knife like that. I knew it all along!"

"Got" or "Gotten?"

In a letter to the New York "Times Saturday Review" Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson speaks of the recrudescent use of "gotten" instead of "got" for the perfect participle of "get," as a Southern custom which has been making its way in the North since the civil war. Before that he cannot remember to have heard it, and he says that he heard it first in the South. He thinks that in the North it was so obsolescent as almost to be obsolete; and though we should doubt the entire exactness of his observation, we agree with him that it is a form which even the sweet voices of Southern women cannot render pleasing. When it reaches the ear through the noses of their Northern sisters it is of an insufferableness which even its prevalence in lady-journalism cannot atone for. Probably it has always been in use wherever English is spoken, surviving in a merited obscurity under the frown of polite learning, but not leading a life of final outlawry. Your perfect participle, however, is at best an uncertain part of speech and parlously misleading. In Addison's time it was quite proper for Sir Richard Steele to write "had wrote" for "had written;" and people who do not look carefully to their steps still say they "had went," while some of the over-anxious try to secure themselves against a fall by saying "had have gone," in certain contingencies. These are the pseudo-purists who note the vulgarity of saying "I done it," and shun it as widely as possible by saying "I have did it."

Weary Willie—Please, mum, can't you give a poor man some breakfast? Mrs. Givemnit—Certainly. After you saw that wood you may eat the sawdust. It makes a fine breakfast food.—Ex.

"Livable."

"Yes," said Mrs. Farren, decidedly, "Milly Morris is a nice girl clear through, and if anybody ought to get along easy with a tryin' mother-in-law, she ought. A more livable person I never knew."

"Livable?" repeated her listener. "Livable? That must be a local word. I don't think I ever heard it before."

"It may be local," rejoined Mrs. Farren, a trifle loftily, "and it may be bad, and it may be good; but anyway it's just what I mean. Milly's livable. She's been brought up in a big family, and she's had to be, if she meant to be comfortable herself and let other folks be comfortable, too. There were more livable folks when I was a girl than there are now, and I think the big families had a good deal to do with it, thoug of course not everything.

"There were plenty of people then who never got their corners worn down, no matter how many brothers and sisters they had; but even when they rasped, those days, they got along together after a fashion. Nowadays, land! Sometimes it stumps me fair and square why the nice people I know in nice families can't seem to stand each other's little ways.

"Oh, I don't say it isn't so; when the doctors say they can't—and it generally ends in doctors—why, I suppose they truly can't. It's nerves, and nobody understands nerves unless the doctors, and I'm a long way from being sure that they do. But just you count up some time the families where there's always one member mysteriously off visiting, and then the number of folks you know that separate when they'd naturally stay together, if only they could hit it off—one sisters and only-surviving bachelor brothers, and mothers and only daughters, and all sorts of family remnants that ought to be each other's best comfort. But as soon as they try living together, one of 'em gets nervous prostration, or has hysteric spells, or is ordered off quick to travel somewhere where the climate doesn't agree with the other one. They're fond enough of each other, generally, and they aren't generally ugly tempered; they just aren't livable.

"It can't be endured, always, and it can't be cured, sometimes; but I'm firm in believing it could be prevented most times. If, when folks first began to harden in their own little crankums, and fret over the cranks of the folks they care most for, they'd stop and think where they were getting to, why, nine times out of ten they'd pull up in time, and get their nerves and feelings and foolish frettings tight in hand before they run away with 'em!

"Yes, that's what I surely do believe. And outside the great, big, deep foundation virtues, if I had a daughter, the little virtue—if it is a little virtue—I'd rather have her have than any other would be just that—being livable. It's an all-round, lifelong blessing to whomsoever it concerns."

"It may be good or it may be bad or it may be local," assented the listener, thoughtfully, "but whatever it is as a word, livable is a good thing to be. I'll own that."

An "American" Duel.

A Heidelberg student has just recovered from the effects of his own foolishness, after lying for weeks at death's door. The story is so disgraceful that it deserves to be made known. Last July some Heidelberg students—all mere lads—had a violent altercation about a girl. It ended in the usual manner, with a challenge, only the duel was to be more original than the ordinary run of German students' duels. It was to be a so-called "American duel," although it is an insult to American common sense to call it such. The duellists drew lots as to who should kill himself, and the lot fell upon a young idiot of nineteen, a student of medicine and son of a high government official at Karlsruhe. He had his choice of three modes of suicide, and selected cutting open his arteries. His fellow-students drew a picture of his "death-mask," placed a couple of skulls on the table by the side of it, solemnly said farewell to the doomed one, and left him in his room. The landlord, suspecting something was wrong, forced the door, and found the student lying in a pool of blood unconscious. He had done his best to comply with the terms of the duel, but was not quite dead. While medical aid was being summoned the other students returned to see if the sentence had been carried out. In disgust at the result, one of them kicked the body of the almost lifeless youth, saying, "Why, the fellow's alive! He's only disfigured himself!" And this is the much-vaunted German university life!

Those Bill Boards!

It is hardly the quality one expects to find on the editorial page of the London "Times," yet it gives a most effective turn to a plea for the restriction of the advertising bill-board nuisance. "Let us think," says the "Times," "of the opening of Gray's 'Elegy:'

> The curfew tolls the knell of parting day;
> The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,
> The plowman homeward plods his weary way,
> And leaves the world to darkness and to me,

and consider whether such lines could ever have been written if the poet, musing in Stoke Pogis churchyard, had looked in one direction and seen the lowing herd winding past somebody's advertisement of a patent oil cake; in another, and seen the weary plowman considering whether he should buy some gaudily flaunted nostrum warranted to ease his weariness; in a third, and spied some garish board offering him an oil to illuminate the glimmering landscape as it faded on his sight."

What a Jealous Wife Found.

A Fayette woman suspected that her husband was in the habit of kissing the hired girl, and resolved to detect him in the act. Saturday night she saw him pass quietly into the kitchen. The hired girl was out, and the kitchen was dark. The jealous wife took a few matches in her hand, and, hastily placing a shawl over her head, as the hired girl often did, entered the back door, and immediately she was seized and kissed and embraced in an ardent manner. With heart almost bursting, the wife prepared to administer a terrible rebuke to the faithless spouse, and, tearing herself away from his fond embrace, she struck a match and stood face to face with—the hired man.—Salisbury "Press-Spectator."

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes; "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the billiousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

Females of All Ages
find these Pills simply invaluable, as a few doses will restore free and regular conditions and effectually remove the causes of much suffering to the sex.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Belleville boys, it may be remarked, are bound to rise in the world, even if they have to carry a hod to do it. The above piece of epigrammatic philosophy is prompted by the fact that last night Mr. U. E. Thompson handed the writer a couple of circulars, which stated that Mr. J. H. Ellis, at a meeting held at Knoxville, Tenn., on October 25th, had been elected President of the Knoxville, La Follette & Jellico R.R. Co., and at a meeting held on October 31st, had been elected vice-president and general manager of the Atlanta, Knoxville & Northern Railway Co. Many people in this city, no doubt, will remember "Joe" Ellis, as he was familiarly called, whose first start in life was as a messenger boy in the G.N.W. office, under Mr. U. E. Thompson, and who has worked his way up till he is now the president of one railroad and vice-president and manager of another.

• • •

Mr. Ellis left this city about 25 years ago, going "Down South." That he has made good use of his time no one will deny. Of course, like a sensible man, he came back to Canada for a wife, marrying a daughter of the late Joseph F. Way, Crown Timber Agent. This, of course, shows that there is always room at the top for any Belleville boy who doesn't smoke cigarettes.

MR. DOOLEY ON EDUCATION.

(With apologies to P. F. Dunne.)

"Eddication," said Mr. Dooley, "is a grand thing, Hinnissy, especially if 'tis not overdone. Whin I was a bye we were taught the three R's, and whin we lift school we might not know very much, but what we did know we knew. Now 'tis different, Hinnissy. A boy goes to school and the teacher says 'Pass the gun,' and he procades to shoot th' unfortnit lad full of hot air and hygeen, wid a smatherin' uv histhry, both natural and unnatural, and gives him a tashte for the fine arts by showin' him how to draw a dry goods box from four different pints of view. The teacher must shove the unfortnit pupil through on shedule time, or there may be a run-off and the peddygog be sidetracked. Th' end of it is that the bye laves his almy mater knowin' that Jacques Cartier discovered Zwick's island and Dick Whittington's cat was the first Lord Mare uv London. Ye set him to write a letter, Hinnissy, an' he has no more use for commys and semi-colons than ye have for th' reffyrendum; he can no more parse a sentence properly than he can a cigarette shop, and he thinks that, wid the exception of his faather, th' Minister of Eddycation is the biggest fool in the worruld. An' he's more than half right, Hinnissy; he's more than half right."

Sault Ste. Marie is to be congratulated on the establishment of a daily newspaper. A copy of its first issue is before us. "The Pioneer" gives evidence of success, is a credit to the town and enunciates correct principles. It says: "In politics it will support those "principles of the Liberal-Conservative party, that have done so "much towards advancing our Dominion from a few isolated Crown "Colonies to the proud position it "now holds, as the most important possession of the British Empire." The Pioneer has our best wishes for its success.

A Peterboro paper says:—"A Belleville paper suggests that the rolling mills, which don't roll, be revived, and run by local capital. Local capital is—without any pun in mind—a capital idea. It might be more extensively employed in Peterboro. We are told that the capital behind the Berlin Beet Sugar Factory, now successfully launched and making barrels of sugar every day, is largely founded on local capital. The sturdy German farmers subscribed stock liberally."

There's expert testimony. Peterboro was built up by the intelligent and courageous outlay of local capital. Get in the game, you gentlemen with the long purses.

The Ottawa Citizen very aptly "sizes up" the Ontario School curriculum thus:

> "Recently the Citizen referred to the congested condition of our public school curriculum which has become so barnacled with fads that the average child who has only a limited time to attend school, to get an educational equipment for the battle of life, is unable to do so. That in consequence the standard of education among the children of the poorer classes, and even among those of the better classes, is not as high as it formerly was under a system which was hampered with fewer fads and frills but devoted serious and effective effort to thoroughly grounding the young people in those essentials of education which are useful in the routine of later life. It is an anomaly which gives condemning evidence of the inefficacy of the system that it is possible for young people to take our public and high school courses and yet not be trained in some of the most common rudiments of orthography, etymology and syntax. (We have already cited instances where high school pupils could not write, spell or compose intelligible sentences."

That the above contains a very large element of truth you could, without difficulty, find many people ready to swear to. What is needed is more thorough grounding, less haste and more care, and, it may be remarked, the petition presented by the Belleville teachers to the local Board is aimed at that very desirable end.

DRY-DOCK AT MONTREAL.

NOTED ENGLISH EXPERT HOLDS INTERVIEW WITH PREFONTAINE.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Lyonel Clark, of the English firm of Clark and Stanfield, who have built some of the largest dry-docks in the world, was in the city to-day, and had a conference with Mr. Prefontaine, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. He subsequently left for Ottawa, where he will meet other members of the Government. The Minister of Marine is in favor of the construction of a dry-dock at Montreal, and it is understood that Mr. Clark's object is to lay plans for such a scheme before the Government.

READY TO DEFEND LONDON

IN CASE OF POSSIBLE ATTACK—FORTIFICATIONS ERECTED.

London, Nov. 19.—Efforts of a far-reaching character have been set on foot to fortify the metropolis against a possible attack in case of war, from which, judging from statements made to-night, it has hitherto been quite inadequately protected. An announcement to the effect that the extensive buildings have been completed at Woldingham, Surrey, eleven miles south of London, for use as a mobilizing centre, in the scheme for the defence of London, reveals for the first time the existence of important War Office operations.

It is stated that when Lord Roberts took over his post of commander-in-chief of the British army he personally investigated the defences of London, and found them to be very imperfect. Since then powerful batteries have been mounted on elevations commanding the principal roads between London and the south coast. New fortifications are being rapidly constructed along the banks of the Thames, and Woldingham has been fitted up as a centre for mobilization.

MISS JONES' VOICE GREATLY IMPROVED.

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from colds, coughs and catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by prima donnas, members of parliament, lawyers, doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

The referendum campaign is on. The temperance association of Rawdon has arranged for a series of public meetings, appointed the ward committees, in fact organized up to the hilt, and are sure of victory.

It is rumored that a certain light-weight Grit politician of North Hastings, although he sometimes poses as a temperance man, is opposing the referendum, by telling the faithful Grits—that is, those that place the elevation of party leaders before the elevation of mankind, or the good of their country—that if the referendum is carried it will be the political death of Ross.

THE MERRY HEART.

When you come to a wearisome bit of the road,
Where the stones are thick and the path is steep,
And the back is bowed with the heft of the load,
As the narrowing way is hard to keep,
Don't stop just then for a wasteful sigh,
But challenge the worst with steadfast cheer;
If nowhere else, there is help on high—
God's angel will hasten, your pioneer.

When you reach a lonesome bit of the road,
Curtailed about with mist and murk,
And you hear faint sounds from the dread above,
Where shivering, grim hobgoblins lurk,
Just laugh to scorn their doleful cries—
This is the place to whistle and sing—
Brush the fog from your fearless eyes,
And close to the faith of your fathers cling.

When you stand at a sorrowful bit of the road,
And a hand you loved has loosed its clasp,
When streams are dry that in sweetness flowed;
And flowers drop from your listless grasp;
E'en now take heart, for further on
There are hope and joy and the dawn of day;
You shall find again what you thought was gone;
'Tis the merry heart goes all the way.

ANGUS M'LEOD, M.P., DEAD.

Member For Ontario Died at Vancouver of Typhoid Fever.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 20.—Angus McLeod, M.P. for North Ontario, died here Tuesday evening. Mr. McLeod came here a couple of weeks ago on business, and shortly after his arrival was seized with an attack of typhoid fever. His condition becoming dangerous, Mrs. McLeod was notified, and she reached here shortly before his demise.

The death of Mr. McLeod will be learned with deep feelings of regret by all who knew him. He was of a kind and generous disposition, and a gentleman of sound judgment in business matters. He was born in Halton County 47 years ago, and worked himself up from a lad in the humblest branch of the business to a partnership in the well-known lumber firm of McCormick & McLeod. After a youthful experience in the lumber camps, he entered the employ of the Victoria Harbor Lumber Company, and worked himself up as manager of that concern. In 1891, he joined in partnership with George McCormick, M.P., for Muskoka and Parry Sound, with headquarters at Orillia. He married a daughter of George E. Langford, ex-local member of North Ontario, whom he leaves, with a family of four boys and one daughter to mourn his loss. In the last general election he was the successful Conservative candidate.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Mr. McCormick will leave the city to-day to meet Mrs. McLeod with the remains at Winnipeg. Interment will take place at Bracebridge, the home of deceased.

THIS YOUTH SHOULD WIN.

His Plan to Learn a Trade Was Unique and Practical.

Indianapolis, Nov. 20.—Homer Yergan, aged 19, was sent to the reformatory for two years for stealing. He arranged the theft so that he would be caught.

He said that he had long wanted to learn a trade because his education was so limited that he could not hope to make a living in any other way. Whenever he applied for work he found that the rules of the labor unions shut him out and he could not find employment. He went to Chicago and several other places, but he could not get work in any shop to learn a trade, although he offered to bind himself for a term of years.

"I will be glad to go to the penitentiary," he said yesterday, "for I will be glad to work at some trade and will learn it, too."

HELD BY SIX OUTLAWS.

But Although They Held Tower All Day Against British They Went to Long Sleep at Night.

Simla, India, Nov. 20.—Colonel Tonnochy, commanding the fourth column of the British expedition, engaged in putting down the uprising of the Waziri tribesmen on the Afghan frontier, found a strong tower at Gumatti, held by six outlaws, who refused to surrender. The shells from the British guns made little impression on the fort till evening, when the tower was stormed, and all of its defenders were killed.

The British losses were comparatively heavy. Colonel Tonnochy was mortally wounded, and has since died. Captain G. White of the Third Sikhs was killed while leading the storming party, and Captains Davies and Houston and Lieutenant Aairy and eight of the native troops were wounded. The tower was razed.

General Egerton arrived at Shiwa Tuesday and captured the headman and several of the villagers. Col. McRae, commanding the first column, signalled from Spinwan on Monday that he had surprised and captured the village, and had taken 250 prisoners. Some war munitions also fell into the hands of the first column.

OUT ON THE PLAIN

By Alice MacGowan

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

"Arch," said Stella, laying her little hands on his powerful shoulders and looking at him with her ardent, courageous eyes, "you are all I have to love now, since—since daddy's gone, and if it was—if it was—lots worse than it is I'd go anyhow—all the more, maybe."

"And you shan't be sorry, dearest," answered Arch. "You know yourself it never got such a hold on me before. I couldn't seem"—his sun and wind tanned face flushing a still darker red—"to get back to myself, to sense myself. It was all around me. Nearly all the other fellows drink, and I'd get at it again before I was really myself."

"I know, dear. Both of my brothers back in old Missouri are the same. That's what made daddy so bitter about you and me."

"But six months up on the plains, away from it all—and with you, Stella—it'll settle the whisky question forever. I ain't afraid to ask you, darling, and you know I'd rather die than bring trouble to you. I tell you, I know myself, and you'll see; I'll make it stick."

"What offer is it you have? Where are you—are we—going and what are you going to do?"

"Holbrook's going to send a herd of 6,000 cattle on to the Staked plain to a range he's picked out up there. It's raw country—Indians and buffalo barely off it—and it's big wages to go up with the herd and keep sign camp; takes some sand to do it, you know."

It was in the latter part of the seventies in western Texas, while the range was yet general and unfenced. The string of sign camps, with its riders circling the range a man had chosen for his cattle, was the living fence which held the animals from straying or from "drifting" before storms. These camps the cattleman placed as nearly as the question of water supply admitted at equal distances around his range or across such parts as had not the natural barrier of a river or canyon. In every camp were two men whose duty it was to ride out daily in opposite directions until they met the riders from the next adjoining camp, looking always for straying cattle and turning them back into the range.

"And the upper camp," Arch continued eagerly, "don't need but one rider, because it's right against the Canadian river. Holbrook will be glad to give it to me if I'll only come. We can live there the six months—it's big wages—and save every cent of the money. Then, with the little bunch I've got already running with Holbrook's cattle, we could begin for ourselves. Stella—oh, Stella," he broke off suddenly, "I'm the happiest man in Texas. It's like being taken out of hell and led plumb straight into heaven!"

They were married the next day. Stella's was the temperament which when once the heart has been given sends talents, abilities, the labor of the hands, all, gladly after it in devoted service. Then came a happy, exciting time buying Stella's outfit—that is to say, the things which old Hank Pearsall, head cook of the expedition, pronounced suitable to "a lady cowboy a-keepin' sign camp."

Finally the great caravan started lazily and ponderously up the trail. It was a marvelous pastoral panorama, and Stella's quick artist soul reveled in its quaint picturesqueness. She perceived it all—the country, the cattle, the means, the daily round—to be like a survival, a bit out of the life of some old Indian owner of herds.

There was the vast herd strung out and moving very slowly that the cattle might graze as they traveled, the cowboys riding along the sides, the six great mess wagons, hitched two or three together, with teams of eight and ten and even twelve horses, bringing up the rear. At night the cattle were rounded into a great mass and bedded down, the men taking turns by twos riding night herd, singing loudly to keep the animals quiet. Each mess wagon had its two men, its stock of provisions and a tent or some materials to build a dugout camp.

Stella came to have a sisterly affection and admiration for these big, rough fellows in whose company she fared slowly northward on that strange journey. She saw them day by day and night after night cheerily enduring hardships and facing dangers as great as those of the campaigning soldier. The riding of night herd, the crossing of rivers with treacherous current and quicksand bed, fighting to prevent or to quell a stampede—these things were attended with no glory. They were done with light hearts and jesting words daily and as a matter of course. And in the evening these champions came like great children to sit about her, listening while she sang old songs to the accompaniment of her guitar or told stories from such classics as she knew.

They had been three months in their little adobe house on the open plain, whose ingenuous yet inscrutable face Stella never wearied of studying. The clean, high air had been God's own medicine to her, and, with her heart full of happiness, she had thrived and blossomed, this dark beauty, in the raking wind and burning sun which destroy blond delicacy. And the grim, menacing "if" which at first lay so close behind her joy grew dimmer and dimmer. Every day when Arch came home to her or when, as often happened, she saddled up and rode out to meet him he shouted joyfully at sight of her: "Great Scott, but you're a beauty, honey! You're a howling beauty, no less!"

But today the terror was upon her. She had waited, at first eagerly, impatiently, then anxiously and at last in a numb certainty of disaster. Four o'clock came, then 5, 6, 7, and Arch had not returned.

In the coldness of despair she put her own saddle upon Buckshot and an old one which Arch kept for emergencies on Creeping Moses. Leading the extra horse, she rode out as Arch had ridden at sunrise almost due east toward the adjoining camp. The great white moon of the high plains country shone in awful beauty over that waste of desolate emptiness.

"It might be an accident," Stella whispered. "Something might have happened to Arch or to Bob." Bob was the rider from the next camp who met Arch. "Why am I so sure it is the one thing? O God, let it be anything—anything but that! Not that! Not now, when we've lived in heaven together all these months and he seemed saved from it at last!"

So she rode across the blank, mysterious night alone straight toward the splendid moon. She was stone cold, cramped in the saddle and all her senses stunned down to one aching agony of dread, when, after three hours of fast riding, she suddenly saw before her silhouetted against the sky the figure of a man—Bob, she divined—standing not far from a saddled horse and bending over another man, who lay huddled and unsightly on the ground. And the pains of hell laid hold upon her heart.

The ponies' feet made almost no sound on the springy turf, and she was close at hand when the man turned, shoved back his big hat and ran to her, crying:

"I knew you'd come, honey! My Lord, how I hated to stay and give you such a scare! But Holbrook's dead drunk and got a broken leg, I guess, and the team must have run clean away with the buckboard. The wolves would have eaten him up if I'd left him to go to you or to Bob. It's the boss himself, Stella, and he's been mighty good to me. I couldn't"—

But Stella was not listening to him. Her wide eyes, so pitiful with pain and fear, had filled with merciful tears, and she only said: "Oh, Arch, forgive me, forgive me! Oh, I thank God—I'm so thankful, so happy!" And she rested against her husband's heart.

"I knew you'd be afraid of that, honey," returned Arch, with quick intuition. "I knew you'd think about the buckboard coming up from headquarters—maybe bringing a jug—and me letting go again. It just took the heart out of you, didn't it? And I couldn't do a thing but wait here, knowing, too, how you were suffering."

Stella sat where Arch tenderly placed her and watched him, clear eyed, smiling, capable, preparing Holbrook for the trip back to camp on Creeping Moses. When this was done, he put his arms around her, smiling down in her face. "Say, honey," he announced quietly, "the job's done, and done to stay. I knew it before. But I never knew it exactly, as I have these three or four hours out here alone, working over the poor old boss there. It's come to me, just a plain fact, that there's no more drinking business for me. The stuff's lost its hold on me. I don't—nor you don't—need to be scared of it any more. I'm going to boss the job myself and live my own life—see?" And he laughed and kissed her. She laughed back at him in pure joy and lightness of heart. That grim "if" was forever silenced.

Arch's fenced ranges run into three counties now, and on the headquarters ranch there is a great home, the abode of cheer and Texas hospitality.

"Keeley cure be blowed," he cried the other day when we were talking of young Roberts. "Send him to keep sign camp out on the Staked plain along with an angel like Stella. Maybe his mother would do.

"Give him six months of health up in that clean air and being alone with the plain, the sun and wind and God. That'll cure him, if he's worth saving."

American Manners.

The ordinary Londoner who has not had the good fortune to cross the Atlantic is wont to picture his American cousin wearing a goatee and a victim to the constant chewing of tobacco and liberal expectoration. On arriving in New York he is amazed to discover that the goatee is conspicuous by its absence, tobacco chewing unnoticeable and expectoration practically unknown. In this respect he finds the New Yorker far more cleanly in his habits than the Londoner, more especially on public cars and in public places. The unrestrained indulgence of spitting on and off the tops of buses and in railway trains and the random chewing and smoking of tobacco in and around London are simply odious and make traveling intolerable and ofttimes disgusting even to a smoker. Here the strange prohibition against spitting in public places and the sensible regulation as to smoking are so thoroughly observed that traveling becomes a pleasure. If London would only copy the most admirable example existing in New York in this respect, the English metropolis would soon be rid of a most unwarrantable and filthy habit.

Cornered Fritz.

Two Germans named respectively Rudolph and Fritz were invited to a special dinner.

It was impossible for Fritz to resist the temptation of stealing one of the silver spoons, so he managed to conceal one in his boot without any one observing him except Rudolph.

Rudolph also thought be would like a spoon. When the guests had finished he took one of his spoons and said to the company:

"You see dis spoon? Vell, I put it up my sleeve, so." Then be waved his arms about. "Vell, you vill find it in Fritz's boot."

It was found.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Wilford could not help telling her yes, for he knew she wished him to do so, but in his heart he was thinking bad thoughts against the wardrobe of his bride elect—thoughts which would have won for him the title of hen-huzzy from Helen, could she have known them. And yet Wilford did not deserve that name. He had been accustomed all his life to hearing dress discussed in his mother's parlor, and in his sisters' boudoir, while for the last five weeks he had heard at home little else than the probable tout ensemble of Katy's wardrobe, bought and made in the country, his mother deciding finally to write to her cousin, Mrs. Harvey, who boarded at the Revere, and have her see to it before Katy left the city. Under these circumstances, it was not strange that Wilford did not enter into Katy's delight, even after she told him how Helen had made every stitch of the dress herself, and that it would on that account be very dear to her. This was a favorable time for getting the poplin off his mind, and with a premonitory "ahem," he said: "Yes, it is very nice, no doubt; but," and here he turned to Helen, "after Mrs. Ryan's services were declined, my mother determined to have two dresses fitted to sister Bell, who I think is just Katy's size and figure. I need not say," and his eyes still rested on Helen, who gave him back an unflinching glance, "I need not say that no pains have been spared to make these garments everything they should be in point of quality and style. I have them in my trunk, and," turning now to Katy, "it is my mother's special request that one of them be worn tomorrow. You could take your choice, she said—either was suitable. I will bring them for your inspection."

He left the room, while Helen's face resembled a dark thunder-cloud whose lightnings shone in her flashing eyes as she looked after him and then back to where Katy stood, bewildered and wondering what was wrong.

"Who is Mrs. Ryan?" she asked. "What does he mean?" but before Helen could command her voice to explain, Wilford was with them again bringing the dresses, over which Katy nearly went wild.

She had never seen anything as elegant as the rich, heavy poplin or the soft lustrous silk, while even Helen acknowledged that there was about them a finish which threw Miss Hazelton's quite in the shade.

"Beautiful!" Katy exclaimed; "and trimmed so exquisitely! I do so hope they will fit!"

"I dare say they will," Wilford replied, enjoying her appreciation of his mother's gift. "At all events they will answer for to-morrow, and any needful alterations can be made in Boston. Which will you wear?"

"Oh, I don't know. I wish I could wear both. Helen, which shall I?" and Katy appealed to her sister, who could endure no more, but hid her head among the pillows of the bed and cried.

Katy understood the whole, and dropping the silk to which she inclined the most, she flew to Helen's side and whispered to her: "Don't Nellie, I won't wear either of them. I'll wear the one you made. It was mean and vain in me to think of doing otherwise."

During this scene Wilford had stolen from the room, and with him gone, Helen was capable of judging candidly and sensibly. She knew the city silk was handsomer and better suited for Wilford Cameron's bride than the country plaid, and so she said to Katy: "I would rather you should wear the one they sent. It will become you better. Suppose you try it on," and in seeking to gratify her sister, Helen forgot in part her own cruel disappointment, and that her work of days had been for naught. The dress fitted well, though Katy pronounced it too tight and too long. A few moments, however, accustomed her to the length, and then her mother, Aunt Hannah, and Aunt Betsy came to see and admire, while Katy proposed going out to Wilford, but Helen kept her back, Aunt Betsy remarking under her breath, that "she didn't see for the life of her how Catherine could be so free and easy with that man when just the sight of him was enough to take away a body's breath.

"More free and easy than she will be by and by," was Helen's mental comment as she proceeded quietly to pack the trunk which Morris had brought for the voyage across the sea, dropping into it many a tear as she folded away one article after another, and wondered under what circumstances she should see them again if she saw them ever.

Helen was a Christian girl, and many a time had she prayed in secret that He who rules the deep would keep its waters calm and still while her sister was upon them, and she prayed so now, constantly, burying her face once in her hands, and asking that Katy might come back to them unchanged, if possible, and asking next that God would remove from her heart all bitterness towards the bridegroom, who was to be her brother, and whom, after that short, earnest prayer, she found herself liking better. He loved Katy, she was sure, and that was all she cared for, though she did wish he would release her before twelve o'clock on that night, the last she would spend with them for a long, long time. But Wilford kept her with him in the parlor, kissing away the tears which flowed so fast when she recalled the prayer of Uncle Ephraim, with her kneeling by him as she might never kneel again. He had called her by name, and his voice was very sad as he commended her to God, asking that He would "be with our little Katy wherever she might go, keeping her in all the mewandering scenes of life, and bringing her at last to His own heavenly home."

Wilford himself was touched, and though he noticed the deacon's pronunciation, he did not even smile, and his manner was very respectful, when, after the prayer was over and they were alone a moment, the white-haired deacon felt it incumbent upon him to say a few words concerning Katy.

"She's a young, rattle-headed creature, not much like your own kin, I guess; but, young man, she is as dear as the apple of our eyes, and I charge you to treat her well. She has never had a crossways word spoke to her in all her life, and don't you be the first to speak it, nor let your folks browbeat her."

As they were alone, it was easier for Wilford to be humble and conciliatory, and he promised all the old man required, and then went back to Katy, who was going into raptures over the beautiful little watch which Morris had sent over as her bridal gift from him. Even Mrs. Mrs. Cameron herself could have found no fault with this, and Wilford praised it as much as Katy could desire, noticing the inscription: "Katy, from Cousin Morris, June 10th, 18—," wishing that after the "Katy" had come the name Cameron, and wondering if Morris had any design in omitting it. Wilford had not yet presented his father's gift, but he did so now, and Katy's tears dropped upon the pale, soft pearls as she whispered: "I shall like your father. I never thought of having things like these."

Nor had she; but she would grow to them very soon, while even the family gathering round and sharing in her joy began to realize how great a lady their Katy was to be. It was late that night ere anybody slept, if sleep at all they did, which was doubted, unless it were the bride, who, with Wilford's kisses warm upon her lips, crept up to bed just as the clock was striking twelve, nor woke until it was again chiming for six, and over her Helen bent, a dark ring about her eyes and her face very white as she whispered: "Wake, Katy darling, this is your wedding day."

CHAPTER. X

There were more than a few lookeron to see Katy Lennox married, and the church was literally jammed for full three-quarters of an hour before the appointed time. Back by the door, where she commanded a full view of the middle aisle, Marian Hazelton sat, her face as white as ashes and her eyes gleaming strangely wild from beneath the thickly dotted veil she wore over her hat. Doubts as to her wisdom in coming there were agitating her mind, but something kept her sitting just as others sat waiting for the bride until the sexton, opening wide the doors, and assuming an added air of consequence told the anxious spectators that the party had arrived—Uncle Ephraim and Katy, Wilford and Mrs. Lennox, Dr. Morris and Helen, Aunt Hannah and Aunt Betsy—that was all, and they came slowly up the aisle, while countless eyes were turned upon them, every woman noticing Katy's dress sweeping the carpet with so long a trail, and knowing by some queer female instinct that it was city-made, and not the handiwork of Marian Hazelton, panting for breath in that pew near the door, and trying to forget herself by watching Dr. Grant. She could not have told what Katy wore; she would not have sworn that Katy was there, for she saw only two, Wilford and Morris Grant. She could have touched the former as he passed her by, and she did breathe the odor of his garments while her hands clasped each other tightly, and then she turned to Morris Grant, growing content with her own pain, so much less than his as he stood before the altar with Wilford Cameron between him and the bride, which should have been his. How pretty she was in her wedding garb, and how like a bird her voice rang out as she responded to the solemn question:

"Will you have this man to be thy wedded husband," etc.

CANCERS AND TUMORS

PERMANENTLY CURED BY THE NEW CONSTITUTIONAL MEDICATION.

The new system of treating cancers, tumors, lupus, and all malignant growths has done away with the need of the Surgeon's Knife and the painful plaster. Besides this, it is effectual when these and all other forms of treatment fail.

It is a simple vegetable compound, which when taken into the system, neutralizes and destroys the cancer germs and poisons, and expels them from the system.

Complete details of this pleasant home method of treating malignant growths will be sent to any one on receipt of two stamps. Address R. L. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

AT FIRST GLANCE

IT WOULD APPEAR THAT LOCAL REMEDIES WOULD BE BEST FOR CURE OF CATARRH.

It would seem at first glance that catarrh being a disease of the mucous membrane, that salves, sprays, etc., being applied directly to the membranes of the nose and throat, would be the most rational treatment, but this has been proven not to be true.

The mucous membrane is made and repaired from the blood, and catarrh is a blood disease and any remedy to make a permanent cure must act on the blood, and when the blood is purified from catarrhal poison, the secretions from the mucous membrane will become natural and healthy.

In this climate thousands of people seem scarcely ever free from some form of catarrh; it gets better at times, but each winter becomes gradually deeper seated, and after a time the sufferer resigns himself to it as a necessary evil.

Catarrh cures are almost as numerous as catarrh sufferers, but are nearly all so inconvenient and ineffective as to render their use a nuisance nearly as annoying as catarrh itself; anyone who has used the douches, sprays and powders will bear witness to their inconvenience and failure to really cure.

There are a number of excellent internal remedies for catarrh, but probably the best and certainly the safest is a new remedy, composed of Red Gum, Blood Root and similar antiseptic remedies and other valuable catarrh specifics.

This remedy is in tablet form, pleasant to the taste, and sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and anyone suffering from catarrh may use these tablets with absolute assurance that they contain no cocaine, opiate nor any poisonous mineral whatever.

A leading druggist in Albany speaking of catarrh cures says: "I have sold various catarrh cures for years, but have never sold any which gave such general satisfaction as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. They contain in a pleasant, concentrated form all the best and latest catarrh remedies, and catarrh sufferers, who have used douches, sprays and salves, have been astonished at the quick relief and permanent results obtained after a week's use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets." All druggists sell full sized packages for fifty cents.

FOUR AND A HALF DAYS.

President Mitchell's Cross-Examination by Coal Lawyers at Last Ended.

Scranton, Pa., Nov., 20.—President Mitchell was cross-examined again yesterday before the Coal Strike Commission. Judge Gray suggested that Mr. Mitchell be not asked to give his opinion of matters of which he had no personal knowledge.

M. Mitchell did not favor one organization for the hard coal miners and another for the soft coal men.

Mr. Mitchell declared with emphasis in the course of subsequent examination that the miners will carry out the decision of the commission to the letter "or go out of the union."

The miners president, after being under trying cross-examination by more than half a dozen lawyers for four and a half days, then left the witness stand.

Boycott That Does Not Boycott.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The third day of the boycott, declared by the Trades Assembly of this city against the Schenectady Railway Company, finds the effort possessing practically no support at all. There is no diminution of traffic, and all the cars are running, as on other days, with their full quota of passengers.

Teachers Talk of Union.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—A Teachers' Union for Ontario is one of the latest phases of unionism in Canada. Just what the definite objects of such an organization are intended to be is not known yet, but among them it is certain that the question of governing salaries will not be ignored. Miss Carruthers of King Edward School is one of the leading promoters of a union, and she has secured the permission of the executive of the Ontario Educational Association to introduce at the next meeting of the association a notice of motion asking for consideration of the subject. It had been stated that some of the teachers were in favor of affiliating as a union with the American Federation of Labor, as had been done by a teachers' union in the United States, but it has been learned that a proposition of that sort would not be entertained at all by the association.

200 BURNED TO DEATH.

Town of Resht in Persia Has Been Destroyed.

London, Nov. 20.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Mail telegraphs that a fire lasting three days has destroyed the town of Resht, in Persia. Fifteen hundred houses and many warehouses were wiped out, and two hundred persons perished.

Rich Woman Burns a Town.

Vienna, Nov. 20.—The Tyrolese village of Matsch was almost totally destroyed by fire yesterday. Seven hundred persons are left destitute, and 500 cattle perished in the flames. The fire was started by a woman who owns most of the village. She wished to punish the peasants for disrespect toward her.

Rev. Dr. Parker Dying.

London, Nov. 20.—The condition of Dr. Parker, Minister of the City Temple, is now considered hopeless. Dropsy set in Friday, since when oxygen has been administered to him. Dr. Parker himself wrote a bulletin, which was read in the City Temple Sunday, remarking that it was the last thing he would ever write.

MARINE MINISTER OPPOSED

Labelle Nominated by Conservatives Against Prefontaine.

F. D. Monk, M.P., Present—Three Resolutions That Mean Something Not Only to Electors of Maisonneuve But to Those of All Canada—Dismemberment of Public Works Condemned—Reform in Immigration System Demanded.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—J. Alfred Labelle is squarely before the electors of Maisonneuve as Mr. Prefontaine's opponent, that gentleman having accepted the Conservative nomination last evening, at a very largely attended convention. F. D. Monk, M. P., was present, and urged opposition to the Minister of Marine.

The following resolutions were adopted:

That in the present situation of the country it is urgent that the tariff should be revised without delay in such a way to secure the complete protection for the laboring and manufacturing classes, and secure for Canada all possible advantages arising from its national resources.

That this convention condemns the dismemberment of the Department of Public Works, as contrary to the best interests of Canada.

That a complete reform of the immigration system of Canada is required in the best interests of the working classes.

Prefontaine's First Promise.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—At a dinner given last evening by the officers of the district to Lord Dundonald, the commander urged a greater measure of training for the militia, and Hon. Mr. Prefontaine promised a grant for a military and naval school here.

Bye-Election Postponed.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—The bye-election in Maisonneuve caused by the appointment of the Hon. Raymond Prefontaine as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has been postponed until Dec. 9, owing to the returning officer finding it impossible to affix the proclamations within the legal time.

NO PREFERENCE FOR CANADA.

Bond-Hay Treaty Gives U.S. Imports Equal Treatment.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 20.—It is understood here that the Bond-Hay Treaty includes green, or partly cured codfish, as well as dry, or fully cured, cod. It also gives a free entry into American markets of Newfoundland's crude minerals. American fishermen receive equal privileges in the Colonial waters with the resident fishers.

American imports also have equality of treatment with those of Canada, no preferential tariff being allowed. Canadian fish does not share the benefits of reciprocity.

Election in Dawson.

Dawson City, Nov. 20.—The election campaign is growing in interest. Feeling is running high in some sections, and personal encounters are not infrequent. Only two weeks elapse before polling. As far as can be judged, Ross can carry Dawson by several hundred majority, and will carry Dominion Creek by between 300 and 400 majority. Some important creeks are adverse. The feeling is that Ross' election is sure. Many prominent Conservatives will support him, and the fight is not on party lines.

Carrie to Be an Actress.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 20. — Carrie Nation, the "Kansas Smasher," is about to become a playwright and actress. This decision has been reached as the result of her successful lecture tour.

She is going to write a play, and take one of the leading parts herself.

She is even seriously considering a repertoire company, with "Ten Nights in a Barroom" as one of the leading productions.

Blind Chaplain to Resign.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Rev. Dr. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the Senate, is about to resign his office, and will retire, it is said, before the meeting of Congress, a fortnight hence. Rev. Dr. Couden, the blind chaplain of the House, is urged by his friends as a candidate. No one is yet conspicuously mentioned for his place.

Rev. George Martin Pleads Guilty.

London, Nov. 20. — Rev. George Martin, the clergyman of the Church of England, who was arrested on the day of King Edward's procession through London, on a charge of threatening to blow up a grand stand in front of St. George's Church, pleaded guilty in Old Bailey yesterday. Sentence was postponed.

Immigrants For Canada.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 20.—The Hamburg-American Line steamer Armenia arrived last evening from Hamburg, via Bologne, with 323 immigrants. Ninety-three are for the United States and the balance for points in Canada. The passengers left for their destinations by train last evening.

Sentenced to 20 Years.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 20. — Morton McNutt, found guilty at Truro Tuesday for attempting to murder his wife, was yesterday, sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment in Dorchester Penitentiary. He also received five years' additional for shooting at Mrs. Hamilton, his mother-in-law.

Salmon Question Deferred.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The question of closing the salmon fishing season in Southeastern Alaska about July 1 in each year will be held in abeyance for some time to allow all parties interested to be heard. Some canneries favor it and others are opposed.

McINTOSH BROS.

WAS THIS CHIEF NEWTON'S BEAR?

RATHER A GOOD STORY AT THE EXPENSE OF SOME BOLD HUNTERS.

A country exchange says: "Not long ago a hunting party, homeward bound, attracted considerable attention at the depot here, and apparently took particular pains to see that the interested spectators were enabled to get a good view of the hunters and the game bagged during the outing, among which was a bear. Now, there's nothing gives a hunter such prestige and pomp as the knowledge that he has "killed a bear," it don't matter much how he killed it, and we do not wonder that the admiring crowd were struck with awe when they learned that the ferocious bear had been slaughtered by the oldest man in the party, a well-known resident of a neighboring town. The old-time hunter threw out his chest, drew in the muscles of his back and gave a spectacular expression to a countenance that resembled an electric headlight, as he murmured, with pride, "Yes, I fixed the brute!" It was a fine lot of game, but we have since heard a little yarn about the bear, which may cast some doubt on the manner in which this hunting party procured such abundance. It is related of the hunters that at a little village they caught sight of a bear in captivity, owned by the village innkeeper. The hunters saw glory and honor awaiting them if they could but secure the dead body of bruin to adorn the fine collection of game already in their possession. Finally, they prevailed upon the old-timer to make a deal with the owner of the bear whereby it fell into the possession of the said old-timer for a money consideration. Having become sole proprietor of the miniature menagerie and the terror of the woods, the mighty hunter proceeded to instantaneously dispatch his bearship to the happy hunting grounds. He seized his rifle and fired, but we are told he missed bruin altogether. The next shot had the desired effect, and with great presence of mind and a phenomenal display of courage a la Kitchener, the old-timer succeeded in putting the captive animal out of business, placing his body with the rest of the game, after the chain which bound him had been removed. And thereby hangs the tale of the bear, and how he was killed, but whether it is true or not, we cannot say. We intend to ask the old-timer the next time we visit the city."

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Samuel Russell, M.P.P. for East Hastings, was a caller at the Provincial Department of Public Works yesterday in reference to the proportion of the million-dollar grant to which Hastings is entitled under the good roads scheme. Hastings' share of the total will be about $25,000.

Rusty in their Gaelic

Mail and Empire: Major Robertson, of the 48th Highlanders, has issued an invitation in "Ta Gaelic" to the officers of his regiment in connection with the St. Andrew's ball, to be held the first of December in the Temple Building. The Major's office was surrounded during the day by the officers of his regiment, who wished a translation of the document. Some, not sufficiently versed in the grand old Gaelic, thought the invitation was for a "turnout," last evening. The popular Major was not sure himself what it did mean; but thought it was something relating to St. Andrew's Day. A Jordan Street broker who studied "Ta Gaelic" in his younger days, sought to decipher it, but the only words he could make out were whiskey and haggis!

THE STORY OF MORNING TIREDNESS

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you a sharp appetite, promote good digestion and sound sleep; it will feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigor, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1902 NO. 170

WILL BE SUMMONED FOR SELLING TO MINORS

CIGARETTE DEALERS WHO WILL APPEAR BEFORE THE MAGISTRATE TO-MORROW.

The revelation which was made at the Central School on Friday last in regard to the use of cigarettes amongst boys of tender years will not, it appears, be allowed to lie dormant as many believed it would. We are informed that the names of a number of dealers, or their clerks who, as alleged by the lads, sold cigarettes to them, have been procured and informations have been laid before the Magistrate. To-morrow five parties will be summoned before the Cadi, and the proceedings will be watched with much interest. A number of those addicted to the use of cigarettes and who are of tender years will be summoned as witnesses.

Some adult parties who bought cigarettes for the small boys, knowing they were for their use, have also been summoned, and the case will no doubt attract many to the Court.

Now that prosecution has been commenced by the police every effort will be made to get at the root of the matter, and stop if possible, the use of the weed amongst the boys.

A Hen Deceiver

An ingenious person, according to an exchange, has invented what he calls a "hen deceiver," for the purpose of promoting industry among the ladies of the barnyard. The apparatus is simple and consists of a box for a nest with a trap door for the bottom, so that when the hen lays an egg it drops through into a receiver underneath, and the door closes automatically. When the hen gets up to look for the egg and finds none she thinks she has made a mistake and lays another. An ambitious hen will, it is claimed, lay a number of eggs before she discovers the trick.

KINGSTON'S OLD CITY HALL

PROF. SHORTT GIVES SOME AMUSING FACTS IN CONNECTION WITH ITS EARLY HISTORY.

Kingston Whig: At Tuesday night's meeting of the Historical Society, Prof. Shortt gave a most amusing account of the early days of our city hall. It appears that in '41, when the seat of government was here, that it was thought advisable to erect buildings for the better accommodation of the legislature. No funds being available, the mayor of that time, to wit, John Counter, was sent to England to negotiate a loan of £50,000, which he did at six per cent. This was put in the Commercial Bank, at two and a half per cent. It struck the worthy fathers of the city in time, however, that they weren't exactly coining money at this rate, and when the foundation of the building came to be laid in 1843, they decided to put the sum out again at five and a half per cent. Some more longheaded than their fellows were struck at this juncture with a bright idea. "We are business men," they said "Capital is always a good thing to have in business; we'll just lend this money to ourselves." When this was called for, for building purposes, the worthy aldermen found themselves unable to pay up, so they borrowed some more at eight per cent., till the Commercial Bank would lend no more. They then issued paper money of their own, and when that was exhausted, they had dies made, and were going into the minting business. Unfortunately for them, Sir Charles Bagot got wind of this, and stopped the industry, and then the interesting part began. The Commercial Bank got excited over the issue of paper money, and its solicitor, a certain John A. Macdonald, who by this time had risen to a high eminence in the regard of the citizens, wrote a threatening letter to the finance committee of the council, which was received by himself as chairman of that body, and read by him with much unction to his alarmed fellow-workers. People wondered what the outcome of this interesting situation might be, when two days later, John A. sent in his resignation and became member for Kingston. It is needless to say that the Old Chieftain got none of the money himself, but the most of those who did, left suddenly to pay a prolonged visit to cousins across the border, and left the City Hall with its history and its debt.

FREE BOOK SYSTEM

IT IS IN ITS INFANCY, BUT MUST SUCCEED.

(Ottawa Journal.)

So far as Ontario is concerned, the movement is as yet in its infancy, but there are evidences of activity. Ten years ago by a poll of the property owners (property owners mark, not voters generally). Toronto adopted the system by a vote of 12,349 to 7,891. Since that year Ontario has had its eye on Toronto. About two weeks ago the Kingston School Board sent a deputation to Toronto to investigate the workings of the system. On Thursday night the Toronto system was adopted by the Kingston Board with the exception that the parents and not the public at large will pay for the books. which means that Kingston sees that by the Board buying and distributing the books, the books will be secured to the users at a greatly reduced cost, and the fact that the Board will own and control the books will be to the advantage of the system generally. but that Kingston does not go so far as to assert the principle contended for in Toronto and in the States; that the public at large should pay for the books. Kingston in other words, has gone three-quarters of the way towards the mark, but has declined the real issue—the sharing of the burden by the public will at large.

Mining Notes

The County Council

At the approaching municipal election this year County Councillors will have to be selected and the prospects are that a number of new faces will appear in that body when it meets for organization in January. At least two members will not seek re-election, namely, the present Warden, Mr. J. T. Holgate, of Sidney, and ex-Warden J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., of Marmora.

SIR GILBERT PARKER ON BRITISH EMIGRATION

THINKS IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT SHOULD ORGANIZE BUREAU OF EMIGRATION.

(London, Eng., Sun.)

Sir Gilbert Parker, whose interest in Colonial affairs has earned him the honorable title of "Member for the Colonies," put a question in the House of Commons yesterday which may be regarded as the first shot in a campaign for organized emigration. The question was a request for the establishment of an office or department for emigration under control of the Colonial Office.

Seen by a Sun representative in the House yesterday, Sir Gilbert discussed the general purport and need for the new department.

Room for Them.

"In this country," said Sir Gilbert, "there are thousands of young men, sons of farmers, who crowd into the towns and become, too often, our unemployed. They should be tempted and encouraged to settle in our Colonies. There is no reason why we should not by effective machinery assist promising settlers to go where vast tracts of country await them. We have also thousands of artisans, skilled workmen, who find an increased difficulty in earning a living wage. In the Colonies they will find a field for their labors. Take the case in Canada. During the last two years there has been a constant migration of Americans to Canada, the number actually reaching a total of 120,000 families. Now, these people may make good subjects of the British Empire or they may not. They probably will. But one cannot help wishing that Britons could be enabled to seize the advantages which are within reach of the Americans.

Affair For The State.

"In Africa the one prevailing cry is for a settlement. Lord Milner has frequently alluded in his reports to the necessity for Colonists, not in handfuls, but in hundreds.

"Of course, the Colonies have Agents-General in London, who are prepared to answer all questions as to the conditions of the country, the wages, the chances of success, and so forth put by the intending emigrant. It seems to me that this is an affair for the State, and if there were a department at the Colonial Office, consisting of two men, if you will, whose sole duty it would be to consider the applications of emigrants, the result would be a steady flow of men anxious to reap the benefits the Colonies have to offer."

The Right Kind of Men.

"What about the Immigration Departments in the Colonies?"

Of course, the proposed Colonial Office Department of Emigration would act in concert with them. There would be no difficulty in that, seeing that they have a common aim.

"You must know," continued Sir Gilbert, "that in Germany there is State control of emigration, and the system acts well, the Government sending out settlers to their colonies in Africa. We have had the same. Some fifty years ago our Government assisted a large body of men to emigrate to the Cape, where there was a special field for their energies.

"There is at the present day a greater necessity than ever existed previously for the right kind of men to go to the Colonies, and that necessity is only to be fulfilled by a systematic, organized bureau of emigration under the direct control of the Colonial Office."

It would seem as though Sir Gilbert Parker had not been entirely uninfluenced in the choice of a date for the announcement of his scheme by the approaching departure of the Colonial Secretary for South Africa.

Successful Hunters

One of the most successful hunting parties of the season was that organized by Mr. Charles H. Grass, of Charles St., in this city. Besides Mr. Grass it was composed of Messrs. Daniel Grass and Allen Maybee, of Thurlow; Samuel Hart, of Rossmore, and James Thompson, of this city. They returned "ladened with trophies of the chase," seven deer and partridges by the score being part of the results of their sport.

Appeal in Liquor Case

On the 6th of the present month Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, proprietress of the Queen's Hotel at Deseronto, was before Magistrate Bedford, of that town, and was fined $20 and costs for an infringement of the liquor Act. The case has been appealed and to-day Judge Lazier heard the appeal. Mr. Anderson represented the respondent and Mr. Herrington the appellant.

DESERONTO HAS LOST A GOOD CITIZEN

MR. W. G. EGAR, DRUGGIST, PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY—A MUCH RESPECTED MAN.

Mr. Wm. G. Egar, a druggist and prominent business man of the Town of Deseronto, died yesterday, aged about 50 years. Deceased had been ailing for some time and his demise was not unexpected. Mr. Egar had resided in Deseronto for a number of years, where he conducted a successful business. He was for some time agent for the Indian land grants, a position which he was in every way qualified to fill. Mr. Egar was identified with everything which tended to the prosperity of Deseronto, and had occupied positions in the Town Council and upon the School Board. He was a staunch supporter of the Conservative party, and in the Conservative Association the loss of his services will be keenly felt. A widow and family survive. The funeral will take place to-morrow.

CLASS HONORED FOUNDER THOUGH HE WAS ABSENT

LARGELY ATTENDED AND PLEASING FUNCTION IN BRIDGE ST. S. S. ROOMS LAST NIGHT.

There can be nothing "small" about a number of ladies who send out five hundred invitations to a function. This is what the ladies of Mr. C. P. Holton's class in Bridge St. Sunday School did for their annual reunion held yesterday evening. They desired to continue the celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the school, and so emphasized the event even beyond their accustomed generous way, for in addition to the many usually invited in the city, all former members of the class whose addresses could be procured were requested to attend. The city invitations were, with scarcely an exception, accepted, for these ladies have well established reputations for giving a delightful evening, which always includes a supper. The "old timers" (to use a western phrase for the earliest inhabitants) who have enjoyed many of these happy evenings, agree that the ladies surpassed all their former efforts last night. The flow of conversation, after the edibles had been disposed of, was so great that it was 9.30 before the programme was reached.

The class requested their pastor, Rev. Dr. Crothers, to be chairman. He, with Rev. Dr. Galbraith, Mr. John J. B. Flint, Mr. W. F. Jones, Mr. Wm. Johnson and Mr. C. P. Holton gave addresses somewhat higher in point of merit than the ordinary "after supper" speeches. This was specially so in the case of Mr. Jones, who had gone to the muses for inspiration, and read an original and clever adaptation of Edgar Allan Poe's poem, "The Raven," which was thoroughly enjoyed and was a revelation to his friends of his ability to write poetry. Other items on the excellent programme were vocal solos from Miss Holton and Miss Wheler, and a piano duet by Miss Elliott and Miss Adams.

The only "rift in the lute" was the absence of His Honor Judge Dean, of Lindsay, the founder of the class. He fully expected to be present, but at the last moment was prevented. Many highly complimentary things were said of Judge Dean by the various speakers, and great regret was expressed at his absence. The Superintendent of the School designated the class as "the backbone of the School," and said that it was through its inception of the idea that people of all ages should attend Sunday school that the present remarkably large membership of the Senior Department had come.

The teacher of the class for the last eighteen years, Mr. C. P. Holton, received a well deserved ovation as he came to the platform at the close, the audience rising and enthusiastically giving him the Chatauqua Salute.

Cases in the Justice Shop

Alleged Assault.

Walter Asseltine charged Delbert Herrington with assaulting him. It is alleged by the complainant that on Saturday last, whilst at the G. T. R. station, the defendant assaulted him by striking him in the face. A number of witnesses were examined on both sides.

The Magistrate found Herrington guilty of the charge and imposed a fine of $1 and costs. Mr. Wright appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Porter for the defendant.

OPEN-WORK STOCKINGS

BRIDEGROOM OBJECTED TO THEM AND LOST A BRIDE.

New York, Nov. 20.—At the altar where Miss Margaret McDermott and Terence Sheehan were to be married in Jersey City, yesterday, the bride-to-be's shoe became loosened.

As the maid of honor tied it there showed just a bit of openwork stocking.

"I wouldn't marry a girl who wore openwork stockings," exclaimed the bridegroom-to-be.

"You don't have to," replied Miss McDermott, who turned on her heel and, followed by her friends, left Mr. Sheehan and the minister standing by themselves disconsolate and aghast.

Made it Warm for Him

(Brockville Times.)

Mr. Graham, M. L. A., editor of the Recorder, spent a very bad quarter of an hour this morning in his office, when Mayor Harrison and Town Solicitor Hutcheson called upon him and asked him where he got his authority for publishing the injurious lie that the bank had "Shut Down" on the town.

Mr. Graham sat and squirmed in his chair while the visitors asked him a few pointed questions and stated a few plain, unadorned facts. But he refused to tell who "informed the Recorder" for the very good reason that no one did. It was a falsehood manufactured in the Recorder office. Had Mr. Graham been publishing an item of equal gravity concerning any individual he would have been most careful to have verified the truth of the statements. But Mr. Graham, with a telephone at his elbow, was careful not to call up the bank and ask if the serious allegation was true. Ah, no! He preferred to announce prominently that the Bank of Montreal had "Shut Down" on the town, in order that he might deal a blow at Mayor Harrison, incidentally damaging the credit of the town.

There was general indignation in town this morning over the matter, and the Recorder's action was denounced on the street in unmeasured terms. As one man said, "It's a lie, of course. But even if it were true, what was the good of publishing such a damaging statement? It would do no good, and can only hurt the town's credit."

Gritism is the same, no matter in what part of Canada it is to be found. A few years ago a Belleville lawyer stumped North Hastings in opposition to the Conservative candidate then contesting the riding for a seat in parliament. The argument advanced by him at the time, was that the candidate did not live in the riding, but resided in Belleville. A few days after, the same gentleman accepted the nomination of the Grit party, and contested the East Riding, though he was a resident in Belleville. The same inconsistency is now being exhibited in the person of the Local member for the County of Argenteuil, who lives in Montreal. This gentleman, a lawyer, by the by, has written letters urging the electors to vote against the Conservative candidate now contesting an election in that County, on the ground that he does not reside continuously in the Riding, though he has large milling interests therein, while the non-resident local M.P. has none.

Could cheek and impudence go further?

This non-resident local member advances another reason why the Grit should be elected. It is not one of principle, nor is it based upon any issue now before the people, it is simply a tender. "He," the Grit candidate, says the M.P.P. "will obtain more for the County from the Government than was ever got before." Such is Rerge-Gritism.

SOCIETY BELLES SHOCKED

Mrs. Carrie Nation Broke Loose at the New York Horse Show.

Voluable Kansas Cyclone Lectured the Vanderbilts on Overdress—A Party of Gentlemen, Who Were Drinking Wine, Were Next Assailed, But the Police Came to Rescue and Put the Woman Out of the Building by Force.

New York, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Carrie Nation broke loose at the Horse Show yesterday afternoon. She harangued the multitude on the evils of overdress, attempted to break a bottle of champagne and finally was ejected from the building by the police.

Mrs. Nation entered the Garden quietly and took a seat in the tier. She had been there only a few minutes when her gaze rested on the box where some of the Vanderbilt family were sitting. She studied her program and then descended to the promenade. Stationing herself in front of the Vanderbilt box she delivered a tirade on overdress.

In the box were seated Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Reginald Vanderbilt and Miss Nelson. Alfred G. Vanderbilt was leaning against the rail of the promenade and did not see Mrs. Nation approach.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourselves," the woman screamed at them. "You ought to be ashamed to wear such disgraceful clothes. Take them off, take them off at once and attire yourselves more modestly."

Alfred G. Vanderbilt hastily left his position at the rail and came over to where Mrs. Nation was standing wiping her forehead with a handkerchief.

He whispered something in her ear and pushed her away.

The outburst of the woman attracted a great crowd of people, and the occupants of the Vanderbilt box were evidently much embarrassed. Mrs. Nation then turned her attention to other boxes. Finally she started for the cafe, where she bore down on a party of gentlemen who were drinking wine. Mrs. Nation seized the bottle, and glaring at the men shouted:

"Young men, don't drink such filthy stuff. You are going straight to hell. Where is the man who sells this damnable stuff? Show him to me and I will tell him what I think of him."

Mrs. Nation's request was speedily granted by the sudden appearance of M. Villepigue, the caterer at the Garden.

"Get out of this horrible business," she shouted at him, "you are also going to hell and ruining the bodies and souls of men. You are dragging them down with you. Shame on you, shame on you."

The Frenchman, however, pounced upon Mrs. Nation and rescued the bottle, which she had repeatedly brandished in the air to emphasize her remarks. The police forced her out of the building.

A GOOD SAMARITAN

BEING HELPED HIMSELF WISHES TO HELP OTHERS.

The papers were never so filled with advertisements of remedies that will cure every known disease, as they are to-day; these are invariably accompanied by letters from people, testifying in the strongest terms to the virtue and merit of the particular preparation advertised; but because so much is claimed for the medicine, it has come to the point where most readers regard such testimonials as pure "fakes" and made up out of whole cloth.

We are glad, however, to vouch for the reliability of the following from Mr. Wm. Lichtenwalter, proprietor of the largest printing house in Canton, Ohio, regarding the Pyramid Pile Cure, for which nothing is claimed except that it will cure any and every form of Piles.

"For several months past I have received so many inquiries from sufferers asking if my testimonial is authentic, that I am inclined to send in a bill to you for postage and stationery.

"It is now two years since I was last troubled, and my rectum is as clear and clean as any man who never had piles, although I suffered with protruding, bleeding and internal piles for twenty-seven years. I will not attempt to detail the agony I suffered, being too happy to say 'I believe I am cured, after two years of evidence.

"What will cure one man will sometimes not cure another; whether it was the Pyramid Pile Cure that cured me, I cannot say; but I have been free from piles for two years after using your treatment. I leave sufferers to draw their own conclusions.

"I will answer any communication that a sufferer may ask, and will refer to any business house, bank or manufacturer of Canton, Ohio, concerning my identity, among whom I have lived for forty-eight years."

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., upon receipt of price.

Drop this firm a card asking for their little book describing the cause and cure of piles.

TIMES ARE OUT OF JOINT

Kind Leopold's Reply to Address From Chamber of Deputies.

Recounts With Striking Distinctness the Recent Movements of Anarchists to Get Rid of Rulers—King Says, However, That They Will Not Succeed in Intimidating His Order—Daily Spins in an Armoured Automobile.

Brussels, Nov. 21.—King Leopold has ordered an armored automobile constructed for his especial use. It will be the first one ever built.

The King of Belgium is greatly alarmed at the recent attempt upon his life and as he is not troubled with an embarrassing amount of bravery, yet covets the pleasure of his daily spins with his horseless vehicles, he has decided to go automobiling under a protecting steel-lined cover.

The King was recently fired at while on his way to a memorial service in honor of the late Queen. Afterwards it was officially stated that as he was not really fired at, but that three shots were fired into the air to attract attention to the miserable condition of the man who fired them. This explanation is not believed.

Times Are Out of Joint.

King Leopold made a somewhat striking reply yesterday to a deputation from the Chamber, headed by the President, who presented His Majesty with an address of congratulation on his escape Saturday from the Anarchist Rubino's bullet.

After thanking the Deputies the the King continued:

"The times are very troubled. Agitators are constantly stirring up their followers to disturb that order which is the guarantee of public liberties. Without order only licence remains, which leads inevitably to despotism. These agitators find in their path firstly, the heads of states. If they fail to reach them, they attack their wives, as in the case of the horrible drama at Geneva. Their blows are also aimed at Ministers as in the case of Senor Canovas, and they also blow up the houses of private individuals.

"They want to intimidate us, but they will not succeed. Even if they struck down the head of the state it would make no difference, as he would soon be replaced. In addition to revolver shots they employ the pen, which can write what calumnies they please. I am nearing the end of my life. I do not know how long I shall live—how long they will let me live. But I can assure you that all the rest of my existence will be devoted within the limits of my constitutional powers to the good of my country, and the protection of its liberties."

WANTED TO SEE THE EMPEROR.

Crazy Man in Vienna Had a Revolver and a Magic Wand.

London, Nov. 21.—A special despatch from Vienna published yesterday announces that a well-dressed individual, evidently insane, accosted a sentry on duty at the entrance of the Hofburg at midnight and said that he was the Emperor's son Rudolph, and that he wished to see His Majesty. The stranger, who is said to be a merchant of Hamburg, was taken to the guard-room and searched. A revolver was found in his pocket and also a white stave, which he called his "magic wand." The man was committed to an asylum.

RESCUED BY SIR ARCHIBALD.

Lieut-Gen. Hunter's Alertness Saved the Kaiser to Germany.

Edinburgh, Nov. 21.—Emperor William, on his way to embark on board the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, lying in the Firth of Forth, arrived at Dalmeny yesterday and was met by Lord Rosebery.

As His Majesty's carriage was leaving the station the horses attached to it became frightened at the waving of the colors of the detachment of the Black Watch, forming the guard of honor. The postillions lost control of them, and they got mixed up in the crowd.

An accident was only averted by the alertness of Lieut.-General Sir Archibald Hunter who seized their head and managed to control them.

After lunch the Emperor boarded the Hohenzollern and sailed for Kiel.

TEN MEN DROWNED.

Petroleum Ship Wrecked on French Coast Near Cherbourg.

Cherbourg, Nov. 21.—A petroleum ship was wrecked on the French coast near here yesterday, and the entire crew lost. A gale was blowing and it was impossible to reach the vessel to learn its name until late in the afternoon, when she was identified as the Jeannette Fanny. She had a crew of ten men.

Repealed But Not Forgotten.

Pretoria, Nov. 20.—Martial law has been repealed throughout the new colonies to-day. The proclamation, however, announces that the authorities reserve the right to reimpose military rule in case of necessity. It provides for the expulsion of every one considered dangerous to the peace of the country and authorizes the arrest without warning, of any one suspected of sedition.

Battle of South African Rates.

New York, Nov. 21.—Rival steamship lines plying between New York and South Africa are waging a vigorous war in rates. To-day a ton of general cargo can be shipped to Cape Town for less money than a merchant can bring half a ton of potatoes to this city from the Carolinas. The rate on general cargo to the South African ports has been cut repeatedly, until now it is only $2.43 a ton.

The Better Way With a Cold.

When a slight cold fastens on you in early winter you are apt to regard it merely as an annoyance—not a thing worth serious consideration. You usually feel like taking something syrupy, with perhaps a touch of spirits in it, to warm you up and stop the cough. But there is a better way.

The cough, the red eyes and uncomfortable head are not the cold. They are only the symptoms. They are like the leaves of a weed sticking above ground. The surest way to get rid of them and prevent their sprouting again is to pull up the root.

You sometimes say, "This cold is all over me." Every cold you have is, to a certain degree, all over you. It is evidence of a slight general weakness. It usually steals in on you at a time when the body is a little below its normal tone and the surest way to get rid of it is to bring the whole system up to its right level.

You may need some medicine. Your doctor will know. But a mere expectorant will do nothing toward restoring the body to a healthy standard. At the best its action is merely local and gives only temporary relief. Scott's Emulsion does this and more.

A small quantity of the emulsion taken regularly for a few days will supply the lack of proper nourishment in ordinary food. It is rich in the substances of which healthy blood is composed, and makes itself quickly felt in the throat and bronchial tubes. It starts the flow of mucous and relieves an obstinate cough sooner than any expectorant will do.

The emulsion does more than rid you of a cough. It rids you of the cold which is the root of the cough. Still more, it helps to protect you against a return of the trouble and against its going deeper.

Scott's Emulsion is aptly termed a food-medicine. It contains the nourishing properties of the whole cod liver oil, emulsified and combined with the medicinal qualities of hypophosphites, of lime and soda. It is probably more widely recommended by physicians for use in coughs and colds than any other preparation.

So-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil do not contain the value of the whole oil and are worthless in cases where a pure reliable cod liver oil preparation is needed. Scott's Emulsion has been the standard for over twenty-five years.

We will send a sample free to anyone on request.

THE NEW COATS.

Some Are Made Without Collars—Velvet Trimmings.

One of the most sensible innovations in women's attire will be the making of coats this autumn without a collar band, and in fact high collars will be dispensed with. This allows dainty jabots and ties to be worn, and the fur or feather tie sits comfortably over the collarless coat.

The new coat sleeves are very desirable, as they are large and voluminous and caught in at the wrists, leaving wide frills to fall over the hands. These are wearable over the most elaborate dress sleeves.

SCHOOLGIRL'S COAT.

Velvet will again be fashionable for trimmings during the autumn, and very elegant effects are obtained by using beaver and mordore velvet on mastic pale fawn and antelope tints, a touch of brighter color appearing in the front. Handsome checked and plaid velvets are also used in Paris for boleros and vests. On a plain cloth gown a vest and undersleeves of lace plaid give quite a distinguished air.

A smart tailor made coat suitable for a young girl is here shown. The material is rough wool marked with a hair stripe and deep blue in tone. The collar is faced with deep blue velvet, and for trimming there is the gored ruffle set on cape fashion from under a strapping.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Private Railway Station.

Lord Barrymore, says The Westminster Gazette, is the only individual in the South of Ireland who possesses the luxury of a private railway station. The line between Cork and Queenstown runs directly through the most beautiful part of Lord Barrymore's lovely demesne at Fota, and of course somewhat disfigures the beauty of the place. By way of compensation the railway company undertook to build a railway station at Fota. No one can stop at this station without a written permit from Lord Barrymore or his agent.

Eczema and Itching Skin
DEFIED MANY EXPENSIVE REMEDIES, BUT WERE THOROUGHLY CURED BY
Dr. Chase's Ointment

It is a mistake to judge Dr. Chase's Ointment by the results obtained from the use of ordinary salves and ointments, for it is not to be compared with any preparation on the market to-day.

Some of these remedies give temporary relief, but they do not strike deep enough to eradicate disease. You need not be alarmed if Dr. Chase's Ointment causes a little irritation at first. This is necessary in order to root out the disease. When the cure is brought about the skin will be left smooth and clear, without scar or blemish.

Mr. C. Wiley, who is employed as cooper by the Kennedy & Davis Milling Company, Lindsay, Ont., states: "I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for eczema on my little girl some five years ago, and soon brought about a thorough cure. She had suffered for considerable time, and though we tried a great many remedies, Dr. Chase's Ointment was the only preparation to prove effective.

"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Ointment, as it certainly effected a prompt and permanent cure in this place.

Miss Levina Diotte, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes;—"I suffered with eczema for a year and a half, and tried all the remedies I could hear of, some of them costing considerable money, and not doing me good. I was enduring great torture, when I read an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and resolved to give it a trial.

"I began using Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has completely cured me. Though I do not need it any more, I keep a box in the house in case of emergency. I hope that people who suffer as I did may read this testimonial, and for this reason you have my permission to publish it. It is only just that such a good remedy for eczema and itching skin should be made known to those who suffer."

A Misunderstanding.

A tourist, passing along an English highway, was anxious to know the name of a large wood that lay just off the main road and appealed to a passing yokel for information.

"My man," says the traveler, "can you tell me the name of that wood?"

Yokel—Witchwood.

Tourist—That wood.

Yokel—Witchwood.

Tourist—Why, that wood over there. Are you blind?

Yokel—Witchwood.

Tourist—Are you drunk or mad or both. (Pointing.) That wood.

Yokel—I should think you be the mad un. (Departs chuckling.)

And it wasn't till the traveler looked at a map that he realized that the name of the spot was "Witchwood."—London King.

Unhappy Man.

Ah!

There is frost upon the window pane.

How my teeth chatter!

Yet with what merriment, what gladness of soul, do I go to the back door and drive away the man who has knocked!

For he is the iceman.

Alas, 'tis a short lived joy!

I go to the front door in answer to a ring.

The same man stands there.

"Did I not tell you to go away?" I ask.

"Yes," he answers, "but I just wanted to tell you that we have quit the ice business now and are selling coal."—Baltimore American.

No Advantage In It.

"Yes," said the postmistress at Podunk Corners, "I'm goin' to resign."

"Is the salary too small?"

"Oh, I never did take the job for the sal'ry, an' now there ain't nothin' else to it. Why, there ain't one person in twenty that writes on a postal card these days, an' the thin envelopes that you could see through has gone all out of fashion."—Chicago Post.

His Observation.

"Why don't you try to do something for your country?" asked the earnest citizen.

"Young man," answered Senator Sorghum, "I have read history, and I have observed that all of the troubles countries ever have are made by people who claim to be trying to do something for them."—Washington Star.

Not Inappropriate.

Church—I see it's the thing now for a man to have his initials on the back of his automobile.

Gotham—Yes; that is so one can tell who the fellow is who owns it.

Where Animals Are Blessed.

One of the most curious sights in the world is the blessing of the animals every year, on August 30th, in the city of Mexico. For weeks beforehand one hears of it as among the oldest, oddest, and most curious spectacles of that land of siestas and quaint customs; and as the day approaches, the entire neighborhood about the ancient church, where the ceremony takes place, assumes a festal air, with strings of many colored tissue paper, cut in shapes, stretched across the narrow streets, and stalks of carrizo—the Mexican bamboo—outlining the doors and low roofs of the houses.

The beasts, of course, do not enter the sacred place; they assemble outside in flocks and herds, a motley collection, an unequalled menagerie. They begin their journey early in the day, choking the streets and roads—horses, big and little, paper sashes about their bodies, their tails braided with ribbons, and manes intertrimmed with flaming paper roses.

Then there are cats and kittens, in long dolly dresses, and very frilly caps tied under their reluctant chins, their solemn round eyes staring unblinkingly out from under the frills; and birds galore—love birds, mocking birds, canaries, all in cages be-ribboned, and be-flowered.

But funniest of all are the chickens in peaked caps of paper tied also under their feathery chins—their sharp and beady eyes inside the paper ruffles being a very ludicrous sight. They are further dressed in paper cloaks of varied hue, and pink and green paper garters are tied about their wretched drumsticks in large bows.

Presently appears a white-robed priest inside. He spreads his hands in blessing for a moment, while an attendant holds aloft a silver crucifix; a burst of music from the state band stationed near—a pause, while the priest looks down solemnly on the multitude waiting below.

Then, taking a large brush, the priest fills it full of holy water, and sprinkles it far and wide, while the anxious owners below push, pull, hold up and thump their charges so that each may catch but a drop of the precious liquid. A few murmured words of blessing with palms outstretched, and the ceremony is over, only to be repeated after the lapse of a few moments over an even larger, pushing, forcing mass of heads and people, while those who have had their turn melt away on their homeward trip.

Book Once Owned by James I.

A volume once owned by James I. of England has recently been added to the treasures of the Boston Public Library. The book, given to the library by Augustus Hemenway of this city, was bought of Dodd, Mead & Co., of New York. It was printed in London in 1603 by Val Sims for Edward Blount. The book is unusually interesting because of the fact that it was the first translation into English of Montaigne's "Essays," and the undoubted source of Shakespeare's inspirations. There is another copy now in the British Museum, which has an autograph that has been attributed to the great dramatist. The copy in the Boston library bears the autograph and signature of the English King, who ordered the revision of the English version of the Bible and was called by his contemporaries "the wisest fool in Europe." The book was translated by John Florio, and each of its three "bookes" is dedicated to two women. The first "booke" is dedicated to Lucie, Countess of Bedford, and Lady Ann Harrington, her mother.—Boston Journal.

The Shah as a "Poet."

The following amusing story is told regarding the Shah's relations with his Poet Laureate. On one occasion the Shah read to him one of his own poems, and asked for his opinion.

"Even if I deserve your Majesty's anger," said the candid poet, "I must say that it is anything but poetry."

The Shah, feeling insulted, cried out to those who waited on him:

"Take this ass to the stable."

After a little while, becoming calmer, he tried the poet once more, this time with a fresh set of verses. When he had finished reading, the poet started to go away.

"Where are you going?" asked the Shah.

"To the stable, your Majesty," was the reply of the poet.

This time the Shah enjoyed the joke, and the poet was forgiven.

Bismarck's Coffee.

In a minor way the following little anecdote shows Bismarck's ability to shape his own ends. It is customary in the cheaper classes of German inns to substitute chicory for coffee. Bismarck was aware of this, so one day when he came to a small inn, after a long journey, he sat down and called the innkeeper to him.

"Have you any chicory?" said he.

"Yes, sir," returned the innkeeper.

"Well, bring all you have here to me!" ordered Bismarck.

The innkeeper was gone a few minutes, and returned with an immense armful of chicory.

"Is this all the chicory you have in the house?" asked Bismarck.

"Yes—all."

"Well, then," said Bismarck, "leave this chicory here and make me a cup of coffee."

The Hog the Packers Want.

Dr. C. D. Smead says that he went through a big western packing house and asked the packers what hogs they wanted.

"Black whenever we can get them!"

"Why?"

"Cut the carcass of a white hog midway between shoulder and ham, and the two parts will weigh about the same. The meat in front of the cut brings 6 cents, that back of it 10 cents or more. Cut the carcass of a black hog in the same way and over 60 per cent. of the weight will be back of the cut!"—Rural New Yorker.

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes; "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the billiousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Wedding rings in St. Kilda used to be made of worsted.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

A woman never knows where the match box is.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions, from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

BOOK BINDING.
Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

Business Principles

This store was founded for the purpose of making money—but making it honestly. In selling, no haggling is permitted; every garment has one price which is based on its cost, with a moderate allowance for selling expenses and profit. This price is never departed from.

No Misrepresentation

We permit no misrepresentation, either behind the counter or in the press. Our reputation is behind every advertisement we issue. A boy can buy at our store as cheap as the most clever man.

Money Refunded

We will return your money cheerfully—not grudgingly—if goods do not suit. Also, reparation is made if goods do not give satisfactory wear—we want no dissatisfied customers—once a customer always a customer, is our aim.

The Hamilton Times sneers at the members of the Belleville City Council because they refused a library donation from Mr. Andrew Carnegie before it was offered. We have always understood that Mr. Carnegie was ready to build libraries in all cities which agreed to spend a certain percentage of the donation yearly in keeping them up. There is hardly any doubt that Mr. Carnegie would assist Belleville in the same way he assisted other places if the city asked him. The editor of The Times knows that, but he dearly loves to take a crack at this Tory city. Be fair, Falstaff, old boy!

We don't know much about the School Teachers of Chicago, but should imagine that, whatever they may lack in the matter of qualifications, they amply make up for in nerve. It seems that the Windy City pedagogues lately formed a union and joined the Federation of Labor. Now the Secretary of the organization has issued the following remarkable statement:

"Now that the teachers are admitted to membership it is time that the Chicago Federation of Labor should begin a campaign for the abolition of the school board. That body serves no important purpose. It obeys the dictates of one set of men, and is useful only to the book trust. There is no reason why the men and women who manage the public schools should not be selected by the teachers themselves. They are far more competent to attend to the business now done by the board than are the members of that body."

There's a new idea with a vengeance. Abolish the school boards, and allow the teachers to make their own appointments, fix their own salaries, and make their own regulations. What a snap the teachers will have when the federation gets its programme in operation. "Everyone his own boss" will be the rule, and the duty of the public will simply be to pay the bill and look pleasant!

'CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been ; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

THE REFERENDUM.

The time has come when you may take
  The evil or the good;
I'd pray you, for your children's sake,
  Choose the right thing as you should.

The fourth of next December,
  Is the time they choose, no doubt,
To vote—so please remember
  It's your duty to be out.

Your action then you'll not regret
  When you get into trouble;
God's richest blessings will you get,
  Your pleasures will He double.

Lift up, lift up those struggling souls,
  And slay this cursed rum—
Let's help the men who it controls,
  And have the referendum.

O, men of Hastings, be advised
  As to your children's teaching;
Have you not long since realized
  You also need some preaching?

If you should for any reason
  From your duty try to run,
Just think of it as being treason
  To your God and to your son.

Do you for one moment think
  That drink is not a curse?
Does not your heart in pity sink
  For a man for liquor worse?

Why not this evil drive away
  And make it your chief mission
To gather men who say that they
  Will vote for prohibition?

We're Going

Going to double our Christmas trade of last year. Know we are, because the people have the money to buy while we have the best line of goods ever shown in Belleville before for Christmas, and our prices will be 25 per cent. lower than ever before.

WE ARE AS SURE

Of our Christmas trade as we are that we have the goods—can see the trend of business already—can feel it in every day business life. We are feeling it in the present wall paper trade, in our picture framing trade, in our stationery and book trade, and all this coupled with what we have to show will make business hum as it has not done for years past.

OUR GOODS

Are not of the far reaching kind, not those of the out of reach price, but the kind you want — choice, artistic, useful goods, at moderate prices

THAT PECULIAR CASE RE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

AN EXPLANATION WHICH DOES NOT SEEM TO COVER THE CASE.

The following letter has been received:

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—Attention was called in a recent number of your paper to a Christian Scientist who refused to allow his daughters to remain in the Deaf and Dumb Institute because the Superintendent would not promise that in case of sickness no medical doctor would be called. As the father seems to have been condemned for this course, permit me to state the exact circumstances, as I understand them:

Mr. McIntyre, of Sault Ste. Marie, when he made application to the Institute to have his daughters attend, was given to understand that he could have Christian Science treatment for them in case of sickness, if he so desired. On October 28th he brought them to the Institute, and left them, on the understanding that he could have whatever treatment he desired for them. He called again the next morning, to make final arrangements before leaving for home, and in accordance with the former understanding, asked that the Christian Scientist, with whom he had arranged to care for his daughters, should be called in in case of illness. This the superintendent refused to consent to. The father then stated that he would secure a private tutor for them, as he was very anxious to have them educated.

Yours respectfully,
C. R. MUNRO.

ED. NOTE.—Enquiry at the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb elicits the fact that "the exact circumstances, as Mr. Munro understands them," are not the exact circumstances at all. Mr. Munro has either been misled himself or is seeking to mislead somebody else. Mr. Matheson says the pupils in question were promised no special treatment when application was made for their entrance to the Institution, for the very good and sufficient reason that no one connected with it had the right to promise anything of the kind. They simply treat all children alike, according to the laws of the province, and at no time were privileges promised to Mr. McIntyre's daughters other than those granted to the children of an Anglican, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian or Methodist.

IRISH AS HE FOUND THEM

PROFESSIONAL AGITATOR NOT TYPICAL OF THE RACE.

London, Nov. 7.—Earl Cadogan yesterday entertained the tenants and employes on his Culford Estate, Bury St. Edmunds, on the occasion of the annual Harvest Home. He confessed that it was not without very great sorrow that he took his final departure from Ireland. He was glad once more to say that Lady Cadogan and himself would always remember with gratitude the great generosity and overwhelming kindness not only with which the Irish people received them during the time of their tenure of office, but with which they gave them a send-off which, he believed, had been unparalleled in Dublin. He would ask those who read the newspapers and heard about Ireland to remember that they must not take what they read of those who were supposed to represent Ireland at the present moment in England as representing the real type and model of the people of Ireland. There were no more warm-hearted people, none more kind, none more generous than the people of Ireland. Those representatives did not represent either the character of the Irish people, their feelings, objects, or desires, and he hoped his hearers would always keep in their hearts a generous corner for the people of Ireland, who, under the greatest difficulty and provocation, owing to the prevalence of agitators in that country, appeared, not only to England, but to all the nations of Europe, to be a people far worse than they were.—Pall Mall Gazette.

That Lead Pipe Story

The police yesterday investigated the story of the lad Sandford, who was caught with a considerable quantity of old lead pipe in his possession, and found that the lad had not stolen it, as was thought to be the case at first. The boy found the pipe on the commons off North Front street. After being examined the boy was allowed to go.

A SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentery, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures cramps, colic, pain in the stomach and sick headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

FIRST WIRELESS RECORD.

Longest Ever Transmitted by New Telegraphy Says Marconi, and It Was Received Without Difficulty.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 21.—Mr. Marconi, in an interview at Sydney yesterday, said: "Any remarks that I might make now, regarding my experiments would probably prove misleading, and I prefer to wait until my work is finished. The station here is not really completed yet. A portion of the machinery has not been adjusted, and some of it has not even been installed.

"The message received in Sydney harbor by the Carlo Alberto from Cornwall is the longest ever successfully transmitted by wireless telegraphy. It was received without any difficulty, but I can say no more about it, as my agreement with the Italian Government provides that they are to make public the result of all the experiments made on the Carlo Alberto.

"Since I came to Table Head a few improvements have been made in the sending and receiving apparatus, and we are now able to send at a rate of forty words a minute, while a year ago our best speed was sixteen or seventeen words a minute.

"Mr. Marconi expects to complete experiments here before he leaves for the Cape Cod station."

Best Cable in the World.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 21.—Messrs. Dearlove and Wittrick, telegraph engineers, who have been testing the Pacific cable for the Pacific Cable Board, returned last night from Bamfield Creek. His Many Thoughts.

"Don't you sometimes have thoughts," asked the soulful young thing, "that are absolutely unutterable?"

"I do, miss," answered the old poet. "And sometimes when I am digging for a rhyme that won't come I have thoughts that are absolutely unprintable."

Her Version of the Eden Incident.

"I suppose you regard Eve as to blame for tempting Adam to eat the apple?"

"Not at all," answered Miss Cayenne. "Eve was too generous to want the apple all for herself, and Adam was not gentleman enough to let her have it."

NOAH HALE FOUND DEAD.

Murderer of Son Likely Died From Exposure.

Sault Ste Marie, Nov. 21.—Some parties while out hunting north-west of the town came upon the body of Noah Hale, who murdered his son, Frank, on October 3 last. Judging from appearances parties finding the body say death must have taken place some time ago, and are inclined to think the cause was exposure and want of nourishment rather than suicide. His gun was also found with his body.

Have Quit Their Lairs.

Dublin, Nov. 21.—Mr. John Redmond, M.P., reached Dublin yesterday on his return from attending the convention of the Irish League of America in Boston. He received an enthusiastic welcome. Mr. Redmond, in response to the ovations, addressed the crowd from the balcony of the League's building. Referring to the recent split in the Irish party he said it appeared that under the guise of safeguarding Catholic interests some of the enemies of the Irish League were seizing the opportunity to quit their lairs and attack the unity of the party. The men concerned in this conspiracy, however, concluded Mr. Redmond, were men who could never claim the confidence or support of any section of the Irish people.

WILL BE NINE NEW M.P.'S.

To Be Introduced to the Speaker of House of Commons.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—It is likely that Mr. Macpherson of Vancouver will be the Liberal candidate in Burrard, B.C. The writ will be issued soon. The death of Angus McLeod, M. P., North Ontario, at Vancouver, B. C., leaves seven vacancies for the House of Commons. There is one vacancy in British Columbia caused by the death of Mr. Maxwell of Burrard. Two in Ontario, one by the death of Mr. McLeod, and the other in North Grey, due to the fatal accident of which Dr. Horsey was the victim. In Quebec there are three vacancies — Maisonneuve, Terrebonne and Argenteuil. Mr. Brefontaine represented the first two, and the death of Dr. Christie opened Argenteuil. The appointment of Mr. Flint to the clerkship of the House of Commons created the vacancy in Yarmouth. Two Mountains is practically vacant, and if the Yukon is included this will make nine new members who will have to be introduced to Mr. Speaker at the next session of Parliament. All these constituencies except North Ontario were held by Liberals.

Kingston, Nov. 21. — The election protests against J. S. Gallagher, M.P.P. for Frontenac County, and A. Barber, M.P.P., for Halton, were settled yesterday. No further proceedings will be taken.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

Upon Uncle Ephraim devolved the duty of giving her away, a thing which Aunt Betsy denounced as a "'Piscopal quirk," classing it in the same category with dancing. Still if Ephraim had got it to do she wanted him to do it well, and she had taken some pains to study that part of the ceremony, so as to know when to nudge her brother in case he failed of coming up to time.

"Now, Ephraim, now; they've reached the quirk," she whispered audibly, almost before Katy's "I will" was heard, clear and distinct; but Ephraim did not need her prompting, and his hand rested lovingly upon Katy's shoulder as he signified his consent, and then fell back to his place next to Hannah. But when Wilford's voice said: "I, Wilford, take thee Katy to be my wedded wife," there was a slight confusion near the door, and those sitting by said to those sitting in front that someone had fainted. Looking round, the audience saw the sexton leading Marian Hazelton out into the open air, where at her request, he left her, and went back to see the closing ceremony which made Katy Lennox a wife. Morris's carriage was at the door, and the newly married pair moved slowly out, Katy smiling upon all, kissing her hand to some and whispering a good-bye to others, her diamonds flashing in the light and her rich silk rustling as she walked, while at her side was Wilford, proudly erect, and holding his head so high as not to see one of the crowd around him, until, arrived at the vestibule, he stopped a moment and was seized by a young man with curling hair, saucy eyes, and that air of ease and assurance which betokens high breeding and wealth.

"Mark Ray!" was Wilford's astonished exclamation, while Mark Ray replied:

"You did not expect to see me here, neither did I expect to come until last night, when I found himself in the little village where you know Scranton lives. Then it occurred to me that as Silverton was only a few miles distant I would drive over and surprise you, but I am too late for the ceremony, I see," and Mark's eyes rested admiringly upon Katy, whose graceful beauty was fully equal to what he had imagined.

Very modestly she received his congratulatory greeting, blushing prettily when he called her by the new name she had not heard before, and then, at a motion from Wilford, entered the carriage waiting for her. Close behind her came Morris and Helen, the former quite as much astonished at meeting Mark as Wilford had been. There was no time for conversation, and hurriedly introducing Helen as Miss Lennox, Morris followed her into the carriage with the bridal pair, and was driven to the depot, where they were joined by Mark, whose pleasant, good-humored sallies did much towards making the parting more cheerful than it would otherwise have been. It was sad enough at the most, and Katy's eyes were very red, while Wilford was beginning to look chagrined and impatient, when at last the train swept round the corner and the very last good-bye was said. Many of the village people were there to see Katy off, and in the crowd Mark had no means of distinguishing the Barlows from the others, except it were by the fond caresses given to the bride. Aunt Betsy he had observed from all the rest, both from the hanging of her pongee and the general quaintness of her attire, and thinking it just possible that it might be the lady of herrin' bone memory, he touched Wilford's arm as she passed them by, and said:

"Tell me, Will, quick, who is that woman in the poke bonnet and short, slim dress?"

Wilford was just then too much occupied in his effort to rescue Katy from the crowd of plebeians who had seized upon her to hear his friend's query, but Helen heard it, and with a cheek which crimsoned with anger, she replied:

"That, sir, is my aunt, Miss Betsy Barlow."

"I beg your pardon, I really do. I was not aware——" Mark began, lifting his hat involuntarily, and mentally cursing himself for not observing who was near to him before asking personal questions.

With a toss of her head Helen turned away, forgetting her resentment in the more absorbing thought that Katy was leaving her.

The bell had rung, the heavy machinery groaned and creaked, and the long train was under way, while from an open window a little white hand was thrust, waving its handkerchief until the husband quietly drew it in, experiencing a feeling of relief that all was over, and that unless he chose his wife need never go back again to that vulgar crowd standing upon the platform and looking with tearful eyes and aching hearts after the fast receding train.

For a moment Mark talked with Morris Grant, explaining how he came there, and adding that on the morrow he too intended going on to Boston, to remain for a few days before Wilford sailed; then, feeling that he must in some way atone for his awkward speech regarding Aunt Betsy, he sought out Helen, still standing like a statue, and watching the feathery line of smoke rising above the distant trees. Her bonnet had partially fallen from her head, revealing her bands of rich brown hair and the smooth, broad forehead, while her hands were locked together, and a tear trembled on her dark eyelashes. Taken as a whole she made a striking picture standing apart from the rest and totally oblivious to them all, and Mark gazed at her a moment curiously; then, as her attitude changed and she drew her hat back to its place, he advanced toward her, making some pleasant remark about the morning and the appearance of the country generally. He knew he could not openly apologize, but he made what amends he could by talking to her so familiarly that Helen almost forgot how she hated him and all others who like him lived in New York and resembled Wilford Cameron. It was Mark who led her to the carriage which Morris said was waiting. Mark who handed her in, smoothing down the folds of her dress, and then stood leaning against the door, chatting with Morris, who thought once of asking him to enter and go back to Linwood. But when he remembered how unequal he was to entertaining any one that day, he said merely:

"On your way from Boston, call and see me. I shall be glad of your company then."

"Which means that you do not wish it now," Mark laughingly rejoined, as, offering his hand to both Morris and Helen, he touched his hat and walked away.

CHAPTER XI.

"Why did you invite him to Linwood?" Helen began. "I am sure we have had city guests enough. Oh, if Wilford Cameron had only never come, we should have had Katy now," and the sister love overcame every other feeling, making Helen cry bitterly as they drove back to the farm-house.

Morris could not comfort her then, and so in silence he left her and went on his way to Linwood. It was well for him that there were many sick ones on his list, for in attending to them he forgot himself in part, so that the day with him passed faster than at the farm-house, where life and its interests seemed suddenly to have stopped. Nothing had power to rouse Helen, who never realized how much she loved her young sister until now, when she listlessly put to rights the room which had been theirs so long, but which was now hers alone. It was a sad task picking up that disordered chamber, bearing so many traces of Katy, and Helen's heart ached terribly as she hung away the little pink calico dressing-gown in which Katy had looked so prettily, and picked up from the floor the pile of skirts just where they had been left the previous night: but when it came to the little half-worn slippers which had been thrown one here and another there as Katy danced out of them, she could control herself no longer, and stopping in her work, sobbed bitterly: "Oh, Katy, Katy, how can I live without you!" But tears could not bring Katy back, and knowing this, Helen dried her eyes ere long and joined the family below, who like herself were spiritless and sad.

A "Man of Steady Habits."

It was a very angry man who met an acquaintance on the street the other day. "I thought you told me that D. was a man of steady habits," were his first words following the usual salutation. "I said I required a man of absolutely steady habits, and you were very positive in your assurance that the man in question was such a one."

"Well, has he proved otherwise?"

"Why, man, he is drunk all of the time; in fact, I do not think he has drawn a sober breath since he has been with me."

"Then what are you jumping on me for? Your own statement bears out just what I told you about him. I have known D. for the past ten months, and I know that he has been drunk during all of that period, and if that isn't being a 'man of steady habits' I'd like to know what it is."

For Wounds From Rusty Nails.

Very often we read or hear of some one who has met with the accident of having a rusty nail thrust into his foot or hand, which frequently causes lockjaw. A writer supplies the following simple remedy, vouching for its efficacy, and certainly it might be tested without much trouble and no danger. It is simply to smoke thoroughly any bruise or wound that is inflamed with burning woolen cloth. It is said that twenty minutes in the smoke will take the pain out of the worst case of inflammation arising from such a wound.

PUTTING IT STRONG.

BUT DOESN'T IT LOOK REASONABLE?

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is CURABLE, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspeptics is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves or going to opposite extremes or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters," "after dinner pills," etc., which invariably increase tthe difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a REST. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is a great secret, and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy, but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach.

The sufferer from Dyspepsia, according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good, wholesome food and use the Tablets before and after each meal, and the result will be that the food will be digested no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be, because, as before stated, the Tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1.800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put with it one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as if the meat was enclosed within the stomach.

The stomach may be ever so weak, yet these Tablets will perform the work of digestion, and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made, because the much abused stomach will be given, to some extent, a much needed rest. Your druggist will tell you that of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

GRINDING CANADIAN GRAINS.

U.S. Milling Company Bonded in $30,000 to Use Only Our Wheat.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 21. — The Washburn-Crosby Milling Company of Minneapolis bonded its Humboldt mill yesterday for an indefinite period, to grind nothing but Canadian wheat. The bond demanded by the customs officials and given yesterday is for $50,000. The custom heretofore prevailing was to ship the grain of the Canadian Northwest bonded through the United States to Liverpool. The grinding of the grain in Minneapolis instead of in England will create a great saving in the expense of transit to Europe.

A bond of $30,000 was also given at the customs house yesterday by the Great Eastern Elevator Company of Minneapolis for the storage in Minneapolis of Canadian oats. This grain eventually will be ground into oatmeal in this State by some mills yet to be designated and used entirely for export business.

British Delegates at Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—The delegates from the London Chamber of Commerce arrived here at 7 o'clock last night. The following gentlemen are in the party: Sir Albert K. Rollit, LL.D., D.C.L., M.P.; Lieut.-Gen. J. Wimburn Laurie, M.P., chairman of the Canadian Trade Section of the Chamber; H. C. Edwards, K.C., M. P., chairman National Safety Deficit Company; James Dixon, ex-chairman General Ship Owners' Society; W. P. Wood, president of the London Chamber of Arbitration; F. Faithful Begg, chairman of the West Australian Trade Section of the Chamber; Major G. Flood Page, member of the Council of the Chamber; John Hume, chairman of the Textile Section of the Chamber; J. Y. Henderson, chairman of the British Wood Pulp Association; Kenric B. Murray, secretary of the Chamber and of the Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire. The distinguished visitors were greeted at the depot by the entertainment committee. The civic reception and banquet will take place to-day and tonight.

C.P.R. Brakeman Crushed.

London, Nov. 21.—James Pembroke, a C. P. R. brakeman, was crushed between an engine and a freight car at Tilbury Station Wednesday afternoon. He was brought to London, and taken to his home in the ambulance. It will be some weeks before he recovers.

Coal $13.50 in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Nov. 21.—The price of coal yesterday was $13.50 per ton, and the prospects at present will warrant its remaining at that figure. The quantity received in the city since the strike was declared off is about 25,000 tons short of the supply of the province.

$35,000 in Pianos Burned.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Shortly before 6 o'clock last evening fire broke out in some waste paper in the basement of George L. Orme & Sons' big music store on Sparks street, and in an hour damage variously estimated from $125,000 to $140,000 was inflicted. The building was one of the finest in the city. The great loss is in the stock. Besides some $35,000 worth of pianos, Orme carried an enormous stock of the finest English and European violins, band and other instruments.

MINERS' LIVES SHORTENED

Expert Medical Testimony Before Coal Commission.

Ninety-Nine Per Cent. of Men Who Work in Mines Are Anaemic—One Physician Knew of a Man Coughing Up Coal Dust Nine Years After Leaving Mines—50 Per Cent. Have Rheumatism After 50 Years of Age.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 21.—The economic and sociological features of the anthracite coal industry and the effect employment in and about the mines has upon the health of the mine workers were the principal subjects brought before the arbitration commission yesterday by the attorneys of each side to the controversy.

The afternoon session was paticularly interesting because it brought out much expert testimony on the question of the health of the mine workers. Three physicians who have practiced in Scranton or Wilkes-Barre took the stand for the miners and in substance testified that the occupation of a mine worker was "very unhealthful" and shortened his life.

One physician, Dr. Frank P. Lennahan of Wilkes-Barre, who says he has had a long experience among mine workers, testified that fully 99 per cent. of the men who work in the mine are anaemic. Their health is impoverished, and their general condition is below par, thus decreasing their earning powers. The principal ills suffered by the miners, the physicians said, were the miner's asthma, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica. The miner's asthma comes from the coal dust, powder smoke and vitiated air.

Dr. John C. Malley of Scranton said that at post mortems he had seen miners lungs as black as anthracite itself, and Dr. Lennahan testified he had personal knowledge of a man coughing up coal dust nine years after he had left the mines. It was also stated that 90 per cent. of miners who reach the age of 50 years are afflicted with some form of rheumatism.

Will Not Interfere.

Hazelton, Pa., Nov. 21.—Miners employed by A. Pardee & Co. will go back to work, agreeing not to interfere with non-unionists.

Should Raise the Boycott.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The machinery builders' section of the Trades' Assembly, representing at least two-thirds of the local trades' union men, met last night and by a practically unanimous vote decided that the assembly, at its next meeting, should raise the boycott against the Schenectady Railway Company. This practically guarantees the boycott being called off.

FORTY-EIGHT IN IRONS.

Mutiny Breaks Out in U.S. Captured Spanish Gunboat.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The Isle de Luzon, one of the Spanish gunboats captured at Manila by Admiral Dewey, is en route to New York with forty-eight of her men in irons. The vessel, which has been doing guard duty in the Philippines for about three years, started recently for New York, proceeding from Manila, via Singapore. Advices received indicate that on the trip to Singapore some of the machinery worked badly, creating a panic among the crew and causing a mutiny. The result was the placing of forty-eight of her crew in irons.

Ross Memorial Hospital.

Lindsay, Nov. 21.—The Ross memorial hospital was formally opened here yesterday afternoon. James Ross of Montreal, the donor of the splendid institution, was present accompanied by Mrs. Ross and his son, Mr. John Ross. At 1.30 o'clock Mr. Ross and party entered the building, which Mrs. Ross unlocked with a golden key, the gift of the Board of Governors, who presented Mr. Ross with an address on the steps of the building. Mr. Ross in reply confirmed the members of the board in their office and formally transferred the hospital to their control. The total cost of the building and its equipment approaches $75,000, and is wholly borne by James Ross.

G.T.R. Across Continent.

London, Nov. 21.—A good deal of comment was caused yesterday by the published announcement that application is being made to the Dominion Parliament for powers to authorize a company in alliance with the Grand Trunk to construct a railway from some point on the Grand Trunk line to the Pacific coast. The Pall Mall Gazette anticipates that the Canadian Pacific Railway will succeed in killing the scheme, as it killed others before.

Third Hospital Victim.

Montreal, Nov. 21.—Miss Gobeille's now famous sanitarium claimed its third victim yesterday morning in J. B. Van Allen of Morrisburg, Ont., formerly of Cookstown, Minn. A couple of months ago he entered Miss Gobeille's establishment and fasted for 15 days, claiming after the expiry of that period to have been much relieved. An inquest will be held.

Sir Wilfrid's Birthday.

Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 21.—Telegrams were received yesterday from all over the Empire congratulating Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his 61st birthday. Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier were given an informal reception yesterday afternoon by Mrs. S. Barton-French, who was educated at Oxford.

Late Mr. Maxwell Buried.

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—The funeral yesterday of G. R. Maxwell, M. P., was one of the largest ever held here.

"THE ORNAMENTAL NUTMEG."

A wooden nutmeg,—a pictured peach,—or a shoddy shoe,—may be so finished as to rank with "Works of Art."

But all three are strictly ornamental!

They are made to sell—not made to use.

Reliable leather would be wasted in shoes with such a purpose.

The Slater shoe has wear for its first purpose, and so uses such leather for its uppers and soles, as will ensure creditable service.

It is a "Conscience Shoe," and the Makers could not shirk responsibility,—since every pair is sold with their own valuation, stamped on the soles in a slate frame, viz. $3.50 and $5.00.

NEW PRINCIPAL FOR QUEEN'S COLLEGE

REV. DR. GORDON, OF HALIFAX, WILL BE DR. GRANT'S SUCCESSOR.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 20.—The principalship of Queen's University, rendered vacant by the death of the late Principal Grant, has been filled. The new head of the university will be Rev. D. M. Gordon, D.D., of Halifax.

At a recent meeting of the Committee appointed to deal with the question of the principalship, of which Mr. Justice Maclennan is chairman, it was decided to extend a call to Rev. Dr. Gordon. A message has been received from Dr. Gordon, accepting the trust, and the appointment will be formally ratified at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the university on December 5th.

There is no more popular minister in Nova Scotia than Dr. Gordon, and none whose departure from Halifax will be more deeply regretted. He is a polished pulpit orator, and an accomplished worker in the professor's chair, which he has occupied at the Presbyterian College, Halifax, for the past eight years.

Rev. Dr. Gordon was born in Pictou fifty-seven years ago, his father having come from Sutherlandshire, Scotland. He was educated at Pictou Academy, and at the Universities of Glasgow and Berlin, graduating M.A. at the former university in 1863, and D.D. in 1866. He was ordained to the ministry in the same year, and returned to Canada and took up his first pastoral charge in the Town of Truro. Then he was called to Ottawa, and in 1867 was inducted into the pastorate of St. Andrew's Church in that city. From Ottawa he went to Winnipeg, and for five years he was minister in Knox Church. While in Winnipeg he was also chaplain of the 90th Battalion of Rifles, and saw service during the Riel Rebellion, for which he received a medal. In 1887 he came to Halifax in response to a call from St. Andrew's Church. Seven years later he resigned his charge in St. Andrew's to accept an appointment as professor of systematic theology and apologetics, a chair which he has since continued to hold. He took an active part in promoting the union of the Presbyterian churches in the Dominion. He received the degree of D.D. from Glasgow University in 1895, and in 1896 he was elected moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. His wife was Miss McLennan, of Charlottetown. He has a son in the Presbyterian ministry.

Picton Times: Rev. Mr. Drumm, of Belleville, addressed a meeting under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor in the lecture room of St. Andrew's church on Wednesday evening. The subject of his lecture was: "A birdseye view of the books of the New Testament." It is seldom that the truth is presented so clearly, instructively and inspiringly as by Mr. Drumm last evening. Those who were present would like to have the opportunity of listening to him oftener.

"A SIN AGAINST GOOD TASTE"

TORONTO PAPER SO CHARACTERIZES A RECENT INCIDENT IN THE QUEEN CITY.

(Toronto Telegram.)

A toast to the King is not more inevitable at a family gathering of Roman Catholics than at a family gathering of guests at a wedding feast.

Banquetters could have honored the toast to the Pope and to his representative, and such Protestant friends as Hon. G. W. Ross and Mayor Howland could either have stayed away or attended unofficially.

There is no desire to force recognition of the principle of State supremacy upon the organizers of banquets or weddings or other festivities of a private nature. The trouble is that the promoters of the Falconio banquet went out of their way to subordinate the State to the Church, and the toast list which placed the Pope before the King was an offence against good taste.

Hon. Justice MacMahon, who proposed the toasts, was in a less difficult position than Hon. G. W. Ross or Mayor Howland. He, the King's Justice, was put in the position of honoring the head of his own church before he recognized the sovereign of the State which claims his allegiance. Hon. G. W. Ross and Mayor Howland were put in the position of honoring a foreign potentate in preference to their own King.

The whole incident may be unduly magnified and there would have been no difficulty at all if the toast to King Edward had been left off the list. The State need not have been represented at a demonstration of religious enthusiasm for a church dignitary. The gathering over which Hon. Justice MacMahon presided might have been organized and carried out as the private tribute of Toronto Roman Catholics to the Pope, whom they delight to honor. The State need not have been officially represented. The make-up of the toast list would then have been a matter of no public concern. It is a matter of public concern that Hon. Hugh MacMahon proposed the toasts to the Province of Ontario and the city of Toronto to publicly assent to the principle that the State must recognize the supremacy of the church.

DESERONTO DOINGS

THE DEATH OF MR. EGAR—MONTREAL FIRM FITTING UP THE POST OFFICE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Deseronto, Nov. 21.

A sad event at which all Deseronto is mourning took place here on Wednesday night by the death of Mr. W. Egar. Although Mr. Egar had been ill for a month with inflammatory rheumatism, it came as a great blow when it was learned on Tuesday that no hopes were entertained of his recovery. Hundreds of anxious friends besieged the house for the latest news and when it became known that he had passed away all felt that they had lost a personal friend. The deceased was a member of St. Mark's Church, and one of the most earnest workers. In politics he was a Conservative, good-hearted and generous, with a cheery word for everyone. He leaves behind him a record that many a greater man might envy. He leaves a widow, a daughter and a son, who, is at present in Toronto hospital, having last week been operated on for appendicitis, and is therefore in no condition to be told of his father's death. The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon at half-past two, at St. Mark's Church and thence to the cemetery.

S. Burrows, of Belleville, has been in town for several days this week.

A large fleet of coal laden vessels have called at this busy port this week.

A SURE CURE FOR CONSTIPATION

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentery, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures cramps, colic, pain in the stomach and sick headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

SOUSA'S MOTHER-IN-LAW

MRS. BELLIS, ONLY 18 YEARS OLD, IS ALSO A STEP-GRANDMOTHER.

Atlantic City, N.J., Nov. 21.—Henry Bellis, a wealthy retired photographer of this city, is married to Miss Matilda Farthing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Farthing, who live in St. Charles' place, the fashionable thoroughfare. The groom is 74 years old, vigorous mentally and as spry as a college graduate. The bride is not more than 18, pretty and jovial. Mr. Bellis began to pay attention to the girl last summer, but the children of Mr. Bellis were inclined to object to her. They did not like the idea of having a stepmother. The parents of the girl, too, demurred. But when the marriage was announced yesterday all became reconciled. The nuptials were performed quietly in Camden on Nov. 5th. Through this marriage John Philip Sousa, the famous bandmaster, who is a son-in-law of Mr. Bellis, has been provided with a mother-in-law 18 years old, who is the grandmother of his several grown-up children, two of whom are as old, if not older than their grandmother.

OLDEST MEMBER OF AN OLD FAMILY DEAD

MR. HENRY ALLISON, OF ADOLPHUSTOWN, PASSES AWAY.

Napanee Beaver: The old township of Adolphustown, and indeed this whole county, has lost one of its oldest and best known native residents in the death of Henry Allison, which occurred at his residence, the old family homestead, on Tuesday, the 11th inst. He was born on the old family homestead, which has been occupied by the Allison family ever since the first U.E. Loyalists came to this county in 1784, and lived on that well known farm the entire seventy-seven years of his life. After the American revolution the family, which was a large one, got very widely scattered in the States and Canada. In the Maritime provinces as well as pretty generally throughout Ontario, the family is now well represented. The deceased was a kindly and neighborly gentleman, a man of more than ordinary industry, intelligence, information and ability, always deeply interested in the early history of the Midland District and of Adolphustown. He was a son of the late Joseph Allison, J. P., for many years a prominent citizen, taking an active interest in the moral educational and religious progress of this country. The deceased was also a member of the Methodist Church and of the Liberal party. He was a man of staunch and liberal views. His surviving brothers are, David W., ex-M.P., and formerly a warden of our County Council; Joseph, an ex-reeve of Adolphustown; Edward, Port Perry. Surviving sisters are, Mrs. Rev. Briden, of Kingston; Mrs. Lewis Brown, of Adolphustown; Mrs. Nelson Mallory, of Mallory's Point, Adolphustown. He married a daughter years ago, of the late Solomon Wright, of Fredericksburg, and their two sons, Harry, of Conway, and Fred, who resides on the old homestead, survive him. There are also a large number of respected and influential relatives well-known throughout this county. It may be here remarked that the late Mr. Allison took considerable pride over the fact that there stood on his farm probably the oldest barn in the county, having been built by Mr. Secord, a carpenter, who soon afterwards was interested in the building of the Major Vanalstine grist mill before 1800, at Glenora, which was said to have been the first flour mill in Prince Edward county. Few families have occupied so long a prominent position in municipal and political affairs, in church and educational matters than that of which the deceased was a respected member.

A LITTLE TYRANT

THE TROUBLE NOT DUE TO ORIGINAL SIN.

There is no tyrant like a teething baby. His temper isn't due to original sin, however; the tyrant suffers more than the rest of the family. He don't know what is the matter. They do. The trouble is they do not always know what to do for his lordship. An Ontario mother writes to tell what is best to do "When my baby was teething," she says, "he was so cross and restless that I hardly knew what to do with him. He had a poor appetite and ate but little and was growing thin. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and they made a great change. He now rests well; has a splendid appetite, and gives me no trouble at all." This is the experience not only of Mrs. D. K. Schroeder, of Hanover, Ont., but also of thousands of mothers all over the Dominion. A baby teething is cross because his blood is heated and his little bowels constipated or unhealthily relaxed, and his system heated by the effort of getting the teeth through the gums. Baby's Own Tablets act like magic not only in this, but in all ailments of little ones. Sold by druggists or sent post paid at 25 cents a box by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

THE STORY OF MORNING TIREDNESS

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you a sharp appetite, promote good digestion and sound sleep; it will feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigor, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. Price 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50 at druggists or J. S. McKeown's.

TIMELY TOPICS.

There is considerable comment on the fact that at the Toronto banquet in honor of Mgr. Falconio the Pope came first on the toast list, and the King second. This is the order commonly observed at public functions in Quebec, where they sing the Marseillaise oftener than God Save the King, but there is absolutely no excuse for an incident of that kind in Ontario. No self-respecting Protestant would willingly wound the feelings of a Roman Catholic fellow-citizen, but it should not be forgotten that in Canada all creeds are alike. It would have been better to have left the King's name off the toast list altogether than have relegated him to second place. In this free and enlightened province of Ontario His Majesty King Edward should not be allowed to take second place for anybody.

Whether prohibition carries or not it can safely be said that these are dark days for Ontario. Perhaps the sun refuses to shine because so many of Ontario's fair daughters are getting married.

IT WAS TOO MUCH.

(Chicago Tribune.)

A dignified matron called at a newspaper office the other morning and asked:

"Is the editor in?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered a man sitting at a table.

"You had an account in your society column this morning," she said, "of a reception last evening of Mrs. Perrycord's."

"I believe we had."

"I know you had. I am Mrs. Perrycord. I have called to thank you for the excellent manner in which it was written up. There was not a single misstatement in it, from first to last. You had the name of every person who was present. Every name was spelled correctly, except one or two, and it was our mistake that you had those wrong. I wish you to know that we appreciate all this, and that I have no fault whatever to find with—"

Here she stopped. The editor had fallen into a faint.

People all over town are talking about the busniess we are doing. That's good. CHARGED WITH SELLING TO MINORS

CASES IN THE POLICE COURT THIS MORNING.

The fact that several dealers were up in the Police Court this morning, charged with selling cigarettes to minors, was evidently a matter of great interest to the general public, for the attendance of spectators was so large that the enquiry had to be held in the Council Chamber instead of the Court room.

His Worship Mayor Graham occupied a seat on the bench with Magistrate Flint.

Several shop-keepers were charged with selling cigarettes and tobacco to minors, they being represented by counsel.

A young man was charged with procuring tobacco and giving the same to boys.

Several boys testified that they had purchased tobacco at the stores of some of the parties charged.

At 12.30 the court adjourned till 2 o'clock.

The case gives promise of being a long one, as we understand that thirty-three boys have been summoned as witnesses.

The defendant's contention is that he was compelled to employ other help at higher wages than that given Wilson, hence was at a loss. Judgment reserved until Tuesday next,

"Eminently Proper"

Picton Gazette: Belleville, through its City Council, has declared against having anything to do with Mr. Andrew Carnegie as a library donator. This is eminently proper, as the people of Canada have no claims upon the bounty of the multi-millionaire, and they ought not to place themselves in the position of mendicants. Picton has established a free library on its own account, and we are glad to find Belleville is about to perform a similar action.

HANGED PROFESSING INNOCENCE.

Henry Rose Dealt With in Nelson, B.C., by Radcliffe.

Nelson, B. C., Nov. 22. — Henry Rose, who murdered John Cole, near Nakusp, B.C., in June, was hanged here yesterday morning at 8 o'clock by Official Executioner Radcliffe. Rose, who was convicted on circumstantial evidence, strongly asserted his innocence of the crime, and his statement to this effect shortly before suffering the death penalty was read to the assembly by Father Alehoff of the Roman Catholic Church, who attended Rose to the scaffold. In it Rose bade good-bye to all his friends, and forgave all who had anything to do with placing him in his present position. The execution went off without a hitch.

Got a Partial Defeat.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The Government sustained a partial defeat in the Chamber of Deputies last night on a Socialist proposal to grant amnesty for misdemeanors committed in connection with strikes, for which proposers demanded urgent consideration. M. Truuilot, the Minister of Commerce, in the name of the Government, opposed. The House voted urgency for the measure by 311 to 244, and referred it to a committee.

Montreal, Nov. 22.—A special meeting of the Bank of Montreal shareholders has been called for Jan. 7 next, when three propositions will be submitted by the directors for approval. As to Cattle Trade.

London, Nov. 22.—When Rt. Hon. W. R. Hanbury, president of the Board of Agriculture, was questioned Thursday as to the rumor that the time limit between the landing and slaughtering of imported cattle was to be extended, he assumed a discreet ignorance of the matter. There is reason to believe, however, that the authorities on the Board of Agriculture have under consideration certain circumstances which may lead to an extension of the time by ten days, making twenty days in all.

For Montreal Dry Dock.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The Government has decided on recommendation of Hon. Messrs. Sutherland and Prefontaine, to appoint a commission of three engineers to make investigations and report as to the nature and location of the proposed dry dock for Montreal. There is a sum of $250,000 available for this work, being the balance of $700,000 set apart for the improvements in the east end of Montreal. The Department of Public Works or the Department of Marine will appoint on engineer, the second will probably be Mr. Kennedy, engineer to the Harbor Commissioners, and the third will be chosen outside.

With the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles

(From a Correspondent.)

Corporal Bushfield, who served with the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles in South Africa, and who is now a student at Albert College, and also a sergeant of the 15th Regiment, gave an address in the University Church last night, which greatly delighted the audience. The lecturer made his subject realistic by having on the platform the tent he lay under when he got a chance, the pot in which he cooked his food, with a fire under it, and the water boiling. The veldt was represented by sod from a neighboring field. His diagram of the Hart's River engagement on a blackboard was also illustrative. His address was by all odds the best description our citizens have had of campaigning in South Africa, and ought to be given in the City Hall or opera house. The corporal wore his khaki uniform with rifles, bandolier, haversack, water bottle, etc. The Rev. Professor Doxsee moved and ex-Alderman W. H. Gordon seconded a vote of thanks, which was enthusiastically given.

Mr. Wm. Johnson was chairman.

TEN YEAR TERM FOR GENTILE

Italian Counterfeiter Tried and Sentenced in Toronto.

The Prisoner Makes a Statement—Particulars of His Swift Conviction—Anson Raymond and His Wife Committed For Complicity in Stuart Case—How a Remark of Ethel Raymond Gave a Clue to the Detectives in the Stuart Case.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Swift justice was meted out in the Police Court yesterday to Joseph Gentile, alias Salvatore Clementi, the Italian counterfeiter. Gentile was convicted and sent to the Kingston Penitentiary for ten years.

Detective William Davis told of the arrest and the seizure of the plant. Detective Flynn, the United States secret service officer, was called next. Flynn, who is qualified in the United States courts as a coinage expert, described Gentile's plant bit by bit. "The plant," he said, "was very similar to the one he had in New York."

No evidence was offered for the defence. Mr. Robinette wanted a remand, but this was promptly refused. Then Gentile made a statement from the dock.

The Crown went on then with the charge of making Canadian money. The evidence in this case was the same as in the other.

"You found no moulds for Canadian coin?" asked Mr. Robinette of Davis.

"No."

Mr. Robinette argued that there was no evidence that the Canadian coins were the work of Gentile. The magistrate held that there was evidence, and asked for record testimony. Gentile served eight years for counterfeiting in the United States.

On the lesser charge of making foreign coins, Gentile was given the limit of three years in the penitentiary. For making Canadian coins he was sentenced to ten years, the two terms to run concurrently.

Raymonds Sent For Trial.

Magistrate Denison committed Anson Raymond and his wife, Elizabeth, for trial on the charge of knowingly having William Stuart's counterfeiting plant in their possession. The case will be heard at the December Sessions. The bail of Mrs. Raymond was renewed. T. C. Robinette, K.C., intends to make an application to Judge Morgan this afternoon for bail for Anson Raymond.

Detective James Forrest described to the magistrate what transpired at the Raymond House on the night of Stuart's arrest. The officers had been shown to a room, said by Raymond to have been that of Stuart. They found nothing that would make evidence against their prisoner, but later a remark made by Ethel Raymond led them to suppose that they were not in Stuart's room at all. A search was instituted, which resulted in the finding of the plant. Corroborative evidence was offered by Detective Duncan and Policeman Guthrie.

George W. Sinclair, an expert engraver from New York, said the printing presses and plates could be used for nothing else than the making of counterfeit notes. The photographic plates, he said, were not the usual negatives, but were positives. The ordinary negatives would print a bill the wrong way about. George Kirkpatrick of the Assistant-Receiver-General's office swore that the notes found were forgeries.

"Why was not Ethel Raymond's evidence put in?" was asked of Crown Attorney Curry.

"She has gone away. She is in Buffalo."

Sleep Disturbed

BY SUDDEN STARTINGS AND JERKING OF THE LIMBS—RESTLESSNESS AND WAKEFULNESS SYMPTOMS OF NERVOUS EXHAUSTION.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Twitchings of the muscles of the face, sensitiveness to light, sound and motion, grinding teeth during sleep, continual moving or tapping of the fingers, neuralgic headache, sparks before the eyes, disorders of sight and hearing, and feelings of discouragement, languor and despondency are other indications of a weak and exhausted nervous system.

Plenty of people put up with these symptoms, in the vain hope that they will pass off and that old-time health and vigor will return. Alas, nervous disorders do not right themselves.

Nervous prostration and collapse, epilepsy, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, and even insanity itself are but further developments of nervous exhaustion. The symptoms mentioned above come as a warning to you to rebuild the wasted nerve cells, and rekindle the vital spark of nerve energy, which is fast becoming depleted.

Mrs. Woodstock, East Moira street, Belleville, Ont., states: "I was so very nervous and my system so exhausted that at times I would take severe dizzy spells, which made me stagger and at other times I had splitting headaches. In fact my health generally was being undermined by my trouble. I got a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after having used this preparation for some time I am pleased to say that my nerves are strong and steady, the dizziness is gone and the headaches are a thing of the past."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is composed of nature's most powerful restoratives and nerve invigorators; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

In Humanity's Name

I Ask You to Tell Me a Sick One Who Needs Help.

No money is wanted. I ask simply a postal card stating which book to send. I will do all the rest, and accept all the risk, to see that your friend gets well.

I will even do this:—I will mail the sick one an order—good at any drug store—for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds, it costs $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

I do that so that those who need help will accept it.

I have what those sick ones must have to get well, and I want them to have it. I make my offer so fair that no sick one can neglect it.

I do just as I say, and trust the cured ones to be fair with me. I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands on those terms, and 39 out of each 40 have paid gladly, because they were cured. I want not a penny otherwise.

My Restorative is my discovery, the result of my life-time's work. I have personally tested it in thousands of cases as difficult as physicians ever meet. In my vast experience I have so perfected it that it does not fail, save when a cause—like cancer—makes a cure impossible.

My success comes from strengthening the inside nerves. Common treatments merely doctor the organs, and the best results are but temporary. My treatment restores the nerve power which alone makes those organs act. It is like giving a weak engine more steam. Any weak vital organ does its duty when given the power to act, and there is no other way to make weak organs well.

No other remedy strengthens weak inside nerves, and for this reason there is no other treatment for chronic diseases which any man will offer on a plan like mine.

Please tell me who needs a remedy like that.

Simply state which book you want, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 69, Racine, Wis.

Book No. 1 on Dyspepsia.
Book No. 2 on the Heart.
Book No. 3 on the Kidneys.
Book No. 4 for Women.
Book No. 5 for Men (sealed)
Book No. 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is sold by all druggists.

FIVE NEW CHARGES.

Liberals Want Them Added to List Against Donald Sutherford.

Toronto, Nov. 22. — At Osgoode Hall yesterday additional charges were filed by the Liberals in the South Oxford case. There are five new charges made, and application will be made to-day to have them added to the 107 already filed. The trial will be taken up again on Dec. 1 at Woodstock. The late additional particulars are as follows:—

That the respondent, through W. H. Nesbitt of East Oxford, agent of the respondent, and through other agents, unknown, gave a railway ticket and paid the traveling expenses of W. E. Haines of East Oxford, a school teacher, to go to Burgessville and vote for the respondent or to refrain from voting.

That J. E. Weston, Tilsonburg, an agent of the respondent, forgave payment of an account due from Eli Barnum of Tilsonburg, a voter, in order to induce him to vote for the respondent or to refrain from voting.

That at the Mount Elgin House, Dereham Township, the respondent, through Basil Glynn of Mount Albert, an agent, and through other agents, names unknown, illegally furnished whiskey, drink, refreshments and other entertainment at the expense of the respondent and of Basil Glynn, and a meeting of electors treated or contributed to cost of treating John A. Morrison, Burton Hugill, Bert Miners, William Corbett, Austin Miller, Juitt Smith, Milton Pollard, John Pollard, George Prouse, Augustus Cornfoot, Wm. Daniels, George House and Josiah Miners, all of the Township of Dereham and all voters in that district, and to other voters whose names are at present unknown, in order to corruptly influence such voters to vote for the respondent or to refrain from voting.

That William Fleming promised $5 to Amos Sackrider, farm laborer, North Norwich, to induce him to drive a rig on election day for the purpose of bringing voters to vote for the respondent and to induce Sackrider himself to vote likewise.

That Stephen King of Ingersoll, merchant, an agent, gave railway tickets or money to purchase railway tickets to two electors at Beachville, whose names are unknown, in order to proceed from Ingersoll to Burgessville by electric railway to vote for respondent.

That Wm. Fleming of the Township of North Norwich, agent of the respondent, gave or promised to give money or valuable consideration to Thos. Sackrider of North Norwich, farmer, to vote for the respondent or to refrain from voting.

OPPOSED TO LAND GRANT.

Walter Scott, M.P., Will Not Support Medicine Hat Railway.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—James Bicknell, barrister of this city, wrote a letter some days ago to Walter Scott, M. P., asking him to use his efforts to have the Dominion grant a renewal of the lapsed land subsidy to the Medicine Hat Railway and Coal Company of 6,400 acres per mile. In reply. Mr. Scott says he cannot approve of the land grant in question to the railway. He says, in part: "I am aware, as you state, my constituents at Medicine Hat are anxious to see the road constructed, and the coal field opened, but at the same time I believe that a majority of them would disapprove of the payment of so extravagant a subsidy as an equivalent to, at the lowest calculation of present land values, $20,000 per mile. I am quite ready to work for the granting of the ordinary cash subsidy of $3,200 per mile, if such would be likely to procure construction, and am confident that further than this my constituents at Medicine Hat would not ask me to go."

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes; "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the billiousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 68 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Wedding rings in St. Kilda used to be made of worsted.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

SOME MEANINGLESS AND DANGEROUS RETURNS.

Canada is prosperous! This is the oft repeated message of the Government's subsidized press. Week after week we read it. And in all probability we are enjoined to bow down and return thanks to the Government, which in its mercy, has permitted Providence to smile on our broad acres, covering them with harvests plenteous beyond compare.

But pause a moment! Is Canada as prosperous as she might be? Has the Government done its share to heighten our progress? We are informed in an offhanded sort of way that Canada is all that can be desired, and that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Ministers are devoting their every effort to the development of our resources. To convince us that such is the case, an array of statistics, ever appearing in the same form, is offered for our consideration. We are told that this month the duties collected were so much more than for the corresponding period last year, and that our imports are going up by leaps and bounds.

Can such evidence be accepted as convincing? Is it a true measure of success, that the country is growing rich as the result of the collection of duties on goods which should be made in this country? Thoughtful men say not. It is fallacious to maintain that large receipts mean an equal measure of National progress. Close up every factory in Canada and you will soon swell the Customs receipts. It is as plain as A, B, C, that where home industry is declining or at a standstill revenue ever manifests itself. So that after all the robust returns of our customs are rather to be discouraged.

If not, we must be prepared to rejoice, that from 1897 to 1902, our imports from four foreign countries increased in this alarming way:

	1897	1902.
United States	$61,649,041	$120,809,956
Germany	6,493,368	10,814,029
France	2,601,351	6,670,778
Great Britain ...	29,418,188	49,215,693
Total	$100,155,948	$187,510,456

We find that the increase in our purchases from the four leading sources of supply, to which we look for manufactured goods reached the enormous dimensions of $87,354,508. And according to the monthly returns issued by the Government the adverse figures are still piling up. And this enormous increase in the sales by outsiders in Canadian markets primarily means, not the prosperity of which we hear so much, but the employment of thousands of American, German, French and British workmen at the expense of our own Canadians. That we purchased $187,510,456 worth of their wares in 1902 is a matter of grave concern. For were we to produce the goods in our own factories there would be employment for thousands of our own people who now labor abroad.

It is no benefit to us, therefore, that foreign factories are busily engaged in supplying our wants, and the rapid increases in our customs revenue and the value of our imports are only indicative that such is the case. If the Government wishes to successfully encourage our national growth, the inauguration of a policy which will insure Canadians the privilege of supplying their own wants should be their first care. That is what the Conservative policy of "adequate protection" aims to accomplish.

MR. DOOLEY ON THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

(With apologies to P. F. Dunne.)

"I see," said Mr. Dooley, "that the lasht will and testyment of the Public Library will soon be before the ratepayers in the shape of a by-law to give the institooshun to you and me, Hinnissy, and the rest of the byes."

"Is it a free gift?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"Not exactly," said Mr. Dooley, "but the only proviso, as we find Mr. Carnaygie would say, is that we spind on it a matther of half a mill on the dollar a year, amounting to about $1900 plunks per anyum. Jist think uv that, Hinnissy, for the smaall matther of half a mill we get a collection of four thousand volumes, rangin' from the Rise and Fall of the Dutch Raypublic down to the latest love story be May Agonies Fleming. Ivery man, woman and child, Hinnissy, will thin be able to revel in the green fields of po'thry and the plisant groves of Parnashus, and all for half a mill a year. Deseronto, Hinnissy, has passed just such a by-law."

"They have more mills down there than we have," said Mr. Hennessy.

"Thrue," said Mr. Dooley, "but what has money, Hinnissy, to do wid culcher, in this enlightened age? 'Tis not settled that we will pay 1900 plunks a year jist because we agree to do it. Me frind the Mayor, Hinnissy, says the library can be run on 800 dollars per anyum, though we agree to pay 1900 jist to show we are not stingy."

"Will ye vote for the by-law?" said Mr. Hennessy.

"I will that," said Mr. Dooley. "I belave in readin', Hinnissy. Readin', as me friend the P'leece Magistrate would say, makes a full man."

"I'll jine the Library at once," said Mr. Hennessy.

On December 4, only one week from next Thursday, the referendum vote will be taken. There seems to be a large amount of uncertainty about this matter. In some cases the uncertainty amounts to absolute ignorance as to what is meant by a vote of yes on no. Men speak of voting for the referendum or against the referendum, seemingly not knowing that the referendum is only a means to an end. The referendum was settled by Hon. Geo. W. Ross and his Government, and the people were not, and are not, consulted in the matter. The question to be submitted to the electors is this: "Are you in favor of bringing into force The Liquor Act of 1902?" A vote yes will bring that act into force; a vote no will leave things as they are

• • •

The next question, of course, is, What is the Liquor Act of 1902? Stated as briefly and succinctly as possible it is this: The Act proper consists of two distinct parts, the first providing for the method of taking the vote, which will be by the ordinary system of ballot used in Ontario, and the second for outlawing the sale of intoxicating drink as a beverage. When the vote has been taken the first part passes into history, being then obsolete and valueless, and the second part becomes a permanent statute, if endorsed by a sufficient number of votes. Clearly, it is on the second part that the interest of the electors' centres. This completely forbids the sale of intoxicants for beverage purposes within the Province of Ontario. No more licenses will be issued for bar-rooms or shops. It does not prohibit manufacture, export or import, because these acts do not come under the authority of the Province, and can be dealt with only by the Dominion Parliament. But the Act provides regulations for storing, warehousing, and transporting the liquor, calculated to prevent either the consumption or disposal of liquor within the Province. It does not interfere with private rights or private hospitality; but excludes all public buildings, places of business, offices, boarding-houses, lodge-rooms, clubs or even private houses where there is disorder, from keeping or giving intoxicants.

• • •

The sale of liquors for use in the arts, for medical and for sacramental purposes, is permitted and licensed. Only a regular druggist may take out a license, and then must observe strict regulations. He must make frequent periodical returns of all sales, entering every sale in a poison book. Applications for liquor, whether from a manufacturer, or clergyman, or on a physician's prescription must be filed where they are practically public property, open at all times to the inspection of anyone. His license may be cancelled on first violation of law, and is cancelled without further action on second violation. A druggist who is refused a license for cause, or has his license cancelled, cannot apply again for three years.

• • •

Adequate penalties are an important feature of a statute, and the penalties provided by this act, as well as the methods of administration, are as follows: The administration is laid directly upon the responsible minister, who is the chief law-officer of the Crown for the Province, the Attorney-General. There is no divided responsibility, no convenient commissioners to hide behind. The Inspectors for Ridings, and the chief Inspector for the Province take direction from the Attorney-General, and are his subordinates. Not less than $200, nor more than $1,000 and costs, is the penalty for the first conviction. A second conviction cannot be settled by a fine, but calls for not less than six months, nor more than one year in jail. A party who sells or gives liquor, which causes loss or death, may be proceeded against in civil action for damages.

• • •

The above is a clear, straightforward summary of what the people will vote on on December 4, and, should provincial prohibition be carried, it will come into force, or at least the Act so provides, on May 4, 1904, just one year and six months after the taking of the vote.

Beautiful Goods

This expression has been heard about our window and in the store very often during the past week, by those in quest of Wedding Gifts.

And apt remarks they are too.

We have recently added some brand new designs in Sterling Silver and rich Cut Glass which must be seen to be appreciated.

While some of the articles are somewhat costly we show smaller pieces at $2.00, $3.00 and $5.00 which make very acceptable gifts.

'CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been ; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

"PRESENT" — NO COMPLAINTS.

There are men in every battle whom the bullet nearly missed,
There are others — born unlucky—in each casualty list ;
There are officers and Tommies who are game to face the foe,
But the backbone of the army is the N. C. O.

To his officer he's nothing, a Tommy just superior ;
To Tommy he is nothing, an officer just inferior ;
But the man who in the crisis will the way to glory show
Is the man who does his duty as an N. C. O.

In barracks and at home the autocrat of barrack square,
Well brushed, clean shaven, pipeclayed, the first on duty there ;
At early seven o'clock parade, doing duty as C. O.,
The wide-awake commander is the N. C. O.

Who's always ready, "No complaints, all present, and correct,"
Who keeps the field-state properly, and can the men inspect
Before the officer arrives—who's the starter for each blow
From officer or private ? Why, the N. C. O.

There are fools who wear the stripes, and other fools with none,
And sometimes fools commissions get, but when all's said and done
There are fewer men incompetent before high heaven to go
For doing all their duty than the N. C. O.

In the field the chevron's hidden by the rules that stand to-day,
But the sergeant does his duty, with precious little pay ;
If a company be noted as they into battle go,
It's the captain gets promoted—not the N.C.O.

But supposing Captain Somebody should tumble in the strife,
It's Sergeant Someone Else who volunteers to save his life ;
He's quick to fill his captain's place, and if the ranks should show
An awkward gap, he just steps back—an N.C.O.

Encouraging, or bantering, or swearing now and then,
He keeps the force together, teaching officers and men ;
And neither—men nor officers—quite see what Britain owes
To her corporals and sergeants—her N. C. O.'s.

But they do their duty steadily, from enlistment to the grave,
They snatch a doubtful victory, and a situation save ;
They're the men who do the thing while others only gas and blow—
There are "no complaints" while present is the N.C.O.

DON'T BE A RUBBER

— On Washing Day.

It is the obstinate dirt that lodges in the pores of the fabrics, and simply won't come out with common soap that makes rubbing necessary.

That's the particular kind of dirt HUDSON'S DRY SOAP is after. Obstinate Dirt.

It does what ordinary soap cannot do, follows the dirt right into the warp and weft of the goods, dislodges it, leaves the garment sweet, and clean, uninjured, and all with little or no rubbing. The steeping over night does the work.

The use of HUDSON'S DRY SOAP means cleaner Clothes, less wear and no tears and less frequent washing. It means this to you.

TO SETTLE MINERS' STRIKE

Miners and Owners Make Attempt Outside of Commission.

Ten Per Cent. Increase in Wages, a Nine-Hour Day and Trade Agreements Between Miners and Individual Companies For the Basis of Proposed Negotiations—Proposal Said to Have Come From the Operators.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 22.—The Mine Workers, through their representatives, have agreed with the mine owners to attempt to adjust the differences existing between them outside the anthracite coal strike commission. The proposition was made on a compromise basis, and negotiating, it is expected, will be at once entered upon, with a reasonable hope of settlement with the aid of the arbitrators.

The rough proposition, which is to form the basis of negotiations, is a ten per cent. increase in wages, a nine-hour day, and trade agreements between the miners and the company, by whom they are employed. The only one of the four demands not touched upon is that of weighing coal by the legal ton.

While both sides have expressed a willingness to settle their differences among themselves, it is not to be construed that it carries with it the acceptance of the terms proposed. They are mentioned only as a basis, it is understood, from which a settlement is to be effected.

It is possible that the foundation already laid can be wrecked by either party holding out too strongly against some question, and thus leave the whole matter in the hands of the commissioners, who, in the meantime, will act as a sort of board of conciliation, rather than as a board of arbitration.

Few persons were aware that an attempt would be made at an outside settlement until it was practically so intimated by Judge Gray, chairman of the commission, who read a carefully prepared announcement from the "bench." The move, one of the most important in the whole history of the coal strike, created a sensation when it was known.

It is believed that the operators were the first to make the proposition. Wayne MacVeagh, who carried on the cross-examination of President Mitchell, is given credit for bringing about the present situation. He went to New York after he finished with Mr. Mitchell and had a conference with certain persons connected with the coal industry, among them, it is reported, J. Pierpont Morgan. He was in New York yesterday in connection with the matter.

The commissioners were informed of the new turn of affairs Thursday night, and acquiesced in the proposed arrangement.

Strike to Aid Mine Mules.

Washington, Ind., Nov. 12.—Sympathy for the mules that toil in the coal mines caused all the men employed in mines Nos. 2 and 3 to go on a strike yesterday. Nearly 300 men are involved. The men claim that, for some time, the company has not been properly caring for the dumb animals, that the mules are often put to work without having been curried, fed or watered. This was the condition of affairs yesterday, and all the men laid down their picks and walked out. They have notified the company that they will not return to work until the operators agree to give the animals better treatment.

I.C.R. Telegraphers Satisfied.

Montreal, Nov. 22.—The I. C. R. telegraph operators express themselves as well satisfied with their interview with General Manager Pottinger, although no details of the arrangement reached have yet transpired.

CONNECT WITH ALGOMA CENTRAL.

C.N.R. Surveying Route From Fort William to White River.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The Canadian Northern Railway has sent out two surveying parties from Fort William to locate a route from there to White River, where, if the extension were carried out, it would meet the Algoma Central, which, running north from Sault Ste. Marie, is completed to within five miles of White River. If the C.N.R. should push its line to the White River, the work will be completed about the same time as the North Shore and Manitoulin Line. This would mean that, by the junction of the two lines, the former could get into Ontario over the Algoma Central.

The British Delegates.

Toronto, Nov. 22. — The delegates from the British Chamber of Commerce were about early yesterday and spent the day very profitably inspecting industrial works and visiting many of the principal public buildings. The visitors were accorded a hearty welcome in the Council Chamber at the City Hall, and complimentary speeches were made. After the formal reception the deputation accepted His Worship's invitation for a "quiet smoke" in his office.

The banquet tendered the delegates of the London Chamber of Commerce by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association last night, proved the highly successful affair that was anticipated. About two hundred and fifty were in attendance, representing every commercial and professional branch of the community. Minister Paterson and Hon. J. I. Tarte were among those present.

Fifty at State Banquet.

Windsor, Nov. 22.—A State banquet of fifty covers was held in Windsor Castle last night, among the guests of the King and Queen being the King of Portugal, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, the Duke and Duchess of Fife, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, and Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and Mrs. Mrs. Chamberlain.

A TRYING TIME

IS THE PERIOD WHEN YOUNG GIRLS ARE MERGING INTO WOMANHOOD.

Marked by Pale Faces, Heart Palpitation, Loss of Appetite and General Lassitude—How to Overcome This Condition.

After babyhood, the most perilous time in a young girl's life is when she is just entering womanhood. It is then that she is subject to headaches, dizziness, heart palpitation, feeble appetite, and bloodless cheeks and lips. This condition may easily develop into consumption, and to prevent this—to keep the young girl in good health and strength, mothers should insist upon their taking a blood making tonic, such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Henry McIntyre, Port Dalhousie, Ont., gives sound advice to other mothers in cases of this kind. She says: "About three years ago the health of my daughter, Bertha, began to fail. She grew weak and seemed unable to stand the least exertion. She suffered from distressing headaches, and fainting fits; her appetite left her and she lost flesh. I spent much money on medicines, but they did not help her. Then I took her to a doctor, and although his treatment was persisted in for a long time, she seemed to be growing worse, and I began to fear she was going into consumption. Then I took her to a specialist, but his treatment was likewise unsuccessful. Finally upon the advice of a lady friend, a doctor practising in Chicago, Bertha began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and before long there was a decided improvement in her condition, and by the time she had taken nine boxes she was once more enjoying the best of health and had gained fifteen pounds in weight. I would strongly advise all similar sufferers to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, as her case seemed as hopeless as could be."

All weak and ailing girls and women, sufferers from backache, headaches, indisposition to work or exercise, who show by their pale and sallow checks that they are in ill health, will find prompt relief, bright eyes, rosy cheeks and active health in a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can obtain these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail, postpaid, at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Never accept anything else which a dealer may say is "just as good."

Stoned by a Mob.

Belfast, Nov. 22.—Mr. Russell, the Unionist member of Parliament, was stoned by a mob after he had addressed a meeting at Dromore Thursday night. The rioters attacked the hall where Mr. Russell had made his speech, and caused him to seek refuge in a neighboring house, whence he tried to escape in a carriage. The mob discovered him and bombarded the vehicle with stones. Mr. Russell was struck on the head, but was not seriously injured.

Pope's Time Not Come.

Rome, Nov. 22.—At a reception of 500 Piedmontese pilgrims yesterday the Pope jocularly referred to the unfounded rumors Thursday, of his indisposition, adding: "My time has not yet come. We have many things to accomplish before death."

TRIED TO KILL SWEETHEART

C. A. Darlington, an S.A.-Canadian, Then Shot Himself.

The Suicide Left a Letter Bequeathing His Body to Doctors of University Hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich., and His Effects to Friends—Said He Was Insane and Eternally Lost—Love to Mother—The Girl Will Recover.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 22.—Because Bertha Sheldon allowed another man to escort her home Thursday night from the store where she is employed, C. A. Darlington, a packer for the Ann Arbor Organ Company, and a student in the University School of Music, shot her in the arm yesterday, and then shot himself to death. Darlington and she had quarrelled over the episode. The young man came here from Strathcona, Alberta. He served with Canadian soldiers in the South African war. He was about 24 years of age.

Miss Sheldon's wound is not dangerous. Darlington took a prominent part in Y.M.C.A. work here, and was extraordinarily zealous in the cause of religion.

Suicide Left a Letter.

A letter was found in the Teufel yard, where the shooting took place, after the shooting. It was signed "Darlington," and read:

"Nov. 21. 1902.

"Notice.—Please do not send my body home. Give it to the doctors of the University Hospital. My musical instruments are to go to G. F. Gordon. My books are to be given to the Young Men's Christian Association. My clothing and other belongings are to be taken by Edward. Keinschindt. My gold locket and gold watch to go home. I am insane as ever a man was and eternally lost. To all my friends and dear ones, good-bye. Love to my darling mother."

AT FIRST GLANCE

IT WOULD APPEAR THAT LOCAL REMEDIES WOULD BE BEST FOR CURE OF CATARRH.

It would seem at first glance that catarrh being a disease of the mucous membrane, that salves, sprays, etc., being applied directly to the membranes of the nose and throat, would be the most rational treatment, but this has been proven not to be true.

The mucous membrane is made and repaired from the blood, and catarrh is a blood disease and any remedy to make a permanent cure must act on the blood, and when the blood is purified from catarrhal poison, the secretions from the mucous membrane will become natural and healthy.

In this climate thousands of people seem scarcely ever free from some form of catarrh; it gets better at times, but each winter becomes gradually deeper seated, and after a time the sufferer resigns himself to it as a necessary evil.

Catarrh cures are almost as numerous as catarrh sufferers, but are nearly all so inconvenient and ineffective as to render their use a nuisance nearly as annoying as catarrh itself; anyone who has used the douches, sprays and powders will bear witness to their inconvenience and failure to really cure.

There are a number of excellent internal remedies for catarrh, but probably the best and certainly the safest is a new remedy, composed of Red Gum, Blood Root and similar antiseptic remedies and other valuable catarrh specifics.

This remedy is in tablet form, pleasant to the taste, and sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and anyone suffering from catarrh may use these tablets with absolute assurance that they contain no cocaine, opiate nor any poisonous mineral whatever.

A leading druggist in Albany speaking of catarrh cures says: "I have sold various catarrh cures for years, but have never sold any which gave such general satisfaction as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. They contain in a pleasant, concentrated form all the best and latest catarrh remedies, and catarrh sufferers, who have used douches, sprays and salves, have been astonished at the quick relief and permanent results obtained after a week's use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets." All druggists sell full sized packages for fifty cents.

A DARING HOLD-UP.

Man Shot in the Neck by a Desperate Highwayman at Toronto Junction.

Toronto Junction, Nov. 22.—This town was thrown into a fever of excitement about 11 o'clock last night by one of the most daring hold-ups ever known in this vicinity. The scene of the shooting was on Keele street nearly in front of the police station, and within a stone's throw of Dundas street, where cars are turning every six minutes.

Charles Mutart, a clerk in the C.P.R. freight office, and John Shaw, local manager of the Standard Coal Company, were accosted by two men, at the point mentioned, and asked if they knew certain residents of Toronto Junction. Then without any further warning the taller of the two pointed his revolver and grasped Shaw. The other man, and the younger of the two, covered Mutart, saying: "You better give up."

Shaw wrestled with his man and struck him under the chin. Finding considerable resistance to his plans and fearing that a crowd would gather he ran down Keele street. The younger man then shot at Mutart, the bullet hitting him on the left side of the neck, passing along the lower side of the jaw bone, injuring it somewhat, and passing by the cartoid artery came out at the back of the neck, passing through his shirt band and the collar of his coat.

The highwayman then shot at Shaw, the bullet passing through his clothing, breaking a button of his vest and coming out through the lapel of his coat. The murderous individual then ran down Keele street, and through a lane, which runs into Union street.

Robert Patterson was driving past, and Constable Harper, who lost no time in getting after the fleeting highwayman, hailed him. Both the highwaymen had lost their hats in the scuffle, and the constable had an excellent clue. Three cars passe-him when he heard a man running along the sidewalk. When the runner got within four feet of the telephone pole, behind which the constable had hidden, Harper jumped from his hiding place and sprang upon the man, grabbing him by both shoulders.

The man reached for his revolver, Haper struck it from his hand, and managed to take him to the lockup.

To Constable Harper the prisoner said his name was Mike Griffin, but to Deputy Chief Fintoff he gave the name of Hugh Johnson. Griffin is about 27 years of age. His revolver was a 38 long make, and capable of carrying 500 yards with accuracy.

Killed by a Train.

Sarnia, Nov. 22.—Thursday night the St. Clair Tunnel was the scene of a shocking accident, by which Pasquale Coticon, an Italian, whose home is in Montreal, was almost instantly killed be being struck by a train, as it was coming through the tunnel. His legs were severed from his body, close up to the trunk, and he was otherwise terribly cut and bruised. Deceased was aged 34 years.

Died of Buckshot Wounds.

Telluride, Col., Nov. 22.—Arthur L. Collins, general manager of the Smuggler Union Mining Company, who was shot by an unknown assassin Wednesday night at Pandora, died yesterday. He was born in England 33 years ago. In consequence of the murder, the mining company has closed its mines and mills indefinitely. The company employed between 400 and 500 men.

He Drank Prussic Acid.

London, Nov. 22.—A collision occurred on the Great Eastern Railway at Brentwood yesterday. Forty persons were seriously injured.

VILJOEN IN THE DUMPS.

South Africans Have Lost Hope—Kruger Did Wash.

London, Nov. 22.—Gen. Ben Viljoen, who is going on a three months' lecture tour to the United States, said yesterday: "The South Africans depend entirely upon the British. My commando, now idle, and in which were once included many Americans, offered itself to Lord Roberts for service against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland, and I would have commanded it, but Roberts declined the offer, with thanks. I am doubtful as to the outcome of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's visit to South Africa."

With regard to a letter written by Sir Evelyn Wood, the former Adjutant-General of the British army, on Mr. Kruger's Book of Memoirs, in which the British general alleged that the Boer President slept in his clothes, and did not wash himself, which rendered proximity to him unpleasant, General Viljoen characterized the statements as ungentlemanly, uncalled-for, and untrue.

Gen. Botha Very Ill.

London, Nov. 22. — Boer General Botha, who has been suffering from a severe cold for several days, passed a restless night. His condition is serious but hopes for his ultimate recovery are entertained.

ONLY KING'S FAVORITE.

Uproar in Chamber of Deputies in Spain Against Sagasta.

Madrid, Nov. 22.—As the uproar in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday evening, caused by the attack of Senor Romero Robledo on Premier Sagasta continued, the Premier withdrew and the President of the House closed the sitting amid protests from the members of the Opposition, and cries of "there is no Government."

There was a stormy sitting in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday. After a speech by Premier Sagasta, in which he expressed surprise at the interpretation which had been given to the recent Ministerial crisis, Senor Romero Robledo reproached the Premier with his political antecedents. He declared that Senor Sagasta was not the leader of a party, but the favorite of the King, a statement which occasioned an angry debate. The Spanish Cabinet resigned Nov. 10, and after considerable difficulty Senor Sagasta, Nov. 14, formed a new Ministry, which took the oath of office Nov. 15.

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

It is declared that 5,000 natives were killed in the volcano eruption in Guatemala.

Albert Bardwell, 6 years old, one of the five Guatemala volcano refugees, who arrived at San Francisco on Wednesday, has been run over and killed by an electric car.

A Danube steamer, crowded with workmen, sank off Orsova (a frontier town of Servia, on an island in the Danube), Thursday evening. Thirty of those who were on board were drowned.

A street car pitched into a rig belonging to the Magee Walton Ice Co. in front of the Y.M.C.A. building, Hamilton, Friday evening. Moses Furlong, the driver, was thrown from his seat and his arm was broken.

The Osborne estate bill, providing for the transfer of the Osborne House estate, Isle of Wight, from King Edward, whose property it became, under the will of the lat Queen Victoria, to the nation, passed its second reading in the House of Commons, Friday, after some criticism reflecting the feeling on the subject in royal circles.

Argentine Accepts British Law.

London, Nov. 22.—The President of the Argentine Republic has sent a telegram, in which he accepts the conditions named by the Right Hon. Robert William Hanbury, President of the Board of Agriculture, under which Argentine cattle may be imported into England. These conditions are that Argentina shall adopt the British Diseases of Animals Act, inspect her own flocks, and prohibit the moving of infected animals from the districts in which they are located. It is expected that this will result in the importation of cattle from Argentina within three months, and that it will materially affect the importations from America.

Kidney Pains Relieved.

If anything prevents the urine from being discharged from your kidneys, if germs should attack the urethra and inflame the kidney ducts so that some of the urine is retained in the kidneys, inflammations and congestions set in, and you have a sore back, neuralgic headaches, and you suffer the severe pains usual with kidney trouble.

MRS. BURKE'S HISTORY.

"I would consider myself very ungrateful if I did not give you my testimonial to the wonderful curative powers of Powley's Liquified Ozone. I have been troubled for over four years with severe kidney trouble, and suffered intense pain at times. I could scarcely straighten up after being in a stooping position. I tried every known remedy, but received little or no relief. About the middle of August I was induced to try Ozone. When I had finished one bottle I was much improved, and the pain began to leave me. After taking six bottles I was entirely cured, and to-day I am in better health than I have been for years.

"I can cheerfully recommend Ozone to all women sufferers from kidney trouble or female weakness."

(Signed) MRS. WM. BURKE,
28 Adeline St., Montreal.

THOS. P. ANTLE.

"I have suffered from kidney disease for many years and although I have tried many remedies, and have been treated by several doctors, I have never received any permanent relief. I began taking Ozone, and I am pleased to say that I feel like a new man. You are at liberty to publish this, as it may induce some other sufferer to try it."

(Signed) THOMAS P. ANTLE, 30 Church Ave., St. Verdun, Montreal, P. Q.

Powley's Liquified Ozone destroys the germ life, and by stimulating the kidneys restores their natural action. It is remarkably successful in curing kidney disorders, so successful that it is taking the place of older and less effective treatments. Ask the drug man about it—he'll tell you what it does.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SEASON.

(Chicago News.)

I love the rose that bloometh in its yellow, red or white.
Thy hyacinth, whose fragrance fills the senses with delight,
The velvet-petaled pansy and the aromatic pink;
The daisy and the dahlia, too, are fair to see, I think.
For hollyhocks and tulips I've a special weakness, and
I always did consider the nasturtium was grand.
But adjectives run out, and I am simply stricken dumb,
Confronted with the glories of the gay chrysanthemum.

The sweetness of the william, the alyssum and the pea,
Of color irrespective quite, must still appear to me.
A little bunch of violets or a sprig of mignonette
Will send me into ecstacies: the modest violet
(A modest little dollar for the bunch they are just now—
A luxury my means, alas, will by no means allow),
Affords me (as I can't afford it, owing to the sum),
A joy—but still I much prefer the gay chrysanthemum.

I love its drooping petals, long and slender, bright and fair,
Of coleslaw reminiscent—or a virtuoso's hair.
In rich and flaming orange, or in purple's royal hue,
In snowy white, in crimson, or some combination new;
Its stem erect and stately and its leaves of restful green.
Of all the flowers blooming it's the bloomingest, I ween.
Its smell I can't say much for, but I'm glad its time has come,
For I am really daffy on the great chrysanthemum.

VOL. 36. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1902 NO. 172

YESTERDAY IN CITY CHURCHES

Rev. Mr. Real Preached on "Is the Young Man Absalom Safe?"

Notes of Services in Belleville's Different Places of Worship Yesterday

Holloway St. Church.

At Holloway St. Church yesterday morning the Pastor, Rev. J. R. Real, preached an earnest and impressive sermon relating to the temperance agitation which is being waged at present throughout this Province. His text was from 2nd Samuel, 18th chapter and a portion of the 29th verse:

"Is the young man Absalom safe?"

These words, said the preacher, were used by King David, and they referred to his son Absalom. The young man was of a fine physique, well liked, but was worldly in his ambition. He was the son of a wealthy King, and had lavished upon him all that wealth could procure. He was, however, an undutiful son, and sought to supersede his father. He formed a scheme to overthrow his father, and seize the crown for himself disregarding the commandment which was written on tables of stone on Mount Sinai, "Honor thy father and mother that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God hath given thee." No son or daughter can disobey that commandment without evil following. Absalom commanded an army and fought against King David's army with the result that he was slain, and the words of the text were addressed by King David to the messengers, who brought in word of the battle. His conduct led him to ruin and death. Why was King David so anxious about his unfilial son? Because he was a true father and retained an intense love for his son. With all his faults David still had strong affection for Absalom. Why are parents to-day anxious about their children, and especially their sons? Because there are so many temptations in their pathway and many have fallen a prey to these temptations. As long as there is sin in the world there will be temptations and a constant conflict will be going on between the flesh and the spirit. One of the great evils and temptations to young men to-day is the liquor traffic. Some of the brightest young men of the day are becoming victims of this temptation and are being dragged down and down, and are being lost not only to society, to which they might be an ornament, but to the church. How Christian parents can remain indifferent on this great question of temperance is more than can be understood. The duty of all, the preacher said, was to vote for prohibition on the 4th of December in order to have the temptation of strong drink removed from our midst. Those who neglect to do this will have an awful charge to answer. For every murder, robbery, or other crime which is committed as the result of strong drink, we will be to a great extent responsible, if we do not do our duty in this matter. "Is my son safe?" should be a question which all thinking parents should ask and answer it with their votes for a prohibitory law. There are scores of men who have lost all power to conquer the awful appetite for strong drink, and it is our duty to assist these by helping to remove the temptation from them. Thank God there is even power enough in Him to save the drunkard. One of the curses of the day was the treating system and this will be removed if the Christian voters do their duty. It will strike a blow which will kill the system. This question is the most momentous one ever presented before the electors of this country. What is going to be our vote upon it? Every person who does not vote is virtually giving a vote in favor of the continuance of the traffic. In concluding his sermon the Rev. gentleman made an earnest appeal to all to do their duty in this matter, and the country, he said, would be saved and their skirts cleared of responsibility. God would honor their action and the victory obtained would be for right.

At the close of the sermon Miss Ethel Grills sang, most effectively, the hymn "Where is My Wandering Boy To-night?"

Bridge Street.

The "World's Temperance Sunday" was yesterday fittingly observed in this place of worship, and sermons in keeping with the temperance movement were given by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Crothers. Large congregations were present at both services. In the morning the subject discussed was "The Present Crisis," and in the evening the subject was "The True Church." The text in the evening was from Deuteronomy, 33rd chapter and 29th verse. Special music was furnished by the choir and at both services solos were rendered by Miss Wheler.

Baptist.

There were good congregations present at both services yesterday, which were conducted by the Pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott. In the evening the Rev. gentleman gave an able and earnest sermon, the subject being "The Dangers of Unbelief." Three texts were used and discussed by the divine.

Bleecker Avenue Church.

Rev. M. J. Bates officiated at both services yesterday. His evening discourse was in reference to the coming referendum, the text being 2nd Peter, 1st chapter, 4th and 5th verses. A good congregation listened attentively to the preacher's earnest remarks.

Emmanuel R. E. Church.

Good congregations were present yesterday, particularly at the morning service. The Rector, Rev. Mr. Gilliland, was the preacher of the day. In the evening his text was Philippians, 2, 5:

"Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."

At the morning service the choir rendered an anthem very acceptably.

Tabernacle.

At the morning service, the Pastor, Rev. J. H. Locke occupied the pulpit. His text was from Colossians, 1st chapter, 2nd and 3rd verses. In the evening the Rev. F. B. Stratton preached and his sermon was very acceptable to the congregation.

Christ Church.

The Rector, Rev. W. B. Heeney, conducted the services in the morning and preached. In the evening the Rev. T. Jays, a missionary, occupied the pulpit and preached. His text was from St. Mark, 9th chapter and 10th verse:

"And they kept that saying with themselves, questioning one with another what the rising from the dead should mean."

St. Thomas'.

Good congrgations were in attendance at the services in this church yesterday, which were conducted by the Rector, Rev. G. R. Beamish, who also preached. In the evening the Rev. gentleman's text was from Malachi, 3rd chapter and part of the 7th verse:

"Return unto me and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of Hosts. But ye say, wherein shall we return?"

John Street.

The Pastor, Rev. A. H. Drumm, at the morning service continued his series of discourses in reference to "The Creation," the special topic being "The way of Cain." In the evening the Rev. gentleman's theme was "Salvation," and a number of scripture references were used.

During the services solos were rendered by Mrs. Jas. Grant and Mr. H. Wrightmeyer.

St. Andrew's.

Owing to illness Rev. M. W. Maclean was unable yesterday to conduct services and the pulpit was occupied by the Rev. Prof. Nicholson, of Queen's University, whose discourses were favorably commented upon. In the morning the Rev. Professor gave a discourse upon "Bible Teaching," using a number of passages of scripture. There were good congregations at both services.

St. John's.

Rev. Rural Dean Bogert officiated at the services yesterday. In the morning his text was from 2nd epistle of Peter, 3rd chapter and 3rd verse:

"Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts."

In the evening a missionary meeting was held.

$50,000 FOR PREMIER ROSS

OFFERING INTENDED TO SAFEGUARD HIM IN HIS OLD AGE.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—In speaking to the Ross Club at St. George's Hall on Friday night, Mr. John Flett threw out a remark that Premier Ross would be suitably provided for in his old age, which was enigmatic to all but a few of those present, and by most was taken to mean that he would accept a Senatorship with a portfolio at Ottawa, or the Lieutenant-Governorship. In Liberal circles on Saturday Mr. Flett's remark was widely canvassed, and it appears that his words were far more significant than appeared on the surface. Mr. Flett was indisposed last night, and could not be seen by a reporter, and the local leaders of the party would not admit that the remarks had any significance whatever. From a prominent member of the Legislature, however, it was learned that Mr. Flett was in reality announcing a proposal that is afoot to raise a large gift fund for Premier Ross. The politician stated that a meeting of prominent Liberals from various sections of the province had been held in this city last Wednesday, and that the proposal had been put on a definite basis.

"I was not present at the meeting myself," stated the legislator, "but I have been consulted on the matter, and I understand that some of the strongest men in the party, including some of the Premier's colleagues, were present and endorsed the proposal. Mr. Flett was present, I am told, and his remark was probably a feeler.

"The proposal, as I understand it is that the many friends of the Premier in the House, and others who have received favors from the Administration, should subscribe a fund which shall guarantee him against penury in his old age.

"It is a fact generally known that Premier Ross is not a wealthy man by any means, whereas there are many whom the Ontario Government has made rich. His present income by no means exceeds the demands made upon a man in his position, and if Mr. Whitney were to come into power tomorrow it would leave him well on in years to return to the practice of law. Moreover, since he has been devoting himself to public duties during the best years of his life, it is obvious that it would be difficult for him to start in and build up a practice. Our aim is to raise $50,000, if possible, at any rate a respectable purse. The same thing was done for Sir John A. Macdonald and for Sir Wilfrid Laurier; it being a recognized fact that for the leaders of parties, all of whose acts are open to inspection, there is no money in politics.

"The suggestion, I understand, did not come from Toronto, but from an out-of-town member, who does not wish his name to be mentioned."

The suggestion was made by the interviewer that the money was perhaps intended for the bye-elections.

"Nothing of the kind!" he said, impatiently. "It is a free-will offering to the Premier, and for his personal benefit, and we feel that he cannot refuse it."

FORGERS AT WORK ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Local Merchants Swindled by Means of Forged Cheques on Dominion Bank.

Supposed to be the Same Gang Which Operated at Brockville Recently.

For some time past a gang of swindlers appear to have been operating systematically throughout Ontario, Chatham and other points having been visited last week, and, more recently, Brockville.

There is every reason to believe that Belleville was recently visited by the same gang or, at all events, by some slick swindlers who have the same modus operandi.

On Saturday night last a middle-aged man entered the grocery store of John Panter & Son and bought groceries amounting to $1.05. He was waited on by Ald. Panter, and presented in payment a cheque on the Dominion Bank purporting to have been drawn by Geo. Walton & Co., per Geo. Walton, the cheque being made payable to Chas. Evans. A rubber stamp was used with which to affix the signature of Messrs. Geo. Walton & Co. Mr. John Panter was rather suspicious, but it was finally decided to accept the cheque, as the fact of the cheque being signed by the rubber stamp of the firm allayed suspicion. The man took his groceries, and received the balance of the $10.50 in cash.

This morning, when the cheque was presented to the Dominion Bank, enquiries were made, and the document was pronounced a forgery.

It turns out that Mr. F. P. Carney was also victimized. The man who presented the cheque bought a pair of boots and presented a cheque purporting to be drawn by William Alford. The amount of the cheque was $11.50. This cheque was also signed by rubber stamp.

Another victim was Mr. A. J. McCrodan, grocer. Some groceries were bought, and a cheque for $10.50 presented. This was also alleged to be drawn by William Alford.

The swindler also tried his game at Wallbridge & Clarke's, Front Street store. Some groceries were bought and put up, but the cheque was refused.

It is believed that there are still "more to follow."

It is stated, and there is good reason to believe, that other merchants were also victimized.

The management of the Dominion Bank refuse to talk on the subject, though they do not deny that forged cheques were presented to them for payment this morning.

The cheque presented to Messrs. Panter & Sons is numbered 228, and is a regular Dominion Bank blank, backed by the rather scrawling signature of "Chas Evans."

THE CROOK'S DESCRIPTION.

Ald. Panter, says the man who swindled his firm was about 35 years of age, about 5 feet 8 inches in height, dark, even swarthy complexion, small black moustache. He wore a dark brown overcoat and a black stiff hat. The thief represented to Ald. Panter that he was employed at Walton's factory.

The operations took place between 7 and 8 o'clock on Saturday night.

It seems to have been the fact of a rubber stamp being used that disarmed suspicion.

THE GANG IN BROCKVILLE.

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 23.—On Friday a slick swindler, who it is alleged has been operating extensively in Western Ontario, paid his respects to Brockville in a very practical way. Between five and six o'clock he called on five King St. merchants, three butchers and two grocers, and made small purchases, tendering in payment in each case a cheque on the Molsons Bank for $10.50, made payable to the name of the Rathbun Lumber Co. attached to it, put on with a rubber stamp, and also the name of the local manager, S. J. Geash, forged with ink, in the space usually left in rubber stamps for the counter signature. These cheques were accepted, and the difference, after deducting the amount of his purchases, handed over. The matter was given into the hands of the police yesterday, after the bank refused to cash the cheques, and it became known that the papers were forgeries, as the Rathbun Company has no account at Molsons Bank.

Just what time this swindler reached Brockville and what time he left the police are unable to solve, as he had several hours start on them. The man in question is about 35 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height, with a dark moustache, and wore a sweater. He had the appearance of a mill hand. He claimed to live in Brockville. The cheques were endorsed in a bold hand, and had every appearance of being genuine.

DEALERS WERE FINED

FOR SELLING TOBACCO AND CIGARETTES TO MINORS.

The Magistrate was upon the bench until nearly 6 o'clock on Saturday, investigating the charges preferred against four dealers, who were charged with supplying tobacco and cigarettes to minors. The interest in the cases was manifested by the large number of persons who remained in court until the close. Three cases were disposed of on Saturday and the fourth one was further investigated this morning.

The result of the investigation was that the parties charged were found guilty and a fine of $10 and costs in each case was imposed.

In the case of a young man, charged with procuring tobacco for minors, some evidence was taken and the case was enlarged for a few days.

As a result of the investigation it is probable that some other dealers will be summoned on similar charges.

A TEMPERANCE MEETING

HELD LAST NIGHT IN THE BAPTIST CHURCH—LARGE ATTENDANCE.

At the conclusion of the regular service in the Baptist church last evening a temperance platform meeting was held and the attendance was such as to fill the church. Mr. Charles Clapp was chairman, and addresses in reference to temperance and the approaching vote upon the Liquor Act were given by the Rev. O. C. Elliott, Rev. Dr. Crothers and Ald. Chown. Devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. R. Wallace. Hymns appropriate to the theme under discussion were rendered by the choir.

A MAN OF HIS WORD.

That Mr. R. L. Borden, the leader of the Conservative party, means just what he says is established by this statement of his, made in a recent speech, in which he explained his attitude on the Chinese question.

"That, practically speaking, is the stand I took in British Columbia, and it is the stand I am prepared to take anywhere; and I recall at the moment that the Minister of Justice, the other day, was good enough to say that in advancing such a statement I was saying what I did not believe. I would thank my friend the Minister of Justice not to apply Liberal methods to Conservatives. There seems to be a great doubt amongst the Liberals as to what their own leaders do mean. I mean exactly what I said to the people of British Columbia, and I made the statement to the people there after considering the subject fairly and carefully, and I said to the people of British Columbia that so far as the Conservative policy was concerned I was not going to tell them I would test the voice of the Conservatives of British Columbia, but that it was a subject upon which the rest of Canada should consult the wishes of British Columbia, and when the wishes of the people there were once definitely stated the Conservative Government would be prepared to carry that out by every means in their power—carry out the wishes, not of the Conservatives of British Columbia or of the Liberals, but the wishes of the whole people."

Well Made.

Pure flour and pure yeast do not necessarily mean good bread. It may be spoiled in the making. Just so: material is not everything. Prof. W. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will enjoy the benefits of a "well-made" soap, and will see that Prof. Ellis is right. No one should know better than he. 214

TO BE BUILT AT ONCE

THE GRAND TRUNK'S PACIFIC COAST EXTENSION.

GRAVENHURST OR NORTH BAY THE STARTING POINT.

VICTORIA WILL BE THE WESTERN TERMINUS.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Another Canadian railway will soon span the continent, for work will begin in that direction as soon as the necessary legislation can be obtained. The Grand Trunk Railway, under the progressive management of Mr. Hays, has made extraordinary strides, and I am authorized to announce one more. No one who has been studying the wonderful developments that have taken place in the northwest during the past few years can fail to be deeply impressed with the growth of this extensive and rich territory, and the G. T. R. directors feel that in view of the apparent need of additional railway facilities, and in order to guarantee to the present Grand Trunk system direct connection with that very important and growing section of Canada, the only wise policy is to take active steps toward an extension in that direction, which will be commenced as soon as the necessary legislation has been obtained from the Government.

The Board of Directors has had this project under consideration for some time past, and the company is now prepared to go right ahead with a railroad extending from North Bay or Gravenhurst, on the present line, through that portion of northern Ontario familiarly known as new Ontario, through Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Assiniboia, Alberta, via Peace River or Pine River Passes, and through British Columbia to either Bute Inlet or Port Simpson on the Pacific coast, as may be determined later on.

It is quite likely that an arrangement will be made with the system already constructed for 1,500 miles by Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann. The Hon. Mr. Wells, Commissioner of Works for British Columbia, spent some time here and in Ottawa last winter, with a view to securing a subsidy for the diversion of the road of Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann southwest from the Yellowhead Pass down Bute Inlet to the coast, and thence across the narrows by ferry to Vancouver Island. The Dunsmuir Company has already a railway running north of Nanaimo on the island, and a fifty-mile extension would connect with the proposed ferry, and make Victoria the real terminus of the new transcontinental line. Mr. Wells when he left here appeared quite confident that a new line would be built, ending at Victoria, and now it appears that the Grand Trunk Railway is ready to start operations.

Like the Grand Trunk Western Railway, extending from Port Huron, on the Detroit River, to Chicago, this new line will be constructed under a separate corporate name, the "Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company," and will be of the most modern and up-to-date character, having in view especially low grades, long tangents, steel bridges, heavy rails, etc., as well as ample station facilities and equipment for the handling of both freight and passenger business. The road, in short, will be of the highest standard in every respect.

ROBERTS AND THE GARTER

"BOBS" SAID TO HAVE REFUSED TO PAY FEES.

Says that the Reward Should Not be a Tax Upon His Private Purse.

New York, Nov. 23.—The Sun has the following special:

London, Nov. 24.—An American visitor to St. George's Chapel, Windsor, this week noticed a curious omission in the paraphernalia of the Knights of the Garter. Each member of this, the highest British order, has a stall assigned for his use in the royal chapel, on which is placed his arms and knightly banner. The seat belonging to Lord Roberts did not bear these emblems of heraldry, and the visitor naturally inquired the reason of the omission. The old verger endeavored to evade the question, but the persistence of the inquirer was such that it finally elicited the information that, despite the fact of the King conferring the honor on Lord Roberts in public, the latter could not as yet enjoy the full benefits of Knighthood because he had refused to pay the traditional fees exacted by court officials upon the initiation of individuals who were about to receive the royal favor. It appeared, further, that the sum demanded for the acceptance of the King's gift was no less than £1,000. This fat perquisite to court officials, Lord Roberts argued, should be paid by the Government, if by anybody. He had not sought the decoration of the Garter. It was given to him in partial recognition of his services in South Africa, and he did not consider it fair that what was nominally a reward should in reality be a heavy tax on his private purse. The matter has been in a deadlock for several months, and is likely to remain so as far as Lord Roberts is concerned.

Mr. Gore Leaves Victoria.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 22.—Thos. Gore, whose divorced wife was killed in Paris, has been residing in this city, and left last night for San Francisco, where he was married less than nine years ago. Mrs. Gore visited Victoria often, previous to the divorce, her last visit here being about three years ago, when she stayed with her husband and family.

CARRIE NATION LECTURES ON STATION PLATFORMS.

Tells Buffalo Trainmen that They Should Not Smoke—A Discourse at Batavia.

Buffalo, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Carrie Nation fresh from her sensational experience at the New York Horse Show, where she denounced the Vanderbilt women for wearing decollete costumes, and where she grabbed a bottle of champagne from the hands of one of the Vanderbilt men, passed through Buffalo at 7.30 Saturday evening en route west.

"Good evening, Carrie," said one of the brakemen at the Central Station, when the notorious saloon-smasher was recognized.

"Take that cigar out of your mouth; it's vile," was the reply the woman made. The brakeman threw the cigar away, and she went on:—"Tobacco is a vicious habit, and it's vile. It leads to other evil things, and not only wrecks the health, but wrecks happiness and sobriety. Young man, take my advice and don't use tobacco. Then you may go to heaven. If you don't take my advice you'll surely go to the other place."

A despatch from Batavia gives Carrie's experience there as follows:—"Mrs. Carrie Nation, who was a passenger upon the westbound New York Central train which passed through Batavia at 6.16 o'clock Friday night, came upon the platform at Batavia and delivered a lecture upon the evils of cigarette-smoking. The engine of the train upon which she was a passenger had a hot journal, and was delayed for fifteen minutes. The particular objects of her wrath were several men upon the platform. Some of them were smoking cigarettes. They listened to her good-humoredly and respectfully."

VETERANS' MONUMENT.

FORMAL UNVEILING AND ADDRESS BY HON. GEO. W. ROSS.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Hon. Geo. W. Ross on Saturday afternoon formally unveiled the pedestal of the monument erected by the Army and Navy Veterans in the old military burying ground adjoining St. John's Church, Portland street, to the memory of the men who fought in 1812 and subsequent years in the defence of Canada. Among the large number present were represented the Daughters of the Empire, the Women's Historical Society and the United Empire Loyalists. The veterans marched in a body into an enclosure surrounding the monument, and were headed by the band of the Queen's Own Rifles, playing "Three Cheers For the Red, White and Blue." They were stationed by Mr. W. R. Simmons, Chairman of the Monument Committee. The ceremonies began with a prayer by Rev. Alex. Williams of St. John's Church, after which the national anthem was sung. Then the Chairman, Mr. J. W. Collins, called on Hon. Mr. Ross to pull the string and unveil the monument.

THEIR LIVES IN DANGER.

Son of U. S. Minister to Guatemala Shoots a Man.

Guatemala City, Guatemala, Nov. 24.—William A. Fitzgerald of Grand Rapids, Mich., was shot and killed by W. Godfrey Hunter, junior, son of the United States Minister. Hunter fired the shots from behind Fitzgerald, with James O. Bailey of Kentucky, Secretary of the United States Legation here, standing by with a drawn revolver Both ran away, with their revolvers in hand, until arrested. They are now at liberty, Minister Hunter claiming immunity for them. It is asserted that Fitzgerald had no chance to defend himself, and that he was an inoffensive man. The lives of the Hunters and that of Bailey are threatened by indignant Americans.

JOHN DILLON ILL.

Irish Leader Was Unable to Address the Chicago Meeting.

Chicago Nov. 23.—John Dillon, the Irish leader who came to Chicago to address a meeting here to-night in celebration of the Manchester martyrs anniversary, was taken suddenly ill to-day and was unable to appear at the meeting. While driving to-day Mr. Dillon suffered a chill, which was followed by a high fever, and to-night his temperature is 104. The attending physician gave out the information that, while Mr. Dillon is not seriously ill, he will be confined to his room for several days.

In his report to the State Department, the United States Consul at Montreal dwells upon the millions of American capital being invested in this country, and upon Canada's remarkable internal development.

How the Body is Nourished.

Josh Billings once said, "It is better to know less than to know so much that ain't so." You can't help thinking of this when you inquire how the human body transforms food into blood, and blood into bone, flesh and living tissue.

Ask a class in physiology what happens to a simple meal of bread and butter when it arrives in the human stomach. You will get plenty of answers, but how many will be correct? How many will tell you that the bread, if it is made of bolted flour, contains about as much nourishment as a paper collar and that its principal good is to put the butter on.

How many can explain why they are so fond of butter—with other things, but never like it by itself? Who of them will remember that the stomach can do almost nothing whatever with butter except pass it along to be digested further on?

Ask what the liver does to it. How many will tell you that the liver gives it special treatment and that all fat gets into the blood in a different way and by a shorter cut than ordinary food? How many in the class or out of it have any fair idea of what fat is really good for in the human body?

Many people imagine that fat foods are good only to make heavy and useless flesh. Few realize that fat is one of the chief elements in sustaining the nerve centers and brain and supplying the fuel for muscular power and vitality. This is one reason why Scott's Emulsion is so effective in restoring not only the fleshy tissues but active strength and mental as well as bodily vigor.

It combines the nourishing properties of the whole cod liver oil, emulsified, with hypophosphites of lime and soda, which makes the oil easy to digest and at the same time greatly increases and re-inforces its good effect.

Scott's Emulsion is known to be one of the richest preparations (food product or medicine) in the materials most needed to make good blood and repair living tissue.

It is agreeable to the taste and the stomach, puts almost no work on the digestive powers and enters the blood with great readiness. It builds up the body tissues rapidly and is a true food where nourishment is needed.

Its value has been well proven in 25 years' experience by the public and the doctors and it is widely recommended by the medical profession throughout the world.

FROM GRAFTON AND BACK

By CECILY ALLEN

Copyright, 1901, by Cecily Allen

When the news spread through Grafton that Frank Wilson had given Jennie Holmes a position as clerk in his store, the gossips of that self important little county seat were thrown into a fine flutter. The women shook their heads over their teacups and prophesied that no good thing could come out of such an innovation. The men encircling the stove in the store of Frank's only competitor in "groceries, dry goods, crockery and general merchandise" decided that "ef ol' Sam White knowed there was a gal swishin' her skirts roun' his flour barrels an' sugar sacks he'd just natu'ly turn over in his grave." And the whole town and surrounding farming district announced that it was all due to Frank Wilson's having attended a business college in the city for three months.

But in due time the women on "trading trips" gravitated toward Jennie. She had an eye for colors and knew just how much it would take for baby's first short dress or Martha Jane's pinafores. The bluff farmers liked her, too, because she seemed to read aright the mysterious instructions intrusted to them by busy wives at home. There was no complaint about the calicoes and ginghams matched at Wilson's store, and Jennie always threw in a stick of candy for the littlest one, to say nothing of smiles and friendly glances.

And, the strangest of all, she did not spill sugar nor drop the cracker box nor leave the molasses faucet running, as her employer's competitor had foretold. In fact, she fitted into the niche so admirably that on two occasions Frank saw fit to raise her salary.

At this last piece of good fortune she bought an organ on the installment plan, and the wee front room at her aunt's home was thereby transformed into a veritable paradise.

Enter then the proverbial serpent in the form of a demonstrator whose mission was to teach stolid wives of farmers the gentle art of warming up canned baked beans. She wore a striped silk waist, very long and very pointed in the front, very high as to collar and very tight as to sleeve—she had a pretty arm—and her silk lined skirt gracefully swept up the sawdust on Frank Wilson's floor.

The demonstrator first patronized and then really liked Jennie. She told the winsome little clerk that her energy and talent were wasted in such a narrow sphere. She really ought to be in the city, where her ability would command a good salary and where she might in time rise to be head of a department. Jennie was not quite sure what the latter elevation implied, but she was properly dazzled by the fair words of her new found acquaintance, and when the latter suggested that she had a friend who had the necessary influence to secure a position for "any one," particularly any one she might recommend, Jennie was duly grateful.

So when a month later she received a few lines written in a sprawling attempt at English angular penmanship announcing that an opening awaited her in the great city Jennie was wildly excited. So great was her excitement that she did not notice the expression on Frank's face when she offered her resignation and told him the good news. Yet he went with her to the train, saw her comfortably fixed for the day's journey and tried not to look wistfully into the sweet face, fairly shining now with happy anticipations. Then he went back to the store, the new clerk and a realization that it was not the girl's sales, but her gentle personality, which had roused his interest—and something more.

The demonstrator, clad in a new tailor made suit and a silk waist even more gorgeous than the one which had dazzled Jennie and Grafton in general, met her at the depot and piloted her to the boarding house where she had, with all good intentions, selected a tiny hall room "with running water, dear, and you don't often get that in a hall room."

"I'll be around in the morning, my dear, and take you to the store. My friend will be expecting you, of course, but my being with you will make it pleasanter. Then I shall not see you for a week or ten days. I'm going out on the M. and C. R. for a trip. But you'll be so busy you won't be lonesome."

Lonesome? Oh, no. Jennie was not lonesome. She was simply sick from the tip of her new tan shoes to the crown of her new sailor hat with a strange, vague illness which is not defined in medical publications. She was glad when the well meaning but chattering demonstrator took herself off.

The next day found her installed in a bargain square of the big department store. The rush of people made her head swim, the rude, captious bargain seekers terrified her, the thick air stifled her and the cold, wary glance of the floorwalker, always suspicious of new clerks, made her long for the friendly if unspoken approval of her former employer. That night as she walked home she was only too glad to avoid crowded cars, for the thought of a crowd was hateful to her now. She wondered if every day would be like this, so long, so dreary.

Days that dragged into weeks and that meant only nerve racking hours in the bargain square and grim, silent evenings in the hall bedroom taught Jennie Holmes many lessons. No one seemed to "appreciate" her as the demonstrator had predicted. The same faces seldom appeared twice in front of her counter, and she was actually starving for the sight of one familiar face, the sound of a familiar voice. Sometimes she caught herself wondering what was going on in Frank's store, whether he had saved the piece of red henrietta cloth for Mrs. Morrison, who came to town only once a month. She was almost tempted to write and remind him of it, but did not.

Jennie and the demonstrator drifted apart. The latter during her brief sojourns in town was busy laying in fresh supplies of clothes. Fine raiment palled upon Jennie, and when the voluble demonstrator took her departure Jennie turned to her magazines, papers and home letters with a feeling of relief.

Then came her promotion at the store and with it a friendship worth having—a friendship which represented rescue from the desolation of a hall bedroom and the horrors of cheap boarding house fare. For the trio of girls took furnished rooms and cooked those things which were at least wholesome and of good quality if not elaborately prepared. Her salesbook each day showed a steady advance. Placed now in a regular department, she had her regular customers. Dim visions of being head of a department loomed up before her, and yet—

* * * * * * *

They had been to a fashionable theater. They had worn their "very best," these three busy women, and had treated themselves to seats in the front row of the balcony. Between the acts from this point of vantage Jennie had leaned over to watch the gay assemblage.

When she reached her room, she turned the gas on full head, and, tilting her mirror, she studied her face. It was not an unpleasant task. Indeed the floorwalker in her department had remarked to one of his friends that the little country girl was "devilish pretty, by Jove." She shuddered as she recalled his words and his foppish appearance, even to the plated fob which swung from his silk embroidered vest.

Then, strangely enough, her thoughts went back to Frank Wilson, with his strong, resolute face, his square, determined shoulders, his keen blue eyes, which could be wonderfully friendly without a gleam of impertinence in their clear depths. She brushed her hair vigorously as she berated herself thus:

"Jennie Holmes, you're a goose. You thought that when you came to town you'd actually be a part of the life of this great, bustling city—a part of the gay world you saw at the theater tonight. And a pretty figure you cut, working in a store with hundreds of other girls at $10 a week. You're getting pale and ugly, too, and I have a good mind to send you back home to Grafton."

Then she thought of Thanksgiving day, only two weeks off, and her aunt's little front room with the organ, never opened now, and—the store. Oh, dear, the ribbon boxes must be in a shocking mess by this time! And she cried herself to sleep.

The next morning she was late at the store for the first time. The girls left her writing. It was a meek little letter telling Frank that she did not like her work and asking very prettily for her old position if the opening could be made.

The reply came by wire:

> Position open. Will expect you Monday.

The trio in the furnished rooms resolved itself into a duet. The other girls were sorry to lose their bright faced companion and secretly envied her the beatific expression with which she made her preparations for departure. They received one postal card announcing her safe arrival at Grafton. Then ensued a long silence.

"I guess she found the store in as bad shape as she anticipated. I can just picture her straightening up ribbon boxes and sorting trimmings," laughed one of the girls. And then she sighed and went back to such realities as bargain hunters and "cash."

And the next day came the letter:

> I did not take my old position, but I think I will like the new one just as well, perhaps even better. Frank and I will be married Christmas day. Can't you come up? It will be a very quiet affair, but I'd love to have you. If you can't come, of course I'll send you some of the cake. Give my love to the girls I liked. You know which ones I mean. I am too busy to write more now, but come if you can. JENNIE.

The two girls looked at each other and pushed back their untasted lunch. Said one:

"We might have known it. She never was meant for business life. Come on. We've just fifteen minutes left, but we can get a set of that hemstitched table linen. I wonder which express company goes to Grafton."

The other girl stopped to kiss a photograph on the mantel.

"Little girl, we miss you, but not half so much as he probably did when you came to us."

And there were tears in her eyes when she looked in her purse for a certain five dollar bill.

The Shepherd's Purse.

A valuable little plant that goes to waste by roadsides and vacant lots is the shepherd's purse, whose tiny seed pods are known by everybody at sight, though not by name. The green seeds stripped from the stems and strewn over lettuce or endive are a piquant addition to salads of which no epicure will need to taste twice to be assured. The fresh peppery taste suggested in one of its names, "wayside cress," is yet finer than common cress. But its curative qualities need dwelling upon, for it is said to be one of the surest remedies for a disordered digestion. The seed is eaten green. When the lower pods are set and the top still in flower is the best time, but it can be used any time. The pleasant, warming, clearing, purifying effect is felt at once, and the only directions are to eat the seeds often and as much as is agreeable. For croupy children it may be boiled in milk, but for elderly persons this is unnecessary.—New York Tribune.

Presume She Did.

"Nell says she frowns upon all the men."

"Then I'll bet she heard some one say she looked her prettiest when she frowned."

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 68 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

Do not live near a pious fool.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Wedding rings in St. Klida used to be made of worsted.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body gives up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

If thy friend is honey, do not lick him up altogether.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, Children like it.

When all other preparations fail, try Holloway's Corn Cure. No pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it.

The land area of Hawaii is 4,000,000 acres.

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

One inward contrition in the heart of man is better than many flagellations.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

A woman never knows where the match box is.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

That was a very pleasant little taste of winter weather we had yesterday, but the clouds have returned again. It looks as though we can hope for no real dry weather till after the referendum is taken.

Christmas is coming fast, and these are the days when the wise man and woman puts on his or her thinking cap and begins to study what kind of Christmas boxes they will give their dear friends. A NEW SOLUTION OF RUM QUESTION

FRENCH SCIENTIST WILL ENJOIN TEMPERANCE WITH MICROBE.

London, Nov. 23. — Dr. Pitoy, the French scientist, in an article just published, holds out hope that the difficulty of providing a satisfactory temperance drink has at last been solved, and this not by a new beverage, but by a series of new drinks, every wine, beer, and spirit now used being provided with a non-alcoholic understudy.

It has hitherto been accepted as a commonplace that there is no fermentation without alcohol. From time immemorial beets, wines and liquors have undergone this process through the action of some sort of yeast, the effect of which has been to decompose sugar or glucose into carbonic acid and alcohol.

Dr. Pitoy set himself the task of destroying this theory, and he now says that he has discovered that the mysterious fermentations are the work of a certain micro-organism, which he has succeeded in isolating and providing with a separate existence.

This new birth, on being introduced into the liquid to be fermented, fattens and swells to the bursting point. The result is a sort of fireworks display induced by the absorption of carbonic acid, each point of which, as it is thrown off, becoming in its turn an active cell. By this means the balls are kept rolling, so to speak, till the process of exhaustion supervenes and fermentation is complete.

It is said this method, instead of decomposing glucose in the proportion of one part of carbonic acid to two of alcohol, as by the old process, causes the latter two parts to assume the form of a non-alcoholic substance.

It is inferred that beers and wines submitted to the new fermentation will emerge as temperance beverages.

Left for New York

Mr. Lew Glanberg, of New York, who for the past two months has been engaged by the local cigar factory as instructor of the suction tables, the new machines placed there by a New York firm, left Saturday for his home. Mr. Glanberg during his stay in the city made a host of friends who, while wishing him every success, regret to hear of his departure from the city. On the evening before his departure he was entertained by a few friends at Hotel Victoria, where a most enjoyable evening was spent by all.

De Wet Was Wily

London, Nov. 23.—De Wet, the wily Boer general, has proved himself more than a match even for a publisher. John S. Sargent was engaged to do a sketch of De Wet for the frontispiece of De Wet's forthcoming book upon the war.

When he visited De Wet for that purpose he was unexpectedly confronted with the demand: "How much do I get for it?" The astonished artist referred him to the publishers, who, after a little haggling, paid the price, a very stiff one, too, for the honor of a sitting from the former guerrilla leader to the greatest modern portrait painter.

A TRUE NERVE TONIC

Will act, not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvellous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c at druggists, or J. S. McKeown's.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Viennas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

Boyd-Winter Nuptials

An exchange, in a recent issue, publishes the following account of the marriage of the daughter of a former resident of Huntingdon Township, who has many relatives in this vicinity:

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G Winter, about four miles south of Broadview, was the scene of a joyous assembly last evening, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jean Winter, formerly a nurse in the Regina Victoria Hospital, to Mr. Joseph L. Boyd, a popular young farmer in the Sherwood settlement, southwest of Regina. It was another case of commencement of love in a hospital. Over a year ago Mr. Boyd was a patient in the hospital, and was nursed by Miss Winter. The result was the wedding ceremony last evening.

The ceremony took place in the drawing room of the house at eight o'clock in the evening. The bride, who was very neatly attired in a dress of gray merino, with silk trimmings, was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Winter, while the groom was attended by R. J. Westgate, of Regina. After the brief but impressive service, which was conducted by Rev. Mr. Stephens, in the presence of about thirty guests, the company sat down to a sumptuous wedding luncheon. After luncheon and the usual toast to the bride and groom, the evening was spent in music and social intercourse. About three o'clock the wedding party left for Broadview, where they took the westbound express, arriving in Regina this morning, and leaving for their home at Sherwood. Among the guests who were present was Miss Bristow, of Regina. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. The West joins with the numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd in wishing them a very happy and prosperous life.

AS TO PROHIBITION

A KANSAS NEWSPAPER POINTS OUT SOME PECULIARITIES OF THE MEASURE IN THAT STATE.

(Atchison, Kansas, Daily Globe.)

The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka, who has acquired some fame by his writing and sermons, is to go to Canada to assist the prohibition party there in securing prohibition in Canada. There is something about this that to the ordinary mind is incomprehensible. Kansas has prohibition, constitutional prohibition, and has had it for twenty years and more. And yet, in the town where Rev. Mr. Sheldon lives and works and preaches, there is a saloon on every corner, and frequently an extra one in the middle of the block. The prohibitory law is given no more heed than if such a thing had never been heard in Kansas. The saloons are as open as they are in any city in the land. With such evidence as this right at his own door, does Mr. Sheldon undertake to say that prohibition prohibits, or that it is a success? Will he tell the Canadians that it is a success in Kansas? If he tells them it is a failure, how can he urge them to adopt it? He can tell them, of course, that theoretically prohibition is a good and great thing; which it is. But will he not have to tell them if he tells them the truth, that practically it is a failure? It is as clear and distinctly local option as though it were designated that way in the constitution and the laws. Prohibition does not prohibit in any town or city where the sentiment is in favor of saloons. And where it does not favor saloons, saloons could not exist even without prohibition. The constitutional amendment and the laws relating to it are dead letters in all places where the sentiment is for license or for saloons. Will Mr. Sheldon tell his audiences in Canada this indisputable truth? And if he does, how can he consistently urge them to adopt a law that he must admit is a failure here in his own home? If Mr. Sheldon is conscientious, he must tell his hearers up in the north country what prohibition ought to do in Kansas, not what it does do in Kansas.

Cancer Ate Right Cheek

A DISTRESSING CASE, COMPLETELY CURED BY THE NEW CONSTITUTIONAL TREATMENT AFTER PLASTER FAILED.

Cancer of the face is peculiarly distressing, not only on account of the suffering involved, but also because of the terrible disfigurement.

The case referred to was one in which the right cheek was almost gone, having been eaten off by the disease and the plaster treatment, from the eye to the lower part of the jaw and back almost to the ear. Instead of helping the cure, the plaster extended the area of the tissue destructions.

When the New Constitutional Treatment was started, its beneficial results soon became apparent, the cancer ceased to spread, the tissues became healthy and commenced healing, till, in a comparatively short time, the disease was cured completely, and, we may say, permanently, for there has been no recurrence in the past three years.

A complete account of this case will be found in our book—"Cancer Its Cause and Cure," which will be sent to anyone on receipt of two stamps. B. L. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

Weeping at a Wedding.

A Chinese marriage is all ceremony—no talk, no levity and much crying. The solemnity of a funeral prevails. After the exchange of presents the bride is dressed with much care in a red gown, brocade or silk, if she can get it; her eyelashes are painted a deep black, and she wears a heavy red veil attached to a scarlet headdress, from which imitation pearls are pendent over the forehead. A feast is spread upon a table, to which the blushing bride is led by five of her best female friends. They are seated at the table, but no one eats. The utmost silence prevails, when, finally, the mother leads off in a cry, the maids follow and the bride echoes in the chorus. Then all the bridesmaids leave the table and the disconsolate mother takes a seat beside the chair of state where the bride sits. The bridegroom now enters, with four of his best men. The men pick up the throne on which the bride sits, and, preceded by the bridegroom, form in procession and walk around the room or into an adjoining parlor, signifying that he is carrying her away to his own home. The guests then throw rice at the happy couple, a custom we have borrowed from the heathen.

Professional Pride.

Newspaper men, from great editors down to rural correspondents, are proud of their profession, although not all sit as secure as John Black, for many years the chief of the London Chronicle.

Black supported the Melbourne administration in his paper, yet he never asked a favor of any of the ministers. On one occasion Lord Melbourne said to him:

"You are the only man in England who forgets that I am prime minister."

"How so, my lord?" inquired Black, supposing that he had been inadvertently disrespectful.

"Because," replied Melbourne, "you are the only man I know who never asks a favor of me."

"I have no favor to ask," said Black quietly. "I have no favor to ask any one in the world! You are prime minister of England, but I am editor of the Morning Chronicle, and I would not change places with the proudest man in England—not even, my lord, with you."

A Pitch Lake.

Trinidad, an island in the south Atlantic opposite the mouth of the Orinoco, is famous for its pitch. There are districts where there is pitch everywhere. The beach is pitch, and so are the "rocks," some of which have been carried off to supply Paris and New York with tar pavements. At La Brea pineapples grow to perfection in a brown soil which is half pitch. But the wonder of the isle is the pitch lake a mile and a half in circumference. As it lies glittering in the sun it looks like a vast bed of monstrous mushrooms, all black and of all kinds of shape and size, some measuring as much as fifty feet across. The space between these unlovely objects is filled with oily water. In parts of the lake the pitch is quite liquid, and the ground all round is full of pitch and coaly stuff to a depth of hundreds of feet.

The Geisha.

"Geisha," the professional girl entertainer of Japan, is by no means to be confounded with "geinin," says Japan and America. The word geisha really means actor, "gei" meaning a play or entertainment of any sort, and "sha" means a person. For instance, i-sha means physician, and so on. The word really means what "actor" does in English, but it has come to mean only those girls in Japan who are trained to entertain by dancing, and singing to the shamisen and koto, the usual musical instruments for light entertainments, and they also are trained to converse agreeably on topics of the day. "Geinin," on the other hand, while it really means the same thing as geisha, has now come to be applied to artists, in a higher sense.

THE CAUSE OF DEAFNESS.

Deafness and impaired hearing are due almost entirely to catarrhal inflammation of the eustachian tubes. Permanent cure is guaranteed to all who inhale Catarrhozone as directed. This vegetable antiseptic is inhaled at the mouth, and after traversing all the air passages of the respiratory organs, is exhaled through the nostrils; it completely eradicates catarrh from any part of the system, clears the ears, nose and throat, and allays inflammation, congestion and soreness. For deafness, earache, ringing in the ears, head noises, catarrh, asthma and bronchitis, medical science can devise nothing as beneficial as Catarrhozone. SIX ELECTION PETITIONS WERE DISMISSED SATURDAY.

Four Cases Yet to be Heard—Argument in the East Middlesex Petition — Special Election Court Held.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—It took ten minutes of the time of the special election court on Saturday, Justices Maclennan and Street presiding, to dismiss six of the election petitions that have been pending. Mr. R. A. Grant appeared for the Liberals and Mr. Edmund Bristol for the Conservatives. The petitions dismissed were :—

North Wentworth, against Thompson, Conservative; cross against Warden.

Glengarry, against McLeod, Conservative; cross against Macpherson.

Frontenac, against Gallagher, Conservative; cross against Shibley.

Halton, against Barber, Liberal; cross against Nixon.

East Wellington, against Gibson, Liberal.

North Waterloo, against Lackner, Conservative.

The last two petitions were dismissed, with costs to the respondent; the others did not carry costs.

There are four more cases for which the dates of trial are to be fixed: Centre Bruce, against Clark, Conservative; North York, against Davis, Liberal; North Ontario, against Hoyles, Conservative, and Sault Ste. Marie, against Miscampbell, Conservative. Mr. Justice Maclennan suggested that dates be arranged for these, but agreed, on the request of Bristol, to hold them over till to-day, when he expected to be ready to name the dates.

In East Middlesex, where the protest is against Routledge, Liberal, the evidence is all in, and a date is to be named for argument. Mr. Walter Cassels, who takes the arugument for the petitioners, is engaged on the Lennox case this week, and Mr. Bristol explained that they could not therefore have the argument before Saturday, December 6. That will therefore probably be the date for argument.

The date for the Kingston trial, the petition there being against Pense, Liberal, is at present set down for December 9, at Kingston. South Oxford comes up at Woodstock on December 1st for further evidence. a motion by the petitioners that they be allowed to add additional particulars having been granted by Justices Maclennan and Moss this morning.

West York and Addington May Go to Trial.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—It is expected that particulars in the West York election protest will be filed at Osgoode Hall to-day. This and Addington are the two remaining Dominion protests, in Ontario bye-elections, which remain to be dealt with. The West York trial is set down for Nov. 28, and that in Addington for Nov. 29.

Saturday Evening, Nov. 22.

Toronto St. Lawrence Market.

The trading to-day at the St. Lawrence Market was active, and large quantities of general farm produce changed hands. Pains in the Small Of the Back

BAD DIGESTION AND RACKING HEADACHES — CURE WAS BROUGHT ABOUT BY

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

"Pains in the small of the back" is the way hosts of people describe their sufferings, not knowing that the pains are in reality in the kidneys. Pains in the back, weak back, lame back, backache—these are the first indications of kidney trouble. They are the warning which nature gives you. If you heed at once you can be cured. Neglect will soon put you at the mercy of the most painful and fatal of diseases.

Women as well as men have kidney disease and may well feel anxious when the kidney pains make themselves felt in the small of the back.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills give you prompt relief from backache it is well worth your while to take them. But they do more than this. They regulate and invigorate the action of the kidneys, and insure a return to health of these important organs.

Mrs. F. Henthorn, whose husband is of the firm of Marsh & Henthorn, founders and machinists, and who lives at 286 Ann street, Belleville, states: "Some years ago I was taken with a pain across the small of the back, caused no doubt from deranged kidneys, and my system generally was very much run down. I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, and I must say I found relief from my trouble at once. They proved thorough and effective in action, and soon brought about a complete cure. We have also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in our family and found them very helpful."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

It was rome little solace to them all that day to follow Katy in her journey, saying, she is at Worcester, or Framingham, or Newtown, and when at noon they sat down to dinner in the tidy kitchen they said: "She is in Boston," and the saying so made the time which had elapsed since the morning seem interminable. Slowly the hours dragged, and at last, before the sunsetting, Helen, who could bear the lonliness of home no longer, stole across the fields to Linwood, hoping in Morris's companionship to forget her own grief in part. But Morris was a sorry comforter then. He had ministered as usual to his patients that day, listening to their complaints and answering patiently their inquiries, but amid it all he walked as in a maze, hearing nothing except the words: "I, Katy, take thee, Wilford, to be my wedded husband," and seeing nothing but the airy little figure which stood up on tiptoe for him to kiss its lips at parting. His work for the day was over now, and he sat alone in his library when Helen came hurriedly in, starting at sight of his face, and asking if he was ill.

"I have had a hard day's work," he said. "I am always tired at night," and he tried to smile and appear natural. "Are you very lonely at the farm-house?" he asked, and then Helen broke out afresh, mourning sometimes for Katy, and again denouncing Wilford as proud and heartless.

"Positively, Cousin Morris, he acted all the while he was in the church as if he were doing something of which he was ashamed; and then did you notice how impatient he seemed when the neighbors were shaking hands with Katy at the depot, and bidding her good-bye? He looked as if he thought they had no right to touch her, she was so much their superior, just because she had married him, and he even hurried her away before Aunt Betsy had time to kiss her. And yet the people think it such a splendid match for Katy, because he is so rich and generous. Gave the clergyman fifty dollars and the sexton five, so I heard; but that does not help him with me. I know it's wicked, Morris, but I find myself taking real comfort in hating Wilford Cameron."

"That is wrong, Helen, all wrong," and Morris tried to reason with her; but his arguments this time were not very strong, and he finally said to her inadvertently: "If I can forgive Wilford Cameron for marrying our Katy, you surely ought to do so, for he has hurt me the most."

"You, Morris! you, you!" Helen kept repeating, standing back still farther and farther from him, while strange, overwhelming thoughts passed like lightning through her mind as she marked the pallid face, where was written since the morning more than one line of suffering, and saw in the brown eyes a look such as they were not wont to wear. "Morris, tell me—tell me truly—did you love my sister Katy?" and with an impetuous rush Helen knelt beside him, as, laying his head upon the table he answered:

"Yes, Helen. God forgive me if it were wrong. [illegible] did love your sister Katy, and [illegible] her yet, and that is the hardest [illegible]ar."

[illegible] the tender, pitying woman was [illegible] in Helen, and like a sister [illegible]thed the locks of damp, dark [illegible] keeping a perfect silence as the [illegible] man, no longer able to bear up, wept like a very child. For a time Helen felt as if bereft of reason, while earth and sky seemed blended in one wild chaos as she thought, "Oh, why couldn't it have been? Why didn't you tell her in time?" and at last she said to him: "If Katy had known it! Oh, Morris, why didn't you tell her? She never guessed it, never! If she had—if she had." Helen's breath came chokingly, "I am very sure—yes, I know it might have been!"

"Of all the words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these—It might have been."

Morris involuntarily thought of these lines, but they only mocked his sorrow as he answered Helen: "I doubt if you are right; I hope you are not. Katy loved me as her brother, nothing more, I am confident. Had she waited till she was older, God only knows what might have been, but now she is gone and our Father will help me to bear, will help us both, if we ask him, as we must."

And then, as only he could do, Morris talked with Helen until she felt her hardness towards Wilford giving way, while she wondered how Morris could speak so kindly of one who was his rival.

"Not of myself could I do it," Morris said; "but I trust in One who says 'As thy days shall thy strength be, and He, you know, never fails.'"

There was a fresh bond of sympathy now between Morris and Helen, and the latter needed no caution against repeating what she had discovered. The secret was safe with her, and by dwelling on what "might have been," she forgot to think so much of what was, and so the first days after Katy's departure were more tolerable than she had thought it possible for them to be. At the close of the fourth there came a short note from Katy, who was still in Boston at the Revere, and perfectly happy, she said, going into ecstasies over her husband, the best in the world, and certainly the most generous and indulgent. "Such beautiful things as I am having made," she wrote, "when I already had more than I needed, and so I told him, but he only smiled a queer kind of smile as he said: 'Very true; you do not need them.' I wonder then why he gets me more. Oh, I forgot to tell you how much I like his cousin, Mrs. Harvey, who boards at the Revere, and whom Wilford consults about my dress. I am somewhat afraid of her, too, she is so grand, but she pets me a great deal and laughs at my speeches. Mr. Ray is here, and I think him splendid.

"By the way, Helen, I heard him tell Wilford that you had one of the best shaped heads he ever saw, and that he thought you decidedly good looking. I must tell you now of the only thing which troubles me in the least, and I shall get used to that, I suppose. It is so strange Wilford never told me a word until she came. Think of little Katy Lennox with a waiting-maid, who jabbers French half the time, for she speaks that language as well as her own, having been abroad with the family once before. That is why they sent her to me; they knew her services would be invaluable in Paris. Her name is Esther, and she came the day after we did, and brought me such a beautiful mantilla from Wilford's mother, and the loveliest dress. Just the pattern was fifty dollars, she said.

"The steamer sails in three days, and I will write again before that time, sending it by Mr. Ray, who is to stop over one train at Linwood. Wilford has just come in, and says I have written enough for now, but I must tell you he has bought me a diamond pin and earrings which Esther, who knows the value of everything, says never cost less than five hundred dollars.

"Your loving,
"Katy Cameron."

"Five hundred dollars!" and Aunt Betsy held up her hands in horror, while Helen sat a long time with the letter in her hand, cogitating upon its contents, and especially upon the part referring to herself, and what Mark Ray had said to her.

Every human heart is susceptible of flattery, and Helen's was not an exception. Still with her ideas of city men she could not at once think favorably of Mark Ray, just for a few complimentary words which might or might not have been in earnest, and she found herself looking forward with nervous dread to the time when he would stop at Linwood, and of course call on her, as he would bring a letter from Katy.

Very sadly to the inmates of the farm-house rose the morning of the day when Katy was to sail, and as if they could really see the tall masts of the vessel which was to bear her away, the eyes of the whole family were turned often to the eastward with a wistful, anxious gaze, while on their lips and in their hearts were earnest prayers for the safety of that ship and the precious freight it bore.

INTERESTING FACTS

FOR NEARLY EVERY MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD.

A short time ago we published an article recommending to our readers the new discovery for the cure of Dyspepsia, called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and the claims then made regarding the wonderful curative properties of the remedy have been abundantly sustained by the facts. People who were cautious about trying new remedies advertised in the newspapers and were finally induced to give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a trial were surprised and delighted at the results. In many cases a single package costing but 50 cents at any drug store made a complete cure and in every instance the most beneficial results were reported. From a hundred or more received we have space to publish only a few of the latest but assure our readers we receive so many commendatory letters that we shall publish each week a fresh list of genuine unsolicited testimonials and never publish the same one twice.

From James Yemmeister LaCross, Wis.: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are doing me more good than anything I ever tried and I was so pleased at results that I gave away several boxes to my friends who have also had the same benefits.

From Jacob Anthony, Portmurray, New Jersey: I have taken Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with the best results. I had Dyspepsia for 6 years and had taken a great deal of medicine, but the Tablets seem to take right a hold and I feel good. I am a farmer and lime burner and I heartily recommend to everyone who has any trouble with his stomach to use these Tablets.

From Mrs. M. K. West, Preston, Minn., I have received surprisingly good effects from using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I gave one-half of my last box to a friend who also suffered from indigestion and she had the same good results.

From Mrs. Agnes K. Ralston, Cadillac, Mich., I have been taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I am very much better, and feel very grateful for the great benefit I have received in so short a time.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a certain cure for all forms of Indigestion. They are not claimed to be a cure-all, but are prepared for stomach troubles only, and physicians and druggists everywhere recommend them to all persons suffering from Nervous Dyspepsia, sour or acid stomach, heartburn, bloating or wind on stomach and similar disorders.

HERR KRUPP'S DEATH

GERMANY'S GREAT IRON AND GUN MANUFACTURER.

HIS WORKS EMPLOYED FIFTY THOUSAND PERSONS.

DEATH RESULTED FROM A STROKE OF APOPLEXY.

Berlin, Nov. 24.—Herr Frederick Alfred Krupp, the head of the gunmaking works, and the wealthiest man in Germany, died suddenly from apoplexy Saturday afternoon at his villa at Hugel. Herr Krupp had been ill for several days. Early in the morning he suffered the first stroke of apoplexy. According to the medical reports, his physicians succeeded in restoring him to consciousness, but he soon relapsed into insensibility. Another stroke followed at noon, and the gunmaker died at 3 o'clock. His friends think that an uncomplimentary article recently published in a German newspaper, which caused the gunmaker great mental distress, was primarily the cause of his death. The news of his death at first caused rumors of suicide, owing to the feelings he had expressed regarding the attacks upon him, but these rumors were absolutely without foundation, and were officially denied by the several celebrated physicians in attendance.

Moderate estimates of the fortune of the deceased place it at $120,000,000, and his annual income during his recent years of prosperity at $10,000,000. It is understood that the gun works will be placed in the hands of trustees for the benefit of the heirs.

All the theatres in Essen are closed, and the public buildings are draped in mourning. The City Council assembled immediately after the death announcement was made, and the first burgomaster said that it had been intended to send to Herr Krupp the municipality's respectful greetings, and to inform him that the slanders of the Socialist Democratic press were not believed, and that in spite of the suspicions thrown upon him the Council's confidence was in no wise shaken. The Council adopted a resolution expressing indignation at the injury inflicted upon the deceased before his death, and of sympathy for his family.

Herr Krupp determined two days ago to return to the Island of Capri, where he resided several months every year, believing that he could thus best refute the accusation that he had left there at the request of the Italian Government. He intended to start to-day. The Vorwerts republished an attack made upon him by hotelkeepers on the island, who charged that he was about to build hotels on the island and go into the business.

Mrs. Krupp was sent for from Jena, She is suffering from a nervous malady, but was brought to Essen in a special train, arriving here this morning. The funeral has been fixed for Wednesday. Chancellor Buelow, all the Ministers and a great number of officials, following the example of the Emperor, have telegraphed their condolences to the widow. Herr Krupp leaves two daughters, who are at school, one named Barbara, aged seventeen, and the second named Bertha, fifteen years of age.

His favorite study of late years was to think out schemes for improving the well-being of the lower classes which he applied practically to what are called "labor colonies." He assented seemingly to most socialistic principles, except that he held tight to the wage system, averring that the wage-earners were not yet sufficiently developed or self-controlled to regulate for themselves a just system of division of profits. It is mentioned as an old chance that a man who applied social reform ideas in so extensive a way should have been crushed by a social democratic newspaper, which, however, regarded his measures to ameliorate the condition of the laborers as not touching the question of economic injustice.

DEATHS AT A FIRE.

MEN HURLED INTO WATER WITH FALLING DOCK.

A Number of Badly Injured Firemen Were Rescued—Many Are Now Being Searched For.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 24.—The Wisconsin Central Railway ore dock was destroyed, by fire Saturday, the loss involved being about $525,000. In falling the dock carried with it a number of firemen and dockmen, and several lives were lost, just how many will not be known for some days. Several badly injured firemen were rescued from the burning ruins, one of them with both legs broken. The fire started about 5 o'clock, and before the firemen arrived the entire ore dock, half a mile long, was in flames. An engine was run on the tramway as near to the fire as possible, and half a hundred men began tearing apart the timbers connecting the tramway and the dock to keep it from falling with the dock. Suddenly the dock gave way, carrying with it 200 feet of the tramway, the engine just barely escaping the fall into the bay. Several hundred people were under the tramway, but most of them escaped with slight injuries. As the broken tramway and the burning dock fell at least a dozen men were seen to go down in the ruins. The wreck fell into twenty feet of water, and it will be impossible to recover the bodies for some time. A large force of men is engaged in an effort to reach the dead firemen.

VENEZUELA'S CONDUCT.

GREAT BRITAIN CONTEMPLATING REPRISALS

In Conjunction With Germany—An Assurance that the United States Will Not Intervene—Unwarranted Treatment of British Subjects and Their Property.

London, Nov. 24.—Great Britain is contemplating serious reprisals against Venezuela. The Associated Press is also officially informed that Great Britain is acting with Germany in all matters relating to the present state of affairs in Venezuela. Whether the contemplated action will take the form of a joint naval demonstration, accompanied by or following the severance of diplomatic relations, is a matter now being discussed in Berlin and London. There is reason to believe that the British Government has been either officially or otherwise informed that the United States will not intervene in any demonstration having the object of protecting the property rights of British citizens or their interests in Venezuela. The reports that Germany and Great Britain have been urging Minister Bowen at Caracas to join in the combination are discredited here. It is pointed out that both Berlin and London have a thorough understanding with Washington regarding the main features of the policy involved, which, it is maintained, in no way encroaches on the Monroe doctrine.

The Venezuelan protest against the action of the British sloop of war Fantome in entering the Orinoco River in spite of the blockade has now been received by the British Foreign Office, but it is only one of many which have been coming in for the last month. The Foreign Office views this and the others merely as an endeavor on the part of the Venezuelan authorities to offset the repeated strong demands made by the British Minister at Caracas.

SMALLPOX AT ROCHESTER.

FORTY CASES OF THE DISEASE HAVE BEEN REPORTED.

State Health Department Will Take Steps to Make Investigation and Check Disease.

Albany, N.Y., Nov. 24.—The State Department of Health is considering the advisability of sending an inspector to Rochester to investigate the existence of smallpox in that city. Forty cases of what is supposed to be that disease have been reported by the acting Health Officer of the city during the past week, and the department desires to see that all precautions possible are taken to prevent further spread of the malady.

CHICAGO MAIL ROBBED.

Valuable Papers and $13,000 in Cash Stolen—No Traces Found.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Chicago's mail waggon robbery of Saturday will cause certain New York stock brokers considerable inconvenience, as it was discovered that one of the stolen mail pouches contained several packages of stocks, bonds and similar securities, which, it was intended, should reach New York in time to be used when the Stock Exchange opens there Monday morning. One member of the Chicago Stock Exchange is said to have mailed a paper of the face value of $100,000, which was in one of the missing sacks. This paper is not negotiable, but its loss may cause a great amount of annoyance, as the brokers affected probably will have to furnish a bond to cover the temporary lack of the security. As near as can be estimated by the postoffice officials the robbers secured between $12,000 and $13,000 in cash, certified checks and other negotiable bill papers. No trace of the robbers has yet been found.

FIERCE RIOT AT TOURS.

Singing of an Anti-military Song Caused the Trouble.

Tours, France, Nov. 24.—A violent riot broke out yesterday in the Alcazar Music Hall in this city owing to the singing of anti-military songs by one of the performers. A party of officers belonging to the garrison of Tours, who, dressed in mufti, were occupying the stalls, hissed the songs, while the public in the gallery applauded and threw missiles at the officers, wounding several among them. The occupants of the galleries then invaded the floor of the hall, where a free fight ensued, until the police cleared the building. An anti-military demonstration in the streets followed, a crowd escorting the singer, the cause of all the trouble, home, singing revolutionary songs. The rioters attempted to mob all the officers they met on the way, but a squad of police successfully succeeded in protecting the officers and order was finally restored, although the streets are still being patrolled by troops.

For Rhodes Scholarships.

New York, Nov. 22. — Competitive examinations incidental to the award of the Cecil Rhodes scholarships at Oxford for the State of Pennsylvania probably will be held in this city next May, says a Times special from Philadelphia. It is said at least twenty students of the University of Pennsylvania will compete.

To Suppress White Slave Traffic.

Vienna, Nov. 23.—With the approval of the Minister of the Interior, the Austrian League to combat the "white slave" traffic will establish branches in all the important towns and frontier stations of Austria, and take active means to suppress the traffic.

McINTOSH BROS.

TWO BOYS IN A BOAT CAUSED ANXIETY

MANY WILD RUMORS WHICH HAD NO FOUNDATION IN FACT.

Anxiety and dismay were depicted on the countenances of many Bellevillians on Saturday night and Sunday morning, and the same was very natural. There was a possibility, at least, that two young lads had been drowned, and the parents of the twain were very much perturbed. It appears that on Saturday morning Masters Norman Pearson and Sydney Stork went out in a rowboat, their object being to hunt ducks and their objective point being somewhere down the bay. It will be remembered that there was considerable of a "sea on" on Saturday, and, though the lads in question are both expert boatmen, anxiety was felt when night came and the hunters had not turned up; neither was there any trace of them. It is unnecessary to say that the parents of the two lads spent an anxious night. No word of the missing ones was forthcoming yesterday morning, so the Annie Lake was chartered and the parents set off down the bay looking for the missing ones.

Just at this point the gay and festive rumor-monger began to get in his work. One report said the boys' boat had been found bottom upward. Another said the lads had broken an oar in the middle of the bay and had drifted into Northport. The newspaper men had their pencils sharpened for a good-sized sensation. The facts of the case, as related to The Intelligencer by one of the boys, are that they were hunting at Griffin's Point, and, the bay being rough when Saturday night came, resolved to spend the night in a fisherman's shanty, which they did, building a fire and making themselves comfortable. The Annie Lake picked them up and brought them home on Sunday afternoon, and that's the end of the story. They were never, our informant says, in any danger.

AN EXPLANATION.

"C.R. Co." Rubbers are rubber shoes MADE IN CANADA by The Canada Rubber Company.

THERE WERE AT LEAST SIX OR SEVEN VICTIMS

SATURDAY NIGHT SWINDLER DID A RUSHING BUSINESS FOR AN HOUR AND A HALF.

The principal topic of conversation in the city last evening and today was the operation of the swindler who succeeded by means of forged cheques in victimizing a number of our merchants on Saturday night. It appears that, in addition to those whose names appeared in The Intelligencer yesterday, at least three other merchants were victimized, namely, one grocer and two shoe merchants. In two cases the cheques were for $10.50 and in the third case for $11.50. All these cheques bore the signature and stamp of Wm. Alford. From the amount of the cheques presented and the goods procured the swindler succeeded in obtaining here somewhere about $60 in cash. The whole transaction was done between the hours of 6.30 and 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, and not the least suspicion was aroused until the cheques were presented at the Dominion Bank yesterday morning.

That the party was clever in his operations and endeavored to allay suspicion was evidenced by his action in the case of the Front street store of Messrs. Wallbridge & Clarke. He purchased 75 cents worth of groceries at this place of business and in payment thereof presented a cheque for $10.50 which bore the signature of Wm. Alford. The manager of the store refused to cash the cheque, whereupon the stranger remarked that he could get it cashed elsewhere and left the store. In a few minutes he returned and stated that he had succeeded in getting the cheque cashed, paid for the goods and took them away. This was no doubt done for a blind, in order to allay any suspicion which might have arisen in the mind of the manager.

There is evidence that another merchant might have been victimized had he kept in stock the articles which the stranger asked for. He called at a confectionery store and wanted to buy five plugs of Napoleon tobacco. Being told by the proprietor that he did not keep tobacco the swindler walked out.

HOW THE GAME WAS WORKED IN BRANTFORD.

The Brantford Courier of Monday, November 17, had the following, showing how the bogus cheque game was worked in that city:

"For the past three weeks Toronto papers as well as local publications have continually warned merchants all through Western Ontario that there was a slick swindler at work. The local police authorities received communications of warning from the officials at Galt, Guelph, Stratford and other points. Accordingly Constable Chapman made a trip to the various banks last week and told them to be on the watch for bogus cheques. Several merchants declared that they were also on guard and any cheque defaulter who dared to enter Brantford was to receive a warm reception. Everyone was on the alert.

"Despite all these precautions, Charles Gilson, alias G. W. Graham and many other assumed names stepped on the G.T.R. platform Saturday morning and at once commenced his plan of campaign. It is said he came from Harrisburg, for a man passing through on the train saw him changing his garb. At any rate when he arrived here he presented the picture of a quiet unassuming agriculturalist with small cap, sweater and blue overalls. Before he left town Saturday night, he had succeeded in doing up probably a dozen or more local merchants. Already six have confessed and likely many others have decided that in view of the circumstances silence is the wisest policy.

"In all instances the cheques were made in favor of Charles Gilson and were stamped with the Meikle-Dyment Co. stamp and countersigned by R. A. Rastall. All the cheques were on the Standard Bank and were for amounts ranging from $10 to $14.50. In all instances the defaulter purchased goods to the value of about $1.50 and tendered the cheque in payment. He received his change, took his goods and departed. The merchants declare the fellow played his part admirably and would have deceived the sharpest detective in the business."

BOARDERS REFUSE TEACHERS' REQUEST

CHRISTMAS PROMOTION EXAMINATIONS WILL CONTINUE TO BE HELD.

A meeting of the School Management Committee in connection with the Board of Education was held last evening, at which the following members were present: Messrs. W. P. Hudson, chairman of Committee; I. Diamond, H. Walker, W. Tennent, G. Bennett, A. McGinnis, J. F. Wills and W. C. Reid, chairman of the Board. The Inspector, Mr. John Johnston, was also in attendance.

The only matter of much importance to be decided was whether there should be one or two promotion examinations. Considerable discussion took place for and against the change, but the majority of the Committee were not in favor of a change and two examinations will be held yearly as heretofore.

As to the entertainment in the City Hall in connection with the Commencement exercises of the High School, the Committee decided to supply the means for paying for the hall and the renting of a piano. The teachers and scholars are enjoined to see that perfect order is kept during the entertainment.

MARRIED AT ST. MICHAEL'S

NUPTIALS OF MR. WILLIAM McININCH AND MISS TERESA MEAGHER THIS MORNING.

A number of spectators were present at St. Michael's Church at 8 o'clock this morning to witness a marriage ceremony. It was the wedding of Mr. William J. McIninch, son of ex-Mayor McIninch, and Miss Teresa Meagher, also of this city. At the hour named the bride, leaning upon the arm of her brother, Mr. John Meagher, of Deseronto, entered the church and proceeded to the altar rail, where the groom and groomsman were in waiting to receive them. The bride was attired in a dress of navy blue cheviot cloth, and was supported by her sister, Miss Aggie Meagher, who wore a dress of royal blue cloth and a picture hat. The groomsman was Mr. John Troiasch. Both bride and bridesmaid carried bouquets. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mgr. Farrelly. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of Mr. T. Harris, Moira street, where the wedding breakfast was partaken of. The bride received a large number of handsome and costly presents. Mr. and Mrs. McIninch left on the afternoon train for the west, and, after visiting places of interest there, will return to the city to take up their residence. Their many friends will unite in wishing them every happiness and prosperity.

POINT ANN QUARRY HAS BEEN SOLD

U. S. GENTLEMEN WILL, IT IS SAID, START A CEMENT FACTORY THERE.

The Point Ann quarry has been sold to a number of Americans, who intend to erect a factory for the manufacture of cement. It is said that the purchase price is $6,000, and $1,000 has been paid to bind the deal, the balance to be paid shortly. It is also stated that the same parties who are interested in this purchase have also secured an option on the Crookston property.

We learn that it is the intention of the company to shortly commence the erection of the factory at Point Ann, and it is expected that at least 100 men will be employed there when the works have been established.

The Referendum

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—Your "clear and straightforward summary of what we are called to vote upon on Dec. 4, prox." merits the gratitude of all readers of The Intelligencer throughout the community. From this clear statement concerning the powers and possibilities of the Ontario Liquor Act, 1902, it must be apparent to all that the great blessing that will result from its adoption will be the closing of the saloon, which is productive of evil and only evil to city, town and country place. Before us is the opportunity of our life-time, to remove that which is the world's greatest curse to-day—the open bar and the treating customs. Political partizanship should be kept out of sight in a great moral movement like this. Every voter who puts "No" on his ballot stands by the liquor traffic with all its accompanying misery and crime. Every temperance voter who neglects or refuses to record his vote in favor of the Act counts one against it. The Bible says: "Woe unto him that puttest thy bottle to him, and makest him drunken also." Every man who votes for the continuance of the liquor traffic becomes a partner therewith, and to him it may be truly said "The saloon bottle is thy bottle, and the 'woe' is thine also.

In every community there are a few business men who oppose prohibition, because they imagine that the traffic helps business. Let us see:

It does not afford a market for farm produce.

It is true that it absorbs a small amount of that produce. But it is equally true that the producing power of the farm is wasted and destroyed, when the farmer becomes the victim of the destroying traffic.

It does not help manufacturing industries, for it weakens the earning power, interferes with skilled workmanship and lessens the wages of workingmen who drink, so that their homes are destitute of such furniture, clothing and comforts as are found in the homes of the sober and industrious mechanic. It does not help the wage earner. In comparison with the vast amount of capital invested in the liquor traffic, not a very large number of men are employed thereby. If the amount thus squandered in producing misery and woe were employed in commercial enterprises and helpful manufacturing industries, a vastly larger sum would be paid out yearly to the wage earner.

It in no wise promotes the social and moral welfare of the community. The school, the church and other benevolent institutions are a benediction to humanity, producing a purer and stronger citizenship, while the traffic pollutes character, begets and fosters crime, and drags mankind down to sin and wretchedness.

It does not help the revenue of the country. It takes the wealth of the people, which if employed in healthful, commercial and manufacturing enterprises, would yield a far larger revenue than that paid by the liquor traffic. The liquor bill of this Dominion is $47,000,000 annually. Three thousand lives are slain yearly in Canada by drink, entailing a loss of $14,000,000. Through idleness, caused by drink, there is a yearly loss of $76,000,000. On imperfect work, caused by drunkenness, a yearly loss of $7,800,000. Crime caused by drink costs our country $3,500,000 per year. And on the grain destroyed for drink a yearly loss of $2,000,000. Here are the facts: The people of Canada pay the liquor traffic $150,300,000 to collect for them $11,000,000, which we call revenue.

The liquor traffic has nothing to offer humanity. It makes no man industrious. It makes no home happy. It produces no wealth. It helps no business or Industrial enterprises. On the other hand it is the most inveterate enemy of mankind. It blights his intellect, it wrecks his body, it ruins his home, it kills his spiritual life and pursues him with its curse into the life beyond. Will not all Christian men vote for the overthrow of this giant evil?

"Wine is a mocker and strong drink is raging."

City League Will be a Strong Organization.

There is good reason to believe that Bellevillians will have the opportunity of seeing a lot of exciting hockey this year, providing, of course, the weather man delivers the goods in the matter of ice. It is expected that a City League of five clubs will be in the field, consisting of Albert College, O.B.C., B.B.C., the Belleville Colts and another club called the May Flowers. The Belleville Colts were organized on Wednesday night, November 19th, in the Liberal-Conservative Auxiliary rooms for the purpose of entering the City League, the following officers being elected:

President—J. G. Thompson.
Sec-Treas.—E. M. Hyman.
Manager and Trainer — Harry Brown.

Their Requests Refused.

Toronto Nov. 25. — An executive meeting of the O.H.A. was held last night. There were several applications for reinstatement to amateur standing, among them being one from Harry Brown, of Belleville, and "Ernie" Laing, formerly of Belleville, now of Winnipeg. Both applications were refused.

Some Proposed Amendments.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—The list of amendments to the constitution and rules of the Ontario Hockey Association which will come up for adoption or rejection at the annual meeting on December 6th are all in. There is very little radically new in the suggestions. They are as follows:

(1) To amend clause 11, adding "This will not affect city or local players." This amendment has for its subject the matter of playing in more than one league.

(2) In rinks less than 60 x 160 in size six men shall be used.

(3) A player having played more than once in an intermediate match, or ever in a senior one, shall never again be eligible to play in a junior series.

A TRUE NERVE TONIC

Will act, not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvellous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c at druggists, or J. S. McKeown's.

ANOTHER TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY

GRAND TRUNK TO BUILD IT.

The Montreal Gazette, Toronto Mail and Empire, and Globe made an important announcement yesterday morning upon the authority of Mr. Hays, manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, that that Company intended to proceed at once in the construction of another railway, commencing at North Bay or Gravenhurst, in Ontario, to the Pacific Coast.

The proposition is to run the new line through that portion of Northern Ontario, familiarly known as "New Ontario;" through Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Assiniboia and Alberta, by way of the Peace river or Pine River Pass, and through British Columbia, striking its terminus on the North Pacific Coast, at what point is not yet defined. This stupendous undertaking involves the construction of from 2,500 to 3,000 miles of lines and an expenditure, including equipment, station, bridge, shop and other facilities of from seventy-five millions to one hundred million dollars, and is to be constructed under a separate corporate name, to be called "the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company," and will be of the most modern and up-to-date character.

Mr. Hays when interviewed upon the subject said: "The new trunk line will not depend upon any existing roads, the utilization of the roads which at present are in operation not entering into the plans which have been prepared. What is aimed at is an independent route to the Pacific coast, and to reach that terminus rails will be laid across land which heretofore has been known only to the hunter or the bold prospector. We will build a new line." He was then asked: "Is there any intention of using the Canadian Northern?"

"No," said Mr. Hays, "we will be entirely independent of this or any other road. There is lots of room in that Northwest territory for three or even more roads."

"It was suggested," Mr. Hays, "that it was intended to secure the Canadian Northern, and by using the Canada Atlantic and Great Northern as connecting links, enter Quebec and so secure another terminal."

"We do not require those lines," was the reply.

Upon this point the Mail and Gazette agree, but the Globe's Montreal correspondent says: "It is quite "likely that an arrangement will be "made with the system already con"structed for 1,500 miles by Messrs. "Mackenzie & Mann."

The latter proposition is one which has in the past been mentioned as likely to be adopted, but as the reverse is stated upon the authority of Mr. Hays, it may be accepted as correct.

If this proposition be carried out, and Mackenzie and Mann's scheme carried to completion, Canada will have three distinct and independent lines of railway running from the Atlantic to the Pacific: The Canadian Pacific Railway; The Canadian Northern Railway, and The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The Mail's Ottawa correspondent interviewed Mr. Blair upon the subject, who expressed approval of the project and intimated that he knew all about the scheme when making speeches in the West, in favor of additional railway construction, and diplomatically replied to the question whether the Government intended to subsidize the new line, "That he did not suppose the projectors would object to a subsidy." In the subsidizing of the line proposed to be constructed by those interested in the Grand Trunk Railway, care should be taken and provision be made that Canadian money is not to be expended to build up a rival United States port, and Portland made the shipping point for Canadian products to Europe.

What a comment all this is upon the obstructive policy of the Liberal party under the leadership of Messrs. Mackenzie and Blake; and what a triumph for the Conservative party, and those who supported the progressive policy of the Sir John A. Macdonald Ministry.

The denunciations of those who led the so-called Liberal party in the House of Commons in the past is still ringing in the ears of those who heard them, declare that the Canadian Pacific Railway would never earn enough grease to lubricate the wheels; that all the wealth of England could not build the road in ten years, and that before the rails could be laid on the western end, the ties on the eastern end would be rotten. Now we are told that three transcontinental roads will not suffice to carry the output of that Great West, which, at the time of the construction of the C.P.R., was so unmercifully condemned.

Such, however, has ever been the pessimistic views and policy of what is falsely called Liberalism. Had these gentlemen had their way Canada would now be handicapped in her trade and developments by a "water stretch" system.

IMPERIAL DEFENCE.

SIR FREDERICK BORDEN'S STATEMENT.

The Canadian Government Willing to Do its Part, but Not to Allow Others to Spend its Money.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—At a meeting held under the auspices of the Board of Trade yesterday Mr. H. F. Wyatt delivered a vigorous address upon the necessity of colonial support of the British navy and in support of the formation of an Ottawa branch of the Navy League. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, was among those present, he said:—"I happened to represent the Government of Canada, and had something to say with reference to these important questions of defence. The Government of this country recognizes its duty, as I am quite sure the people of this country recognize their duty, in maintaining, or in putting themselves in a position to bear their fair share of the defence of the empire. As to how that can best be done comes the difficulty. I do not think it is fair to assume that because one set of men differ from another set of men as to the particular way in which the thing should be done, that therefore they are opposed to it. It certainly is not the case in the view which we hold of our responsibilities in the matter of defence.

"The British Government takes the view, rightly or wrongly, that the absolute control—first, last and all the time from beginning to end—of naval defence, or of naval matters be under the Admiralty, and that anything that has to be done by the other parts of the empire, known as colonies, must be done in the way of a substantial contribution in hard cash to the Admiralty. Well, now, I do not hesitate to say that I dissent from that view. I say that advisedly, because that is the position which the Dominion Government have taken. While, however, we take that view, we have expressed in a State paper, which is public property to-day, our desire and intention to do everything that we can to assist the mother country in the matter of defence, and to take the first step at once in the formation of the nucleus, at any rate, of a navy in this country. What that shall be I cannot exactly say. We shall be very glad, I am sure, to study the scheme which Mr. Wyatt stated here to-day is being put into shape by the Canadian branch of the Navy League. I am quite sure that some understanding can be come to by which we can do a great deal in that direction. Mr. Wyatt has spoken in this connection of a scheme by which the Canadian Government will be saved the expense of purchasing guns and purchasing ships. Well, I want to say that the Canadian Government are not trying to dodge or avoid any responsibility in connection with the purchase of guns or anything else. We are quite prepared and quite able to purchase our own guns, and if I have anything to say about it we shall do it; too. But we are not yet ready, as I said a moment ago—and this is the crucial point, and we may as well understand it first as last—to ask the taxpayers of this country to tax themselves to hand over a sum of money, any sum of money, to any body, even the British Admiralty, to spend without our having one single word as to the way in which that money shall be expended."

GIFT OF $25,000 MORE.

SIR WILLIAM MACDONALD AND THE GUELPH BUILDINGS.

Owing to the Increased Cost of Material He Has Raised His Grant to $150,000 For New Manual Training Premises.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—President Mills of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, who was in the city yesterday, announced that Sir William Macdonald of Montreal had, owing to the largely increased cost of building material, consented to add $25,000 to his gift of $125,000 made some time ago for the erection of two buildings at the college for purposes of instruction in manual training and domestic science.

The contractors are now at work on the foundation of the Macdonald Institute, the college premises of this branch, and revised plans are now being prepared for Macdonald Hall, which is to be the women's residence, with a view to letting the contract some time before the beginning of the new year. It will then be completed at the same time as the institute, the time for which has been extended to August 20th next, so that the buildings will have time to dry out thoroughly.

EMPLOYERS FORCE LOCK-OUT.

The Result of Heavy Fines Inflicted by a Labor Union.

New York, Nov. 25.—A lockout was declared by the Builders and Contractors' Association of New Rochelle, which forced all the building trades workmen in suburbs north of New York from Mount Vernon, N. Y., to the Connecticut line to quit work. The number of men out is about 1,500. The trouble grew out of a recent strike caused by a disagreement between plumbers and their employees. It was adjusted, but two journeymen went back to work before the settlement and were fined $50 by their union. They refused to pay, and in the controversy following the Building Trades Council sustained the union, while the Builders and Contractors' Association declared the fines unjust, and announced that a lockout would be started if the fines were not remitted by noon Saturday. They were not, and the declaration of the employers accordingly went into effect today.

CHANGE OF CLIMATE

NOT NECESSARY IN ORDER TO CURE CATARRH.

The popular idea that the only cure for chronic catarrh is a change of climate is a mistake, because catarrh is found in all climates, in all sections of the country; and even if a change of climate should benefit for a time the catarrh will certainly return.

Catarrh may be readily cured in any climate, but the only way to do it is to destroy or remove from the system the catarrhal germs, which cause all the mischief.

The treatment by inhalers, sprays, powders and washes has been proven almost useless in making a permanent cure, as they do not reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and can be reached only by an internal remedy which acts through the stomach upon the blood and system generally.

A new discovery which is meeting with remarkable success in curing catarrh of the head, throat and bronchial tubes, and also catarrh of the stomach, is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

These tablets, which are pleasant and harmless to take, owe their efficiency to the active medicinal principles of Blood Root, Red Gum and a new specific called Guaicol, which together with valuable antiseptics, are combined in convenient, palatable tablet form, and as valuable for children as for adults.

Mr. A. R. Fernbank, of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so many winters from catarrh that I took it as a matter of course, and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate, which my business affairs would not permit me to take.

"My nostrils were almost always clogged up; I had to breathe through the mouth, causing an inflamed, irritated throat. The thought of eating breakfast often nauseated me, and the catarrh gradually getting into my stomach took away my appetite and digestion.

"My druggist advised me to try a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because he said he had so many customers who had been cured of catarrh by the use of these tablets that he felt he could honestly recommend them. I took his advice and used several boxes, with results that surprised and delighted me.

I always keep a box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in the house and the whole family use them freely on the first appearance of a cough or cold in the head.

"With our children we think there is nothing so safe and reliable as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets to ward off croup and colds, and with older people I have known of cases where the hearing had been seriously impaired by chronic catarrh cured entirely by this new remedy."

OBJECT TO A MORMON.

Salt Lake Minister Does Not Want Smoot in the Senate.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 25.—The Ministerial Alliance of Salt Lake adopted resolutions strongly opposing the proposed election to the United States Senate of Reed Smoot, one of the twelve apostles of the Mormon Church. A copy of the resolutions will be sent to every Ministerial Alliance of prominence in the country at once, and also probably to President Roosevelt, every Congressman and United States Senator, and others prominent in political life. One protest reads:—"We protest against the proposed election of Apostle Smoot to the United States Senate, because the majority of the Mormon apostolate, to which he belongs, and with which he works in harmony, are living in polygamous relations, in violation of the covenants made to the people of the United States as well as in violation of the criminal statutes of Utah. The Mormon apostolate stands as one man before the community as directly or indirectly encouraging or conniving at the continuance of polygamous relations throughout the Mormon Church. The vigorous and rigorous execution of a law like the Edmunds-Lucke law in this State would drive the Mormon Church and the majority of its apostles into exile, or throw them in prison within twelve months, and Apostle Smoot dare not oppose such polygamous conditions."

A private letter received in Ottawa states that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is much benefited by his visit to Hot Springs, Va. He will return in three weeks.

A Costly Duel.

As a result of a duel fought in Milan, Italy, a few weeks ago between two captains of the Sixtieth regiment the Italian authorities seem to be determined to stamp out dueling. The challenger of the duel in question has been expelled from the army, and his antagonist has been sent to a fortress, but the most striking features of the affair are the other punitive measures taken in connection with it. The colonel of the Sixtieth regiment has been suspended, the lieutenant colonel has been sentenced to imprisonment for fifteen days, and two majors have been given ten days' imprisonment. Four captains who acted as seconds in the duel have been sent to a fortress for six months. These severe measures have created a favorable impression.

All Bow to Great Britain.

Few people are aware that Britain's mistress-ship of the seas is more than an assertion and that it is acknowledged by every nation. On entering a foreign port marine etiquette requires a man-of-war to salute the national flag by dipping its own, and in return the host lowers its flag. But no British ship dips the union jack until the foreigner has first dipped his colors. In all seas, both home and foreign, Britain claims to be saluted first, and this honor is rendered by every nation as the tribute of her sovereignty of the waves.—Pearson's Weekly.

Crematorium In Canada.

Germany possesses seven crematories, the total number of cremations performed at each during the year 1901 being 693. In Great Britain there are seven crematories in which, during the year 1901, 445 persons were cremated. Italy possesses twenty-two crematories, but statistics as to the number of persons upon whom cremation was performed in 1901 is lacking in some of these. There are three crematories in Switzerland, at one of which 127 cremations were performed in 1901. Sweden possesses two and Denmark one. In Austria-Hungary societies for the promotion of cremation continue to be formed, but the practice of cremation has not yet been legalized. In Madrid the right of cremation has been conferred by a royal decree, while even in Russia the Government proposes to issue a decree in favor of making cremation optional. In France a large crematorium is situated in the far-famed cemetery of Paris, Pere la Chaise, in which, since its opening, 2,299 bodies have been cremated. In the United States are twenty-six crematories, twenty-four of which are in operation. A larger number of persons are cremated in the United States than in any other country. In Canada cremation is practically unknown as yet, the only crematorium in the country being one at Montreal.

Septic Tank Successful.

During the past season a number of summer hotels, country residences, and institutions away from city sewage systems have put in Dr. Bryce's adaptation of the septic tank system of sewage, and all with most satisfactory results. The most severe test has been in a pork factory at Brantford, where the sewage amounts to 15,000 gallons per day. This is satisfactorily handled by a system of tiles under about three acres of land. Perhaps the most peculiar adaptation of the septic tank system has been in connection with certain steamers on small lakes. To prevent the pollution of the lakes the sewage has been filtered by a septic tank in the hold of the steamer. The tanks worked excellently through the tourist season without replenishing. These successes, says The Mail, suggest the possibilities of the system for all places where the ordinary sewer connection cannot be obtained.

Thousands of Women Are Kept Suffering and Many Die Owing to False Treatment

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

NEVER FAILS TO BANISH DISEASE AND RE-ESTABLISH LASTING HEALTH.

Thousands of women are kept in sickness for months and years owing to false treatment and the use of worthless medicines, and we are inclined to believe that Milton thought of this class of almost dying women when he said:

"The angelic guards ascended, mute and sad."

The common sense treatment of to-day for weak, rundown and suffering women, is Paine's Celery Compound. This marvellous medicine is spoken of in every part of the civilized world, and men and women of all classes find a new life from its use. A glorious example of the curing powers of the great compound comes from Winnipeg, Man., Mrs. H. Harbour writes as follows:

"A month ago I was very sick and happened to see one of your publications, in which I read of others being cured. I concluded to try Paine's Celery Compound myself, and I now thank God for the wonders it accomplished for me. I was suffering from heart disease, kidney trouble and general weakness, and some days was not able to stand without experiencing great pain. Since I used the compound I am able to get about the house and work, and can now eat anything put before me."

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

LIBERALS OPPOSED TO PREFERENCE.

Now that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers have threatened to withdraw the preference to British goods, the public has another opportunity of satisfying itself as to how much faith can be safely placed in any policy the Liberal party may announce.

It was only on November 4th, in a speech at Toronto, that Sir William Mulock said of the British preference:

> "How has Great Britain already treated us since we granted this preference? Till then our produce was little known or appreciated in her markets, and much was sold under the name 'American.' Now it no longer enters that market under an alias, but under its true name, 'Canadian.' That name is now popular, respected and beloved in England, and sells our produce and wins for it a preference, thus increasing the demand for Canadian products."

Two weeks later the full report of Mr. Chamberlain's address at the Colonial Conference arrived, and in it is contained this absolute denial of Sir William Mulock's claim:

> "This was a preference voluntarily accorded to Canada on British taxable goods, imported into the Dominion. The time that has elapsed has been sufficient to enable us to form a judgment of the effect of an arrangement of this kind, and I have to say to you that while I cannot but gracefully acknowledge the intention of this proposal and its sentimental value as a proof of good will and affection, yet its substantial results have been altogether disappointing to us, and I think they must have been disappointing to their promoters."

The situation fully illustrates how much one can rely on the statements of members of the Laurier Cabinet. Sir William Mulock was present at the Colonial Conference and heard Mr. Chamberlain denounce the Preference, in behalf of the British people. He also heard the Colonial Secretary offer a similar expression of opinion in behalf of the Canadian Ministers. He was cognizant, too, of the stand taken by the Canadian representatives, who notified the British authorities that the Canadian Government might at any time cancel the concessions to British goods.

Yet in the face of this knowledge, made public a few days later, he not only defended, but praised a policy which he had threatened to denounce. He claimed for the Preference a popularity among English people which he knew to be a myth. And the only excuse one can offer in his behalf is, that his observations were made in the course of the same speech in which he uttered the innuendo concerning his postal surplus, and that misrepresentation developed into force of habit.

Mr. Chamberlain is disappointed with the Preference. The Canadian Ministers, through Mr. Chamberlain, have also expressed their lack of faith in it; and the Canadian manufacturers are against it. Who does want it, as it now is—a medium for the flooding of Canadian markets with the products of the "sweat-shops" of Europe?

What Canada does want is a "Mutual Preference," as advocated by the Conservative party, having regard first and always for the interests of "Canada for Canadians."

TIMELY TOPICS.

The talk of the town last night and to-day, of course, was the wholesale swindling operations which took place in this city on Saturday night. It seems tolerably certain that at least seven, and possibly more, of our merchants were swindled. The game was a very smooth one, and the swindlers combined daring with cunning in a really remarkable way. For instance, in one store the cheque was refused, and before the man who refused it had time to go out of the store and talk about the matter the swindler was back again with the money for the groceries ordered, saying he had got the cheque cashed elsewhere, thus immediately allaying suspicion. This, we understand, happened in two places.

• • •

Some people are indulging in considerable cachinnation to-day, but the fact remains that the whole thing was so skilfully planned, the rubber stamps used being an exact fac simile and the signature so perfectly written, that even the shrewdest man might have fallen into the trap. The old saying has it that "misery likes company," so Belleville merchants can take comfort in the fact that their brethren in many other places have been victimized. It is stated that no less than eighteen merchants of Peterboro now have interesting souvenirs in the shape of cheques for $10.50.

• • •

This game, of course, has been in preparation for some time. It is recalled that some time ago some peddlers visited the city, their principal stock in trade being handkerchiefs. They proferred cheques to cash when they could get them, and it is believed the gang went through Ontario getting information and finding out the lay of the land. The whole thing undoubtedly was carefully planned, the rascals took their time and got everything down perfect; then they proceeded to gather in their harvest, and, judging by what one sees, hears and reads, it has been a bountiful one. What a pity it is that people of the character of these rogues would not turn their skill and ingenuity to good account, instead of evil! It doesn't require half the shrewdness to make an honest living as a dishonest one. But some men seem to be born crooked, and find the straight path too narrow!

A Pennsylvania man lost his voice five years ago. Recently smallpox visited his neighborhood and the doctor told him to drink whiskey as a preventative. He did so and recovered his voice. That's nothing. Whiskey was always noted for making people talk. They've even been known, when under its influence, to talk too much.

We have received a sample of granulated sugar from the Ontario Sugar Co., Limited, of Berlin, Ontario, which purports to be the "first ever made in Canada from sugar beets grown in Canada." The sugar is good, and its manufacture under the circumstances is creditable to the company, which, we understand, is largely run by local capital, but it is not the first sugar made in Canada from sugar beets grown in Canada, for sugar was made long ago in the Province of Quebec, from sugar beets grown in the same province.

The School Management Committee has, it appears, decided to recommend that the request of the Public School teachers, re abolition of the Christmas promotion examinations, be not granted. The reason for this is not clear, especially to those who heard the arguments advanced by the pedagogues. Some people are beginning to think that Belleville's Board of Education is a sort of Circumlocution office, the members of which strenuously object to anything which smacks of progress, and who observe with suspicion and horror any proposition which does not emanate from themselves. It might be as well for the Boarders to remember that they will have a promotion examination of their own on the first Monday in January. We have always thought, and think still, that the system of a half-yearly promotion examination leads to cramming, which militates against that thoroughness which should be at the root of all education. The action of the School Management Committee, we fear, is not well advised. They might better think the matter over.

ARTICLE NOT OFFICIAL

MR. F. C. T. O'HARA COMPLAINS OF UNWARRANTED ACT OF U.S. NEWSPAPERS.

A despatch from Ottawa says that Undue prominence has been given by the American press to an article on the Alaskan boundary written by Mr. F. C. T. O'Hara, private secretary to Sir Richard Cartwright, who will to-morrow be married to Miss Helen Corby, of this city. Mr. O'Hara is an old newspaperman, and in his leisure moments does considerable literary work. He states that an article on the subject mentioned appearing over his name in the New York Tribune of the 22nd was not written officially or semi-officially, nor was it intended to be other than a communication from himself as a Canadian and as an ex-newspaper man. It was not written upon official paper nor signed officially, and the heading, as it appeared in the Tribune, as being the semi-official view of the Dominion Government, was, Mr. O'Hara says, wholly and absolutely unwarranted.

Happily there are men more generously disposed whose first thought is for their families, and whose last, for themselves. Take your place with these men and provide for your family in the Imperial Life of Canada, that Hunt & Jeffers, opposite the Post Office, represent. A grace of one month is allowed in the payment of renewal premiums. After one year the policy is absolutely indisputable. Cash values are set forth and guaranteed in the policy and it has the largest Government deposit of any Canadian life assurance company.

CAN'T DISPUTE SUCH NEWNESS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

As it is found at this store, and even to equal it is simply impossible. It would be different if the makers of our clothing were satisfied to use the same models as the other fellows do, but they don't, and instead they do as the best tailors must—wait for Fashion's latest dictates and follow them.

We've no exclusive styles no more than has your tailor—our clothes are built to conform with styles as you see them on the fashion plates and are fashioned and tailored in a way to leave nothing to be desired be you even so exacting.

You can't question this store's QUALITY in clothes because it is the HIGHEST possible, which it always has been ; nor could you wish for better, more generous or complete showing of the latest styles, fabrics and shades.

We have left nothing to be desired, knowing that you will look to us for style standards the best varieties and the most satisfactory quality as you always have done. And when it comes to prices you'll find we hold 'em down as low as anybody.

In Suits

The trend, especially among the higher priced ones is toward darkish grey mixtures and brown effects relieved by over-plaids of brighter hues, the sorts you'll find among the tailor's showings. Neat, fancy Worsted and attractive Cheviot mixtures are among the much sought-after as are the plain blues and blacks. Styles are three and four button single-breasted and two and three button double-breasted sacques—shoulders generously broad with the backs cut not as close fitting as last year. Prices start at $5 and stop at $15.

In Overcoats

The newest are the Shetlands and Tweeds, cut double-breasted and are very full both in back and front with a half belt in the back. But for dress the average man will wear the single-breasted garments of Oxford Greys, undressed Worsteds, Vicunas, English Coatings and Friezes, they are rather long and cut rather loose and full. All styles here. Priced from $3 90 to $15.00.

STRANGE CASE OF MR. SKILES.

For years the Rev. Samuel Skiles of Ripley, Brown county, Ill., had been annoyed by a large and conspicuous wart on the back of his hand.

In the effort to remove it he had tried everything he had ever heard of or could think of short of amputating the hand, but in vain. The wart clung.

At last a member of his congregation told him that if he would rub it with a grain from a red ear of corn, at the same time saying, "Leave me, wart, and never come back!" and then bury the grain of corn, the wart would disappear for good.

Mr. Skiles followed the prescription faithfully, although he said he had no faith that it would drive the wart away.

It didn't.

We're Going

Going to double our Christmas trade of last year. Know we are, because the people have the money to buy while we have the best line of goods ever shown in Belleville before for Christmas, and our prices will be 25 per cent. lower than ever before.

WE ARE AS SURE

Of our Christmas trade as we are that we have the goods—can see the trend of business already—can feel it in every day business life. We are feeling it in the present wall paper trade, in our picture framing trade, in our stationery and book trade, and all this coupled with what we have to show will make business hum as it has not done for years past.

OUR GOODS

Are not of the far reaching kind, not those of the out of reach price, but the kind you want — choice, artistic, useful goods, at moderate prices

Cat Fits.

If a cat has fits, give in its milk a piece of copperas the size of a pea. One dose will usually be sufficient.

Diamonds.

It is said that diamonds—especially the class known as "rose diamonds"—are likely to explode if subjected only to what would seem a very ordinary degree of heat, such as strong rays from the sun.

A Paint Cleaner.

Tea leaves are useful for other things besides brushing floors. When they are a few days old, pour boiling water over them, leaving them till nearly cold. Then strain the water and use it for washing paint. It takes off the stains quite easily.

Buckingham Palace.

Buckingham palace occupies the site of the mulberry gardens laid out by James VI. in his unsuccessful attempt to start a silk industry in London.

How Plants Grow.

Photographs of growing plants show some marvelous results, especially among the climbers. The young stems are said to move in a succession of irregular circular or elliptical curves, which vary in every direction. These movements are due to the irregular growth in various parts of the stem.

Ant Nests.

The number of ants in a nest varies from 12,293 to 93,694. These figures are from a recent count of five nests.

Cleanliness.

Cleanliness means more than washing the hands and face and body. It means the keeping of one's surroundings free from influences which must taint the air we breathe, our food and our drink.

Sea Bed Iron.

An enormous quantity of iron, in the shape of old anchors and chains, is annually rescued from the sea. During one period of twelve months as much as 150 tons weight was dredged up on the east coast of England alone.

Ancient Dress Trains.

In 1264 a London priest preached against the fashion of trains, which, he said, "trailing behind a woman, raise a dust as high as the altar."

The Rainbow as a Siphon.

In many countries the rainbow is spoken of as being a great bent pump or siphon tube, drawing water from the earth by mechanical means. In parts of Russia, in the Don country and also in Moscow and vicinity, it is known by a name which is equivalent to "the bent water pipe."

An Ordinary Shoe.

There are over 100 distinct pieces in the ordinary shoe, including the forty-four parts, the lasting tacks, the heel nails, threads and laces.

Rice Griddlecakes.

Press cup of cold boiled rice through sieve; add tablespoonful butter, melted, and teaspoonful salt; break two eggs into mixture and beat well; add cup milk. Pour this over cup flour; add two teaspoonfuls baking powder. If the butter is too thick, add a little milk. Bake on a hot griddle.

Tricks That Are Old.

Many of the most wonderful feats of magic were known centuries ago. There is the famous trick of making a plant grow instantaneously, for example, which was described in a French paper of the year 1685, but the secret of it was not given.

A Gypsy Scheme.

The gypsies employ a very simple method to check the member of their band of musicians who has to make the collection. They give him a plate to hold in his right hand and a live fly which he has to keep imprisoned in his left hand as he goes around collecting the money.

A Japanese Custom.

At a Japanese banquet it is considered a compliment to exchange cups with a friend.

Panama Insects.

The cattle which draw the mahogany logs in the forests of the isthmus of Panama have to be sprayed with kerosene to destroy the parasites, which are their deadly enemies.

Paint Brushes.

Paint brushes on which the paint has been allowed to harden may be easily cleaned if they are put to soak for a few hours in linseed oil. This will soften the paint, and they can then be rinsed in turpentine until they are clean.

Greek Topknots.

At the time of the Persian wars all Greek men wore long hair tied on the top of the head in a knot and fastened with a hairpin.

Fireflies In Japan.

Fireflies are sold nightly by peddlers in the crowded quarters of Tokyo and other Japanese cities. The insects sell for 3 rin apiece, a rin being equal in value to the twentieth part of a cent.

Cane Bottom Chairs.

When the seats of cane bottom chairs have become limp and stretched, provided none of the canes are broken, they may be restored by being well washed in hot water and exposed to a current of air. This treatment causes the canes to tighten up, and when dry the seat will be quite flat.

English Ivy.

The English ivy attains so great an age that in England they say it never dies. There are ivy stocks ten or twelve inches in diameter which are known to have been planted as slips 600 or 800 years ago.

Robert Edeson's First Success.

At Dayton, O., there is a soldiers' home, with a small theater attached to it. There during the summer young actors not yet admitted to regular professional standing and possessed of more ambition than training gain experience for themselves and give amusement to the veterans by playing little one act plays, doing individual acts of various kinds and experimenting with all classes of roles, from feeble fathers to vigorous clog dancers. Years ago a certain young man, Robert Edeson, spent a summer vacation acting in Dayton and aroused such vociferous enthusiasm by his work on the little stage that a large notice was posted on one side of the drop curtain, "Members of the audience with wooden legs must not applaud by stamping on the floor." But the veterans managed to obey orders and still keep up their applause. They crossed their acquired manufactured legs over their original natural ones and then whacked the wooden ones with their canes. And that was Robert Edeson's first success.—Leslie's Monthly.

The Ways of the Turk.

Baedeker's is generally regarded as a harmless book. Not so in Turkey, as a German traveler has learned to his grief. They found in his trunk a guide through Turkey and confiscated it. The next morning the Baedeker was returned to the German, but with more than a hundred pages, containing a description of Constantinople, torn out. The traveler went to the censor's office to complain of this inexplicable treatment of his book. But the censor explained to him with irresistible logic that an accurate description of Constantinople could not be suffered, since a knowledge of the locality was calculated to facilitate an attempt on the sultan's life.

Advertising Pays.

A department store in New York announced in the newspapers of the city one day that it would give a stickpin with the class number on it to the children in every grade in the public schools if each child would mail a postal card asking for it. One hundred and sixty-five thousand postal cards were received in response to the advertisement, which seems to indicate, among other things, that when something is offered for nothing there is no lack of people ready to accept it. Incidentally, also, it suggests that advertisements are read, and that in turn suggests that advertising pays.

POWERS AND VENEZUELA.

GREAT BRITAIN AND GERMANY TO TAKE ACTION.

The United States Will Not Shelter Venezuela Against the Results of Her Misdeeds.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The State Department is thoroughly well informed of the length to which Great Britain, Germany and other European powers propose to go in their dealings with Venezuela. Great Britain and Germany have, in fact, sounded the department to learn whether any objections would be made to active measures on their part to secure the collection of debts due their citizens on account of violated concessions, and the destruction of their property incident to the internal dissensions which have raged in Venezuela for several years past. The department has been extremely cautious in dealing with these inquiries, but the substance of its replies in all cases has been set out in the declaration of President Roosevelt that the United States did not construe the Monroe doctrine to mean that it should shelter any of the American republics against the results of their own misdeeds, or violations of international amenity. The only condition made by the President was that the punishment inflicted upon any of these South and Central American republics by a European power must not include the seizure by that power of any American soil.

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 24.—In an evidently inspired note The Cologne Gazette to-day says:—England should certainly teach Venezuela a sharp lesson, since President Castro refuses to recognize the demands of justice and equity. Germany and other States have also serious grounds for complaint, and it is time the relations of Venezuela towards foreign powers should be defined.

THE NEW RAILWAY.

IT WILL BE A PURELY CANADIAN ORGANIZATION.

PRESIDENT SHAUGHNESSY'S OPINION OF IT.

NO CONNECTION WITH THE CANADIAN NORTHERN.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—The Grand Trunk Railway's extension to the Pacific coast was the chief topic of conversation in business and political as well as railway circles. Mr. Hays, the General Manager, however, is not yet prepared to go much into details about the project. It will be a separate corporation, with headquarters at Montreal, so as to facilitate business and avoid delay, such as might occur if the head office were across the ocean. The new corporation will enter into exclusive traffic arrangements with the Grand Trunk. That is about as far as he would go explaining the scheme. The route has not been decided, nor even surveyed, but, broadly speaking, the road will follow the route mapped out by Sir Sandford Fleming for the original Pacific scheme. It is inevitable, too, that when the coast is reached there must be a Pacific steamship fleet, but these details have not yet been discussed. Mr. Hays states that his company does not require the Mackenzie & Mann system, and that the new line will be independent of it.

The comment of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the C.P.R., is certainly instructive. He said:—"Yes, our Grand Trunk friends are undertaking a very big contract. There is nothing in the announcement that need cause the Canadian Pacific the slightest concern. In this vast country of ours there is room for a great many miles of railway. Twenty years ago, when the Canadian Pacific enterprise was inaugurated, the entire country from Pembroke to the Pacific coast, a distance of upwards of 2,500 miles, was a bleak waste, practically uninhabited. To-day the Canadian Pacific operates in that territory over 6,000 miles of railway, main line and branches, and this mileage is being increased year by year. The construction of a line north of us will involve years of labor and millions upon millions of capital.

"A feature of the announcement is the absence of any reference to Government bonuses or subventions. The Grand Trunk Company has declared its determination to build, so that any aid toward the enterprise from either the Dominion or Provincial Governments is not asked or required, and this is just what it should be from the standpoint of the public, as well as of existing railways. As Mr. Hays says, the conditions have changed enormously since the pioneer road was constructed, and circumstances that made Government co-operation absolutely essential to the carrying out of the original Canadian Pacific enterprise no longer exist."

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Mr. William Mackenzie of the Mackenzie & Mann syndicate, in discussing the matter at his offices in the Street Railway chambers, refused to say that negotiations between the Grand Trunk Railway and the Canadian Northern Railway companies would not result in the absorption of the latter road by the Grand Trunk in carrying out its plan to reach the coast. Mr. Mackenzie did say, however, that the Grand Trunk Railway Company had no connection with the Canadian Northern at present.

"The work of the extension of the Canadian Northern to the east will be commenced very shortly," said Mr. Mackenzie, "and we intend before long to reach Toronto, Montreal and Quebec and Ottawa. We have already carried on a large amount of surveying work and are following this up with all possible haste."

Upon being asked as to the plans of the railway for the west, he declared that the road would be pushed through irrespective of what action any other company might take. He expected that even in the near future the Canadian Northern Railway would be a transcontinental road.

"Then Mr. Hays' railway will parallel yours?" said the reporter.

"Wouldn't it be better to say 'Mr. Hays' scheme will parallel our railway?'" asked the railway magnate, smiling.

Continuing, Mr. Mackenzie said that he believed that Mr. Hays had stated that the Grand Trunk would not use the Canadian Northern, and that this statement must be accepted.

"We have the charters, the locations, profiles and maps prepared," he said. "We have the right to either of the Peace River, Pine River or Yellowhead passes in the Rockies, under the Edmonton, Yukon & Pacific charter, a small section of which line is in operation, and with all this work accomplished we are not likely to stop now."

DEVASTATING HURRICANE.

Five Persons Killed and a Hundred Houses Destroyed.

Buenos Ayres, Argentina, Nov. 25.—A hurricane has swept over San Urbano, Province of Santa Fe. A hundred houses were destroyed, five persons were killed, a number were injured and railroad and telegraphic communication was interrupted.

A Man and Two Horses.

Robert Mitchell of Uxbridge is under arrest at Markham on the charge of stealing two horses and rigs, two buggies, with harness complete. On Friday he hired a horse and a buggy from G. Nokes, Uxbridge, and drove to Markham, where he traded it for another outfit and drove on, trying along the road to sell it. At the Halfway House on the Kingston road he offered it to Osler Mosher, who suspected something was wrong and sent for Constable Burns. Mitchell was placed under arrest and taken back to Markham. He was taken before Magistrate Wilson and was remanded until Wednesday.

A Momentous Sneeze.

Perhaps because an elephant sneezes so seldom or because he sneezes so loud oriental folk are very superstitious about the occurrence and believe that to hear an elephant sneeze brings good luck. The effect produced by the sneeze of Jumbo II. at an industrial exhibition is thus described:

Jumbo's sneeze is like the bursting of a boiler, and it created a fairly good sized panic. The elephant began to get ready for the sneeze half an hour before it happened, and as the time for the event drew near, he was rolling about in his cage, apparently in great agony. Suddenly he stopped, gave one bellow and then sneezed.

The look of perfect contentment on his face after the great event was in startling contrast to the terror seen on the faces of the fleeing people. Visitors to the exposition were running in all directions, not knowing what awful thing it was from which they were racing away.

Among the Mohammedans of the oriental and Cingalese villages Jumbo's sneeze caused wild excitement. They rushed to the cage, and bowing before his elephantine highness, began praying at a rapid rate. When they finished, they explained that an elephant's sneezes are of the rarest occurrence, and the event was one of great significance to them. Elephants are susceptible to cold and catch cold easily, but it is very, very rarely that they sneeze.

The Ocean Trip.

Half an hour or so appears to be an important saving in time in the ocean voyage. Columbus and Cabot and Drake would not have thought much of it, but in these days of ship speeding every captain of a liner is ambitious to maintain his record and to beat it if possible. Again, there are people even in this age of hurry and bustle to whom the ocean trip is in itself an agreeable incident. The society is generally pleasant, there are interesting sights on the deep, the fare is as good as that of a first class hotel, seasickness has become unfashionable, there is plenty of reading matter and no disposition to look at it, and the trip is in short a restful loaf till the ship is within range of the wireless telegraph and the meddling world resumes its chatter.

An Ingenious Swindle.

A novel kind of swindle was practiced in a German town the other day. A man struggling along under a heavy burden suddenly stumbled and crashed through a plate glass store window. The proprietor of the store demanded payment. The porter said he had no money. Passersby advised that he be searched. A thousand mark note was found on him, which, he said, belonged to his employer. The storekeeper, however, deducted 100 marks for the value of his window and handed 900 marks change to the porter, who went away swearing and protesting. A little later the storekeeper discovered the thousand mark note was spurious.

Irish-Speaking Negroes.

On the beautiful island of Montserrat, in the Leeward group, there is a population of real Irish negroes. The island was colonized by Irish settlers and the negroes to this day speak the old Irish Gaelic tongue, or English with an Irish brogue. A story is told of a Connaught man, who, on arriving at the island, was to his astonishment hailed in a vernacular Irish by the black people. He was horrified and left at once, thinking they were Irishmen who had been turned black by the tropical sun, and that he would turn black, too, if he stayed there.

Nerve Disorders of Women

ACCOMPANIED BY NEURALGIA, IRRITABILITY, SLEEPLESSNESS AND DEPRESSED SPIRITS.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The feminine organism requires an enormous quantity of blood not only to sustain the network of nerves which are found in the womanly system, but also to make good the periodical loss which so weakens the body.

Consequently it happens that just as soon as the blood gets weak and watery or is deficient in quantity the nervous system suffers, and in woman the effects are more severely felt in the form of irregularities and weaknesses of the feminine system.

At the beginning of womanhood, at child birth, during the nursing periods and at the change of life, calls are made for an extra supply of blood, and as a result nervous disorders are exceedingly common at these times and the health and happiness of the remainder of life may depend on the care of the system.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and creates new nerve force, it is the most effective preparation ever used by women to build up the system and restore vigor and strength go the body.

Mrs. John Hogan, Strachan street, Belleville, Ont., states; "I have used several boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and as a result I have been restored to good health. I used to suffer a great deal with headaches, dizziness, nervousness and weak, fainting spells. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food these ills have been entirely overcome and I feel like a different person. My nerves are steady, I have no headaches and the dizziness and fainting spells have entirely left me. I can speak most highly of this medicine as an excellent tonic.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

But hours, however sad, will wear themselves away, and so the day went on, succeeded by the night, until that too had passed and another day had come, the second of Katy's ocean life. At the farm-house the work was all done up, and Helen in her neat gingham dress, with her bands of brown hair bound about her head, sat sewing, when she was startled by the sound of wheels, and looking up saw the boy employed to carry packages from the express office, driving to their door with a trunk, which he said had come that morning from Boston.

In some surprise Helen hastened to unlock it with the key which she found appended to it. The trunk was full, and over the whole a linen towel was folded, while on the top of that lay a letter in Katy's handwriting, directed to Helen, who, sitting down upon the floor, broke the seal and read as follows:

"Boston, June —, Revere House,
Nearly midnight.

"My Dear Sister Helen: I have just come in from a little party given by one of Mrs. Harvey's friends, and I am so tired, for you know I am not accustomed to such late hours. The party was very pleasant indeed, and everybody was so kind to me, especially Mr. Ray, who stood by me all the time, and who somehow seemed to help me, so that I knew just what to do, and was not awkward at all. I hope not, at least for Wilford's sake.

"You do not know how grand and dignified he is here in Boston among his own set; he is so different from what he was in Silverton that I should be afraid of him if I did not know how much he loves me. He shows that in every action, and I am perfectly happy, except when I think that to-morrow night at this time I shall be on the sea, going away from you all. Here it does not seem far to Silverton, and I often look towards home wondering what you are doing, and if you miss me any. I wish I could see you once before I go, just to tell you all how much I love you—more than I ever did before, I am sure.

"And now I come to the trunk. I know you will be surprised at its contents, but you cannot be more so than I was when Wilford said I must pack them up and send them back—all the dresses you and Marion made."

"No, oh no!" and Helen felt her strength leave her wrists in one sudden throb as the letter dropped from her hand, while she tore off the linen covering and saw for herself that Katy had written truly.

She could not weep then, but her face was white as marble as she again took up the letter and commenced at the point where she had broken off.

"It seems that people traveling in Europe do not need many things, but what they have must be just right, and so Mrs. Cameron wrote for Mrs. Harvey to see to my wardrobe, and if I had not exactly what was proper she was to procure it. It is very funny that she did not find a single proper garment among them all, when we thought them so nice. They were not just the style, she said, and that was very desirable in Mrs. Wilford Cameron. Somehow she tries to impress me with the idea that Mrs. Wilford Cameron is a very different person from little Katy Lennox, but I can see no difference except that I am a great deal happier and have Wilford all the time.

"Well, as I was telling you, I was measured and fitted, and my figure praised, until my head was nearly turned, only I did not like the horrid stays they put on me, squeezing me up and making me feel so stiff. Mrs. Harvey says no lady does without them, expressing much surprise that I had never worn them, and so I submit to the powers that be; but every chance I get here in my room I take them off and throw them on the floor, where Wilford has stumbled over them two or three times.

"This afternoon the dresses came home, and they do look beautifully, while every one has belt, and gloves and ribbons, and sashes, and laces or muslins to match—fashionable people are so particular about these things. I have tried them on, and except that I think them too tight, they fit admirably, and do give me a different air from what Miss Hazelton's did. But I really believe I like the old ones best, because you helped to make them; and when Wilford said I must send them home, I went where he could not see me and cried, because—well, I hardly know why I cried, unless I feared you might feel badly. Dearest Helen, don't, will you? I love you just as much, and shall remember you the same as if I wore the dresses. Dearest sister, I can fancy the look that will come over your face, and I wish I could be present to kiss it away. Imagine me there, will you? with my arms around your neck, and tell mother not to mind. Tell her I never loved her so well as now, and that when I come home from Europe I shall bring her ever so many things. There is a new black silk for her in the trunk, and one for each of the aunties, while for you there is a lovely brown, which Wilford said was just your style, telling me to select as nice a silk as I pleased, and this he did, I think, because he guessed I had been crying. He asked me what made my eyes so red, and when I would not tell him he took me with him to the silk store and bade me get what I liked. Oh, he is the dearest, kindest husband, and I love him all the more because I am the least bit afraid of him.

"And now I must stop, for Wilford says so. Dear Helen, dear all of you, I can't help crying as I say good-bye. Remember little Katy, and if she ever did anything bad, don't lay it up against her. Kiss Morris and Uncle Ephraim, and say how much I love them. Darling sister, darling mother, good-bye."

This was Katy's letter, and it brought a gush of tears from the four women remembered so lovingly in it, the mother and the aunts stealing away to weep in secret, without ever stopping to look at the new dresses sent to them by Wilford Cameron. They were very soft, very handsome, especially Helen's rich golden brown, and as she looked at it she felt a thrill of satisfaction in knowing it was hers, but this quickly passed as she took out one by one the garments she had folded with so much care, wondering when Katy would wear each one and where she would be.

"She will never wear them, never—they are not fine enough for her now!" she exclaimed, and as she just then came upon the little plaid, she laid her head upon the trunk lid, while her tears dropped like rain in among the discarded articles condemned by Wilford Cameron.

It seemed to her like Katy's grave, and she was sobbing bitterly, when a step sounded outside the window, and a voice called her name. It was Morris, and lifting up her head Helen said passionately:

"Oh, Morris, look! he has sent back all Katy's clothes, which you bought and I worked so hard to make. They were not good enough for his wife to wear, and so he insulted us. Oh, Katy, I never fully realized till now how wholly she is lost to us!"

"Helen, Helen," Morris kept saying, trying to stop her, for close behind him was Mark Ray, who heard her distinctly, and glancing in, saw her kneeling before the trunk, her pale face stained with tears, and her dark eyes shining with excitement.

Mark Ray understood it at once, feeling indignant at Wilford for thus unnecessarily wounding the sensitive girl, whose expression, as she sat there upon the floor, with her face upturned to Morris, haunted him for months. Mark was sorry for her—so sorry that his first impulse was to go quietly away, and so spare her the mortification of knowing that he had witnessed that little scene; but it was now too late. As she finished speaking her eye fell on him, and coloring scarlet she struggled to her feet, and covering her face with her hands wept still more violently. Mark was in a dilemma, and whispered softly to Morris: "I think I will leave. You can tell her all I had to say," but Helen heard him, and mastering her agitation, she said to him:

"Please, Mr. Ray, don't go—not yet at least, not till I have asked you of Katy. Did you see her off? Has she gone?"

Bull Fight Declared Off.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 24.—Chief of Police Hayes announced to-day that the bullfight scheduled to take place in Convention Hall on Thanksgiving evening would not be permitted. The tan-bark ring has been placed in the hall, bulls and matadors from Mexico are in the city, and everything was ready for the fight, when the promoters were informed that the law would not permit the fight to take place. The bull fight was made the subject of discussion in a majority of the pulpits of Kansas City yesterday, which aroused public sentiment

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

IN STORE FOR THOSE WHO DOUBT.

When you read that a sufferer of many years standing has been completely restored to health by using Smith's Cure-all, you are inclined to doubt the statement and, in fact, have no belief in it whatever. The reason for this is that so much is claimed for the Cure-all it is impossible for anyone to believe it; if the advertiser confined his claims to the curing of one disease, as do the proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure, readers would have much more faith in published testimonials. Those familiar with this great remedy know that testimonials as to its merit may be relied upon implicitly, also that the cures brought about by its use are little short of marvellous. The genuineness of the testimonial here given is vouched for and is but one of thousands received.

"I had a friend who had used one box of 50 cent Pyramid Pile Cure that entirely cured her. I saw the good effect on her, and thought I would try it, as I had got so I could not sit down without extreme pain and getting up was just as bad; the first box nearly cured me; I got the second box and have had no trouble since. Pyramid Pile Cure does all that it claims to do, and I never miss an opportunity to tell its merits. I speak from observation, and personal benefit. Two boxes cured me over a year ago, and no return of the trouble since." Mrs. M Mooney, 6000 Sangamon St., Chicago, Ill.

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. Write this firm for their book describing the cause and cure of piles.

BAD WRECK ON C.P.R.

REAR-END COLLISION BETWEEN TWO FREIGHT TRAINS.

Six Cars Demolished—Express Delayed More Than Two Hours Near Claremont—Engineer and Fireman Slightly Injured.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Two C. P. R. freight trains collided between Myrtle and Claremont yesterday afternoon, and caused the wreck of six or more cars and slight injuries to the engineer and fireman of the engine on the second train. The fireman suffered the more, but his injuries were not serious, consisting of an injury to one of his arms and a rather bad shaking up. The passenger train from Montreal was delayed two hours and a half, and a relief had to be sent out from Toronto to fetch the passengers, who were transferred from one train to the other.

The two freights were running not far apart and both coming west, when in rounding a slight curve out of Myrtle the engine on the front train broke down and the other engine smashed into the rear cars. Some of the cars were completely demolished and were set on fire to help to clear the wreckage. One of them was turned completely on end and stood almost on top of the rear engine.

The passenger train, due in Toronto at 7.20, arrived about 10. Some of the cars were crowded, and the officials owing to the inconvenience and delay caused by the wreck supplied the passengers with supper at the expense of the company.

HOPE FOR IRELAND.

CHEERFUL SPEECHES BY LORD DUDLEY AND MR. REDMOND.

The Irish Leader's Optimistic View of the Present Situation—The London Daily News' Comment.

London, Nov. 25.—Speeches which were delivered yesterday by the Earl of Dudley, the new Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, and by Mr. John Redmond, the Irish leader, have aroused much comment, as striking a more hopeful note of conciliation in the Irish question. The Earl of Dudley, accompanied by the Countess, was making an official visit to Belfast, and in reply to the speeches delivered at his reception he declared that he had come to Ireland with the same spirit of impartial inquiry that animated Mr. Chamberlain in going to South Africa. The Irish Viceroy, proceeding then to deal with the land question as the crux of the Irish problem, suggested that a sort of round table conference of representatives of the landlords, tenants and others interested in Ireland should be held to endeavor to arrive at a mutual understanding, and possibly some scheme for the good of Ireland and the increased happiness of her people.

Whilst Lord Dudley was speaking at Belfast, Mr. John Redmond was making an equally conciliatory speech at a demonstration of the London branches of the Irish League at the suburb of Bermondsey. He was intensely gratified, he said, to find on returning from the United States that the political situation in Ireland was more hopeful than he had known it for 25 years. While all rumors of Irish "deals" with the Government were untrue, the political situation in Ireland has undergone an extraordinary and radical change, and he believed that no English Minister since the union had had such a chance as the Irish Secretary, Mr. George Wyndham, now had. The time had arrived, as it did in every struggle, when the combatants were grown tired of the contest and were taking counsel as to whether it could not be brought to a satisfactory end. For the first time in Irish history the majority of landlords were speaking words of good sense, conciliation and reason. The tenants were united and moderate, and a quite limited use of the Imperial credit would enable a settlement of the land question to be brought about. At the same time, concluded Mr. Redmond, this would not affect the aspirations of the Irish people for home rule, and he warned the Government that if the last session's land bill were reintroduced the Irish members would "fight it line by line."

The London Daily News, in connection with the speech made by the Earl of Dudley yesterday, publishes a report that the Government intends to deal with the relations of Dublin Castle to the Irish administration, and that it is considering a project which is not dissimilar to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's original plan of national Councils.

LONDON.

Badly Injured by a Cow—Southwestern Traction Construction.

London, Ont., Nov. 25.—A young man named Hyslop, in the employ of Mr. Frank P. Chatler, butcher, was endeavoring to lasso a cow, when the animal turned on him, attacking him first with her feet and then with her horns. Hyslop's shouts brought speedy help, but not before he had been badly hurt about the head and body, getting two nasty wounds on the face. He had a close call for his life.

The Southwestern Traction Co. began spiking and bolting their rails. The work was commenced at the city limits. The rails and ties are now delivered as far as Lambeth.

RIOTS IN HAVANA.

SEVERAL PEOPLE INJURED AND TWO KILLED.

CONFLICTS BETWEEN THE POLICE AND STRIKERS.

STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYEES REFUSED TO STRIKE.

Havana, Nov. 25.—As the result of conflicts of a serious character between police and the men on strike here two strikers are dead and 82 other persons are wounded. Five of the latter, one being a lieutenant of police whose throat was cut by a striker, have injuries of a serious nature. Eight other policemen are wounded. The police had the rioters well under control, but every precaution is being taken to prevent a further outbreak of disorder, and all the police and rural guards in the suburbs have been summoned to concentrate in Havana. The strike, which at first only concerned the cigar workers, became general by the calling out of all trades in sympathy with the cigarmakers. All the trades people closed their doors, clerks, cooks and every class of workmen having obeyed the command of the union, except the motormen and conductors of the electric cars, who refused to join in the general strike and their action led to disorder.

INVADED FROM COLOMBIA.

THE REBELS MADE A NEW INROAD ON VENEZUELA.

Were Defeated by the Castro Forces—Colombia to be Held Responsible For the Invasion.

Washington, Nov. 25.—United States Minister Bowen, at Caracas, has informed the State Department that an official bulletin announces that forces from Colombia, numbering 2,000, invaded Venezuela on the 16th instant, and were defeated on the 19th. The forces referred to by Mr. Bowen are supposed to be Venezuelan insurgents, who entered the Goajira Peninsula from Colombia and approached Maricaibo recently. It was announced last week that the Castro Government was despatching a force by water to meet the invaders. Venezuela will hold Colombia responsible for the invasion.

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 25.—General Velutini, the representative of President Castro in the eastern provinces, will leave to-morrow for Barcelona and Cuidad Bolivar with 2,500 men to begin a campaign against the revolutionists in those places. Their defeat will end the rebellion.

A SPIRITUALIST SUPREME.

Strange Story Regarding Influence Exercised at Russian Court.

New York, Nov. 25.—The Times has the following from London:—The Vienna correspondent of The Times says that The Neue Freie Presse, which previously reproduced from a Berlin periodical an account of the alleged extraordinary influence exercised by a spiritualist named Philipp at the Russian Court, now publishes fresh particulars from a well-informed source. The Neue Freie Press says that Philipp was presented to the Czar at the house of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch, the Czar's cousin. He now occupies a quite exceptional position at the Court as an oculist, spiritualist and hypnotist. It is even asserted by persons closely connected with the Court that the Czar takes no important decision without consulting Philipp, who advises his Majesty even in regard to matters affecting his family life.

TYPHOID CARRIED IN MILK.

Increase in the Disease Led Dr. Sheard to Investigate.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Twenty-two cases of typhoid have been reported to the Medical Health Officer this month. That is more than during any November for six years. To get a reason for the increase Dr. Sheard made an investigation. He found the city water all right, then started in on the milk supply, and soon found what he believes to be the cause. The infection, he thinks, comes from a wholesale milkman who uses an infested well. Steps have been taken to protect the citizens. Of the 22 cases reported 14, it was found, were served by a dairy that got milk from the place.

Controller Graham has found an unexpected response to his plea for better housing for the very poor, and yesterday made the announcement that private citizens had taken the matter up, that a board of directors had been organized, and, without any assistance from Council, the first new building would be ready for occupation in the spring. The plan is to make the scheme not a money-maker, but a self-supporting philanthropy. The Alderman said it had not yet been decided whether to build the new houses down town or further from the centre.

Elephants Wreck Railway Car.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—After a battle with their keepers, four elephants, which had tried to escape from the car in which they were confined at Fair Hill Station on the Reading Railway, this morning, were finally pacified. MARRIED 39 YEARS

MR. C. F. DRAYCOTT, THE INTELLIGENCER'S BOOKBINDER, IS ALL SMILES TO-DAY.

Mr. C. F. Draycott, bookbinder for The Intelligencer Company, is smiling to-day like a basket of chips, and the reason is a good one. Thirty-nine years ago, in the good city of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Draycott were married. The incident will be celebrated to-night by a little supper at Mr. Draycott's residence, North Front street. As a curious coincidence, Mr. Draycott recalls the fact that the day he was married there was no snow and the weather was warm and balmy, thus proving beyond a doubt that the present warm fall is not by any means the first in the remembrance of Canadians. The jovial book-binder relates an amusing incident in connection with his wedding day. He went to a barber shop to get his hair cut, and the barber asked him if he would have his hair cut "English fashion." "Sure," said the bridegroom-elect, "anything English is good enough for me." Everybody at that time was talking about the international boxing match between Sayers and Heenan, and the gilded youth set the fashion of cropping their hair, a la pugilist. An "English" haircut in those days meant that the hair was practically shaved close to the head. The upshot was that the tonsorial artist cut Mr. Draycott's hair so "tight" that he had not enough left to swear by, and when he went to be married at night he was so changed that he had to get the best man to identify him. The old gentleman's friends will wish him joy of his 39th wedding anniversary, and hope he and Mrs. Draycott may live to see their golden wedding.

HORACE GILLESPIE TO SUE FOR DAMAGES

OUTCOME OF THE ACCIDENT NEAR SUDBURY LAST SUMMER.

Readers of The Intelligencer will remember seeing in these columns the account of an accident to Gunner Horace Gillespie, which happened on the C.P.R., near Sudbury, last summer. Mr. Gillespie is still in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal. It is, we learn, his intention to sue the C.P.R. for damages, it being alleged that due care was not taken in loading the cars of timber, some of which, it is alleged, projected beyond the ends of the cars, and between two of which Mr. Gillespie's head was caught. Notice of the action has been served on the C.P.R. Company by Mr. Gillespie's lawyer, Mr. W. S. Morden, of this city.

A ROYAL FAREWELL.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN STARTS FOR SOUTH AFRICA.

BIG GATHERINGS AT LONDON AND PORTSMOUTH.

PREMIER BALFOUR'S AUTHORITY STRENGTHENED.

London, Nov. 26.—Mr. Chamberlain has sailed from Portsmouth for South Africa, with demonstrations of good-will unique in variety as well as in character. The portion of the train from London usually reserved for royal use was placed at the disposal of himself and Mrs. Chamberlain by the King's command. The Prime Minister, Lord Roberts, Lord Strathcona and a company of one hundred friends assembled on the platform of Victoria Station, and the ever-faithful Jesse Collings silently wrung his hand as the train moved off. A throng of bystanders had awaited his coming outside of the station, and greeted him heartily.

At Portsmouth the corporation presented him with an address engrossed on vellum, as though he were returning from a victorious campaign, instead of going to South Africa to obtain facts at first hand. He was received with an Admiral's salute when he embarked on the armored cruiser Good Hope, and the guns boomed and the flags fluttered all down the harbor as the ship stood out seaward.

The last file of papers which he carried to sea was filled with eulogistic leaders, lyrics with "Good Hope" and "Joe" as serviceable rhyming words, a cartoon from Linley Sambourne, representing John Bull as Polonius bidding Laertes to reserve judgment, and sketches of commemorative medals from F. C. Gould, depicting the archangel of war transformed into the dove with the olive branch.

The significance of all these tributes lies in the fact that an old Parliamentary hand, who has become a particularly strong individual force in British public life, has gone out with a special commission from the King and Cabinet to settle affairs in South Africa as he likes.

Premier Balfour's personal authority will be strengthened by the withdrawal of the masterful spirit of the Colonial Secretary from politics during the next six months. The education bill will be carried without the aid of Mr. Chamberlain, and the programme of next session, with Irish measures and London school reorganization as the chief features, will be known as exclusively the Prime Minister's.

The presence at Victoria Station yesterday of one of Mr. Chamberlain's colleagues in the fisheries negotiations at Washington fifteen years ago was a link connecting two missions essentially unlike. This was W. H. D. Maycock, who accompanied him to the United States capital and assisted in the negotiation of the fisheries convention. He was also present at the dinner where Mr. Chamberlain first met Miss Endicott, now Mrs. Chamberlain.

There are persistent rumors that Lord Salisbury is returning to England in order to support Lord Hugh Cecil's agitation for amendments to the education bill, which has now entered upon the report stage, with the closure applied vigorously for the past three days.

There is also a continuance of political gossip respecting the King's intervention in Irish affairs, and the fundamental changes of policy which may precede the royal visit to Ireland next year. Some Nationalists choose to assume that the King, from his friendship for Gladstone, has been a home ruler for many years, but this is a fantastic invention. Equally fatuous is the theory that Mr. Wyndham has consulted with Messrs. Redmond, O'Brien and O'Connor respecting the scope and character of the new land purchase bill. There is, however, reasonable ground for the belief that a great effort will be made to conciliate the Irish party before the King visits Ireland.

CASTRO INTERVIEWED.

LOOKS TO UNITED STATES TO PROTECT VENEZUELA.

Will Resist to the End the Aggressions of Any Foreign Power—Expects Early Peace.

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 26.—President Castro, in an interview said the revolution had received its death-blow, and he hoped to be able to proclaim generally peace on January 1. He added: "Following the declaration of peace, the Government will discharge its just obligations, improve its credit, and reorganize the fiscal system of the country. Every effort will be made to attract foreign capital, which is needed to exploit the rich agricultural, commercial and industrial resources of Venezuela. There will be ample guarantees for the security of funds invested. Venezuela desires the closest relations with the United States, which has already signally opposed the aggression of foreign powers. The Government is confident that, convinced of the justice of our cause, the United States will render Venezuela assistance in her future difficulties. Well supported and well applied, the Monroe doctrine is of the greatest possible importance and value. Questions with European governments can be amicably settled, if they have the same desire for friendly relations. We, the Venezuelan people, united, patriotic and courageous, form a force which will tenaciously resist any attempt to infringe our sovereignty or invade our territory.

"With respect to Colombia, the Government of Venezuela is advised that there has been another invasion of our territory from that country, the seventh in three years. It is our earnest desire to avert war with Colombia, and we are prepared to arrange for a settlement when peace is declared and the courts resume their functions."

NEW PRIOR CABINET.

MR. EBERTS WILL REMAIN ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Mr. McInnes Becomes President of the Council—Cabinet Now Complete—Mr. Denis Murphy's Election Campaign.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 26.—The portfolio of Attorney-General was offered to Mr. McInnes yesterday at noon, and he was given till 10 to accept the same. At 10 o'clock he saw Col. Prior, and declined the portfolio, urging that Mr. Eberts be retained in that position. The result was the opening up of negotiations with Mr. Eberts, who finally agreed to remain in the Cabinet, Mr. McInnes contenting himself with the Presidency of the Council. The new Cabinet claims a support of 22 in the next House.

The new Cabinet is composed as follows:—

Col. E. G. Prior, Premier and Minister of Mines.

Mr. D. M. Eberts, Attorney-General.

Mr. J. D. Prentice, Finance Minister.

Mr. W. C. Wells, Commissioner of Lands and Works.

Mr. Dennis Murphy, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education.

Mr. W. W. B. McInnes, President of the Council.

Messrs. Eberts and McInnes will be sworn in to-morrow.

Mr. Denis Murphy left last night for West Yale to commence his campaign, preparatory to the bye-election. It is understood that the fight will be rushed, and that to-morrow's Gazette will announce the nomination for the 13th and the election for the 20th of December. Mr. Stuart Henderson of Ashcroft is a possible candidate for the Opposition.

BILLION DOLLAR PROVINCE.

Ontario Farm Property Reaches High-water Mark.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—The farm property in Ontario has passed the billion dollar mark in value for the first time in our history. The returns of agricultural statistics, issued in a report yesterday by the Bureau of Industries, show that in 1901 the value of the farm lands, buildings, implements and live stock reached the total of $1,001,323,296, compared with $974,814,931 the previous year. The County of Middlesex leads with $50,367,864, and Huron comes second with $18,040,114. The gross value of the cheese manufactured reached $12,269,073, of which $10,814,538 was paid to the milk producers, compared with $13,023,025, and $11,682,470 respectively in 1900.

The amount of chattel mortgages against farmers in Ontario was $2,854,759 last year, compared with $3,110,543 in 1900 and $3,826,582 in 1896.

An appendix to the report shows that in 1900, the latest year for which figures are available, the total value of farm property in the United States was only $20,514,001,838, or about half the value of farm property in Ontario, in proportion to population.

WILL FIGHT IT OUT.

THE MINERS AND OPERATORS CANNOT AGREE.

Hearing Before the Commission Will be Proceeded With—Result of New York Conference.

New York, Nov. 26.—At the close of the meeting of the independent coal operators and the officials of the coal-carrying roads, held here, a statement was given out which in part says:—"In the midst of the conference the request came from Washington to the operators of both classes to meet Mr. Mitchell and his associates next Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The parties present without dissent instructed Mr. Baer to make the following answer:—'The conditions are such that no substantial progress can be made by the suggested meeting. The general judgment of the operators is that it will be best for the present to go on with the hearing.'"

The independent operators vigorously protested against any settlement before evidence had been presented to the commission in reply to that presented by the miners. A settlement now, they urged, would, in the eyes of the public, be a confession that they had heretofore been guilty of all the offences charged against them by the mine workers. They presented a written statement outlining the above view, and adding that they believe their defence and that of the big companies is so complete "that any money award the commission would render would be far less than the amount we understand that it is proposed to concede, especially to miners and their laborers." The commission, the independents continue, is composed of absolutely fair men, whose "findings will make such declaration as will for many years put a ban upon unlawful practices, oppression of non-union men, unjustifiable demands, and other grievances, that we have been suffering under since 1900, when the union first took possession of our property." Any other "settlement will be an absolute and distinct surrender to the miners' union, and the troubles referred to will not only be continued, but so magnified as to be absolutely unbearable."

It was after the independents had presented their statement and while the subject was under discussion that Mr. Baer was instructed to refuse a meeting with the miners.

IMPOSING SCENE IN OLD ST. THOMAS'.

Rev. George Ross Beamish Last Night Inducted as Rector of Belleville

Large Attendance of Clergy—Sermon by the Lord Bishop of Ontario

A large congregation was present in St. Thomas' Church last night to witness the induction of Rev. G. R. Beamish to the "Cure of Souls in St. Thomas' Church, and as Rector of Belleville." It was a few minutes past eight when the choir came out singing the processional hymn, "The Church's One Foundation." The choir was a very large one, and the volume of voices quite inspiring. Not for years have Bellevillians seen so many of the Church of England clergy together, and the scene was an impressive one, as the stately Bishop and ministers countermarched before taking their places before the altar. The following clergymen were in attendance:

Rev. Canon Loucks, Picton; Rev. Rural Dean Armstrong, Trenton; Rev. C. M. Harris, Marmora; Rev. G. Code, Queensboro; Rev. J. H. Coleman, Stirling; Rev. B. F. Byers, Consecon; Rev. C. A. Ffrench, Tweed; Rev. E. Costigan, Deseronto; Rev. W. Fleming, Shannonville; Rev. W. B. Heeney, Rev. C. J. H. Hutton, Rev. A. L. Geen, Rev. G. R. Beamish, Belleville, and His Lordship Bishop Mills.

At the close of the processional hymn the Bishop announced the object of the service, which was to witness the solemn institution of the Rev. Geo. Ross Beamish to the care of souls within the parish of St. Thomas'.

Rev. Mr. Beamish then read his declaration of assent enjoined by Canon 14 of this province, which was signed by himself.

Rev. Mr. Beamish then knelt before the Bishop, when the latter read his instrument of institution, after which he gave him his episcopal blessing. Then the Bishop presented the new incumbent with a Bible and Book of Common Prayer, after which the Mandate of Induction was read by Mr. W. B. Northrup, M. P., one of the church wardens. The Bishop then placed the new incumbent in real, actual and corporal possession of the Rectory of Belleville, after which he was presented with the keys of the church by the church wardens. The induction service ended with the pronouncement by Rev. Mr. Beamish of the following words: "I receive these keys of this House of God at your hands, as pledges of my Induction and of your reception of me as your appointed minister. And I on my part do promise by God's help to be a faithful shepherd over you, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.—Amen."

Then followed the regular evening prayer, read by Rev. C. J. H. Hutton, the first lesson being read by Rev. Mr. Armstrong, of Trenton, and the second by Rev. Mr. Harris, of Marmora. The Psalms were 121 and 122; the first lesson Ezekiel, chap. 33 to end of verse 9, and the second lesson the 10th chap. of St. Luke, to 16th verse.

His Lordship Bishop Mills preached the sermon, but before beginning it he said he wished to say a few words of congratulation to the congregation on their good fortune in having secured Rev. Mr. Beamish as their rector. That gentleman had an excellent record in other parishes with which he had been connected, and the only regret, the Bishop said, that he had in the matter was that he was compelled to take him away from Brockville, where he was needed and where he had done such good work. However, God's work had to be done everywhere, and he knew the congregation of St. Thomas' would find their new rector a very present help in time of trouble and a friend as well as minister. The Bishop then exhorted the congregation to pray for their new rector, and pronounced his episcopal blessing on priest and people. The Lord Bishop then announced his text as the 16th verse of the 2nd chapter of the Songs of Solomon,

"My beloved is mine and I am his."

The address which followed was rich in imagery and poetic fervency. The preacher showed that Christ, through his sacrifice of Himself on the cross had brought the right to call the church his own. He was the Captain of our Salvation, in every step of life we need Him, and He is always pleading for us. What a friend we have in Jesus! It was a blessed thing to think that every true believer could look up to Heaven and say "My beloved is mine and I am His." There was not only nominal union between the Church and Christ, but real union; He is one with us and we are one with Him. If they would but follow in His footsteps He would shield them through all eternity and make them joint heirs with Him in the blessings of Paradise. Could they in truth, the preacher asked, use the words of the text? If not, no matter what their earthly possessions were, they were poor indeed! He exhorted all to seek the Lord while there was yet time, then would they realize how Christ had brought them back from sin and death and enabled them to use the words of the text.

During the offertory Mr. and Mrs. Chambers sang, as a duet, a beautiful setting of "Hark, hark, my Soul." It was a most excellent and effective bit of vocalization.

The Lord Bishop then pronounced the benediction, and the service ended with the recessional hymn, "O God, our help in ages past."

Special Meeting of City Council

SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN A MIX-UP IN REGARD TAX COLLECTOR STARLING'S BONDS.

A special meeting of the City Council was held yesterday afternoon, the only absentees being Ald. Wills and Cooper.

His Worship Mayor Graham presided, and announced the object of the meeting, which was, he said, called owing to the fact that the Chairman of the Executive Committee, Ald. Chown, had yesterday accidentally discovered that the guarantee bonds of Mr. J. H. Starling, Tax Collector, had expired on September 3, and had not, so far as the Council knew, been renewed. He thought they should have the City Solicitor's advice in the matter, so as to see what position the City stood in.

Mr. Starling was in the City Clerk's office, and he was called into the Mayor's office, where the meeting was held, and asked about the matter.

Mr. Starling said he knew his bonds expired on September 3, but thought, as the members of the Council had the same chance of knowing it that he had, that he was not called on to say anything about it. He thought that, the Council being an interested party, they would have been noti- when the bonds expired.

Ald. Galbraith asked Mr. Starling if he thought he was justified in retaining the position when his bonds had expired.

Mr. Starling said he was still under a personal bond, and he thought as the Council had a chance to know as much about the expiring of the bonds as he did, that he was not called on to move in the matter. He thought, too, as he only holds now the remainder of the rolls of 1901, that his bonds would have been reduced.

Some of the Aldermen asked who was the custodian of the bonds, and whose place was it to have notified the Council when they had expired.

The Mayor said the City Treasurer was custodian of all the bonds which safeguarded the city, and it was his place to have notified the Council when they expired.

The City Solicitor was called in and asked for his opinion in the matter.

Mr. Masson said the city was insured against any defalcation up to the 3rd of September, and, if there had been anything out of the way previous to that time the company had to be notified of it, within three months, namely, before the 3rd of December.

The City Treasurer was called in and asked why he had not notified the Council of the expiring of Mr. Starling's bonds. Did he not, the Mayor asked, know that that was his duty.

Mr. Thompson said he knew that was his duty, but it had been an oversight on his part; it had not occurred to him that the bonds had expired. He had taken the same care of the bonds in question as of the other bonds in his custody.

The Mayor said it was rather an unfortunate condition of affairs for the city, as they would probably be put to the expense of an audit. What about new bonds for Mr. Starling?

Ald. Chown said he had communicated by telephone with the officials of the Guarantee Company which had issued Mr. Starling's bonds, and they had offered to grant new bonds providing the city guaranteed that everything was all right from the expiring of the bonds up to the present time. In order to be able to do this they must have an audit.

The matter was discussed at some length, nothing new being brought out in the situation, till finally

Ald. McFee moved, seconded by Ald. Salman, that an audit be ordered of the rolls of 1901.—Carried.

Ald. Pope moved that the selection of an auditor be left in the hands of the Mayor and Chairman of the Executive Committee.—Carried.

Mr. Starling asked what amount of bonds would the Council require of him providing he got them renewed to date from the 3rd of September.

This seemed to strike the Council as a favorable proposition, and, after some little talk, in which it was pointed out that the large end of the taxes on the roll of 1901 had already been collected,

Ald. Galbraith moved, seconded by Ald. Sinclair, that if Tax Collector Starling can get his bonds renewed to date from September 3rd the Council accept $3000 as the amount.

Ald. Chown asked what was to be done if Mr. Starling could not do what he spoke of.

Mr. Starling was asked if he thought he could secure the bonds he had spoken of, to which he replied that he had reasonable hopes that he could.

Ald. Galbraith's motion was carried, and then Ald. Chown again asked what was to be done in the event of Mr. Starling not being able to do what he spoke of.

The Mayor said the Civic Committees would meet on Friday night, then they could see what success Mr. Starling had had. He would like to see him complete his work, as the changing of one year's rolls from the hands of one person to another was most unsatisfactory.

The Mayor's remarks seemed to find favor with the Aldermen, and the matter dropped till Friday night.

OTHER MATTERS.

Col. Ponton wrote respecting three lots owned by Rev. Canon Burke, which were liable to be sold next month for taxes. The Rev. gentleman requested, in view of the fact that he had now no fixed source of income, the taxes be reduced to a nominal sum.

The matter was laid over till Friday night.

The Mayor and Mr. Bull, of the Bank of Montreal, had complained to him of his assessment, it appearing that he had been twice taxed for income.

This was also laid over till Friday night, and the Council adjourned.

HAD BEEN SIXTY YEARS IN BELLEVILLE

MRS. JOHN PASCOE DIED THIS MORNING AT A GREEN OLD AGE.

By the death of Mrs. John Pascoe, which occurred at an early hour this morning, Belleville has lost one who had for nearly 60 years been a resident here. Deceased was 85 years of age, having been born at Grampound, England, in the year 1817. Notwithstanding her advanced years, Mrs. Pascoe was quite active, and her fatal illness was of short duration. Last week she was able to be about and call upon her friends. Mrs. Pascoe was a lady who was much respected, and she had many intimate friends. She was a member of Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church. Her husband preceded her to the tomb some 47 years ago. The surviving members of the family are two sons, namely, Mr. L. C. and W. P. Pascoe, and one daughter, Mrs. John Cook, all of whom reside in this city. They are to-day grieving over the loss of a kind and devoted mother.

WAR OFFICE AS BREWER

NEW CANTEEN SYSTEM MAY BE ESTABLISHED.

London, Nov. 25.—Out of the ashes of the canteen strife, on which a committee sat recently to consider the merits of monopoly versus open competition, a project for a War Department brewery arises.

Earl Grey's committee is divided in opinion, although the army is out and out in favor of competition as the way of making the shilling go farthest.

The War Department had had enough of the tinkering in which vested interests have played a prominent part against the soldier, and now, if all goes well, an extensive brewery will be established under Government control, probably to begin work next April.

Earl Grey and Lieut.-Col. Clayton, A.S.C., are associated with the scheme. Ex-soldiers and reservists will form the general staff, but experienced civil heads will hold the reins.

The supply of groceries will probably be undertaken by yearly contract in open market for the present, but if Government beer-brewing proves a success experienced buyers will buy direct for the Government and supply the regimental canteens.

WAS HARVEST HOME

THAT WAS CHARACTER OF FIRST THANKSGIVING DAY OF 1621.

SO SAYS REV. DE WITT TALMAGE

The Divine Describes the Similiarties and Contrasts Between the Present Day Celebration and That of the Pilgrim Fathers of the Seventeenth Century—A Vivid Sketch to Text of "Be Thankful Unto Him."

Entered According to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1902, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The similarities and the contrasts of the approaching anniversary with that celebrated by the pilgrim fathers of the seventeenth century are vividly sketched in this sermon by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage on the text Psalm c, 4, "Be thankful unto him."

Thanksgiving day of 1620 is the theme to-day. Plymouth rock is the pulpit. The mighty trees of the American forests are the massive pillars of the sanctuary. The waves of the fathomless deep, with their white fingers of foam playing upon the many keys of projecting rock, shall lead in the singing. The bold, bluff hillsides overlooking the harbor of Plymouth shall be the auditorium. And we shall gather within these four walls as worshippers the stern faced, iron muscled and godly voyagers of the little sailing ship Mayflower, whose sacrifices made the pilgrims' first Thanksgiving day a possibility. Surely, if Governor Bradford and Elder Brewster and Captain Miles Standish and Edward Winslow and Isaac Allerton and John Alden and that little band of twoscore and ten men and women and children had anything to be thankful for 281 years ago we now living ought to welcome the Thanksgiving day of 1902 with open arms. After the example of our noble ancestors, whose names have made the Plymouth colony immortal, we should never cease to thank God for the goodnesses and the mercies he has showered upon us and this land during the past twelve months.

The first Thanksgiving day was really a harvest home festival. On that memorable morning the new governor—for John Carver, the first governor, had lately died—personally led his people and guests into the house of worship, where a religious service was held. There the psalms were sung. There the prayers were offered. There Elder William Brewster thanked God that he who had fed the flying birds and had clothed with fur the wild beasts of the forests had fed and clothed and protected them. Then the rest of the day was spent as a home day, as a day of feasting and frolic and fun.

Yes, even among all their sorrows and troubles the pilgrim fathers had many, many blessings surrounding them on that first Thanksgiving day. And it is to catalogue some of their ancient blessings, as well as some of the multitudinous blessings of our own time, that I preach this sermon.

The pilgrim fathers rejoiced in religious liberty. They rejoiced that they could not only worship Christ in their own way and according to their own belief, but also because as Congregationalists they could select their own pastors and elders and deacons and have their own kind of church government. It was in order to win this religious liberty that the little band of pilgrims first endured the persecutions in the village of Scrooby, England. It was to win this kind of religious liberty that in 1609 they emigrated from the English shores and became exiles in Amsterdam. It was in order to win this religious liberty that the little band of pilgrims in 1610 broke away from Amsterdam and, under their pastor, the famous John Robinson, went to Leyden, and it was in order to win this religious liberty that the immortal 102 passengers of the Mayflower finally crossed the seas and emigrated to a new and unknown world. Religious liberty means more than life and comfort and money to strong, consecrated men. It means their combined temporal and spiritual existence. It means so much that though one-third of that memorable pilgrim band died the first month after they had landed upon the American shores and though all at one time were helpless on account of sickness except seven men and women, yet when the time came for the sailing of the Mayflower back to England not one of the survivors would return to their old home, even though Governor John Carver and the company were ready to let any one go who would. They thanked God for religious liberty, even though the dead sleeping upon Burial Hill outnumbered the living. They thanked God for religious liberty, even though, to protect it, they had to go to church armed. While the main congregation prayed with their eyes shut, their sentinels on guard had to pray with their keen, vigilant eyes wide open.

The pilgrim fathers on America's first Thanksgiving day rejoiced because their harvests were all gathered in. Never did men and women and children work harder than those sturdy disciples of Christ during the first ten months of their sojourn in America. They were strict in the rigid observance of the Lord's day as a day of rest. Homer J. Webster tells us that as a result of their teachings in the latter part of their first century in America a "Captain Kemble of Boston, who kissed his wife on his doorstep on Sunday on his return from a three years' absence, was fined for 'lewd and unseemly behavior,'" and that a Dunstable soldier was fined 40 shillings "for wetting a piece of an old hat to put into his shoes to protect his foot on the Lord's day." But, though the pilgrim fathers were strict observers of the Lord's day as a day of rest, they just as rigidly believed that the other six days of the week should be days of hard and exhausting work. They practically worked all the time except Sunday, and as a result of that first summer's work we find that those twenty-one men not only built seven houses and four public buildings, including the fort, but they also cleared much of that rough New England soil. They sowed twenty-one acres with corn, six acres with wheat, rye and barley and surrounded their homes with garden plots.

But after the pilgrim fathers had done all this work what was the result of their ingathered harvest? Enough to keep future famine from their doors? Enough to let them sit down and thereafter enjoy a season of ease and rest? Oh, no! The New England soil, even under the brightest conditions, never yields a great harvest. The first harvest which the white men gathered on Massachusetts land was very small. The New England pilgrims knew they did not have, as Joseph had in Egypt, their storehouses full enough to defy seven years of want. They knew that unless help came soon they would have to face starvation. "Many a time," wrote the author of "The Pilgrim Fathers of New England," "they went to bed to rest without knowing whence the next day's food was to come. How they were to live until the next harvest came round it was an impossibility to say." Yet those godly men on Plymouth's first Thanksgiving day were able to thank God that he had given to them enough food up to the present time and a land where they could ultimately earn a competency if not a superabundance. They thanked him for the past; they trusted God for the future.

My friend, there ought to be a lesson for you in the pilgrim's fathers' gratitude to God for the supplying of their necessary temporal wants. You may not have a big bank account nor enough money to keep you in case if you ceased to work; but, like the pilgrim fathers of old, on this Thanksgiving day of 1902 you can thank God that you have a home in which to live, no matter how humble that home may be. You can thank God that you have enough clothes to keep you warm and enough good, plain, wholesome food to eat. Should your table be simply spread you can thank God with the same humble, beautiful Christian spirit with which Elder William Brewster of Plymouth colony gave thanks. Although the bread supply and the coffee and tea supply and nearly all other supplies for months had failed, and he and his family for weeks at a time were compelled to live upon fish alone, yet William Brewster used to gather his children about his table and utter a devout grace. With nothing but clams and oysters for breakfast, dinner and tea month in and month out, William Brewster used to thank God "that they were permitted to enjoy the abundance of the sea and the treasures hid in the sand."

The pilgrim fathers rejoiced because they had removed their children from the sinful temptations of a foreign land. They themselves were men and women of sterling and unimpeachable integrity. They were just as willing to lay down their lives as martyrs for Jesus Christ, in Leyden, in 1620, as were their three fellow townsmen, Henry Barrows, John Greenwood and John Penry, who, in 1593, laid down their lives in England; but, though the pilgrim fathers might be ready to die for Christ, their undeveloped children, on account probably of the influence of their foreign surroundings, were not always of the same mind. Their sons and daughters sometimes drifted away from the principles of their fathers. They not only fell into the sinful habits of this European city, but they married the sons and daughters of the foreigners. They enlisted in the foreign navies and went forth as free lances to the foreign wars, and it was in order to save their own flesh and blood from the sinful contact of the "uncircumcised Philistines," as well as for religious liberty, that the pilgrim fathers turned their backs upon the land of their adoption and the homes of their friends. Taking our little children's faces between our two hands and looking lovingly and earnestly into the depths of their pure eyes, can we not be thankful that both we and they are living in Christian communities where human affections are held sacred and where purity is not an oddity and practically monopolized, as of old, by a few vestal virgins consecrated to life-long service in a heathen temple? Can we not thank God that our children are not breathing the morally depraved atmosphere of some less fortunate land whose daughters are sold like chattels, never even seeing nuptial day, and where a wife is regarded as disgracing a family when she becomes the mother of a daughter instead of a son?

We place a priceless value upon the physical lives of our children. Shall we not also place a priceless value upon their spiritual welfare? How much we value them few of us realize until we are brought face to face with the sore trial of parting from them. I used to consider myself a poor man financially until a few years ago. I never do so now after the following experience: I had been visiting my mother in the east and was returning with my wife and little daughter to my Pittsburg home. Being very tired from overwork, I lay down in the cars to sleep. Meanwhile my little baby daughter began to smile at a stern faced man reading across the aisle. She held out her hands for him to take her. After awhile his face lighted up with an answering smile. He took the baby on his lap and played with her hour after hour. As we neared the Smoky City this stern faced man came to me and said: "Young man, I do not know who you are, but here is my card. I am one of the wealthiest men in Milwaukee. I have everything that money can buy, but I have a home without any children. Young man, you can thank God that you have a family. And if you are willing to give me this baby and let me adopt her I will give you a certified cheque for $50,000, and she shall be my daughter and inherit all that I have." Of course I refused the offer. I told that man there was not enough money in all the treasury of the United States to buy my flesh and blood, and, though you may laugh when I talk about my $50,000 baby, yet I am not putting any higher valuation upon the physical lives of any one of my children than every father sitting before me to-day would upon his. If we parents thus place so high our physical valuation of our children, shall we not also place just as high the spiritual valuation? Like the pilgrim fathers of old, shall we not rejoice this coming Thanksgiving day because our children are not only living in Christian homes, but also in Christian neighborhoods and under the shadow of the spires of Christian churches? Shall we not rejoice because on account of being born in a Christian land they may the more easily learn to love Christ? Shall we not rejoice that on account of their spiritual advantages after their life's work is done they will associate with us in the great harvest home, where an eternal Thanksgiving day shall be spent in the green pastures and by the still waters of heaven?

The pilgrim fathers rejoiced in the hope that they should soon be reunited with their loved ones who were left behind in Leyden. The whole community of pilgrims which in 1610 settled in Leyden did not cross the Atlantic in 1620, as many people suppose. No. Only a small part—120 men, women and children came first. The vast majority of that community remained behind. And so these American pilgrims on Plymouth's first Thanksgiving day were living in the hope that John Robinson and the absent members of his spiritual flock would soon be by their side. They did not then know that death would first claim their beloved pastor and that his bones would be buried in the little churchyard which his preaching has made world famous and which is to-day the Mecca of many a pilgrim. They did not realize that most of their earthly friends would never meet beside the waters of the new world. But they did know, and they rejoiced in the knowledge, that, whether at the foot of Plymouth rock or at the foot of the great white throne of God, they would meet again. And if they did not meet again until they were reunited in that better land, then they would there meet to part no more.

My friends, cannot we rejoice in the hope that we are some day going to meet our redeemed loved ones? Can we not rejoice that when we meet them we shall part no more? Thanksgiving day without this blessed belief would be to us a meaningless festival and would be robbed of its chiefest joy. The young people may look forward gladly to the autumnal queen of American festivals as a holiday from school, a day for a football match, a day when they can eat a big turkey dinner, but most of us will think of Thanksgiving dinner as a day for vacant chairs—a day when we would be willing to give all we owned if we could only bring back some who have forever gone from our side.

But with the comfort of the blessed gospel how our sorrows can be turned to joy! Mother, father, brother, sister, husband, wife and child, shall we never, never meet you again? "Yes, yes!" answer the pilgrim fathers. "By the sacred book which we read the morning of the bright autumnal day when we celebrated Plymouth's first Thanksgiving day we can prove it. By the hope with which we parted from our dear ones as we set sail from Holland's shores we would tell thee, troubled hearts of 1902, we shall all, yea, all, meet again."

Then next Thanksgiving day after you have helped everybody all round and after you have thanked God for all your many blessings, and after you have also worshiped in God's sanctuary, in spirit as your pastor, and as a privileged guest, I want to come into your dining room. And, though you may give different parts of the turkey to the different members of your family, I want you to save one part for me. I want you to save for me the "wishbone," and as I in spirit come among you there I want you to take hold of one side of that wishbone and let me take hold of the other. Then as I pull and break the wishbone and should I get the larger side I want you to let me make this wish: "May the many blessings which God has showered upon you during the last twelve months soften your heart in gratitude to him. May the vacant chairs in you dining room teach you that your earthly time is to be very short. Therefore, may you here and now resolve to love your Master as you have never done before. And in the earthly years that are left to you may you be as faithful in your trust to your home, your wife, your children and to the great world at large as were the pilgrim fathers to the principles which they established. And may the sweet and holy faith of Plymouth's first Thanksgiving day rest and abide with you forever." May God bless us this morning as we use the tear stained and blood reddened rock of Plymouth for a pulpit.

The Man Who Will Succeed De Blowitz.

William Lavino, correspondent of The London Times at Vienna, who is to succeed the famous De Blowitz at Paris, is a relative of the proprietor of The Daily Telegraph—Lavino being the Italianized form of Levy—and is the son of a Manchester man. He was The Telegraph's correspondent at Berlin, where he remained for several years and was frequently used by Bismarck as the medium of semiofficial communications to his journal. He is repeatedly mentioned in the "Reminiscences" of Dr. Busch. Afterward Mr. Lavino was transferred to Vienna, where he ultimately severed his connection with The Telegraph, and, after a considerable interval, he became the representative of The Times.

Poultry Feed Troughs.

Clean out the troughs one hour after feeding, says The Southern Poultry Journal. If fowls are fed right, just what they will eat up clean, there will be no need for cleaning the troughs, as the fowls do it themselves.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickelson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

"A GOOD THING FINANCIALLY."

To what extent must the system of political corruption extend in the new Liberal party of to-day, when not a single newspaper representing that party has yet denounced the villainous attempt to purchase the newly elected member for South Oxford, to support the Ross Government, by offering him a "good thing financially," if he would but sell his constituency and support Gritism. One politician has however been found who defends the offer by declaring that Mr. Sutherland was elected as an Independent, and that therefore it was "quite natural" that he should be asked to give the Ross Government his support.

It would appear that a Grit politician's idea of honesty is that, though a man had been elected as an Independent, he might properly be offered a bribe to support unreservedly a Ministry, and thereby sell his constituency, in consideration of "a good thing financially." Could political degeneracy sink lower?

A TRUE NERVE TONIC

Will act, not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvellous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c at druggists, or J. S. McKeown's.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

Grain is Lower—The Live Stock Trade—Latest Quotations.

Monday Evening, Nov. 25.

Toronto St. Lawrence Market.

Offerings of grain, hay and straw on the street market here to-day were heavier, and there was also more business in dressed hogs. Prices showed little important change. The total receipts of grain were 6,000 bushels.

Wheat—Market was active and prices were unchanged; 600 bush of white sold at 71c to 72½c, 500 bush of red at 72c, and 500 bush of goose at 66c.

Oats—Heavy supply and an easier market; 2,000 bush sold ½c lower at 34c to 35c.

Barley—Market was steady to easier; feed sold unchanged at 45c to 47c, but malting was 1c lower at 47c to 50c. Offerings were heavy, amounting to 3,000 bushels.

Hay—Market active, with liberal offerings. Timothy was unchanged, selling at $13 to $16 per ton, and clover or mixed was about steady at $6 to $10 per ton. Deliveries were 30 loads.

Straw—Receipts were unusually large and market was lively. Prices held steady, eight loads of sheaf selling unchanged at $10 to $12 per ton.

Dressed Hogs—Market more active and prices lower, with the heavier deliveries. Quotations are 25c to 50c down at $7.75 to $8 per cwt.

Apples—Dull and unchanged at $1 to $2 per barrel. The offerings are heavy, but there is little demand except for the choicest grades.

Potatoes—Market quiet and steady at 75c to 80c per bushel and $1 to $1.10 per bag.

Toronto Live Stock.

Trade was lively at the Toronto Cattle Market to-day and everything sold readily. There was a fairly good inquiry for all classes of stock and the buyers noticed a shortage among the higher grades. The offerings of medium to poor cattle were plentiful enough, and these produced the only dullness during the day's business. Prices were steady to firm, and some advances were noted. Exporters were a shade higher, the excellent demand being accounted for by the necessities of space-filling. Butchers' were active, and the gilt-edged lots were scarce. Short-keep and medium feeders were higher, and the other weights were firm. Stockers held steady and milkers were dearer. Sheep and lambs sold higher; calves and hogs were unchanged. The total run was 84 loads, including 1,224 cattle, 1,802 sheep and lambs, 35 calves and 1,102 hogs.

Export Cattle—The old country markets are in a bad state, and cable reports are unfavorable. The demand here comes from buyers who have space to fill on contracts, and in the aggregate this is rather extensive. Prices of the best steers are higher at $4.75 to $5.25 per cwt, and occasionally a fine animal will bring even more.

INTERESTING FACTS

FOR NEARLY EVERY MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD.

A short time ago we published an article recommending to our readers the new discovery for the cure of Dyspepsia, called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and the claims then made regarding the wonderful curative properties of the remedy have been abundantly sustained by the facts. People who were cautious about trying new remedies advertised in the newspapers and were finally induced to give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a trial were surprised and delighted at the results. In many cases a single package costing but 50 cents at any drug store made a complete cure and in every instance the most beneficial results were reported. From a hundred or more received we have space to publish only a few of the latest but assure our readers we receive so many commendatory letters that we shall publish each week a fresh list of genuine unsolicited testimonials and never publish the same one twice.

From James Yemmeister LaCross, Wis.: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are doing me more good than anything I ever tried and I was so pleased at results that I gave away several boxes to my friends who have also had the same benefits.

From Jacob Anthony, Portmurray, New Jersey: I have taken Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with the best results. I had Dyspepsia for 6 years and had taken a great deal of medicine, but the Tablets seem to take right a hold and I feel good. I am a farmer and lime burner and I heartily recommend to everyone who has any trouble with his stomach to use these Tablets.

From Mrs. M. K. West, Preston, Minn., I have received surprisingly good effects from using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I gave one-half of my last box to a friend who also suffered from indigestion and she had the same good results.

From Mrs. Agnes K. Ralston, Cadillac, Mich., I have been taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I am very much better, and feel very grateful for the great benefit I have received in so short a time.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a certain cure for all forms of Indigestion. They are not claimed to be a cure-all, but are prepared for stomach troubles only, and physicians and druggists everywhere recommend them to all persons suffering from Nervous Dyspepsia, sour or acid stomach, heartburn, bloating or wind on stomach and similar disorders.

Female Disorders.

For the past two years I have been afflicted with female troubles. I had serious bladder disorder; inflammation would set in and I would suffer intensely. Sometimes I could not urinate and the pain was so severe I could not sleep at night. I always had heavy bearing-down back and womb pains. I went to the hospital for three months, paid two visits a week but got no relief. I was advised to try Powley's Liquified Ozone and before I had finished the first bottle I began to feel better. I have taken in all three bottles and now I am quite well.

MRS. JOHN WAY,
39 Church St., Verdun, Montreal.

There may be a better way of curing female ailments than by Ozone, we don't believe there's a quicker or safer method or one that gives such permanent beneficial results. Powley's Liquified Ozone is peculiarly adapted for disorders of the mucous membrane. If you try it once you will make use of it regularly.

PREMIER ROSS.

ADDRESS ON THE SUBJECT OF THE REFERENDUM.

THE GOVERNMENT DESIRES A DECISIVE VOTE.

PERSONAL ATTITUDE TO THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—The meeting in Association Hall last night was most encouraging to the advocates of prohibition. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity before the hour set for the meeting to open.

Mr. Marter introduced the Chairman for the evening, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, whose name was received with applause. In doing so Mr. Marter said:—I can assure you it gives me the greatest pleasure to introduce Mr. Ross. I am glad he is with us. (Applause.) I am glad to know that he who is at the head of our affairs in this Province is with us in sympathy, and not only in sympathy, but in active work in the contest in which we are now engaged. (Applause.)

Hon. Geo. W. Ross, on being introduced, said:—Mr. Marter, ladies and gentlemen,—It gives me a great deal of pleasure indeed to assume the pleasant although somewhat responsible duties of presiding officer at this meeting. Mr. Marter was good enough to say that he believed the meeting worthy of the presiding officer. I only trust the presiding officer will be worthy of this great meeting, this influential meeting, this meeting of, I believe, thoughtful men and women, assembled for the consideration of what Mr. Marter described as a momentous question. The Legislative Assembly of Ontario in its wisdom saw fit to refer to the people of the whole Province the disposition of the liquor traffic so far as its disposition is capable of being affected by the act known as "The liquor act, 1902." It did so following the usual precedent in matters of this kind, particularly in matters affecting the sale of intoxicating liquors, where the final court of appeal was the electorate, as in the case of the Scott act, local option and so on. Following those precedents, the question has been referred to the voice of the electorate of the Province. One object in doing so, in my judgment, one object I had myself in asking for that reference, was that we should get an expression of opinion from the people of Ontario on this subject, which should be free of other considerations. You know that in party contests various elements enter into the decisions of the people, and various questions, some affecting one interest and some another, some attractive to some members of the community, others to other members of the community, are presented. And there is sometimes a confusion of interests, if not a confusion of thoughts. This question was deemed so momentous, affecting the people in so many ways, that I felt myself, as in a certain sense responsible for the legislation, that I should like to have it submitted to the people, clear and distinct from all other considerations, that they would give their mind to it for some considerable time, undisturbed by any other thought or by the personal preference for any candidate, or by the party interests which sometimes bias as well as direct our thoughts, that they would give a single, unbiased and distinct expression of opinion upon the matter at the polls. But whether you approve of our course in that respect or not I am not going to argue. I am not going to defend; I am not going to apologize. There is no getting away from it now. (Laughter and applause.)

I do not discuss this question at any length, for the duty of discussion at any length never falls upon the Chairman. I have given you my views. I intend to vote for the liquor act of 1902. (Loud cheers.) I never lost an opportunity in my life, when one was presented, of voting for such a measure. I hope that those who are of my own view will not be restrained by any reason whatsoever from expressing their views in the same way, and then, per contra, those who do not believe as I do, let us know by their votes how many there are of them. Let us know the strength of the two parties in this question, and, having ascertained the strength, it will be for us to consider what is next to be done in the interests of the cause so dear to us. (Prolonged cheers.)

In Preparing For Christmas

We are not thinking as much of ourselves as we are of our customers. We are giving all sorts of consideration to the following points:

FIRSTLY PRICE—

In the marking of every line the price is our first consideration. How low we can really sell the article, not how much we can get for it. And we do not place on sale a huge number of one article to make it common. Our goods are as exclusive as are our prices low. You find very little of our Christmas goods line in other stores. Our line is as different in style as it is superior in quality, and as superior in quality as is it lower in price.

NO STORE IN BELLEVILLE

Will show such variety as we and no store with prices so low.

OUR DEPARTMENTS

Will be rather more numerous than in the past even. We are adding a beautiful art department on second floor, where will be shown the very newest and choicest lines of art gift goods and art pictures, picture framing, etc.

SOME IDEAS

Very new and unique. We are sure the new ideas in picture framing will be most pleasing.

IN THIS ART DEPARTMENT

We will show a most extensive line of solid brass and gold plated picture frames, by far the most inexpensive line yet shown anywhere.

THEN, TOO.

Our picture framing depatment is getting large attention, as well as large trade. At present we have four (4) framers on the jump, and they do the very best work done in the city, and none better outside. We would not keep four framers if we had work only for three.

OUR JAPANESE CHINA DEPARTMENT

Is creating a deal of excitement. Our customers say these goods are remarkably cheap.

OUR LAMP DEPARTMENT

Is certainly the only up-to-date department in the city. We don't carry the common glass and China lamps, but we carry many brass lamps just as low in price as the cheap China lamps.

Scarcely necessary to mention our Wall Paper Sale, everybody knows of our Wall Papers and of our prices.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Thus importuned Mark Ray came in, and sitting down where his boot almost touched the new brown silk, he very politely began to answer her rapid questions, putting her entirely at her ease by his pleasant, affable manner, and making her forget the littered appearance of the room, as she listened to his praises of her sister, who, he said, seemed so very happy, and attracted universal admiration wherever she went. No allusion whatever was made to the trunk during the time of Mark's stay, which was not long. If he took the next train to New York, he had but an hour more to spend, and feeling that Helen would rather he spend it at Linwood he soon arose to go. Offering his hand to Helen, there passed from his eyes into hers a look which had over her a strangely quieting influence, and prepared her for a remark which otherwise might have seemed out of place.

"I have known Wilford Cameron for years; he is my best friend, and I respect him as a brother. In some things he may be peculiar, but he will make your sister a kind husband. He loves her devotedly, I know, choosing her from the throng of ladies who would gladly have taken her place. I hope you will like him for my sake as well as Katy's."

His warm hand unclasped from Helen's, and with another good-bye he was gone, without seeing either Mrs. Lennox, Aunt Hannah or Aunt Betsy. This was not the time for extending acquaintance, he knew, and he went away with Morris, feeling that the farm-house, so far as he could judge, was not exactly what Wilford had pictured it. But then he came for a wife, and I did not," he thought, while Helen's face came before him as it looked up to Morris, and he wondered, were he obliged to choose between the sisters, which he should prefer. During the few days passed in Boston he had become more than half in love with Katy himself, almost envying his friend the pretty little creature he had won. She was very beautiful and very fascinating in her simplicity, but there was something in Helen's face more attractive than mere beauty, and Mark said to Morris as they walked along:

"Miss Lennox is not much like her sister."

"Not much, no; but Helen is a splendid girl—more strength of character, perhaps, than Katy, who is younger than her years even. She has always been petted from babyhood; it will take time or some great sorrow to show what she really is."

This was Morris's reply, and the two then proceeded on in silence until they reached the boundary line between Morris's farm and Uncle Ephraim's, where they found the deacon mending a bit of broken fence, his coat lying on a pile of stones, and his wide, blue cotton trousers hanging loosely around him. When told who Mark was, and that he brought news of Katy, he greeted him cordially, and sitting down upon his fence listened to all Mark had to stay. Between the old and young man there seemed at once a mutual liking, the former saying to himself as Mark went on, and he resumed his work:

"I most wish it was this chap with Katy on the sea. I like his looks the best," while Mark's thoughts were:

"Will need not be ashamed of that man, though I don't suppose I should really want him coming suddenly in among a drawing room full of guests."

Morris did not feel much like entertaining Mark, but Mark was fully competent to entertain himself, and thought the hour spent at Linwood a very pleasant one, half wishing for some excuse to tarry longer; but there was none, and so at the appointed time he bade Morris good-bye and went on his way to New York.

CHAPTER XII.

If Katy's letters, written, one on board the steamer and another from London, were to be trusted, she was as nearly perfectly happy as a young bride well can be, and the people at the farm-house felt themselves more and more kindly disposed towards Wilford Cameron with each letter received. They were going soon into the northern part of England, and from thence into Scotland, Katy wrote from London, and two weeks after found them comfortably settled at the inn at Alnwick, near to Alnwick Castle. Wilford had seemed very anxious to get there, leaving London before Katy was quite ready, and hurrying across the country until Alnwick was reached. He had been there before, years ago, he said, but no one seemed to recognize him, though all paid due respect to the distinguished looking American and his beautiful young wife. An entrance into Alnwick Castle was easily obtained, and Katy felt that all her girlish dreams of grandeur and magnificence were more than realized here in this home of the Percy's, where ancient and modern styles of architecture and furnishing were so blended together. She would never tire of that place, she thought, but Wilford's taste led him elsewhere, and he took more delight in wandering around St. Mary's church, which stood upon a hill commanding a view of the castle and of the surrounding country for miles away. Here Katy also came, rambling with him through the village graveyard where slept the dust of centuries, the gray, mossy tombstones bearing date backward for more than a hundred years, their quaint inscriptions both puzzling and amusing Katy, who studied them by the hour.

One quiet summer morning, however, when the heat was unusually great, she felt too listless to wander about, and so sat upon the grass, listening to the birds as they sang above her head, while Wilford, at some distance from her, stood leaning against a tree and thinking sad, regretful thoughts, as his eye rested upon the rough headstone at his feet.

"Genevra Lambert, aged 22," was the lettering upon it, and as he read it a feeling of reproach was in his heart, while he said: "I hope I am not glad to know that she is dead."

Dwarfs and Giants.

As a rule dwarfs live much longer than giants. The latter usually have weak constitutions, their blood circulation is sluggish, and they have brittle bones.

Nut Sandwiches.

To make nut sandwiches chop the nuts very fine, using almonds, English walnuts and hickory nuts. Butter the bread, slice and put on it a thin layer of the chopped nuts, a little salt and sprinkle of grated cheese. Put another piece of bread over this and press slightly.

Stays.

In 1614 stays were introduced into the costumes of gentlemen to keep the doublet straight and confine the waist.

The Gulf Stream.

The gulf stream flows at the rate of about two and a half miles an hour. Five miles is exceeded in some places, and the rate varies much with conditions of weather and tide.

Eleven public houses in a village which only contains thirteen dwellings is a record which will be hard to beat. Such a village is to be found in County Derry, Ireland, the only premises not licensed being the police barracks and a creamery.

You can Test The Kidneys

AND FIND OUT FOR YOURSELF WHETHER OR NOT YOU ARE BECOMING A VICTIM OF PAINFUL, FATAL KIDNEY DISEASE.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

It is not necessary for you to consult a specialist on kidney disease to find out if you are a victim of this dreadful derangement. You can test your kidneys at home and satisfy yourself on this point.

Allow some urine to stand in a glass for twenty-four hours, and if at the end of that time you find sediment in the bottom of the vessel you can be sure that your kidneys are diseased.

Pains in the small of the back, and smarting when urinating, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, loss of flesh and strength, are other marked symptoms which indicate kidney disorders. Make this test for yourself. Consider whether you have any of these symptoms, and if you conclude that your kidneys are out of order begin at once to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They will bring prompt relief and will thoroughly cure you.

On account of their direct action on the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure ailments of the kidneys when ordinary kidney medicines fail. They have proven their efficacy in many thousands of cases, and are endorsed by more people than any other kidney medicine extant.

Mr. John L. Hickey, now caretaker of the Public and High Schools, Trenton, Ont., states:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills and found them the greatest medicine I ever tried. I used them when in the lumber camps, and believe by keeping the kidneys and bowels regular and the general health good that they protect a person from catching contagious diseases which are so common in the camps.

"I have seen hundreds of men using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the lumber camps. They buy them by the dozen when going in, and to show how much faith they have in them they buy them when they could get their medicine for nothing by going to the hospital camp. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills keep my liver, kidneys and bowels regular, and my health good. I would not think of being without them."

Sometimes there is no morning boat, and to make up for the loss of time in the morning for shopping in Kingston, you will be allowed an extra half hour in the afternoon. The Simcoe people have a ferry service once a week. They have sent a petition to the Government for help, so as to have a better service. The people of Wolfe Island, Simcoe Island and Garden Island should own their own boat and run it for their own benefit and not for the interests of a Kingston company.

The people are taking little or no interest in the Referendum.

Our young people are getting up an entertainment in the interests of the public school at Marysville. It will come off early in December.

The farmers are getting along with their ploughing and will soon be through.

TWEED.

Despite the inclement weather a large number gathered at St. Andrew's Church on Thursday evening last to witness the induction of Rev. James Binnie of McDonald's Corners, into the pastorate of the above named church. The sermon on the occasion was delivered by the Rev. G. Milligan, of Harrowsmith. The Rev. Malcolm McGillivray, of Kingston, addressed the minister and Rev. J. A. Rennie, of Roslin, the congregation. On the Sunday morning following, Rev. Mr. Binnie delivered his inaugural sermon, preaching from Romans, 8, 31; "For if God is with us who can be against us."

Rev. G. Horton, of Actinolite, occupied the pulpits of the Methodist churches on this circuit last Sunday.

Mr. T. E. Wilson's new residence is nearly completed.

Mrs. P. Asseltine, of Cordova, moved to Tweed last week.

Cheese factories are winding up the season's business this week, and are paying the stockholders about $25.00 per standard.

Temperance meetings are numerous in and around here.

The cold snap on Sunday came as a relief as the mud on the streets was never known to be so plentiful before.

There was considerable discussion as to whether there was just one mud-hole in Tweed, or whether Tweed was an one mud-hole.

The great coal strike has vastly increased the general interest in the question of what to do with the trusts; and Wilshire's Magazine, with its motto, "Let the Nation Own the Trusts," comes in for a proportionate increase in popularity. The newsstand sales have grown enormously, and still further growth is certain, as this magazine, though it is standard size, is now being sold for five cents a copy. Julian Hawthorne, novelist and essayist, and Charles Ferguson, author of "The Religion of Democracy," have recently associated themselves with its editorship.

What Consumption Means To-day.

There was a time when that word consumption struck terror to the stoutest heart. It need not do so now. In the light of present knowledge consumption is always to be considered hopefully.

We all know that when the little consumption germs have once gained a foothold in the lung tissue there is no one remedy which will directly destroy them or drive them out. The only thing that will eventually dislodge them is an abundant supply of rich blood throughout the whole body and particularly in the lungs. This will build up healthy tissue in which the germs cannot live.

To get this needed supply of good blood, and keep it pure, there are many things to do and you must try to do them all. Live all day in the sunshine and air. Sleep all night in a room that gets plenty of both. Keep warm. Don't use up one extra ounce of energy. Rest a great deal. Learn how to breathe. And above all take regular, abundant nourishment.

Let your doctor prescribe what medicine or stimulants you need, if any, and advise you about bathing and what to eat. And with his consent add to this Scott's Emulsion.

No other form of nourishment is so rich in material for making good blood and repairing damaged tissue. It acts with peculiar directness upon the lungs and lends valuable aid in driving out consumption germs.

We do not say it is a cure for consumption. There is no consumption specific. Scott's Emulsion is simply one of the most effectual of the many good influences, any one of which may turn the scale in your favor. With right living and proper nourishment there is always good ground for hope. Men have lived to healthy old age with only one lung. The germs got the other.

If a burglar crept into your room at night and had you by the throat you would not stop to calculate how much help you needed. You would shout for all the help you could get.

This is how you must treat consumption. Summon every possible force to drive it out by getting good blood and keeping it pure. You should not neglect a single source of help. You certainly cannot afford to overlook Scott's Emulsion.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

SORROWS HALVED AND JOYS DOUBLED

Two Church Weddings Took Place in the City This Morning

Nuptials of Mr. O'Hara and Miss Corby at St. Thomas'

An event long looked forward to in society came off at St. Thomas' Church this morning, it being the marriage of Miss Helen R. Corby, daughter of Mr. H. Corby, ex-M. P., and Mr. Francis Charles Trent O'Hara, of Ottawa. Ten o'clock was the hour set for the ceremony, and when that time began to draw near ladies, in large numbers and of all ages, could be seen going in the direction of St. Thomas' church. Dear, dear! How the ladies do love a wedding! Some people, of course, went from curiosity, while others went as a tribute of respect because they admired the bride for her many good qualities, and the bride's father as a whole-souled gentleman. Anyhow, whatever may have been the motives, the church was full before 10 o'clock, and people were standing round the sides. The chancel was beautifully decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums. The ladies, of course, were in a majority among the spectators, and they looked happy, some of the elder ones having a reminiscent look in their eyes. The younger ladies were bubbling over with mirth, but the elder ones, knowing what a solemn thing matrimony is, did not seem to think it was a laughing matter at all. Pretty soon the invited guests began to arrive, and the ladies whispered to themselves, and commented on the "stunning" costumes. Mrs. Campbell, at the organ, was playing appropriate music, the Rector came out and knelt before the altar; the groom and his groomsman, looking very properly nervous, stood up at the chancel rail, and all was in readiness. There was a louder peal on the organ, the ladies all craned their necks and said "Here they come," and the bridal procession was moving up the aisle. First came two of the ushers, then the bridesmaids and maid of honor, then the bride leaning on the arm of her father, then the other two ushers. The white-robed minister held up his hand for silence, and the impressive marriage ceremony of the Church of England began. The groom, a fine, manly-looking young gentleman, spoke up in his "I will" in a way which greatly pleased the ladies. Rev. Mr. Beamish performed the ceremony in a most impressive manner. The bride was given away by her father. After the ceremony the bridal party went into the vestry to sign the marriage register, and afterwards drove to the residence of the bride's parents on George St., where lunch was partaken of.

The bride wore a gown of white duchesse satin, trimmed with real lace and sprays of white satin rosebuds, studded with sequins. She also wore the regulation white bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

The bridesmaids were Misses Alice Corby, sister of the bride, and Miss Kathleen O'Hara, sister of the groom. They wore dresses of cream spotted French net over blue chiffon and white silk, trimmed with pale blue velvet baby ribbon. Large black picture hats set off a most becoming costume. The bridesmaids carried bouquets tied with pink satin ribbon.

The maid of honor was Miss A. Barker, of New York, who was gowned in pale blue chiffon over cream silk, trimmed with pale blue velvet baby ribbon. She also wore a large black velvet picture hat.

The groomsman was Mr. J. D. Hood, of Montreal, and the ushers Messrs. Bremner, A. Gillen, R. Tannahill, Jr., and H. Thompson.

Mrs. Corby, the bride's mother, wore a gown of black French net over figured silk, trimmed with velvet and real lace. Her hat was a toque of black and white.

The bride's going-away dress was of blue panne broadcloth, appliqued with pale blue and linen with hat to match.

As the bridal party left the church the organist, Mrs. (Col.) Campbell, played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The groom's present to the bride was a set of sables, and to the bridesmaids and maid of honor gold brooches in the form of a true lovers' knot.

A number of invited guests were present at the lunch at the family residence, which was charmingly decorated with chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara left on the 1:40 p.m. train for their wedding tour, at the conclusion of which they will reside in Ottawa, where Mr. O'Hara is private secretary to Sir Richard Cartwright.

MARRIED AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

At 9:30 this morning a wedding took place at St. Michael's Church, when Miss May Shea, of this city, became the wife of Capt. Robt. Matheson, of Port Hope, who has for some time been in command of the Government dredge Nippissing. Rev. Mgr. Farrelly performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in a dress of blue grey crepeline, trimmed with applique and chiffon, and wore a hat to match. She was assisted by her sister Miss Katie Shea, who was attired in a dress of blue cloth and wore a picture hat. The groomsman was Mr. Wm. Murdock, of Port Hope. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party and invited friends assembled at the residence of the bride's mother on Church street, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was partaken of.

The groom's present to the bride was a set of stone Marten furs, and to the bridesmaid a pearl crescent brooch.

Captain Matheson and bride left on the afternoon train for the west where they will visit for two weeks and then take a trip to Scotland. The bride's going away dress was navy blue corde de soie cloth, with hat to match.

The popularity of the bride was attested by the large number of handsome and costly presents which she received, including a beautiful clock from the staff and employes of The Intelligencer office, where she was employed for some time.

The numerous friends of the young couple will unite with The Intelligencer in wishing them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Perpetual Motion.

When George Stephenson was asked, "Do you believe in perpetual motion?" he replied, "Yes, if you lift yourself by the waist-band of the trousers, and carry yourself three times round the room."

Just so, and a woman would just as soon believe that she has not to pay dearly for common premium soaps, in the low quality of soap, in ruined hands and clothes. She would be kept in perpetual motion trying to do with common soap what she could so easily do with Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar. 216

MR. ANDREW KNOX PASSES AWAY IN THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

Mr. Andrew Knox, formerly of this city, but lately of Huntingdon, Que., died last night, after a prolonged illness. This news has been anticipated for weeks, but Mr. Knox's strong will power which has aided in carrying him through several severe attacks while here and since going to Huntingdon, kept him alive, long after the doctors had given him up.

Mr. Knox was born in the County Fermanagh, Ireland, about sixty years ago. He came to Canada when quite a young man, and after residing in the Province of Quebec he with Mrs. Knox came to this city in 1871, where he commenced business in the grocery line. He was not long in securing public confidence and friends once made by him were abiding ones. His character was so transparent and upright and all his dealings so fair that to an unusual degree our citizens trusted him. Though requested several times to offer himself for public positions, Mr. Knox declined, preferring to devote any leisure hours he had to benevolent societies and to Bridge St. Methodist Church. He was specially interested in the Ancient Order of United Workmen and was for several years Master Workman of the local lodge, and its representative to the Grand Lodge. In Bridge St. Church no person was more valued, his judgment was always reliable and his zeal unflagging.

He was for over twenty years a member of the Quarterly Official Board and one of the most regular attendants at the Sunday School and Epworth League of Christian Endeavor. When he and Mrs. Knox left here for Huntingdon the church made a presentation to them and highly eulogistic resolutions were passed. Mr. Knox's relations still live in Ireland, so that his esteemed widow is the only relation residing in Canada. As Mr. Knox had become very much attached to this city, it was his express desire that he be buried here. The funeral will be on Friday afternoon.

THE LENNOX ELECTION.

TRIAL OF THE PETITION AGAINST T. G. CARSCALLEN.

He Admits Retaining the Campaign Funds—One Charge Dismissed—Personal Bribery Under Investigation.

Napanee, Nov. 26.—The trial of the petition against Mr. T. G. Carscallen, the Conservative member-elect for Lennox in the Provincial Parliament, opened here yesterday before Mr. Justice Maclennan and Mr. Justice Osler. The court room was crowded almost to suffocation, the witnesses not being excluded. The petitioners are represented by Messrs. Geo. H. Watson, K.C., W. S. Herrington, K.C., and T. B. German; the respondent by Messrs. Walter Cassels, K.C., Edmund Bristol, Eric Armour and G. F. Ruttan. There are a great many witnesses present for the petition, and the cross-petition against Mr. Madole. Two charges were taken up. A charge of wholesale treating was dismissed. A charge of personal bribery against Mr. Carscallen is now under investigation.

Mr. Watson read from the examination for discovery of Mr. Carscallen, taken in Toronto. In it Mr. Carscallen stated that the Conservative organization in Lennox for Provincial and Dominion purposes was the same. He became a candidate in June, 1901. He had heard of John Carson being Chairman of the Napanee committee. He had been in the committee-room in Napanee twice in the evening. Once there were two men in the room, smoking, Geo. Lewis, and a couple of boys from the flats.

He had not examined his election accounts, and did not know the amount of them. Mr. Ruttan was supposed to look after the vote in Napanee. His personal expenses were $11. He paid election expenses amounting to $276.

Deafness and impaired hearing are due almost entirely to catarrhal inflammation of the eustachian tubes. Permanent cure is guaranteed to all who inhale Catarrhozone as directed. This vegetable antiseptic is inhaled at the mouth, and after traversing all the air passages of the respiratory organs, is exhaled through the nostrils; it completely eradicates catarrh from any part of the system, clears the ears, nose and throat, and allays inflammation, congestion and soreness. For deafness, earache, ringing in the ears, head noises, catarrh, asthma and bronchitis, medical science can devise nothing as beneficial as Catarrhozone. Monstrous and Startling Atrocities—A Defiance of All Law, Justice and Common Decency.

Berlin, Nov. 26.—A private letter written by retiring United States Ambassador White to Henry Seligman of Frankfort-on-the-Main, regarding the treatment of Hebrews in Roumania, appears in the Frankfurter Zeitung. The letter, which was not intended for present publication, is in part as follows:—"The Roumanian atrocities are simply monstrous and startle the civilized world. I have just received the Roumanian bulletin. No document equals it in cruelty since the series of laws with which Louis XIV. persecuted the Huguenots. But even these, which have hitherto been regarded as the acme of cruelty, are exceeded by those in the bulletin. I cannot believe that right-thinking Roumanians or the civilized powers can allow this condition of things to continue. It appears to be open defiance of law, justice and common decency."

Mr. White will present his letters of recall to Emperor William Thursday at noon, and afterwards, with his wife, will take luncheon with the Emperor and Empress.

A NEW POWER COMPANY.

TORONTO CAPITALISTS TO HARNESS NIAGARA FORCES.

Mr. William Mackenzie and Mr. Frederic Nicholls Interested—Fearing the Results of American Monopoly.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Toronto capitalists, alarmed at the prospect of Niagara power being all monopolized by Americans, have planned a new company, the leaders of which have already approached the Niagara Falls Park Commissioners, with a view to securing privileges. These will be along the lines of the rights already conceded to the Canadian Niagara Power Company and the Ontario Power Company, both of which have very large works now under construction on the Canadian side. An engineering authority has stated that when these two works and the two already operating on the American side are in full operation, about 25 per cent. of the water passing down the Niagara River will have been diverted for power purposes. It is understood that the present applicants propose erecting works at a point between those already located.

The applicants are understood to be a syndicate which includes Mr. William Mackenzie, President of the Toronto Railway, and Mr. Frederic Nicholls, Managing Director of the Canadian General Electric Company. It was understood that the companies in which both these gentlemen are interested expected to obtain power from the Ontario Power Company, and their present appearance in the role of applicants lends color to the belief that the parties have failed to agree on the question of terms.

Mr. J. W. Langmuir, Chairman, and the members of the Park Commission interviewed Premier Ross regarding the matter yesterday, but at the conclusion neither Mr. Langmuir nor Mr. Ross would make any statement with reference to it.

THE HAVANA RIOTS.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY PERSONS WERE WOUNDED.

Indications Are that the Strike Will Soon be Settled—Three Men Accidentally Killed.

Havana, Nov. 26.—The total number of wounded in Monday's rioting, according to the hospital returns, is 120. Sixteen of these were wounded by bullets. The others are suffering from the injuries inflicted by policemen's clubs. Many other persons wounded were not taken to the hospitals. Coaches and omnibuses began running at noon. The managers of the Commercial Tobacco Company are confident that the strike will end to-day or Thursday. The Veterans' Association has appointed a committee, with Gen. Gomez as chairman, to wait upon the cigar manufacturers and try to arrange a peace settlement of the strike. This committee will afterwards meet the strikers committee, if the latter will consent. Several bread shops have opened. Two strikers and a fireman were killed, as the result of a collision between a fire engine and an electric car. A general strike, it is reported, has been declared at Cienfuegos.

Seaforth Woollen Mills Bonus.

Seaforth, Nov. 24.—A by-law to loan John Dick of Toronto ten thousand dollars to operate the defunct Seaforth woollen mills was voted upon and carried here to-day by a good majority, 368 in favor and only 10 against.

Didn't Lose Much.

At one of the annual fairs which are held at a small town in Russia a gentleman observed a gypsy and a Pole haggling over the sale of a horse. Full of curiosity when the two separated, and anxious to know how two such shrewd characters had bargained, the gentleman called the gypsy to him and enquired how much he had got for his animal. The gypsy opened his hand and showed a ten-rouble note (valued about a guinea).

"But isn't that very cheap?"

"No," said the gypsy, "he is dead lame."

The gentleman then sought out the Pole and said:

"So you have given ten roubles for a lame horse?"

The Pole, however, with a knowing look, said:

"Lame! He's as sound as you are. I saw he was badly shod, and only limped in consequence."

The enquirer returned to the gypsy and reported what the other said. The former gave a tremendous and most significant wink and whispered:

"He's as lame as a two-legged stool. I had him badly shod on purpose to make people believe that that was the cause of his limping."

When this was communicated to the Pole he seemed for the moment taken aback, and hung his head; then, with a little sigh and a shrug of his shoulders, he said, quietly:

"Ah, well, it's all right; it was a bad ten-rouble note!"

VACCINATION LAW FAILS.

DR. BRYCE URGES NECESSITY FOR NEW LEGISLATION.

Many Local Health Authorities Neglect Their Duty in This and in the Matter of Preventing Filth—Health Board Meets.

Toronto, Nov. 27.—The failure of the vaccination law passed in 1863 was strongly impressed upon the Provincial Board of Health yesterday by the Secretary, Dr. P. H. Bryce, in his quarterly report. The provision for the appointment of public vaccinators by municipalities or local boards of health was in a great majority of instances wholly neglected. The result was that there was growing up a population largely unvaccinated, which condition would be very serious should smallpox break out in the cities, towns and villages, where 45 per cent. of the population of Ontario resided. Such a condition had existed in American cities, when, in 1901, 500.000 people were compulsorily vaccinated in Boston, and nearly 1,000,000 in Philadelphia. Dr. Bryce suggested new and simpler legislation, which would provide for a specially appointed public vaccinator; for instance, the Medical Health Officer, to whom the clerk would send a list monthly of the births of all children registered, and the officer would then visit them at their homes and offer free vaccination. The cost to an ordinary township of 3,000 people would not exceed $100 a year. Where free vaccination was refused, the provision would be made that the child would not be admitted to public or private schools without producing a certificate of vaccination. The bill would, probably, include the present provisions covering the circumstances of an outbreak of smallpox.

In the other portion of his report, Dr. Bryce made some stringent criticisms of the neglect of many local health boards and a large portion of the public with regard to the dangers of filth. The situation called for some radical action. Reports of rather extensive outbreaks of enteric at Burk's Falls and Sault Ste. Marie, due to bad sanitation, were also submitted by Dr. Bryce. Smallpox had not been prevalent, but its existence in the neighboring States threatened another epidemic this winter, and there were now 50 cases in the Province. The report was adopted.

The report of the Committee on Epidemics, submitted by Dr. J. J. Cassidy, expressed great satisfaction at the recent action of the Hamilton City Council in being the first in Ontario to pass a by-law requiring all practising physicians to notify the Medical Health Officer of the existence of all cases of pulmonary consumption which they are attending. This step had been urged by the committee in June, 1900.

GRAIN TRADE SATISFIED.

The Number of Grades For Export Grain is Increased.

Toronto, Nov. 27.—An arrangement satisfactory to the grain trade has been made with the Trunk Line Association in respect to the number of grades that will be allowed on grain exported via New York. The Trunk Line Association had proposed at first to allow only 15 grades, nine to Ontario and Quebec, and six to Manitoba. As the result of the agitation here, however, the association has agreed to allow twelve bins for Ontario and Quebec, three more than first intended. Manitoba is still to have six, which will be two less than last year. The extra three bins in Ontario will be used for No. 3 white wheat, rejected wheat, and No. 1 white oats.

ROOSEVELT PROMPT

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE NOW IN TYPE.

WILL DEAL WITH TRUSTS AND THE TARIFF.

A COMMISSION ON THE LATTER QUESTION.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The gentlemen who have been laboring under the impression that the President was waiting to hear from them before closing his message will be relieved to learn that that important State paper is complete, and that the President to-night has in his possession printed proofs of the entire document. In regard to the trust question, there is reason for the belief that the President will earnestly recommend action at the coming session, and that the main features of the remedial legislation desired will be outlined. Touching the character of the recommendations, it is assumed the President will follow the last annual message and the suggestions contained in the Pittsburg speech of Attorney-General Knox, and will contend that Congress has full power to protect the people against the evils complained of.

Tariff revision, it is understood, will be treated conservatively, and will be commended to the wisdom of the legislative department. There is a belief among Republicans from the west that the tariff should be speedily taken up and rates adjusted to the changed conditions that have occurred in the fields of commerce and mechanical industries, but even among these gentlemen there is a difference of opinion as to the wisdom and policy of taking up the question at a short session of Congress.

Among a number of Senators and Representatives there is a feeling that a tariff commission would be the best method of disposing of the question, but it is not probable such a commission will be authorized at this or the next session. The experience with the tariff commission of 1882 has not been forgotten by the older members of Congress. That commission was composed of a high class of men engaged in various manufacturing industries who were experts, but their work was cast aside by the two revenue committees of Congress, and an entirely different measure brought forward, in which the rates of duty were far in advance of those recommended in the bill formulated by the commission. In short, the recommendations of the commission were practically ignored.

SOUFRIERE AGAIN ACTIVE.

TOWNS AND VILLAGES DESERTED BY PEOPLE.

Fifth Big Outburst Since the Catastrophe of May 7—Terrific Lightning Storms.

Kingston, St. Vincent, Nov. 27.—A violent eruption of La Soufriere, the fifth big outburst since the catastrophe of May 7 took place. Georgetown and the Village of Chateau Bellair, situated on the west coast of St. Vincent, were again evacuated by their inhabitants. Telephonic communication in those districts is interrupted, owing to fierce lightning. Subterranean rumblings can be heard and volcanic clouds are seen from this city. The crater had been smoking constantly since the terrific eruption of October 16.

TROUBLE FOR VENEZUELA.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY TO TAKE JOINT ACTION.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—Germany and Great Britain have determined to take joint action to collect their claims against Venezuela. The two powers are in correspondence over the form of this action. No time can be named when they will act, because the respective foreign offices have not yet agreed on the details. It is understood that only slight differences exist regarding the course to be followed, and diplomatic relations between the two powers and Venezuela may be broken off at any time. It is confirmed here that the United States is fully instructed on the subject of the negotiations, and knows that what is meditated will not infringe the Monroe doctrine.

SHOT BY A ROBBER.

Assistant Postmaster of Warren, Mich., Killed Instantly.

Warren, Mich., Nov. 26.—Glint E. Osborne, assistant postmaster and proprietor of the general store in this village, was shot dead early to-day by one of a gang of robbers who had entered the Warren Bank and blown open the safe. There were three or four men in the gang. They drove rapidly away, without securing any booty, and no trace of them has since been discovered.

Do you wear rubbers? If so, buy rubbers with a reputation. "G.R. Co." rubbers have stood the test of half a century. Fit and style speak for themselves.

THE QUITO BEACHED.

THRILLING RESCUE OF OFFICERS AND CREW.

Mate McGraw's Terrific Jump For Life—Splendid Work of Tug Cascade and Life-saving Crew.

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 27.—A special to The Express from Lorain, Ohio, says:—

The propellor Quito last evening tried to make this port with iron ore from Escanaba. A heavy northeast gale was raging, and the sea ran high. The propeller was piled on the beach outside the piers, near the harbor. The tug Cascade went out immediately to the rescue and took off twelve of the crew and the woman cook. Four others aboard, two engineers and two mates, were in their cabins, packing up some things. The tug had to get away from the steamer and the four men were left aboard.

Soon after the Cascade landed the rescued men signals were made from the imperilled steamer. The men aboard feared she would go to pieces. The Cascade again went out into the storm, towing a lifeboat. The sea was running so high by that time that the tug could not get near enough to the propeller for the men aboard to get the lifeboat. That project was then abandoned.

Captain Bowen then took the wheel of the Cascade and shot her close enough to the propeller so that the first mate, O. J. McGraw, managed to jump to the tug's deck. The tug swept by before the other men had time to make the leap. The seas were so high that the tug did not dare to remain by the propeller any longer, and she turned and scudded for the harbor.

The three men remaining were taken off the Quito early this morning by the life-saving crew of Cleveland.

The propeller Quito is a wooden vessel. She is 204 feet long, 36-foot beam and 22-foot depth. She was built at Bangor, Mich., in 1873 and was owned by James Corrigan of Cleveland.

A WATCHMAN'S WORK.

TURKEY BUYING ARMS.

EXPENDITURE OF NEARLY FOUR MILLION DOLLARS.

Purchases Were Accelerated by Recent Developments in Macedonia and the Balkans.

Constantinople, Nov. 27.—Sixteen batteries of quick-firing field guns, numbering 96 guns in all, have been ordered from the Krupp works, as the commencement of the re-armament of the Turkish artillery. The War Ministry is also authorized to purchase 220,000 small calibre Mausers, to complete the present establishment. With waggons and ammunition for the artillery, the orders entail an outlay of £3,880,000.

The purchases were apparently accelerated in consequence of the recent developments in the situation in Macedonia and the Balkans, and the impression prevailing in many quarters here that a serious outbreak, possibly leading to widespread European complications, may be expected in the spring.

RALEIGH OIL FIELDS.

THE FIRST WELL YIELDING 45 BARRELS AN HOUR.

Gurd Well No. 2 Plugged, but Great Reticence Maintained as to its Output—Rush For Territory Continues.

Chatham, Nov. 27.—News drifted into the city late yesterday that Gurd well No. 2, a quarter of a mile from the gusher, which was reported as being down 300 feet, had been plugged. At once there was an exodus of speculators and operators and in a short time not an oil man was to be found in the city. The opinion is that oil has been struck, but for good reasons the well has been plugged for the present and the oil men have put a padlock on their lips. At the field all is bustle. Lease hunters are busy securing all the land possible. Derricks are being erected here and there, and rigs are constantly arriving. When the gusher was turned on yesterday to fill the big tanks it flowed at the rate of 45 barrels an hour. The pipe line being laid by the Imperial Oil people from the well to Pardo Siding, over a mile away, is almost completed and teaming over the very bad roads will soon be at an end.

WHO OWNS CAR "001?"

This is among other important questions now being seriously considered. It appears that the Hon. Mr. Tarte has not, though out of the Ministry, given up travelling in the luxuriously appointed private car "001," and the question now agitating the public mind, is, "who owns the car?"

The Hon. gentleman was interviewed in Montreal on the 26th inst., and the reporter says Mr. Tarte was "in his private car the famous 001, at Bonaventure station," which was "on the rear end of the International Express" bound for Quebec.

"The question of the ownership of car 001," continues the reporter, "is a matter of considerable speculation in political circles. The opponents of the ex-Minister of Public Works claim that the car is an old Canadian Pacific one, upon which Mr. Tarte expended seven or eight thousand dollars, making it as luxurious a car as any one below the rank of president would care to use. Furthermore, they claim Mr. Tarte refuses to dispossess himself of it, and claims it as his private property.

"The Canadian Pacific people claim they know nothing about it.

"The question of its ownership, however, is receiving the attention of the Minister of Public Works."

A good deal used to be said about private cars travelling on public business by Cabinet Ministers in the days of the Conservative government, but it was never alleged that Ministers had spent thousand of dollars of public money in fitting up old cars for private property. But then, why should not the Hon. Israel have his "private" car, as well as the Hon. Clifford Sifton his private yacht? Present Ministers can vaunt their wealth while those of other days had all they could do to make ends meet. People must not forget this is a progressive age!

Why do I wear "G.R. Co." rubbers? Because they fit properly and wear better than any other rubber shoe in the market. You cannot afford to be without a pair if you value your health.

An important judgment was rendered a few days ago in an action tried at Barrie, brought under Lord Campbell's Act, for damages for the death of a man, who was run over by a train on the Grand Trunk line where it crosses the sixth concession of the township of Flos. The jury found defendants negligent in not whistling, and assessed the damages at $2,500, but answered in the affirmative a question as to whether deceased could have avoided the accident by the exercise of reasonable care. Held, that Brown v. London Street R.W. Co., 2 O.L.R. 53, supported defendants' claim to judgment on the answer to the last question, which was answered by the jury in the only way they could, upon the evidence, have properly answered it. Action dismissed with costs.

"They wanted to fire me out of the room," replied the witness.

"Why?" A. — "Because I was drunk."

A new way of effecting conversions. A cablegram of the 25th inst. says: "A priest, while preaching in the Church of San Carlos, at Naples, tried to impress his congregation, which was drawn from the poorest and most disreputable of the inhabitants, with the terrors of hell. With the view of heightening the effect of his oratory he had placed behind the altar in the sacristy confessionals a man who, while the priest vividly described the torments of hell, howled, wailed, groaned and rattled chains. The performance was so realistic that the congregation fled in terror, and many were injured in the crush at the doors. The police have warned the priest to abstain from his dangerous theatricals."

The Hon. Clifford Sifton has been attending referendum meetings, advocating the passage of the Ross Act, yet this man was, and still is, a member of a Government which pledged itself to enact a prohibitory law, if the people of the country voted in favor of it. A plebiscite was held and over 15,000 of a majority was recorded in its favor. Yet this humbug and his colleagues refused to pass the law, and now he has the cheek to appear on platforms and urge others to do what he refused to do.

The new Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Mr. Prefontaine, is pursuing the usual course adopted by the present men in power, when the votes of the people are asked. His first act, when opening his election campaign was to tell his constituents that a commission was to be appointed at once to consider and report upon the proper place to build a dry-dock in his constituency. This means the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars among his electors. Not a bad bait for a French constituency.

• • •

Mr. Prefontaine follows this up with a letter to the Board of Harbor Commissioners, asking for information in relation to harbor improvements and the necessity of immediate action, and asks for information which should be obtainable from the Department of Public works. To seek it there would not have enabled him to make a splurge in the money spending line at the moment of an election.

Counterfeit $2 Dominion of Canada notes are in circulation in the Capital. On the 25th inst two men entered the grocery kept by Mrs. Daniel Ryan, Dalhousie street, and purchased a few cents worth of candy, giving in payment a $2 Dominion note and receiving the proper change. Later Mrs. Ryan examined the bill and was convinced it was bogus. She handed it to the detectives, who have eight other similar bills in their possession. The workmanship on the bills is not clear. The cut of the King is also blurred, and an expert would not have the slightest difficulty in detecting that they are not genuine. Let our merchants and others look out for them!

Newspaper compositors sometimes make sad havoc of the "copy" put into their hands. For instance, the Globe of the 27th inst. contains what purports to be a likeness of Mr. John Dillon, M.P., the Irish agitator, who has been stumping the United States with the Hon. Edward Blake, begging for cents, and the typo seriously announces that "Mr. "John Dillon, M.P., one of the "Ontario Agricultural College "group, who intended to tour Canada next week, in company with "the Hon. Edward Blake, has broken down, etc." It would be interesting to know, unless the above announcement be a mistake, when Dillon was added to the staff of the Ontario Agricultural College, and what his duties are!

AN ELOPING COUPLE

A DESERONTO PAIR BROUGHT UP ON THE ROUND TURN BY CHIEF RUSE, OF COBOURG.

The following despatch comes from Cobourg: "Acting on the advice of a telegram, Chief Constable Ruse met the noon express from the east yesterday afternoon and arrested an eloping couple, Thomas Farsides and Mary Ethel Sager, of Deseronto. On the same train was George J. Sager, husband of the woman, and upon whose information the couple were arrested. In his information Sager charges his wife with the theft of $40. When arrested the eloping couple held tickets reading through to Toronto. They will probably be remanded at Cobourg for a day or two, then taken back to Deseronto to stand trial.

Sager is employed by the Rathbun Company, and also conducts a second-hand goods store. On Monday afternoon he sent his wife to buy out the furniture of a family about to leave Deseronto. She went away with an adopted child, but failed to return, though the child came back.

Three years ago she left home, but subsequently returned, and was forgiven.

"AFTER FIVE YEARS"

By Frances Wilson

Copyright, 1901, by Frances Wilson

"We'll have tea, I think," she said in a meditative manner, leaning her cheek against two fingers of her left hand, "and perhaps some of those little cakes—the ones that are so tempting on the outside and all emptiness on the inside."

From her tone Lorrimer understood that she meant to intimate that the artistic unities demanded cakes of this description. He translated the order into man talk for the benefit of the obsequious waiter and then asked with the air of one who was used to being made a confidant of:

"What's the trouble? Because I've noticed that when you order tea it is an infallible sign of a disturbed conscience."

There was a flash of mirth in her eyes as they met his, and she clasped her hands on the edge of the table and leaned toward him, saying in a wheedling way:

"You're the greatest comfort to me. You're the only man I know, ever have known, save one, who always understands! With you it isn't necessary to dot one's i's and cross one's t's."

Having paid him this handsome compliment, she beamed at him across the narrow table and expectantly awaited the question which she knew was sure to follow.

"And the other fellow," he laughed, "the one who shares with me the proud distinction?"

"He's the trouble!" came the answer in a pathetic voice. Then with sudden vivacity: "Did you ever notice that there's something about the movements of the average waiter that reminds one of Spencerian writing? There's a flowing grace in the way that he removes a dish cover, a flourish in the way that he sets down a plate, which marks him as a human exponent of the Spencerian theory."

Their order had arrived, and it was not until she had poured the tea that she spoke again. Then she burst out indignantly:

"Nobody but a dreamer would think of such a thing as continuing a romance from the point where he left it five years before. It's absurd, you know," she continued candidly. "A person's feelings change from year to year!"

"From season to season would seem to me a more accurate statement," put in her companion, with a suave smile, "unless, indeed, my experience has been unusual."

"You do understand," she smiled. "You certainly do! Now you would know, wouldn't you, that if a woman were fond of you, say when leg o' mutton sleeves were in fashion, she might—probably would—feel very different by the time that the coat sleeves were de rigueur?"

Her face wore the hopeful expression of a person who has at last found a perfectly rational human being who will see things as they are. Lorrimer drained his cup and set it down deliberately before he replied. Then he said:

"Don't you think you would better begin at the beginning? You're a trifle incoherent, you know."

"That's just it! There wasn't any beginning! And evidently he thinks that there hasn't been any end. It was all so elusive and intangible and so sad! He left so much to the imagination. I think that was a part of his fascination for me. There was a look in his eyes at times that wrung my heart, and from pity I drifted by degrees into something more.

"When we parted, I knew that we were sworn to an eternal friendship—sort of ashes of roses affair, you know—and in my own heart I was fully determined never to marry. I was going to be one of those sweet, sad, strong women that you read about."

She screwed her forehead into a knot and looked at him deprecatingly.

"What happened?" he inquired in a sympathetic tone. "You haven't married, it is true, but I have never connected you in my thoughts with a hidden sorrow."

The occupants of an adjoining table rose to go, and her attention was engrossed for a moment by a love of a gown. Then she came back to Lorrimer and her story.

"I suppose that what happened was just—other men!" she said ruefully. "The spirit was willing, but the flesh was weak."

"What in the name of goodness is troubling you then?" asked Lorrimer, thoroughly mystified.

"Why, I had a note from him this morning! He will be in town next Wednesday. His wife is dead!"

She composed her face to an expression of perfect propriety before making this announcement, though there was a faint twitching of her lips.

"Ah-h-h! I see. You fear that he is coming to claim his pound of flesh, and you're not of the same mind that you were when it was promised."

She nodded.

"It's not quite nice of me to tell you, but we're very old friends, and I'm really troubled. He's such a nice fellow—just a thoroughgoing idealist, and I know he thinks of me as cherishing his memory, and of course I do," she added quickly, "only not in just the way he thinks. He's had so much sadness in his life that I cannot bear to give him pain. I want him to see for himself that I am different now. I thought of fixing myself up like a perfect frump," she said anxiously, "to receive him and asking you to drop in at ten minutes past 5, not a minute later, so that there won't be any time for"—

"Reminiscences?" prompted Lorrimer, and she assented.

The teapot was empty and the illusory cakes had vanished. There was a flutter of departing guests all about them, and they rose and made their way homeward.

At precisely 5 o'clock the next day Miss Barry was greeting Mr. Grantham with an expression in her dark eyes which was not well planned, if indeed it was calculated to reconcile him to his fate.

"You've grown, actually grown, since we last met," he said, his handsome, serious face lighting up with pleasure and with a ring of boyish pleasure in his voice which suddenly made her feel very world worn, very callous and very unworthy. "Tell me about yourself—all that you've been doing and thinking," he went on cordially, but with no trace of embarrassment, "and then I'll retaliate in kind."

"I've simply been growing worldly and horrid, and I'm not at all the sort of person that I was five years ago. I've given up my ideals, those exquisite chimeras which seemed so near to us that summer. You see New York isn't the proper habitat for the soul."

Grantham's deep eyes were bent upon her half in doubt.

"I don't think you are quite fair to yourself," he began gently, and the look in his eyes made her wonder nervously how much longer it would be before Lorrimer appeared.

As if in response to her thought he was announced at that moment, and the three were soon chatting pleasantly. If Mr. Grantham felt any annoyance at the presence of a third party, there was no trace of it in his manner. His eyes rested upon Miss Barry with a look which struck Lorrimer as being of the sort that one gives to an admired but utterly unattainable object; he looked at her as one might look at some beautiful ideal to which he had ceased to aspire.

He also noticed that Miss Barry, with feminine inconsistency, had evidently repented of her determination to "look like a frump." There was something extremely up to date in the way that the dull pink broadcloth swirled around her slender figure, and her dark hair seemed to shine and ripple more exquisitely than usual. Lorrimer decided to seize the first opportunity that presented to him:

And, oh, I am glad that moment sad
Was cheered by sight of me!

It was not until Mr. Grantham rose to go that he said:

"You know perhaps of the death of my twin sister, Mrs. Raymond? She died in Rome six months ago. It was a terrible shock to Mrs. Grantham."

There was a queer little inarticulate exclamation which seemed to come from Miss Barry's lips, while a shade of astonishment flashed across Lorrimer's face. The speaker looked from one to the other in a puzzled way and then continued:

"Mrs. Grantham was with her and will return on the Etruria next week. I want you to meet her, Miss Barry, and see our boys." His face was shining with pride. "I know you will love them."

Miss Barry murmured the usual commonplaces and then added maliciously, with a defiant look straight at Lorrimer:

"I was about to ask for Mrs. Grantham when Mr. Lorrimer joined us. I hope she is very well?"

Left alone, she and Lorrimer looked at each other in a nonplused manner for a moment. Then they both burst into peals of laughter.

She finally crossed the room and made a search in the small desk which stood in the alcove and came back, with her eyes bent upon the note in her hand. Sitting down beside Lorrimer, she held it out to him, looking rather foolish.

"It doesn't say that his wife is dead, but wouldn't you think so from the wording and—and from the other circumstances?" she pleaded. Then devoutly: "Goodness! I'm glad I wore the pink broadcloth!"

"So am I, dear," replied Lorrimer, and then he went on to say— But it would take too long to tell that.

Too Tight a Squeeze.

John Fiske, the historian, was a man of enormous stature, and extremely sensitive about any reference to his unusual size. On one occasion, when he was visiting a friend at his home in a beautiful town in Connecticut, the hostess and her daughter invited Mr. Fiske to drive with them one morning. The road is a picturesque one, which winds along the river at the foot of the mountains. At one point the hostess suggested that the party alight and walk a short distance through the field to get a particularly attractive view. Around this field was a high fence with no opening but a narrow stile. The ladies passed through and turned to wait for their guest. For a moment he contemplated the opening; to squeeze through was impossible, to climb over was equally impracticable. Finally his deep bass voice broke the silence: "Ladies, I think we would better continue our drive."

A Feat of Swordsmanship.

Napoleon, it is said, one day met an old one armed soldier and asked him where he lost his arm.

"Sire, at Austerlitz."

"And were you not decorated?"

"No, sire."

"Then here is my own cross for you. I make you chevalier."

"Your majesty makes me chevalier because I have lost one arm. What would your majesty have done had I lost both?"

"Oh, in that case I should have made you officer of the Legion."

Whereupon the soldier immediately drew his sword and cut off his other arm.

CANADA'S COAL FIELDS.

Our Deposits of Black Diamonds Are in the Far East and the Far West —Area of Production.

Canada's coal deposits are in the far East and the far West. That is why we in Ontario are dependent upon the United States for our supply.

In the year 1900 the output of the British Columbia coal mines amounted to 1,590,179 tons. Of this quantity 1,383,375 tons came from the Vancouver Island fields, the remainder being yielded by the mines of the Crow's Nest Pass. By far the larger part of the British Columbia coal is sold outside of Canada, to purchasers in California, the Hawaiian Islands, and Alaska. The China and Australian steamships are also large consumers. In 1900 California took 766,917 tons, which was somewhat more than half the yield of the British Columbia mines for that year. The Nanaimo, the Wellington, the Union, and the Alexandria are the great collieries of Vancouver Island. The coal produced on the island is of a hard bituminous variety, more closely resembling the Welsh coal than that of Ohio. It is of a high grade, both for steam and coking purposes, and is largely used for house heating. At Nanaimo the principal mine is directly on the shore and the galleries are pushed out far under the water, so that as at Cape Breton, vessels may load with coal that is extracted immediately beneath them. The producing mines are in the hands of private companies.

Mr. J. McEvoy, an official of the Geological Survey, made a report on the Crow's Nest coal field in the Rocky Mountains, which he explored for the purpose in 1900. He estimates the extent of the coal area there at 230 square miles, or 147,200 acres. He calculates that the yield per acre should be 153,480 tons of 2,240 pounds, and the total yield 22,595,200,000 tons. Of this area 50,000 acres is owned by the Dominion, the remainder belonging to the Crow's Nest Pass Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. In 1900 the Crow's Nest Pass Company raised 206,803 tons, of which 47,353 tons were for coke-making purposes. There were exported to the United States 7,968 tons of coal and 38,958 tons of coke, the remainder of the output being sold in Canada. Geologists report upwards of 50 workable seams of coal in the Crow's Nest region. These seams vary in thickness from 4 to 30 feet, and about one-third of them are cannel, the remainder bituminous. Some years ago Dr. Selwyn, at that time director of the Geological Survey, estimated the coal there at 75,000,000,000 tons, more than three times the quantity Mr. McEvoy places it at. Mr. McEvoy's figures are considered very conservative. Analysis of coals from the pass have been made by the Geological Survey. They show from 67 per cent to 69 per cent. of fixed carbon. Other analysis are said to have shown as much as 78 to 80 per cent. of carbon present. A coke containing 93 per cent. of carbon has been obtained from Crow's Nest coal. A portion of the Crow's Nest deposit extends into Alberta district. Upon this extension the British America Coal Company has done a great deal of prospecting.

Besides the spur from the Crow's Nest coal fields, there are other deposits in the Northwest Territories. In Alberta there are mines at Lethbridge, Anthracite, Canmore, and Edmonton. Farther to the east are the Souris mines. About half the total production is taken by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. It has not yet reached half a million tons in one year. The anthracite coal near Banff is quite equal to that of Pennsylvania, and is used for car heating and for domestic consumption. An almost smokeless coal is that produced at Canmore. The Galt coal mines at Lethbridge yield a good bituminous coal, well adapted for railway uses. It was estimated by Dr. Dawson that the coal measures stretching from Lethbridge, eastward, along the American border to Manitoba, cover 15,000 square miles. In the Yukon district there are numerous lignite areas, from which coal, yielding 40 per cent. of fixed carbon, is mined.

In 1901 the Dominion Coal Company raised 2,561,783 tons from its Cape Breton mines. Of this quantity 863,633 tons were delivered at St. Lawrence ports, and about 600,000 tons was exported to the United States. Altogether, in 1901, there was produced in Nova Scotia 3,800,000 tons. The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company is a large producer. Its chief property is at Sydney mines, Cape Breton. In Inverness County considerable progress has been made in development. Pictou County mines and those of Cumberland County are productive. Ten or twelve companies are raising coal in Nova Scotia.

The mines held by the Dominion Coal Company are under a lease from the Provincial Government, to which the company pays a royalty. In a statement, made under examination, by Dr. F. L. Slocum, of the Pittsburg Gas Engineering Company, before a committee of the Massachusetts Legislature, the coal of the International mine of Nova Scotia was ranked about equal in value to the best product of Pennsylvania mines.

From the Duke of York, to whom the coal lands of Nova Scotia were granted by King William IV., under an Act of the Royal prerogative, they passed by lease to the General Mining Association in 1826. The lease called for the payment to the Duke of a royalty of 1s. a ton. For a time the General Mining Association had a monopoly of coal production in Nova Scotia. Active mining was begun in 1830. In 1857 the Duke of York's lease was surrendered, and the mines now operated by the Dominion Coal Company became the property of the Province. By the Province they were leased to the Dominion Coal Company. But the General Mining Association—a British corporation—retained the coal fields at Sydney mines—an extremely valuable property—until a few years ago, when they were purchased by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Attend no auctions if thou hast no money.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickeson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

Do not live near a pious fool.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Most young men get a lot of rye mixed with their wild oats.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

"AFTER FIVE YEARS"

By Frances Wilson

Copyright, 1901, by Frances Wilson

"We'll have tea, I think," she said in a meditative manner, leaning her cheek against two fingers of her left hand, "and perhaps some of those little cakes—the ones that are so tempting on the outside and all emptiness on the inside."

From her tone Lorrimer understood that she meant to intimate that the artistic unities demanded cakes of this description. He translated the order into man talk for the benefit of the obsequious waiter and then asked with the air of one who was used to being made a confidant of:

"What's the trouble? Because I've noticed that when you order tea it is an infallible sign of a disturbed conscience."

There was a flash of mirth in her eyes as they met his, and she clasped her hands on the edge of the table and leaned toward him, saying in a wheedling way:

"You're the greatest comfort to me. You're the only man I know, ever have known, save one, who always understands! With you it isn't necessary to dot one's i's and cross one's t's."

Having paid him this handsome compliment, she beamed at him across the narrow table and expectantly awaited the question which she knew was sure to follow.

"And the other fellow," he laughed, "the one who shares with me the proud distinction?"

"He's the trouble!" came the answer in a pathetic voice. Then with sudden vivacity: "Did you ever notice that there's something about the movements of the average waiter that reminds one of Spencerian writing? There's a flowing grace in the way that he removes a dish cover, a flourish in the way that he sets down a plate, which marks him as a human exponent of the Spencerian theory."

Their order had arrived, and it was not until she had poured the tea that she spoke again. Then she burst out indignantly:

"Nobody but a dreamer would think of such a thing as continuing a romance from the point where he left it five years before. It's absurd, you know," she continued candidly. "A person's feelings change from year to year!"

"From season to season would seem to me a more accurate statement," put in her companion, with a suave smile, "unless, indeed, my experience has been unusual."

"You do understand," she smiled. "You certainly do! Now you would know, wouldn't you, that if a woman were fond of you, say when leg o' mutton sleeves were in fashion, she might—probably would—feel very different by the time that the coat sleeves were de rigueur?"

Her face wore the hopeful expression of a person who has at last found a perfectly rational human being who will see things as they are. Lorrimer drained his cup and set it down deliberately before he replied. Then he said:

"Don't you think you would better begin at the beginning? You're a trifle incoherent, you know."

"That's just it! There wasn't any beginning! And evidently he thinks that there hasn't been any end. It was all so elusive and intangible and so sad! He left so much to the imagination. I think that was a part of his fascination for me. There was a look in his eyes at times that wrung my heart, and from pity I drifted by degrees into something more.

"When we parted, I knew that we were sworn to an eternal friendship—sort of ashes of roses affair, you know—and in my own heart I was fully determined never to marry. I was going to be one of those sweet, sad, strong women that you read about."

She screwed her forehead into a knot and looked at him deprecatingly.

"What happened?" he inquired in a sympathetic tone. "You haven't married, it is true, but I have never connected you in my thoughts with a hidden sorrow."

The occupants of an adjoining table rose to go, and her attention was engrossed for a moment by a love of a gown. Then she came back to Lorrimer and her story.

"I suppose that what happened was just—other men!" she said ruefully. "The spirit was willing, but the flesh was weak."

"What in the name of goodness is troubling you then?" asked Lorrimer, thoroughly mystified.

"Why, I had a note from him this morning! He will be in town next Wednesday. His wife is dead!"

She composed her face to an expression of perfect propriety before making this announcement, though there was a faint twitching of her lips.

"Ah-h-h! I see. You fear that he is coming to claim his pound of flesh, and you're not of the same mind that you were when it was promised."

She nodded.

"It's not quite nice of me to tell you, but we're very old friends, and I'm really troubled. He's such a nice fellow—just a thoroughgoing idealist, and I know he thinks of me as cherishing his memory, and of course I do," she added quickly, "only not in just the way he thinks. He's had so much sadness in his life that I cannot bear to give him pain. I want him to see for himself that I am different now. I thought of fixing myself up like a perfect frump," she said anxiously, "to receive him and asking you to drop in at ten minutes past 5, not a minute later, so that there won't be any time for"—

"Reminiscences?" prompted Lorrimer, and she assented.

The teapot was empty and the illusory cakes had vanished. There was a flutter of departing guests all about them, and they rose and made their way homeward.

At precisely 5 o'clock the next day Miss Barry was greeting Mr. Grantham with an expression in her dark eyes which was not well planned, if indeed it was calculated to reconcile him to his fate.

"You've grown, actually grown, since we last met," he said, his handsome, serious face lighting up with pleasure and with a ring of boyish pleasure in his voice which suddenly made her feel very world worn, very callous and very unworthy. "Tell me about yourself—all that you've been doing and thinking," he went on cordially, but with no trace of embarrassment, "and then I'll retaliate in kind."

"I've simply been growing worldly and horrid, and I'm not at all the sort of person that I was five years ago. I've given up my ideals, those exquisite chimeras which seemed so near to us that summer. You see New York isn't the proper habitat for the soul."

Grantham's deep eyes were bent upon her half in doubt.

"I don't think you are quite fair to yourself," he began gently, and the look in his eyes made her wonder nervously how much longer it would be before Lorrimer appeared.

As if in response to her thought he was announced at that moment, and the three were soon chatting pleasantly. If Mr. Grantham felt any annoyance at the presence of a third party, there was no trace of it in his manner. His eyes rested upon Miss Barry with a look which struck Lorrimer as being of the sort that one gives to an admired but utterly unattainable object; he looked at her as one might look at some beautiful ideal to which he had ceased to aspire.

He also noticed that Miss Barry, with feminine inconsistency, had evidently repented of her determination to "look like a frump." There was something extremely up to date in the way that the dull pink broadcloth swirled around her slender figure, and her dark hair seemed to shine and ripple more exquisitely than usual. Lorrimer decided to seize the first opportunity that presented to him:

And, oh, I am glad that moment sad
Was cheered by sight of me!

It was not until Mr. Grantham rose to go that he said:

"You know perhaps of the death of my twin sister, Mrs. Raymond? She died in Rome six months ago. It was a terrible shock to Mrs. Grantham."

There was a queer little inarticulate exclamation which seemed to come from Miss Barry's lips, while a shade of astonishment flashed across Lorrimer's face. The speaker looked from one to the other in a puzzled way and then continued:

"Mrs. Grantham was with her and will return on the Etruria next week. I want you to meet her, Miss Barry, and see our boys." His face was shining with pride. "I know you will love them."

Miss Barry murmured the usual commonplaces and then added maliciously, with a defiant look straight at Lorrimer:

"I was about to ask for Mrs. Grantham when Mr. Lorrimer joined us. I hope she is very well?"

Left alone, she and Lorrimer looked at each other in a nonplused manner for a moment. Then they both burst into peals of laughter.

She finally crossed the room and made a search in the small desk which stood in the alcove and came back, with her eyes bent upon the note in her hand. Sitting down beside Lorrimer, she held it out to him, looking rather foolish.

"It doesn't say that his wife is dead, but wouldn't you think so from the wording and—and from the other circumstances?" she pleaded. Then devoutly: "Goodness! I'm glad I wore the pink broadcloth!"

"So am I, dear," replied Lorrimer, and then he went on to say— But it would take too long to tell that.

Too Tight a Squeeze.

John Fiske, the historian, was a man of enormous stature, and extremely sensitive about any reference to his unusual size. On one occasion, when he was visiting a friend at his home in a beautiful town in Connecticut, the hostess and her daughter invited Mr. Fiske to drive with them one morning. The road is a picturesque one, which winds along the river at the foot of the mountains. At one point the hostess suggested that the party alight and walk a short distance through the field to get a particularly attractive view. Around this field was a high fence with no opening but a narrow stile. The ladies passed through and turned to wait for their guest. For a moment he contemplated the opening; to squeeze through was impossible, to climb over was equally impracticable. Finally his deep bass voice broke the silence: "Ladies, I think we would better continue our drive."

A Feat of Swordsmanship.

Napoleon, it is said, one day met an old one armed soldier and asked him where he lost his arm.

"Sire, at Austerlitz."

"And were you not decorated?"

"No, sire."

"Then here is my own cross for you. I make you chevalier."

"Your majesty makes me chevalier because I have lost one arm. What would your majesty have done had I lost both?"

"Oh, in that case I should have made you officer of the Legion."

Whereupon the soldier immediately drew his sword and cut off his other arm.

CANADA'S COAL FIELDS.

Our Deposits of Black Diamonds Are in the Far East and the Far West—Area of Production.

Canada's coal deposits are in the far East and the far West. That is why we in Ontario are dependent upon the United States for our supply.

In the year 1900 the output of the British Columbia coal mines amounted to 1,590,179 tons. Of this quantity 1,383,375 tons came from the Vancouver Island fields, the remainder being yielded by the mines of the Crow's Nest Pass. By far the larger part of the British Columbia coal is sold outside of Canada, to purchasers in California, the Hawaiian Islands, and Alaska. The China and Australian steamships are also large consumers. In 1900 California took 766,917 tons, which was somewhat more than half the yield of the British Columbia mines for that year. The Nanaimo, the Wellington, the Union, and the Alexandria are the great collieries of Vancouver Island. The coal produced on the island is of a hard bituminous variety, more closely resembling the Welsh coal than that of Ohio. It is of a high grade, both for steam and coking purposes, and is largely used for house heating. At Nanaimo the principal mine is directly on the shore and the galleries are pushed out far under the water, so that as at Cape Breton, vessels may load with coal that is extracted immediately beneath them. The producing mines are in the hands of private companies.

Mr. J. McEvoy, an official of the Geological Survey, made a report on the Crow's Nest coal field in the Rocky Mountains, which he explored for the purpose in 1900. He estimates the extent of the coal area there at 230 square miles, or 147,200 acres. He calculates that the yield per acre should be 153,480 tons of 2,240 pounds, and the total yield 22,595,200,000 tons. Of this area 50,000 acres is owned by the Dominion, the remainder belonging to the Crow's Nest Pass Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. In 1900 the Crow's Nest Pass Company raised 206,803 tons, of which 47,353 tons were for coke-making purposes. There were exported to the United States 7,968 tons of coal and 38,958 tons of coke, the remainder of the output being sold in Canada. Geologists report upwards of 50 workable seams of coal in the Crow's Nest region. These seams vary in thickness from 4 to 30 feet, and about one-third of them are cannel, the remainder bituminous. Some years ago Dr. Selwyn, at that time director of the Geological Survey, estimated the coal there at 75,000,000,000 tons, more than three times the quantity Mr. McEvoy places it at. Mr. McEvoy's figures are considered very conservative. Analysis of coals from the pass have been made by the Geological Survey. They show from 67 per cent to 69 per cent. of fixed carbon. Other analysis are said to have shown as much as 78 to 80 per cent. of carbon present. A coke containing 93 per cent. of carbon has been obtained from Crow's Nest coal. A portion of the Crow's Nest deposit extends into Alberta district. Upon this extension the British America Coal Company has done a great deal of prospecting.

Besides the spur from the Crow's Nest coal fields, there are other deposits in the Northwest Territories. In Alberta there are mines at Lethbridge, Anthracite, Canmore, and Edmonton. Farther to the east are the Souris mines. About half the total production is taken by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. It has not yet reached half a million tons in one year. The anthracite coal near Banff is quite equal to that of Pennsylvania, and is used for car heating and for domestic consumption. An almost smokeless coal is that produced at Canmore. The Galt coal mines at Lethbridge yield a good bituminous coal, well adapted for railway uses. It was estimated by Dr. Dawson that the coal measures stretching from Lethbridge, eastward, along the American border to Manitoba, cover 15,000 square miles. In the Yukon district there are numerous lignite areas, from which coal, yielding 40 per cent. of fixed carbon, is mined.

In 1901 the Dominion Coal Company raised 2,561,783 tons from its Cape Breton mines. Of this quantity 863,633 tons were delivered at St. Lawrence ports, and about 600,000 tons was exported to the United States. Altogether, in 1901, there was produced in Nova Scotia 3,800,000 tons. The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company is a large producer. Its chief property is at Sydney mines, Cape Breton. In Inverness County considerable progress has been made in development. Pictou County mines and those of Cumberland County are productive. Ten or twelve companies are raising coal in Nova Scotia.

The mines held by the Dominion Coal Company are under a lease from the Provincial Government, to which the company pays a royalty. In a statement, made under examination, by Dr. F. L. Slocum, of the Pittsburg Gas Engineering Company, before a committee of the Massachusetts Legislature, the coal of the International mine of Nova Scotia was ranked about equal in value to the best product of Pennsylvania mines.

From the Duke of York, to whom the coal lands of Nova Scotia were granted by King William IV., under an Act of the Royal prerogative, they passed by lease to the General Mining Association in 1826. The lease called for the payment to the Duke of a royalty of 1s. a ton. For a time the General Mining Association had a monopoly of coal production in Nova Scotia. Active mining was begun in 1830. In 1857 the Duke of York's lease was surrendered, and the mines now operated by the Dominion Coal Company became the property of the Province. By the Province they were leased to the Dominion Coal Company. But the General Mining Association—a British corporation—retained the coal fields at Sydney mines—an extremely valuable property—until a few years ago, when they were purchased by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

Do not live near a pious fool.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Most young men get a lot of rye mixed with their wild oats.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

THE PROHIBITION REFERENDUM.

THE VOTE REQUIRED.

What is the vote necessary to bring the law into effect? is a question often asked. The answer is, that the Ross proposition is of a somewhat complicated character. It is not the ordinary constitutional mode of carrying a motion or an election by the majority of votes recorded.

The Act provides first that a majority of the votes cast must be in favor of the Act; and, secondly, that the total votes recorded in its favor must exceed one half of the number of votes recorded in the election of 1898.

Unless these two propositions are affirmed, the Act dies.

On examining the record of 1898, it will be found that the total vote cast was 425,445, hence it will be necessary to have 212,723 votes polled in the coming contest in its favor, in addition to a majority of the whole vote polled, in order to secure its adoption.

Thus it will be seen that the onus and labor is thrown wholly upon those in favor of the law. Those opposed to the law need give themselves no trouble in the contest, for, though the majority of the votes cast be in favor of the law it will have no effect, unless the vote polled in its favor reaches 212,723.

The probability of success may be gathered from the records of the past:

In the provincial plebiscite of 1894 there were 192,489 ballots marked for prohibition and 110,720 against. These figures include 12,402 women who voted for prohibition and 2,226 against.

In 1898 when the Dominion plebiscite was submitted to the people Ontario cast 154,489 in favor of prohibiagainst. In the present contest, it must not be forgotten, that women will have no vote; hence the friends of prohibition will be deprived of over 12,000 votes.

It will be seen from these figures that in 1894, the vote cast lacked 20,234 of the number required to bring the present Act into force; and that in 1894, the vote cast lacked 58,234 of the requisite number to bring the present law into force.

With these facts before them, the prohibitionists know what they have to accomplish.

Notwithstanding the fact that the vote cast in the whole Dominion was in favor of prohibition by a majority of 15,607, the question was shelved.

Quebec pronounced against it, and that was considered reason sufficient for the Government to set the majority vote at naught.

EVENING CHURCH WEDDING

A WELL KNOWN YOUNG COUPLE JOIN HEART AND HANDS.

A wedding took place at 8 o'clock last evening at Christ Church, and a number were present to witness the event. The bride was Miss Minnie A. Palos, daughter of Mr. F. Palos, Bettes street, and the groom Mr. George Ormond, a G.T.R. fireman, of this city. Sharply at the hour named the bride entered the church, leaning upon the arm of her father. She was attired in a dress of navy blue cloth, trimmed with Mohair silk, and wore a hat to match. The bridesmaid was Miss Georgina Palos, sister of the bride. She wore a navy blue dress with hat to match. The groom was assisted by Mr. G. R. Brower. Rev. W. B. Heeney, rector, performed the ceremony. After the nuptial knot had been tied the wedding party assembled at the father's residence, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. Guests were present from Toronto, Kingston and Deseronto.

Prof. Wilmott presided at the organ and rendered wedding marches as the bridal party came in and left the church.

The groom's present to the bridesmaid was a pearl ring, and to the groomsman an opal pin. The bride received a large number of beautiful and costly presents. Mr. and Mrs. Ormond left on the east bound train, amidst a shower of rice and good wishes for a trip to Montreal and other places. Upon their return they will take up their residence in the city.

RUN-OFF ON G. T. R.

AN ENGINE AND A NUMBER OF CARS OFF THE TRACK.

An accident occurred on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway at Port Hope at an early hour this morning, but we understand that no person was injured. A freight train known as a "manifest train," was proceeding eastward when the engine left the track followed by some cars. The authorities here were notified of the accident and the auxiliary was despatched as soon as possible to the scene. Owing to the accident the line was blocked for some time.

THE GERM THEORY OF CANCER

For many years the medical profession ridiculed the theory of the germ origin of cancer. Eminent German and French Bacteriologists have demonstrated recently however, that cancers are caused by certain germs or microbes, and there are very few physicians now, who do not believe that this is their true origin. A brochure on this subject, published by Messrs. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., which will be sent to any one interested on receipt of two stamps, tells all about the germ origin of cancer, and the most successful method of treating this dangerous disease without the need of resorting to knife or plaster.

KILLED BY MOLTEN IRON.

Result of the Collapse of a Furnace at Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 27.—One employee was burned to death, two were fatally injured, a third was severely hurt, and two strangers are missing, as the result of a sudden collapse of the furnace of the Williamson Iron Company in Birmingham. The break in the furnace caused a mass of molten iron to gush forth, and the dead employee and the injured men were unable to escape it. The two men missing were talking to an employee at the time the explosion occurred, and their bodies may be under the debris.

JAMAICA'S SUGAR-GROWERS.

Agitating For Reciprocity With the United States.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 27.—The newspapers, planters and merchants of Jamaica are joining in an agitation, with the view of inducing the Government to open negotiations with Washington for a reciprocity treaty along lines likely to meet with the approval of the United States. It is felt that the full advantages of the abolition of the sugar bounties will be lost unless some such treaty is forthcoming.

Want Ontario Land.

Toronto, Nov. 27.—A couple of interviews took place yesterday between Premier Ross and Mr. John F. Langan and Mr. E. F. Getchell of Chicago, who are here in connection with the proposed investment of large sums of American capital in northern Ontario. "Our interviews so far have been satisfactory," said Mr. Langan to Globe representative, "but it must be understood that our visit is purely preliminary, and that no definite plan has yet been formed. I may say, however, that we have plenty of capital behind us, conservative though it is, and no action will be taken until we see we have a good opportunity."

Lennox Election Trial.

Napanee, Nov. 26.—The proceedings in the Lennox election trial to-day were rather quiet. Several charges were dismissed. Judgment on the charge of personal corruption in giving $1.50 to Fred Wisken was reserved, and a charge of bribery against James Wilson, a son of Mr. Uriah Wilson, M.P., was being investigated when the court rose. The charge that Mr. Carscallen had given $1.50 to Fred Wisken was first taken up.

Paris, Nov. 26.—The Liberte says the last mail from Martinique brings news that a very serious condition of affairs prevails on the island. M. The blacks are reported to be in a bad humor, and are saying:—"Now that Mont Peler has swept off half the French, let us finish the remainder."

Pretty Fine Line Of Goods

These Christmas goods we are now opening, fine goods and fine prices, and we venture this, that nowhere in Canada can you find such lines as we carry at as reasonable prices.

WE VENTURE THE ASSERTION

That our prices are from TEN to TWENTY per cent. lower than the price asked for like goods anywhere else in Canada, not excepting the so-called bargain stores of Toronto.

THE WRITER

Of this advertisement has picked up books from the Eaton bargain counters at 15c, which we were at the time selling for 10c each, and it's not strange at all. These people cannot buy books one bit lower in price than the book trade which buys largely, and their expense is certainly greater.

THE WRITER ALSO

Stood beside a salesman in that same store, while he sold a lady paper at 6c per roll, which we were at the time, and always had, sold at 5c per roll, our border to match was one-half a cent lower in price than they sold at. Certainly those people cannot buy paper at prices lower than we do, nor can they afford to sell at prices as low because of larger expense.

They certainly do sell off certain papers (poor sellers) at greatly reduced prices sometimes. So do we. For example, we now have half a dozen lines we are clearing out—one 25c paper at 5c per roll, 15c border at 3c; another 15c paper at 5c per roll, 10c border at 2c; still another 10c paper at 3c per roll, 5c border at 1c, and a lot of other lines at similar prices.

OUR HEAD PICTURE FRAMER

Says: Remind the people that we have plenty of help now to turn out Christmas Picture Framing promptly. We are turning out now from twenty to thirty frames daily, and can exceed this number if necessary to work nights occasionally.

Our framing is as excellent as ever, even better. We have abundant materials, mouldings. Our framing department has certainly had wonderous growth.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

He had come to Alnwick for the sole purpose of finding that humble grave—of assuring himself that after life's fitful fever, Genevra Lambert slept quietly, forgetful of the wrong once done to her by him. It is true he had not doubted her death before, but as seeing was believing, so now he felt sure of it, and plucking from the turf above her a little flower growing there, he went back to Katy and sitting down beside her with his arm around her waist, tried to devise some way of telling her what he had promised himself he would tell her there in that very yard, where Genevra was buried. But the task was harder now than before. Katy was so happy with him, trusting his love so fully that he dared not lift the veil and read to her that page hinted at once in Silverton, when they sat beneath the butternut tree, with the fresh young grass springing around them. Then she was not his wife, and the fear that she would not be if he told her all had kept him silent, but now she was his alone; nothing could undo that, and there, in the shadow of the gray old church through whose aisles Genevra had been borne out to where the rude headstone was gleaming in the English sunlight, it seemed meet that he should tell the sad story. And Katy would have forgiven him then, for not a shadow of regret had darkened her life since it was linked with his, and in her perfect love she could have pardoned much. But Wilford did not tell. It was not needful, he made himself believe—not necessary for her ever to know that once he met a maiden called Genevra, almost as beautiful as she, but never so beloved. No, never. Wilford said that truly, when that night he bent over his sleeping Katy, comparing her face with Genevra's, and his love for her with his love for Genevra.

Wilford was very fond of his girlish wife, and very proud of her, too, when strangers paused, as they often did, to look back after her. Thus far nothing had arisen to mar the happiness of his first weeks of married life, except the letters from Silverton, over which Katy always cried until he sometimes wished that the family could not write. But they could and they did; even Aunt Betsy inclosed in Helen's letter a note, wonderful both in orthography and composition, and concluding with the remark that "she would be glad when Catherine returned and was settled in a home of her own, as she would then have a new place to visit."

There was a dark frown on Wilford's face, and for a moment he felt tempted to withhold the note from Katy, but this he could not do then, so he gave it into her hands, watching her as with burning cheeks, she read it through, and asking her at its close why she looked so red.

"Oh, Wilford," and she crept closely to him, "Aunt Betsy spells so queerly, that I was wishing you would not always open my letters first. Do all husbands do so?"

It was the only time Katy had ventured to question a single act of his, submitting without a word to whatever was his will. Wilford knew that his father would never have presumed to break a seal belonging to his mother, but he had broken Katy's and he should continue breaking them, so he answered, laughingly:

"Why, yes, I guess they do. My little wife has surely no secrets to hide from me?"

"No secrets," Katy answered, "only I did not want you to see Aunt Betsy's letter, that's all."

"I did not marry Aunt Betsy—I married you," was Wilford's reply, which meant far more than Katy guessed.

With three thousand miles between him and his wife's relatives, Wilford could endure to think of them; but whenever letters came to Katy bearing the Silverton postmark, he was conscious of a far different sensation from what he experienced when the postmark was New York and the handwriting that of his own family. But not in any way did this feeling manifest itself to Katy, who, as she always wrote to Helen, was very, very happy, and never more so, perhaps, than while they were at Alnwick, where, as if he had something for which to atone, he was unusually kind and indulgent, caressing her with unwonted tenderness, and making her ask him once if he loved her a great deal more now than when they were first married.

"Yes, darling, a great deal more," was Wilford's answer, as he kissed her upturned face, and then went for the last time to Genevra's grave; for on the morrow they were to leave the neighborhood of Alnwick for the heather blooms of Scotland.

There was a trip to Edinburgh, a stormy passage across the Straits of Dover, a two months' sojourn in Paris, and then they went to Rome, where Wilford intended to pass the winter, journeying in the spring through different parts of Europe. He was in no haste to return to America; he would rather stay where he could have Katy all to himself, away from her family and his own. But it was not to be, and not very long after his arrival at Rome there came a letter from his mother apprising him of his father's dangerous illness and asking him to come home at once. The elder Cameron had not been well since Wilford left the country, and the physician was fearful that the disease had assumed a consumptive form, Mrs. Cameron wrote, adding that her husband's only anxiety was to see his son again. To this there was no demur, and about the first of December, six months from the time he had sailed, Wilford arrived in Boston, having taken a steamer for that city. His first act was to telegraph for news of his father, receiving in reply that he was better; the alarming symptoms had disappeared, and there was now great hope of his recovery.

"We might have staid longer in Europe," Katy said, feeling a little chill of disappointment—not that her father-in-law was better, but at being called home for nothing, when her life abroad was so happy and free from care.

Somehow the atmosphere of America seemed different from what it used to be. It was colder, bluer, the little lady said, tapping her foot uneasily and looking from her windows at the Revere out upon the snowy streets, through which the wintry wind was blowing in heavy gales.

"Yes, it is a heap colder," she sighed, as she returned to the large chair which Esther had drawn for her before the cheerful fire, charging her disquiet to the weather, but never dreaming of imputing it to her husband, who was far more its cause than was the December cold.

He, too, though glad of his father's improvement, was sorry to have been recalled for nothing to a country which brought his old life back again, with all its forms and ceremonies, and revived his dread lest Katy should not acquit herself as was becoming Mrs. Wilford Cameron. In his selfishness he had kept her almost wholly to himself, so that her polish she was to acquire from her travels abroad was not as perceptible as he could desire. Katy was Katy still, in spite of London, Paris, or Rome. To be sure there was about her a little more maturity and self-assurance, but in all essential points she was the same, and Wilford winced as he thought how the free, inpulsive manner which, among the Scottish hills, where there was no one to criticize, had been so charming to him, would shock his lady mother and sister Juno. And this it was which made him moody and silent, replying hastily to Katy when she said to him: "Please, Wilford, telegraph to Helen to be with mother at the West depot when we pass there to-morrow. The train stops five minutes, you know, and I want to see them so much. Will you, Wilford?"

A moment after he quitted the room, and it was then that Katy, standing before the window, charged the day with what was strictly Wilford's fault. Returning at last to her chair she went off into a reverie as to the new home to which she was going and the new friends she was to meet, wondering what they would think of her and if they would like her. Once she had said to Wilford:

The Dread of an Operation

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Possibly you are a sufferer from piles and have been disheartened and discouraged because your physician has told you that nothing short of an operation will cure you.

You dread the thought of a surgical operation, for, besides the expense and strain on the nervous system, there is the risk of life itself. It is only a few months since a member of the Ontario Legislature lost his life as the result of an operation for piles. The risk of an operation is too great, and, besides, it is unnecessary.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has frequently cured piles after surgical operations have failed. It is every day curing cases which physicians have stated to be incurable by any treatment short of an operation.

If you could read a few of the letters we receive from persons who have been cured of piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment you would soon be convinced of its wonderful control over this frightfully common disease.

Rev. S. A. Duprau, Methodist minister, Consecon, Prince Edward County, Ont., states: "I was troubled with itching and bleeding piles for years, and they ultimately attained to a very violent form. Large lumps or abscesses formed so that it was with great difficulty and considerable pain that I was able to stoop. At this severe crisis I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but I had little or no faith in it, as I had tried various remedies before and to no purpose.

"Now, imagine how great and joyous was my surprise to find that just the one box cured me, so that the lumps disappeared and also the external swelling. I feel like a different man to-day, and have not the least doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment saved me from a very dangerous and painful operation and many years of suffering. It is with the greatest pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing that Dr. Chase's Ointment has done so much for me. You are at perfect liberty to use this testimonial as you see fit for the benefit of others similiarly afflicted."

THE NOMINATION MEETING FOR ARGENTEUIL.

T. CHRISTIE AND G. H. PERLEY THE CANDIDATES.

MINISTERS AND POLITICAL LEADERS SPEAK.

Montreal, Nov. 27.—Nominatiins were made at Lachute to fill the vacancy in Argenteuil created in the House of Commons by the death of the late Dr. Christie. Those nominated were Mr. Thos. Christie, son of the late member, and Mr. Geo. H. Perley of Ottawa, the latter, of course, being in the Conservative interest, the former in the Liberal. The formal proceedings took place in the court house and were entirely devoid of interest. Mr. Thos. Barron, the returning officer, went through the necessary proceedings for holding a poll, and the crowd then adjourned to the rink, which was only a few yards distant. Even the oldest campaigner, who is used to all kinds of places for holding political meetings, will remember that rink for the rest of his days. It is a spacious structure with an earthen floor, covered by a copious layer of sawdust. Both ends of the building are made of slats with generous intersections, through which the first snow of the season blew freely. On the temporary platform was a stove with a pipe extending about half-way to the roof. From this the smoke and sparks were emitted in great profusion. A public-spirited elector, who feared that the rink might take fire, procured a step-ladder and an elbow, which latter he eventually succeeded in placing on top of the stove pipe, thus deflecting the sparks from the woodwork. His conduct was greeted with great applause. There were present about 1,200 people, including a number of ladies, who were seated on the raised walk around the side of the rink. The cold was such that it was impossible for the audience to keep still, and consequently a steady hum of conversation, with occasional noisy interruptions, interfered considerably with the speakers. A difference of opinion regarding the selection of a Chairman resulted in two being chosen—Capt. W. H. Evans to represent the Liberals and Mr. John McRae on behalf of the Conservatives. Apart from this there was no clashing of divergent interests during the afternoon. It was arranged that each side should have two hours to speak, each candidate to take ten minutes, and the parties to be represented, respectively by Hon. Sydney Fisher, Hon. William Paterson, Hon. M. E. Bernier and Mr. W. A. Weir, M.P.P., on behalf of the Government, while Messrs. F. D. Monk, M.P., J. G. H. Bergeron and Andrew Broder, M.P., spoke for the Conservatives.

Mr. Christie, who opened, confined himself to a declaration that the Liberal party favored freer trade, not free trade. He also quoted figures to show the prosperity which Canada has enjoyed under the present regime.

Mr. Geo. H. Perley claimed that his being a resident of Ottawa would not prevent him from representing the constituency properly. He pointed out that the member would necessarily live in the capital for a large part of the year, and declared that his interests in the county were such as to lead him to always have a warm regard for its welfare.

Mr. F. D. Monk, M.P., indulged in some reflections on the Government's immigration policy. As to the tariff, he asked for a plain declaration of what the Government intended to do. He claimed that in Argenteuil the Liberals were running the campaign on the cry that they wanted a low tariff, while at the same time Mr. Prefontaine, a member of the Cabinet, was assuring the electors of Maisonneuve that the manufacturers would find their wishes met by the Administration at Ottawa. The Conservative policy, Mr. Monk declared, was perfectly plain. It was a policy of adequate protection, and the country was entitled to a plainer statement of the Government's position than had yet been made.

Hon. Wm. Paterson was the next speaker. The difficulties against which the orators had to struggle may be understood from the fact that at times even Mr. Paterson could hardly be heard on the outskirts of the gathering. He spoke chiefly of the incidence of the customs taxes, pointing out that they were lower than under the former tariff and that a customs tariff was a proper form of taxation, because it was paid only by those who chose to purchase imported goods, a matter which was entirely within the discretion of the individual citizen.

Mr. Andrew Broder, M.P., made a rather humorous address. He referred to the number of Cabinet Ministers in the constituency, and argued that the Liberals must be very much frightened since they were making such great efforts to hold the constituency. "The patient must be in a bad way," said Mr. Broder, "when four doctors have to be called to attend him."

The contest in Argenteuil is conceded to be the warmest in the history of the county. Both sides are thoroughly organized, and are putting forth their utmost efforts. The Liberals are confident that Mr. Christie will win by a comfortable majority.

BACK PAINED SO BAD COULDN'T TURN IN BED.

A citizen of Trenton, Ont., who suffered agony with his back and kidneys, tells of his rapid and complete restoration to health by the use of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

We desire to present to you the history of the case of Thomas Douglas, of Trenton, Ont., whose occupation is that of carter for the Gillman Co., an avocation which involves heavy lifts and frequent exposure to wet and cold—all hard on the kidneys. That Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets could so quickly cure a case so severe as that of Mr. Douglas is a splendid tribute to their rapid-acting, thorough-going curative qualities.

MR. DOUGLAS TELLS HIS STORY.

"I had been a very healthy man until a few months ago, when I was taken with a very severe pain across the small of the back. As I had a slight cold, I attributed the pain to that, and commenced using liniments, which I found gave me no relief.

"Seeing the testimonial of Mr. Kobold, a Trenton gentleman, who had used Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, I made up my mind to try them. I had used very few Tablets before I found relief, and I can tell you I was very thankful for this, as I had been so bad that I had to lay off work for days, and at nights I could not turn in bed. Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets have made a perfect and thorough cure in my case. I am at work every day before 7 a.m., and work hard all day, and I can assure you my work is not easy, as I have a great deal of heavy lifting to do, and the constant stooping is a great strain on the back, but I am thankful to say I have never had a twinge of pain, nor has my back bothered me since Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets cured me."

(Signed) THOS. DOUGLAS.

MRS. DOUGLAS CONFIRMS IT.

"I gladly endorse all my husband says about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They acted splendidly in his case and have inspired me with such confidence of their efficacy that I am using them now myself.

"I have been troubled for some time with sick headache, weak spells, tired feelings, and generally run down. I have used the Tablets only for a short time, but feel so very much better already that you may be sure as soon as I have taken another bottle or two of the Tablets, you will hear from me.

"I tell all my friends that Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets have done splendidly for us, and both Mr. Douglas and myself have no hesitation in allowing you to use our names in endorsation of such a reliable remedy."

(Signed) MRS. THOS. DOUGLAS.

SO DOES MR. SHURIE, DRUGGIST.

"I am well acquainted with Thos. Douglas, of this town, who is a teamster in the employ of the Gillman Co.

"He is a hard-working and respectable citizen, and I have no hesitation in endorsing the statement he gives of his cure by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, as it was from my store the Tablets were purchased, and I know the condition he was in prior to taking them, and that he is now, to the best of my knowledge, working hard every day without any trace of his former trouble."

(Signed) JAS. SHURIE.

AN UNQUIET SPIRIT.

The Mysterious Light That For Years Haunted Cape Noir.

For many years on Cape Noir, the western point of Maria, a strange light was seen, dancing and moving about in the most unaccountable manner. At one moment it would rise like a column of fire into the air, and at another time it would fall like a meteor. Then it would seem to leap over the point and drop into the sea, afterward appearing again in the same spot on the hillside. The habitants tell this story about it:

In the time of the war for the possession of Canada a French vessel, pursued by an English warship, steered its course into the bay at this point for refuge. A boat was lowered from the side of the richly laden merchantman, and in this thirteen men swiftly rowed to the shore. Their object was to secrete a chest of gold which they had brought with them. On reaching the point they drew lots to see which of the men should remain to guard the treasure. The one to whom the lot fell was forced to swear a solemn oath, by land and sea, by night and day, by the ruler of the nether world, that he would be faithful to the trust through life, unless relieved by his returning comrades, and even after death would haunt the spot should no one come to take his place, says a writer in the Era.

To secure the fulfillment of this vow his wicked associates then and there put him to death and buried him with the treasure. The ghostly light was supposed to be the spirit of the murdered man, and many persons who, tempted by the hope of recovering the treasure, ventured into the haunted spot fled in terror and told blood curdling stories of the horrible phantoms and frightful sights which they had witnessed. The light is seen no longer. Perhaps some adventurer bolder than the rest succeeded in discovering the gold, carried it off and thus gave rest to the unquiet spirit.

"Cure-Alls" Didn't Cure

Only a Kidney Specific of the genuine merit of South American Kidney Cure can ever hope to cope with insidious kidney diseases in all its forms.

"For two years I was greatly troubled with an affection of the kidneys—frequently unfitting me for work. I tried many patent medicines and "cure-alls," without getting any relief, for I had intense pain almost constantly. South American Kidney Cure was recommended to me. A few hours after commencing its use I got great relief. Four bottles cured. It is worth its weight in gold."—Frank S. Emerick, Alvinston, Ont. 38

Eve Brodlique Summers, One of the Best Known of Newspaper Women.

Many of Canada's clever children live outside her borders, but this does not dull our interest or lessen our pride in them. Among the number is Eve Brodlique Summers, one of the best known newspaper women on the continent. Before her marriage to Leland L. Summers, a wealthy southerner, Miss Brodlique was on the editorial staff of the Chicago Times-Herald, and a regular contributor to The Cosmopolitan, Frank Leslie's Weekly, and other prominent publications. After four years of resting from her labors she has again taken up the pen, and with such good result that her story, "According to Omar," has carried off the $300 prize offered by the Short Story Publishing Company of New York. There are some fine descriptive paragraphs in "According to Omar," which is the story of a woman's adventure during the Colorado carnival. For instance: "She beheld the red ball of the glowing Colorado sun dip behind the round-shouldered mountains, until only a faint aureole remained; then the great amphitheatre blazed forth in competitive crimson and gold, the whole of its glitter backed by the stately glory of the White Capitol, studded with lights, amber and ruby, and green, and topped by a blazing electric star. Through the wide, cool street ran the ribbons of light from gaily colored Japanese lanterns, and from each pole and overhead wire dangled the white and gold of carnival flags, mixed with line after line of rose-hued lamps. There had been three days of this—three days of sunshine yellow as gold-dust, crystal clear as no earthly gold ever was, three crisp nights under a blue velvet sky glowing with polished stars, and over the dark billows of the mountain range, the silver crescent of a young moon, pure, virginal, swung from a single, tremulous, exquisite jewel. It seemed as if nature herself had put on her choicest decorations to grace the carnival." The story gets its title from the fact that through it runs the philosophy of old Khayyam:

"Come, fill the cup, and in the fire of spring,
The winter garment of Repentance fling:
The bird of time has but a little way
To flutter—and the bird is on the wing.

"Oh! make the most of what we yet may spend
Before we, too, into the dust descend;
Dust unto dust, and under dust to lie,
Sans wine, sans song, sans singer, and sans end."

Protecting Rural Landscape.

It is the natural aspect of the common rural landscape, with its spacious solitude and soothing peace, that needs to be protected against the gruesome associations of pills and their advertisers. This, however, is perhaps as yet a counsel of perfection. We must begin by preserving places remarkable for their natural beauty, and possibly also places noteworthy for their historical associations; perhaps in time we shall come to feel that the common rural landscape, tenanted only by the rustic at his labor and the cattle at their pasture, by the birds of the air and the beasts of the field, is no place for an aggressive reminder of the ills of humanity and the pills warranted to cure them. Let us think of the opening of Gray's Elegy—

The Curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,
The ploughman homeward plods his weary way
And leaves the world to darkness and to me—

and consider whether such lines could ever have been written if the poet, musing in Stoke Poges churchyard, had looked in one direction and seen the lowing herd winding past somebody's advertisement of a patent oilcake; in another, and seen the weary ploughman considering whether he should buy some gaudily flaunted nostrum warranted to ease his weariness; in a third, and spied some garish board offering him an oil to illuminate the glimmering landscape as it faded on his sight. Yet the scene immortalized by Gray should be sacred to every Englishman, not because it is singularly remarkable for natural beauty, not merely because it is immortalized in one of the noblest poems in the language, but because the sentiment it inspired is the common characteristic of every rural landscape in the country with any pretence to a charm of its own. The truth is that the advertisement boarding as such is utterly incompatible with the rural landscape as such. Their association at once strikes a discord, says The London Times, which no liberal mind can endure

Autumn, the Artist.

A well known and popular artist has arrived in the land. Her name, for the personification regards three of the four seasons of the year feminine classification and graces, is autumn. The evidence of her craft is on free exhibition to all who may get beyond the range of tall buildings and dirty street. No millionaire's munificence is needed to afford the boon of a glance at the splendor of her handiwork. No tariff interposes to forbid us from sharing the glories of this Ancient Mistress of Color-blending.

Already in the rural landscapes the delicate touches of autumnal contrast are to be found by the lover of nature. The prevailing tone is still the soothing green, in an infinite variety of shades, but the yellow leaves are numerous, and the beautiful reds, ranging from scarlet to crimson, compel the admiration of the most matter-of-fact observer. In the distance may be found, under favorable atmospheric conditions, the suggestions of purple, which the impressionistic school delights to represent in forest sketches.

Autumn is a versatile artist as well as a great one. She has only begun to open her color box. Each succeeding day will unfold new beauties.—Minden Echo.

FRIENDS OF TEMPERANCE

Heard Some Good Addresses at Public Meeting in Opera House

Facts and Figures Forcibly Presented by the Speakers

Owing to the inclement weather the attendance at the prohibition meeting held in the opera house was not large, but as the chairman remarked, it was select. A number of ladies braved the storm, to attend, thus showing their interest in the movement. The addresses by the various speakers were not only well received, but were well delivered.

Mayor Graham occupied the chair, and associated with him upon the platform were Mr. Emerson Coatsworth, ex-M.P., of Toronto; Rev. Dr. Crothers, Rev. Mr. Martin, Rev. Mr. Tomblin, Ald. Chown and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn.

The proceedings were opened by prayer by Rev. Dr. Crothers and the singing of the patriotic hymn "The Maple Leaf."

His Worship spoke first, his address being brief. He said it was a pleasure to preside over such a meeting, as he was an active supporter of temperance principles. There was an apparent lack of interest in this great movement in Belleville, but he hoped that all who were in active sympathy with the movement would do all in their power to assist by their votes in carrying this temperance movement to a successful issue on the 4th of December. The only fear he had that the temperance cause would be defeated, was the inactivity of those who were in favor of the measure. He made in conclusion an earnest appeal for all to do what they could for the success of the important measure before the electors.

Before resuming his seat the chairman said an opportunity would be given to any person to speak in opposition to the measure, and if such a person was present he invited him upon the platform. The invitation was not accepted.

Mr. Applegath of Albert College was called upon for a song and sang most appropriately the song, "Home is the haven of the Sailor's Heart."

Ald. Chown was the next speaker. He said like the Mayor, he was a prohibitionist. The speaker read a number of testimonials from prominent men in the State of Kansas refuting an argument that although that was a prohibition State, more liquor was sold there than in Ontario, which had a license law. The abolition of the saloons in that State according to these testimonials had increased the prosperity of that State. Kansas was much better off under prohibition than Ontario was under a license law. The speaker spoke upon the financial aspect of the issue. From the official reports it was shown that the number of persons confined in the penal institutions in this Province, in one year, was 8546, and of this number, according to their own confessions, 5071 were intemperate. This shows that it cost 70 per cent. of the total amount to keep those who are locked up on account of the use of strong drink. This city in the past had paid $4,360 annually for the administration of justice account, and $1200 to the Woman's Christian Association to be distributed amongst the poor. The greater portion of this amount is paid out because of the use of strong drink. If this traffic was only put away how much better off we would be, and how much safer our boys would be if the saloons were closed. Let us on the 4th of December vote "Yes" on this question and save the boys. If this is not carried it will be on account of indifference. Vote "Yes," to banish the liquor from our midst. Let us say we want to save the men who are victims of the liquor habit. Let us all realize our responsibility and do our duty. We have the vote if we can get it out, and on the 4th of December we can then sing "A better day is coming."

Mr. Coatsworth was the next speaker and spoke at some length. His reasoning was logical and his address was an able one from the temperance standpoint. In his opening remarks he said it afforded him great pleasure to be present at the meeting. He congratulated the city upon having as its Mayor a gentleman who was a prohibitionist. The speaker said the important question in this campaign was "the relation of the bar-room to the public." This was the whole question. If you are satisfied that the bar-room is a benefit to the community vote "No"; if you think otherwise vote "Yes." It has been demonstrated that the abolition of the bar-room in a township has proved beneficial, and if it has proved beneficial to a township or a village will it not prove beneficial to a town or a city? Throughout this campaign the speaker said he had been impressed by the fact that not one word had been said in favor of the bar-room. The Victuallers' Association Solicitor in a recent statement had not defended the bar-room, but had appealed to the sanctity of the home. Objection is taken to this liquor act by some who say that it is interfering with personal liberty. What is personal or civil liberty? A prominent man has defined it as follows: "Civil liberty is no other than natural liberty, so far restrained by human law as is necessary and expedient for the general advantage of the public." Our liberties were restricted for the general good in every direction, and in this connection the cities have restrictive by-laws, such as the riding of bicycles upon walks, etc., the snow by-law and others. The bar-room should not be restricted, but abolished. He held that the saloon was an injury to the community, and for that reason it should be abolished. The saloon was a monopoly in the hands of the brewers and distillers, and many of the saloon-keepers were merely stool-pigeons for the manufacturers of liquor. So valuable had become the monopoly that many dealers could sell their license for from $10,000 to $20,000. The saloon was a bad neighbor, and we owed it to those living near it to get rid of all of them. The saloon was a breeder of crime, not only because a drunken man was a criminal, but because three-fourths of the crime of this country could be traced to liquor. The bar-room is a treating place. We have had anti-treating societies and this did not succeed, and we cannot abolish the treating system without abolishing the bar-room. The bar-room was also a place where a great deal of money was wasted. The bar-room is a place of danger, and a danger signal of a red light should be displayed to warn those of danger. The bar-room is an enemy of the home and should be removed. How many homes have the bar-room ruined? No business man will consider his business safe in the hands of a young man who is a frequenter of a saloon. Every institution in this country should be of some benefit to the community, but the bar-room was not. It was not a benefit financially, socially, morally or religiously. In concluding the speaker appealed to all to do their duty by voting "Yes" on December the 4th, and thus assist in ringing the death knell of the bar-room. (Loud applause.)

Song—"Boys of the Old Brigade," by Mr. Moore, of Albert College.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn spoke briefly, explaining who were entitled to vote upon this measure, and made an effective appeal for all temperance people and those in favor of the measure to assist in the canvass, and to not only record their votes on December 4th, but see that all who are favorable do likewise.

Rev. Dr. Crothers moved, seconded by Rev. Mr. Tomblin, a vote of thanks to Mr. Coatsworth for his address.

The singing of the National Anthem which was unanimously carried.

CHANGE OF CLIMATE

NOT NECESSARY IN ORDER TO CURE CATARRH.

The popular idea that the only cure for chronic catarrh is a change of climate is a mistake, because catarrh is found in all climates, in all sections of the country; and even if a change of climate should benefit for a time the catarrh will certainly return.

Catarrh may be readily cured in any climate, but the only way to do it is to destroy or remove from the system the catarrhal germs, which cause all the mischief.

The treatment by inhalers, sprays, powders and washes has been proven almost useless in making a permanent cure, as they do not reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and can be reached only by an internal remedy which acts through the stomach upon the blood and system generally.

A new discovery which is meeting with remarkable success in curing catarrh of the head, throat and bronchial tubes, and also catarrh of the stomach, is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

These tablets, which are pleasant and harmless to take, owe their efficiency to the active medicinal principles of Blood Root, Red Gum and a new specific called Guaicol, which together with valuable antiseptics, are combined in convenient, palatable tablet form, and as valuable for children as for adults.

Mr. A. R. Fernbank, of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so many winters from catarrh that I took it as a matter of course, and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate, which my business affairs would not permit me to take.

"My nostrils were almost always clogged up; I had to breathe through the mouth, causing an inflamed, irritated throat. The thought of eating breakfast often nauseated me, and the catarrh gradually getting into my stomach took away my appetite and digestion.

"My druggist advised me to try a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because he said he had so many customers who had been cured of catarrh by the use of these tablets that he felt he could honestly recommend them. I took his advice and used several boxes, with results that surprised and delighted me.

I always keep a box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in the house and the whole family use them freely on the first appearance of a cough or cold in the head.

"With our children we think there is nothing so safe and reliable as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets to ward off croup and colds, and with older people I have known of cases where the hearing had been seriously impaired by chronic catarrh cured entirely by this new remedy."

A TRUE NERVE TONIC

Will act not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvellous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c at druggists, or J. S. McKeown's.

A NEW KIMBERLEY IN THE WEST

EXPERT CLAIMS THERE ARE DIAMONDS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 26.—Herbert Wemyss, M.E., late of the South African diamond mines, claims that diamonds will be found in Samilkameen, B.C. In fact, Mr. Wemyss claims to have found several sparklers in the rough. While tunneling some quartz he was surprised to come across the same formation as in the diamond quartz mines, and secured what he claims are three or four diamonds.

The Samilkameen district is a great coal country, and the possibilities of diamonds there have often been spoken of before. The country is full of great resources, but is outside the line of travel, and is not tapped by any railway.

AGAINST BUCKET SHOPS

MOVEMENT ON FOOT IN OTTAWA TO PUT THEM OUT OF BUSINESS.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The police commissioners of Ottawa have taken up the bucket shop question, and will seek an amendment to the provisions relating to these places of business in the Criminal Code. The commissioners met yesterday afternoon, and at the close of the meeting gave out the following statement: "The police commissioners have had under consideration the recent development of the bucket shop system, which, it is said, has had such disastrous results upon many people in the city. It seems that under the law a person who deals with a bucket shop is equally liable with the person who conducts the institution, and hence the difficulty in securing evidence against them. Recognizing the extent of the evil, the commissioners have decided to wait upon the Minister of Justice with a view to securing such an amendment to the law as shall compel a man to give evidence in bucket shop prosecutions without incriminating himself."

Scene; The settle of the Fox Inn, Stagfoot Lane.

Characters; The speaker (a returned soldier) and his friends, native of the hamlet.

Had he and I but met
By some old ancient inn,
We should have sat us down to wet
Right many a nipperkin.

But ranged as infantry,
And staring face to face,
I shot at him as he at me,
And killed him in his place,

I shot him dead because—
Because he was my foe,
You see; my foe of course he was;
That's clear enough; although

He thought he'd 'list, perhaps,
Offhandlike—just as I—
Was out of work—had sold his traps—
No other reason why.

Yes; quaint and curious war is!
You shoot a fellow down
You'd treat if met where any bar is,
Or help to half a crown.

IMMEDIATE CONSTRUCTION.

Mr. Morse Speaks at Regina on the G.T.R. Project.

Regina, N.W.T., Nov. 27.—President Young and others of the Board of Trade, Mayor Smith and others of the Town Council, Commissioner Bulyea of the Agricultural Department, and Mr. Walter Scott, M.P., had a long interview yesterday with Messrs. Wainwright and Morse of the G.T.R., who arrived on the train. The delegates all extended to the railway representatives a cordial welcome to the Territories. In reply to Mr. Smith and others, Mr. Morse said that operations on the new transcontinental line, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, would begin as soon as legislative sanction had been obtained and the reports of the company's engineers received. Work would proceed much more rapidly than when the C.P.R. was constructed, because there was now access to the country, which there was not then, and, of course, their system in eastern Canada gave them great advantages. The main line would, of course, not run too close to the C.P.R. To do so would not be fair, but all the great centres would be tapped. Construction would begin at many points simultaneously, and he estimated the trunk line would be completed in five years.

Mr. Bulyea assured the visitors that the area under cultivation next year would be double the area from which the last crop was harvested.

Mr. Walter Scott said that the voice of gladness at the announcement that the line was coming was an unanimous voice. Any one at all acquainted with existing conditions could not fail to realize that it could not be otherwise. He assured the Grand Trunk representatives that if their line could be completed by next summer it would still be unable to handle next season's crop. Indeed, the development of the country was so rapid that he questioned whether railway development would be able to keep pace with the country's development for the next fifteen years.

BURIAL OF HERR KRUPP.

EMPEROR WILLIAM IN FUNERAL PROCESSION.

The Vorwaert's Attacks the Krupp Schemes of Insurance and Benefits For the Employees.

Essen, Russia, Nov. 27.—The remains of Herr Krupp were buried. The obsequies were impressive. Emperor William followed the hearse on foot from the old home of the deceased's grandfather to the cemetery. Practically the entire population of Essen attended the funeral.

A statement was issued that the Emperor was indignant at the cruelty and malice of the Social Democratic charges made against deceased.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—The Socialist organ, Vorwaerts, in a page and a half, deals with what it calls the "hypocrisy of idealizing Herr Krupp as a benevolent genius." The paper does not touch on the immediate charges which it brought against the deceased man, but analyzes the pension system of the Krupp firm, which, it says, is a "species of refined swindling," adding: The enormous so-called benevolent funds have been built up by compulsory contributions from the employees, who could be arbitrarily deprived of participation in the advantages. They are required to contribute 2 1-2 per cent. of their wages for twenty years before they are eligible to a pension upon disability. In the meantime, if an employee is discharged or resigns, he loses all he has contributed, often exceeding $250. The employees are morally and economically terrorized and must in humility accept every petty regulation of the firm's officials or lose 2 1-2 per cent. of what they have earned in the firm's service. This terrorism is applied to political opinions, where they become known. The number of men leaving or discharged during the last three years averaged seven to eight thousand yearly. The employees found the system so unsatisfactory that five great meetings were held this year for the purpose of seeking legal redress.

THE MINERS SURPRISED.

STATEMENT REGARDING BREAK IN NEGOTIATIONS.

Ready to Go On Before the Commissioners, and Have No Fear as to Result.

Scranton, Nov. 27.—Quite in contrast with the happy faces of the independent operators' committee when it returned from New York last night were the countenances of the miners' representatives when they returned from their disappointing trip to Washington. How the latter view the sudden and surprising turn of affairs is well set forth in the following statement issued by Messrs. Darrow and Lloyd, the miners' attorneys, who accompanied Mr. Mitchell to Washington:—"The commission adjourned for ten days, in pursuance of an arrangement between the parties, to give opportunity for conciliation on account of a telegram, which, we understand, was written by George F. Baer, in the presence of and with the consent of every railroad concerned, and was signed by Wayne MacVeigh. This telegram was written after a careful reading of the tentative agreement, which had been prepared and written by counsel of both parties, and which had been submitted to the commission. At the request of Mr. MacVeagh, Messrs. Mitchell, Darrow and Lloyd went to Washington to consult upon some minor details of the agreement. There was no friction or important disagreement between the parties at the meeting in Washington. Later in the day, and after the conference in New York with the independent operators, Mr. MacVeagh received a telegram calling off all negotiations, and advising that the matter be settled by the commission in a regular hearing.

"The man who wrote the telegram to Judge Gray stating that the main features of the contract were acceptable was the same man who signed the telegram to Wayne MacVeagh, three or four days later, stating that negotiations must end. A copy of the tentative agreement is in the hands of Wayne MacVeagh, Mr. Willcox of the Delaware & Hudson Company, Carroll D. Wright, and probably Mr. Baer. We can see no reason for the expression of any opinion; the facts speak for themselves. We have been ready at all times to consult with anyone interested and make any reasonable adjustment, but we have no anxiety whatever over the case or its results, and shall be ready for business when the commission again meets."

While admitting that they did much towards breaking off the negotiations for a settlement out of court, the independent operators do not hesitate to say that they were not required to advance much argument to bring the coal road Presidents to their way of thinking.

BARBERS SHOULD BE CLEAN

PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH RECOMMEND REGULATIONS.

Dangers From Contagious and Skin and Scalp Diseases—Sewage Disposal Discussed.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Regulations for the guidance of barbers, to ensure greater cleanliness and to prevent the spread of skin, scalp and other diseases, were adopted by the Provincial Board of Health at their concluding session, on recommendation of the Committee on Epidemics, Drs. Cassidy, Bryce and Oldright. A deputation from the Barbers' Protective Association of Toronto, consisting of Messrs. H. Joy, Chairman; H. Thompson, Secretary, and Messrs. Beamish, Bryan and Clark, were present, and after a long discussion approved the general principles, and promised to bring them before their organization. The regulations were prepared in the hope that they may be adopted by the various barbers in the association, or individually, throughout the Province.

"A barber should be clean and neat in his person and methods" the first clause read; "should use the bath regularly and should be particular in maintaining a healthy condition of the mouth and hands. No person suffering from any disease of the skin, scalp or hair should act as a barber, nor should anyone suffering from consumption or any disease commonly known as contagious serve in this capacity."

Further regulations provide that a barber should not come in contact with any contagious disease, that persons recovering from contagious diseases should not visit barber shops, but should be attended at their own homes, and that all instruments used on such patients should be disinfected after use, for the regular cleaning of the shops, for the encouragement of customers to have used on them their own instruments, which should be compulsory in case of persons suffering from skin, scalp or hair diseases; for the use once only of a piece of alum for stopping blood; that sponges should not be used at all, and that a spoon or spatula, instead of the fingers, should be used for removing vaseline from the vessel in which it is kept.

Dr. Oldright reported on the American Congress on Tuberculosis at New York, and it was decided to co-operate in every way with the promoters of the congress at St. Louis in 1904.

The whole of the morning's session was occupied by the presentation by Prof. Amyot, Provincial Bacteriologist, of a report on chemical experiments conducted with the septic tank system at the Berlin sewage farm. The report was essentially of a technical character, and it will be of considerable value to municipalities, as showing the capacities and limitations of this system of sewage disposal.

The captain of the Victoria has complained to the Governor, who will demand an explanation through the British Foreign Office.

HON. ROBT. ROGERS' VIEW.

AMALGAMATION DOES NOT CONCERN MANITOBA.

Grand Trunk Project a Grand Thing For the West—Mr. Wm. Whyte of the C.P.R. Pleased to Hear of it.

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—In connection with the rumored amalgamation of the Canadian Northern Railway with the new Grand Trunk Pacific, which will control the western extension of the road, Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, said:—"We have no information as to such an amalgamation taking place. It does not matter to this Government who runs the road so long as we control the rates. The larger and stronger the company is the better for the Province. In any case, the coming of the Grand Trunk is a grand thing for Manitoba and the west."

Montreal, November 28.—"There is lots of room for the Grand Trunk in the northwest," said Mr. Wm. Whyte, assistant to the President of the C. P. R., "I'm glad to hear they are coming. You must remember the Grand Trunk is a national road, and it is far better to have it than an America road. If the people in the east had any idea of the rapidity with which the country is settling up there they would not be surprised to hear me say there is room for the Grand Trunk and others as well. The condition of affairs has completely changed even since a year ago. The traffic is not only abnormal eastbound, but also westbound. It is this fact which has simply rendered it impossible to handle the crop with the despatch which was necessary. In 1895 we had a large crop, as you remember, which was handled satisfactorily simply because we could rush the cars back and reload. To-day all is changed, and I don't suppose we are getting within 35 per cent. of the use of the cars for grain haulage we did last year, simply because they are used in other ways. The people are rich; they are purchasing in the east, and what we call our lake trade has increased 95 per cent. over last year. Then the fuel situation has changed; they are consuming more fuel as they become richer, buying more groceries, provisions, etc., in the east, so that the abnormal increase has been in both east and west bound and in local traffic."

AN AGENT OF GENTILE.

ARREST OF ANDREA ROMANO AT NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y.

Caught by a Decoy Letter Sent by the Detectives—The Accused Man Now in Buffalo.

Buffalo, Nov. 28.—A special despatch to The Express from Niagara Falls says:—Andrea Romano of No. 908 Cleveland avenue was arrested yesterday evening at his home Detectives Murphy and Gammon of the United States Treasury Department. They say Romano has been floating counterfeit money in this city for several months, acting as the agent of Joseph Gentile, counterfeiter, captured in Toronto, and sent to Kingston penitentiary.

When Gentile was arrested a short time ago it was observed that Romano stopped his business of peddling and remained at home. The detectives sent a decoy letter to him, and Romano was seen to get the letter. He answered it and the reply was intercepted. It contained enough evidence against Romano to warrant his arrest. He was sent to Buffalo to-night.

Romano, it is said, bought counterfeit halves and quarters from Gentile in lots of $100, paying $25 for it.

Romano is wanted in New York. He was one of the gang who escaped a raid at No. 8 Prince street.

A TRIPLE DROWNING.

Three Boys Go Through the Ice at Bathurst, N.B.

Bathurst, N.B., Nov. 28.—On Wednesday afternoon three boys, one a son of Isaac Couture, aged 9 years, the other two aged 11 and 14 years respectively, sons of Jerome Bertain of Burns Mill, while on the ice at the east end of town preparing a small shelter for smelt fishing, were drowned. The accident was not noticed by any person. When Mr. Bertain reached home, missing the children, who had been warned not to go on the ice, he started out in search. He had not gone far before he fell through. He got out and ran home, changed his clothes and got assistance, and started again. He did not go far before he came to the hole in the ice, and found the three bodies with a sled, in about four feet of water, the tide having subsided.

LOSS OF THE STEAMER SYLVANUS J. MACY.

BUFFALO BOAT SUNK OFF PORT BURWELL.

FIFTEEN LIVES LOST IN THE DISASTER.

Buffalo, Nov. 28.—A special to The Express from Detroit says:—News has just reached this port that the steamer Sylvanus J. Macy was sunk off Port Burwell, on the north shore of Lake Erie, in the furious southwester that raged on Sunday night. It is believed that her crew of fifteen men perished. The steamer had left Buffalo the day before with her consort, the barge Mabel Wilson, loaded with coal. The weather was heavy and thick on Sunday and the Macy had a hard time creeping up on the north shore. Off Port Burwell, she sprang a leak.

The tow line of the barge was cast off by the crew of the Macy. That was the first the Wilson knew the Macy was in trouble. Sail was got on the schooner, and she headed up the lake. The Macy was heading for shelter and making very heavy weather. As the crew of the Wilson watched the steamer through the gloom they saw her suddenly disappear. She had plunged under the waters. The suddenness with which the end came precludes the possibility of the crew getting away on the boats. Even if they had it is doubtful that boats could have lived in the sea that was running. The fact that no word has been received from Canadian ports shows that none were saved.

The Mabel Wilson arrived at Amherstburg yesterday with tidings of the disaster. It was also reported by the captain of the Albright that he passed through five miles of wreckage off Port Burwell. There were parts of the cabin, boats, life-preservers and doors.

Sicilian Grounding Investigation.

Quebec, Nov. 27.—Commander Spain, R. N., and J. U. McGregor, Marine and Fisheries Department agent in Quebec, held a court of inquiry into the cause of the accident to the Allan Line steamer Sicilian on Monday last, and, accompanied by Capt. Fairfull, the first, second and third officers of the Sicilian, Pilot Samuel Rioux, Harbormaster Sullivan and some others, went down the river on board the Government steamer Druid to examine the location where the Sicilian struck. The Druid sailed up and down the spot and its vicinity, throwing the lead and taking soundings in every direction to locate any obstruction that was likely to cause the accident. The commissioners on their return were very reticent with reference to their investigation, refusing to say a word until they made their report to Ottawa.

INTERESTING FACTS

FOR NEARLY EVERY MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD.

A short time ago we published an article recommending to our readers the new discovery for the cure of Dyspepsia, called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and the claims then made regarding the wonderful curative properties of the remedy have been abundantly sustained by the facts. People who were cautious about trying new remedies advertised in the newspapers and were finally induced to give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a trial were surprised and delighted at the results. In many cases a single package costing but 50 cents at any drug store made a complete cure and in every instance the most beneficial results were reported. From a hundred or more received we have space to publish only a few of the latest but assure our readers we receive so many commendatory letters that we shall publish each week a fresh list of genuine unsolicited testimonials and never publish the same one twice.

From James Yemmeisler, LaCross, Wis.; Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are doing me more good than anything I ever tried and I was so pleased at results that I gave away several boxes to my friends who have also had the same benefits.

From Jacob Anthony, Portmurray, New Jersey: I have taken Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with the best results. I had Dyspepsia for 6 years and had taken a great deal of medicine, but the Tablets seem to take right a hold and I feel good. I am a farmer and lime burner and I heartily recommend to everyone who has any trouble with his stomach to use these Tablets.

From Mrs. M. K. West, Preston, Minn., I have received surprisingly good effects from using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I gave one-half of my last box to a friend who also suffered from indigestion and she had the same good results.

From Mrs. Agnes K. Ralston, Cadillac, Mich., I have been taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I am very much better, and feel very grateful for the great benefit I have received in so short a time.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a certain cure for all forms of Indigestion. They are not claimed to be a cure-all, but are prepared for stomach troubles only, and physicians and druggists everywhere recommend them to all persons suffering from Nervous Dyspepsia, sour or acid stomach, heartburn, bloating or wind on stomach and similar disorders.

DISORDER FOLLOWS MOTION ON TARIFF BILL.

Members Referred to by Opponents as "Pickpockets"—Speakers Constantly Interrupted and Discussion Postponed.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Disorders resulted in the Reichstag to-day from a motion introduced by the leaders of the Centre, National Liberal, and the two Conservative parties, providing for taking a vote on the tariff as a whole. The motion was greeted with laughter by the Socialists and Radicals. The Socialist speakers and others contended that the motion was contrary to the rules of the House, and President Von Ballestrem admitted he was in doubt on the question raised, and left the matter for the House to decide after a full discussion. During the debate on the rules the Socialists created great disorder. Herr Antrick and others shouted "Pickpockets," and Herr Ulrich, who repeatedly interrupted the speakers, was called to order three times, the Conservatives shouting "Put him out." Further discussion was postponed until to-morrow.

DUTCH LOST TWENTY-ONE.

BARGE WITH TROOPS SUNK BY THE ACHINESE.

Lieutenant Dekok Among the Number Drowned—Disaster Occurred in Interior of Sumatra.

The Hague, Nov. 28.—A despatch from Achin, Sumatra, announces that Lieut. Dekok and forty-five troops on board a barge on a river in the interior were recently attacked by a band of Achinese with the result that the barge sank and the Lieutenant and twenty men were drowned.

The conflict between the Dutch and the Achinese has continued with more or less energy and success by both parties since 1871.

New Pacific Cable.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Mr. A. R. Dearlove, the English expert engineer, who was associated with the construction of the Pacific cable, is in the city, on his way back to England. He states that the working speed of 100 letters a minute, attained in transmission on the Pacific cable, is, relatively speaking, very fast, and from ten to fifteen per cent. better than expected. The cable is in first-class shape, and he is well satisfied with it. It will be open for service messages on December 8th. Asked what he thought in regard to Signor Marconi's discoveries, he believed it would be a great many years before the wireless system would interfere to any extent with commercial cable business. "In the transmission of messages," he observed, "three things are indispensable, accuracy, secrecy and rapidity. Mr. Marconi, so far as I am aware, has not succeeded in any one of these essentials as yet. In some of the Atlantic cables a rapidity of 450 letters a minute is secured in transmission, which is about eleven times faster than that of any Marconigrams sent across the Atlantic."

ONTARIO AGAIN TO THE FORE.

Mr. Robert Beith, M.P., of Bowmanville, is again the winner of the Grand Challenge Cup, competed for at the National Horse Show, held in Madison Square, New York. This is a triumph of which Canada as well as Mr. Beith may be justly proud. Commenting upon Mr. Beith's success, a contemporary says:

This horse show is considered the best in the world, Great Britain not excepted, and Mr. Beith has now won the Grand Challenge Cup for two years in succession. Last year he astonished the Americans by capturing the cup with Robin Adair, a superb horse. The wealthy American horsemen did not like the idea of the cup going to Canada, and in order to keep it this year Robin Adair was purchased at a good round figure But Mr. Beith had another horse ready this year of better parts than Robin Adair, and for the second time the Stevenses, Jordans, Fairfaxes and other breeders had to accept defeat. The name of the beautiful horse which thus won fame for Canada is Gribthorpe Playmate, imported by Mr. Beith from Britain. The following report of the event is from a leading New York daily:—

"The Challenge Cup for the best hackney stallions, having won in classes 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, and for stallions having won a first prize at any former show of this association, was next in order. The conditions call for the cup to be won by the same horse two years in succession. It was won in 1901 by Robert Beith's Robin Adair II. Four exhibits entered the ring, every one a champion. Imp. Robin Adair II., that represented Chestnut Hill Stock Farm, was a winner in class 22 and winner of the championship last year. Fandango, exhibited by Frederick Stevens, had been winner in class 21; Prince Crompton, exhibited by Eben D. Jordan, had been winner in class 23, and Gribthorpe Playmate had but a few moments earlier won the blue knot in class 24 for Robert Beith. What could be expected but a grand exhibit under the conditions? The question uppermost was: Would Robin Adair again catch the eye of the judges and with his second win take the cup home to his owner? The judges deliberated long and had every horse shown to the best possible advantage. Then the grand young horse Gribthorpe Playmate, by Garton Duke of Connaught, that had just won a blue for Robert Beith, was led into the centre of the ring and the championship blue pinned to his bridle. Imp Robin Adair, that won last year, received the red knot, reserve to the championship."

Mr. Beith and others who keep Canada in the front rank as a horse-breeding country, and who do much to improve the blood of Canadian live stock, deserve the recognition we bestow on our prize-winners in other competitions and contests. In addition to Mr. Beith's success in capturing the Grand Challenge Cup, Mr. George Pepper, of Toronto, won the most difficult jumping contests with his string of sixteen horses. Mr. Adam Beck, London, won the Hunt Club prize and a number of prizes in the saddle classes. Messrs. Crowe & Murray, of Toronto, were also prize-winners with a grand string of dog cart and saddle horses.

Our United States neighbors must have learned by this time that Canada is as progressive as they are.

Some interesting facts transpire occasionally in election trials. The Lennox investigation is not an exception. Mr. Watson, the Grit lawyer, asked Mr. Uriah Wilson, M. The only point reserved by the judges in the Lennox election trial for further consideration, is the payment of a small sum to the caretaker of a hall in which a meeting was held in Bath. The caretaker swore that his usual charge for looking after the Hall upon such occasions, was $1, and that he so told Mr. Carscallen, who gave him $1.50, and asked him for his vote. Mr. Carscallen declares in his evidence that he gave the man $1 for his services, and no more, but did not at the time ask him for his vote, but might have done so at some time. If the payment of $1 to a man who looks after a public hall for services rendered be a corrupt act, we are inclined to the opinion that every election ought to be set aside. Such a charge was made against Thos. Wills, Esq., when he carried West Hastings at an election for the Ontario House, and the judge treated it with contempt.

As to Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—The clipping reprinted under the above heading in Monday's Intelligencer, from the Atchison, Kansas, "Daily Globe," is undoubtedly inspired by the liquor interests, and is designed to frighten Canadian voters in view of the vote on Dec. 4. The whole item is false and misleading. The "Daily Globe" says that "in Mr. Sheldon's own city there is a saloon on every corner." In reply to this irresponsible statement of the Atchison Globe, it is surely sufficient to quote the following statement: "The law is efficiently and successfully enforced. We believe not one-tenth of the amount of liquor is now used that was used before the adoption of the prohibitory law. It has more than met the expectation of its warmest friends, and is steadily winning the confidence and support of thousands who were its bitterest enemies." This verdict is certified over the signatures of nine leading citizens of Kansas, the Governor, the Secretary, the Auditor, the Treasurer, the Supt. of Public Instruction, the Attorney-General, the Chief Justice and two Associate Justices—all State officials. S. M. Gardenshire, of Topeka (Mr. Sheldon's city), Clerk of the District Court, says: "We have no criminal business to speak of in this county, and we have not had since the adoption of the prohibitory policy." Hon. Mr. Gains, State Supt. of Public Instruction, says: "The effect is grand. Of an attendance of 140 pupils at one of our High Schools over 100 had never seen a saloon. This shows that we have driven the saloon from the State" W. E. Stanley, Governor of Kansas, says: "I believe prohibition at its worst is better than high license at its best." F. H. Snow, ex-Chancellor of Kansas State University, says: "After a residence of more than thirty years in Kansas, I can give my emphatic opinion that the amount of intoxicants used by Kansas people has been vastly reduced since the adoption of the prohibitory amendment." Judge F. G. Adams, for twenty years Secretary of Kansas State Historical Society, says: "The prohibition policy has broken up the organized traffic in intoxicants as a beverage." Ex-Governor St. John says: "Let it be remembered that the poorest enforced prohibition is better than the best enforced license." J. A. Martin, ex-Governor says: "Fully nine-tenths of the drinking and drunkenness prevalent in Kansas eight years ago have been abolished, and I affirm with earnestness and emphasis that this State to-day is the most temperate, orderly, sober community of people on the civilized world." The New York "Tribune" sent an expert to investigate the working of the prohibition in Kansas. In his report he uses these words "The real fact is simply this: "There are no drunkards in Kansas. The blear-eyed, pimply-cheeked old soak, who reeled around all day steaming with whiskey or beer, is a things of the past." The local press, Kansas City "Journal," says: "The Kansas poor-houses are most all empty and the bank vaults are crammed full of deposits." The Kansas "Issue" says: "We know of no license community in the world where there is so little apparent drunkenness, crime or poverty as in Kansas."

Surely the intelligent temperance voters of Belleville and Hastings will find no difficulty in choosing between the testimony of the Atchison "Globe" and that of these leading and honorable citizens of Kansas.

SNAKES ON HIS ROOF

ONE OF THE REPTILES MEASURED OVER SIX FEET IN LENGTH.

Wiarton, Ont., Nov. 27.—One of the most curious finds that has occurred in the town for some time was made on Tuesday by Geo. Beacock, who lives to the north of the Pacific Hotel. It appears he found one of the flues of his business place out of order, and went on the roof to learn the case of the difficulty. The roof is a flat one, and to his surprise, near the chimney he found lying two large snakes, one over six feet in length and the other over five feet. They were both dead, and had apparently been so for some weeks. In color they were yellow with brown spots, and were evidently copper snakes. How they came there is a mystery. They are certainly a foreign reptile, which makes the matter more mystifying.

A Successful Parlor Social

A parlor social was held last evening at the residence of Mr. Wm. A. Pringle, Earle street, in aid of the Baptist church. There was a large number in attendance, and during the evening a programme was presented, which was thoroughly enjoyed. Refreshments were served. Rev. O. C. Elliott, pastor of the church, presided.

"Span of Life" To-night

One of the most popular melodramatic productions on the road is "The Span of Life," which appears at the opera house to-night. This is its second appearance in this city and no doubt it will be as favorably received as on its former visit. The scenery carried is a special feature and a more remarkable scene than the human bridge, formed by the famous Donazetta brothers, would be hard to conceive. The story of the play is most interesting, while the music and specialties introduced are most worthy. The prices are only 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c. On Monday night the great sensational melodrama, "The Scout's Revenge," will be produced. Plan will open to-morrow at Riggs'. advt

A TRUE NERVE TONIC

Will act, not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvellous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c at druggists, or J. S. McKeown's.

Lawn Games In England.

We get nothing like the pleasure out of our lawns which the English do. Where we are at fault is that we do not use our lawns to anything like their full capacity of enjoyment. Here and there we use them as the framing of lawn tennis or croquet courts (which we make either of dirt or asphalt), and here and there we mark out upon their surface a baseball diamond. Still rarely and only in limited localities they are used for the playing of cricket. Both the latter games, however, require for their outfielders rather a field than a lawn, within the ordinary meaning of the word, and, speaking broadly and generally, it may be said with truth that we have no games which require only a lawn and nothing more.

Nevertheless the two games of jack o' the green, or lawn bowls, and quoits have held their own through ten centuries at least in Great Britain and in later times have spread with the race to the remotest parts, which might be played on tens of thousands of lawns in America, to the great advantage of the players and to the enhancement of the pleasures of country life.—Country Life In America.

An Alligator's Nest.

Alligators' nests resemble haycocks more than anything else to which they can be compared. They average about four feet in height and five feet in diameter and are constructed of grasses and herbage. First the mother gator deposits one layer of eggs on a mortarlike floor, and, having covered this with a stratum of mud and herbage about eight inches thick, lays another set of eggs upon that, and so on to the top, there being commonly from 100 to 200 eggs in a nest. With their tails the parents then beat down the tall grass and weeds to prevent the approach of unseen enemies. The female watches her eggs until they are hatched by the heat of the sun and then takes her brood under her own care, defending them and providing for their subsistence.

England's Oldest Alehouse.

The oldest licensed village alehouse in England is claimed to be the George inn, in North St. Philip. The license dates from 1397. Each story of the picturesque old structure overhangs that beneath. The front is broken by bay windows, a porch and a flight of stone steps leading to a doorway in the wall. At the back are more quaint doors and windows, and a turret built against the wall incloses an outside stair, while in the yard still remains part of the old gallery found in so many hostelries of the middle ages. Most of the front is timbered, and a curious chimney surmounts each gable. The upper floor inside is of plaster.

VILLAGES SHELLED.

INHABITANTS KILLED CHRISTIAN FIJIAN WOMEN.

Lesson Administered by British Warship—Annexation of Suwarrow and Other Islands—The Foundering of the Steamer Ventnor.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 28.—According to advices received from Sydney by the steamer Aorangi, H.M.S. Sparrow has returned from a protracted cruise through the South Sea Islands. During her cruise the warship's officers annexed Suwarrow, Ysabel and Choiseul Islands for Great Britain. At Malieta Islands five villages of the natives were shelled to punish the islanders for having killed a Fijian woman because she embraced Christianity.

The steamer Ventnor, which recently took lumber from this coast to the Orient, foundered near Hokianga, near New Zealand, when bound from Wellington to Hong Kong with 5,347 tons of coal and 500 coffins, containing the remains of Chinese for interment in China. The Aorangi brings news that on October 28 she struck the rocks southwest of Mount Egmont, and, being floated, continued her voyage. Next day she began to fill, and soon she became unmanageable, and started to sink slowly. All hands took to the boats, and had barely time to get clear before the steamer sank. One of the boats, containing the captain, third officer and eleven of the crew, failed to reach shore. Those in the other boats which made the land say the missing boat was drawn under when the steamer foundered.

THE SAMOAN AWARD.

PECULIAR POSITION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Must Present Details of Claims of Citizens, the Liability For Which it Had Denied.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The State Department, which is preparing to present to King Oscar, the arbitrator of the issues between Britain and the United States and Germany, growing out of the Samoan troubles of 1899, the second phase of the case, finds itself in a peculiar position. The decision was that Britain and the United States were liable for damages sustained by foreigners as a result of the joint naval operations. The next step is to prepare and submit to the arbitrator detailed statements of the individual losses. By the terms of the arbitration treaty each country concerned undertook to look after the claims of its own citizens. Thus it happens in the case of the United States that the Government is in the peculiar position of presenting to the arbitrator for payment the claims of a number of American citizens after it had through elaborate argument before the arbitrator specifically denied liability for any such claims.

MR. ANGUS M'LEOD'S FUNERAL.

A Large Gathering at Bracebridge—Tributes From Colleagues.

Bracebridge, Nov. 28.—The funeral of the late Angus McLeod, M.P., yesterday was very largely attended, not only by citizens of the town and community, but by many from a distance. A special train was chartered from Orillia, which brought many prominent citizens, amongst them being Mr. Thomas Sheppard, Rev. Dr. Grant, Messrs. Wm. and George Thompson and others. From Coldwater there was Messrs. W. Sheppard and H. Lovering. The Dominion and Ontario Legislatures were represented by Col. Sam. Hughes, M.P., George Clare, M.P., George McCormick, M.P., Dr. Bridgland, M.P.P., W. H. Hoyle, M.P.P., Milton Carr, M.P.P., James Tudhope, M.P.P., S. Fox, M.P.P., A. Miscampbell, M.P.P., and George Langford, ex-M.P.P., brother-in-law of the deceased. Mr. W. R. Beatty, ex-M.P.P. for Parry Sound, now of Halifax, was also present, and Major Grant and others from Gravenhurst. A short service was held in the Methodist church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Ferguson, B.A., assisted by Rev. Mr. Bremner of the Presbyterian church. Short addresses were delivered by Mayor Shier of Bracebridge, Col. Hughes and Mr. A. Miscampbell. The I. O. O. F. lodge attended the funeral in regalia, and the Citizens' Band headed the funeral procession. The Methodist church was draped in mourning, and effective music was rendered by the choir. A memorial service will be conducted in the same church on Sunday evening.

KILLED BY STRIKERS.

Two Men, Wounded in Riots at Havana, Die of Their Injuries.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

Havana, Nov. 28.—Two of the men who were wounded on Thursday while on a street car by shots fired from neighboring houses died yesterday. There have been no further disturbances since yesterday. The Mayor has ordered the police to arrest all the occupants of the houses from which the shots may have been fired at the street cars. The special Judge in charge of the rioting cases has ordered the arrest of Arnauto Cervantes, the editor of The Reconcentrado, on charges of sedition.

While Imprisoned.

A prisoner condemned to prison for life, after a careful study of the Bible, found it to contain 3,586,489 letters, 773,692 words, 31,173 verses, 1,183 chapters, and 66 books. The word "and" occurs 46,277 times, the word "Lord" 1,855 times.

The middle verse is the 8th of the 118th Psalm. The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except "j."

The longest verse is the 9th in the 8th chapter of Esther. The shortest is the 35th of the 11th chapter of St. John's Gospel.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes: "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

Pride is a sign of the worst poverty—ignorance.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Most young men get a lot of rye mixed with their wild oats.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

Did it ever occur to you that the average man's intelligence is below the average?

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

HON G. W. ROSS ON REFERENDUM BILL.

The Hon. George W. Ross has been on the platform talking about prohibition, and his referendum scheme. In doing so he declared that he was "not arguing about prohibition per se," but "wanted to see every man vote on December, 4th because on the vote would depend the status of the cause in the future. He also wanted those who did not think with him to vote, so that the exact situation could be ascertained."

When Mr. Ross made this request he was deceiving those of his hearers, who did not fully know the details of this bill. He knew that it was not necessary for a single opponent of the measure to record his vote in order to defeat the bill, and that he and his colleagues had so framed the Act as to throw the whole responsibility upon the prohibition party, they having to secure a vote not only equal to half that recorded at the general election in 1898 for members of the Legislature, but a vote exceeding that half, must be recorded. With such a provision in the bill, will any sensible man say that it is necessary for any anti-prohibitionists to take the trouble to go to the polls to record his vote?

The Hon. gentleman not only presumed upon the ignorance of his hearers of what was necessary to secure the passage of the bill, but must also have come to the conclusion that his parliamentary history was forgotten when he made the statement, that "He had said before that he intended to vote for the Liquor Act of 1902. He had never lost an opportunity to cast such a vote in his life."

Has he forgotten, or rather does he suppose, that those who were listening to him had forgotten, that portion of his parliamentary history, where the records show that he rfused to vote for a motion moved in the House of Commons, affirming directly the principle of prohibition? And that he killed the motion by a side wind, so well understood, and practised by such astute and wily politicians as the Hon. George W. Ross and Clifford Sifton, who should be yoked together and exhibited as the ne plus ultra of Canadian political humbugs and charlatans.

Explosion at Stirling

An explosion of gas at C. F. Stickles' store, about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, caused an alarm of fire, and from the dense cloud of smoke it really looked serious for a time. The force of the explosion tore out a large window in the millinery work room, and the damage by smoke and dirt is considerable. The fire was soon extinguished by smothering it.

The Late Mrs. Pascoe

A large number of citizens were in attendance at the obsequies of the late Mrs. John Pascoe, which occurred this afternoon from the residence of her son, Mr. W. P. Pascoe, Station road. Services were conducted at the house by the Rev. W. J. Gilliland, of the Reformed Episcopal Church.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

IN STORE FOR THOSE WHO DOUBT.

When you read that a sufferer of many years standing has been completely restored to health by using Smith's Cure-all, you are inclined to doubt the statement and, in fact, have no belief in it whatever. The reason for this is that so much is claimed for the Cure-all it is impossible for anyone to believe it; if the advertiser confined his claims to the curing of one disease, as do the proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure, readers would have much more faith in published testimonials. Those familiar with this great remedy know that testimonials as to its merit may be relied upon implicitly, also that the cures brought about by its use are little short of marvellous. The genuineness of the testimonial here given is vouched for and is but one of thousands received.

"I had a friend who had used one box of 50 cent Pyramid Pile Cure that entirely cured her. I saw the good effect on her, and thought I would try it, as I had got so I could not sit down without extreme pain and getting up was just as bad; the first box nearly cured me; I got the second box and have had no trouble since. 'Pyramid Pile Cure does all that it claims to do, and I never miss an opportunity to tell its merits. I speak from observation, and personal benefit. Two boxes cured me over a year ago, and no return of the trouble since." Mrs. M Mooney, 6000 Sangamon St., Chicago, Ill.

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. Write this firm for their book describing the cause and cure of piles.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

Christmas Demand For Live Stock—The Cheese and Grain Trade.

Wednesday Evening, Nov. 27.

Toronto St. Lawrence Market.

Business on the street market here to-day was small in volume on account of the bad state of the roads in the country. Deliveries of grain and hay were light and there was little doing in the other lines of farm produce. Prices are practically unchanged. The offerings of grain amounted to only four loads.

Oats—Two loads sold ½c lower at 34c to 34½c.

Barley—Two loads of malting sold fairly steady at 49c.

Hay—Timothy was firmer, selling $1 higher at $13 to $15 per ton. Clover or mixed sold unchanged at $8 to $9 per ton. Deliveries were 10 loads. No straw was offered.

Dressed Hogs—Steady and unchanged at $7.75 to $8.25 per cwt. Receipts are heavier and market is more active.

Poultry—Turkeys are easier, offerings during the past few days having been liberal. Prices range from 10c to 12c and only a fancy bird will bring the top figure. Geese are a little firmer at 7c to 9c. Other fowl are unchanged.

Apples—Trade is slow and medium to inferior grades are very dull. Only the best fruit sells with any rapidity. Offerings are large and the quality is up to the average. Quotations are unchanged.

Potatoes—The cold weather has not yet influenced the market and the receipts are moving steadily at 75c to 80c per bushel and $1 to $1.10 per bag.

Cheese Markets.

Kingston, Nov. 27.—At the regular meeting of the Cheese Board held here to-day there were 250 white and 174 colored cheese boarded. Highest bid, 11c. No sales. Buyers:—Mackinnon, Bissell, Murphy, Crawford, Alexander and Thomson. The board adjourned till the last Thursday in April.

Brockville, Nov. 27.—At the meeting of the Cheese Board held here to-day 749 boxes were registered, of which 429 boxes were white and the balance colored. All sold at 11½c.

Toronto Live Stock.

Trade at the Toronto Cattle Market was in a very satisfactory condition to-day and all the good cattle sold readily. The run was moderately heavy and there was an excellent general demand. The quality of the offerings was up to the average and some good loads figured in the day's transactions. There were plenty of common cattle, but everything was sold, and sellers had no reason to complain. The tendency of the prices was upward, and choice exporters and export butchers' are qouted higher. Export bulls are also firmer and feeders are strong. Good milch cows were scarce. There was a slight advance in sheep, but lambs and hogs were unchanged. The total run was 97 loads, including 1,360 cattle, 2,190 sheep and lambs, 25 calves and 1,734 hogs.

Export Cattle—There was a good demand and some high prices were paid. Sales at $5.50 per cwt were reported, and several loads went at $5.40 and $5.45. These were for the choicest offerings, but although they were heavy cattle they were not in the best possible condition. The bulk of the shipping cattle sold at $5 to $5.25, and some as low as $4.85. Medium grades, including mixed loads and light weights, brought $4.50 to $4.85, and cows were unchanged.

Butchers' Cattle—There was a stronger feeling among the export butchers' fit to ship or kill, and they sold at $4.85 to $5.10 per cwt. Choice to picked lots are selling at $4.25 to $4.75 and good loads bring $3.75 to $4.15. The approach of the Christmas trade is responsible for the better demand and good cattle are wanted. For the finest in the land fancy prices will be paid during the next three weeks.

Export Bulls—The market is firmer in sympathy with the better feeling among the other classes of shipping cattle. The offerings are not large and trade is rather quiet. The best bulls sell at $3 to $4.50 per cwt, and light export bulls bring $3.50 to $4.

Feeders and Stockers—The demand is good and movement is active. Short-keep feeders are coming forward rather freely, but the fat cattle are generally sold for export and few of them go back to the farm. There is a good inquiry for light and medium weights, and the market is easily able to absorb all that offer at present. Stockers are fairly active and steady. Quotations for all grades are unchanged.

Milch Cows—There were several cows on [illegible] were [illegible]. The poor ones are comparatively abundant and they are slow of sale. Buyers are prepared to pay as high as $80 for a good milker. To-day's sales ranged from $40 to $55.

Sheep and Lambs—Export ewes are quoted 5c higher at $3.40 to $3.65 per cwt. Bucks are nominally unchanged, but buyers do not want them at any price. Export lambs are quoted at $4.25 to $4.50 per cwt. and butchers' lambs are unchanged at $3.50 to $4 per cwt. Trade is good and everything sells well with the exception of bucks.

Calves—Steady at $3 to $10 each. The good demand for choice veals continues.

Hogs—Steady and unchanged at $6.12½ per cwt for selects and $5.87½ for lights and fats.

Montreal Live Stock.

Montreal, Nov. 27.—There were about 400 head of butchers' cattle, 20 calves and 400 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the east end abattoir to-day. There were also a good many beef and mutton critters sold here yesterday. The butchers were present in large numbers, and there was an active demand and slightly higher prices paid for anything good among the cattle and lambs, but the common and inferior cattle are full of sale at former low prices. The best cattle on the market to-day were sold at about 4c per lb, but they were only middling, and really good beeves would bring from 4½c to 4¾c per lb. The common stock sold at from 2c to 3c per lb, and the canners at from 1½c to 2c per lb. Calves sold at from $3 to $12 each, or from 3c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at from 2¾c to 3¾c and the lambs at from 3¾c to 4¼c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at from 5¾c to 6c per lb, weighed off the cars.

British Markets.

London, Nov. 27.—Wheat, on passage, quieter and hardly any demand. Corn, on passage, depressed. English country markets of yesterday quiet, but steady; French dull.

Paris, Nov. 27.—Wheat quiet; November, 21f 15c; March and June, 21f 40c. Flour quiet; November, 28f 65c; March and June, 28f 35c.

For His Sovereign's Sake.

The shah of Persia when in France suffered from a toothache, and so a dentist was summoned to remove the offending tooth. But, like less exalted mortals, the shah, when he found himself face to face with the dentist, discovered that his toothache had disappeared, and so absolutely refused to be operated on. However, his majesty declared that he did not wish the dentist to lose his time, and so commanded that a tooth should be extracted from each of his suit. He said this with his eyes fixed on the ground, and then, suddenly looking up, found, to his intense amusement, that all his ministers and staff had quietly slipped away except the grand vizier, whom he complimented upon being the only one faithful enough to undergo a little discomfort for his sovereign's sake. Then he dismissed the dentist with a present.

Followed Instructions Too Far.

Three women were having an experience meeting. The first told how her maid had locked her in the bathroom and fled from the house. The second told of a green cook who had boiled a watermelon. The third said:

"Well, my latest treasure has just landed and did not know how to wash windows, so I proceeded to explain matters to her. We live on the fifth story of an apartment house, and I showed her how to wash the outside by sitting on the sill and letting her feet hang into the room. Imagine my amazement when I went back a few minutes later and found her washing the glass on the inside and sitting with her feet hanging out into the street."

Casting Sleighbells.

A question frequently asked is in regard to the method of producing sleighbells containing iron balls larger than the opening in the bells. Previous to making a cast the maker of sleighbells puts an iron ball inside a sand core, just the shape of the inside of the bell. This sand core, with the jinglet inside, is placed in the mold of the outside and the melted metal poured in, which fills up the space between the core and mold. The hot metal burns the core so that it can be shaken out, leaving the ball within the shell. Ball valves, swivel joints and many other articles are cast in the same manner.

Siam's Royal Palace.

One of the most remarkable buildings in the world is the palace of the king of Siam. It is inclosed in dazzlingly white walls over a mile in circumference. Within these walls are temples, public offices, seraglios, stable for the sacred elephant, accommodation for 1,000 troops, cavalry, war elephants and an arsenal. There is also a very fine theater, where English, French and German companies frequently perform before the royal household. The king himself is extremely fond of theatricals.

Our Superiority

In leather goods. Perhaps in no department of our business do we excel more than in our Leather Goods department. We verily believe that we sell three-quarters of the leather goods sold in Belleville, and we know there are good reasons for it. The very best of reasons are that we keep so large variety, we keep such superior goods, and we keep the prices down.

TAKE PURSES—

We sell you an ordinary 25c purse at 15c, and a 35c purse for 25c. Our dollar purse you would be asked half more for in a small assortment store.

Our Chatalaine and Wrist Bag assortment is huge always, but nothing huge about our prices for them.

Then, too, our card cases our wallets, our manacures, our music cases, our portfolios (writing), our albums, our travelling companions, our cigar cases. Everything beautiful in leathers, whether of Russian skins, seal, aligator, lizard, cow, pig or snake.

Our every department will surprise you this year more than ever and the prices of everything will likewise be surprisingly low.

OUR BOOK DEPARTMENT

Will, as usual, be a bumper department, both in variety and price, and what makes a better gift than a suitable book?

FEW BOOK STORES

In Canada keep so replete an assortment of gift books, as we, few keep such variety of cheaper lines, few keep such variety of church books and Bibles, and none offer such values.

We sell prettily bound Bibles at 18c each, and we sell beautiful Japped editions at 12 dollars each. We sell everything between those prices also, and always please our customers.

OUR PICTURE FRAMING—

Have you tried it? If not, better do so now, or you will continue to miss the highest ideas in picture development.

Our manufacturing department is a busy place these days, always busy, but just now we have extra help to turn out extra work. There's never a lul in our framing department from Jan. 1st to Dec. 31st.

Appreciation of good workmanship and moderate prices account for the activity.

Just so with our wall paper departments, our customers are as numerous as our assortment, and combined they are not more numerous than our prices are low.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"Which of your sisters shall I like best?"

And Wilford had answered her by asking:

"Which do you like best, books or going to parties in full dress?"

"Oh, parties and dress," Katy had said, and Wilford had then rejoined:

"You will like Juno best, for she is all fashion and gayety, while Blue-Bell prefers her books and the quiet of her own room."

Katy felt afraid of Bell, and in fact, now that they were so near, she felt afraid of them all, notwithstanding Esther's assurances that they could not help loving her. During the six months they had been together Esther had learned to feel for her her young lady that strong affection which sometimes exists between mistress and servant. Everything which she could do for her she did, smoothing as much as possible the meeting which she also dreaded, for though the Camerons were too proud to express before her their opinion of Wilford's choice, she had guessed it readily and pitied the young wife brought up with ideas so different from those of her husband's family. More accustomed to Wilford's moods than Katy, she saw something was the matter, and it prompted her to unusual attentions, stirring the fire into a cheerful blaze and bringing a stool for Katy, who, in blissful ignorance of her husband's real feelings, sat waiting his return from the telegraph office whither she supposed he had gone, and building pleasant pictures of to-morrow's meeting with her mother and Helen, and possibly Dr. Morris, if not Uncle Ephraim himself.

So absorbed was she in her reverie as not to hear Wilford's step as he came in, but when he stood behind her and took her head playfully between his hands, she started up, feeling that the weather had changed; it was not as cold and dreary in Boston as she imagined, and laying her head on Wilford's shoulder, she said:

"You went out to telegraph, didn't you?"

He had gone out with the intention of telegraphing as she desired, but in the hall below he had met with an old acquaintance who talked with him so long that he entirely forgot his errand until Katy recalled it to his mind, making him feel very uncomfortable as he frankly told her of his forgetfulness.

"It is too late now," he added; "besides you could only see them for a moment, just long enough to make you cry—a thing I do not greatly desire, inasmuch as I wish my wife to look her best when I present her to my family, and with red eyes she couldn't you know."

Katy knew it was settled, and choking back the tears, she tried to listen, while Wilford, having fairly broken the ice with regard to his family, told her how anxious he was that she should make a good first impression upon his mother. Did Katy remember that Mrs. Morey whom they met at Paris, and could she not throw a little of her air into her manner, that is, could she not drop her girlishness when in the presence of others and be a little more dignified? When alone with him he liked to have her just what she was, a loving, affectionate little wife, but the world looked on such things differently. Would Katy try?

Wilford when he commenced had no definite idea as to what he should say, and without meaning it he made Katy moan piteously.

"I don't know what you mean. I would do anything if I knew how. Tell me, how shall I be dignified?"

She was crying so hard that Wilford, while mentally calling himself a fool and a brute, could only try to comfort her, telling her she need not be anything but what she was—that his mother and sisters would love her just as he did—and that daily association with them would teach her all that was necessary.

Katy's tears were stopped at last; but the frightened, anxious look did not leave her face, even though Wilford tried his best to divert her mind. A nervous terror of her new relations had gained possession of her heart, and nearly the entire night she lay awake, pondering in her mind what Wilford had said, and thinking how terrible it would be if he should be disappointed in her after all. The consequence of this was that a very white tired face sat opposite Wilford next morning at the breakfast served in their private parlor; nor did it look much fresher even after they were in the cars and rolling out of Boston. But when Worcester was reached, and the old home way-marks began to grow familiar, the color came stealing back, until the cheeks burned with an unnatural red, and the blue eyes fairly danced as they rested on the hills of Silverton.

"Only three miles from mother and Helen! Oh, if I could go there!" Katy thought, working her fingers nervously; but the express train did not pause there, and it went so swiftly by the depot that Katy could hardly distinguish who was standing there, whether friend or stranger.

But when at last they came to West Silverton, and the long train slowly stopped, the first object she saw was Dr. Morris, driving down from the village. He had no intention of going to the depot, and only checked his horse a moment, lest it should prove restive if too near the engine; but when a clear young voice called from the window: "Morris! oh, Cousin Morris! I've come!" his heart gave a great throb, for he knew whose voice it was and whose the little hand beckoning to him. He had supposed her far away beneath Italian skies, for at the farm-house no intelligence had been received of her intended return, and in much surprise he reined up to the rear door, and throwing his lines to a boy, went forward to where Katy stood, her face glowing with delight as she flew into his arms, wholly forgetful of the last night's lecture on dignity, and also forgetful of Wilford, standing close beside her. He had not tried to hold her back when, at the sight of Morris, she sprang away from him; but he followed after biting his lip, and wishing she had a little more discretion. Surely it was not necessary to half strangle Dr. Grant as she was doing, kissing his hand after she had kissed his face a full half dozen times, and all the people looking on. But Katy did not care for people. She only knew that Morris was there—the Morris whom, in her great happiness abroad, she had perhaps slighted by not writing directly to him but once. In Wilford's sheltering care she had not felt the need of this good cousin, as she used to do; but she was so glad to see him, wondering why he looked so thin and sad. Was he sick? she asked, with a pitying look, which made him shiver as he answered:

"No, not sick, though tired, perhaps, as I have at present an unusual amount of work to do."

And this was true—he was unusually busy. But that was not the cause of his thin face, which others than Katy remarked. Helen's words, "It might have been," spoken to him on the night of Katy's bridal, had never left his mind, much as he had tried to dislodge them. Some men can love a dozen times; but it was not so with Morris. He could overcome his love so that it should not be a sin, but no other could ever fill the place where Katy had been; and as he looked along the road through life he felt that he must travel it alone. Truly, if Katy were not yet passing through the fire, he was, and it had left its mark upon him, purifying as it burned, and bringing his every act into closer submission to his God. Only Helen and Marian Hazelton interpreted aright that look upon his face, and knew it came from the hunger of his heart, but they kept silence; while others said that he was working far too hard, urging him to abate his unwearied labors, for they would not lose their young physician yet. But Morris smiled his patient, kindly smile on all their fears and went his way, doing his work as one who knew he must render strict account for the popularity he was daily gaining, both in his own town and those around. He could think of Katy now without a sin, but he was not thinking of her when she came so unexpectedly upon him, and for an instant she almost bore his breath away in her vehement joy.

A Critical Time in Woman's Life

THE WONDERFUL BENEFIT TO BE OBTAINED BY THE USE OF

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

When you meet with pale, weak women who complain of lack of vigor and vitality and suffer more or less in a feminine way you can be almost sure that they did not have proper care at that critical period in their lives, when the functions of womanhood were developing.

These physiological changes usually take place when girls are bending every effort to succeed in their school work, and are depriving themselves of the outdoor exercise, rest and sleep, which is so important at this time, in order to keep up good health in the face of the strain which is put upon the whole system.

When your daughter gets pale and listless, seems to lose interest in her surroundings, and suffers with stomach pains and headache, you may be sure that her nerve force is being exhausted more rapidly than is being created, and that her nerves and body generally are crying out for more blood—for rich, pure, life-sustaining blood.

As a treatment for growing girls, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has the highest endorsement of all who have tested its virtues. It is successful because it actually forms new, red corpuscles in the blood—increasing the quantity of the blood—and creates new nerve force. Blood and nervous force are consumed at a tremendous rate during this trying time, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food keeps the supply in excess of the demand.

Miss N. Bone, 29 Alexander street, Belleville, Ont., states:—

"For some time past I have been troubled with nervousness, which was probably due to close confinement at school, and as a result of the nerves being affected I was often quite dizzy. After having taken a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I can say that I am completely restored to health. This preparation seemed to have an upbuilding effect on my system and I am no longer bothered with dizzy spells."

A Gluttonous Boy.

A merchant died at Ispahan in the earlier part of last century who had for many years denied himself and his son every support except a crust of coarse bread. On a certain occasion he was overtempted to buy a piece of cheese; but, reproaching himself with extravagance, he put the cheese into a bottle and contented himself and obliged the boy to do the same, with rubbing the crust against the bottle, enjoying the cheese in imagination. One day, returning home later than usual, the merchant found his son eating his crust, which he constantly rubbed against the door.

"What are you about, you fool?" was his exclamation. "It is dinner time, father. You have the key; so, as I could not open the door, I was rubbing my bread against it, as I could not get to the bottle." "Cannot you go without cheese one day, you luxurious little rascal? You'll never be rich." And the angry miser kicked the poor boy for not having been able to deny himself the ideal gratification.

Presence of Mind.

M. Grevy when president of France on one occasion extricated himself from a predicament with wonderful presence of mind. He was being conducted around the salon by an eminent artist, when he saw a painting which displeased him. "What a daub!" he exclaimed. "Whose is it?" "That picture, M. le President," said his cicerone, "it is my own work." "Ah!" said the president without any sign of embarrassment at his awkward mistake. "In our country, when we particularly wish to purchase a thing, we always begin by running it down." And, true to his part, he purchased the offending painting there and then.

A Lesson With His Autograph.

An admirer once wrote to Lowell describing his autograph collection and concluding with the remark, "I would be much obliged for your autograph." The reply came, bearing with it a lesson on the correct use of the words "would" and "should," which deeply impressed itself on the mind of the recipient. The response read:

> Pray, do not say hereafter, "I would be obliged." If you would be obliged, be obliged and be done with it. Say, "I should be obliged," and oblige yours truly, JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

No Cause For Worry.

Elderly Fiance—I hope you are not impressed by the silly sentimentalists who hold that because you've married once you ought not to marry again!

Pretty Widow—Don't let that worry you, dear; I've no such prejudice. My own dear mother was married three times, and I only hope that in all things I may follow her example.

Choked Him Off.

Kraft—The boss has promised to give me a rise in my salary next week.

Newitt—Sorry, old man, but I can't lend you anything.

Belief that there are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught is poor consolation to the man whose bait is gone.

Hardly.

Bilks—Yes; my wife and I have agreed that whenever I make a mistake I am to acknowledge the fault at once.

Jilks—But when she is in error you will call her attention to the fact?

Bilks—Well, hardly. That would simply be another one for me to acknowledge.

Her Engagement Ring.

Kitty—Constance is wearing a diamond ring on her engagement finger. I'll bet she's only trying to fool folks.

Maude—Oh, it's an engagement all right; she told me about it. The engagement is with her dentist, you know, and she put the ring on for fear she might forget.—Boston Transcript.

Helped by a Close Mouth.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is probably the only man who won his position in the British Cabinet through a capacity for keeping silence. It is related that in 1868 Lord Beaconsfield happened to sit near Sir Michael at a big dinner and was much struck by the fact that, though the conversation waxed eloquent on all sides, Sir Michael scarcely opened his mouth. Afterward Lord Beaconsfield asked his hostess who the silent visitor was and on learning his name sent for him the following day and offered him the Undersecretaryship of the Home Department. On being asked why he had made such a choice Lord Beaconsfield replied that he had been attracted to the young politician by the fact of his ability to keep a wise tongue in his head.

RHEUMATISM.

Some of the most valuable discoveries in medicine had their origin in remote countries among strange people. Quinine came to us from the Indians of Peru; opium from the barbarous races of Asia, and cod liver oil was given to us by ignorant whalers who, because it softened leather, thought it would soften joints stiffened by rheumatism. They were right. It only remained for science to work out the idea, and today cod liver oil is one of the best-known remedies for the treatment of chronic rheumatism. As early as 1754 cod liver oil was recognized as a cure for rheumatism, and a few years later it was found that the same remedy could be used for the cure of skin diseases due to this complaint.

The first step in the cure of rheumatism is to supply the blood with nourishment and to make up the deficiency in red blood corpuscles. These corpuscles convey oxygen to the various tissues in the body and play a very important part in the process of combustion which is constantly going on within the body and which is called the "fires of life." Cod liver oil is an excellent fuel for these fires and they burn more brightly when supplied with it.

The faster the blood is made rich and plentiful in red corpuscles the sooner the rheumatism is driven from the system. In Scott's Emulsion the full value of cod liver oil is combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, and, being perfectly emulsified, is best suited for the treatment of rheumatism where everything depends upon nourishing the blood quickly and effectually.

Scott's Emulsion differs from any other preparation in that it passes into the system without tax on any of the organs with which it comes in contact. By reason of its immediate action it is enabled to make rich blood faster than disease can consume it, hence it is not long before sufficient headway is gained to drive out the trouble and restore the body to a normal condition. It is in this way that Scott's Emulsion disposes of rheumatism and rids the body of the lingering symptoms that so often threaten a return of the disorder.

So-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil are worthless as they do not contain the value of the whole cod liver oil and hence cannot furnish the desired benefits. Scott's Emulsion has been the standard cod liver oil preparation for over twenty-five years.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

Wedded In Bridge Street.

MISS M. L. JOHNSON, BECOMES THE BRIDE OF REV. F. N. HOWARD.

Miss Minnie L. Johnson, oldest surviving daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson, of this city, was married in Bridge St. Methodist Church on the stroke of 10.45 this morning to the Rev. Fred H. Howard, S.T.L., of Havelock, Ont., by the groom's father, Rev. E. E. Howard, of Janetville, assisted by the Rev. W. J. Crothers, M.A. D.D., the bride's pastor, in the presence of a number of the relatives and friends of the families interested, and as the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, Professor V. P. Hunt played the Wedding March.

After the ceremony and the registration the happy couple received the congratulations of their relatives and their farewells, and immediately left for the G.T.R. station, and will arrive at Havelock this evening.

No invitations had been issued for the event and indeed everything was done to make it informal and unostentatious.

The tributes of affection which the bride received were numerous from this city and many places in Canada and the States. Chief amongst these was a salad bowl from the young ladies of the bride's class in Bridge St. Sunday School, and a Secretary from the Epworth Leagues. Accompanying it was the following address:

Dear Miss Johnson,—

Your fellow-members in the Epworth League feel that we cannot let you leave us without some expression of our regard for you and our appreciation of what your work among us has meant during the past few years.

From your first entrance into the League, through your career as private member working on committees, as Vice-president, President, and finally as Secretary, your influence has been very marked. We have relied upon your unvarying interest and your good judgment and have trusted you to discharge every duty undertaken to the very best of your ability.

We know your worth, we appreciate your work and we thank you for the help and inspiration you have been to us.

Your strong convictions, your clear thought, your unswerving allegiance to the right and your deep and sincere interest in the work of helping others to know and acknowledge Christ has won for you the respect and esteem of all with whom you have come in contact, and while we gladly acknowledge our indebtedness to you we know there are many others, both here and in other places, who would so willingly join with us if they could.

When you were appointed Secretary we all felt that you were just the person for the place and the results have verified our judgment. You have adorned and magnified your office and have made the Rooms a centre of attraction and helpful influence, by which many have been benefitted.

After our long and close association we wish to still occupy a place in your thoughts occasionally, and as a slight mark of our esteem and affection we ask you to accept the accompanying desk, which we hope will prove useful to you and will often remind you of your friends in the Senior and Intermediate Societies of Bridge St. Church.

We are very sorry to lose you, but we trust the new life upon which you are entering will be a most happy and beneficent one.

Signed on behalf of the Leagues, Committee—Maud Elvins, Florence A. Lazier, Angus F. Pringle.

Mr. J. T. Burns, Mr. G. F. Stewart, Prof. E. R. Doxsee, Dr. M. J. Clarke, Mr. G. Thompson, Mr. R. C. Chown, Mr. Ridley, Mr. C. Byam, Mr. R. L. Lazier, Mr. J. G. Frost, Mrs. J. A. Campion, Mrs. C. Elvins, Intermediate League, Miss F. A. Lazier, Miss L. Holton, Mr. C. P. Holton, Miss A. Morton, Miss I. Ridley, Miss E. Kingston, Miss M. Crothers, Miss M. Elvins, Miss Wright, Miss Maud Crothers, Miss Branscombe, Miss Muriel Crothers, Miss S. Morton, Miss Winter, Miss G. Ridley, Dr. E. Embury, Mrs. J. Marsh, Miss Emerson, Mr. J. Arends.

An interesting feature of the day is that it is thirty-five years to-day since Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson were wedded in this city.

Mrs. Howard has won hosts of friends since her childhood, and Mr. Howard during his two months' residence here where he acceptably supplied the pulpit of Bridge St. Church during the absence of the Rev. Dr. Crothers at the Ecumenical Conference of Methodists in London, England, made many acquaintances. With these The Intelligencer joins in congratulations and anticipates that the union consummated to-day will prove a blessing to the different churches they may be appointed to.

Thoroughness.

Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, states that "Sunlight Soap has "a thorough cleansing power, with-"out danger to the clothing or skin." Women who want washing done thoroughly cannot use better than Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar. Unlike common soaps, there is no damage to the clothing, and no danger to the skin; hence the saying: Sunlight Soap reduces expense. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will see that Prof. Ellis is right. He should know. 218

CONVICTS SEEK DEATH

SIBERIAN PRISONERS PREFER STARVATION TO SUCH LIFE.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 27.—The convicts in the Siberian convict settlement have gone on a strike. They will refuse all food until they are more humanely treated. These convicts are all educated men sentenced for political offences. They are heavily chained and seldom see the light of day.

The sick are allowed to die untended among the others, and sometimes the dead are allowed to rot in their crowded cells. Desperate revolts have been quelled with much bloodshed. The convicts, according to the latest advices, persist in their self-starvation, and many have died.

DEATH OF MR. SMALLFIELD.

AN OLD MADOC JOURNALIST PASSES AWAY.

Mr. Smallfield, formerly of Madoc, whom many of our readers will remember, died at his residence in Renfrew a few days ago. Mr. Smallfield was an Englishman by birth, emigrated to the United States and obtained employment on the New York Journal of Commerce. Subsequently came to Canada and "took up" a free-grant on the Hastings road. Farming not being his forte, he returned to journalism, and about 30 years ago commenced the publication of a newspaper in Madoc, at which time the Richardson gold mine had been discovered and was then the centre of a rich mineral and developing country. It was seeking railway connection with the front, and Mr. Smallfield accompanied a deputation to Kingston in advocacy of a line with wooden rails. That scheme was dropped and replaced with an agitation for the Grand Junction Railway. Soon after he removed to Renfrew, where he established the Mercury, a Liberal journal, which he continued to publish until his death. Mr. Smallfield was respected by all who knew him.

Mr. Prefontaine's Weakness

Mr. Prefontaine in his first speech in the Maisonneuve campaign seems on the main issue before the voters to have been hampered by a recollection of what happened to Mr. Tarte. He is credited with being a protectionist, and it can be believed that he will use his influence in his party to maintain in the tariff such protection as is necessary to the safety and development of Canadian industry. That might be satisfactory in the case of Mr. Prefontaine, the candidate for Parliament; it is hardly what is looked for from the Minister seeking the approval of his constituents. After having accepted a place in the Government. There are two things especially which make it important that there should be an explicit declaration from the new Minister as to the policy of the Government he belongs to and defends. At the last session of Parliament the speech on the Ministerial side which created most Liberal enthusiasm and provoked most general praise in the Liberal press was that of Sir Richard Cartwright in condemnation of the principle and idea of protection. Mr. Tarte was dismissed from his place in the Government last month because in his speeches throughout the country he advocated protection for home industries and a policy of Canada for the Canadians. The issue which Sir Richard Cartwright's speech and Mr. Tarte's dismissal raised is not met by Mr. Prefontaine's pointing to the tariff of 1897 as the indication of what the Government will do. The tariff of 1897 has been described by its makers as an instalment of free trade, a step towards the elimination of every vestige of protection from the customs schedules. Mr. Fielding, who has directly most to do with the shaping of the tariff, has warned men whose capital is invested in industrial works that constant vigilance is the price of their safety. Something more than a declaration of personal good will towards protection is called for from a man who seeks approval on entering the Ministry under such circumstances. It is all that Mr. Prefontaine gives. Those who believe in protection as a principle, the maintenance of which in the tariff is in the interest of Canada's industrial and commercial strength, in times of trade activity as during periods of depression, can best emphasize their views, by voting in Maisonneuve for the Opposition candidate, Mr. Labelle, about whose stand there is neither doubt nor dodging.—Montreal Gazette.

THE CAUSE OF DEAFNESS.

Deafness and impaired hearing are due almost entirely to catarrhal inflammation of the eustachian tubes. Permanent cure is guaranteed to all who inhale Catarrhozone as directed. This vegetable antiseptic is inhaled at the mouth, and after traversing all the air passages of the respiratory organs, is exhaled through the nostrils; it completely eradicates catarrh from any part of the system, clears the ears, nose and throat, and allays inflammation, congestion and soreness. For deafness, earache, ringing in the ears, head noises, catarrh, asthma and bronchitis, medical science can devise nothing as beneficial as Catarrhozone. RHEUMATISM.

Some of the most valuable discoveries in medicine had their origin in remote countries among strange people. Quinine came to us from the Indians of Peru; opium from the barbarous races of Asia, and cod liver oil was given to us by ignorant whalers who, because it softened leather, thought it would soften joints stiffened by rheumatism. They were right. It only remained for science to work out the idea, and today cod liver oil is one of the best-known remedies for the treatment of chronic rheumatism. As early as 1754 cod liver oil was recognized as a cure for rheumatism, and a few years later it was found that the same remedy could be used for the cure of skin diseases due to this complaint.

The first step in the cure of rheumatism is to supply the blood with nourishment and to make up the deficiency in red blood corpuscles. These corpuscles convey oxygen to the various tissues in the body and play a very important part in the process of combustion which is constantly going on within the body and which is called the "fires of life." Cod liver oil is an excellent fuel for these fires and they burn more brightly when supplied with it.

The faster the blood is made rich and plentiful in red corpuscles the sooner the rheumatism is driven from the system. In Scott's Emulsion the full value of cod liver oil is combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, and, being perfectly emulsified, is best suited for the treatment of rheumatism where everything depends upon nourishing the blood quickly and effectually.

Scott's Emulsion differs from any other preparation in that it passes into the system without tax on any of the organs with which it comes in contact. By reason of its immediate action it is enabled to make rich blood faster than disease can consume it, hence it is not long before sufficient headway is gained to drive out the trouble and restore the body to a normal condition. It is in this way that Scott's Emulsion disposes of rheumatism and rids the body of the lingering symptoms that so often threaten a return of the disorder.

So-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil are worthless as they do not contain the value of the whole cod liver oil and hence cannot furnish the desired benefits. Scott's Emulsion has been the standard cod liver oil preparation for over twenty-five years.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

MISS M. L. JOHNSON, BECOMES THE BRIDE OF REV. F. N. HOWARD.

Miss Minnie L. Johnson, oldest surviving daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson, of this city, was married in Bridge St. Methodist Church on the stroke of 10.45 this morning to the Rev. Fred H. Howard, S.T.L., of Havelock, Ont., by the groom's father, Rev. E. E. Howard, of Janetville, assisted by the Rev. W. J. Crothers, M.A. D.D., the bride's pastor, in the presence of a number of the relatives and friends of the families interested, and as the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, Professor V. P. Hunt played the Wedding March.

After the ceremony and the registration the happy couple received the congratulations of their relatives and their farewells, and immediately left for the G.T.R. station, and will arrive at Havelock this evening.

No invitations had been issued for the event and indeed everything was done to make it informal and unostentatious.

The tributes of affection which the bride received were numerous from this city and many places in Canada and the States. Chief amongst these was a salad bowl from the young ladies of the bride's class in Bridge St. Sunday School, and a Secretary from the Epworth Leagues. Accompanying it was the following address:

Dear Miss Johnson,—

Your fellow-members in the Epworth League feel that we cannot let you leave us without some expression of our regard for you and our appreciation of what your work among us has meant during the past few years.

From your first entrance into the League, through your career as private member working on committees, as Vice-president, President, and finally as Secretary, your influence has been very marked. We have relied upon your unvarying interest and your good judgment and have trusted you to discharge every duty undertaken to the very best of your ability.

We know your worth, we appreciate your work and we thank you for the help and inspiration you have been to us.

Your strong convictions, your clear thought, your unswerving allegiance to the right and your deep and sincere interest in the work of helping others to know and acknowledge Christ has won for you the respect and esteem of all with whom you have some in contact, and while we gladly acknowledge our indebtedness to you we know there are many others, both here and in other places, who would so willingly join with us if they could.

When you were appointed Secretary we all felt that you were just the person for the place and the results have verified our judgment. You have adorned and magnified your office and have made the Rooms a centre of attraction and helpful influence, by which many have been benefitted.

After our long and close association we wish to still occupy a place in your thoughts occasionally, and as a slight mark of our esteem and affection we ask you to accept the accompanying desk, which we hope will prove useful to you and will often remind you of your friends in the Senior and Intermediate Societies of Bridge St. Church.

We are very sorry to lose you, but we trust the new life upon which you are entering will be a most happy and beneficent one.

Signed on behalf of the Leagues, Committee—Maud Elvins, Florence A. Lazier, Angus F. Pringle.

Mr. J. T. Burns, Mr. G. F. Stewart, Prof. E. R. Doxsee, Dr. M. J. Clarke, Mr. G. Thompson, Mr. R. C. Chown, Mr. Ridley, Mr. G. Byam, Mr. R. L. Lazier, Mr. J. G. Frost, Mrs. J. A. Campion, Mrs. C. Elvins, Intermediate League, Miss F. A. Lazier, Miss L. Holton, Mr. C. P. Holton, Miss A. Morton, Miss I. Ridley, Miss E. Kingston, Miss M. Crothers, Miss M. Elvins, Miss Wright, Miss Maud Crothers, Miss Branscombe, Miss Muriel Crothers, Miss S. Morton, Miss Winter, Miss G. Ridley, Dr. E. Embury, Mrs. J. Marsh, Miss Emerson, Mr. J. Arends.

An interesting feature of the day is that it is thirty-five years to-day since Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson were wedded in this city.

Mrs. Howard has won hosts of friends since her childhood, and Mr. Howard during his two months' residence here where he acceptably supplied the pulpit of Bridge St. Church during the absence of the Rev. Dr. Crothers at the Ecumenical Conference of Methodists in London, England, made many acquaintances. With these The Intelligencer joins in congratulations and anticipates that the union consummated to-day will prove a blessing to the different churches they may be appointed to.

Thoroughness.

Prof. W. Hodgson Ellis, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, states that "Sunlight Soap has "a thorough cleansing power, with-"out danger to the clothing or skin." Women who want washing done thoroughly cannot use better than Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar. Unlike common soaps, there is no damage to the clothing, and no danger to the skin; hence the saying: Sunlight Soap reduces expense. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will see that Prof. Ellis is right. He should know. 218

CONVICTS SEEK DEATH

SIBERIAN PRISONERS PREFER STARVATION TO SUCH LIFE.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 27.—The convicts in the Siberian convict settlement have gone on a strike. They will refuse all food until they are more humanely treated. These convicts are all educated men sentenced for political offences. They are heavily chained and seldom see the light of day.

The sick are allowed to die untended among the others, and sometimes the dead are allowed to rot in their crowded cells. Desperate revolts have been quelled with much bloodshed. The convicts, according to the latest advices, persist in their self-starvation, and many have died.

DEATH OF MR. SMALLFIELD.

AN OLD MADOC JOURNALIST PASSES AWAY.

Mr. Smallfield, formerly of Madoc, whom many of our readers will remember, died at his residence in Renfrew a few days ago. Mr. Smallfield was an Englishman by birth, emigrated to the United States and obtained employment on the New York Journal of Commerce. Subsequently came to Canada and "took up" a free-grant on the Hastings road. Farming not being his forte, he returned to journalism, and about 30 years ago commenced the publication of a newspaper in Madoc, at which time the Richardson gold mine had been discovered and was then the centre of a rich mineral and developing country. It was seeking railway connection with the front, and Mr. Smallfield accompanied a deputation to Kingston in advocacy of a line with wooden rails. That scheme was dropped and replaced with an agitation for the Grand Junction Railway. Soon after he removed to Renfrew, where he established the Mercury, a Liberal journal, which he continued to publish until his death. Mr. Smallfield was respected by all who knew him.

Mr. Prefontaine's Weakness

Mr. Prefontaine in his first speech in the Maisonneuve campaign seems on the main issue before the voters to have been hampered by a recollection of what happened to Mr. Tarte. He is credited with being a protectionist, and it can be believed that he will use his influence in his party to maintain in the tariff such protection as is necessary to the safety and development of Canadian industry. That might be satisfactory in the case of Mr. Prefontaine, the candidate for Parliament; It is hardly what is looked for from the Minister seeking the approval of his constituents, after having accepted a place in the Government. There are two things especially which make it important that there should be an explicit declaration from the new Minister as to the policy of the Government he belongs to and defends. At the last session of Parliament the speech on the Ministerial side which created most Liberal enthusiasm and provoked most general praise in the Liberal press was that of Sir Richard Cartwright in condemnation of the principle and idea of protection. Mr. Tarte was dismissed from his place in the Government last month because in his speeches throughout the country he advocated protection for home industries and a policy of Canada for the Canadians. The issue which Sir Richard Cartwright's speech and Mr. Tarte's dismissal raised is not met by Mr. Prefontaine's pointing to the tariff of 1897 as the indication of what the Government will do. The tariff of 1897 has been described by its makers as an instalment of free trade, a step towards the elimination of every vestige of protection from the customs schedules. Mr. Fielding, who has directly most to do with the shaping of the tariff, has warned men whose capital is invested in industrial works that constant vigilance is the price of their safety. Something more than a declaration of personal good will towards protection is called for from a man who seeks approval on entering the Ministry under such circumstances. It is all that Mr. Prefontaine gives. Those who believe in protection as a principle, the maintenance of which in the tariff is in the interest of Canada's industrial and commercial strength, in times of trade activity as during periods of depression, can best emphasize their views, by voting in Maisonneuve for the Opposition candidate, Mr. Labelle, about whose stand there is neither doubt nor dodging.—Montreal Gazette.

THE CAUSE OF DEAFNESS.

Deafness and impaired hearing are due almost entirely to catarrhal inflammation of the eustachian tubes. Permanent cure is guaranteed to all who inhale Catarrhozone as directed. This vegetable antiseptic is inhaled at the mouth, and after traversing all the air passages of the respiratory organs, is exhaled through the nostrils; it completely eradicates catarrh from any part of the system, clears the ears, nose and throat, and allays inflammation, congestion and soreness. For deafness, earache, ringing in the ears, head noises, catarrh, asthma and bronchitis, medical science can devise nothing as beneficial as Catarrhozone. MISSING STEAMER.

THE BANNOCKBURN GIVEN UP FOR LOST.

CREW BELONGED TO KINGSTON AND PORT DALHOUSIE.

SIGHTED IN LAKE SUPERIOR ON NOVEMBER 21.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Marine underwriters are inclined to give up the Canadian steamer Bannockburn up for lost on Lake Superior. It was reported to them that the steamer was passed last Friday by the steamer Algonquin about 50 miles southeast of Passage Island and northeast of Keeweenaw Point. That would bring the Bannockburn well out into Lake Superior and right in the track of vessels. Since that time nothing has been heard of her. It is supposed the steamer stranded on Caribou Island.

Kingston, Nov. 28.—Mr. Henderson of the M. T. Co. was asked if any word had been received regarding the whereabouts of the steamer Bannockburn. He replied: "I am very sorry to say that as yet no word has been received, but we are in hopes that we will soon receive some news." The steamer in question is now five days past due, and great anxiety is felt for her in marine circles.

The crew of the missing M. T. Co.'s steamship Bannockburn consists of the following: Captain, George R. Wood, Port Dalhousie; First Mate, Alexander Graham, Port Dalhousie; Second Mate, William Chockley, Kingston; Wheelsmen, Arthur Callaghan and E. Rodway, Kingston; Watchmen, George Gillespie, Kingston, and another Kingstonian whose name is at present unknown; Chief Engineer, Charles Selby, Kingston; Oiler, Cecil Linton, Kingston. The firemen, deck hands and cooks are mostly from the Welland Canal, and there is no record of their names at the local office of the company.

NO TARIFF CHANGES.

SENATOR HALE SAYS THE DINGLEY ACT WILL STAND.

No Emasculation or Reform of the Present Tariff in Any Shape Will Carry.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Senator Hale, who was interviewed here, after a conference with President Roosevelt, said:—"The Dingley act has given the people of the United States more revenue, more business, more trade, and more prosperity than any bill ever enacted. The people understand this, and the late elections show that, with certain exceptions, entire content exists under present conditions. It would be the height of folly now to try to disturb these conditions. The free traders, including almost all the Democratic leaders, and the uneasy, weak-kneed Republicans who are howling for revision and reciprocity, would do well to take notice of what will happen provided they get their way. It is absolutely safe to say that no tariff revision can take place except at the end of a long session, after a bitter and protracted fight, which, in itself, will disturb nearly all and destroy some of our institutions. Unless the Republican party has lost heart and faith in its fundamental policies there will be no meddling with and no emasculation of the present tariff, whether under the guise of reciprocity or reform. In the long future if a general revision is demanded the Republican party will not be afraid to undertake it."

KINGSTON.

Died on a Train—Wildcats Coming Out of Their Haunts.

Kingston, Nov. 28.—Lawrence Rielly, going from Chicago to Montreal, died on the G. T. R. train as it was leaving Napanee at noon. He was a consumptive. Mr. Corbett, undertaker of this city, has charge of the remains.

A wildcat has recently been seen on the farms of Messrs. McAder and Burke, seven miles northeast of the city. Efforts made to capture it have so far proved unsuccessful. A couple of weeks ago a large one was shot in Breden's bush, north of the penitentiary farm. It is supposed that these animals are chased out of their haunts in the back woods by dogs taken there to track deer.

Laval Students' Banquet.

Quebec, Nov. 27.—The banquet given to-night at the St. Louis Hotel by the Laval students of law was quite a brilliant function. It was presided over by Mr. Jos. Sirois, and among the invited guests were: Lieut.-Governor Sir A. Jette; Mgr. Laflamme, representing the Rector of Laval University; Hon. Chas. Fitzpatrick; Hon. Mr. Bernier, Minister of Inland Revenue; Hon. Mr. Carroll, Solicitor General; Hon. J. I. Tarte, Sir A. Pelletier, Senator P. Landry; Hon. A. Robitaille, Provincial Secretary; Hon. L. Archambault, Attorney General; Hon. L. P. Pelletier, E. J. Flynn, Hon. Chas. Langelier, Judges F. Langelier and Choquette.

JUNCTION SHOOTING CASE.

THE MAGISTRATE TAKES EVIDENCE IN MUTART'S ROOMS.

He Was Too Ill to Appear in Court—Mutart Fails to Identify Bremner as His Assailant—The Prisoner Remanded a Week.

Toronto Junction, Nov. 29.—The trial of Harry Bremner, the man with many aliases, attracted a big crowd to the Junction Police Court yesterday. There was some disappointment when it was found that Mr. Mutart, the wounded man, who is still too ill to attend court, and also when Magistrate Ellis ruled out the questions bearing on the "crap" game.

Mr. Mutart was too ill to attend court, so the Magistrate adjourned to his apartments in the Thompson building in company with the counsel for the Crown and the defence, and the prisoner in charge of the officers. Mutart failed to identify him. The remainder of Mutart's evidence was very similar to that of Shaw. Mr. Godfrey put the prisoner into the box, and he told an interesting story. He said he was accompanied by two men, one named Arthur Freeman and another named Williams. They were upstairs in the room and saw the game in progress, but when the shooting occurred he was across the street, and he supposed it was either Freeman or Williams did the shooting. The Magistrate remanded the prisoner for a week.

Toronto's City Coal Sales.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Five hundred and fifty tons of Welsh coal were sold at the City Hall yesterday, besides sales at the four municipal fuel yards, which will not be reported till this morning. The rush for the new coal was so great that at five minutes past 9 yesterday morning the treasury office was crowded, and there was a constant stream of purchasers all day. The receipts for the day will considerably exceed $6,000. Commissioner Jones said he could not now promise delivery before Thursday.

Another barge, the Bothnia, arrived yesterday, with Welsh coal, and two barges, the Glengarry and the Hamilton, arrived with Scotch coal. They will unload at the city and waterworks docks. The Aberdeen, with 200 tons of Welsh coal, is expected to-day, and will unload at Dufferin street.

STORMY TIME OVER TARIFF BILL DISCUSSION.

One Member Hurled Down the Steps of the Tribune—Sitting Had to be Suspended.

Berlin, Nov. 29.—The stormy scenes which were enacted Thursday were renewed in the Reichstag and at one point in the proceedings the uproar reached such a pitch that Vice-President Buesing, who was in the chair, had to resort to a suspension of the sitting, a measure without precedent in the Reichstag. The House was discussing the motion of Baron Von Kardorff, representing the majority parties, to vote the second reading of the tariff bill as a whole, without a paragraph discussion, as contemplated by the rules. The minority would thus be unable to long delay the final vote, and were furiously indignant at what they called a "Parliamentary coup d'etat," and the complete suppression of the rights of the minority. After a quiet afternoon Dr. Bachem, Centre party, took the tribune, and, describing the dilatory tactics of the Opposition, said that the Freisinnige Vereinigung and the Moderate Radicals were doing hod-carriers' service for the Socialists, adding:—"If you only knew what has been recently said about this alliance——" Herr Bachem left the sentence unfinished, and the Socialists shouted, "Out with it; name your man."

Ulrich, Baudert and other members of the Socialist party rushed up the steps of the Speaker's tribune, shouting and gesticulating violently. Gothein, Radical, standing at the top of the steps of the tribune, tried to keep the Socialists back. He was hurled down the steps, and his voice and the vigorous ringing of the President's bell were drowned in the tumult. The Socialist member Reisshaus renewed the demand that Bachem should complete his sentence. The speaker was twice called to order, but after some minutes of disorder Vice-President Buessing succeeded in quieting the uproar sufficiently to say, "No member can be compelled to say what he does not want to say." Thereupon the tumult was renewed, and the members of the Socialist party again stormed the President's tribune, wildly shouting. Some among them, addressing Herr Bachem, cried, "You rascal, you dog."

Vice-President Buessing, finding himself powerless in face of the howling cyclone, suspended the session for half an hour.

BANNOCKBURN ASHORE.

THE CREW OF THE STEAMER REPORTED SAFE.

Probably Beached On or Near Michipicoten Island—News Relieves Great Anxiety at Kingston.

Kingston, Nov. 29.—Yesterday Mr. L. L. Henderson, inside Manager of of the Montreal Transportation Company, received this telephone message from the Underwriters' Association, Chicago:—"The steamer Bannockburn has been located on the north shore of Lake Superior, opposite Michipicoten Island. Crew safe."

This message was a great relief to the relatives and friends of the crew. The Bannockburn must have run about fifty miles off her course to get to the point indicated on the north shore of Lake Superior. The spot is about 150 miles west of the "Soo," and far away from telegraphic communication. The crew simply had to wait till they were discovered by searching tugs.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—The Department of Customs received a telegram stating that the missing steamer Bannockburn had gone ashore on Michipicoten Island. This island is off the mouth of the Michipicoten River, on the northeast shore of Lake Superior, and is about ten or twelve hours journey from Sault Ste. Marie. The Bannockburn has 100,000 bushels of wheat, owned by Montreal parties. A wrecking outfit will be sent to the spot.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—It is not believed that the steamer Bannockburn is ashore on the mainland north of Michipicoten Island, despite rumors to the contrary. It is reported from Sault Ste. Marie that during the week the weather has been fine, and there was nothing to prevent a sailing boat from making the trip from the island to the Sault, to say nothing of the trip to Michipicoten harbor, which is about fifty miles in an air line from the main land north of the west end of the island. With the vessel on the shore there and no heavy sea running it would be an easy matter for some of the crew to make their way to the shore, and then on foot to the harbor, in two days at the most. There is a telegraph station at Michipicoten harbor, and it is reported from there that nothing has been heard of the Bannockburn. The insurance companies ordered the wrecking tug Favorite from Cheboygan to the reported scene of the wreck. A despatch sent out from this city by George L. McCurdy, an insurance man, was made on the early reports of the vessel being ashore, and Mr. McCurdy declared this evening that he had no positive information.

CHANGE OF CLIMATE

NOT NECESSARY IN ORDER TO CURE CATARRH.

The popular idea that the only cure for chronic catarrh is a change of climate is a mistake, because catarrh is found in all climates, in all sections of the country; and even if a change of climate should benefit for a time the catarrh will certainly return.

Catarrh may be readily cured in any climate, but the only way to do it is to destroy or remove from the system the catarrhal germs, which cause all the mischief.

The treatment by inhalers, sprays, powders and washes has been proven almost useless in making a permanent cure, as they do not reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and can be reached only by an internal remedy which acts through the stomach upon the blood and system generally.

A new discovery which is meeting with remarkable success in curing catarrh of the head, throat and bronchial tubes, and also catarrh of the stomach, is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

These tablets, which are pleasant and harmless to take, owe their efficiency to the active medicinal principles of Blood Root, Red Gum and a new specific called Guaicol, which together with valuable antiseptics, are combined in convenient, palatable tablet form, and as valuable for children as for adults.

Mr. A. R. Fernbank, of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so many winters from catarrh that I took it as a matter of course, and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate, which my business affairs would not permit me to take.

"My nostrils were almost always clogged up; I had to breathe through the mouth, causing an inflamed, irritated throat. The thought of eating breakfast often nauseated me, and the catarrh gradually getting into my stomach took away my appetite and digestion.

"My druggist advised me to try a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because he said he had so many customers who had been cured of catarrh by the use of these tablets that he felt he could honestly recommend them. I took his advice and used several boxes, with results that surprised and delighted me.

I always keep a box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in the house and the whole family use them freely on the first appearance of a cough or cold in the head.

"With our children we think there is nothing so safe and reliable as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets to ward off croup and colds, and with older people I have known of cases where the hearing had been seriously impaired by chronic catarrh cured entirely by this new remedy."

ARCHIE CAMPBELL SAFE.

ELECTION COURT DISMISSED THE PETITION.

Further Particulars in the South Oxford Protest—Charges Made That Liquor Was Furnished to Voters by the Respondent.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—No attempt was made by the Conservative petitioners yesterday to go on with the protest against the return of Archibald Campbell as M.P. for West York, and the petition was dismissed. A special election court was held at Osgoode Hall, Chancellor Boyd and Mr. Justice Britton presiding. When the case was called the counsel for the petitioners asked for its dismissal.

Chancellor Boyd asked if an investigation had been made, and it had been found desirable not to proceed with the case. Counsel for the petitioners replied that such was the position and asked that costs be not given against the petitioners. Mr. J. H. Moss, for the respondent, did not press for costs, so the petition was dismissed without costs.

Justices Street and Britton sat as a special election court to hear an application from the petitioners in the South Oxford election protest against D. Sutherland to add two more charges to the particulars. One charge was that D. Sutherland, through Stephen King of Ingersoll, supplied refreshments to Allen Bremner, a merchant of Oxford Township, and to Andrew Holland, a laborer of West Oxford, and to others whose names were not known.

The second charge set forth that shortly before the election at a meeting held at Verschoyle, Sutherland and King furnished refreshments at their own expense or at the expense of E. C. Corbett to M. Romayne, George Wilson, E. C. Corbett, Bert Harhielt and S. Moulton of Dereham Township, and that the liquor was given in the presence of Sutherland.

The court granted the application to add these charges, it being understood between the parties that if at the trial the respondent was not ready to answer them he should be given further time to do so.

Pope Recommends Great Attention to the School Question.

Rome, Nov. 29.—The Vatican's instructions to Mgr. Judgment has been reserved in six charges in the Lennox election trial at Napanee, all the others being dropped or dismissed.

HOW GRIT CANDIDATES ARE GOT OUT OF THE WAY.

Every day we have some new development of crooked work on the part of the leaders of the Grit-Rouge party. It will be remembered that an election was held in December last in the County of Laval, in the Province of Quebec, and that a Mr. Armand announced himself as a resident candidate, in the Liberal interests, against a Montrealer, who had received the party nomination, and avowed his determination to remain in the field against all comers, having, as he declared, the promised support of electors of both parties. This was likely to create a split in the Rouge party, hence the then Minister of Public Works, who declared "that elections were not carried with prayer alone," visited the county, and after an interview with Armand, he (Armand) retired from the contest. Subsequently a farmer named Archambault accused Armand before the church door in the parish where both reside, of having been "greased" to retire, and leave the field to the regular nominee of the party. This did not please the virtuous Armand, so he brought an action against Archambault, claiming $500 as a salve to heal his wounded reputation. Defendant pleaded that the charge was common comment in the county, and that Armand had stated to one Therrion and his wife that he had been indemnified for his retirement, and that he was to obtain a position at Quebec for his devotion to the Liberal cause in leaving a free field to Mr Wilson, the Liberal candidate.

The court held that by becoming a candidate and addressing public meetings as such the plaintiff had subjected himself to the criticism which a public man must expect. It remained to show that the charge made was true. If true, it was evidently in the public interest that it should be known. The plaintiff denied the statement that he was to get a job at Quebec for having retired. He admitted, however, that he had said he would be indemnified for his expenses in the campaign against Mr. Wilson, the Liberal candidate.

Therrion, a witness for the defence, swore positively to the statement, although he admitted that he had entrapped Armand into making such a declaration. There was also the evidence of his wife. She had to be examined by a commission as she lay ill, and she there declared that she had received the last rites of the church, and did not expect to recover. Her evidence, taken under such circumstances, could not, remarked the judge, fail to carry great weight with the court, as she corroborated her husband in every particular. The court, therefore, held that the charge made was substantially true, and in the public interest, and therefore plaintiff could recover no damages.

Every one having any regard for purity of elections will pronounce Judge Curran's judgment a righteous one.

Query. Tarte being out of office, will Armand get his reward? Whether he does or not, this is further evidence of the buying and selling of men by the powers that were. And are.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Nearly every exchange upon our table contains declarations from persons interested in the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canada Northern Pacific Railways, that there are no negotiations nor intentions of these two schemes uniting. A sure sign that something is in the wind, leading to a union.

The temperance people have distributed about a ton of literature during the present campaign. They evidently believe that the pen is mightier than the bar-room.

Goodness, how time does fly! It only seems like yesterday since the Council were talking about who should clean the snow from the sidewalks in front of vacant property, and there they were at it again last night.

From what we hear, it is not likely the recommendation of the School Management Committee, that the Christmas promotion examinations be not abolished, will be passed by the Board of Education when that body next meets. The more progressive members of the Board think that the unanimous opinion of upwards of twenty practical men and women should weigh more than that of a few gentlemen who work on theories which prevailed in a bygone age. A few new ideas are needed in the Board of Education. Perhaps they will only come with new faces.

* * *

The following article, which we copy from a Halifax paper, makes interesting reading just now:

Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, and Lord Aylmer, Adjutant-General of Militia forces of Canada, arrived in Halifax this morning. Lord Aylmer and Lieut.-Col. Irving, D.O.C.M.D. 9, had a conference this morning concerning militia matters. It is understood that the recent disbandment of the 3rd Batt. Royal Canadian Regt. was one of the matters discussed. It is stated that the visit of Sir Frederick Borden and Lord Aylmer is principally in connection with the proposition of the Imperial authorities to have the defences of Halifax and Esquimault maintained by the Dominion. This afternoon Sir Frederick Borden and Lord Aylmer also consulted with Sir Charles Parsons, K.C.M.G., commander-in-chief of the Imperial forces of Canada, in connection with this matter. Deputy Minister of Militia Col. Pinault has gone to Esquimault at the instance of the Minister of Militia.

It would appear from the above that the Dominion and Imperial authorities, after mustering out the 3rd Batt. of the Royal Canadians, had discovered that there was still work for them to do. Surely an intelligent way of doing business—discharge the men with hardly any notice and with only the clothes they had on their backs, and then repent of it at leisure! If the defences of Halifax and Esquimault are to be maintained by the Dominion it was poor policy to discharge a well-drilled, seasoned regiment and take chances on organizing a new one, which must of necessity take a long time and may never attain the efficiency of the one recruited when the war fever was on the land.

One Penney

Will Aid a Sick Friend

Will You Spend It?

Write me a postal card to tell me who needs help. Tell me the book to send. That trifle is your part—all the rest is mine. Write it to-day.

I will even do this:—I will mail the sick one an order—good at any drug store—for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds, the costs is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

Could I meet you I would forever convince you that I have what these sick ones need. More than that, they must have it, for most of them can never get well without it. I would overwhelm you with evidence.

But I can meet only a few, so I say to all who need help: "Try my Restorative one month at my risk. Learn by a test just what it can do. If it succeeds, you are well. If it fails, it is free." I know that no sick one can neglect an offer like that.

I fail sometimes, but not often. In rare cases, there is a cause—like cancer—which medicine cannot cure. But I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands on these terms, and 39 out of each 40 have gladly paid, because they got well. I am willing to trust the sick ones to be fair with me.

It is a remarkable remedy that can stand a test like that. It is my discovery, and I spent a lifetime on it. My Restorative is the only remedy that strengthens the inside nerves. Those nerves alone operate every vital organ of the body. When an organ is weak it means that its nerve power is weak. It is like an engine that needs more steam. To doctor the organ is useless. The weak organ will do its duty when given the power to act, and no other way can cure it.

My success comes from the fact that my remedy always restores that nerve power. My book will explain it. Please write me to-day who needs it.

Simply state which book you want, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 69, Racine, Wis.

Book No. 1 on Dyspepsia.
Book No. 2 on the Heart.
Book No. 3 on the Kidneys.
Book No. 4 for Women.
Book No. 5 for Men (sealed)

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is sold by all druggists.

Skin diseases in many cases may need the "inward" application to remove the taint from the blood.

But many a once handsome countenance is "scarred for life" for lack of using such a healing agent as Dr. Agnew's Ointment. Only needs a few applications of this magic healer to any skin disease to clear away all signs of outward disorder and leave the affected part as smooth and soft as an infant's cheek. 30

THE REFERENDUM VOTE

MR. MIKEL STATES HIS VIEWS ON THE LIQUOR ACT OF 1902.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—I was asked to speak at the opera house meeting Wednesday evening in favor of the Liquor Act 1902, Part II., commonly known as the referendum, but after giving consideration to the Act, I found it impossible to conscientiously support it, and therefore took no part in the meeting, and I feel it my duty to give some of the matters that influenced my conclusion.

We have a License Act that contains some very good provisions along the lines of prohibition;—

It prohibits selling liquor to a person under 21 years of age or apparently under 21 years of age.

It prohibits allowing persons under 21 years of age or apparently under 21 years of age in a bar room.

It prohibits allowing persons to become intoxicated on licensed premises.

It prohibits selling liquor to intoxicated persons.

It prohibits allowing intoxicated persons to consume liquor on licensed premises.

It prohibits selling liquor on Saturday evenings or Sundays, and at night time and on certain other occasions.

It prohibits selling liquor on any but licensed premises.

The Magistrate can prohibit the sale of liquor to a drunkard appearing before him.

The relatives of a person who has the habit of drinking can prohibit the giving of liquor to such person.

License may be forfeited on conviction for any wilful offence, or on three convictions for any offences.

The Council, with assent of the electors, can prohibit the sale of liquor in hotels and elsewhere in the municipality.

There are also a number of civil remedies provided.

Any one can prosecute.

If these prohibitions were enforced it would leave very little to be desired in the way of prohibition, so far as legislation goes, short of the total prohibition of the manufacture and importation of liquor, a thing the referendum does not seek to do.

All temperance people agree that this Act has not proved satisfactory. Why? Simply because the Government and its officials have not been able or have not been willing to enforce these excellent provisions.

Yet, those who are supporting the referendum expect, if it is carried, that this same Government and the same class of officials—in most cases, no doubt, the same officials—will enforce this Act.

If they could not or would not enforce the one, is it reasonable to expect they can or will enforce the other.

The Liquor License Act now in force was adopted by the whole Government as its policy. The Government assumed full responsibility for the License Act and its enforcement.

The Liquor Act of 1902, Part II., is not the Government policy. The Government did not assume responsibility for it, but put the responsibility entirely off their shoulders and on to the people. It is stated that some members of the Government, as well as many of the Government supporters in the House will vote against the Act.

And yet this same Government, which does not assume responsibility for the Act, and some members and supporters of which are said to be opposed to the Act, are expected to enforce it.

The revenue derived by the Government and the municipality from licenses and paid by the license holders unites the financial interest of the Government, the municipality and the license holders against the unlicensed liquor seller, still we have them among us.

This financial interest would disappear if the referendum carried and with these restraining influences removed, it is not too much to say that in a short time there would be a hundred places where liquor could be got in this city, and who would stop it? The Government and its officials who do not now stop it, and who do not stop Sunday selling, and who do not stop drunkenness, and who do not stop sale to minors? Or the temperance people who now stand calmly by and see the present law violated?

As already stated, under our present law, the City Council may shut up all the hotels with the approval of the electors.

Why is this not done?

Is it because the temperance people do not wish to bother about it, or is it because the electors will not consent? In either case the sentiment indicated is not very strongly prohibitive.

Weak and inefficient as this provision of shutting up the hotels under our present system is, faulty as the Scott Act is, either of them is better than the proposed Act, because their coming into effect depends on the sentiment in each particular locality. If that sentiment is strong enough to carry it by a large majority, there is some chance of enforcement. Under the proposed Act, the sentiment and votes in a particular locality may be strongly against the Act and yet it may come into force there by reason of the votes of voters in some other locality?

As intimated by the Hon. G. W. Ross, when introducing the Act (See report in Globe, Feb. 13, 1902), the question of compensation will come up if the Act is accepted by the people. And he mentioned that it had been stated that $70,000,000 were concerned in the traffic and the amount to be paid as compensation would be settled by a commission. He also stated that he had on various occasions expressed himself as favoring compensation. So that compensation is the handmaiden of the Act. Many people will no doubt be of opinion that this province is not in a position to shoulder so large a burden and stand the loss of so much revenue from the licenses, especially when temperance is getting a return of so shadowy a nature.

At a meeting in support of this Act held in Toronto a few evenings ago, one of the speakers complained of the indifference of the Christian people of the province towards the Act. Now, the Christian people of the province are not an indifferent class. They are active, energetic working Christians. But after reflecting upon the effect of the Act one is not surprised at this indifference.

The Westminster Magazine says, not a few earnest temperance people do not care greatly for such a measure, and it certainly is not to be wondered at:

Prohibition is coming, but it would be a grave mistake to have it before the sentiment is ripe for it.

One class of individuals in the country may be ripe for prohibition, but the people of the country certainly are not.

When we put our hand to the plough of prohibition in this country, let there be no turning back. Let there be no rushing to it by the short cut of legislation, soothing ourselves with the false notion that all we have to do is to get an Act passed. Fifty years ago the Prohibitionists of the State of Vermont did this, and this fall, after taking fifty years to find out their mistake, the majority of the people of the State voted against prohibition.

Belleville, Nov. 29, 1902.

W. C. MIKEL.

WHEN OTHERS FAIL
WE CURE CANCER
THE NEW CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY EFFECTUAL AFTER OTHER FORMS OF TREATMENT HAVE PROVED OF NO AVAIL.
The statement made above may be considered a bold one, but the record of cures of cases we possess establishes the accuracy of it beyond all question.
Our New Constitutional Treatment has cured cases after surgical operation has failed—has eradicated the disease, root and branch after it had come back when drawn out by plasters. Could any test of the curative action of a remedy be more conclusive?
Full particulars of many cases illustrative of these statements are to be found in our book "Cancer, Its Cause and Cure," which will be sent to any one on receipt of two stamps. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

The Bible and Law.

A certain well known lawyer, whose wife is almost an invalid, is telling a story which illustrates the often pointed, if unconscious, wit of the darky.

On one occasion, it seems, his wife was suffering intensely from a nervous headache and, thinking, perhaps, his voice might soothe her to sleep, asked him to read aloud to her, which he did as the colored maid went back and forth about the room setting things in order for the night.

Presently the maid quietly withdrew to the kitchen below, where the old cook, Aunt Phyllis, was making ready to lock up and depart.

"Mr. Alex sho' is a good man," said the maid, beginning. "He settin' up dar readin' de Bible to Miss Alice, an' she sick."

"Go on, chile," answered Aunt Phyllis; "don' yo' know Mr. Alex ain' readin' no Bible? He's a lawyer!"

Lived Up to Her Name.

Apropos of the eternal domestic question, an Englishwoman relates this experience: "I engaged a maid named Pearl, and as I simply couldn't ask a Pearl to fill the coal scuttle or to holystone the doorstep, I said: 'I would rather call you by some other name. Have you a second one?' 'Yes,' replied the damsel brightly, 'my second name is Opal.' So I stuck to Pearl. At one time I all but engaged a maid named Hermione, but upon asking her, 'Have you a black dress, white caps and aprons?' she replied acidly: 'Yes, I have; but I'm not going to wear 'em. Ma didn't christen me 'Ermione for to wear a livery.'"

The Wonderful Toad Bone.

All early writers attribute wonderful qualities to toads and frogs and the various parts of their bodies. Pliny believed, for instance, that if a toad was brought into the midst of a mob or other large and unruly concourse of people "silence would instantly prevail." A small bone found in the right side of toads "of the proper age" was also believed to have powers over the various elements. "By throwing this bone into a vessel of boiling water," says Pliny, "it will immediately cool it, the water refusing to boil again until the bone has been removed. To find this bone, expose the dead toad on an ant hill. When the facts have eaten her all away except the bones, take each bone separately and drop it into boiling water. Thus may the wondrous toad bone be discovered."

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes: "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Most young men get a lot of rye mixed with their wild oats.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes: "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

To-morrow will be St. Andrew's Day, and here's a health to Bonnie Scotland and the sonsie lassies and braw men who claim Auld Scotia as their birthplace. THINKS TALK IS CHEAP.

(Picton Gazette.)

It is all very well for Premier Ross to discourse with eloquent vehemence upon the courage and patriotism of those veterans who shed their blood in defence of Canada in 1812-14. That is all right they deserve the thanks of the Canadian people, for they fought with undaunted valor for their homes and firesides. But the contingent who fought for Canada during the Riel rebellion, and underwent almost untold hardships in their efforts to reach the scene of the disturbances in the North-West; and those others who fought in 1866—who left their homes to combat the horde of cut-throat Fenians — have not yet been rewarded. It is certainly too bad that after thirty-six years they have not yet even received their certificates for their land grants. There is evidently a screw loose somewhere.

A DISEASE THAT OFTEN TERMINATES FATALLY.

Mr. L. Lussier, of Sorel, Tells How He Overcame the Trouble After Repeated Failures.

There is no trouble more dangerous to life than disease of the kidneys, for the reason that before any special symptoms have made themselves manifest, the disease has usually assumed a formidable character. The symptoms that first manifest themselves are usually weakness in the small of the back, pains in the region of the loins. The urine is sometimes highly colored, while in other cases it is extremely pale, frequently depositing a sediment. As the trouble progresses these symptoms grow more severe and frequently terminate in dropsy, Bright's disease or diabetes. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles, and have cured many cases after all other medicines have failed. Mr. L. Lussier, a well known navigator of Sorel, Que., gives his experience for the benefit of other sufferers. He says; "For several years I suffered very much from kidney trouble. The symptoms usually made themselves manifest by severe pains in the back, and kidneys, and sometimes they would be so bad that I would be confined to my bed for several days at a time. I tried a number of different medicines recommended for the trouble, but got no relief, and finally became so discouraged that I thought a cure was impossible, and stopped taking medicine. Shortly after this I read in our local paper of a case of kidney trouble cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and this induced me to try this medicine. I soon felt that these pills were not like the other medicines I had been taking, for in the course of a few weeks I began to experience great relief. I continued taking the pills for a couple of months, by which time all symptoms of the trouble had disappeared, and I have not since had the slightest return of the disease. These pills also strengthened me in other ways and I believe them to be the best of all medicines."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich and nourish the blood and strengthen the nerves. It is thus that they cure such troubles as dyspepsia, kidney ailments, rheumatism, partial paralysis, heart troubles, St. Vitus' dance and the ailments that make the lives of so many women a source of misery. Do not take any pills without the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around the box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Died Near Melrose

A fine old Irish gentleman died at his late home, near Melrose, last Tuesday in the person of John Skelly, who passed away after a long illness. He was born in Ireland, 80 years ago, was a staunch Conservative, and was much respected by all who knew him. The funeral took place on Friday.

OIL MATTERS AT MELROSE

DRILLING MAY NOT BE RESUMED FOR SOME LITTLE TIME.

The latest news from the Melrose oil well is to the effect that the party who had been engaged to go on with the drilling has not yet got through with his present contract at Utica, N.Y., but will, as soon as that is completed, come on and vigorously prosecute the work at Melrose. Mr. Rosenzi and the other promoters are just as confident that oil will be found as ever they were.

ALMOST A MURDER AT BRIDGEWATER

Albert Scalping Reported to Have Been Dangerously Wounded Last Night

His Alleged Assailant one James Oliver, who Came Here Afterwards

A report reached the city this morning of a shooting affray which occurred last evening near the village of Bridgewater, in the Township of Elzevir, but the particulars are meagre.

The party shot is Albert Scalping and the man who it is alleged did the shooting goes by the name of James Oliver.

County Constable A. Wilson, of Tweed, telephoned the police here at 7.30 this morning of the affair, and stated that Scalping was not dead, but from the tone of his message the man was in a precarious condition.

It appears that Oliver was in this city yesterday and procured a horse and buggy from a local liveryman for the purpose, he said, of driving to Roslin. Instead of going to that place he, it appears, went to Madoc village, where he remained some time and then drove towards Bridgewater, where the offence was committed.

What prompted Oliver to commit the act is not known. From enquiry made it appears that Oliver returned to this city, arriving here between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock this morning. He is said to have registered at a hotel here, but a search of the register failed to reveal such a name.

The police here have endeavored to locate Oliver or at least find out his movements after returning to the city, but at the hour of The Intelligencer's going to press no tidings of him had been ascertained. He is described as a man about 5 feet 8 inches in height, middle aged, and was minus some front teeth. He was dressed in dark clothes and wore a cap.

Physicians say nothing is so helpful for throat and lung troubles, whether acute or chronic, and for wasting diseases, as Angier's Petroleum Emulsion with Hypophosphites. It is pleasant to take and agrees with the stomach.

It relieves congestion and irritation, soothes and heals the bronchial tubes, makes breathing easy, changes the character of expectoration, and cures the cough. Its effects are rapid. BOATS AND LUMBER

RAT PORTAGE COMPANY'S PROPERTY FIRE-SWEPT.

MISSIONARY STEAMER DAY STAR DESTROYED.

FIVE OTHER STEAMERS BURNED —LOSS $300,000.

Rat Portage, Nov. 29.—An alarm was sent in about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, the cause being that the lumber piles at No. 4 mill at Norman, the property of the Rat Portage Lumber Company, were found to be on fire. The wind, which was blowing a perfect gale from the southwest, soon fanned the flames beyond control of the firemen, and in a very short space of time the conflagration assumed very large proportions.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark from the smokestack of the planer, which fell among some dry cedar strips. There were some 25,000,000 feet of lumber in the yards, which quantity has been practically well burned over. The insurance is covered by the Commercial Union, and so far as can be learned the insurance averages $8 per thousand feet. It is estimated about 15,000,000 feet at the present hour (8 o'clock last evening) have been consumed.

The fire soon spread to the slip operated by Mr. Lemay. There were six boats on the ways at the time of the fire. The Phantom, owned by Capt. Lewis, is a total loss, and there is no insurance. The Kenina, formerly the old ferry boat, is a total loss and has no insurance. The Rambler, owned by Capt. Kendall, is partially burned. The Day Star, the Presbyterian mission boat, is burned; no insurance. The Pearl, owned by Frank Gardner & Co., is burned; no insurance. The Spray and Midge, small tugs, were burned; no insurance; together with two barges.

The fine steamer Clipper was to go on the slip, but for some reason or other she was not put on. As soon as possible steam was put on her and she came to Rat Portage for the fire engine, towing it over on a barge. It soon became apparent that none of the boats could be saved, whereupon the Clipper was hooked on to the slip which held the Rambler and towed the structure into the lake. The pilot house and upper deck of the Rambler were all on fire, but this was soon extinguished. The excessive heat, however, prevented a repetition of the performance in the endeavor to save the rest of the boats.

Mr. Lemay has lost everything, house, furniture, tools and all appliances necessary in the business of a shipbuilder, the family barely escaping with their lives. He has some insurance in the Hartford Insurance Company, about $1,000. The flames then licked up a dwelling house across the road from the slip, which was tenanted by a poor French lady, who lost nearly everything. The fire spread very rapidly for about fifty yards up the street, where there stood three empty houses owned by Mr. J. B. Davies. These soon became food for the flames. It then seized upon a small dwelling occupied by one of the mill employees named Laveric. It jumped across the street and devoured a house owned by Mr. J. W. Snyder, and tenanted by Mr. Eastbrook. The insurance on this building is $600, in the London & Lancashire, but on the household furniture there is no insurance. The dwelling occupied by Ernest L'Heureux came next in the path of the devouring element, and was soon levelled to the ground. There is some insurance, but how much could not be ascertained.

The Norman Hotel, owned by P. H. L'Heureux, looked as if it might go next, but the wind changed a point, and, together with heroic efforts on the part of the workmen, the building was saved. The immense pieces of burning wood which were flying through the air were the source of at least three places being burned to the ground. After missing the Norman Hotel the flames shot across the street and consumed an empty house, owned by J. B. Davies.

Up to midnight there has been no further damage. If the wind changes tonight the mill and more lumber piles may go, but close watch is being kept. The total loss is estimated at $300,000.

Peat Works Destroyed.

Stratford, Nov. 28.—About midnight last night fire destroyed the plant of the Stratford Peat Fuel Company in the Township of Ellice. The main building, containing the engine, boiler and press, was totally wrecked. The drying kiln was saved. The works were turning out about ten tons of peat a day, and this occurrence is most unfortunate in the present state of the fuel market.

LAND FOR THE VETERANS.

OVER 6,000 CERTIFICATES WERE MAILED YESTERDAY.

Applications Still Being Received—Municipal Committee Room Will be Open Day and Evening as Bureau of Information.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, stated yesterday that there had been sent out from the department by the afternoon mail over six thousand certificates to veterans entitled to land grants under the act passed for that purpose in the session of 1900. Accompanying each certificate is a circular giving full information as to the mode of procedure for the selection of lots, as well as a statement showing the townships in which locations can be made, with the name of the Crown lands agent under whose direction each of these townships is. In reality, however, the area from which selections can be made will be even larger than the list of townships named, as by order in Council under authority of the act all unlocated lands that are now open for settlement anywhere in the Province will be available for the veterans to select from.

The six thousand certificates sent out yesterday do not comprise all who will be entitled to land, as a good many cases in connection with which there may be some question as to whether they come within the provisions of the act have yet to be dealt with. Then new applications are still coming in, sometimes as many as 15 or 20 a day being received. The time specified by the act in which application can be made expires on the 31st of December next, so that nearly two years have been available for the purpose of application, and those who do not apply by the end of next month will forfeit any rights they may have to a land grant.

At the request of a number of veterans in Toronto and vicinity the municipal committee room at the Parliament buildings has been set apart and hung with maps of the Province, and where literature dealing with new Ontario will be provided under the general charge of Mr. Southworth, Director of Colonization, who will have someone there during the day, as well as in the evenings from 8 to 10 o'clock, for the purpose of giving information to those who may desire it, and as it is represented that workingmen may not be able to get up during the day for their convenience specially the room will be open in the evening. This special arrangement will continue for several weeks, which will probably be long enough to give ample opportunity to those who wish to obtain information in this way. However, each veteran receiving the certificate will see from the circular accompanying it that if they desire any additional information they may write the Director of Colonization, who will do his best to supply them.

ANOTHER FREIGHT INCREASE.

Grain Rates From Chicago to New York Are Put Up.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Official notice of an increase of two and one-half cents per hundred pounds in the freight tariff on grain from Chicago to New York was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission. The new grain freight basis which will be observed by the lines eastbound out of Chicago, and other points in the territory east of the Mississippi River and north of the Ohio, is 20 cents per hundredweight. This increase in the grain schedule usually follows the closing of navigation on the great lakes.

Stratford Y. M. C. A. Building.

Stratford, Nov. 28.—The directors of the Y. M. C. A. have accepted the offer of the G. T. R. of a free lease of site and $4,500. This offer was made conditional on the association raising $4,000 more towards a new building. An effort will be made to provide a $12,000 building.

Our Superiority

In leather goods. Perhaps in no department of our business do we excel more than in our Leather Goods department. We verily believe that we sell three-quarters of the leather goods sold in Belleville, and we know there are good reasons for it. The very best of reasons are that we keep so large variety, we keep such superior goods, and we keep the prices down.

TAKE PURSES—

We sell you an ordinary 25c purse at 15c, and a 50c purse for 25c. Our dollar purse you would be asked half more for in a small assortment store.

Our Chatalaine and Wrist Bag assortment is huge always, but nothing huge about our prices for them.

Then, too, our card cases our wallets, our manacures, our music cases, our portfolios (writing), our albums, our travelling companions, our cigar cases. Everything beautiful in leathers, whether of Russian skins, seal, aligator, lizard, cow, pig or snake.

Our every department will surprise you this year more than ever and the prices of everything will likewise be surprisingly low.

OUR BOOK DEPARTMENT

Will, as usual, be a bumper department, both in variety and price, and what makes a better gift than a suitable book?

FEW BOOK STORES

In Canada keep so replete an assortment of gift books, as we, few keep such variety of cheaper lines, few keep such variety of church books and Bibles, and none offer such values.

We sell prettily bound Bibles at 18c each, and we sell beautiful Japped editions at 12 dollars each. We sell everything between those prices also, and always please our customers.

OUR PICTURE FRAMING—

Have you tried it? If not, better do so now, or you will continue to miss the highest ideas in picture development.

Our manufacturing department is a busy place these days, always busy, but just now we have extra help to turn out extra work. There's never a lul in our framing department from Jan. 1st to Dec. 31st.

Appreciation of good workmanship and moderate prices account for the activity.

Just so with our wall paper departments, our customers are as numerous as our assortment, and combined they are not more numerous than our prices are low.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are prepared from the prescription of Dr. Zina Pitcher (formerly Professor of Materia Medica and Genito-Urinary Diseases, Michigan College of Medicine, Detroit, Mich., U.S.A.), which he used with wonderful success for over twelve years in private practice in the Western Hospital, Detroit.

They contain specific ingredients not found in any other kidney remedy, and it is not surprising, therefore, that they make cures in very many cases where other remedies had proved altogether ineffectual.

We would caution you in purchasing the Tablets to see that the accompanying cut, printed in green ink, and Dr. Pitcher's portrait and signature, are printed on the package. Refuse substitutes and imitations, as these are sure to disappoint.

The price of the Tablets is 50c. a box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all druggists, or sent by mail by addressing the Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

BIG OIL STRIKE IN KERN RIVER, CAL.

This is where oil property has advanced in price from $10 an acre to $5,000 an acre in two years—the richest fuel oil section in the whole world!

The Eastern Consolidated Oil Company's holdings in this tract alone should pay the present dividends, to say nothing about over 1200 acres of choice oil lands and over 100 producing wells in Ohio!

Production has increased at one jump at the rate of nearly 25,000 bbls. of oil monthly.

Stockholders from all parts of Canada are doubling their holdings in anticipation of the almost immediate rise in price of the stock.

ACT AT ONCE

If you wish any part of the present 50c. allotment of stock in the Eastern Consolidated Oil Co., you must act at once.

Write to-day for prospectus, if you have not already seen one.

STOCK GOES TO $1.00 a SHARE THE MOMENT PRESENT ALLOTMENT IS EXHAUSTED. IT MAY COME ANY DAY!

GOOD REASONS FOR GIVING THANKS.

Montreal, Canada, Nov. 28, 1902.

C. B. HEYDON & CO., Toronto, Canada.

Gentlemen,—One year ago, after thoroughly sifting all the oil companies I decided to invest in Eastern Consolidated and have never had occasion to regret it. I own 4000 shares of this stock which has already doubled in value and I understand will double again before fore January 1.

I have carefully watched the Company's management and have been well pleased. Therefore, taking into consideration the additional fact of the big oil strike on our property in Kern River, Cal., I have decided to increase my holdings to 10,000 shares in this Company; cheque to cover the same is enclosed.

In less than one year I have received $200 in dividends on my present holdings, which is about six times as much as I could obtain in any other safe investment in the same time.

Yours Respectfully,

NOTE—This is the kind of letters we are receiving from all over the country. Stockholders are doubling their subscriptions so fast that over-subscriptions seem inevitable.

C. B. HEYDON & CO.,
Rooms 401 and 402 Manning Chambers Building,
72 QUEEN STREET, WEST,
Cor. Queen and Terauley Streets, Court House Square,
TORONTO. ONT.

Why should you invest in Eastern Consolidated Oil Co. stock NOW?

BECAUSE of the absolute certainty that you will DOUBLE your money within the month!

BECAUSE you can buy NOW at 50c a share and the price goes to $1.00 a share before New Year's.

BECAUSE this company has 109 producing oil wells and over 21,000 acres rich oil land.

This is the stock that has paid 20% in dividends on investment, in ten months.

Why shouldn't YOU make money in a good oil stock as thousands now living in affluence have done before you?

THIS OPPORTUNITY

Is one you cannot afford to let slip!

$50 invested now becomes $100 within 30 days; $200 becomes $400; $500 becomes $1,000, and so on.

No oil company whose stock is on the market can equal this record. We challenge comparison!

Are YOU ready to grasp this opportunity?

THE LATE PETER HUBBLE

FUNERAL UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE ORANGE SOCIETY.

It is our sad duty to report the death of Peter Hubble, of Wellman's Corners, which occurred Nov. 17th. He had reached the ripe old age of eighty-five years, and for forty-six years had held the contract for the delivery of H. M. Mails at Wellman's Corners. In politics he has always been a staunch Conservative. The funeral, which took place on Wednesday, Nov. 19th, was conducted by Wellman L. O.L., No. 172, of which deceased had been an active member for forty-four years, having joined the Orange Association when the lodge was first instituted at that place. About one hundred members of the Order were in procession which was headed by the brass band, to pay their last respects to a brother and friend.

The pall bearers were, Bros. A. W. Carscallen, M.P., Bro. Thos. Campion, Jas. McComb, Alex. Morton, Wm. Hogle, and Jas. Tarin. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Duke, pastor of Rawdon circuit, assisted by Rev. Bro. S. A. Dupray, Deputy Grand Chaplain of the Orange Association of British America.

THE CAUSE OF DEAFNESS.

Deafness and impaired hearing are due almost entirely to catarrhal inflammation of the eustachian tubes. Permanent cure is guaranteed to all who inhale Catarrhozone as directed. This vegetable antiseptic is inhaled at the mouth, and after traversing all the air passages of the respiratory organs, is exhaled through the nostrils; it completely eradicates catarrh from any part of the system, clears the ears, nose and throat and allays inflammation, congestion and soreness. For deafness, earache, ringing in the ears, head noises, catarrh, asthma and bronchitis, medical science can devise nothing as beneficial as Catarrhozone. Complete outfit for two months' use, price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

AN EXPLANATION.

"C.R. Co." Rubbers are rubber shoes MADE IN CANADA by The Canada Rubber Company.

Old bachelors seem to enjoy one another's company.

When a man comes after dinner he comes before dinner.

Never is time more precious than when some member of the family is attacked by colic, dysentery or any bowel trouble. The doctor is distant but if Perry Davis' Painkiller is near all danger is soon ended.

Pounding the dishrag for beefsteak may be all right to fool the neighbors but it gives mighty poor satisfaction at the table.

Why do I wear "C.R. Co." rubbers? Because they fit properly and wear better than any other rubber shoe in the market. You cannot afford to be without a pair if you value your health.

WATER BOARD MAY BE ABOLISHED

By-law Looking to that End to be Submitted to the Ratepayers

Council Thinks That a Waterworks Manager Should be Appointed

The business before the various Civic Committees last evening was purely routine and it was transacted without much discussion. The Mayor and all the Aldermen, with the exception of Ald. Galbraith, were in attendance.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Ald. Panter, chairman, presided.

The accounts passed were as follows:

Pay sheet No. 24	$61.18
J. W. Walker	15.88
J. Hendrick	1.25
W. Alford	1.00
J. Cummins	4.00
Mac Machine Co.	4.65
Wm. P. Clarke	75
Walker Foundry	21.85

Ald. Pope called attention to a bad piece of sidewalk near Bleecker Ave. Church. Many complaints had been made in reference to it.

Ald. Panter said that the walk would have to be rebuilt, as it was in a bad state.

The Surveyor stated that Mr. Frost had made some temporary repairs, but he would inspect it and see what could be done.

The Street Surveyor asked what he was to do in reference to cleaning snow from in front of vacant property.

On motion the Surveyor was authorized to clean the vacant property under the terms of the by-law, the expense of same to be charged to the taxes.

MARKET AND CITY PROPERTY.

Ald. Wills, chairman, presided over this Committee.

The accounts passed were as follows:

Wm. McGie	$10.24
S. Stocker	75
W. J. Holland	75
J. Lewis & Co.	99.99

Ald. Wills said the new furnace installed in the City Building was, he had been informed by the janitor, very satisfactory.

PARKS.

Ald. Pope, chairman, presided over this Committee.

The accounts presented were as follows:

J. W. Walker	40
W. P. Clarke	6.60
E. McGrath	6.00

This last account was referred to the Harbor Commissioners for payment, as it was for work done to the roadway leading to the park, and, as a number of the members stated should be paid by that body, as it was properly harbor work.

EXECUTIVE.

Ald. Chown, chairman, presided.

The accounts passed by the other Committees were endorsed and the following two additional accounts passed:

F. D. Diamond	$ 20.20
Intelligencer Co.	183.85

A communication was read from Rev. Mgr. Farrelly, asking for remission of taxes upon the Hospital lot.

A motion prevailed granting the request, as the lot was used by the public.

Ald. Chown stated that Mr. Starling, tax collector, could procure new bonds for $3,000.

The matter was left over until the audit of the rolls is completed by Mr. Thos. Thomson, which will be on Tuesday next, and then the Mayor, if everything is found satisfactory, will fill in the necessary blanks provided by the Guarantee Company.

The Waterworks.

Ald. Pope, chairman of the special committee which was appointed to look into the matter of the Council's taking over the duties of the Water Commissioners, presented the following report:

Belleville, Ont., 27th Nov., 1902.

The Committee appointed to look into and report upon the advisability of making a change in the mode of operation of the Belleville Water Works System, beg to report as follows:

As far as we have been able to learn from enquiry and from comparing the mode of operation of our system with those of other cities and towns in this Province, we find that the flat rate charged consumers in this city for hydrant rental, etc., is as high or higher, and notwithstanding the fact that the Works in other towns and cities are run at a profit over and above the working expenses, interest and sinking fund, ours last year showed a deficit.

It appears that the consumption of coal and the quantity of water pumped, compared with the number of consumers, is too great. The number of consumers is much less than in other towns and cities of an equal or even smaller population.

This, we think, can only be remedied by engaging some experienced and capable person to take charge of the management of the Works, who can give the necessary time and attention to the soliciting of new consumers throughout the city and carefully looking after the details above referred to.

Inasmuch as the city has to provide the necessary funds from its treasury to meet any deficiency that may occur, they should have control of the expenditure of this money, and for the above and other reasons we would recommend that a by-law be submitted to the people at the next municipal elections for the taking over of the Works, and their operation by the city.

Respectfully submitted,
ALD. POPE, Chairman.
ALD. CHOWN,
ALD. WILLS,
ALD. PRICE,
ALD. GALBRAITH,
Committee.

After receiving the report of the special committee the Executive Committee decided to recommend to the Council that a by-law be submitted to the ratepayers abolishing the Board of Water Commissioners and giving the management of the Water Works to the City Council.

Montreal Paper Looks With Favor on a New Suggestion.

Montreal Herald:—The O.H.A. have a very important notice of motion to come up before its annual meeting. The notice reads:—

"In rinks less than 60x160 in size, six men shall be used."

This is a very radical departure from the accepted and universal rules of the game and should receive very careful consideration. To drop the rover would very materially change the game. And on first thoughts it looks as if the matches between a team accustomed to six men and a team accustomed to seven men would be a pretty mix up.

At the same time it must be remembered that the O.H.A. labors under a disadvantage in the intermediate and junior series from the large number of rinks in the smaller centres which are not of regulation size. These rinks were built for skating before hockey was as popular and widespread a game as it is now. It cannot be denied that fourteen men are a crowd on some of the sheets of ice, and that twelve could cover the area quite as well or better.

It is a question of expediency, and the hockey world will have an interested eye on the meeting of the O.H.A. on December 6th.

TORONTO GLOBE LOSES ITS EDITOR

MR. WILLISON RESIGNS AND WILL GO INTO INDEPENDENT JOURNALISM.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—J. S. Willison, editor of the Toronto Globe, has handed in his resignation to the Board of Directors. He will sever his connection with the Globe in a few days. The cause of Mr. Willison's action and the nature of the new newspaper proposition with which he is to be associated have not yet been made clear.

On the street the theory is that Mr. Willison had a difference of opinion with his directors over an important question of policy, and that this resignation followed. Opposed to this is the undoubted fact that the retiring editor of the Globe is to become head of another Toronto newspaper for which negotiations have been going on for some time. The Telegram is informed on good authority that Mr. Willison leaves the Globe on the best of terms with the directorate.

"He is going into independent journalism," this gentleman explained. The nature of the medium Mr. Willison is to use in the propagation of this independent views was not revealed. It is stated in some quarters that the World is to come under a new management and that Mr. Willison will be editor of the reconstructed newspaper. Another rumor is that the Mail and Empire is selling out to the people who have induced Mr. Willison to forsake the Globe. And yet another popular belief is that a new morning newspaper will be started in Toronto as an independent, or as an independent Conservative sheet.

There seems to be no foundation for the report that the World is passing from the control of W. F. Maclean, M.P. It is well known that Mr. Maclean was made some tempting offers by the promoters of the new newspaper enterprise. A reliable authority states that Mr. Maclean was offered all the way from $300,000 to half a million, but that he could not be induced to quit the journalistic field.

Confirmation could not be obtained for the rumor which makes the Mail and Empire the basis of the new venture. For some time it has been supposed that the Mail and Empire was willing to sell, and as the interests with which Mr. Willison is identified seem determined to have an organ at any price, it would not be surprising if something happens at the north-west corner of King and Bay streets.

Who is behind the movement which aims to make J. S. Willison the head of an independent journal? The name of J. W. Flavelle is prominently mentioned. It is said that W. R. Brock, M.P., is also interested in the proposition. Mr. Flavelle declined to make any statement when questioned today. Others who are supposed to be interested with Mr. Flavelle are equally reticent.

From all the chaos only these definite statements can be made:—

J. S. Willison has resigned the editorship of the Globe.

A new morning newspaper will be founded in Toronto, provided the World and the Mail and Empire refuse to make terms.

The newspaper, or the reconstructed paper, whatever it may prove to be, will be independent, or Independent-Conservative. There are those who believe that it will assume independence as an initiative and gradually become the organ of the Conservative party.

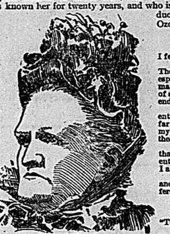
Eczema Cured by Ozone

Mrs. Ellen Smith of Montreal, was a fearful sufferer from eczema for many years. She was tortured so severely at times she contemplated putting an end to her existence. Thanks to Powley's Liquified Ozone, she did not do so because it cured her completely and for all time. She is a great believer in Ozone now, and so is her pastor, the Rev. J. Frederick Renaud, who has known her for twenty years, and who is quite conversant with her cure by this drugless product. He vouches for the facts in her case and gives Ozone great praise.



MRS. ELLEN SMITH, Montreal.

Mrs. Ellen Smith Writes:

"Having been greatly benefited by Powley's Liquified Ozone, I feel it my duty to allow it to be known to the public at large.

"I had been a fearful sufferer from eczema for many years. The disease centered in both limbs, below the knees. The left especially, was swollen to alarming dimensions, while the inflammation, irritation, and hard, scaly condition, induced a degree of suffering which only the mercy of God prevented me from ending in suicide.

"I spent the best of three years on my back, besides different periods in three hospitals. Then at home I could not go as far as the next room without the aid of crutches, and altogether my case was considered past help, for I had had the best skill in the country to no purpose.

"I have now used five bottles of Ozone, and I rejoice to say that both limbs are reduced to their normal size, the burning is entirely gone, and I can walk alone with perfect ease, although I am now sixty years of age.

"The Ozone also cured an advanced stage of liver disorder, and I am willing at all times to tell my experience to other sufferers.
(Signed) MRS. ELLEN SMITH,
31 St. Andre Street, Montreal.

The Rev. J. Frederick Renaud's Corroboration.

"To Whom it May Concern:

"I beg to state that I have known Ellen Smith for over twenty years, and for the past nine years she has suffered from a running sore but was unable to obtain any permanent relief until she tried Powley's Liquified Ozone, to the beneficial effect of which she bears most grateful testimony."

(Signed) REV. J. FREDERICK RENAUD, 82 St. Herbert Street, Montreal, P. Q.

There is no other way of proving the value of a preparation, so valuable, so positive, than by investigating the statements made about it and finding out if the facts are just as they are represented. We always solicit the freest possible investigation of the claims we make for Ozone, and to widen the scope of such an undertaking by you, we suggest that you make enquiries of your druggist. Oftentimes cases come under his notice that he can refer you to. As these cases may not have had our attention, you will get an absolutely unbiased opinion of this great drugless preparation—Powley's Liquified Ozone.

Mr. Munro Explains

To the Editor of The Intelligencer;

Sir,—As my account of the misunderstanding between the authorities of the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Belleville, and Mr. McIntyre, in regard to having Christian Science treatment for his daughters, has been criticized, permit me to say that the statements contained in my letter were given to me as facts, and I accepted them without any hesitancy as such.

To show that my letter was written to you in good faith, I need only say that I will be pleased, if so desired, to send you the original letter sent to me, containing the facts as outlined in my previous correspondence.

I regret very much indeed that the information furnished me was incorrect, as I have no desire to publish anything that is not strictly true.

Yours respectfully,
C. R. MUNRO.

A TRUE NERVE TONIC

Will act, not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvellous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c at druggists, or J. S. McKeown's.

CATTLE DISEASE.

EFFORTS TO STAMP IT OUT IN NEW ENGLAND.

ORDER FOR EXCLUSION FROM GREAT BRITAIN.

A HEAVY LOSS FOR AMERICAN AGRICULTURISTS.

London, Nov. 29.—The Board of Agriculture has closed the ports of the United Kingdom against the importation of animals from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. The order takes effect December 5. Cargoes arriving in the meanwhile will be the subject of special investigation. The announcement has caused great excitement at Birkenhead, where the Mersey Dock Board derives a large revenue from the slaughter of Boston cattle.

Boston, Nov. 29.—The Cattle Bureau of the State Board of Agriculture has received about 100 individual reports up to of the presence of the feet and mouth contagion, which has caused the Secretary of Agriculture to prohibit the exportation of cattle from Boston and to establish a quarantine of cattle, sheep and swine in New England. It is admitted that the action of Secretary Wilson in closing the port of Boston to cattle shipments is a matter of great importance to transportation companies, but in view of the serious nature of the infection and the difficulty in exterminating it, the step is considered the only safe one. Concerning the highly contagious character of the disease, Dr. Austin Peters, Chairman of the State Cattle Bureau, says:—"Cattle passing over the same road traversed by infected animals will contract the disease. Only the most stringent quarantine will prevent a scourge hitherto unknown in this country."

Dr. S. E. Bennett, a local United States inspector, said: "Only a very slight pretext would cause the British Government to close her ports to all our ships. All that they will look at is that there is foot and mouth disease in the United States. It was only a very short time ago that the Argentine Republic was shipping a great many cattle over to Liverpool. Those ships were on the sea, but the word was carried ahead of them that there was a cattle disease in Argentine Republic, and when their vessels arrived they found every British port closed against them. Those ships had to put to sea, slaughter their cattle in mid-ocean and throw them overboard. The ports were closed to them for three years. Now, is it not better that we should close the port of Boston entirely to the shipment of cattle for the time being, than that we should lose the whole? Why, in three years time, that would mean the loss of upwards of 2,000,000 head of export cattle from the ports of the United States."

It is figured that a loss of some $50,000 to steamship companies will result if cattle traffic is held up for even two or three weeks. The present freight rates on cattle are about $7.50 a head, and on sheep 87 1-2 cents each. Shipments of live stock from Boston for the week ending last Saturday were 2,107 head of cattle, 2,015 sheep. There was also exported 7,423 quarters of dressed beef. Exports from New York were 1,131 head of cattle, 1,264 sheep and 13,720 quarters of beef. Boston in 1901 shipped 124,732 head of cattle and 87,283 sheep. In 1900 there were shipped from here 112,869 head of cattle and 57,350 sheep.

GEN. NORD'S DEMAND.

WANTS ELECTION OF THE DEPUTIES INVALIDATED.

Has 10,000 Men to Back Up His Request and Another Civil War May Follow.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Nov. 29.—General Alexis Nord, who was War Minister of the provisional Government, and who is at St. Marc with about 8,000 to 10,000 men from Gonaives, has sent an ultimatum to the Government here demanding the invalidation of the election of the deputies who are members of the party headed by M. Firmin, the self-exiled leader of the recent rebellion. If the Chamber refuses to cancel the election of these deputies the outbreak of another civil war is probable. The general opinion is that the Chamber will reject the General's demand. Preparations are being made to defend Port au Prince, in view of the possibility that Gen. Nord will attack it.

On Gen. Nord's entry into St. Marc he was received by the army and the population with cries of "Long live Gen. Nord, President of Hayti!" His candidacy for the Presidency is gaining ground here. Several attempts to hold a meeting of the Chamber have failed, it being impossible to obtain a quorum. The followers of Callisthene Fouchard, formerly Minister of Finance, and now an aspirant for the Presidency, and of Deetjen Senequist, President of the Chamber, are divided, and appear to be powerless to resist Gen. Nord.
